Marquis Dr. residents file suit to ban home

Diocese will hold firm for Marie Rose

By Mel Hyman

Despite a lawsuit filed last week and another expected shortly, officials of the Catholic Diocese of Albany have no plans to abandon their low-income senior housing project in North Bethlehem.

"We will persevere," said Sister Grace Diaz, executive director of DePaul Management Corp., the administrative arm of the Diocese in charge of housing and development.

"We'll continue to do what we have to do," she said, adding that the lawsuit filed

Decker's colleagues recall his longtime contributions

By Dev Tobin

For more than a year, New Scotland Councilman Richard "Dick" Decker tried to find a way to fund paramedic service by having insurance payments cover part of New Scotland's estimated $130,000 share of the cost of a regional ambulance service upgrade.

Decker

More than once, he noted publicly that if anyone was likely to need the advanced life support service, it would be him, since he had already had two open-heart surgeries.

Decker's prophecy became grim reality last Wednesday, as he suffered a heart attack at his Swift Road home and died later at St. Peter's Hospital.

Decker's death was especially untimely, as his son and namesake graduated with honors from his alma mater, Fordham University, on Saturday.

A retired state manager, Decker, 58,

Southgate-DEIS changes ready for board review

The Southgate Commons shopping center proposed for Route 9W in Glenmont appears to have cleared a major hurdle.

A special meeting of the Bethlehem Planning Board has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 31, when the project's revised draft environmental impact statement will be reviewed for completeness.

By Susan Graves

One of Delmar's showcase businesses will close its doors this week.

Eileen Schuyler, owner of the Village Furniture Company in Main Square, said the business is closing for a number of reasons. "There's been a gradual shift in the general landscape of furniture business," she said. That shift has moved domination of the business to the "multi-store chains," she said, who have purchasing and advertising clout. "I really can't equal that power."

Schuyler said that increasingly competitive pricing also was a major factor in her decision to close the store, which she has owned for the past nine years. "My honest feeling is between the manufacturers and the big stores manipulating pricing and discounts," customers feel insecure about what "real

Compromise needed in NS zoning dispute

By Dev Tobin

Last week's death of New Scotland Councilman Richard Decker may complicate the almost year-long process of amending the town's zoning law to reflect its recent master plan update.

At a special town board meeting on May 12, Decker was one of three board members, along with Victoria Ramundo and Edward Donohue, to support three changes to the planning board's recommendations.

Councilman Scott Houghtaling voted against the changes, and Supervisor Herb Reilly, who did not attend the meeting because of a conflict with his daughter's college graduation out of town, also opposes the changes.

Three votes are needed to approve a new zoning law, so some compromise is necessary, given the apparent 2-2 deadlock, for the board to finally resolve the zoning revision matter.

The key is that we all have to work together to avoid a stalemate.

Edward Donohue

The planning board had rejected the major, and most controversial, part of an ad hoc committee's report on amending the zoning law, i.e., that the RA zone that takes up most of the town be changed from one-acre minimum lot sizes to two-acre density.

The town board's three changes are to raise from half-acre to three-quarter-acre the minimum lot size in the RA zone for lots with water and sewer; to reduce the medium density residential zone in the northeast quadrant (including part of the Tall Timbers development) by about a third; and to mandate one-acre minimums for residential lots in commercial or industrial zones.

One immediate impact of Decker's passing is that the public hearing on the new zoning law scheduled for May 31 has been cancelled, at the request of Ramundo, and with the agreement of the other three board members.

The planning board meets tomorrow (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at town hall to discuss, and possibly report on, the town's board three changes.

The town board will discuss when to reschedule the public hearing at its meeting on Monday, June 12.

"We need to move forward," Donohue commented. "I'd hate to see things drag on any more."

Donohue had proposed the three changes as a compromise between the ad hoc committee's document and the planning board report.

"I'm not married to the proposals I made. The key is that we all have to work together to avoid a stalemate," Donohue said.

In a related matter, the all-Democratic town board has the power to appoint a replacement to serve out the remainder of Decker's term, and town Democratic committee leaders, although "still a little in shock," will meet this weekend "to try to come up with a name to recommend to the town board," said town Democratic chairman Michael Burns.

