RCS settles contract dispute

By Patricia Mitchell

After 18 months of negotiating, the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District and its teachers union have come to an agreement.

The tentative agreement, reached at 3:30 a.m. last Wednesday after an eight-hour bargaining session, includes increases for salary and dental insurance, and decreases for non-instructional duties for elementary school teachers, said Donald Prockup, president of the RCS Teachers Association (RCSTA).

"I have good feelings. It is a fair deal," Prockup said. "It took compromising on all sides.

"I am just very pleased that it is over," said Superintendent William Schwartz. The memorandum of agreement came on the eve of the former assistant superintendent's assumption of his new duties yesterday (Tuesday).

Neither side would disclose the terms of the agreement. The district had been offering a nine percent pay increase, and the teachers had been asking for 12 percent.

The district and the union did not get all the items they had hoped for, Prockup said. A lot of items originally on the bargaining table remained at a status quo to enable the compromise agreement, he said. Prockup said he was optimistic for the contract's approval by the teachers union.

"We think this package turns the corner," Prockup said. In a few years, the district could be on par with other school districts in the area, he added.

The proposed three-year contract will be in effect until July, 1988. The teachers have been without a contract since July 1, 1985.

The bargaining session ended 18 months of negotiations that had turned into a struggle between the district and the union. In recent months, the union picketed outside school board meetings with support from teachers from more than 25 districts and other union members, and authorized Prockup to call for a strike vote if necessary.

Schwartz said the district can now devote all its energy to the business of education with "gusto."

Prockup planned to meet with the teachers Friday to explain the details of the agreement. Because it was the last day of the school year, copies of the agreement were due to be mailed out to the

Repeal mining use, planners advise

By Patricia Mitchell

Hoping to get a "little breathing time," the New Scotland Planning Board has recommended that the town repeal the use of mining in industrial or low density residential zones.

However, Planning Board Chairman Richard Stickley said the action will have no bearing on the mining permit of Voorheesville Sand and Stone for William Larned and Sons to mine about 27 acres of the former Tall Timbers Country Club off Hilton Rd.

Mining is allowed only with a special use permit by the planning board. The recommendation to repeal the special use has been forwarded to the town board and may appear on its agenda tonight (Wednesday) for discussion.

If approved by the town board, a public public hearing would be required.

"We cannot interfere with Voorheesville Sand and Stone's application," Stickley said. "He is in the mill. We cannot stop him from a proper hearing under due process... What I want is breathing time."

The Larned permit has been controversial in the town since it was proposed early last year. The permit prompted a joint meeting of the planning board and the town board in January to consider repealing the special uses of the removal of fill, gravel or loam in low density residential or industrial zones. Stickley said the boards decided to hold off on any recommendation until Larned and Sons had started their public hearing.

The public hearing held on Tuesday, May 27, in front of a audience of over 400, was adjourned after four hours with plans to continue at a future date. The permit, Stickley said, will have to be acted on.

The proposal to take action on the special uses came from board attorney Fred Edmunds, and was approved unanimously by the planning board. Stickley and Edmunds both said they did not know if the zoning in the area may be changed.

Updated in 1981, the original zoning of industrial and low density residential dates back to 1961 when the Delaware & Hudson Railroad was used more frequently. Stickley said the

Beth Ammerma awarded Panhellenic scholarship

Beth K. Ammerma, an honor student at Bethlehem Central High School, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship by the Panhellenic Association at their annual picnic on June 10.

Other recipients of scholarships were Lara Jan Descartes of Berne-Knox High School and Lynne Hudson of Maple Hill High School.

Ammerma is a Regent's scholar and a National Merit Finalist. She will attend Vassar College in the fall. Aside from working part-time, Ammerma was active in the Key Club, Drama Club, and Student Council. She was also an usher at the Albany Symphony and participated in a literary tour of England.

Since 1963, 49 scholarships have been awarded to graduating seniors from various high schools. Panhellenic, a national organization of collegiate sorority women, is dedicated to encourage academic interests at the college level.

Board sets public hearing

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals has set Wednesday, July 16, at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on renovations at the Petrol Station on Rt. 9W in Glenmont.

Applicants Paul Nelson and Joseph Painter have applied for a special use permit at their station to relocate their service islands and use gasoline storage tanks in excess of 15,000 gallons on the premises.

The board also rescheduled an informal meeting for 8 p.m., Wednesday, July 2, with William and Dorothy Whan on their application for extension of a third variance allowing a third unit in their house at 400 Delaware Ave. The Whans occupy one unit, their son the second, and an elderly woman the third. The board has denied the variance, which the Whans have said would mean that the elderly woman would have to move, but has indicated that it would like to resolve the issue.

At its meeting Wednesday, the board formally granted a variance of percentage of lot occupancy to Bruce and Laurie Hawley at 60 Fernbank Ave., Delmar, for the construction of an adjoining screened porch. The board also formally granted a variance of percentage of lot occupancy to Philip Kahn at 210 Winnie Rd., Delmar, for the construction of a family room.

The board denied a variance to Lee and Rozanne Landers at 5 Herber Ave., Delmar, for the construction of a six-foot fence in their back yard. The board said the application did not show hardship.

A public hearing on the application of Robert S. Flanigan received some opposition from

Early retirement program leaves BC 55 positions to fill

Bethlehem Central's early retirement program, which ended June 30, has just about doubled the usual turnover of teachers in the district, and should have the intended effect of saving the district nearly $170,000 over seven years, according to Assistant Superintendent Briggs McAndrews.

