New Scotland woman makes personal visit to hospital

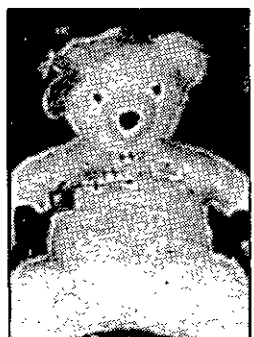

By Mel Hyman

Like the people living in Oklahoma City, Sharon Boehlke of New Scotland may never be the same.

For the past month, Boehlke has been working non-stop with Bryan Jackson, president of FM radio station WCDA (96.3) in Gunderland, to raise funds for St. Anthony's Hospital in Oklahoma City. The hospital is only two blocks from the Alfred P. Murrah federal office building, site of the worst terrorist attack in U.S. history on April 19.

Except for some damage to the exterior, the hospital managed to survive the massive explosion set off in front of the federal building, and it's a good thing it did. It was the first and closest place of refuge for those directly affected by the bombing, in which 167 people lost their lives.

Boehlke flew to Oklahoma City on Friday, April 28, to hand-deliver a check for Bryan Jackson, of WCDA, left, Steven Hunter, St. Anthony's Hospital chief executive officer, Dr. Tom Coniglione, St. Anthony's medical director, Sharon Boehlke, representing Child's Hospital and Joann Purtan of Channel 6, at a check presentation ceremony in Oklahoma City. $31,000 to hospital officials. The devastation over a five-block area was still hard to believe, she said.

"You hear about it on the news," she said, but until you actually go there you don't realize the extent of the damage — both physically and psychologically.

"That place, which is a city about the size of ours (Albany), will not have serenity for years to come, because of the psychological impact of that bombing. You could feel it the moment you got off the plane."

Almost as eye-opening for Boehlke, who works for Child's Hospital in Albany as the assistant to the chief operating officer, was the compassion and support exhibited by local residents.

About $62,000 has been raised thus far for St. Anthony's Hospital, which represents about two-thirds of the total contributed to the hospital since the incident.

But that pales in comparison to what it has cost the hospital to treat victims and relief workers connected with the tragedy. "The hospital's budget for the first day was $468,000."

The stories of generosity and support are endless, but Boehlke said a few stick

Jennings faxes 'olive branch' to Fuller

By Mel Hyman

Albany Mayor Jerry Jennings has offered an olive branch to Bethlehem Supervisor Sheila Fuller in an effort to get stalled water negotiations back on track.

In a letter faxed to Fuller's office, Jennings proposed extending the town's current contract with the city through November of this year. The current agreement between the two municipalities expires Aug. 31.

Jennings and Fuller have been at odds recently over the terms of a new long-term water agreement. With the town's new $13.9 million system scheduled to go on line in the late fall, Fuller wants a smaller amount of water — 250,000 to one million gallons per day — for a shorter period of time.

The town receives the bulk of its water from the Vly Creek reservoir, which it owns and operates in the town of New Scotland. But during

Black bear still roaming in Elsmere, Glenmont

By Mel Hyman

If you happen to see a black bear ambling through Glenmont or Elsmere, don't stop and ask if he needs directions.

While he may appear harmless, it's still a wild animal and as such can be unpredictable, according to Bethlehem Police Lt. Frederick Holligan.

There was a young male black bear on the lam locally last week. The bear was seen on at least three separate occasions in the Glenmont/Elsmere area.

The first sighting was at 10:22 p.m. Wednesday, May 10, when the bear was spotted walking along the banks of the Normanskill near the Albany city line.

The next night the bear was spotted two different times — at 11:07 p.m. in the yard of a home on East Poplar Drive in Elsmere and then about 25 minutes later along the

Becker addition adds breathing room

By Dev Tobin

For the first time in a long time, the cafeteria/auditorium of the A.W. Becker Elementary School in Selkirk is no longer tripling as a library and art classroom.

But even in the noisy cafeteria, the school's art program was better off than its music program, whose teacher went from classroom to classroom because he had no room of his own.

"We even had to cancel our winter concerts. There was no place to practice because the cafeteria was constantly in use," said first-year Principal George Montone.

"I was shocked at how crowded Becker was when I came here in the fall," he added.

After the Easter recess, teachers and pupils moved into a sparkling new addition that "enhances our educational program unbelievably," according to Montone.

NS town board revises zoning law

By Dev Tobin

In what may well be the final proposed revision to New Scotland's zoning law, the town board Friday accepted most of the planning board's recommendations, especially keeping one-acre zoning in the Residential Agricultural zone.

The town board made three adjustments to the planning board's document, then voted to present the revised document at a public hearing on Wednesday, May 31, at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Clayton A. Bouton High School on Route 85A.

The almost year-long effort to revise the zoning law to incorporate findings in the town's master plan update stirred intense controversy after an ad hoc zoning law revision committee proposed two-acre density in the RA zone.

The RA zone includes most of the town below the Helderberg escarpment, and outside the northeast quadrant and the hamlets of New Salem, Feura Bush, Clarksville and Unionville.

The planning board's report on the ad hoc committee's work restored one-acre RA zoning, and also created a new Medium Density Residential zone in the relatively flat areas of the northeast quadrant, north of the D&H railroad tracks and east of the village of Voorheesville.

Councilman Edward Donohue suggested, and the town board ultimately approved, three changes in the planning board's proposal.

The planning board had recommended continuing to allow half-acre lots if water and sewer were provided in the RA zone, and the town board modified that to three-quarter acre minimums if utilities are provided.

"This allows for controlled growth with densities appropriate to the zone," Donohue said.

The town board also modified the planning board document by reducing the MDR zone in the northeast quadrant by about a third.

Donohue noted that the board was "petitioned by a large group of people" to have more restrictive zoning in the northeast quadrant.

The new MDR zone includes 95 of the 170 lots in the proposed Tall Timbers subdivision, but Donohue said that developers could request a variance or a planned-unit-development designation for the 90 acres west of Hilton Road, which would be in the new R-2 (two-acre minimum) zone.

The town board also mandated one-acre minimum residential lot sizes in commercial and industrial zones, removing the half-acre with utilities provision recommended by the planning board.

Councilwoman Victoria Ramundo, who chaired the ad hoc committee, said she "can live with these changes, (which are) more balanced and reflect the wishes of all residents."

Councilman Scott Houghtaling, a member of the ad hoc committee, was the lone vote against the three changes, calling the planning board's report "generally acceptable as it is."

Supervisor Herb Reilly also opposed the changes, but did not attend the meeting since he was out of town attending his daughter's graduation from college.

On Monday, Reilly said that the town board's changes were "absolutely unconscionable" and were significant enough to require another review by the planning board.

Planning Board Attorney Michael Mackey, also a member of the ad hoc committee, said at the meeting that the additional planning board review was not necessary, but Town Attorney John Biscone disagreed.

Citing the language of the current zoning law, Biscone said that "every such proposed amendment or change ... shall be referred to the planning board for a report."

Unlike reviewing and reporting on the entire document, which took 60 days, the planning board's review and report on the three changes could be completed before the May 31 public hearing, Biscone said.

If the planning board's review and report is not complete by then, the public hearing should be postponed, Biscone said.

Breslin plans county fiscal reforms

By Mel Hyman

When he came into office four months ago, Albany County Executive Michael Breslin promised to cut the cost of county government by making it run more efficiently.

The Bethlehem Democrat has now revealed how he plans on going about doing it, although his Republican opponent Kenneth Ringler thinks Breslin is just capitalizing on reforms started by former GOP County Executive Michael Hcblock.

In a fiscal reform package unveiled last week, Breslin announced 18 initiatives aimed at restructuring the county's fiscal affairs from policy development to bidding procedures.

"These reforms are long overdue," Breslin said. "The benefits of increased savings and public participation will be almost immediate."

Breslin's reforms are concentrated in five areas: fiscal policy development, budgeting, cash management and financial reporting, contracting and purchasing, and independent auditing.

"Albany County is a $346 million enterprise," he said. In the past, the various fiscal arms of county operations such as the comptroller's office, the budget office and the purchasing department have "been out there on their own," according to Breslin.

"I'm not attempting to be critical of my predecessors," he continued, "but these various financial aspects have never really been integrated."

Highlights of the reform package include:

- Creating a financial policy advisory board;
- Preparing a "user-friendly" county budget that the average person can understand.
- Providing the county executive with greater flexibility to transfer funds as necessary to maintain a balanced budget.
- Developing a cash management system to keep better track of cash flows.
- Developing a county financial plan.
- Preparing quarterly public reports on the county's financial condition.
- Streamlining the purchasing process to increase accountability and directly monitor vendor performance.

• Extending requests for proposals to hundreds of times the number of vendors currently reached.

• Initiate a second round of management and productivity audits.

Only two weeks ago, Ringler announced a fiscal plan of his own in which he proposed returning a greater share of sales tax proceeds to those municipalities that have held the line on property taxes.

Instead of returning 40 percent of sales tax receipts to the villages, towns and cities, Ringler proposed returning 45 percent to the municipalities, with the county retaining 55 percent rather than 60 percent.

Comparing his own plan to Breslin's, Ringler said his reform package provided specifics on how property taxes could be reduced while Breslin's plan was a compendium of vague generalities.

In addition, Ringler said, "since January, I have not seen any initiatives come from the county executive's office that have not been started by the Hcblock administration, and this report seems like more of the same."

EnCon seeks comments on Coeymans landfill plan

The state Department of Environmental Conservation is seeking public comment about the issues that need to be addressed before a solid waste landfill can be sited in the town of Coeymans.

The regional landfill project, dubbed ANSWERS Site C-2, is proposed for the west side of the New York State Thruway, east of Pictuay Road and about one-half mile south of Thruway Exit 21A.

EnCon has received applications from the city of Albany on behalf of the ANSWERS communities for a solid waste management facility permit and water quality certification. Other approvals will also be needed from the state Department of Transportation, the federal U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and possibly the town of Coeymans.

EnCon has determined that the proposed activity might have a significant effect on the environment and that a draft environmental impact statement must be prepared.

"Scoping" is the process used to identify the important environmental issues to be addressed in the impact statement.

Some of the issues identified thus far include potential impacts on natural resources (wetlands, streams, wildlife and vegetation), changes to traffic patterns from the routing of trucks, noise from construction, potential air emissions from solid waste management, historic and archaeological resources, equipment and vehicle operation and the impact on farmland.

A copy of the draft scope of issues is available for review at the EnCon Region IV office at 1150 North Wescott Road in Schenectady, the Coeymans town clerk's office on Russell Avenue in Ravena and the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Community Library at 106 Main St. in Ravena.