Reilly said that the board, "out of respect" for Decker, "shouldn't make any immediate decisions to try to fill the position."

Bethlehem parade set for Monday

Nathaniel Adams Blanchard American Legion Post 1040 will sponsor the annual Memorial Day parade on Monday, May 29.

The parade will form at 10:45 a.m. on Poplar Drive, Herber Avenue and Elsmere Avenue adjoining the Legion post and Elsmere Firehouse.

Step-off time will be 11 a.m.

The parade route is south on Elsmere Avenue to Bethlehem Cemetery, west on Kenwood Avenue, left on Adams Place, right on Adams Street to Delaware Avenue and Bethlehem's Memorial Park.

At the park there will be a wreath-laying ceremony and prayer service. "Taps" and "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be played.

At the conclusion of the services, the parade will disband by units and return to the post for refreshments.

The grand marshal for 1995 is Helen Brockley, who served as an Army nurse in the Pacific during World War II.

Brockley has been president of the Blanchard Legion Post Auxiliary for several years.

The honorary parade grand marshals are Bethlehem Town Supervisor Sheila Fuller and Norman Bender, a World War I Army veteran and the oldest living member of Post 1040. He celebrated his 100th birthday on May 25.

Snyder named new Glenmont principal

By Dev Tobin

The new principal of Glenmont Elementary School will be Teresa Thayer Snyder, replacing long-time principal Don Robillard.

"Teresa will bring a strong interest in the best development of each child, along with an interest in innovation and the highest standards," said Superintendent Leslie Loomis.

Snyder

Robillard is retiring this year after 22 years as principal and 29 years overall in the BC district.

Snyder is currently assistant superintendent for instructional services for the Albany diocesan schools, where she oversees teaching in 43 schools serving 12,000 students.

Snyder said she applied for the Glenmont position because "I had been following Bethlehem for a long time, was impressed with the district and felt I could make a contribution."

Snyder comes to Glenmont from a background in private education, but she said, "There are more similarities than differences" between public and private schools.

"Good instruction that helps children develop confidence as learners" is a constant in effective education, whether in the public or private sector, she added.

Prior to her work with the diocesan schools, Snyder was director of the Children's School at Emma Willard in Troy for four years, and was also a teacher there for three years.

When she assumed leadership of the Children's School, Snyder said she replaced a long-term director — "an institution" — like the situation at Glenmont with Robillard.

"You cherish the traditions and build on them," she said of the challenge of replacing "an institution."

She also worked as a curriculum consultant to Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Albany, designing intervention and literacy programs for "at-risk" adolescents, for 10 years.

Snyder, a Latham resident, is a graduate of Siena College and Russell Sage College and has completed the course work for her doctorate in curriculum at the University at Albany.

She said her dissertation will probably examine strategies to deal with "disenfranchised learners — it disturbs me to see children not happy in school."

Snyder will start on July 1, and will work with Robillard for that month. She will earn a salary of $62,500.

Odell tapped for planning board seat

By Mel Hyman

The Bethlehem Town Board tonight is expected to appoint Daniel Odell of Elsmere to the town planning board.

Odell, 43, will replace former board member Gary Swan, who resigned recently because he's relocating to Schoharie County.

"I'm looking forward to it," Odell said. "This is a really exciting time to be involved. The decisions made now should have long-term ramifications for the town."

The planning issues Odell sees as crucial over the months to come include the proposed Southgate Commons shopping center in Glenmont, the proposed Price

Chopper Community Center in Slingerlands and the proposed Marie Rose Manor senior housing development in North Bethlehem.

A resident of Sunset Drive, Odell has lived in the town since 1983. He works for the state Office of Mental Health as a program specialist. His 20 years in state government included a stint with the state attorney general's office, where he worked as a special investigator for nursing homes.

Prior to moving to Bethlehem, he lived in East Greenbush, where he served on the town's conservation advisory council. He is a member of the board of directors of Child's Nursing Home in Albany and a board member of the Canterbury Foundation, which supports services for the elderly.