But, said McAndrews, the program shouldn't have any impact on the quality of teaching in the district. "We've gotten very good candidates," he said Friday. The district has completed hiring all but eight or nine of the 55 teachers needed for the coming year, he said.

The early retirement program gives district employees the option of three extra years of credit toward their pension if they retire during a specified period. McAndrews said he originally estimated 23 instructional personnel would take advantage of the program; and that the savings would be roughly $170,000 over the seven-year period during which the district will contribute additional amounts to the retiree's pension fund.

In fact, 21 instructional personnel took early retirement, as well as 19 non-instructional personnel. The difference in salary between the retiring personnel and their replacements is $33,900 and $22,700, McAndrews said, and the savings should be slightly less than the $170,000 originally estimated.

The early retirement program, made possible by a change in the state law, sparked some disagreement on the Bethlehem Central School Board, with board member Charles Reeves questioning whether there would in fact be savings if all the positions were filled, and wondering also if the district would lose quality when experienced teachers retired.

McAndrews said the district has 55 instructional positions to fill, just about double the usual number. These include new positions as well as positions opened by retirements or resignations.

At its June 18 meeting, the school board approved 12 teaching appointments. The board appointed Susan Campbell as a part-time art teacher, Sonya Loomba Del Peral as a part-time language teacher, Patricia Grady as an elementary teacher at Glenmont School, Barbara Muller as a language teacher at the middle school, Lisa Mendel-Finkle as a part-time kindergarten teacher at Glenmont, Elizabeth Thatcher as a language teacher at the middle school, Nancy Jean Smith as librarian at Elmsmere and Clarksville schools, Paul Jones as a permanent substitute at the high school, Lynn Haloburdo as a math teacher at the high school, James Nehring as a social studies teacher at the high school, Peggy Lyn O'Rourke as a social studies teacher at the high school and Herman Brown as a part-time social studies teacher at the high school.

McAndrews said he would ask the board to approve 10 to 12 more teaching appointments at its meeting tonight (Wednesday), leaving eight or nine slots still to be filled before school starts.

HELDERLEDGE

F A R M

Board tables traffic study request

Delmar's last frontier, the hilly, wooded land along the Normanskill near McCormick Rd. and northwest of North St., is ripe for development, and town officials are alarmed.

If all of the units now proposed or in the planning stages are built, Bethlehem is faced with serious traffic problems. Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor warned the town board last week.

Secor was relaying the planning board's request for funds to hire Vollmer Associates, an engineering firm that last year conducted a town-wide traffic study, to do an in-depth study of the area. The town needs to find alternatives to putting more traffic on either Cherry Ave. or Hudson Ave., both of which already have serious problems, he said.

"This is probably the most difficult area of the town," he said. "It may be that as a result of this traffic study, we'll say, 'we can't do this.'"

The planning board is currently considering a proposal for Hunter's Ridge, a total of 149 acres off McCormick Rd. that would contain 80 single family homes and 145 town house units. Several other long-dormant development proposals, including the 600-unit Lafayette-Edison project near New Scotland Rd., are expected to be revived now that the area has access to sewers.

Town board members reacted with some skepticism to the proposal for a new study, questioning on the one hand why the town should pay for it and on the other why more comprehensive planning wasn't being done.

As to the first objection, Secor said the developers are paying — from money set aside in a special fund raised by assessments on all new projects in town. The problem, he said, is that individual developers can be required to look only at their own land and here the town needs a regional approach.

Councilwoman Sue Ann Ritchko said the town should be developing a comprehensive plan for the area, noting that there are no commercial services for these new developments, or the new homes and apartments being developed on the west side of New Scotland Rd.

"Developing a plan starts with a first step — this is the first step," replied Secor.

Nevertheless, the board decided to table the request and instead hold a joint meeting with the planning board to discuss the matter "at length."

In other business, the board:

- Gave Building Inspector John Flanigan permission to approved wood decks in the Chadwick Square and Eastmount developments. Because the two developments were approved specifically with patios for each unit, Flanigan said, he is technically without authority to approve the decks — which nearly everybody wants. The board also received a request from the Chadwick Square Park Association to defer development of tot lots in the area because there are few children in the units. Again, specific approval is required because the tot lots were part of the original plans.

- Set a July 23 public hearing on a request for a stop sign on Berwick Rd. at its intersection with Devon Rd. Police Chief Paul Currie recommended the board grant the change. The board also conducted a public hearing on a proposal to change stop signs at Forest Hill Rd. and Thorndale Rd. to yield signs. Currie recommended against a request for stop signs to replace yield signs in Elm Estates and the matter was tabled.

- Appointed Jeffrey Vunch of Delmar as a probationary police officer at a salary of $15,654.

Vunch, a loss prevention investigator at Lechmeres, was selected by a panel of police officers from a civil service list of four finalists. The board also appointed Charles Rudolph Jr. as a part-time animal control officer.

- Approved new house numbers on Wemple Rd. between Feura Bush Rd. and Rt. 144, despite comments from Councilman John Geurtze on the large gaps between numbers. Flanigan said the gaps take into account the vacant land on the road. "At least the numbers will run consecutively," he said. The post office requested the change.