Comments about pertinent issues to be considered in the impact statement will be accepted through June 12 by writing to Robert L. Ewing, Environmental Analyst, Regulatory Affairs, EnCon, 1150 North Wescott Road, Schenectady 12306.

On Monday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m., representatives from the city of Albany will be at RCS High School to answer questions and concerns about the landfill proposal.

Pupils' bag art prompts health first

Hamagrael Elementary School pupils and the Elsmere Grand Union are spreading the good word about health and happiness.

Through a "Brown Bag" program developed by Networks Coordinator Mona Prenoveau, the Hamagrael pupils decorated about 500 supermarket brown bags with healthy messages.

"The point is the same message needs to be said in many different ways," said Prenoveau. She said some of the children focused on "don'ts" — Don't Smoke, No Joke — while others wrote of more positive things they do to stay fit, I Like Skating with My Family.

One creative child said: We Have Better Things To Do Than Drugs.

The program evolved out of a Community Partnership task force, said Prenoveau. The Partnership works to promote a positive atmosphere for youth.

Prenoveau said some simple messages need repeating. "You have to do it over and over again, it's like teaching fractions," she said.

If you missed out on getting one of the bags that were distributed last week, there is a sampling of the pupils' work on the bulletin board of the Bethlehem Public Library. Prenoveau also said the brown bag program might be repeated at the Glenmont School in the fall.

New church must follow good neighbor policy

By Dev Tobin

Summer weekends are party time for Mosall's Grove on Schoolhouse Road, and sometimes it can get a little loud.

Milt Mosall came to last week's New Scotland planning board meeting for reassurance that his longtime business would not be affected by a proposed new First Assembly of God church around the corner on Krumkill Road.

"I sometimes have disk jockeys and it may get loud," said Mosall, adding that he tries to control the volume because "We have to be aware of our neighbors too."

Karen Moreau, attorney for the church, noted that the proposed church building is "pretty far away" from the grove, adding "The church will respect the rights of people who are already there."

Most of the grove's business is on weekend afternoons and evenings, Mosall noted, so the only possible conflict would be with the church's Sunday evening service.

Mosall was also concerned about the effect of a church on the grove's beer license, particularly in the event that he decides to sell or lease the business.

Mosall explained that new applicants for a beer license are asked whether their facility is 500 feet from a church or school, but the question is not asked for license renewal.

The board approved a special use permit for the First Assembly of God, which has outgrown its Albany facility.

The church has not yet filed for site plan approval, since it does not intend to build in this construction season.

If the church is approved and built on the Krumkill Road site, Board Chairman Robert Stapf said, "We're not going to entertain a complaint that (the grove) is too noisy."

Building Inspector Paul Cantlin noted that the Albany County Planning Board had expressed some reservations about the special use because Krumkill Road is becoming "overburdened with commuter and recreational traffic, and 200 more cars on Sunday may be a concern."

In other business, the board approved a lighted sign for a new country store at Olsen's Nursery & Greenhouses on Route 85.

Owner James Olsen said that he will begin work shortly on the project, taking down the old building in front and adapting the newer pole barn structure for the store.

He estimated that the new store will be open by Sept. 1.

The board also approved a new propane refilling tank for Steve Crooks' repair shop on Route 443 in Clarksville.

The board required that four concrete-filled pipes be placed around the tank to prevent a vehicle from hitting it.

"I saw one of these go up, that's why I'm asking" for the additional protection, Stapf said.

Church schedules roast beef supper Saturday, May 20

The New Scotland Presbyterian Church is planning a roast beef supper on Saturday, May 20, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the church on 2010 New Scotland Road.

The menu consists of tomato juice, roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, buttered carrots, corn, green bean salad, rolls and beverages. Assorted homemade pies will also be served.

The cost is $8 for adults and $3.50 for children under 12.

Reservations are not required. For information, call the church at 439-6454.

Senior services says thanks to volunteers

Bethlehem's Senior Volunteer Program began as part of the town's program for the aging.

The Bethlehem Senior Services Department's purpose is primarily to provide volunteer service to the elderly of the community. The program also provides a second career and home away from home to its volunteers.

The senior volunteer program is an integral part of the Senior Services office. The staff consists of director, coordinator of volunteers and programs, outreach worker and clerical staff. Volunteers report directly to any of the paid staff, depending on their assignment, coordination, motivation, recruitment and programs. The average age of volunteers in the program is 65.

The program at times branches off from service to the elderly and encompasses a broader base of community service, providing volunteers for work on specific projects for other town organizations.

Programs, called special projects, involve senior citizen volunteers with agencies such as the chamber of commerce, police department, the Bethlehem Central School District and other municipal departments such as planning, public affairs and public works.

Volunteer jobs vary. Volunteers are matched with their abilities and job preferences. As the elderly population increases within the town, so has the need for services. The program has grown to meet and match the needs for service to the elderly within the community.

By stressing "seniors helping seniors," many recently retired individuals have joined the growing numbers of volunteers performing community service. During 1994, 353 volunteers donated a total of 12,005 hours.

Volunteer opportunities

- Bethlehem Food Pantry — Volunteers sort canned goods on a weekly basis and then store them in the food pantry located in the Senior Services office.

- Bethlehem Report — Volunteers affix address labels to the Bethlehem Report on a quarterly basis.

- Bethlehem senior transportation services — Volunteers provide transportation services on a prearranged basis for seniors age 60 and older and living independently. Volunteers are required to complete in-service training on vehicles.

- Bethlehem senior transportation services reservations clerks — Volunteers answer telephone calls from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., scheduling transportation for senior citizens.

- Bike Day — Volunteers assist the Bethlehem Police Department and Parks and Recreation Department personnel one day during the month of May with bicycle registrations.

- Blood pressure screenings — Volunteers provide clerical skills for registration, and trained medical professional volunteers provide the blood pressure readings for other seniors.

- Commodity distribution (holiday baskets) — Volunteers assist staff with the collection and sorting of canned goods, as well as

- Community mailings — Volunteers assist with addressing, stuffing and sealing envelopes for town agencies.

- Friendly calling — Volunteers provide homebound people with a telephone call on a regular weekly basis to establish rapport and security.

- HEAP — Volunteers are trained to assist individuals with HEAP forms.

- Hearing screenings — Trained audiologists administer hearing screenings and clerical volunteers sign in registrants.

- Income tax assistance — AARP volunteers trained by the IRS help seniors accurately fill out their income tax forms.

- Meals on Wheels — Volunteers deliver two meals a day (hot lunch and cold dinner) between 11 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday, to the homebound.

- Tuesday meals — Volunteers serve food, clean up, set tables, provide entertainment and join the group for lunch and socialization.

- Monday meals — Volunteers serve food, clean up, set tables, provide entertainment.

- Outreach volunteer assistants — Volunteers assist the outreach worker as requested.

- Project volunteers — Volunteers perform a variety of short term tasks.

'Charley' opens May 18 at Holy Names

The Village Stage presents Where's Charley? this weekend in the troupe's new home at the Academy of the Holy Names, 1075 New Scotland Ave. in Albany.

Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 18, 19 and 20, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 21.

The May 18 performance is a benefit for Holy Names.

Tickets are $9 and $7 for students. The performances will be staged in the campus arts center auditorium. Senior citizens are invited to a free dress rehearsal performance on Wednesday, May 17, at 8 p.m.

Former Bethlehem Central High School teacher Tom Watthews is directing the production with a cast "born and bred in Bethlehem," said Leo Schoos, who is handling publicity.

Where's Charley?, with words and music by Frank Loesser, was revived on Broadway in 1948 starring Ray Bolger as Charley.

In the Village Stage production, Frank Leavitt (who directed Cinderella at Bethlehem Central Middle School this year) plays Charley.

Other cast members include: Bill Baetz, Deneige Barlow, Holly Wilkie, Dick Hart, Mike Edwards, Nelly Brown-Bunk and Ron Rivers.

Editorials

Like death and taxes, accumulations of trash and garbage are inevitable. As the population increases, the amount of things we no longer want or need increases, too. At the same time, there are fewer and fewer places where solid waste can be dumped.

Local dumps have been closed by the state, but the state has offered no solution to waste disposal. Even with recycling there is a need to dispose of large amounts of solid waste.

In our area, 14 municipalities have formed ANSWERS, a solid waste consortium. Its members are Albany, Bethlehem, New Scotland, Altamont, Berne, Cohoes, Green Island, Guilderland, Knox, Rensselaerville, Watervliet, Westerlo, Rensselaer and Schenectady.

Currently, ANSWERS members' solid waste is being dumped in Albany's Rapp Road landfill. However, it's estimated that the landfill can be used for only two more years. In the meantime, the city of Albany is thinking of opening a dump site in Coeymans for ANSWERS refuse when the Rapp Road site is closed.

But Coeymans doesn't want ANSWERS solid waste. The Coalition of Concerned Citizens, a group of Coeymans, Selkirk, and Ravena residents, is actively opposed to the dump's location there. Coeymans, in fact, is willing to go to court about the matter and has instituted a lawsuit. If it's successful, the members of the consortium, including Bethlehem, will have no place for solid waste in two years.

There are several possible solutions to the problem. For instance, ANSWERS waste could be trucked to Massachusetts or to Hudson Falls, but the cost of disposal would go up. Would a new incinerator in Green Island serve area needs?

Time is almost up. Because of the closing of the Rapp Road landfill, the need to prepare a new site, and the other matters which must be taken care of before dumping waste can commence, decisions must be made soon.

The obvious solution to the problem is to use the 363-acre Coeymans site. But is that the best solution?

No couch potatoes

Volunteerism is alive and well in Bethlehem. In 1994, 353 volunteers, seniors themselves, spent 12,005 hours helping in the Senior Volunteer Program.

The primary purpose of the program is to provide services to the elderly in Bethlehem.

Included among the many services are transportation, blood pressure and hearing screenings, Meals on Wheels and income tax assistance.

In this "seniors helping seniors" program, both the elderly and the volunteers benefit. The program provides the volunteers, many of whom have recently retired, with a productive "second career" and the good feeling that they're doing something worthwhile for others.

Hats off to the important and successful Senior Volunteer Program and the volunteers in this helping service.

Buckle Up America!

We can't repeat those three words too often. As suggested in this week's Point of View, please use the belts and shoulder straps in your vehicle, restrain yourself and your children. Save your face, save your health and save your life.

The week of May 22-26 is Buckle Up America! week.

Let's make sure we buckle up every time we get into our vehicles, especially with family and friends.

And remember, it's just as important to buckle up in the back seat as it is in the front seat.