"I see the planning board's role as trying to balance the competing interests that come from the need to develop the commercial sector of the town with the desire of many residents to maintain the town's character."

Odell said he generally agrees with the philosophy laid out by planning board chairman Doug Hasbrouck earlier this year. Hasbrouck said he believes it is important to look at the big picture when considering planning issues in the town and not to focus on the needs of just one neighborhood or street.

BC board to receive long-range plan report

By Dev Tobin

With school winding down and the budget behind them, most school boards find June to be a time of short agendas — mostly dotting the i's and crossing the t's for the coming school year.

Loomis

But for the Bethlehem Central school board, this June will be a time to plan for the next decade, as the district's long-range planning process moves from investigating options to recommending action.

The board will receive a formal report from the long-range planning committee, composed of staff and community members who have been sifting through options for most of this year, at its meeting on Wednesday, June 7.

The report will present options in the three main areas of the district's long-range needs — middle school and high school facilities, technology and maintenance.

The board will then hold a work session on the report on Wednesday, June 14, at 7 p.m.; discuss the report at its regular meeting on Wednesday, June 21; and probably act on a final recommendation at its Wednesday, July 5, meeting, according to Superintendent Leslie Loomis.

At the June 7 meeting, the committee will present "the full range of options, with advantages and disadvantages, so the board can make decisions" by the July meeting, Loomis said.

Aside from options on renovation and/or new construction at the middle school and high school, the report will also identify the most essential long-term maintenance needs, and the next steps to improve instructional technology.

On May 3, voters approved the first major step in improving technology — an $850,000 proposition to buy computers and peripherals at every level of the district.

Regarding facilities, Loomis noted that the capacity situation at the middle school is "compelling — the level of room-sharing now is heavy, bordering on extreme, and class sizes are increasing."

At the high school, the critical time is somewhat further away, Loomis noted, but enrollment there is expected to increase by 50 percent in the next 10 years.

Given that new construction is expensive, Loomis said the committee's approach in preparing options has been "very conservative — the whole premise is not to spend taxpayers' dollars until it's absolutely necessary."

Although the final decision is up to the board, Loomis said that he was leaning toward recommending that a capital construction proposition be put before the voters this fall.

GOP challenger hopes to win seat from Kansas

By Mel Hyman

In many respects, David A. Young, the Republican candidate for the Albany County Legislature from the 34th district, mirrors his opponent — Democratic incumbent George Kansas.

Young

They are both young, dynamic, focused and natives of Delmar. Kansas eked out an upset victory three years ago against longtime Republican incumbent W. Gordon Morris — mostly due to the hard work he put in.

Young, who is 28, said he's prepared for the task and will work as hard as he can to make sure Kansas is a one-term legislator.

Young is buoyed to some degree by the candidacy of former Bethlehem Supervisor Kenneth Ringler for Albany County executive. With attention focused on Ringler's race against Democratic County Executive Michael Breslin — also of Bethlehem — Young believes he can get a lot of mileage of people's wish for change.

"The Albany County Legislature has been in the hands of one party (the Democrats) for too long," he said. "It's certainly time for a change. If I won the 34th district, we are one step closer to having a Republican majority in the Legislature."

"I'm sure Ken Ringler will appreciate that," he continued. "It is my goal to see Ringler county executive, working with a Republican majority to bring some downsizing to county government and continuing efforts to trim spending."

Young graduated from Bethlehem Central High School and went on to receive a journalism degree from the E.W. Scripps School of Journalism at Ohio University.

After a one year-stint working for the Hudson Paper Company in Connecticut, he landed a job as budget analyst for the Republican majority in the state Senate.

It's his experience working in government, Young said, that makes him more qualified than Kansas.

"My work at the Senate provides me with the exposure to the fiscal direction of the state, and I think I am better prepared to deal with the changes we need to see on the county level in reaction to state budget trimming."

I am looking forward to a good race with George (Kansas).

Young added, "It's obvious the current Democratic Legislature cannot produce any real change. Ask yourself how, until 1992, a county government employing over 3,300 people could function without a personnel office. Answer: the Democratic Party ran the show."