- Discussed the Mosher Bridge, where the state Department of Transportation recently installed one-way signals because of concern for the structural deterioration of the bridge. The DOT has also informed the town that the speed limit will be reduced to 35 m.p.h. on Rt. 396 between the bridge and Rt. 9W. Councilman John Geurtze said he is concerned because the lights at the bridge are holding up traffic so that four or five large trucks now cross at the same time — potentially more dangerous than the two-way traffic. The board agreed to write a letter to DOT. On Friday, DOT structural engineer Joe Savoie said he is aware of the situation is not concerned for the safety of the bridge.

- Set a July 23 public hearing on Highway Superintendent Martin Cross's request that through truck traffic be banned on Bender Lane from Elsmere Ave. to the Delmar Bypass, and on Rockefeller Rd. and Old Delaware Ave. (the Yellow Brick Rd.).

□ Mining use repeal

location of the tracks was the main reason for the area's zoning.

The special use of mining was permitted in only industrial and low density residential areas in May, 1984, by the town board.

"The world has changed since 1961," Stickley said.

In a related matter, Stickley said he was expecting to make a recommendation to the town board on a hydrogeologist to hire to study the area around the proposed Larned mining site.

The town board decided at last month's meeting, on request from the planning board, to hire a hydrogeologist because information requested on the ground-water and aquifers in the area had not been provided by Larned and Sons.

At the public hearing, Larned and Sons offered to set up an escrow account for use by the town to hire a geologist of its choosing to study the area. The Larneds have a similar deal with Guilderland, the site of a large Larned mine, that allows the town to draw from an escrow account for periodic inspections by a geologist of the town's choosing.

The town board, however, decided to fund the hydrogeologist on its own to be sure to get an impartial answer.

The planning board will continue the public hearing on Larned and Sons special use permit when the hydrogeologist makes a report.

"I do not expect to touch the soil mining until at least August. I want to be sure," Stickley said.

In a related matter, Concerned Citizens for the Town of New Scotland, a group of residents opposed to the proposed Larned mine, has hired Albany attorney James Linnan.

The group organized a recent gathering of over 60 residents in the Salem Hills area, and is trying to organize other meetings with interested residents.

At their Tuesday, June 24, meeting, the New Scotland Planning Board also approved two subdivisions.

The board approved a three-lot subdivision on 30 acres south of the railroad tracks on the west side of Upper Font Grove Rd. owned by Klersy Building Corp. of Delmar.

The Town of Bethlehem is presently installing new water lines along Upper Font Grove Rd., and the lots are expected to tap into those lines.

A 1200-foot road with a turn-around point in the middle to accommodate emergency vehicles was granted conceptual approval in April.

Section three of the Orchard Park subdivision with 28 units at Rts. 155 and 85A was also given the planning board's approval. As a conditional approval, however, a 20-foot buffer zone of undeveloped land must be maintained along Rt. 155.

Due to the question of the availability of water in the subdivision, the Albany County Health Dept. asked for test wells at the site.

The next meeting of the New Scotland Planning Board is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 8.

Items missing

A Huron Rd., Delmar, resident has reported that items valued at over $300 were taken from his car on Tuesday, June 24, Bethlehem Police said.

A tool box with tools, a case of soda, three quarts of wine and 15 cartons of cigarettes were taken from the vehicle between midnight and 9 a.m. that day, police said.

Beer party nets youths

Thirteen Tri-Village youths were found consuming alcohol in back of a Delmar development and returned to their parents' custodies, Bethlehem Police said.

A Longmeadow Dr. resident contacted police at about 9:30 p.m. last Wednesday, and reported there was a youth beer party going on in the woods behind the Brookfield Development, police said.

Several bottles of beer were confiscated, police said.

Suspicious actions

Bethlehem Police were notified last week of a suspicious person at the Albany Motor Inn on Rt. 9W in Glenmont, police said.

The incident came almost a month after a lone gunman made off with $300 from the inn. The gunman has not been apprehended, and police are continuing their investigation, they said.

The man, described at about 30 years old, entered the lobby of the inn at about 9 p.m. Friday, and talked briefly with the clerk. After a few minutes, the man left on foot, police said.

teachers this week, and the teachers will vote on the agreement by mail.

"We would know by the third week of July," Prockup said.

If the agreement is accepted by the teachers, Schwartz said, the school board will also have to ratify it.

Schwartz said he was also due to meet with members of the district's administration to work out how the contract will be implemented.

"It is going to be very good to start the new year in September with a new contract," Prockup said, adding that he was "exhausted" from the lengthy bargaining. "I am happy it is over. It has dominated my life for a year and a half."

Discouraged by the results of the June 12 bargaining session, the teachers requested last Wednesday's meeting at June 16 meeting of the school board. After the teachers addressed the meeting for an hour, the school board adjourned for a short executive session to schedule the session.

Hospital action delayed by legalities

A legal interpretation of state law should clear the way for the Bethlehem Planning Board to begin discussion of the proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital this week. But there are indications that a final decision on the controversial project won't come until after the state decides whether the hospital's parent company is involved in the New York City corruption scandals.

Since a well-attended public hearing held by the planning board April 15, there has been virtually no town action on the proposal to build a 96-bed private psychiatric hospital on Rt. 9W in Glenmont. Town officials have said they needed to clarify the environmental review procedure under the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA) before proceeding. Since the town board, rather than the planning board, will make the final decision on the zoning issues, which board should handle the environmental review?

At its meeting Wednesday, the town board learned it could go either way. According to Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor, state officials have made a "technical determination" that the town board should make the SEQRA decisions, but also advised that it would be "helpful" for the planning board to have that information before proceeding.