The lesson of countless accident scenes? Seat belts really do save lives

A little restraint goes a long way

The writer of this Point of View is chairman of Bethlehem's traffic safety committee and a member of the town's police department.

By Lt. Richard L. Vanderbilt

As a Police Officer of nearly 21 years, I was convinced of the value of wearing seat belts long before New York state passed laws requiring their use.

All too often we see sad news regarding the horrible death of a person who was not wearing a seat belt and was seriously injured or killed in an automobile crash. These tragic reports prompt me to point out the urgent need for seat belt compliance.

In the preponderance of motor vehicle crashes where serious injury or death occur, the seat belt or child restraint has not been used or has been improperly used. A large number of crashes leave the passenger compartment of vehicles intact and thus those who remain in their seating area stand a much greater chance of escaping serious injury.

Currently, New York state law requires children under 4 to be restrained in a federally approved child seat regardless of their position in the vehicle. Children under 10 years of age must be restrained by a seat belt anywhere in the vehicle. All passengers in the front seat of a vehicle must be restrained by a seat belt except children under 4 years of age, who again must be in a child restraint.

Curiously, and unfortunately, New York state law does not address the restraining of our children age 10 and older, unless in the front seat. As a parent, my love and concern for the safety of my children will certainly not diminish after they pass that state-imposed threshold of age 10.

Point of View

We should all remember that the forces of our bodies moving in a vehicle at even 30 miles per hour are tremendous — everything in the vehicle including our bodies is traveling at the same speed.

Thus, when a crash occurs, there are at least two impacts. First: The vehicle impacts something, be it a fixed object or another vehicle. Second: Your body begins impacting the interior and then possibly things outside the vehicle. The old adage that many quote of using their arms to brace themselves or hold back children in a crash is ridiculous.

Our bodies become missiles, smashing into front seats, windshields, steering wheels and dashboards. Many are hurled through broken glass and doors that fly open and are then struck by other traffic, run over by their own vehicle or strike fixed objects such as the roadway, trees, guard rails or utility poles. As for the excuse of not wanting to be in a vehicle that may catch fire or be submerged in water: Less than one-half of 1 percent of all crashes involve either fire or submersion.

We should all remember that the forces of our bodies moving in a vehicle at even 30 miles per hour are tremendous — everything in the vehicle including our bodies is traveling at the same speed.

In 1993, out of over 257,000 crashes that occurred in New York state, only 72 involved fire or explosion and 13 involved submersion. Only one of the 1,623 fatalities was from these accidents. Even in the remote instance that this occurs, you might rather be conscious and able to get out of your belt and the vehicle.

As police officers patrol daily, they encounter many instances of non-use or improper use of seat belts and child restraints. For a seat belt to be effective, it must be worn as designed by the vehicle manufacturer. This means wearing both the lap belt and shoulder strap.

Many people complain of the shoulder strap's rubbing their neck and use this as an excuse for placing it behind them or under their arm. This practice is both dangerous and noncompliant with determinations of the Department of Motor Vehicles Council.

Several years ago, our police department investigated an accident where the wearing of the shoulder strap under the arm most likely was a contributing factor in the death of the operator from the bursting of the spleen. The area under the arm, unlike your shoulder, has no structural bone to support your weight against the strap in a crash, thus making internal injury likely. If your shoulder strap positioning is a real comfort issue, many auto parts stores sell clips and pads that either adjust the positioning of the strap or pad it.

Also a concern is the false security of persons who drive vehicles with shoulder straps that automatically go into place. You MUST also manually strap your lap belt to be legal and safe! For your child's seat to be effective, it must first be fastened correctly and tightly into your vehicle. You must then secure your child according to the manufacturer's directions. Even if your vehicle is equipped with airbags, you must still use your seat belts.

Another common improper use of seat belts relates to the tension of belts. Some types of belts, most commonly those found in the center position of the vehicle, require the passenger to tighten the belt. The belt must be tightened snugly in order to provide the protection desired. Other belts with spring loaded reels should have the slack wound in so that a slight pressure

Residents resigned to inevitability of Fisher Hollow development

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Tuesday, April 18, the town planning board gave preliminary plat approval to the proposed Fisher Hollow subdivision. The granting of preliminary plat approval culminated a process which began last summer. Unfortunately, it left most of the residents who live in the area adjacent to the proposed subdivision and who will be most directly impacted by this development, disillusioned and angry over the actions taken by the planning board.

Briefly, by way of background, the Fisher Hollow subdivision is proposed on an approximately 33-acre parcel of land off Fisher Boulevard near New Scotland Road. As might be expected, the proposed loss to residential development of another one of the more scenic rural areas of the town upset many town residents, including those of us on Daniel Street and Caldwell Boulevard who live closest to the proposed subdivision.

Nonetheless, I believe it is fair to say that the Caldwell Boulevard and Daniel Street residents were resigned to the inevitability of development and willing to accept development in character with the surrounding areas and done in a manner which minimized the development impacts, primarily from additional traffic, on their homes.

With respect to traffic impact, the Planning Board had the developer present a number of alternative street layouts for the proposed Fisher Hollow development at the very beginning of the subdivision review process.

The differences among the various layouts related to whether Caldwell Boulevard and/or Daniel Street would be connected to Fisher Hollow and also whether Fisher Hollow would in turn be connected to another adjacent development, Cedar Ridge.

The developer's original submission did not call for a Caldwell Boulevard connection. However, as would become painfully apparent during the subdivision review process, the members of our planning board believe that streets should be connected whenever and wherever possible.

Accordingly, the planning board directed that the developer submit for review a plan with all the connections mentioned above, as well as an additional connection from the new subdivision to Fisher Boulevard.

It is noteworthy that while the planning board took the relatively unusual step of asking the developer to submit alternative street layout proposals, the public was given no opportunity to participate in the selection of possible street layouts at this early stage of the development process.

Not until the public hearing on the preliminary plat proposal were town residents given an opportunity to express their views. At the public hearing, a number of questions and concerns were raised, by town residents. The planning board determined that the most significant were those related to traffic impact.

Letters

In response to these comments, the planning board had the developer do a traffic impact study. The traffic study analyzed the potential impacts resulting from each of the possible street alternatives mentioned above.

The study concluded that the projected levels of traffic under all of the alternatives were below the threshold for acceptable traffic volume on residential streets during peak hours under the town's draft master plan (a threshold which, I was surprised to learn, is 200 cars per hour).

The planning board relied heavily on this aspect of the study in its decision to grant preliminary plat approval to the subdivision with all street connections as proposed.

In its rush to use the traffic study to support its preference to maximize street connections, the board completely overlooked two more significant findings of the study.

First, while the traffic study did find that the amount of traffic under all alternatives would be below the acceptable volume threshold, the study also concluded that the alternative with a single connection into the new subdivision at Daniel Street and no connection at Caldwell Boulevard or to Cedar Ridge "creates the smallest traffic increase on the existing Daniel Street—Caldwell subdivision ... [and] also produces the best overall levels of service." [Emphasis added.]

Second, the traffic study also found that sight distances at the intersections of New Scotland Road with both Fisher and Caldwell boulevards were deficient and that the Caldwell intersection was the more dangerous of two. Indeed, as the planning board was advised at the public hearing, three current residents, or 10 percent of the residents living on Caldwell Boulevard and Daniel Streets, have been involved in accidents at this intersection.

Not surprisingly, the residents of Daniel Street and Caldwell Boulevard, through their participation in the public hearing, letters to the planning board and a letter to the supervisor signed by almost all residents, asked that the planning board consider, among other things, the street layout alternatives which would minimize traffic on those streets and thereby minimize the amount of traffic going to the more dangerous Caldwell-New Scotland intersection.

By approving the preliminary plat with all three street connections, the planning board ignored the concerns of the residents as well as the findings of its own traffic study. In sum, the planning board chose the alternative street layout which is most objectionable to virtually all of the residents who will be most directly impacted by the Fisher Hollow subdivision and which also is most likely to result in the greatest amount of additional traffic at the more dangerous of the two possible intersections to which traffic from the new subdivision could have been directed.

Planning board members who supported this decision will no doubt argue that the decision is consistent with accepted planning principles and with the board's own philosophy for development in the town and that the traffic study found the anticipated levels of traffic under the approved plan to be well within acceptable limits.

In my opinion, by blindly following general principles without giving due regard to the specific facts of each proposed development and by not making every effort to address legitimate concerns of residents who will be most impacted by a proposed development in order to come up with the best development plan possible, the planning board failed to make the planning process work in this case.

I recognize that in some situations governing boards must make difficult and unpopular decisions. That was not the case here. There was at least one alternative available to the planning board which would have (1) been responsive to the concerns of the residents who are most directly impacted, (2) met, at least in part, the board's objectives for street connection and (3) produced the safest possible street layout.

This alternative, a single connection at Daniel Street, was clearly identified and supported by the traffic study. There may have been other more satisfactory alternatives as well if the board had made more of an effort to look.

Let me not forget to mention that in the board's deliberations, is felt against your body. Most of this type of belt are designed with inertia locks that lock automatically.

Unfortunately, children 10 and over are not prohibited from riding in the rear deck area of a station wagon, where there are no restraints. You would only need to see the police training film showing crash dummy children riding in this area of the vehicle to change your opinion forever.

In a forward moving accident, children are thrown forward in the vehicle. In a side or rear impact accident, they are thrown through the windows and onto the hood of the striking vehicle and then fall to the ground only to be run over!

Similarly, under most circumstances, persons are allowed to Chairman Hasbrouck gave the members ample opportunity to consider both the results of the traffic study and the concerns of the Caldwell Boulevard and Daniel Street residents.

There was one member of the planning board, Jim Blendell, who did attempt to get his colleagues to consider alternatives which would have taken into account the issues raised above. Unfortunately, his efforts fell on closed minds and deaf ears.

ride in the box of a pickup truck or in the cargo area of a van. We can all imagine how dangerous this is. Several years ago, 16-year-old Kristin Cox from Delmar lost her life when she was thrown from the rear of a pickup and struck a utility pole. Just the mere fact that some forms of conduct are not illegal surely does not mean that they are safe!

The week of May 22 to 26 is National Buckle Up America Week. In conjunction with this, the Bethlehem police and many other police departments will be conducting educational programs and increasing the already stringent enforcement of the restraint laws. Please use the belts in your vehicle and restrain yourself and your children.

Matters of Opinion

Likes the way Fuller thinks

Editor, The Spotlight:

Mayor Jerry Jennings of Albany suggests to the press that Sheila Fuller and the Town of Bethlehem are bargaining in bad faith and playing games.