However the race ends up, it is likely to be close, Young said, given the enrollment edge that Republicans hold in Bethlehem. "I am looking forward to a good race with George (Kansas)," he said.

In addition to Young, Bethlehem Republicans have nominated three GOP incumbents seeking new, four-year terms in the county legislature: Dominick DeCecco in the 33rd district, James C. Ross in the 34th district and Robin Reed in the 36th district.

Waste collection scores big hit

Bethlehem's first effort at collecting hazardous waste materials was a rousing success.

More than 750 cars, representing 850 households, lined the road to the town garage on Elm Avenue East to get rid of paint, oil, aerosols, batteries, pesticides, driveway sealant — running the gamut of materials that are not environmentally user friendly, according to Sharon Fisher, Bethlehem recycling coordinator. "I think we broke all kinds of records," she said.

Enough latex paint alone to fill

17 55-gallon drums was collected. Volunteers from the community helped collect the various materials from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. Fisher said town officials, firemen, police, Job Corps students, members of Bethlehem Work on Waste and members of the community all pitched in. "All materials will be properly disposed of," said Fisher.

Supervisor Sheila Fuller, who lent a hand, said the community deserves a "big thank you."

She said the collection was very well received especially in light of the fact it was the first time this kind of collection was undertaken here.

The vendor for the project, the Northeast Division of Ludlow Environmental Services in Massachusetts has contracted with several other local municipalities for similar waste disposal days, said Fisher.

Eastern Rensselaer County, Schenectady, Colonie and Schodack joined with Bethlehem to hire the vendor for the project.

Special meeting to focus on town highway projects

An informational meeting of the Bethlehem Town Board is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, in the Bethlehem Ambulance Building on Route 9W in Selkirk.

The purpose of the meeting is provide the board and the public with updates on road projects currently under way in the southern end of town.

Town engineer Michael Cirillo and town highway superintendent Gregg Sagendorph will describe the work being planned for the intersection of Beaver Dam Road and Route 396 (Maple Avenue).

"We're realigning the intersection and widening the road," Sagendorph said. Utility poles near the intersection will be moved in order to improve sight distances.

The project will be started and completed this year "provided that we can acquire the necessary property," Sagendorph said, which is not expected to be a problem.

"Right now we're in the middle of a major reconstruction of Pictuay Road (in South Bethlehem) where we're eliminating a 90 degree bend in the road," he said. "We're actually moving a mountain to be perfectly frank. We're making a 20-foot cut in a hill so that we can realign the road."

Parks and Recreation Commissioner David Austin will make a brief presentation on the bike path project in the works for the Elm Avenue area as well as the work being done to construct a public boat launch near the Hudson Hudson Park off Route 144.

Two Delmar girls headed 'Down Under' as part of People-to-People program

This summer, Rebecca Hoghe and Lindsay Caldwell of Delmar will be part of a Capital District delegation of student ambassadors spending three weeks in Australia and New Zealand.

Hoghe and Caldwell will be part of a group of 40 students, all in seventh- or eighth-grade, led by four teachers. They will visit the Great Barrier Reef and learn about its marine life, and experience the life of the Maori in New Zealand. Several days of their trip will be spent living with an Australian family.

The trip is run through the People to People Student Ambassadors Program, a non-profit agency that runs exchange programs for middle and high school students.

To raise funds for the trip, members of the group will participate in the Freihofer Community Walk/Run for Women on Saturday, June 3, in Albany.

Matters of Opinion

Exit poll excellence

At the recent Bethlehem Central School District budget vote, high school students conducted an exit poll of voters. The students, who are members of the high school Participation in Government class, aimed at interviewing every fifth voter. What better way to give students on-the-job training than to let them participate in a real-life situation with relevance to their academic studies? In all, 673 voters were interviewed as they left the polling place.

All of the statistics generated by the exit poll should be of value to the school district's administration. Some are rather surprising. For instance, parents of Bethlehem Central pupils represent only about one quarter of the electorate. Even so, they cast a noteworthy 56 percent of the votes. Bethlehem parents are concerned parents. The largest turnout in 26 years points to a concerned and involved electorate, too.

