In Memoriam

The weather wasn't great, but there were more participants and spectators at parades in Delmar and Voorheesville this week, possibly because Memorial Day fell on Memorial Day, i.e., the traditional May 30 date on the calendar. In Voorheesville, where the village combines a parade with distance races and a children's field day, the last runners in the 2-mile race got a big hand from crowds near the finish line. (Top photo; more race photos and winners on Page 20). In Delmar there was music and pageantry from such organizations as the Village Volunteers (Bottom right and on the cover) and serious moments as the Vietnam veterans (top left) marched and at the town's memorial park, as the children (most of them) took it all in.

After-school welcome

School's Out, Inc., an after-school program for children in kindergarten through grade 5, plans an open house for parents on Thursday, June 9, at the First United Methodist Church, Kenwood Ave., Delmar, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Marty Cornelius of Delmar, who is on the board of directors of the newly formed non-profit corporation, said organizers will have a presentation that evening and registration forms will be available then. Registration will officially open June 15.

Forms may be filled out and mailed, with the $25 registration fee, to School's Out, Inc., PO Box 88, Delmar.

The Bethlehem Central School District has agreed to provide transportation to the program to parents requesting it for pupils at Hamagrael, Elsmere and Slingerlands elementary schools. The fee would be $1 for each mile beyond the bus's regular route, but homebound buses from each of these schools go near the church, so the cost would be modest.

Best foot forward

Job hunters who get the "jitters" before a job interview can learn some of the tricks of the trade at a free "Interviewing for Success" workshop at the Bethlehem Public Library on Saturday, June 11. Career counselor Karn Maher will cover interviewing basics from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

To preregister, call the library at 439-9314 before June 8.

A felony DWI

A Selkirk man faces a felony driving while intoxicated charge after he was arrested Saturday on Rt. 9W by Bethlehem police for speeding. Police said Keith J. Betz, 22, of 89 Edgewood Dr., Selkirk, had two previous drinking and driving arrests on his record, requiring the felony charge this time. He was arraigned before Town Justice Roger Fritts and remanded to Albany County Jail.

Settlers to see Yorktown

The Albany Dutch Settlers Society will elect their 1983-84 officers after a covered dish supper on Tuesday, June 7, at 6 p.m. at the First Reformed Church in Delmar. Dr. Alfred VanDerzee from the state Department of Education will speak and show slides of "Bicentennial Yorktown."

For details, call Ruth Baumbach at 765-4419.

Bird walk in New Scotland

The Whitbeck Memorial Grove, new Scotland will be the site for a guided birding walk on Saturday, June 4, from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Bird watchers should bring their binoculars and meet at the preserve entrance on Rt. 85 in New Scotland, between Bullock Rd. and the railroad overpass.

The walk is sponsored by the Nature Conservancy. For information, call 377-1453.

A loss here too

The death of Erastus Corning II will be felt far beyond the confines of the city he ruled for 40 years. Perhaps nowhere is this more true than in fiercely independent Bethlehem.

While in politics the town was - and continues to be - a staunchly Republican opponent of the political machine that Corning symbolized (and controlled during his latter years), the town's history is interwoven with that of the Corning family. Many of his lieutenants make their homes here and his strongest challengers also have their roots here. In addition, Corning's presence was felt throughout the county, both in politics and also in the routine often unnoticed interrelationships between governmental bodies. While keeping a wary distance politically, in the last decade or so Albany and Bethlehem learned to cooperate closely in such areas as water policy and solid waste disposal.

And finally, there is the impact of a unique personality - a man one opponent called "the last Patroon" but more commonly called the last of the big city bosses. A man so courtly, charming and genuinely interested in the day-to-day lives of his constituents that even his political opponents couldn't help but be won by his style.

That presence and style has been absent for more than a year now, and on Saturday the mayor's death in a Boston hospital put a seal on the gradual changes that had already begun.

* * * * *

Members of the late Erastus Corning's family have lived in the Town of Bethlehem for more than three quarters of a century. The mayor lived on the family estate on Corning Hill for many years while maintaining an Albany address.

Parker Corning, brother of Mayor Corning's father, Edwin Corning, owned thousands of acres in Bethlehem between what is now the Elm Ave. Park and the General Electric plastics plant in Selkirk. Included in the huge tract was what later became known as Waldenmaier farm on both sides of Rt. 32.

The Corning land included several thousand acres straddling the city line separating Albany and Bethlehem. The holdings included tracts that are now the right-of-way of the New York State Thruway and the Exit 23 cloverleaf, and tracts on both sides of the Normanskill gorge now occupied by motels, Thruway Authority headquarters and other businesses.

* * * * *

Of all the candidates who opposed Corning in his 11 political campaigns for the Albany mayoralty, the most strenuous opposition was provided by two local residents.

Carl E. Touhey, now living in New Scotland, came closest to unseating the nation's longest-tenured mayor of a major city. Touhey, an Albany businessman, lost by a plurality of only 4,452 in 1973, polling 21,838 votes to 25,390 for Corning.

The total vote of 47,228 was far short of the record 72,307 count in 1953 when Thomas E. (Ed) Mulligan, now a Delmar resident, was the Republican nominee. Although Mulligan, then a public relations writer for the state Dept. of Commerce, lost by a vote of 17,617, a record up to that time, to 54,690 at the polls, he gained the admiration of the solidly entrenched mayor.

Music their 'strange' obsession

By Caroline Terenzini

It's worth the price-of admission just to see 13-year-old Jordy Cohen do what he does on the drums. You have to peer around the drum set to find him and then he all but disappears under his mass of dark hair, but he is undeniably there. Chris Graf, 17, is easier to spot at the mike, giving his all — which is considerable. Jon (a.k.a. Myron) Cohen, 16, whangs away at the bass but stays oh-so-cool while Paul Gallagher, 18, in his red high-tops that match his guitar helps out on the vocals and Adrian "Lady Killer" Cohen, 14, cajoles tunes out of the synthesizers.

All together, it's "Strange Anatomy," a basement band reaching for the big time. "Strange Anatomy's" creativity should lift the roof off the Cohen house, but Norm Cohen, who is responsible for three-fifths of the band, tucked lots of insulation in the ceiling of the basement rehearsal room, so it's possible to have a conversation in the living room while the would-be rock stars are doing their thing. And it is their thing.

What do you do in your spare time?

"Play music."

Play any sports?

"Sports?!"

What's important to you about the band?

"The music."

Where do you want to be 10 years from now?

"Playing music."

This single-mindedness just might put "Strange Anatomy" a step ahead of the crowd. That, and whatever's in the genes passed down by Norm, who played bass

Drummer Jordy Cohen is one reason the fans react to Strange Anatomy. On the cover: the scene at McBoogles during taping of a PM Magazine on the band.

Tom Howes

with the likes of Chuck Mangione a while back.

"We just gave them the instruments — they're by and large self-taught," Norm said.

Jordy took to the drums like a duck to water, while Adrian fooled around on an old piano before picking up the synthesizer less than a year ago. Jon was familiar with the senior Cohen's bass before latching onto the electric version. Vocalist Chris has studied the trumpet for years and plays in the Bethlehem Central band, but his stance at the mike must come from his stage days. Paul, wrapping up his freshman year at Hudson Valley Community College, didn't reveal where his musical skill came from.

"The boys are writing and performing their own music," Norm said, "which makes them an original band rather than a rock dance band. They have the luxury of being able to concentrate on their own music."

"Strange Anatomy's" songs haven't been written down — none of the five writes music — but that's no barrier to a copyright. The U.S. Copyright Office accepts a tape cassette and so far four "Strange Anatomy" tunes have been copyrighted.

Norm has not only a musical legacy but also a legacy of contacts in the musical world. Which brings up New York City producers George and JoD Andrews. George Andrews, who has a gold record as an arranger for the Bay City Rollers, and JoD sat in on the recording sessions at Cathedral Sound in Rensselaer when

"Strange Anatomy" cut its debut disk. Now in local music shops, the 45 has a red "Strange Anatomy" label and "See It in Her Eyes" and "Keep It Up."

Norm says they're hoping for air play on local stations such as WPYX; how this first record does in the Capital District will have an impact on how New York City producers see the group, he feels.

Locally, "Strange Anatomy" shouldn't suffer from lack of recognition. Channel 10's P.M. Magazine is set to air a feature on the group (filmed partially at McBoogles and partially at the Cohen's) this coming Monday at 7:30 p.m. They've also been interviewed by an Albany newspaper.

The senior Cohens (the other half is Mary Kay) have formed Strange Anatomy Enterprises and will handle wholesale distribution of the record in this area.