Sheila Fuller releases copies of the pertinent correspondence.

Mayor Jennings says maybe he was naive.

Joseph Glazer says that the town officials have been dishonest and lied about the new water system. The State Department of Health and Environmental Conservation say once more that the town was honest and the system is safe and sound.

Mr. Glazer says the decision is based on politics.

Letters

Albany has two consecutive very large residential tax increases and is facing a third. In addition their water rates go up.

Bethlehem has two consecutive residential tax decreases and our water rates go down.

I like the way Sheila Fuller thinks and the way our town government works.

Concern about town leadership

Editor, The Spotlight:

In light of the continuing flurry of literary drivel spewed forth by the myopic partisans of the Bethlehem Republican Party on the very serious water issue before this community, I am writing to reiterate my concerns about the continued failure of the existing purported "leadership" in this town properly to address valid matters of public health.

The tactics of whispered slander, fueling unfounded rumor and snide innuendos being used as a method of dealing with anyone perceived as a member of the "enemy" camp is despicable. This includes any of their "sheep" who fail to "bah" on cue.

The cabal touting itself as the controllers of the town and its residents had best ingest a sizable dose of reality and prepare to face the consequences of its acts at the polls and in other appropriate public forums.

Delmar Madeline Sheila Galvin

Emphasize the good in kids

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am writing in regard to the letters in the past two issues of The Spotlight concerning the incident at Ben & Jerry's.

I was disturbed by the letter from the "employee of a local middle school." This person described a possible scenario for the incident, based on his experiences with middle school-aged youth.

The anger between the lines appalled me. To think that someone with this much animosity toward children is employed at one of our schools is frightening.

I, too, have had a great deal of experience with the children of our community, although on a more personal level. I have three children of my own, ranging from 11 to 19 years of age.

I have done a great deal of family day care through the years. I have been involved in the school system as a volunteer and room mother. I have been a Cub Scout and Girl Scout leader for many years.

I feel that adults receive from children what they give. If a child is treated with respect and honesty, he will return that respect and honesty. I've seen my own children's reactions to various adults in their lives. If someone is kind and expects the best from them, they invariably respond positively to this person.

If a person is antagonistic or shows mistrust and disrespect, they will generally rebel against this person. This is a fact of human nature.

Perhaps we should begin to put an emphasis on the good we see in our children. Perhaps as a community we could look at our children with a little warmth and friendliness, instead of seeing them as some type of threat.

Perhaps as parents we could try to be more available to our kids and their friends, so Ben & Jerry's is not the only gathering place.

Perhaps we should all realize that these children are our future. We are all responsible for them. We can write letters to The Spotlight commenting on their crude behavior and dishonesty, and teach them to hate.

Or we can influence them to reach their fullest potential by listening to them, caring about their needs, showing them trust and respect and teaching them self-discipline and values.

The choice is ours.

Politics or water?

Editor, The Spotlight:

Am I the only one who believes that the brouhaha over Bethlehem's new aquifer and water filtration plant has a great deal more to do with politics than with water?

For more than a year, Clearwater for Bethlehem has been asking the town to separate the water system so residents won't have to drink the water from the new plant.

Now that Supervisor Sheila Fuller has announced that she has been negotiating with Albany's mayor since last summer to try to do just that, provided the City of Albany is willing to sell supplemental water to the town at a fair price, will Clearwater be happy?

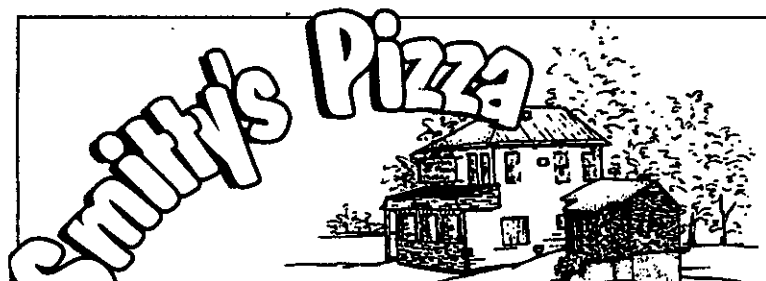

If Clearwater's real issue is drinking water, they'll say, "Thank you, Sheila," and help her try to convince Mayor Jennings to negotiate a fair deal on water.

But if Clearwater's real objective is politics, they will simply change their focus until they find some new excuses to use for attacking the water system, even after the residential water is separated.

All we have to do is read The Spotlight and see which way Clearwater goes.

Appalled at 'hate mail'

Editor, The Spotlight:

I read with great distaste the letter captioned "Teens' behavior criticized" in the April 26 issue of The Spotlight. This vile and cowardly assault on the youth of our community has filled me with anger and makes me fear for our children's well being.

It does not take a genius level IQ to realize that children are a reflection of our society as a whole. It should also not be a great surprise that with this diversity comes the full spectrum of human behavior. The absurdity of stereotyping the alleged actions of specific individuals as "the crude pack behavior so typical of young teenagers" is self-evident.

I am appalled that The Spotlight would publish "hate mail" and further compound such a mistake by hiding the author's identity. How could you allow the Letters to the Editor forum to be used to disseminate such a slanderous fabrication?

The author's self-description as "an employee in a local middle school" should sound an alarm for all parents of teenage children. The vast majority of our school employees are truly caring people interested in helping our children progress toward a rewarding future. But parents must be vigilant against the potential threat posed by one who holds our children in such low regard.

I cannot help but wonder why someone with the author's views would choose employment in our schools? An adult holding a position in our schools who so readily trivializes children's complaints of maltreatment by adults in authority is a genuine cause for concern. In my view, this individual should run, not walk, to the nearest school exit and never return.

This is "the truth unfiltered through anyone's perspective" that this person needs to know: Anyone with that outlook and attitude does not belong with children.

Memorial Day parade plans

Editor, The Spotlight:

Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post #1040, The American Legion, will sponsor the annual Memorial Day parade on Monday, May 29.

The parade will form at 10:45 a.m. on Poplar Drive, Herber Ave., and Elsmere Ave., adjoining the Legion Post and Elsmere Fire House. Step-off time will be 11:00 a.m.

The parade route will be: South on Elsmere Ave. to Bethlehem Cemetery and then west on Kenwood Ave., left on Adams Place and right on Adams Street to Delaware Avenue and Bethlehem's Memorial Park. At the park there will be a wreath laying ceremony, prayer service, final taps and playing of the national anthem to complete the memorial tribute to veterans of all wars. At the conclusion of these memorial services, the parade will disband by units and return to the American Legion Post #1040 for refreshments.

'Where's Charley': a play that's not to be missed

Editor, The Spotlight:

Let me begin by saying I am not a member of the Village Stage that is presenting "Where's Charley?" the Broadway musical by Loesser and Abbott. However, I have had the privilege of being asked on numerous occasions to play as part of the orchestra for this group. In my truly unbiased opinion, this show, under the direction of a real professional, Tom Watthews, is fantastic and by far their best. Each player is perfectly cast. Frank Leavitt, as "Charley," was absolutely born for the part. When he sings and dances to "Once in Love with Amy," I guarantee it will stop the show.

"Amy," played by Holly Wilkie, compliments Frank to a tee, while the singing and dancing of Bill Baetz ("Jack") and Deneige Barlow are nothing less than pure professional entertainment.

Couple this with a great supporting dancing and singing cast, plus (no stranger to these shows) musical director Norma Irvine and choreographers Fran Cocozza and Muriel Welch, and this show is the height of good acting, comic relief and wonderful toe-tapping songs, such as "Once in Love with Amy," "My Darling, My Darling," "New Ashmolean Band," and many other familiar songs.

Trust me! This is a very entertaining show, and I guarantee all ages will get a real treat out of this one. Show dates are Thursday (special Holy Names Academy benefit performance), Friday, and Saturday nights (at 8 p.m.), and Sunday (matinee at 2 p.m.), May 18-21, at the Holy Names Art Center.

Be forewarned. If you miss this one, you have missed the best!

ANSWERS landfill in Coeymans will cause problems

Editor, The Spotlight:

The May 3 article in The Spotlight on the proposed ANSWERS landfill in Coeymans fails to mention the serious problems that Bethlehem residents may experience if the landfill proceeds as proposed.

The targeted site is 363 acres in size (not 190 as reported) and located just south of Selkirk. Bethlehem residents who live and travel on Route 144, the only access point to the property, should expect an increase in truck traffic.

Bethlehem residents who live in the RCS school district will find that the middle and high schools are within a mile of the proposed dump.

All Bethlehem residents will be impacted by the fees associated with the proposed landfill. The City of Albany, which runs ANSWERS, views the proposed dump as a major source of revenue for the financially strapped city.

Wasn't concern over rate hikes by the City of Albany the reason

Bethlehem is developing the controversial new Hudson River water system? Why isn't similar concern being expressed about ANSWERS?

Careful scrutiny must be made of the proposal in terms of who the landfill is to serve.

Most articles, including that in The Spotlight, fail to mention that this proposal is not restricted to garbage from the ANSWERS communities, but that the trash destined for the proposed dump may come from a 100 mile radius. That is certainly a much bigger "region" than most people realize.

When you combine a region 200 miles in diameter with the revenue-generating concerns of the City of Albany you get a megadump that we don't need and should oppose.

This proposal fails to address serious waste reduction, reuse and recycling. With limited landfill space remaining, where's the effort to use that space as carefully as possible?

The article also implies that the Coeyman's landfill site was carefully selected because of its geological suitability. According to the final siting report, a willing seller and the lot size were primary criteria used in selecting the final sites.

Letters

The Coeymans Creek flows through the selected site. It is within the 100 year flood plain. Both of these characteristics are undesirable for landfills.

One final correction: Bethlehem's law banning the importation of garbage was not passed in 1992. It predates the 1989 proposal by BFI/American Ref-Fuel to build a regional garbage incinerator in Bethlehem.

The RCS senior high school band and chorus will present its spring concert on Thursday, May 16, at 7 p.m. at the high school on Route 9W. The public is welcome.

Meeting scheduled on proposed landfill

A meeting on the proposed 363-acre ANSWERS landfill in Coeymans is set for Monday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the senior high auditorium.

The proposed landfill is less than a mile from the middle and high schools.

Drama club earns kudos for Menagerie

Last week, the RCS Drama Club put on an excellent production of Tennessee Williams' The Glass Menagerie.

With Kevin Dzekiorus as Tom Wingfield, Amanda White as Amanda Wingfield, Sharon Lyons as Laura Wingfield and Rich Byers as Jim O'Connor, the students gave a stunning performance.