Interestingly, 70 percent of the voters questioned stated that they considered The Spotlight to be their most important source of information on the issues. School superintendent Leslie Loomis paid this paper a compliment when he said that the poll confirmed his feeling that The Spotlight was influential in the town.

During the weeks preceding the vote, The Spotlight had published interviews with the prospective members of the school and library boards and articles on various aspects of the school and library budgets and on the propositions on the ballot. This detailed presentation of information paid off handsomely—voters made good use of The Spotlight material to help them determine how they would vote.

Lest we forget

On Monday, May 29, we will celebrate Memorial Day in a variety of ways. School kids and others of us fortunate to have the day off will sing paeans. Shoppers will patronize Memorial Day sales. All over town there will be parades, picnics, ball games, and many gardens planted.

Decorating the graves of war dead began just after the Civil War. Southern women are credited with placing flowers and flags on the graves of both Confederate and Union soldiers. The custom gained momentum and developed into our annual day of remembrance.

Memorial Day is not a time when war is glorified. It is a time to commemorate both those who died in defense of our country and relatives and friends.

Memorial Day is also a good time to share our memories of the departed with our children and friends. If we don't pass along these memories, the lives of our loved ones will be lost forever. Let's remember and share our memories.

Help for Heartland

On April 19, one or more irrational people set off the bomb in Oklahoma City that wrecked the Alfred P. Murrah federal office building. In the explosion, 167 children and adults were killed and scores of others injured.

St. Anthony's Hospital is located two blocks from the bomb site. All during the day of the blast, and since, victims and relief workers have been treated at St. Anthony's.

Here in Albany County, Sharon Boehlke of New Scotland, Bryan Jackson, president of Guildland FM station WCDA, and Child's Hospital where Boehlke works, also responded to the need for help in Oklahoma City. They launched a fund-raising campaign to help St. Anthony's with its extraordinary expenses. To date, contributions of $70,000 have been made to the disaster fund.

Response to St. Anthony's need for funds has been heartwarming and gratifying. Patrons of the Window Box Cafe in Stonewall Plaza in New Scotland donated more than $300. In Slingerlands, $617 was raised at the fire department's annual awards banquet. In Latham, hairstylists donated services and raised almost $3,000.

If you wish to contribute to the "Helping the Heartland" fund, make checks out to: St. Anthony's Hospital Disaster Fund and mail them to Sharon Boehlke, c/o Child's Hospital, 25 Hackett Blvd., Albany, NY 12208.

HY'S SPOTLIGHT

Remembering the 'honored dead'

The author of this Point of View, a World War II veteran, is a regular contributor to the Spotlight Newspapers.

By Martin P. Kelly

As a youngster, I found myself fascinated while stealing a glance at a dignified, white-haired man sitting alone in a church pew.

The nuns told us that a poet once wrote of him as The Singing Soldier while he served in France during World War I.

We learned also that the poet who wrote "Trees" was the same man who honored this former soldier I saw in church. Joyce Kilmer was a sergeant in New York's 69th regiment, the "Fighting Irish" whose armory was only a few blocks from the church.

Kilmer also wrote a prophetic poem—"Memorial Day"—which was published in 1914.

In it, there are lines that read:
*The roses blossom white and red
On tombs where weary soldiers lie;
Flags wave above the honored dead
And martial music cleaves the sky.*

Kilmer was to be one of those "honored dead" as he fell during the 69th's drive through German lines in a five-day battle in July 1918. This battle would later be immortalized in a 1940 film about this gallant regiment.

Memorial Day, as Kilmer wrote, is a moment when we honor all those men and women who fell as he did in battle for their country.

We are accustomed now to see rows of thousands of crosses and Stars of David populating verdant fields in cemeteries around the world where Americans fought and died.

But the sheer numbers sometimes numb us to the loss.

As "The Singing Soldier" first gave me a glimpse of one who had risked his life and lived while the man who honored him died, it also gave me a feeling of the loss of an individual, the poet who could write so beautifully of simple things.