Along with the red Strange Anatomy T-shirts and buttons.

The band isn't standing still, waiting for success to happen. In the past nine months their dates have included The Cellar in Gunderland, the Bethlehem High School and Middle School, the eba Chapter House, private parties and McBoogles, where fans rained down roses on Jordy — "He's SO-O-O-O cute!"

None of this would be possible without Neil Moxham, a BC sophomore who is chief "roadie" for the group, lining up people to lug around the equipment. Neil also has responsibility for tuning and cleaning Jordy's drums, which is no mean task since Jordy plays two roto-toms, two power toms, a tom-tom atop the bass drum, a floor tom, a steel snare, two crash cymbals and chimes. Neil says the drum outfit is probably a bit small for a rock band — but then Jordy's only 13.

What's it like living with a rock band? "We have kids coming over here all the time," Norm said. "It's very attractive to have a band in the house. There're a lot of 'basement bands' around," he added, "but these kids have a lot of commitment and have been able to lock in."

The other side of the coin is the decibels. Why does it HAVE to be so loud? "Rock is felt, physically felt," Norm said, "more than other kinds of music, and perhaps most like symphonic music — you can feel the music in a symphonic hall." The superloud, insistent beat of rock is "stimulating and exciting to segments of the population looking for stimulation — namely, our youth."

Chris is reassuring: "We're a nonviolent band." Jon elaborates: "We don't do nasty things to people." Adrian sums up: "We're not strange — they are."

Jon has his eye on the big time. When the group was deciding on a name, he and Chris walked around for hours one night with a pen and three sheets of paper, scribbling names as inspiration came. "I saved the lists," he said. "Some day we can sell them for thousands."

Stay tuned.

Ten years hence? Start planning

Time has a different meaning for archeologists, who tend to think in terms of hundreds of years. So when the Bethlehem Archeology Group made a pitch last week to the Town Board to start planning for an event 10 years down the road, about all the board could do was play for time.

The group's presentation was the highlight of a quiet meeting that also saw the board make several personnel changes in the Police Department as expected.

The event coming up in just 10 years is Bethlehem's bicentennial. Floyd Brewer, spokesman for the archeology group, told the board the town should start thinking now about a fitting memorial to the event, and he had one in mind — a book commemorating the town's rich history.

For instance, he noted that research concurrent with the group's dig at the Nicoll-Sill house has revealed the first mention of Bethlehem in 1648, making the settlement nearly contemporaneous with Fort Orange (Albany) and Boston.

"We are as a town really quite old and quite significant," Brewer said. "I think we lost our place in history because all the records are in Dutch."

Brewer said the town should hire a new historian (to replace the recently retired T.E. Mulligan) who would commit himself or herself to the 10-year book project, and should also appropriate money for the project in the budget starting next year.

"Your pitch is well made," replied Supervisor Tom Corrigan. The board made no commitment.

In the police matters, the board acknowledged the retirement of Capt.

BETHLEHEM

Robert Foster, the department's acting chief, effective May 31 and appointed Sgt. Roy Cooke as acting captain effective June 1. Inspector Richard LaChappelle was reassigned as a sergeant.

The actions were taken without comment, but the shifts make Cooke second in command in the department, answering to Safety Commissioner Ralph Tipple. Meanwhile, the town continues its search for a new leader for the department, with every indication that he will come from outside the ranks. Corrigan has said he is in no hurry to make the move; his only deadline is the expected retirement of Tipple at the end of the year.

And in a move town officials have insisted is not related to the personnel shifts, the board formally set June 2 as the date for a hearing on 19 charges filed against Officer Wayne LaChappelle, Richard LaChappelle's brother. All of the charges involve differences between Wayne LaChappelle's time sheet and the department's radio log. The town will hire an outside attorney to conduct the hearing, which will be closed unless LaChappelle requests that it be open.

In other business last week, the board:

- Agreed that the town should buy the M&B Sewerage Treatment Corp., a private company once responsible for treating sewage from Lauralana Heights.

- Raised the amount of money in the justice court petty cash fund from $50 to $200. Court personnel complained that because of the increase in business over the years they often end up making change from their own pockets.

- Learned that paving work on Rt. 9W from Jericho Rd. to Bethlehem Center will require speed restrictions on that road until further notice.

- Gave John DiGiulio, Inc., one of the contractors working on the sewer extension, until Aug. 1 to complete its work, which mostly consists of topsoil and seeding delayed by wet weather.

- Set June 22 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on a new stop sign at the intersection of Forest Hill Rd. and Thorndale Rd.

- Reset a public hearing on a water district extension in Chadwick Square for June 22 at 8:30 p.m. The rescheduling was necessary because the legal ad failed to appear at the proper time.

- Agreed to set up a meeting with New Scotland officials to work out a policy for supplying water and sewer services to new developments in that town. Corrigan said several new requests and a concern over their long-term implications had prompted him to call for the meeting.

Tax rates set for RCS voters

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Central School District has put together a $9.69 million budget for 1983-84 that will go before voters on June 22. The spending plan, if approved, will mean tax rate decreases for property owners in all four towns within the school district.

In Coeymans, the tax rate would drop some 27 cents per $1,000 assessed, for Bethlehem residents in the district, the rate would drop $2.33 per $1,000; in New Scotland, $2.76, and in New Baltimore, $1.38. The tax cuts are due chiefly to an increase in state aid of about $200,000 from that provided in the current year plus savings realized from energy conservation measures, administrators said.

The ballot will include five special propositions, however, that would have their own impact on the tax rate. For example, a $70,000 proposal to establish a crisis intervention program by adding to the staff would require a tax rate increases in the town of Coeymans of $2.42 per $1,000, $1.98 in Bethlehem, $3.33 in New Scotland and $2.01 in New Baltimore, changing most of the minuses above to pluses.

A proposition to increase the distance for busing was put in the ballot after John Biscone, Coeymans Supervisor, submitted petitions with the required 75 signatures. That would cost the district about $15,000 according to Business Manager Charles Emery, adding about 52 cents per $1,000 to the tax bills in the Town of Coeymans, 42 cents per $1,000 in Bethlehem, 71 cents in New Scotland and 43 cents in New Baltimore. The district would recover about 90 percent of the outlay the following year in state transportation aid, Emery said. Other propositions call for establishment of a summer enrichment program at a cost of $7,500 and additional microcomputers for the district at a cost of $25,000. A fifth proposition calls for replacement of the roof at the Pieter B. Coeymans Elementary School at a cost of about $140,000, which would be bonded for if district approve the work. The first impact on the tax rate would be next year, Emery said.

An elderly woman was injured in this accident on Rt. 9W near Elm Ave. Saturday evening. According to reports by state troopers, a car driven by Karen P. Kerr collided with a car driven by Todd Stuart of Equinusk, Pa., as it was turning onto 9W from Elm. Anna Nielson, a passenger in the Kerr auto, was admitted to St. Peter's Hospital with back injuries.

Also on the ballot will be the names of five residents seeking three seats on the school board. They include Wayne Fuhrman and James M. Mantor both of Ravena and Albert A. Penk of Selkirk, all seeking the seat currently held by John Coons, Jr. Marie C. Muller of Coeymans Hollow is seeking the seat now held by Howard B. Engel, Sr., and Susan L. Gottesman is seeking re-election, unopposed.

Voting is scheduled from 1 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, June 22, at the senior high school. The district's annual meeting will be the preceding evening, also at the high school.

The school board will next meet on Monday.

The girls were impressed with the kitchen and cooking facilities for the

In pediatrics, a pediatrician explained procedures used when a child has been admitted to the hospital and what a young patient might expect during their confinement.

Taking part in the two-day campout were Blake Rexford, Mathew Legg, Mark Walker, Luther Legg, Jeff Sumner, John Hudspath Jr., Greg Bowen, Eric Covey, Scoutmaster John Hudspath and committee chairman Don Sumner.

The boys enjoyed the weekend camping, cooking and testing their skills in a variety of competitive events. Using a minimum of basic equipment available to them, the scouts demonstrated their ability in rope tying, using a compass, making emergency shelters and providing first-aid treatment.

At stage performance

Members of the RCS Junior High Drama Club, sixth grade chorus and their advisors recently attended a performance of "The Nightingale" at the Empire State Institute for the Performing Arts. Students were able to observe the sets and costumes while enjoying the acting and singing. Cast members greeted the audience after the performance, answering questions and signing autographs.

