Slingerlands Children Send Out First Valentines

Little poets and artists, the designers of very special valentines for mom and dad, watched closely at the Slingerlands Post Office to make sure their valentine verses got off in the right direction. All 14 members of the Slingerlands Nursery School made the jaunt to the post office, cards in one hand and a dime in the other, along with Mrs. Melba Smith, their teacher. Each marched up to the window and, with a boost from Mrs. Smith, exchanged their dimes for a stamp. After stamps had been stuck and envelopes dropped in the "local letters" slot, the children met Mrs. Maurie Flanigan, postmistress, and Mrs. Nita Dynko, clerk, who took them "behind the scenes" so that they could see how their valentines were sorted and their stamps cancelled for delivery. "It's always exciting for them," Mrs. Smith explained, "when their valentines arrive in their own mailboxes at home" — special, too, for those moms and dads on the receiving end of their child's first attempt at expressing "I Love You" on a valentine.

Sending off those valentines last Wednesday, Feb. 12, were Susan Abele, Leanne Barske, Kristen Burda, Kathy Felt, Annie Fink, Kerry Griffin, Denry Hudson, Becca Jones, Lisa Karam, Laurie Kass, Sunny Lee, Phil and Amy Roberts, and Jamie Sanderson — all three and four year olds from the Slingerlands Nursery School.

COVER STORY

BARBARA RAU, RETIRES

Mrs. Barbara R. Rau, who is retiring after twenty years as the Director of the Bethlehem Public Library commented that there's time to sow and time to reap, a time to work and a time to play. She has had her time to work, and she worked hard, now it is her time to play, and she plans to play hard.

She is planning to continue her biking and to resume painting, which she hasn't had time for in many years. This spring there will be time for setting out the plum and pear trees which are waiting in her window box garden to join the other fruits and vegetables in her garden. And there will be an opportunity to get into all those odd corners of her house that need getting into. Christmas gifts for her daughters Sue and Renee will be made with T.L.C. this year, as will gifts for nieces, nephews, and other relatives. There just wasn't time for that before. Friends whom Mrs. Rau hasn't seen in a while are going to come to visit her, and she has invitations to visit other friends in Acapulco and Georgia (those visits will probably wait a while though before they are executed: Mrs. Rau wants to wait until Renee, who is presently a Junior in High School, graduates). Mrs. Rau also hopes to find time to index the copies of the Albany County Post which the Library has. And, in addition to doing all these things, Mrs. Rau plans some time to be spent just doing nothing.

Mrs. Rau will miss the people, all the people, her Staff, the borrowers, the members of the Board of Trustees with whom she has had a close association, but it won't be an unhappy missing, because she will be able to see a great many of those people from time to time. She remarked that she is happy with the people she is leaving behind on the Staff, confident in their abilities to provide a smooth transition to a new director.

Her family is basically pleased with her decision to retire. They feel it is time for her to slow down, but they hope she won't get bored. It certainly doesn't seem that boredom is in Mrs. Rau's future, with all the plans she has for her time.

Everyone wishes her a happy and pleasureable retirement.

Fashion FORECASTS

WHAT TO EXPECT

IT GOES TO YOUR HEAD

The big thing starting this spring for smart heads to head into is a hood. It can not only keep away the sun, wind and weather all year long, but it can make you look so romantically pretty you'll probably think it a pity you ever wore anything else.

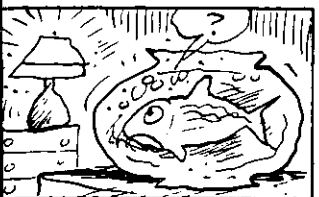

For the warmer weather, this heady look may be worn on a 100 percent cotton interlock shirt-jacket that can suit you to a t-shirt, really go over well when worn over a trim, tailored blouse and make you look cute as a button all buttoned up and by itself over pants, skirts, shorts or swim suits.

It comes striped for reactions in white with red, blue or green pin-stripes, has snap-by elasticized cuffs and waistband to fit your form flatteringly and is created by the adroit designers at Garland who seem to have cottoned onto a way to help you stay casually, comfortably in such style, you may feel as if you were born with a caul (once considered the luckiest way).

The hood can do a good deal to help steal some gentlemen's glances your way, and the smartly seam-showing shirt attached to it may do its bit in helping you keep them.

Alexander is said to have used a stone he recovered from a fish as a nightlight.

"Parents Wake Up"

Wake up to the fact you are sending your child to school each day to buy their lunch. If you could see the waste of food in one school alone by your child who is not taught to eat vegetables and proper food. This begins at home not in school. This food is prepared by people who are in the know and according to rules & regulations, it is good. Some children buy their lunch just to get dessert, the rest is left on their trays or thrown in the containers before they get to the window where trays go. There is enough food wasted to feed at least another one hundred people each day.

This is not the fault of the school, this is the parent who spoils their child in their ways of eating. It makes one ill to see all that is wasted, especially in times like this, with the prices the way they are.

One Who Sees All

I am in disagreement with you. I don't believe this is the parents fault. Possibly in some cases. There are very few children who follow all the rules taught to them by their parents when they are away from home. Kids wouldn't be kids if they did. It was always my belief that the teacher took the role of the parent while the child was in school. Parents and teachers are responsible for guiding and teaching a child. I attended A. W. Becker while Mrs. Mildred Snyder was Principal. She often wandered through the lunch room to see if "her" children were eating. The other teachers who were on duty would not allow the children to leave the table without finishing most of the food on their tray. In cases where the child would not eat, the parent was contacted by Mrs. Snyder, and the problem was corrected.

By becoming a teacher, one takes on a large responsibility.

teachers, as well as parents influence the outcome of a child's life.

It is wonderful to hear of people helping people — here's one such case:

Dear Joni:
Through the "Spotlight," I would like to thank the three persons who helped me out of a snowbank on Feura Bush Road on the morning of February 13. Thank you to the young man on his way to work who spent a half hour trying to dig me out. Thank you to the high school student who was late for school but thought it was more important to help someone in distress. And finally thank you to the nurseryman who works at Mas' Garden Shoppe who filled me out with one of the pre's trucks.

Your help deserved more than a cursory thank you and I want to thank you all once more in print.

Most sincerely,
Norma Shiatte

Dear Joni:

I note that you have suggested that we should respond to the letter concerning the cancellation of tennis dates.

Naturally, we are very happy to have this opportunity and certainly wish to thank you for it.

However, in attempting to secure all the facts in the case, I found that more time is needed to hear from all concerned. It would not be appropriate for me to make any comments until after all concerned were consulted. I am sure you will understand that this is necessary.

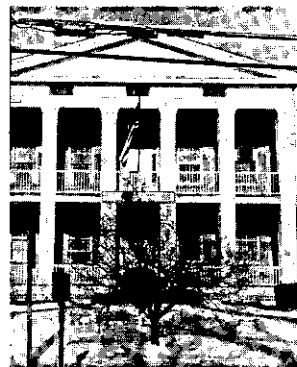

When the evidence is in we will be taking advantage of reporting our findings to the Spotlight.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Carr,
Administrator of Parks and Recreation