It is only when we deal with individuals that we can truly feel the impact of a "Memorial Day." There's a telling scene in the musical, "1776," which honors the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence. Late in the first act, a tattered messenger who has been regularly bringing news from Washington's beleaguered troops, tells the clerks in the Continental Congress about battle.

His singing of "Mama" is one of most poignant moments in musical theater as he relates the story of a young Minute Man wounded at the Battle of Concord. As he lay dying in the bushes along the Concord road, the young soldier

Every story has two sides

Editor, The Spotlight:

In response to the April 26 letter, "Teens' behavior criticized," and the writer's call for letters from eye witnesses, here is one account: I was standing in line on April 7 in front of the older couple when the incident occurred.

The first boy was attempting to cross the line in order to take a seat at a table. The older couple informed him that there was a line. They must have thought the boy was attempting to line crash, or budge. The boy then informed them of his true intentions.

The middle-aged man, or security guard, approached the boy and accused him of budging. The boy explained again that he was only attempting to cross the line in order to get to a table. The guard then told the boy that the proper procedure to get the table would be to go around the line.

The boy responded sarcastically. The security guard then pushed the boy and the boy swore and left the building.

The security guard was returning to his post, when boy number two, who was sitting at the table to which boy number one wanted to go, said, "Kids today. What's the world coming to?" A verbal exchange followed between the second boy and the security guard, which ended with the guard's ordering the boy to get out of Main Square.

The second boy was rude to the guard who then threw the boy against a glass window and once into the La Stella Fresh Pasta Shop sign, knocking it over. The boy was pushed an estimated three more times before a friend of the second boy intervened. I saw the second boy touch the guard only once. The second boy and his friend left.

Letters

In the parking lot, the boy kicked a bumper of a car. Then he apologized to the owner of the car, saying it was a "stupid thing to do." When the police arrived in two cars, several kids tried to explain what happened, but the police interviewed the owner of the car. Some "kids" might have been interviewed later but not when I was present. The second boy was taken presumably to the police station in one car. I left after the second boy was taken away.

The incident showed adults' preconceived ideas and generalizations about youth. The police illustrated their anti-youth policies by taking only the accounts of adults. The letter exemplifies age prejudice. The author claims to be an employee of the middle school.

Presumably, s/he has a close relationship with teens, like a teacher, guidance counselor or principal. At a time when the big push in education is against racism and prejudice, is this the kind of person you parents want teaching your children? Is this the kind of teacher and role model you want future adults to have?

Are we to drink Hudson River water?

Editor, The Spotlight:

Last Saturday, I went on Clearwater's "Water Cade" to the site of Bethlehem's new water supply. I saw that the site is 20 feet away from the Hudson river, along its banks. The visit to the site helped me understand the statement by the State Health Department that "the infiltration gallery will be supplied primarily by water from the Hudson River." (Letter is in the Clearwater file at the Bethlehem Public Library.)

From a reading of the previous accounts by the town board, I had imagined that the aquifer or underground waterway was a separate source of water, perhaps sealed from contamination by the Hudson River by an impervious layer. It seems that this is clearly not the case. For the town board to assert that the new water system will not involve water from the Hudson River is disingenuous.

Order lacking in DEC meeting

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am writing in reference to The Spotlight's May 10 article on animal rights activists and the En-Con hearing. I was invited to attend the meeting by a few individuals who were concerned with how the DEC meetings were being run.

As a graduate student in biology at the University at Albany (I am not part of any animal rights organization), I was interested in seeing how the DEC worked for wildlife.

I was shocked and appalled at what I saw. All of the statements made by Marion Stark and Anne Muller were accurate. Although non-hunters were permitted to attend, they were ignored, yelled at to "shut up"—even when asking questions.

Contrary to the statements made by Bryan Swift, who was running the meeting, the "activists" were not there simply to abolish hunting.

This is how your NYS environmental conservation agencies work. Those individuals who do not believe that the DEC works this way can attend similar meetings. They are open to the public. If you are a non-hunter, I guarantee you will be disappointed at how the DEC "manages" wildlife.