Referendum issue splits board

By Tom Howes

A 2-2 vote coupled with the absence of one trustee prevented the Voorheesville Village Board from passing judgement on a resolution calling for approval of Clough, Harbour's final Wastewater Facility Plan recommendations. Further action has been postponed until their next monthly meeting, Tuesday, June 28.

Mayor Milton Bates and Trustee Daniel Reh supported the measure that endorses the Wastewater Facility Plan formally presented at a public hearing in April. Under the plan, the village would purchase the Salem Hills sewer system from developers Rosen and Michaels and enlarge its capabilities to include service to the central portion of the "old" village. The plan stipulates usage of federal and state funding at current levels, reducing the village's share of the estimated $2.34 million project to $720,000.

"Sewers are the answer for portions of our village," said Bates, and urged the board to vote its "conscience."

Reh, noting that the board was facing a difficult situation "any way (they) looked at it," said, "we have a potential problem 10 years from now (with old village sewer needs) — but right now we can do something about it. We've got to meet it head on or deal with it later. I'll vote for it."

Trustees Richard Langford and Larry

VOORHEESVILLE

Dedrick accepted Clough Harbour's findings but declined to approve the resolution pending a split public vote. The board had hoped residents of Salem Hills and the old village could vote separately on the issue. State law, however, prevented a public referendum.

"We promised all along we'd have a split vote," Langford said. "The report says that can't be done. I can't with a clear conscience vote for something that lumps everyone together when they are affected differently by it."

Trustee Doug DeDe was absent.

The Wastewater Plan addresses two initially unconnected sewage-related problems in the village. Residents of the Salem Hills subdivision have fought rate increases by the privately owned Salem Hills Sewerage Corp. for several years. Village officials have sought to acquire the utility as a means to alleviate frustrations felt by residents in dealing with the owners and the system in which rate settlements are decided; also, village ownership would eliminate the third party.

Concurrently, aging septic tanks in the closely knit central portion of the village prompted the need for an examination of possible remedies. The village board hired Clough, Harbour to evaluate the needs of the entire village, and received $125,000 in state and federal grants to fund the project. The firm's three-pronged solution ranged from a "do-nothing" approach for outlying areas of the village, to acquisition and expansion of the existing sewage system in Salem Hills to include some 200 homes in the central portion of the old village.

If the village is unable to purchase the Sewerage Corp. through an agreement with Rosen and Michaels, the board will pursue a legal condemnation of the facility, according to Bates. Toward that end, the board has hired Industrial Appraisers Co. to appraise the Salem Hills system. The board received what they term a "preliminary report" from the firm last month and a bill for $5,860 just recently. The board is refusing to pay, however, until the town's lawyers are satisfied with the document.

In other action, Niagara Mohawk has announced a 17.3 percent increase in street lighting costs. The village's yearly bill will rise nearly $8,000 to $54,121.

Bethlehem Cablevision, the village's cable television supplier, will undertake a three-week door-to-door solicitation drive beginning June 1. Currently some 500 homes in the village subscribe to the service.

Festival for fishermen

A festival of fishing demonstrations, displays, and tales of the big one that got away is scheduled for Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar for Thursday, June 9, from 5 to 9 p.m.

"Fishing Is Fun" will offer a family-oriented introduction to fly-tying, jig-tying, fly-casting, spin-casting, and filleting. Fishing experts representing the Helderberg Bassmasters, Saratoga Lake Anglers and the Capital District Fly Fishers, will conduct continuous "how-to" workshops in fishing skills. In addition, New York State DEC Law Enforcement Officers and Fisheries Biologists from Region IV will be on hand to answer questions.

Displays, slide shows, free literature, and a series of spin casting contests for kids up to the age of 16 will round out the program of events. The festival, open to the public free of charge, will be held rain or shine.

Honoring past presidents

Past presidents of the Elsmere Ladies Auxiliary will be honored at the group's next business meeting on Thursday, June 9, at 8 p.m. at the firehouse, Poplar Dr., Elsmere. An executives' meeting will precede the general meeting at 7:15.

Celebrating 300 years

For the past six months the Albany County Tricentennial Commission has been planning a 300th birthday extravaganza to celebrate the founding of the County of Albany on Nov. 1, 1683. That date this year will be celebrated with a fitting climax to the festivities, a Tri-Centennial Ball, to be held at Siena College and open to the public for a nominal fee.

Throughout the summer and fall there will be a series of events held by various groups within the county to celebrate the Tri-Centennial. The summer schedule for these events includes Memorial Day parades in the hill towns Monday, Colonial Day June 4 at the Ten Broeck Mansion, and a Tricentennial parade through downtown Albany to the Corning Riverfront Preserve, where the Hudson River Festival will take place June 11. These and the other events on the celebration schedule will be listed weekly in The Spotlight calendars.

Close up on nature

A photography workshop focusing on close-up shots will end the four-part series at the Five Rivers Environmental Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar, on Saturday, June 4, from 1 to 3 p.m. Magnification tools for photographing wildflowers, insects and doing copy work will be discussed. Registration is $3. For details call 457-6092.

League hosts Burstein

Karen Burstein, chairwoman and executive director of the state consumer protection board, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Albany County League of Women Voters on Thursday, June 2, at 6:30 p.m. at the Chariot Restaurant in Guilderland. New officers for the 1983-84 season will also be elected at the dinner meeting.

For information, call 439-5744.

Lucsak to run for legislature

Peter Luczak, a Voorheesville resident who played a role in the village's ongoing public sewer scenario, will go into this month's Democratic town caucus with the endorsement of New Scotland's party chairman.

Thomas E. Dolin of Voorheesville, an Albany attorney who has served as town Democratic chairman for the past six years, announced last week he is backing Luczak as the party's candidate for the 33rd district seat in the Albany County Legislature.

The district embraces the northeast quadrant of the Town of New Scotland and a portion of the Town of Guilderland between the New Scotland line and the Lynwood section north of McCormick's Corners on Rt. 20.

The 33rd district seat has been held for the past 16 years by Michael Ricci, a third-generation Voorheesville storekeeper, a Republican. Ricci is completing his fourth two-year term after serving two four-year terms.

Also mentioned for the nomination is Edward Donohue, a Swift Rd. neighbor of Dolin. Donohue, whose wife, JoAnn, ran for New Scotland town clerk two years ago, is a past exalted ruler of the New Scotland Elks Lodge.

Donohue said that "nothing is official yet" and added that he would be available if the nomination were offered.

Luczak, who lives at 11 Pleasant St. with his wife, Chris, and two children, is a deputy program secretary in the research section of the New York State Senate. He previously worked for three years in the state comptroller's office, and four years with the state Division of the Budget. During the past year he involved himself in the village sewer study by conducting his own door-to-door opinion canvass and submitting a detailed report to the village board.

Sports awards tonight

With the number of sports teams at Clayton Bouton Junior-Senior High this year the annual sports award program scheduled for this evening (June 1) is sure to be bigger and better than ever. David Cady, athletic director in the Voorheesville Central School District, invites the public to come to the high school between 6 and 8:30 p.m. to help honor those involved in the various sports programs.

The all-sports awards gathering is planned for athletes, managers, cheerleaders, coaches, students, parents, faculty and friends. Letters, certificates, pins and other awards will be presented to the members of the various athletic groups. The program is free and refreshments will be available for a slight charge.

Bloodmobile coming Friday

With Memorial Day behind us and the usual number of holiday fatalities fresh in the public's mind, the need for blood cannot be stressed enough. To aid in securing the precious fluid of life the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville on Friday, June 3, between noon and 6 p.m. Both donors and volunteers workers are needed to help with this community drive. Those wishing to volunteer to assist are asked to call Cathy Zeh at 765-4246. Anyone who would like to donate blood may call Win Schwartz ahead of time or just come to the church on Friday. Chairman Diane Guyer urges everyone to help support this worthwhile cause.

Book swap Tuesday

Books! Books! Books! Kids just can't seem to get enough of them. For those children who love to own them but get tired of the same old books there is good news. On Tuesday, June 7, the Parent Advisory Council of Title I will sponsor their annual book swap. Grades K-6 are invited to come to the T.V. room (309) in the elementary school between 8:30 a.m. and 3:40 p.m. and bring used paperback books to swap for others. Each child is limited to five books. Those bringing books before that date may take them to the Title I room and exchange them for a coupon to be used on the day of the Book Swap. So clean out those old books and trade them for new — it's going to be a long hot summer!

Photography at library

Attention shutterbugs! The Voorheesville Public Library will present a two-hour program entitled "Photography — A Way of Seeing," on Thursday, June 9, at 7 p.m. Conducted by Mark Van Wormer, a local professional photographer, the program will explore the visual possibilities of "seeing" with a camera, discussing what makes a good photograph and how a photographer can communicate ideas or feelings through the use of different techniques.