"I would prefer to table it," said Councilwoman Sue Ann Ritchko. The board agreed to send a letter to the planning board "advising them to move ahead on their recommendation."

That means the town board will handle SEQRA, but only after the planning board has made its recommendation. The town board already has a recommendation from its planning consultant, Edward Kleinke, that a full environmental impact statement is not necessary because there will be no significant impact on the surrounding area. At the public hearing, neighbors and Glenmont parents said they oppose the hospital because of its proximity to the Glenmont Elementary School.

Board members also asked about the other approval needed by the hospital, from the state Office of Mental Health (OMH), which has already given its preliminary approval. Ritchko and Councilman Scott Prothero said they want to see the state "Part II" approval before they cast their vote, and Supervisor Robert Hendrick said he has been told that Mental Health "expects to have a finding by the end of this month."

That timetable may be a bit optimistic, according to Robert Spoor, an OMH spokesman. The state's review is "running parallel" with the town's, he said. "We're in the process of reviewing the final plans." The Part II approval involves both construction plans and programs for the hospital.

As part of its review, OMH is also looking into the involvement of Nu-Med, the parent company of Hospital Group of New York, which will own the hospital, in one part of the New York City corruption scandal. In April, John McLaughlin, former president of the city's Health and Hospitals Corporation, was indicted on charges that he had received $150,000 worth of stock in Nu-Med, a California health services company.

After questions were raised in Bethlehem, the OMH asked the Manhattan District Attorney's office for more information on the case, Spoor said. "They supplied some information, and we're reviewing it and we've asked for additional information," he said. In addition, he said, the office is monitoring McLaughlin's trial, which started June 20.

Water use restrictions eased

Bethlehem has rolled back its restrictions on watering lawns and washing cars, but mid-day sprinkling is still enough to earn a ticket to town court.

As it had earlier this spring, the Bethlehem Town Board held a spirited debate Wednesday on the appropriateness of regulations governing water use. But, as Councilman John Geurtze, a Glenmont farmer, noted, there isn't much urgency in settling the issue. "It rains every other day," he observed.

"Nobody's paying much attention," agreed Supervisor Robert Hendrick.

The board increased water use restrictions during last summer's dry spell, but a combination of conservation measures and the normal winter snowfall brought the town's Vly Creek Reservoir to capacity in January. It is currently "at seasonal levels," according to Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor.

But two months ago, when Hendrick proposed loosening the restrictions, the board balked. Geurtze said it was too early to be sure the town was out of danger, while Councilwoman Sue Ann Ritchko objected to keeping any restrictions at all.

Ritchko repeated those objections last week, arguing instead for more education of the public. "It's a matter of trust," she said, adding that it is bad policy to have laws on the books that aren't enforced.

"We are enforcing it," objected Building Inspector John Flanigan. He and his inspectors hand out 10 to 12 warning tickets every week, mostly to homeowners with automatic sprinkling systems, he said. Most comply, but sterner measures are taken with the few "habituals," Flanigan said.

Secor said it is important that some restrictions remain so that the water system can maintain tank levels on hot days, ensuring adequate fire protection.

The board voted 4-1, with Ritchko dissenting, to continue to ban lawn sprinkling from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Funding, concepts mulled for center

By Lorraine C. Smith

The last day of school for area wide students, June 26, was also the first of what appears to be a summer long discussion towards the feasibility of an all-ages community center.

The meeting, announced just a few days before on the heels of owner Lee Faulkner's announcement that his Delmar Athletic Center on Delaware Ave. is for sale, was attended by some 25 residents in the Community Room of the Bethlehem Public Library.

In an attempt to decide whether or not a united effort should be towards "a building or a concept," the group raised issues concerned with purchasing and financing a center, the programming and ongoing operation of one, as well as suggestions for what should or could be there.

Although Faulkner has been considering several offers for the building, asking price $450,000, the meeting was called with the idea of the town purchasing the building, by interested groups, or with other financial arrangements so that it could become a local community center.

"How are other community centers funded?" was asked, with a quick response from the audience that this information should be obtained, although the consensus of the group, even with one estimate of $100,000 yearly costs, seemed to be that "the operating benefits can far outweigh the costs."

All ages and interests were represented at the hour-long discussion and heard Rob Illis, who chaired the meeting, discuss the suggestions offered for a community center in an area wide survey he conducted for a similar campaign two years ago.

"The most feasible choices," said Lillis of the partially completed survey, "would be the similar replies of parents and their children." Recommendations had been made from arts and crafts and dancing to a "hang out" center with ping-pong, music, day care center and indoor pool.

One problem inherent to any community center, Lillis said, would be to address the large number of survey replies that offered no suggestion for teenage activities. But any community center would probably be better than the "teen center at Delaware Plaza's woods, or the Hamagrael woods," said Marion Hartwick.

One teenager said that to be successful, the center should have "no connection with parents or school," and a current Delmar Athletic Club member explained, "I came here to try to save my racquet ball club."

Problems of the club being used as a community center raised, including parking and limited space. Solutions were raised as quickly offered, bus shuttles, movable walls.

The Spotlight publisher and Newsgraphics owner Dick Ahlstrom said he felt the "present building is ideal...for the town, its an opportunity. It's a viable solution for different age groups. Get the Chamber of Commerce involved, get community groups involved."

The Chamber of Commerce was represented at the gathering by Ken Ringler.