Sell water to Albany?

Editor, The Spotlight:

I would like to project a new thought into the water controversy. The pure Alcove Reservoir is currently at the lowest level since the four-year drought in the early 1960s. The Basic Reservoir (supplement to Alcove) is bone dry because of a malfunction.

Albany had problems in the '60s. Since then its water consumption has increased. It is very possible that they could not sell us water at any price. If this occurs and we can help them out with our pure Vly Reservoir water, I suggest we do—at a minimum of two million dollars!

Pockets picked

Editor, The Spotlight:

I recently received a mailing (at taxpayers expense) from Assemblyman Faso telling me that the Assembly is doing a lousy job and did I have any ideas on how the State could cut expenses. I suggested that legislators should pay for mailings out of their own pockets and that legislators salaries should be the same as that of New Hampshire: $100 per year.

Assemblyman Faso did not ask for a suggestion as to how to remedy the incompetence of the legislators. I'll make one anyway. Let's try somebody different next time.

calls for his mother. There isn't a soul in the theater who can't visualize the stricken soldier even though he's nowhere on stage.

There are moments through the year when I, too, find myself, for one reason or another, seeing images of men who fell in battle. Memorial Day makes them clearer but they are never far away.

As a 19-year-old, I found myself helping bury two comrades in hard, coral ground. The image of the teenage Charlie Simpson, a Georgia native who could have been a Rhett Butler in another time, is still vivid. And so is a Minnesota Swede, Billy Olson, a man in his 20s who lived through a jungle battle only to die on a coral island.

is still vivid in my memory 45 years after he was brought home in a flag-draped casket by his brother, who served with him in Korea.

As a young reporter, I was called upon to visit a family which had just heard of the death of a son in Korea to get a photo of the youth. It was a task all of us dreaded and tried to avoid. To this day, I can experience again the late night visit to a basement apartment in Rensselaer where I was admitted by a man with a hollow, stricken look. He walked numbly to a mantle to get the photo of his son, all the while looking into another room where the aching sobs of a woman could be heard. I felt guilty trespassing on this moment of grief and have paid for it over the years by occasionally hearing those sobs in my mind's ear.

Later, sons of friends of mine would also be deeply etched in my memory as they, too, fell in another war in which they would not be honored as others before them. For these men who served and fell in Vietnam, it was a war more savage than any waged previously. Even as their sacrifice was misunderstood by many of their peers, they are to be, on this and all Memorial Days, no less honored. As Kilmer wrote of men of another time:

*Through flying lead and crimson steel
They plunged for Freedom and The Right.*

It is only when we deal with individuals that we can truly feel the impact of a "Memorial Day."

Later, when I returned to New York on furlough, I asked about some of my friends and my father could only answer softly and hesitantly as he told me: "Charley Webb died at Saipan ... Tony Esposito got killed at Iwo Jima ... Red Keenan was killed in the Battle of the Bulge." Two years before we were carefree kids playing baseball.

Will we have a dual system?

Editor, The Spotlight:

The water story changed dramatically when Bethlehem town supervisor, Shelia Fuller, said that it is possible to have two water systems in our community—one from the Hudson River, for industry and another from two reservoirs—Vly Creek and Alcove.

A dual system is a good thing. It means that the residents will not be getting their drinking water from the Hudson River. Or will they?

When I asked Supervisor Fuller about splitting the industrial and residential water supplies, she told me that the separation would only be for a short time and that after that, everyone would be hooked up to the new system.

Letters

So, there it is—the astonishing information that in the near future the supervisor plans to bring Hudson River water into our sinks and showers.

It's good to know that it is possible to supply Hudson River water to industry alone. Clearly, that answer is not enough. Now we need to know if the split of the residential and industrial water supplies is temporary or permanent.

Review process fails for Fisher Hollow

Editor, The Spotlight:

Thank you for publishing my letter relative to the Fisher Hollow subdivision in the May 17 issue of The Spotlight. Unfortunately, the title which you chose to give to my letter (which was not the title I submitted with the letter - see the underlined title above) completely misses the point of my letter.