The free program is open to everyone and pre-registration is not required.

Cubs at the circus

Obviously putting on their own circus in April didn't cure "circus fever" in Cub Scout Pack 73. This Saturday, June 4, the cubs are traveling along with the their leaders to see the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus at the Glens Falls Civic Center. Over 50 boys are scheduled to see the show under the big top.

Girl Scout awards

Girl Scouts and Brownies will also be busy this week. On Tuesday, June 7, the annual awards programs will be held at the high school beginning at 7:30 p.m. Girls from the 19 neighborhood troops will be on hand at that time to receive the badges and awards they have earned during the school year. Friends and neighbors of the industrious scouts are invited to share the evening with the girls and their families.

Wins sorority scholarship

This evening (June 1) the Capital District Delta Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority will honor Voorheesville resident Patricia Arthur at a dinner to be held at the Golden Fox Restaurant in Colonie.

Miss Arthur, a 1980 graduate of Clayton Bouton High School, is one of two area recipients of a scholarship offered by the sorority to college seniors who plan on entering the field of education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Arthur of Woodsedge Ct. She will be a senior this fall at Wells College, Aurora, where she is majoring in mathematics.

Math and science winners

Two students from Clayton Bouton High School came home with honors from the science fair held recently at Schalmont Middle School.

Glen Reynolds, an eighth grader, placed first in the meteorological division with his presentation of frontal related weather patterns. For his efforts he received an award from the Northeastern Meteorological Society and a subscription to Weather Watch magazine.

Chris Kirk, a sophomore, placed third overall in the senior division for his work on burglar alarm systems incorporating integrated circuitry. His achievement makes him eligible to compete in next year's statewide competition.

Science teachers William Dodge and Ken Beckley were advisors to the students.

Two teams of students from the junior high also walked away with honors when they participated in the Colonial Council Junior High contest held at the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Junior High School. The seventh grade team composed of Chris Jeffers, Brad Goldstein, Renee

Hunter and Jennie Meillinger placed first, with Chris Jeffers receiving a trophy for winning the individual portion of the competition.

The eighth grade team of Ward Breeze, Dan McKenna, Staci Sala and Tom Vecchio placed third, with McKenna receiving a trophy for placing second in individual achievement.

Advisors to the students included Sally Dobris, Bernadette Spargo and Pat Sauer.

Math team shines

At the elementary school level congratulations go to sixth grade teacher Pauline Porter and her five-member math team that ranked sixth in the county in the New York Mathematics League Contest. With a score of 170, Voorheesville placed only behind Bethlehem in Albany County.

Those whose combined scores made this achievement possible were: Patrick Ryan, Kirsten Taylor, Michael Sestak, David Larabee and Colin Breeze. Larabee also gained recognition by tying for first place in the county on his individual score. Students from all over the state participated.

Three other sixth graders won laurels by placing second in the elementary division of the University of Wisconsin's third international problem solving contest recently at Albany Academy. The team consisted of Amy Tesch, Justin Birk and Joe Kraemer and solved three problems within the two-hour limit.

Mini-reminders

Just a reminder of two fund-raising events sponsored by local service groups this week.

On Thursday, June 2, the Voorheesville Fire Department Auxiliary will hold their annual card party at the fire house beginning at 8 p.m. The $1.50 donation includes refreshments and door prizes. Raffle tickets will also be available. The public is invited and tickets will be on sale at the door.

On Saturday, June 4, the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will hold their annual tag sale from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Voorheesville Elementary School. Proceeds from the event will go towards underwriting the cost of the many community projects sponsored by the men's service group. Those wishing to donate items may contact Carl Trieber at 765-4705.

Honoring Rev. Toole

Rev. Arthur Toole, pastor of St. Matthew's Church since 1976, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of his ordination this weekend. To mark his Silver Jubilee, he will offer a Mass of Thanksgiving on Sunday at 11:30 a.m. at the church. A reception in his honor will be held in the church hall between 3 and 7 p.m. that same day.

After the ball

Bethlehem Central High School seniors and their dates won't be getting much sleep on Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3. That is the weekend of their senior ball, a 12-hour affair that will begin with a dance at the Bethlehem Central High School gym. The theme is "Cinderella's Ball."

From there, the seniors will move on to the Bethlehem Town Park and Del Lanes bowling alleys. From 1 to 6 a.m., the partying couples play tennis, volleyball, basketball, ping pong, swim and bowl to music by the local rock band "Fear of Strangers." A breakfast at the town park will bring the fun to an end Saturday Morning. All seniors can attend the after-the-ball activities, whether or not they attend the ball.

In case of rain, all recreation except bowling will be moved to the high school. For more information, call Sally Peyrebrune at 439-7133.

The annual Paxwood-Dykeman Rd. stickball game, harkening back to the Bronx roots of several neighborhood residents, was played under cloudy skies on Memorial Day. The "Delmar Darlings," as they call themselves, use official stickball bats (broom handles to the rest of us) and balls and even draw the regulation manhole covers in the street.

Do you qualify for this job?

The job opportunity presented below has been posted by an old established institution that has been licensing operations throughout the world. Each licensee is responsible for a complex venture employing high impact management skills as well as on-line production tasks and menial labor functions. The organizational structure of each independent venture is set up as a partnership operation and, despite minimal startup qualifications and an increasing rate of dissolutions in the field, the venture holds remarkably strong potential for job satisfaction and intrinsic rewards which have sustained a large pool of applicants for the position over many years.

Family MATTERS

purchasing of all supplies, fixtures, some major equipment and uniforms. You will arrange for shipping and receiving, and will expedite the timely and effective installation of all deliveries. You will also carry primary responsibility for the physical plant, office and work area assignments, scheduling and monitoring of staff and consultants. You will hire and supervise the support of staff and manage such operations as sanitation, compliance with health and safety codes, grounds maintenance, housekeeping and food preparation.

STAFF RESPONSIBILITIES:

Until such time as the venture can afford to recruit staff, you will be responsible for performing all tasks described in MANAGEMENT RESPONSIBILITIES. Your opportunities for delegating staff responsibilities in order to concentrate on management functions depend largely on partnership selection and staff recruitment.

WORK HOURS:

As with many partnership ventures this operation requires around-the-clock dedication, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. In that you are part owner of the venture you receive no sick leave, personal leave or vacation days.

SALARY:

There is no salary base, commissions nor other conventional remuneration for the position. Typically, bonuses are provided on birthdays and certain holidays, but not in monetary form. The financial attraction of the position is that you can enter into a profit sharing venture with virtually no investment capital.

FRINGE BENEFITS:

There are no customary fringes associated with the position other than those provided by your partner's external business associations. However, the position does carry with it a generous expense account providing personalized credit cards, numerous charge accounts and a petty cash allowance.

RELOCATION:

Although relocation is often required in accepting the position, you may be able to initiate the venture in your own community. Nevertheless, there is no guarantee that it will remain in your initial location. Many such ventures are finding it either desirable or necessary to move to more lucrative areas which are sometimes located across the country.

POSITION TITLE:

Wife/Mother.

EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS:

None, although a college degree tends to expand opportunities in the field.

PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE:

None required, although one such prior position may aid in avoiding any repetition of errors in operating philosophy or recruitment. However, two or more such prior positions may be viewed by some as strongly suggestive of chronic failure in the position as company loyalty is one of the primary elements in making these ventures successful.

TRAINING AND SUPERVISION:

All required skills are typically learned on the job. Although no formal supervision is provided, many educational bodies offer courses and seminars for which you can be reimbursed.

CREDENTIAL REQUIREMENTS:

Specific licenses to enter the field are available in all municipalities. Application requirements vary slightly from state to state. Utah residents should check with local authorities before applying.

MANAGEMENT RESPONSIBILITIES:

You will be responsible for setting the organizational development course for the venture including all primary training and supervision of all new personnel. You will frequently be involved in complex and sensitive areas of negotiation over financial, product development and labor/management issues. Although many of these negotiations will by necessity involve your partner, you will be required to secure professional consultants in many areas of technical expertise. Knowledge of accounting, banking, law, real estate, medicine and psychology will be helpful.

You will be responsible for managing a budget ranging from a typical startup of $10K to $40K or more. Increasing numbers of these ventures are experiencing growth in operating budgets in excess of $100K. Knowledge of bookkeeping, deficit finance, tax law and credit instruments will be useful.