Teenagers Christina Ahlstrom and Leanne Frye indicated that they would return with a group of other teenagers in order to offer input of what they would like in a center.

Lillis suggested that neighborhood community groups and town leaders be invited to the next general membership meeting. At the time, he said, specialized groups should be designated. Although Lillis offered to chair the additional meeting, he said that he would not be leading the group throughout its development.

As the meeting continued, with an abundance of ideas, concepts, suggestions, problems, solutions, no clear direction or strategy was established.

Jeanette Koch, who coordinated this effort, requested that all those attending bring "a friend, bring five," to the next meeting to be held again at the library, at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 10. The meeting ended on an optimistic note, someone suggested for next time: "Be optimistic — get the bigger room."

Contacted Monday, Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick, Jr. said that he was in favor of such a center that would accommodate the seniors as well as the youths of the community. Speaking personally, since the town board has not addressed the issue, Hendrick said, he was pleased the committee was looking into the issue including alternate means of financing for such a project.

"I am not sure that the situation (Delmar Athletic Club) may be the best because of parking and other limitations... I can't see that the town can move that quickly to obtain the building, but I wouldn't rule it out," Hendrick said.

The important thing, Hendrick said, was to determine the level of interest. An estimate of operating costs in terms of staffing and heating, would also be helpful to the town. Because the town has "competing priorities," Hendrick welcomed an exploration of alternative means of financing including state or federal monies.

If the idea has "the backing of a large majority of people," Hendrick said, "this would generate town board consideration."

Students honored for service

Although graduation was their most exciting day, many members of the Class of 1986 were thrilled on June 12 when the annual senior high awards assembly was held.

Receiving some of the Memorial Awards were:

Justin Corcoran and Alissa VanZutphen who were joint recipients of the Harriet Frohlich Memorial Scholarship Award "given to a graduating senior who has proved to be mature, creative individual who is devoted to the community; friendly, tolerant and enthusiastic with an interest in cultural pursuits." Along with the honor each received $200 and a certificate. The award is named in memory of the former high school French teacher who was noted for her devotion and love of humanity.

Helderbarker publications editor Richard D'Errico was awarded both the Matt Farrell Memorial Award, given to a member of the senior class for outstanding contributions in the field of journalism and writing, as well as service to the school community, and the Howard F. Ogsbury memorial Scholarship, presented by the Noah Lodge No. 754, F&AM, in Altamont, given to a senior who is pursuing a career in the field of journalism or communications. The $500 scholarship is also based on character and citizenship.

The Marianne Sapienza Memorial Award given in memory of the former student was given to Denise Condon. The senior recipient "has exemplified some of the qualities Marianne possessed such as warmth, vitality and a genuine concern for people whose involvement had made Voorheesville a better place."

Senior Sharon Lloyd was presented with the Diana Joy and Clay John Conklin Memorial Award given each year to a senior who displays love, concern and enthusiasm towards helping others. Mrs. Conklin was a kindergarten teacher at Voorheesville who unselfishly gave of herself.

Key Club president Mary Beth Smith received the Dorothy Day Social Justice Award given by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sullivan to a senior who has demonstrated interest in discovering ways to foster world peace through social justice and has shown involvement in the community through some form of sharing talents and energies on a personal level with some person or group in need.

Davis Symula was awarded the William Carlos Williams Poetry Award given to a senior who has demonstrated excellence in writing poetry and/or essays and who has demonstrated a love of language. This award is also given by the Sullivans.

Finally, Betsy Rourke was awarded the Janis Lee Delehanty Memorial Scholarship in memory of the 1976 Voorheesville graduate by the Delehanty family. The recipient is selected on the basis of conscientiousness, achievement, effort and need.

Library schedules

Voorheesville librarian Nancy Hutchinson reminds all those who wish to participate in the summer reading clubs that they should sign up this week at the library. The fun will begin next week when area artisan Linda O'Connor will present a program of Teddy Bear Crafts. The afternoon of crafts will be held on Tuesday and Thursday for those in grade K through 3. The following week intermediate students in grades 4 through 6 will share in the fun on Tuesday, July 15, and Thursday, July 17. Both sets of programs will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the lower level of the library.

Summer story hours begin next week, as well, with story sessions being held Tuesday and Friday mornings at 10:30 a.m. beginning on July 8.

Film fun for everyone will include some "cool movies for hot afternoons" beginning on July 9 with the showing of the Mark Twain classic, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." The 77 minute movie starring Tommy Kelly and Walter Brennan will begin at 1 p.m. There is no admission charge.

For information on summer programs call 765-2791.

Library board meeting

The monthly board meeting of the Executive Committee of the Voorheesville Public Library will be held on Monday, July 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the lower level of the library. Newly elected President Edward Donohue and Vice President Jane Blessing, will conduct the monthly session.

Summer reading program

Although school may be over, students in the junior and senior high school levels of Clayton Bouton will be continuing to hit the books this summer as they fulfill the requirements of the summer reading program begun last year.

The program, which encourages students in grades 7 through 10 to read three books over the summer, is focused on fostering reading as a year round activity. Selected by a committee of science, social studies and English teachers, the books listed include selections from each area of study, according to Sherry Burgoon, chairman of the program. In the fall the books will play a part in discussions and class projects.

Already accomplished

From their participation in the latest Parents as Reading Partners program, grade school students have already discovered a love of reading.