Director Dominick Pannone spent many hours helping the cast in rehearsals. Special thanks are also due to the theater crew: Erin Collins, lighting, and Dolan Dolan and Ian MacCallum, sound. Drama club members, Wern Schermerhorn, Andrew DeFeo, Maria Sosa, Peter Dwyer, and drama club advisers Pannone, Dale Nielsen and Dan Pickett also deserve thanks.

RCS students in honor society

In other area news, 33 students from RCS will be inducted into the National Honor Society on Friday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m.

With 30 students from the class of 1997 to be inducted, this marks the largest number of students ever to be selected from one class.

Absentee ballots available for RCS vote

Absentee ballots are now available for voting in the 1995-96 RCS budget and school board election. The vote is scheduled for Wednesday, June 7.

To vote by absentee ballot, qualified voters must meet one of the following requirements:

- They are patients in a hospital or are otherwise unable to appear at the polling place because of illness or physical disability.

- Their duties, occupation, business or studies require them to be out of town the day of the election.

- They will be on vacation outside the area that day.

- They are detained in jail awaiting action by a grand jury or awaiting trial or are confined in prison after conviction for an offense other than a felony.

To request an absentee ballot application, call the district clerk at 767-2514.

Requests must be received no more than 30 days and no less than seven days before the vote. You can also request an application in person or by mail at Clerk, Board of Education, 26 Thatcher St., Selkirk 12158.

The application must be filled out and returned to the clerk at least seven days before the election. Ballots must be received, by mail or in person, before 5 p.m., June 7, at the clerk's office.

Driver ed registration slated in June

Registration for RCS's summer driver education program will be held in the middle school lobby on Tuesday, May 30, for current seniors.

Registration for current juniors will be held Wednesday, May 31. If space is available, sophomores can register on Thursday, June 1.

Registration is on a first-come-first-served basis by grade and is open to all district residents who will be 16-years-old on or before June 30. Students must have a learner's permit before class begins.

Enrollment is limited to 64 students.

Driver education classes will begin on July 3 and continue to Aug. 15.

Registration forms are available in the high school guidance office. A $3 registration fee is payable at the time of registration.

For information, call Joseph Posillico, summer program principal, at 756-2155.

Board sets hearing on proposed budget

The RCS board of education will hold a hearing on the proposed 1995-96 budget on Tuesday, May 23, at 7 p.m. in the middle school.

Grievance Days coming up

The Bethlehem Board of Assessment Review will meet on Tuesday, May 23, from 9 a.m. to noon and 6 to 8 p.m. to hear complaints regarding 1995 property assessments.

Property owners with concerns can still meet with town assessor David Leafer and his staff, who will go over the tentative 1995 assessment roll and help people fill out grievance forms.

Leafer will be in his office at the town hall today, May 17, through Friday, May 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; on Saturday, May 20, from 8:30 a.m. to noon; and on Monday, May 22, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to meet with the public.

All grievance forms must be submitted by 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 23. The board will then go over each form, Leafer said, with the final assessment roll being completed sometime in early June.

Last year about 150 formal grievances were submitted. "I'm kind of hoping it will be no more than half that this year," Leafer said. "We'll probably get a little flurry on or right before Grievance Day, which is to be expected. But we've only received about 20 thus far."

In New Scotland, the Board of Assessment Review meets at town hall on Tuesday, May 23, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 6 to 9 p.m.

The tentative assessment roll will be available in the assessor's office at the town highway garage from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and at the town clerk's office at town hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The roll will also be open at town hall on Saturday, May 20, from 9 a.m. to noon, and on Monday, May 22, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Church slates roast beef dinner

The New Scotland Presbyterian Church on Route 85 will dish up a family style roast beef dinner on Saturday, May 20, from 4 to 7:30 p.m.

Home baked pies will be served for dessert. Dinners cost $8 for adults and $3.50 for children under age 12. For information, call the church at 439-6454.

High school concert set

The junior/senior high school music department presents a concert of instrumental music tonight, May 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

John Lopez will direct the junior high's instrumental band.

The symphonic band and wind ensemble will be under the direction of Michael Tebbano.

The junior/senior vocal concert is next Wednesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Margaret Dorgan will direct the vocal groups.

The community is invited to attend these free concerts.

Mild winter means no school

Due to an unusually mild winter, the Voorheesville school district has added two holidays to the Memorial Day weekend.

NEWS NOTES

The Voorheesville board of trustees next meeting is set for Tuesday, May 23, at 8 p.m. at the village hall on Voorheesville Avenue.

Fittizzi to command cadets

Rocky Fittizzi of Voorheesville will command the CBA Corps of Cadets at the school's Mother's Day and Graduation Review ceremony tonight, May 17, at 7 p.m.

Fittizzi will be salutatorian at CBA's graduation on May 20. He plans to attend Princeton University in the fall.

Voorheesville junior scores on math test

Voorheesville high school junior Jim Cooper's score on the American High School Math Exam and a second competitive exam have qualified him for the Upstate Math Team.

The team is sponsored by the American Regents Mathematics League.

Cooper will take part in a training session in Rochester along with four other team members from the Capital District.

The team's first competition is at Pennsylvania State University on June 2 and 3.

Elementary school PTA elects new officers

At its May meeting, the Voorheesville Elementary School PTA elected new officers for the 1995-96 school year — Nanette Bub and Nancy Austin, co-presidents; Paula Handen, second vice-president; and Linda Pasquali, treasurer.

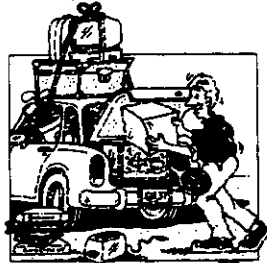

The positions of first vice-president and recording/corresponding secretary are still open. There are also openings for chairpersons of the hospitality and roller skating committees.

For information or to volunteer, contact Nanette Bub at 765-4357.

Book group explores classic works

Anyone interested in joining a Great Books Discussion Program for adults at the Bethlehem Public Library is invited to a meeting on Wednesday, May 24, at 7 p.m. in the library's board room.

The Great Books Discussion Program is a free book group that explores some of the world's timeless literature through shared inquiry, a systematic method of interpretation guided by trained lay leaders. There are no educational requirements except the desire to learn. Books will be provided at no charge by the library.

The program is sponsored by the Great Books Foundation of Chicago, a nonprofit educational organization founded in 1947. For more information, call the library or see the packet of information at the reference desk.

On Wednesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m., Albany dentist Dr. David Weinstein will present "The Smile You Deserve," a program on the newest techniques in cosmetic dentistry. Weinstein, a Delmar resident, will show slides and conduct a question-and-answer session. The program is free. Register by calling the reference desk.

The library's 12th annual Teddy Bears' Picnic is scheduled for Monday, May 22, at 10:30 a.m. This popular storytelling event for children ages 2-5 will take place outside on the green, weather permitting, or indoors if it rains. Kids should bring their bears, blankets and one-half-dozen cookies to share. The library will provide juice. Registration is required.

Come to the library to welcome spring on Tuesday, May 23, at 4 p.m. at "Ready, Set, GROW," a gardening story and activity program for school-age children. Kids will plant seeds, transplant a seedling, listen to Mary Lennox describe her Secret Garden and fix "edible dirt" for a snack. Please register.

Children ages 3-6 are invited to "Mice are Nice" to celebrate our furry little friends on Thursday, May 25, at 4 p.m. Kids can enjoy stories, poems and songs, and make a mouse puppet to take home. Please call the children's room to sign up.

All library programs are free and open to the public. Call 439-9314 for more information or to register for a program.

Voorheesville Public Library

"America's Lighthouses, Yesterday and Today" is the topic of a slide presentation by Shirley and Alfred Schadow, whose love of lighthouses has led them on a journey of discovery since the early 1970s. They have compiled an impressive data bank of information on such famous sites as the Boston Light, Portland Head, Cape Hatteras and Montauk Point, and will share it on May 23 at 7 p.m.

Prior to the lighthouse program, the Friends of the Voorheesville Library is holding a brief meeting at 6:30 p.m. with an emphasis on recruiting new members and reactivating old ones. Many hands are needed for the group's worthwhile projects.

If you are already a member, attend and sign up for a working committee. Bring your friends and neighbors who are library users and sign them up, too.

The membership fee is nominal, but the need for your participation is maximal. Friends of the Voorheesville Library offers an opportunity for library lovers to contribute to the health and well-being of this valuable resource — your community library.

The library has some super new summer non-fiction, featuring colorful gardening and outdoor books, as well as how-to's for various projects, all on display in the main reading room. Also in May are featured selections of particular interest to seniors in honor of national Older Americans Month.

The Lifestories writing group will meet Saturday, May 20, for its final session until September.

The library will be closed May 27 and 29 for Memorial Day. Plan ahead for books and videos.

Teachers can learn to identify plants

Five Rivers Environmental Education Center will present a teacher workshop on Thursday, May 25, from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

The hands-on workshop will cover basic principles of tree and wildflower identification. The natural history of many common plants will also be discussed.

For information, call Five Rivers at 475-0291.

Historical association meets Thursday

The Town of Bethlehem Historical Association's Thursday, May 18, meeting will be held at the Cedar Hill School House at 8 p.m.

The meeting will feature a talk by Lois Dillon on "Canyonlands," along with slides of her western travels. All are welcome to attend.

The association is also planning a June 15 barbecue on the school house grounds. Tickets for the event, which is being catered by the Job Corps, will be $10.

On Wednesday, June 21, the association is sponsoring a bus trip to Boscobel, a historic downstate home. Participants will leave the historical association museum at 8 a.m., stopping for lunch at the Bird and the Bottle in Cold Spring from 12:45 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The cost for the trip is $56. Reservations must be made by May 15. For information, contact Bill LaMed at 767-9057.

Delmar man chairs waterfront council

Brian P. Cullen of Delmar was recently chosen to chair the Coastal States Organization Legal Council through March 1996.

Cullen is an associate attorney with the state Department of State, where he works with the Division of Coastal Resources and Waterfront Revitalization and the Division of Human Resources.

The council is made up of delegates appointed by the governors of 35 states, commonwealths and territories which border the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and the Great Lakes.

It was established in response to an increasing amount of federal litigation concerning coastal resources. It is designed to assist in the preparation of multi-state legal arguments.

Strawberry supper on tap in Feura Bush

The Jerusalem Reformed Church in Feura Bush will serve up a strawberry supper on Saturday, May 20, at 4:30, 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

Bethlehem Recycling Corner

By Sharon Fisher, town recycling coordinator

The town of Bethlehem will hold a Household Hazardous Waste Collection on Saturday, May 20, between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the town highway garage.