You will be responsible for the Bethlehem Central art students constructed a giant puppet for its debut in A Bride From Pluto, a new one-act science fiction fantasy opera by Gian Carlo Menotti. The head alone measured 4-by-3 feet. Performances were at the Egg in Albany last weekend. Students of BC art teacher Jeanette Walsh who worked on the project were Andrea Nichols, Elizabeth Lewis, Dan Goldstein, Adam Fields, Matthew Tweedie, Stephan Diebel, Hilary Schrauf, Kathy McNamara, Andy Malone and Pam Mosher.

Looking for toy salesmen

Kathy Edds, who recently returned to Delmar for a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hendrick of Kenwood Ave., is looking for persons interested in being full or part-time "consultants" for Discovery Toys.

According to Mrs. Edds, a summer resident of Woods Hole, Mass., Discovery Toys are durable, child-powered educational toys. Consultants, self-employed, demonstrate the toys and explain to parents how it can be used. Mrs. Edds can be contacted through her parents at 439-1012.

Door to door

This is the season for scams and tricky door-to-door salesmen, so Bethlehem officials are making sure that legitimate canvases are properly identified before they take to the streets.

One such legitimate outfit is Adams Russell, the parent company of Bethlehem Video. The cable television people are conducting a door-to-door sales promotion beginning June 1 and continuing for about 6 weeks. Anyone involved in the promotion will be displaying an identification tag, town officials say.

BUSINESS

New owner will 'fix anything'

Peter Verhagen of Clarksville, owner of Jones Service on Grove St. in Delmar, says the auto repair shop tucked away on the side street by the Post Office, will fix "anything that's broken." That's a pretty tall order, but Verhagen says he and mechanic Ken Brink do "just about everything."

Also helping in the shop is Peter III, 17, who'll be a senior at Bethlehem Central next year. The other Verhagen offspring are Michael, a first grader at Clarksville school, and Robert, nearly 2. They aren't much help around the shop. Wife Mary has had her own career with the state for more than 20 years.

Verhagen is a one-time stock car racer at Lebanon Valley Speedway, which, he said, is "an awful lot safer than driving around Delmar!" Verhagen said he enjoyed building his racing cars from the ground up and would work on a new car each winter, changing around the chassis design and the suspension design. His trophies from those days are tucked away in the cellar now.

Verhagen purchased Jones Service a year ago from Rose Jones, widow of "Bud" Jones, and he's kept the business pretty much the same, he said. Originally from Rensselaer, Verhagen has been repairing cars since he was 18, and worked for Jones for a number of years.

Today Verhagen is apt to be bent over an engine in his Grove St. shop. "I kind of enjoy repairing automobiles," he said. "Major engine work is appealing. It isn't something you can do with your mind elsewhere." Caroline Terenzini

Sunshine appointed

Eugene S. Sunshine of Delmar has been appointed deputy commissioner and treasurer of the state department of Taxation and Finance. Sunshine has served in the post since August, 1982, when he was named acting treasurer.

As the state treasurer, Sunshine manages a $1 billion investment portfolio and provides a variety of financial services to 14 public agencies and authorities. With the state comptroller he exercises joint custody responsibilities over the State's General Fund.

Prior to joining the Department of Taxation and Finance, Sunshine served for almost five years as director of conservation at the New York State Energy Office.

Honored for sales

Si Karam of Slingerlands has been named a member of the Mutual of Omaha Companies' Chairman's Council for 1983.

Karam is associated with the E.J. Kearns Agency, Inc., Albany.

Dr. Dell N. Thompson

Takes hospital post

Dr. Dell N. Thompson of Glenmont has been named vice president for development at the Albany Medical Center. He has been vice president for development at Siena College in Loudonville.

Effective today (June 1), Thompson will serve as one of the first corporate officers of the Albany Medical Center, a newly formed corporation which administratively links the Albany Medical College and Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Thompson has served in the Siena post since 1973. A 1963 BS graduate of the State University of New York at Cortland, he completed graduate studies at Pennsylvania State University and C.W. Post College of Long Island University. He received his MS degree in 1966.

A special message about drinking and driving for teen-agers and their parents.

IF YOU NEED IT, CALL THIS SPECIAL HOT LINE NUMBER ON PROM NIGHT

write in your home phone here.

The prom problem

If there's a chance you might drink and drive on prom night, you should know this. New York State has tough laws dealing with drinking drivers. Even after just a few drinks, you may be impaired enough to be arrested and convicted. And if you think you'll get away with it, consider this: Many counties have increased the number of law enforcement officers on the road, particularly after midnight. They're coming down hard on drinking drivers, even first offenders.

What you can do on prom night

We know there's a lot of pressure to drink. Many teens who don't usually drink do drink on prom night. If there's even a remote possibility that this could apply to you, here's what you should do. If you do have a few drinks, and you're driving, or riding with someone who's been drinking, call home and ask your parents to pick you up. Think that will embarrass you? It shouldn't. Consider the alternatives - being arrested by the police or being involved in an accident. You're still not convinced? Show this message to your parents. Ask them afterwards if they won't please pick you up if you need it. No questions asked. The kid stuff is over. You're grown up. Your parents are grown up. Together, you can make sure you don't become an arrest statistic or an accident statistic on prom night.

What you as a parent can do

Too many prom nights have ended in tragedy. Because it's a big night out, there's enormous peer pressure to celebrate by drinking alcohol. Even with the best of intentions, some teens will end up driving under the influence. If they are stopped by police and found to be impaired or intoxicated, they'll be arrested. New York State is determined to get drunken drivers off the road - no matter who they are. We think you ought to do your son or daughter one big favor. Tell them that if they need you, you'll be waiting to drive them home. No ridicule. No comments. No questions asked. Tell them straight out that you'll respect their decision. You know you'd rather get a call from them than from the police or a hospital. Tell them that.

Don't drink and drive on prom night.

Call home from the party...not from the police station.

AROUND THE GARDEN

From Albany County Cooperative Extension

One of the best controls for broadleaf weeds is a dense, healthy, vigorously growing turf. Proper liming, watering, and mowing and adequate fertilization are basic first steps to a weed-free lawn.

On established turf, the plantains such as dandelion, burdock, and thistle can be controlled by an application of 2, 4-D. This is best applied in October, although it may be applied in the spring. Repeat applications may be necessary for some weeds.

Common chickweed is an annual that reproduces not only by seeds, but also by rooting at the nodes of the stems. Its presence in the lawn is a sign of inadequate turf cover. Mouse-ear chickweed is a low creeping perennial with very hairy leaves shaped like a mouse's ear. It is usually a darker green than common chickweed. The creeping stems run along the soil surface where they sometimes form a dense mat that destroys the grass. Both kinds of chickweed can be controlled by application of Dicamba. Avoid the root zone of trees and shrubs. Repeat applications may be necessary for some weeds.

Ground ivy is a perennial weed that forms dense patches that can easily cover the entire lawn in a few years. It spreads by seeds and creeping square stems which root along the ground. The weed does equally well in shade or sun. The leaves are nearly round, heavily veined, and rough on the upper surface. This pest can be controlled with either dicamba or mecoprop.

A combination of 2, 4-D with dicamba or mecoprop results in a broad-spectrum control of broadleaf weeds. Many commercial mixtures of these chemicals are available. For difficult-to-control weeds, repeat application may be necessary.

Treat broadleaf weeds when they are actively growing. Don't use on hot (85° or above) or dry weather. Treat when there is no wind and no rain expected for twenty-four hours. It may take several weeks for the weeds to die. Containers used to spray herbicides should never be used to spray ornamentals or vegetables. The residue of herbicide could cause injury or death to these plants.

Caroline Steadman
Master Gardener

Home gardeners may find in the early summer that their vegetable plants are producing only a small number of fruit or no fruit at all, because the flowers die and drop off.

Although there are many reasons for fruit not setting, gardening techniques usually have little to do with the problem.

Vegetables prone to problems with fruit setting include tomatoes, eggplants and peppers. Poor fruit set with these crops is usually due to poor or no pollination as a result of excessively high or low temperatures, varietal response or differences, poor moisture, or flower dessication due to hot, dry winds.

While some gardeners may be tempted to but plant hormones as a preventive for improper fruit setting, the hormones are already present in the flowers and/or pollen and adding more won't significantly help.

In general, problems with fruit setting are biological, and the result of adverse conditions that the gardener can do little about.

Focus On Faith

The Reverend James D. Daley

Pastor, Church of St. Thomas the Apostle

During the next two and a half years the Roman Catholic community in the Diocese of Albany will be involved in a process entitled Renew. The process is intended to nourish those who have a relationship with the Lord and will, therefore, mean many different things to many people. The nourishment is found in renewed faith in Jesus and his Gospel teachings, in prayer, in Scripture sharing, in community, in liturgical celebration and in service.