The spring program, sponsored by the Voorheesville PTSA and entitled "I Break for Books," ended with a total of 220 students receiving buttons for having read at least 15 minutes a day for five days a week during a four-week time period.

Co-ordinated by Pam Seh and Janice Genovesi, the program included volunteers who assisted in preparing the coveted buttons. Besides Gayle Kohler's brownie troop and MaryAnn Veeder's junior Girl Scout troop, buttons were colored by Sharon Breitsch, Connie Burns, Trudy Caldon, Sue Breenberg, Ree Pakenas, Andrea Person, Carol Relyea, Cathy Schryver, Mary VanRyn and Diane Wozniak.

Both Seh and Genovesi would like to extend their thanks to all those who helped, as well as those students who read, and especially to grade school librarian Andrea Hampston, "without whom the program would not succeed."

Scoutmaster stepping down

Members of Voorheesville's Boy Scout Troop 73 recently bid farewell to Lanny Parsons who has served for several years as scoutmaster of the active local troop as he stepped down from his position due to increasing demands from his job. Filling the void will be Joe Colburn, who is well qualified to step into the position. Colburn has been a vital member of the scouting committee, assisting with every aspect of the program.

Assisting Colburn will be Ray Ginter, who has also served the troop in a leadership position for the past several years. Ginter will be accompanying scouts from the Governor Clinton Council to Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico this summer.

Although school is ending, those who were feted at the last day assembly at the grade school will long remember the thrill of the honors bestowed upon them. Named to the superintendent's honor role at the elementary school were fifth graders Michael Wood, Jim Schryver and Greg Sullivan and sixth graders Alexandra Kinnear, Kathryn Ramsey and Erin E. Sullivan, all of whom attended straight A averages for in the past school year.

Pleasant St. plans go to county

By Patricia Mitchell

The Albany County Health Dept. will be the next stop for plans on Voorheesville's proposed Pleasant St. sewer district.

Trustee Edward Donohue said at last week's village board meeting that an engineer is finalizing the district's plans, and after the county health department gives its seal of approval, a public hearing will probably be held at the middle or the end of the summer.

The Village of Voorheesville allocated $3,000 in May for the district's surveying.

"We are probably looking at September for a referendum," Donohue said. Public votes in the fall or winter generally are approved, he added.

In addition to health department approval, Donohue said additional approval is needed from the county and the state Department of Transportation for digging up the streets for pipe placement.

No date on the completion of the sewer district or its costs have been decided, Donohue said.

Preliminary plans call for another sewer line that will carry extra seepage from the septic systems to be built next to the existing sewer line. The older line will carry rain water. The sewer line will carry the waste and the water down to new leech bins in back of Village Hall and the existing leech field will be extended. All the discharge will be absorbed by the field.

The existing sewer line carries both extra seepage from Pleasant St. homes, and rain water to the back of the Village Hall. The existing field is not able to absorb it all, and it leaks into the Vly Creek.

With the new sewer line and the expansion of the leech field, all discharge will be absorbed in the field.

The village has said the cost for each of the 17 homeowners on the high side of Pleasant St. for the new sewer system will be under $350 annually.

In another sewage matter, the village board set a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 15, on regulations for the Salem Hills sewer district.

In May, the board approved a $425,000 bond for the purchase of the district after the system was purchased in February, 1985, from Rosen-Michaels, Inc.

Copies of the sewer district's regulations will be available before the public hearing at the Village Hall and the library.

The board of trustees also set 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 22, for a public hearing on the rezoning of North Main and West streets. On recommendation of the planning commission and the zoning board of appeals, the rezoning would make the area a Residential-C district from an industrial district.

Mayor Edward Clark said the area should have been set as a residential district when zoning was established, but the village wanted to protect the wetlands in the zone, and under industrial regulations, any uses in the area must be permitted by the village. All uses in the zone are now residential.

The village is still waiting on recommendation on the rezoning from the Albany County Planning Dept.

In other Voorheesville Village Board business:

• Trustee Richard Langford has donated a section of his property on Maple Ave. to the village for use as a sidewalk between the Village Green and the shop area on Maple Ave. Langford said the state Department of Transportation has recently blocked off the existing path making it difficult to get through. After surveying the area, the path will be surfaced for easier access.

• Learned that a recommendation on a bid for a new fire truck will be ready for the next meeting. Bids on the truck were expected to be opened on Friday, June 27.

• Learned that the community service committee, which is placing signs at all village entrances, has one sign finished.

The farmers' market at St. Thomas the Apostle Church in Delmar will be held on Thursday, July 3, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., this week. The market, which is usually held on Friday, has been rescheduled in observance of the Fourth of July holiday.

Stuffed toys

In addition to their many other activities, the Bethlehem Grange provides many services to the community and immediate Albany area. One such project is currently underway. Each year the grange holds a stuffed toy contest. This year's contest is backed by the PolyFil Company and requires members to create their toy using PolyFil stuffing. On the completion of the contest, after judging has taken place, the grange donates these toys to children's hospitals and the Ronald McDonald House.

Although the contest is limited to members only, the grange is inviting anyone who would like to participate to make toys that will be given along with their contribution to the children. If you do needle work of any type and would like to help, your contribution would gratefully be appreciated.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting any grange member or by calling Helen Raynor, 767-2770. Toys should be completed by the middle of August.

Flag Day service

The 25th Annual Flag Day Services of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was held June 15 at the Bethlehem Lodge in Selkirk. Guest speakers for the occasion were Town Supervisor J. Robert Henrick and Albany County Clerk Guy Paquin. The flag raising ceremony was conducted by Elks Exalted Ruler Raymond Kalendeck.