The collection is open to town residents only. Residents must bring a valid New York state driver's license or a current Bethlehem tax bill as proof of residency. Please approach the garage via Elm Avenue only.

All items should be packed securely in boxes, and wastes should be left in their original containers or containers that are clearly marked as to the contents. Use newspaper or pieces of cardboard to make sure that items do not spill within boxes.

Place the boxes of waste in the trunk of your vehicle. We ask that you stay in your vehicle at all times.

You will be asked to complete a short survey while waiting in line. Proof of residency will be checked at that time and further instructions will be given. No commercial or industrial wastes are allowed.

Have you checked your latex (water based) paints? If the paint has been around for a long time it may already have hardened. Dried paint can be disposed of in the regular trash. Knock the dried paint free from the can, then remove the can's labels and recycle the empty steel container and lid in your recycling bin.

Are your aerosol cans empty? Empty cans that are attracted by a magnet can be recycled in the recycling bin.

Some common household items may have valuable uses other than disposal. Hair spray can be kept in the laundry room for the removal of ink stains. Nail polish remover can be used to remove dirt and grime from white leather sneakers. Old dried nail polish should be thrown into household trash.

Both liquid and dry medications (except chemotherapy drugs) can be safely poured down the drain with running water or flushed down the toilet, a little at a time. If in doubt about a medication, call your doctor or pharmacy.

Empty pesticide containers can be wrapped in newspaper, placed in a plastic bag and disposed of with household trash.

Smoke detectors may be either photoelectric or ionizing. The ionizing variety is radioactive and may pose a threat to human health only if large quantities have accumulated. Single smoke detectors can be safely discarded with household trash. Do not bring them to the hazardous waste program.

Dry fertilizers (no additional contents), no matter what age, are not harmful if used properly. Fertilizers and moisture can deter grubs and bugs.

As a final precaution, please re-read the town's brochure to be sure that all goes smoothly at the Household Hazardous Waste Collection. We reserve the right to refuse any material that is not deemed acceptable by the managing chemist on site.

Students' exit poll helps explain voter choices

By Dev Tobin

Not only was the turnout for this year's Bethlehem Central School District budget vote the largest in more than 20 years, but more is also known about this year's voters than ever before.

Students in the high school Participation in Government class conducted an exit poll of more than 600 voters, a random sample larger than that used for most statewide polls.

Poll-takers from the class attempted to interview every fifth voter, and, according to the final tabulation, 673 people participated and 132 chose not to.

Aside from giving students valuable hands-on experience, the exit poll "provides a good deal of very worthwhile information," said Superintendent Leslie Loomis.

Strong support for the budget, which passed by a nearly 2-1 margin, is reflected in the poll results.

Of the 673 respondents, 403 replied that the budget was "just about right," while 83 thought it was "too lean" and 141 called it "too expensive."

According to the poll, parents of children in the BC schools, although representing only about a quarter of the electorate, cast 56 percent of the votes.

The poll result confirms the election-night impression that get-out-the-vote efforts by district parent support groups had been successful.

Poll respondents ranked class size as the most important issue, followed by improved student achievement, instructional materials and equipment, technology, and cost containment.

In the total sample, The Spotlight was cited as the "most useful source in determining" how a respondent voted by 475 people (70 percent), more than for any other source.

"I've always felt The Spotlight was influential in town, and this poll confirms that," Loomis commented.

In addition to the exit poll, the district is conducting a voter analysis that will identify voters by elementary school attendance area, and compare the turnout to previous years.

When the district analysis is complete in about two weeks, Loomis said he will convene a meeting of staff, parents and community members to discuss "what sense we make of" both the analysis and the exit poll.

While the exit poll showed a majority of voters to be parents, the district analysis will be more accurate, and will include data on parents of preschool children, Loomis added.

Levine rallies to top Klersy, 6-5

By James A. Williams

A clutch double by Josh Burnett in the bottom of the sixth and final inning Saturday gave Jeffrey Levine, CFP, a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over Klersy Building, highlighting action in the third week of Major League play in Tri-Village Little League.

The score was tied 1-1 in the fifth, when Klersy added several runs on timely batting by Matt Cardamone, who hit a double and triple and scored two runs.

Levine battled back to within one run by the bottom of the sixth, when Burnett hit his double to knock in Dan Kidera and John Nowak with the winning runs.

In defeat, Mike Medvisky pitched three innings of shutout ball. He was followed on the mound by Parker Brown.

Little League

Elsewhere in the Tri-Village senior circuit, Messina and Cahill had a tough week, losing two games; the first to Howard Banner D.D.S. 5-3, on Friday, and the second to Farm Family Insurance 11-7, on Saturday.

Several Messina players hit well in the game against Farm Family. Brian Rowan and Dan Israel each stroked three singles, John Andrews hit a double and a single, and Matt Bresin clubbed two singles.

Mark Bulger went the distance on the mound for Farm Family notching seven strikeouts. Paul Wolfert led the way with the bat, banging out three doubles and a single. Bulger also had two singles.

The game against Howard Banner was a low-scoring affair with the Bannermen opening up a four-run lead in the first inning; and then scrambling to hold on as Messina and Cahill came back with three runs in the second and fourth innings. The cushion run was added by Ryan Williams who was hit by a pitch, and then managed to cross the plate because of several wild pitches.

Seth Cuzdey pitched the entire six innings for Banner, striking out nine and walking six, while giving up only one hit. Mike Hoghe and Mike Banner each hit singles — the only two hits given up by Messina pitchers John Andrews and Brian Rowan. Bresin hit the only single for Messina and Cahill.

Injuries plague Bethlehem girls

By Scott Isaacs

The Bethlehem girls softball team overcame severe injury problems to earn a split of their four games last week, bringing their record to 6-11 overall.

The Eagles were without juniors Suzy Mannella and Jeanna Belizzi, who were ill all week, and lost sophomores Meghan Dalton (shoulder problems) and Danielle Pope (sprained ankle) during the week.

The wounded Eagles started out with a solid 10-5 victory on Monday over the hapless Niskayuna Lady Warriors, who have, yet to win. The Eagles played solid defense behind Liz Waniewski, who pitched a complete game six-hitter. Meg Teresi paced the offense with two singles.

On Tuesday, May 9, the Eagles played their best all-around game of the season in a 3-1 victory over Burnt Hills. Melissa Trent was spectacular on the mound, throwing a complete game one-hitter.

The defense was again solid, not making an error for the first time this season. However, the inconsistency of the Lady Eagles resurfaced on Wednesday, May 10, as the girls suffered a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the Colonie Lady Raiders.

Teresi continued her hot streak with three hits, and Leigh Steven scored all three runs. Injuries left BC with only nine players suited up for this game, and fatigue may have played a factor in the loss. Bethlehem struggled again on Thursday, May 11, versus Mohonasen, falling 9-2. The weary Eagles were led by Marcy Ryan's RBI double and Jen Hahn's single.

"We really needed to come together as a team after losing Suzy and Jeanna, and I think we did," Dalton observed. "The Burnt Hills game was our best effort of the year. I think our play this week was better than the records show, because we played four games in a row with all the injuries."

Backhand return

Battle keys victory

The Bethlehem Babe Ruth League began its 41st year of competition with a host of games conducted this past week.

A total of 180 competitors from age 13-18 will compete in both intra-league and interleague contests. The league conducts a second summer season, a fall season and this year will host an exchange program with teams from Canada.

In reported contests in the 14-15 year old division, Farm Family jumped out to a league leading 2-0 record with wins over Owens-Corning and Good Sports. Sparked by Mark Gilmore's double and J.T. Azaceta's and Matt Elfeldt's two singles in the first game and Myles Falkenhainer's triple and single in the second game, Farm Family won 12-4 and 11-5.

Tucker Anthony, behind Sean Battle's four hits and complete game victory on the mound, split two games, beating Callanan Industries 9-7 and losing to Sorensco, 4-3.

In the 13-year-old division, Anaconda split two games with teams from North Greenbush, beating the Wynantskill Fire Department, 8-7 and losing to Culligan's, 12-4. Kirk Lamitie had two triples, and Ryan Venter two doubles and two singles for Bethlehem. Venter also struck out eight in four innings to gain the win.

Mike Carney's stellar mound performances and Ben Odell's multiple hit games propelled Davies Office Refurbishing to two victories, a 6-5 win at Central Babe Ruth and a 2-0 win against Bethlehem's Houghtaling Market.

Blackbird slugger

V'ville junior Jason Patterson takes a big cut during a recent Colonial Council game. Patterson has been a mainstay of the Blackbirds' pitching staff this year. Jonathan Getnick

Cosmos win

The Bethlehem Cosmos continued their winning streak with a 2-0 shutout of the Malta Mad Dogs at the Elm Avenue Town Park on May 7.

In the first half, Nathaniel Drake scored off a cross from Devin Breen. In the second half, Stephen Strait scored off an indirect kick touched back by Jason Hoogkamp. Ben Hager earned the shut-out with seven saves in goal.

"Despite the windy weather conditions, we played well," said coach Jeff Gonzalez. "Ben Hager did an excellent job in goal and Mike Sullivan contributed strongly defensively. I credit both of them for earning the shut-out."

The win brings the team's spring record to 2-0, coming off a big victory in the boys Under-10 Indoor Tournament in early April. "I believe it's a coach's dream to see set plays, which are taught in practice, executed during the game," Gonzalez said. "During this game, the end result was very successful, and the players should be proud of themselves."

Girls basketball camp taking applications

Girls basketball camp for youngsters in grades three through 12 will be held July 10 to 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Bethlehem Central High School.

The camp will be run by BC girls' varsity coach Kim Zornow, with the assistance of high school coaches and top area players. There will be a focus on individual skill development, as well as games. The cost is $90.

Applications are available at the BCHS athletic office, the Bethlehem Central Middle School nursing office and local elementary schools, or by calling Zornow at 439-6241 or 439-4921. The deadline for responding is June 9.

Bike racers to line up for June competitions

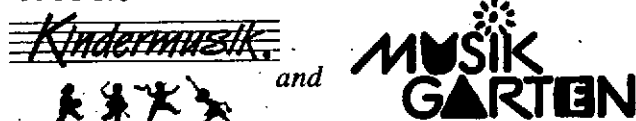

Team Superclub and the OTRCC are planning the Rural Albany Twilight series of bicycle races for Thursdays, June 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29.

The races will begin at 6 p.m., leaving from the corner of Ostrander and Stone roads in Voorheesville.

Entry fee is $8 per day, $2 for those under 18. For information, call 272-9244.