Actually there is nothing "new" about this process. It is basic Christianity. What is different is the focus. The Roman Catholic community and its local expression, the parish, will be centering on five themes during this time. The Lord's call, our response to the Lord's call, empowerment of the Spirit, discipleship, and evangelization. The attention of the entire community will be directed to each of these themes for a six-week period of prayer, sharing and action.

At the end of the process we hope to find a more vibrant Faith community with a greater understanding of God's Word motivated by a practical spirituality that will find its expression in social justice.

It is very clear that the success of such a process depends on the power of the Holy Spirit and our willingness to respond to His promptings. Prayer, then, is at the heart of Renew. Members of the community have been at prayer for over a year seeking guidance in planning and organization. Now that the parish community of St. Thomas is selecting and training leaders, we turn to our brothers and sisters in the churches of the area and ask for their prayers. This request is for sustained prayer from all for the duration of the process. We ask that you pray for us individually and as communities, that we be open to where the Holy Spirit is leading us.

Recently at the celebrations where our youngsters shared Holy Communion for the first time, we sang a simple little song. It sums up our hopes: "Children, children, will you come and follow me? Will you come and be a friend, a disciple, my helper? Help me spread the good news? Yes, Lord, yes!"

There in spirit

Christian scientists in the Delmar area are joining in a unique collaboration with Christian Science churches around the world to share the denomination's June annual meeting season.

Instead of local Christian Scientists travelling to Boston for the June 6 meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, a special videotaped discussion will be travelling to them. Here in Delmar the meeting will be held in the evening on June 6 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 555 Delaware Ave.

The hour-long commentary they will hear was prepared earlier this year at the denomination's international headquarters. It focuses on the church's wide-ranging efforts to meet the challenges of what it judges to be intensely materialistic times through revitalized commitment to spiritual values and Bible precepts.

Harvey W. Wood, 1983-84 chairman of The Christian Science Board of Directors, says he finds "an encouraging and growing commitment on the part of Christian Scientists to let their lives more than their words be the proof of what Christian Science is."

The Senior High Youth Fellowship of the First United Methodist Church in Delmar recently visited with Congressman Samuel S. Stratton, seated far right, as part of their retreat to the Nation's Capital. As part of their "Christianity in Government" retreat theme, the group visited many government buildings and discussed with Stratton the role of responsible citizenship.

Ohav Shalom elects

Several local residents have been elected officers of the Congregation Ohav Shalom, Albany. They include: Robert Ganz of Delmar, vice president, legal and community affairs; Robert Rosenkrantz of Delmar, vice president, administration; Stewart Sacklow of Voorheesville, vice president, fund-raising; Irving Paris of Slingerlands and Sue Herbach of Delmar, trustees of the Congregation, and Sheila Cole and Beth Klopott, both of Delmar, trustees of the Hebrew School.

Honored

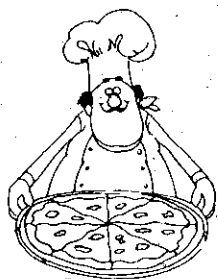

Congregation Ohav Shalom recently honored members who have leadership roles in Jewish communal organizations. They include Edith Abrams of Slingerlands, who will serve as president of the Albany Area Council of Women's American ORT, and Robert Ganz of Delmar, who is chairman of the Campus Commission, a community advisory board to JSC-Hillel, which provides Jewish services to students at the State University at Albany.

Working with seniors

A group of students from the Bethlehem Central Middle School have been lending a helping hand to the Bethlehem Senior Citizens Organization and both groups — the students and the seniors — have been happy with the arrangement.

The students — Keith Hall, Dennis Herrington, Sarah Rothstein and Scott Smith — are enrolled in the Community Experience Program offered at the Middle School. Each Thursday, they "work" at town hall, during the Senior Citizens Organization meeting 12:30 and 4 p.m. They have performed a variety of jobs, from calling the weekly bingo game to filing to just sitting and talking to or listening to the seniors.

Dennis Northrup became only the second winner in the history of the Voorheesville road race, but Carlo Cherubino (left in

Spotlight

Voorheesville has a new champion

For the first time since the annual Memorial Day marathon in Voorheesville was organized in 1976, somebody other than Carlo Cherubino has won the long-distance race. Dennis Northrup, a rising young racer from Selkirk, ran away from Cherubino early in the 9-mile event and won easily in 48:53.

Cherubino, an Albany runner seeking his eighth straight victory, was second in 49:32.

Selkirk runners took two other medals. Dale Keenan won the sub-masters (30-39) division with a fourth-place finish in 50:07 and Marian Pellino was second to Nancy Edgerton of Albany among women over 30.

Charlie Casey was the first Voorheesville resident to cross the line, finishing 13th in 55:11, and Bill Schrader of Middleburg, 67, was the oldest (163rd). Village youths swept the first three places in the high school division, Doug Arthur taking the John Fredette Memorial trophy in 61:13, 43rd overall, followed by Ted Popkoski (84th) and David Dunning (85th).

Don Wilken of Slingerlands won the masters (40-49) division and the New Scotland Elks trophy in 57:27, good for 19th place overall. Ken Kirik of Guilderland, track and cross country coach at Voorheesville High School, was second in 59:09. In the TAC listings, Kirik was first in the 40-44 category, Wilkens first in the 45-49 classification. Bill Street of Delmar, sixth in 54:10, was first in the TAC junior (18-21) division.

Elaine Barnabe of Delmar was first in the women's 30-and-over listing in 64:45, the second woman to cross the line and 63rd overall. Judy Swasey of Slingerlands was second in 69:35 (94).

Rich Langford, a former Voorheesville

High School cross country star now a village trustee, won the 2-mile event in 10 minutes flat, 3 seconds ahead of Doug Irons of Altamont. Mike Waldenmaier of Selkirk was third.

Ray Augustine of Voorheesville, 35th overall, was first in the grade school division.

There were 172 finishers in the 9-mile event and 152 over the shorter course.

Homers power Andrianos

Three home runs helped Andrianos beat Meyers, 9-2, last week in the Tri-Village Little League. Ryan Flynn and Chris Puerto each hit their first homers and Asa Lewis hit his league-leading third. Puerto also hit a double and struck out 10 batters.

Farm Family continued its winning ways with a 7-0 win over Convenient. Scott Hodge had two hits, including a key single in a six-run third inning.

Main Care topped Spotlight, 1-0, in a pitcher's duel. Main Care's Tony Forster had 10 strikeouts and Kevin Ryan had 1 for Spotlight.

Matt Hanvey of Price Greenleaf hit game-winning double in a 7-5 victory over Roberts. Julie Francis pitched the victory and Craig Weinert saved the game with a catch in right field.

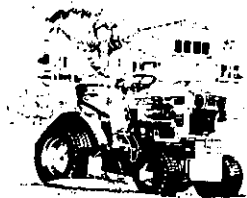

The Senior League's official season started as Applebee took on CPM in close game. Eric Heathwaite hit double for Applebee in the 9-8 victory

BC ends season with an assist

A busload of Bethlehem Central baseball players and a sharp cloudburst played a part in the Sectional draw despite the Eagles' basement tenure.

BC was 1-12 going into last week with two Suburban Council games remaining. Both were with Burnt Hills, which was locked in a tight struggle with Niskayuna and Mohonasen for the final spot in the Section 2 post-season tournament. The schedule called for the season's last regularly scheduled game to be played at Burnt Hills Monday, and a makeup game from the May 2 washout to be played in Delmar Tuesday.

Season ends with washout

Unable to find a ballfield fit to play on, Voorheesville and Waterford cancelled their scheduled Colonial Council double-header last week. Neither team had a chance for post-season playoffs.

The wipeout deprived the Blackbirds' two senior pitchers, Dick Lennon and Jim Meacham, of making a farewell start and left the disappointing season hanging at 4-10 in the league and 5-11 overall.

Three sophomores give the Blackbirds reason for cautious optimism for 1984. Two are pitchers, Gerry McNamara, a lefthander who did a far better job than his statistics indicate, and Brett Hotaling, who pitched and won two complete games in the final weeks of the campaign. Brian Rubin won an outfield job on the strength of his hitting, batting .290 with two home runs and 12 RBIs.

Five juniors are also expected to contribute to the new season. Mike McCarty, a good defensive player, had action at second, third and the outer meadows this year. Mike Ricci and Eric Phinney saw spot duty in the outfield, and Frank Baker, who ineffective after the spring break despite a promising start, could become a key factor as a pitcher next year. John Ryan, who caught five games this season, supplied some power hitting from the DH slot in the order.