The flag, a gift to the lodge from Mrs. Alvina Houghtaling, was given in memory of her husband, Charles Houghtaling. Originally presented to the Houghtaling family by Sam Stratton, the flag once waved over the Capitol.

The days activities also included a separate flag retirement service at which old and damaged flags, collected from throughout the community are respectfully taken out of service. Students of the Year were also honored at the Flag Day Service. The teens are selected from the "Teenager of the Month" program sponsored by the Elks and chosen for their outstanding characteristics and achievements from Bethlehem Central High School and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School. "Students of the Year" are: from RCS, Stephanie Wheeler and David Brown; from BCHS, James McFerran and Cindy Ferrari.

Tips on reducing crime offered

By Lorraine C. Smith

At their monthly meeting, about 40 Chamber of Commerce members heard Bethlehem Police Chief Paul E. Currie, Sr. cite this town's low crime rate relative to surrounding areas and suggest how the town can help to reduce it even more.

The fact that Bethlehem benefits by one of the lowest crime indexes with virtually no major crime is supported by its type of community, residents' attitudes, the employment ratio and the reporting of crimes, Currie said at last Thursday's meeting.

While 60 percent of the town's incidents are considered hazardous violations, as opposed to accidents resulting in personal injuries, Currie said the force responds to 300 alarms a year with only two of these valid may prompt discussion of an alarm ordinance for the community.

BUSINESS

On teenage drinking, Currie said, "We have to work at this collectively, all of us, the school board, the business owners. We don't want to arrest people," although a homeowner can and has been charged in Albany County for permitting the consumption of alcoholic beverages by persons under age 21.

Currie recommended the forming of a task force to deal with use of the drug "crack", a derivative of cocaine. Although the drug is available in the Capital District, Currie cautioned that little is known of its effects, especially when used with other drugs such as alcohol.

"Let's attack this thing as a community," he said, "before it attacks us."

Officer John J. Corbett, Jr., of Bethlehem's Crime Prevention Unit, then cautioned the group gathered at the Normanside Country Club, not to "present burglars with opportunities.

"The town's population and businesses increase as well as the opportunities for crime," Corbett said. The town police can help businesses with its information on alarm systems and on the problem of shoplifters.

Simple techniques exist, Corbett said, to help businesses and homeowners. "We're a resource, we're part of the community."

On problem of youthful alcohol consumption, Corbett said when the "inexperienced person consumes a drug, he is not prepared for the effects." Mood changes, changes in patterns, any variations of the norm can clue an observer that someone is using drugs.

To eliminate opportunities of drug and alcohol consumption, Corbett said education is the answer. "Make them aware of what can happen. Scare? No. Educate? Yes."

Bethlehem Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick, Jr., and Ann Verardi Manning, manager of the Realty USA office, do the honors at last Tuesday's grand opening ceremonies of the branch's 163 Delaware Ave. location. The new branch is the 33rd for the realtor.

The Capital Area Community Health Plan is offering two classes in relaxation techniques for children. "Cool & Clear-Relaxation Techniques for Children Ages 5-7" and "Cool & Clear-Relaxation Techniques for Children Ages 8-10," are six-week courses beginning on Wednesday, July 9.

These classes will teach relaxation and centering techniques to help children cope with and control the tensions of everyday life and of growing up. Exercises such as yoga, concentration, guided fantasy and music, along with discussions and sharing will help improve self-concept, attentiveness, communication and interpersonal relationships.

The classes are open to both CHP members and non-CHP members. The fee is $18 for CHP members and $25 for non-members. Parents are asked to participate in some sessions. For information or to register call the Health Promotion and Educational Department at CHP, 783-3110 ext. 217.

Column inspiring

Editor, The Spotlight:

Enclosed is a copy of a very special column which you ran in The Spotlight about two years ago. Although Jeannie Peterson is no longer in Delmar (she is in seminary), the message is both ageless and inspiring to youth and adult alike. I would appreciate your printing it graduation week.

Slingerlands

The column by Jeannie Peterson follows.

"To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven." Finals and parties. Beach day and yearbook signing. Dangling tassels and an academic gown. All signal the season of transition for millions of young adults and the families from which they come.

Commencement exercises move them forward, on to and into the next dimension of experience. The ceremonial march also brings Mom and Dad to the realization that time moves — for some, too quickly and for others, much too slowly.

When the community gathers on Friday of this week, each of us will view or be a part of the same spectacle, but for each it will have a private and personal meaning. Yet, in all of it, our hope is that the teachings and examples of family, community, school and church have left this simple truth: we can each be a part of the solution rather than a part of the problem.

God's desire for us is that we understand our purpose and act in ways that help us to fulfill that purpose, whatever it may be. No one can determine another's purpose. Those who try only frustrate themselves.

As the support community for these young adults, we are called to encourage them to discover for themselves what meaning they will bring to this life. We can help them understand the importance of communication by communicating and the value of emotional intimacy by encouraging their relationships.

Above all, we may begin to let them know that decisions and "choices" are not just for the newly grown, but that each of us through adulthood is faced with opportunities to make choices every day. In other words, we can understand what each other is experiencing and therefore be of some help.

In the gift book entitled Roots and Wings, James Angell closes with these words:

Graduation may provoke thank-you expressions from seniors to their parents; "Gee, you were great through all those years of my growing up." But such thank-yous also run in the opposite direction.