V'ville girls trounce Cohoes

By Joshua White

The Voorheesville girls softball team continued its winning ways by defeating Cohoes 16-2 to remain unbeaten in the Colonial Council race on Friday, May 12.

The first time Voorheesville and Cohoes met on the softball diamond a few weeks ago, the Lady Birds won the game 4-1, but struggled with the (5-7) Lady Tigers. This time, Voorheesville utilized their solid offensive attack to move base runners and pound out 10 hits and 16 runs.

Senior first baseman Kristin Dougherty drove in four runs on two singles and a double. Senior second baseman Cristie Arena added two singles and a double.

Larina Suker allowed five hits, while fanning five Cohoes batters.

"I thought we played well considering we didn't have a game for a week," said head coach Nadine Bassler. "I was concerned going in due to the fact Cohoes challenged us earlier in the season. The difference in the game was our hitting."

On Monday, May 8, the Lady Birds took advantage of numerous errors and walks to defeat Emma Willard, 28-1, in five innings. Voorheesville erupted with 14 runs in the first inning to secure the victory.

Junior outfielder Sara Growick, who had a key RBI single last week versus Lansingburgh, slugged a double and added three singles to continue her recent hitting onslaught. Freshman Lauren Lloyd contributed three singles.

Pitcher Kelly Griffin made the most of her second start of the season. The senior gave up one run on three hits and struck out seven batters to improve her record to 2-0.

Voorheesville will conclude its regular season schedule this week. The Lady Birds anticipate playing on Friday in a playoff game for the Colonial Council Championship.

"Our team's philosophy is the same as it was in the beginning of the season - taking one game at a time," said Bassler. "Every game this week is important because we are shooting for the number one seed for Friday."

Bethlehem nips Mohonasen

By Janice Gallagher

Bethlehem pitcher Nate Kosoc took things into his own hands last week when he tossed a three-hitter and hit two home runs in the Eagles' 3-2 victory over Mohonasen.

Kosoc struck out nine batters on his way to his seventh victory of the year. The Eagles are now 6-6 in the Suburban Council and 8-9 overall.

On Tuesday, May 3, BC finally won when Kosoc wasn't pitching when they trounced non-league opponent Ravena, 10-3.

Junior Kevin Blanchard pitched three scoreless innings giving up one hit, striking out two, and walking none. Senior Aaron Thorpe pitched two innings, and juniors John Czajka and Martin Cadieux each pitched one to combine for the win.

"Kevin pitched very well, and allowed us to overcome our psychological barrier that we couldn't win without Nate," said coach Jesse Braverman. Dan Conway and Mike DelGiaccio both had three hits, and Josh Deyoe had three hits and scored two runs. Sophomore Jelf McQuide had two hits and three RBIs.

The Eagles came into this win off a close 4-2 loss to Scotia. Two of Scotia's runs came on a questionable call by the umpire when a Scotia runner collided with infielder Nathaniel Sajdak, who was trying to catch an infield pop fly. No interference was called.

DelGiaccio pitched well against Scotia, striking out six and allowing only six hits and one earned run. Scott Isaacs had a two-run homer, while McQuide had two singles. "Mike (DelGiaccio) pitched well enough in that game to win, but our hitting let us down... That together with some bad breaks cost us the game," said Braverman.

On Wednesday, May 3, the Eagles faced Shaker away, and Kosoc was again at the plate.

Although the Eagles won 7-1, the game went down to the wire. In the top of the seventh inning, BC led 1-0 thanks to some smart playing by Sajdak. In the fifth inning he hit a suicide bunt to knock Conway in. In the seventh, he got on base again. Cadieux then doubled, Isaacs singled in two, Eric Bartoletti walked, and Chris DiMuria singled in two more.

"The Shaker players were difficult hitters to strike out, and they made the infield work more than they usually have to when Nate is pitching," said Braverman.

peak periods, from May through October, the four million gallons per day provided by the Vly Creek is not enough to meet residential demand.

"I know that their plant will not be finished by the 31st (of August)," Jennings told The Spotlight, "so I'm offering to continue the contract through November. After the election we can sit down and continue to talk about (the terms of a new contract)."

"I can see where people might see this as a political game," Jennings continued, "but I want the supervisor to know that we're sincere about reaching an agreement."

Fuller said she was pleased to see that Jennings was willing to extend the current agreement, although it does not reduce the need to keep talking about the terms of a new agreement.

"I'm in full agreement (with extending our contract), but I'd prefer to negotiate a new contract now and not leave the issue up in the air. As a public servant, I feel that I owe it to our residents to get this thing resolved."

The talks broke down recently when Jennings dismissed Fuller's offer to purchase city water at the same rate it charges its own customers — $1.66 per thousand gallons — for a six-month rather than a 12-month period.

When Jennings publicly ridiculed Bethlehem Republicans — who hold a 5-0 majority on the town board — for failing to bargain in good faith, Fuller retaliated by calling Jennings' comments "totally out of line."

At the same time, Clearwater for Bethlehem, a citizens group that opposes using the new system for drinking water, continues to press Fuller for a promise to separate out the new water so that it is used exclusively for industrial purposes.

Fuller contends that while it is possible to divert the six million gallons of water per day produced by the new plant to the industrial sector off Route 32, it is useless to talk about specifics until a new agreement is reached with Albany.

Without a supplemental water supply of one million gallons per day during peak periods, Fuller said she has no alternative but to rely on the town's new $13.9 million water system for a residential backup.

The new system, which goes on line this fall, taps an aquifer underneath the Hudson River. It has been the subject of heated debate for the past two years, with town Democrats aligning themselves with Clearwater for Bethlehem.

The water has to come from somewhere, Fuller said. And while she has no qualms about the new water supply, which has been approved and re-approved by the state Department of Health, Fuller said she is still willing to accommodate town residents concerned about the purity of the new supply.

If Albany and Bethlehem could agree on the terms of a new long-term contract for water, "We could isolate the water (from the new system) by closing a valve at the northerly end of Creble Road," she said.

As a result of the new system being in place, the option of using Albany water as a backup during periods of peak residential demand is much more feasible, according to town Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor.

The new system, based in the southern part of town off Clapper Road, "provides us with the hydraulic strength and balance" that we need to continue using Albany water.

Bear

railroad tracks behind the Grand Union.

An additional report placed the bear in the vicinity of the Taste Freeze off Delaware Avenue.

Holligan speculated that the Bethlehem bear had been chased off by its mother — as often happens in the springtime — in order to make room for another cub.

The state Department of Environmental Conservation has been contacted, Holligan said, and it's their opinion that the bear migrated up to southern Albany County last year from somewhere in the Catskills.

"It's not that unusual," Holligan said. "We get one or two sightings every year or two. They're just seeking out their own territory."

At the same time, people should be wary of the bear because it is a wild animal. If it doesn't flee when encountering a human, which will probably be its reaction, it could become aggressive.

"If you happen to come across him, call police," Holligan said, adding, "Another thing to remember is that you might want to keep small pets inside."

New Baltimore group planning craft fair

Plans are underway for the New Baltimore Ladies' Auxiliary's fourth annual craft festival to be held June 3 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the firehouse on Gill Road in New Baltimore.

Booths will be available for rental inside at a cost of $20 and outside at a cost of $15. Inside spaces are very limited, and will be assigned on a first-come, first served basis.

For applications or information, call Frankie Wallace at 756-3015, Joan Wallace at 756-2367 or Mary Davis at 756-7522.

Town turns down deal with local union

Negotiations have broken down between the Town of Bethlehem and Telecommunicators Local 3443, a member of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

Two proposals presented by a mediator from the New York State Public Relations Board were rejected by the town. The union will now take its case to Fact Finding, a department of the New York State Public Employees Relations Board.

The primary purpose of the $2.9 million in new construction and refurbishing is to prepare for 100 more pupils this fall, when the antiquated, Ravena Elementary School closes, Montone said.

A similar $2.9 million expansion project is also under way at Pieter B. Coeymans Elementary School, which will also get 100 more pupils this fall, Montone added.

In addition to 10 new classrooms in a new wing and four refurbished classrooms, the project also doubles the size of the gym and provides rooms for the art, music, remedial/gifted and talented and library programs.

Reaction from teachers and pupils was unanimously positive.

The library now "is actually a real room, and not as noisy" as the cafeteria, noted third-grader Brittany Morehouse.

Classmate Nick Hall likes the story pit, a carpeted seating area in the corner of the library, because "It's comfortable."

Teachers and pupils are still settling into the rooms in the new wing, while the refurbishing work goes on in the old part of the school.

Art teacher Cathy Wolfe said that it was hard for children to concentrate because of the noise in the cafeteria setting.

"Now we're able to do more hands-on projects, and also close the door and study art history," Wolfe said.

"It's just gorgeous," said teacher Sue Palmer of her new room.

Palmer's first/second-grade class is also able to share activities with the next-door class, since the two rooms are connected by a sliding door.

"We can open up the doors and work as one large group, or work at one of the 13 learning centers in the two rooms," Palmer said.

The new rooms also have small cubbyholes for each pupil, a great improvement over the former closet for storing bookbags and coats, Palmer said.

And each ground-floor room has a door, so pupils can pursue outdoor science projects and take short breaks outside, weather permitting, Palmer said.

"It's absolutely wonderful. We had been in the library, and it feels like we've doubled our space," said first-grade teacher Mary Szczepanski. "And the children love it—it's just so bright."

Montone said that the larger gym now can accommodate full-court basketball, for modified teams or for adult leagues, and that pupils are not crowded around gym equipment while doing their stretching and warming up.

V'ville firefighters finish training course

Members of the Voorheesville Volunteer Fire Department recently completed a pump operator training course.

Those who finished the course were: John Joslin, Ted Stanowski, Rich Blackman, Bill Stone, John Hensel, Clark Thomas, Mike Weismaier and Mike Martin.

Oklahoma

out in her mind.

Take the Slingerlands Fire Department annual awards banquet on Saturday, April 29, for example. "We raised $617 in about seven minutes," she said.

Or the beauty parlor in Latham where 15 hairstylists donated their services and raised nearly $3,000. At the Window Box Cafe in the Stonewell Plaza in New Scotland, patrons chipped in more than $300 for the relief effort.

Active fund-raising for the hospital has ceased, Boehlke noted, although the relief account established with the First National Bank of Scotia remains open to accommodate future contributors.

St. Anthony's, which treated about 500 people on the day the bombing occurred, was originally identified as a possible recipient of Capital District largesse by the "Helping the Heartland Fund," a relief effort created by the Oklahoma Hospital Association. Child's Hospital is the first known New York-based hospital to contribute to the fund.

When the money was delivered to the hospital, along with a life-sized teddy bear, the expression on people's faces was one that Boehlke will not forget.