The sky was overcast Monday when the Eagles' bus departed for Burnt Hills in the early afternoon, but when a freak storm pelted the bus, Coach Art Ritchko and the driver assumed the game couldn't be played. They turned around for home.

It wasn't until some time later that they learned that the erratic storm had bypassed Burnt Hills and that the Spartan team had been impatiently waiting on a dry field for Bethlehem to show up. Burnt Hills needed both games to have a chance for the Sectionals.

On Tuesday the sun was out in glory, and the two teams played the May 2 makeup on the Delaware Ave. diamond, as planned. Rob Kistler went the route on the rubber, but Burnt Hills won the well-played game, 6-2. Needing one win to tie Mohonasen for a playoff berth, Burnt Hills accepted a forfeit from BC for the aborted trip of Monday.

Made or unmade, beds will be tuned up, started and raced at the second annual Delmar Fire Department field day on Sunday, June 12, at the Bethlehem Town Hall, rain or shine. The "stock and modified" bed races require wheeled beds with a pit crew of four starters and one driver tucked in with a sheet and pillow. Prizes will be awarded to the race winners and the most original bedroom creations. The race bed inspection begins at 10 a.m.

A Mardi-gras parade featuring the bedded entrants will follow at noon. Registration is $10 and should be paid by June 5. For information and entry forms, call 439-3851 or 439-5004.

Can Bethlehem tennis bounce back?

By Nat Boynton

In the absence of a coordinated baseball program and lethargy at the varsity level, and apparent turnaround in Bethlehem's football and basketball programs, what is the reason for BC's abrupt tumble from its dynastic domination of scholastic boys' tennis?

A survey of this tennis-oriented community's most prominent racquet adherents points to several possible factors:

- Indoor racquet clubs have enabled other schools to "catch up" with Bethlehem, which has 24 public outdoor courts.

- Bethlehem teenagers aren't as dedicated to tennis nowadays as they have been in the past. In at least one case, academics takes preference over playing the junior tournament circuit.

- The Bethlehem Tennis Association's membership is at record levels and its junior development programs are more comprehensive than ever, but participation is lagging.

- Neither coach of the boys' or girls' varsity team at BC professes to be a professional instructor a la Don Camp or Phil Ackerman, hence serve as advisors rather than coaches.

BTA officers says the the association not only continues its traditional year-round junior programs, but has expanded them in the past year. Former varsity players work with the Town of Bethlehem's summer tennis program, the BTA sponsors junior tournaments and supports team competition against club teams in other communities during the summer.

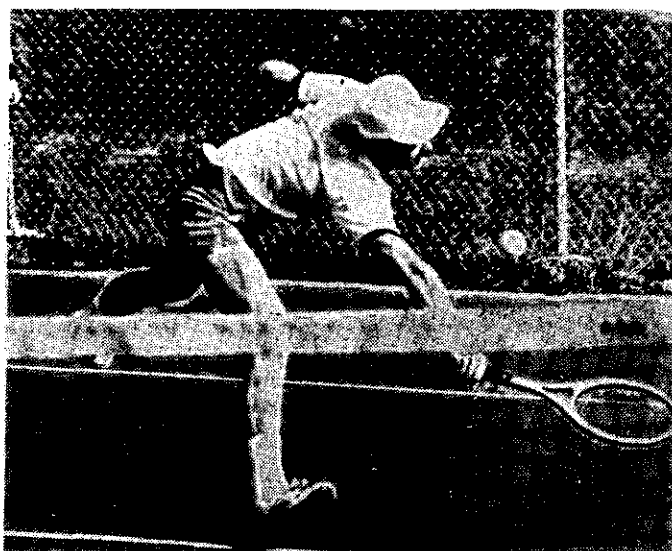

This month the BTA announced a subsidy for junior players participating in a Southwood program conducted by area professionals. At the first session last week, only seven players showed up to take advantage of the subsidized clinic taught by well-known area pros.

"Families have developed today's players, not the pros," said one longtime observer of Bethlehem tennis. "There's no lack of programs. The BTA has free clinics."

Observed another parent: "Where the supply of (scholastic) tennis players has gone, I don't know."

Between 1964 and 1978, when he retired, Bethlehem tennis coach Don Camp's teams won every Sectional title except one, and every Suburban Council championship but two. In those two years, they were second with records of 17-1 and 12-3. In one span BC teams won 90 straight matches, then lost one, and then won the next 47 in a row.

This year the team is struggling. It suffered its first 9-0 defeat in history, lost another match 8-1, and has lost four team matches in a single season for the first time ever.

Senior Mike Cole was one of the BC tennis teams mainstays this year. His younger brother Doug should carry on the family tradition. Tom Howes

"There's a different attitude now," said one parent. "For two years the coach has gone south for spring vacation just before important matches, leaving the players to practice on their own."

But that's not improper, nor is it unusual in high school coaching ranks at the spring break.

Nor does Bethlehem's incumbent varsity tennis coach have the opportunity to conduct a full season of intramural tennis during the fall, as did Camp during his glory years. The procedure has since been outlawed by the Suburban Council, which has rules against "coaching out of season."

The girls' varsity, however, still has a proud legacy. Their season is the fall of the year, and in 1982 Bethlehem won the league for the fifth year in a row with a 13-0 record, and won the Sectionals. Most of the team's top players will be back next year, and there are several good players coming up from the younger ranks. Whether there is enough talent to counter the upsurge in other communities in the years ahead remains to be seen.

"The prospects are positive," says Ackerman, a former BC No. 1 and a highly regarded teaching pro in the area. Ackerman, a social studies teacher at Voorheesville who works closely with the BTA, feels BC's tennis slump is cyclical and temporary. "There are a lot of good players coming up from the Middle School, players from BTA families," Ackerman says. "If they stay in town, they will help boys' and girls' varsities a couple of years from now."

Shenendehowa ends BC season

By Julie Ann Sosa

It was the 10th anniversary of Bethlehem Central's Class A Sectional tennis win over Shenendehowa. But time ran out for the BC team in the semi-final rematch this year. Shenendehowa, 13-1 co-champ of the Suburban Council Blue Division, beat Bethlehem, 4-1, and then Shaker, 4-3, to win its first Sectional crown.

But by no means did BC fold. In the opening round, Bethlehem stomped on Big 10 champ Linton (14-1), 4-1. Easy winners for BC were Charlie Marden (6-2, 6-0), Andy Saidel, (6-2, 6-0), Doug Cole (6-2, 6-2) and Tim Talmage (6-2, 6-3).

As soon as Bethlehem won a majority of the five singles and two doubles duels, the entire team advanced. It was this tournament rule that prematurely ended the Eagles-Plainsmen match.

Shenendehowa Coach Gene Gould admitted to BC counterpart Julie Wendth that his team was nervous. Shenendehows still jumped to a 3-0 lead when No. 1 Dave Marra defeated Mike Cole (6-2, 6-0) and the doubles teams Tomlinson-Demarest (6-7, 6-2, 6-0) and Walter-Woo (6-1, 6-1) lost. No. 2 singles Marden put BC on the scoreboard with a 6-2, 6-1 win. Senior Daryll Wyszormirski gave the Plainsmen their fourth and clinching victory in a hard-fought 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 three-setter over sophomore Doug Cole.

Still in progress and left unfinished were three-set matches being played by Saidel (4-6, 6-3, ?) and Talmage (3-6, 6-2, ?), which could conceivably have narrowed the Plainsmen's margin of victory.

Bethlehem (10-5) closed the regular season in second place in the Gold Division with wins over Guilderland (5-4) and Scotia (7-2). Although the curtain has fallen for the team as a whole, the Cole brothers, Marden and Talmage will compete in the individual Class A Sectionals at SUNYA this week.

Sectional victory shows Blackbird net strength

By Peter Fisch After blanking defending champion Maple Hill, 5-0, the Voorheesville tennis squad trampled a strong Chatham team, 4-1, en route to their Class C team Sectional title. Earlier, Chatham had upset top-seeded and previously undefeated Lake George, 4-2.

Only six teams participated in the tournament due to the requirement of a 500 or better record. The Blackbirds ended their season with a 10-2 overall record and a 9-2 league record.

While playing Chatham indoors for the finals due to inclement weather, only one Voorheesville netter suffered a defeat. Alex Saez, the Birds' No. 1 player, was swept by DeMars, 6-0, 6-2. DeMars is presently ranked among the top eight in the section for small schools. Scoring the team points were Ed Volkwein with a win over Laws (6-1, 6-1), Pete Zeh beating Frisk (6-3, 4-6, 6-3), Kevin Seim defeating Diskin (6-3, 6-3), and Dave Carver, who clinched the trophy with a victory over Phippen (6-1, 6-3).