Those of us who are mothers and fathers (teachers and loving friends) have our piece to speak as well. We thank you for being our children, for adding such fabulous joy and inexpressible meaning to our existences.

Sure, you were problems at times. And so were we. But you gave us what no supermarket can sell and no money can buy...you gave us important reasons to live, and you gave us love by letting us love you.

Now we pray for the brave sort of love that will let you go...that will free you to live your own lives according to your own dreams...that will enable you to become the glorious human creations life is waiting for and which date back to your own conceptions.

We release you. And pardon the tears.

God protect you.

We gave you roots and wings. You've given us roots and wings, too.

Discovered

Editor, The Spotlight:

I dissent with your spelling of "dissention" in the June 25 issue of The Spotlight. I believe the correct spelling is "dissension."

I hope I do not appear dissentious in making this point.

Discerningly yours,

Janice Harvith

Dedicated teachers

Editor, The Spotlight:

My son has just completed his first year at Bethlehem Central Middle School. It was a productive and satisfying year with many positive experiences which will have a continuing effect on his attitude toward school in the future and his attitude toward life and the wonderful opportunities to learn.

I would like to extend my appreciation to all of Jesse's teachers this year but especially to Mr. William Morrison. I was able to observe the fine rapport he has with his students, his extraordinary involvement in extra-curricular activities and his availability to students for additional help.

The Bethlehem Central School District has the distinct advantage of having teachers who are dedicated to their students and to providing quality education. I have had the opportunity to observe teachers who maintain rigorous and well-defined standards of achievement, who have developed curricula which is stimulating and challenging, and who truly enjoy their students.

As parents and as members of a community, we should all make an effort to encourage, support, and applaud our teachers — they need to know the high esteem and regard we have for them. I would like all of Jesse's former teachers at Elsmere Elementary School, and his teachers at the Middle School to know that Jesse and I appreciate their efforts and have high regard for their contributions to their students and to this community.

Mary L. Jack

Elsmere

Leadership

Editor, The Spotlight:

In rejecting what she contends is the unanimous urging of the members of the Bethlehem school board to continue as board president, Sheila Fuller complains that the board has spent too much of its time on matters secondary to the educational program. Like Mrs. Fuller, critics of the board's recent procedures and performance agree that commitment to providing the best possible educational program for our school district should be of primary importance.

Yet the community at large fails to see where, during her leadership, there has been an opportunity for the public to have any kind of discussion with the board, or contribute constructive input on curriculum, student performance, test evaluations and on the most vital issue of all, identifying weaknesses in the academic program and taking corrective action.

Where, then, was the leadership? And, with Mrs. Fuller stepping aside, where can a concerned community expect to find the leadership so badly needed.

Excellent coverage

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040 American Legion, I want to thank you for the excellent coverage of the Bethlehem Memorial Day Parade in the May 21 and 28 issues of The Spotlight.

The professional reporting by Patricia Mitchell and Lyn Stapf was well received and did much to contribute to the success of the parade.

Once again, many thanks for reporting this patriotic Memorial Day tribute.

Edmund D. Wood Jr.

Fish overworked

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of the board of directors of Tri-Village FISH I regretfully have to inform the residents of Bethlehem that as of June 30 FISH will no longer be in existence.

FISH has served the town since 1971 and the last few have been a real struggle. In 1971 there were 350 volunteers who handled 952 calls. In 1985 with 41 volunteers (25 drivers, 16 telephone people) we handled 981 calls. Over the last 15 years FISH has handled 11,250 transportation calls alone, prepared numerous meals and made many visits just to check on many of the town's elderly who live alone. We have worked through the Times Union Christmas fund to insure that many of our older citizens who exist on a fixed income received a little extra help around the holidays.

Our volunteers who are vastly overworked continue to offer service with a smile, but the time has come to ease their burden.

Sponsors wanted

The Bethlehem Channel, public access television for the Town of Bethlehem and part of the Town of New Scotland, has a variety of programs available for sponsorship by community business.

The Bethlehem Channel seeks sponsors for its programming in order to be able to purchase equipment that will improve technical quality. The channel welcomes donations of goods, services and funds. As an added benefit, some of the channel's programs are shown on other access channels, resulting in increased exposure for the sponsors.

Anyone interested in sponsoring some of The Bethlehem Channel's programs should contact Marty Cornelius at the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce.

Paper presented

George P. Kansas, son of Dr. and Mrs. Peter G. Kansas of Delmar, and a senior at Hartwick College, was one of nine Hartwick students who presented an academic paper at the Hartwick Humanities in Management Symposium at Hartwick College on April 21 and 22.

Kansas's paper was, "The Constitution: Foundation for the Survival of a Vision." Presented with two other students, the paper won a $200 first prize for its quality as a student presentation.

Tower on fire

The Elsmere Fire Company will stage a four-story tower fire at the Town of Bethlehem fire training grounds, located at the end of Center Lane, off Hoyt Avenue, on Tuesday, July 8. A major fire will be set of the bottom three stories. Fires will be extinguished by firemen on the first two floors. The department will use their 85-foot snorkel truck to aid in putting out the fire on the third floor. In addition, the firemen will rescue a hidden victim in the building during the drill.

The program, which is open to all Bethlehem residents, will begin at 7 p.m. with an explanation of the general procedures and equipment used to put out fires in the town.

For information call 439-9144.