"It was like through all of this morbidity, there was finally a glimmer of hope."

THE YOUTH NETWORK

A BETHLEHEM NETWORKS PROJECT

Making merry in May

They don't call this the "Merry, merry month of May" for nothing. There are two warm and festive events on the calendar this month. Try to fit them into your schedule.

On Monday, May 22, members of the community will have the chance to personally thank Holly Billings for her hard work and dedication to youth. Join us anytime between 7 and 9 p.m. at the Bethlehem Public Library for a reception and dessert in honor of Holly's retirement as president of Bethlehem Opportunities Unlimited.

Recently, Holly was honored by the Albany YWCA for her leadership and community activism. This is your chance to congratulate her and wish her well.

In addition, MiddleWorks invites all parents of fifth-grade students to a coffee and dessert reception on Wednesday, May 31, in the Bethlehem Middle School library from 7 to 9 p.m. This is the perfect opportunity for parents who are new to the school to have informal discussions with experienced middle school parents. If you have any questions or concerns, this is the chance to discuss them in a relaxed atmosphere.

Swashbuckling show lures kids of all ages

By Dev Tobin

In real life, piracy was no doubt a dirty business — with treachery, robbery and murder on the high seas.

But in the imagination of children, piracy evokes swashbuckling romance — outsmarting menacing cutthroats in pursuit of buried treasure — thanks in good part to a little book by Robert Louis Stevenson, Treasure Island.

Stevenson's tale of Jim Hawkins' adventures while searching for buried treasure with Long John Silver and his gang has been adapted for the stage by Ara Watson, and will be the final production of the 1994-95 season of the New York State Theatre Institute.

For director Ron Nakahara, Treasure Island is a rare chance to translate child's play into live theater.

"We boys all had pirate games, even if we hadn't read Treasure Island," Nakahara said. "To direct a show with that element in it is terrific, the best kind of fun."

Also, Nakahara noted, given the long-lasting recession in the live performing arts, Treasure Island offers the rare chance to stage an action-adventure drama with a large cast.

According to Nakahara, the play is a rite-of-passage story that will appeal to young and old alike.

"It has everything — adventure, violence, character, story, great costumes and very real language — not what a lot of people would expect in children's theater," Nakahara said.

When the action moves from a small inn in England via sailing ship to a Caribbean island, all the company's stagecraft skills are needed to create the illusion of a ship at sea, he explained.

"It's exciting for me to do a ship sailing in a theater — of course it's not real, but it has to seem real," Nakahara said.

Treasure Island stars guest artists David Kimo Ige as Jim Hawkins and Michael Chin as Jim's father and the pirate Israel Hands (Chin also choreographs the play's fight scenes); and institute regulars John T. McGuire as Long John Silver, John Romeo as Billy Bones and Capt. Smollett, Erika Newell as Jim's mother, David Bunce as Dr. Livesay and Joel Aroeste as Squire Trelawney.

Others in the large cast include guest artists Joseph Quandt, Michael Steese, A.J. Michaels, Kevin West and Bernard J. Tarver; and interns Christopher Bessette, David Kimo Ige, center, plays young Jim Hawkins, with Erika Newell as Mrs. Hawkins and David Bunce as Doctor Livesay.

Director Ron Nakahara talks with actor John T. McGuire during a break in rehearsals for the New York Theatre Institute's production of Robert Louis Stevenson's adventure, Treasure Island. The play will be performed at Russell Sage College in Troy May 18 through June 10.

Peter Stoll, Dana Abbatiello, Erin Marie Joyce, Amy Rullis and Matthew Ostroff.

Performances are at 10 a.m. on May 18, 19 (previews), 23, 24, 25, 30 and 31, and June 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9; at 8 p.m. on June 2, 3 and 10; and at 2 p.m. on May 21 (opening) and June 4.

Tickets are $15, $13 for seniors/students; and $8 for children under 13. For information, call 274-3256.

Performances are in the Schacht Fine Arts Center of Russell Sage College in Troy, just across the Congress Street (Route 2) Bridge from I-87.

Veteran Institute actor gets chance to play human in Treasure Island

During the past 20 years, John T. McGuire has made a career of playing unusual roles, including two crocodiles and a big friendly dog.

"It must be something to do with my clown training," McGuire says. "Directors believe I have the physical stamina to crawl along the floor for two hours during a show, or bounce around in a big sheepdog's costume where I'd have to open its mouth so I could see where I was going."

Now, McGuire gets to play Robert Louis Stevenson's infamous pirate, Long John Silver in the new production of Treasure Island at the New York Theater Institute at Russell Sage College.

The production which opens officially Sunday afternoon for a three-week run, features McGuire as the peg-legged pirate whom he hopes "the audience will love and hate at the same time."

Of course, the set designers haven't made it any easier on McGuire this time as when he played animals. "I find that I have to move rapidly on various levels, most of which are tilted towards the audience," the actor says. "It's obviously a challenge."

When he played the title role in Lyle the Crocodile, he slithered across the stage floor keeping his eyes on other actors' shoes. "It's the only way I knew where I was," he explains. "Several times, other actors changed shoes and completely threw me off."

When he was offstage during that show, he couldn't stand erect. "I had to have someone help into and out of the costume," he says. "I couldn't do it alone."

SPOTLIGHT

By Martin P. Kelly

But, the actor who is a leading exponent of teaching theater in regional schools, is busy writing another little play for use in the classroom where children's imaginations are tested. "There's no dialogue," he points out. "The students have to convey ideas with their movement."

When in Russia with Peter Pan in which he also played a crocodile without lines, he was permitted to do a special performance in which he recited poetry in Russian. "It was very challenging and quite rewarding," he explains.

McGuire and his cutthroat band of stage villains will pursue Stevenson's hero, Jim Hawkins, for three weeks on the Schacht Fine Arts Center stage, through June 10.

Tickets and information are available at 274-3256.

Where's Charley opens Thursday for 4 performances at Holy Names

The answer to Where's Charley is Academy of Holy Names where the musical adaptation of Charley's Aunt will be seen for four performances beginning Thursday (May 18) night.

Tom Wathews is directing this Frank Loesser musical that captivated Broadway more than 40 years ago with Ray Bolger in the role of the Oxford student who pretends to be a friend's aunt to keep a romance alive.

The Village Stage's production of the musical is the second production of the season for the local group.

Info/reservations for Where's Charley at 439-9068.

Tap dancing actor returns to Chatham's MacHady theater for prize role

Richard Schwartz who has pleased audiences in past seasons with his acting and dancing, returns to MacHady Theater this Thursday afternoon to open the 24th summer season in Chatham.

In Dames at Sea, he'll play Lucky, a quick-witted sailor who helps the Navy to see a show and a producer to save a Broadway opening.

Previously, Schwartz played the leads in Barnum, Me and My Girl, 42nd Street and Singing in the Rain, in which he captivated audiences cloning Gene Kelly's tap dancing.

He is paired with Christine Long who two seasons ago, played the lead in No, No Nanette. This season she'll be performing as Julie in Carousel and Maria in West Side Story.

The theater inaugurates a new feature this season by having the opening performance on Thursday afternoons instead of Wednesday nights. It's an attempt to accommodate more bus groups while also giving actors one more rehearsal.

Tickets and info for Dames at Sea at 392-9292.

$0 DOWN PAYMENT
$399 PER MO.*
Lease a Saab 9000 CS. 36 mos.

A hard day at work can seriously deplete your body's natural reserves of fun. For a speedy recovery, try a Saab 9000 CS, which you can lease right now with no down payment. The 9000 CS's exhilarating Light Pressure Turbo powerplant was named "One of the year's top 10 engines" by Ward's Auto World.™ The Car Book called it a "Best Bet."† And as a 9000-Series Saab, it was voted "safest car in Sweden"†† by that country's largest insurer. For complete lease details and a thoroughly reviving test-drive, see us today.

SAAB

*Subject to credit approval. Dealer prices may vary. You must order or take retail delivery by May 31, 1995. Terms apply to 1995 Saab 9000 CS w/automatic transmission and sunroof. Based on MSRP of $32,475.00 (including destination charge). Lease payment for the 9000 CS is $399.73 per month for 36 months, totaling $14,354.28. The customer is responsible for the first monthly payment, $400.00 refundable security deposit and a $450.00 acquisition fee, for a total of $1,249.73 due at lease signing. Option to purchase at lease end for $15,588.00 (plus any fees and taxes). The customer is allowed 30,000 total miles during the term of the lease. The customer is liable for a mileage charge of $20 per mile over 30,000 miles and for excess wear and tear. Taxes, insurance, title and registration fees extra. SEE YOUR PARTICIPATING SAAB DEALER FOR COMPLETE DETAILS ON THIS AND OTHER LEASE AND FINANCE OPTIONS. ††Ward's Auto World, 1995. †The Car Book, 1995 by Jack Gills. ††Based on study of injuries sustained in auto accidents in Sweden by Folksam Insurance Institute. © 1995 SAAB CARS USA, INC.

Valid New York State Driver's License or current Bethlehem tax bill required as proof of residency

QUESTIONS?
CALL 767-9618
MONDAY THRU FRIDAY
8:00 AM - 12 NOON

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO REFUSE ANY MATERIAL WHICH IS NOT DEEMED ACCEPTABLE BY THE MANAGING CHEMIST ON SITE.

WHAT IS HOUSEHOLD HAZARDOUS WASTE?

Many home and garden products contain potentially dangerous chemicals that must be disposed of safely. These are usually found in basements, kitchens, garages, storage sheds, and bathrooms.

WHO CAN PARTICIPATE?

Only Town of Bethlehem residents can participate and only home generated hazardous wastes are acceptable. A valid New York State driver's license or current Town of Bethlehem tax bill is required as proof of residency.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE?

The Town of Bethlehem Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day will be held on:
SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1995 BETWEEN 8:00 AM and 1:00 PM.

Hazardous wastes must be brought to the Town Highway Garage, 74 Elm Avenue East in Selkirk.
(Please follow special directions shown on map on back of brochure.)

- All hazardous wastes must be in their original, labeled containers. Tighten caps and lids.
- NEVER MIX CHEMICALS!
- Sort and pack materials securely in a sturdy cardboard box; use newspaper or cardboard to keep items from tipping or hitting each other.
- Wrap leaking containers in newspaper and place in plastic bags or a larger container.
- Place chemicals that may react with each other in separate parts of the car.
- DO NOT leave product in a hot, unventilated vehicle for an extended period of time.
- For your safety, please stay in your car. Workers will unload the material. Please DO NOT smoke near chemicals.