On Thursday at Burnt Hills against Maple Hill in the semi-finals, the second-seeded Blackbirds defeated virtually the same team that took the Sectional title last season. In the first round, Maple Hill blanked Corinth, 4-0. While breezing to the victory, the Voorheesville netters didn't lose a set. Saez topped Ormiston (6-3, 6-3), Zeh swept Gersham (6-2, 6-4), Seim defeated Leonard (6-4, 6-2), Volkwein nipped Roe (6-4, 7-5), and Carver scuttled Jensis (6-2, 6-1). The

Soccer camp at BCHS

A special brand of soccer "know-how" will be offered to youngsters and adults at the BCHS fields during the week of Aug. 15 - 20.

North American Soccer Camps, Inc., with its English Football Association-licensed English coaches, augmented by American coaches licensed by the U.S. Soccer Federation, will bring its camp program to local youngsters, their coaches and parents.

Youthful soccer players age 6 to 18 will be trained each morning during the week and evaluated either individually or by team.

Any soccer team, club or individual player wishing to sign up for the camp program may write to North American Soccer Camps, 17 Brewster Dr., Gales Ferry, Ct. 06335 or contact the Bethlehem Soccer Club at 40 Gladwish Rd., Delmar, 439-7471.

tournament proved to be unpredictable as the top seeded team fell early.

"Up until the Class C tournament, I suspected we had the best team we've ever had, but I could never prove it since we dominated every team in our league except Academy," stated Voorheesville Coach Tom Kurkjian on Saturday. "Now I know." In addition, Kurkjian said the two days of tennis were "satisfying and unbelievable." Voorheesville's strength prevailed as neither match went as far as the doubles.

Earlier in the week on Tuesday, an unscheduled match was held against Cohoes with the Blackbirds tallying a 6-1 victory. Registering singles wins were Saez (6-3, 7-5), Volkwein (6-2, 6-3), Zeh (3-6, 6-2, 6-1), Seim (6-1, 6-2), and Rick Lennox (6-1, 6-2). In the doubles, Volkwein and Zeh prevailed 8-6 while Seim and Brian McKenna suffered a close 9-8 loss.

Representing Voorheesville and the Colonial Council at the individual Sectionals, which were scheduled to be played yesterday (Tuesday) at SUNY, were Saez in the singles and the doubles combinations of Volkwein-Zeh and Seim-Carver. Saez was slated to meet Shenendehowa's five-year varsity veteran, Dave Marra, in the first round. Marra, the top seed at the tourney and the top area high school player, is ranked No. 17 by the Eastern Tennis Association in the scholastic boys division. Volkwein-Zeh were to meet an Albany High duo while Seim-Carver were set to battle a pair from Corinth.

Outrageous theft

Editor, The Spotlight:

Someone took the big brown jug from my front porch. I have notified the police.

Of course it has value. It is very large, brown, with a distinctive mark on the front. However, its value to me is irreplaceable. My father brought it to me from my hometown, and I have had it the front door of every house we have lived in for more than 30 years.

I am outraged that it was stolen in Delmar.

Still more on the police

Editor, The Spotlight:

The recent letters from Phyllis Braga and others on incidents of police citation for traffic and parking infractions prompts at least one more response.

In our community we should be getting excellent police services since we pay enough for them. This means, or should, a high degree of sensitivity and discretion on the part of our police officers. We do not want or need thoughtless "cowboy" types. These are good jobs and should be filled carefully. Reader response to the Spotlight should continue to indicate whether or not we have the type of force needed in the community.

The real reason for my writing concerns Mrs. Braga's praise for Judge Roger Fritts. A thousand cheers! It is a blessed community that has Fritts for a judge! We are fortunate to have a man with a good sense of humor, balance, judgement and discretion on our bench.

William J. Acquario

Bethlehem 'dig'

Editor, The Spotlight:

Because we're a new group and need the Spotlight's help, we are especially grateful for the two stories you published this past year about our work. Reporters Allison Bennett and Caroline Terenzini were especially thorough and photographs by Tom Howes and Tom McPheeters added to reader interest in our Nicoll-Sill project.

There is a general feeling among many people I meet in the community that the Spotlight's new format, excellent news and feature stories and photographs have made it the paper to read first in this area.

At divorce conference

Three local residents will address a conference on divorce mediation to be held at Skidmore College on Thursday, June 2. Child psychiatrists Dr. Zvi Klopoff of Delmar and Mary Ann Schaet, ACSW, of Voorheesville speak on mental health issues and how mediation can lessen anxiety and depression in the divorcing couple and their children. Tony Gordon, a Delmar CPA, will explain the tax consequences that result from divorce.

The conference is for professionals who work with couples about to split. For information, call 465-8183.

Robin Welge

Welge-Young

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Welge, Jr. of Birchwood Dr., Schenectady, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Robin Elizabeth, to Jeffrey Alan Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson D. Young of Delmar.

Miss Welge has a BS degree in physical education from the State University College at Cortland and is director of the Nautilus Program at the Albany YMCA.

Her fiancé holds a BS degree in physical education from Springfield College and a master's degree in health education from Russell Sage College. He is a health and physical education teacher at Columbia High School.

The wedding is planned for July 30.

Money for summer

The Tawasentha Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has some money to give away to make this summer a richer experience for three Bethlehem youngsters.

The Lt. Henry Klein-Tawasentha Chapter Memorial Fund was established as a memorial to the first Bethlehem serviceman killed in the Vietnam War, and last year some $400 was available from the trust. Any town resident 18 or younger may apply for money to assist in a summer project that could include a special project, lessons or even summer camp. There are no income limits.

Applications to the fund are available at Bethlehem Central High School, the Bethlehem Public Library and at St. Thomas School.

Flapjack time

The Bethlehem Sportman's Club will be in the kitchen preparing its annual pancake breakfast on Sunday, June 12, at the clubhouse on Dunbar Hollow Road, Clarksville. Breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tickets are $3.75 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Mrs. Lawrence G. Armstrong

Amy Balk bride

Amy Virginia Balk, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Walter L. Balk of Hurst Rd., New Scotland, became the bride of Laurence Grant Armstrong of Indianapolis, Ind., on May 7 at the Episcopal Church of St. Boniface, Guilderland. Rev. Alfred N. Tuttle performed the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. James Armstrong and Leena-Maija Armstrong of Indianapolis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Christianne Balk-Walser of Iowa City, Iowa, matron of honor, and Mrs. Kathleen Longtin Frisbee, bridesmaid. George DeVoe of Indianapolis was best man. Ushers were Dr. Thomas Armstrong and Nicholas Armstrong, brothers of the bridegroom, and Peter Butler of Woodridge, Ill.

A reception at the Beresford Farms, Delanson, followed the ceremony. The couple had a wedding trip to Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and are making their home in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mrs. Armstrong is a graduate of Voorheesville High School and Earlham College, Richmond, Ind. She is a graduate student in social work at the University of Southern California. Her husband is a graduate of Earlham College and is attending Southern California Institute of Architecture, Santa Monica.

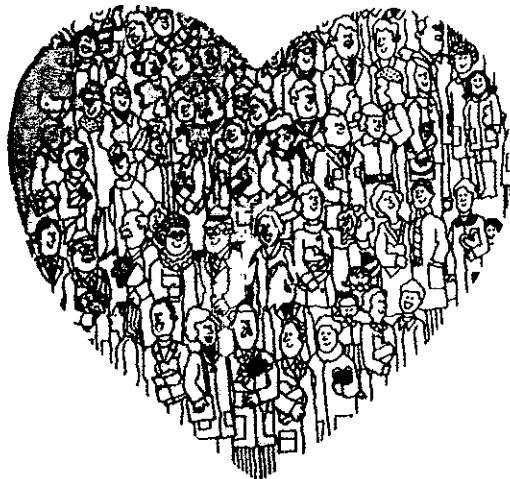

Bonsai on exhibit

The two-day display will be a "small" one. That's because the classical Japanese art of bonsai is a living art that grows miniature trees, some only a few inches tall. The Hudson-Mohawk Bonsai Society is sponsoring the exhibit on Saturday and Sunday, June 4 and 5, at the Albany County Cooperative Extension on Martin Rd. in Voorheesville. The show is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1.

The Bonsai Society meets on the fourth Sunday of each month at the Cooperative Extension building.