As your title indicated, I did state that the residents of Caldwell Boulevard and Daniel Street are resigned to the Fisher Hollow development.

However, the point of my letter was that the planning board review process for this subdivision totally failed to recognize the legitimate concerns of those residents relative to the proposed street layout by failing to adopt the street layout which, according to the traffic impact study, was the layout which had the least impact on the existing Caldwell Boulevard and Daniel Street and also produced the best overall levels of service.

The residents are not resigned to the planning board's failure in this regard, and will continue to pursue any and all avenues available to them to have the board reconsider this aspect of its preliminary plat approval decision.

Students deserve recognition

Editor, The Spotlight:

Congratulations to Edward Barnard, James Travis and Cullen Blake. The awards these students received at the RPI Science Fair are substantial and, in my opinion, should rate front page articles in The Spotlight. It is unfortunate for these talented students that the announcement of their accomplishments seems to be more political than laudatory.

Look at the box near the top of the front page of the May 3 edition of The Spotlight, "BC budget vote today! See story on Page 5." If you haven't yet voted you probably would open to page 5 to verify the location, times of balloting and the proposals. There you scan the page and see a large article and photograph of BCMS students winning science awards at a "recent" science fair.

If you're a citizen concerned enough with the school system to vote in what is normally a low-turnout election, you probably read this article first. The end of the article mentions how well these awards reflect on the current science curriculum in the school.

At the bottom of the left hand side of the page is the announcement of the budget vote with the particulars you may need to go to the polls. Included on the ballot is a separate proposal for $850,000 toward improving instructional technology.

This does not strike me as an impartial delivery of news. The "recent" science fair took place on April 1. This is the fifth edition of The Spotlight published since the students won the awards. Sports scores can be announced within a week, but it takes more than a month to acknowledge statewide and national recognition for outstanding academic achievement in science. Or does it simply require a budget vote?

The delivery and the layout seem to bias voters toward approving both the school and the technology budget proposals. It in no way appears accidental. I do not know whether the decision to run the two items together was a request from the school district, an editorial decision by The Spotlight or a combination. However, it does seem unfair to the students.

The students deserve the recognition promptly. They are the true achievers here. The schools can take kudos if they like, they can wave the students' awards as a reflection of their own achievements, but they should not withhold recognition for political gain.

An outstanding athlete who won a statewide competition would have his or her photo on the front page with an article in the next edition. That sort of achievement would never be withheld for a month to increase the chances of passing a budget. Recognize an outstanding student at least as promptly and loudly as you would the outstanding athlete. For those of us who vote in the budget election, most consider the academics more important.

Eileen Kelliher

Delmar

Editor's note: Although the RPI science fair was on April 1, we were not informed of the BCMS students' achievements until April 27, when Principal Stephen Lobban arranged for our reporter to view the projects and talk to the students in his office. The layout on page 5 was based on our considered judgment of the relative news value of the more than a dozen stories in the paper that week. That the BCMS students' story and the budget recap were next to each other was a coincidence. Further, the idea that many, if any, voters would be influenced at the last minute by these two stories' being next to each other on page 5 seems far-fetched.

Thanks from Bethlefest committee

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Saturday, May 13, a very special event took place at Bethlehem Central High School—Bethlefest. The carnival and concert were entirely student run with the help of Mrs. Alida Smith, one of the assistant principals.

Throughout the day, students played frisbee and carnival games. They even watched their peers and their principal, Dr. Hunter, get dunked in the dunking tank.

At night, bands played, a student DJ spun music and students lip-synched. Attendance was outstanding and spirits soared.

Without the help of the community in the form of donations and parent volunteers, Bethlefest could not have been the success it was.

A very special thanks to Little

Some showed compassion

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am writing this letter to thank faces without names who showed compassion on Friday, May 19. I returned from work, entered my home, and as usual I was greeted by my dogs, Buster and Bandit. But this day was different. My dog Bandit, only a year old, got out of the house and away from me. We are very cautious of the traffic on Cherry Avenue and always keep both dogs on leashes.

But Bandit got away. He ran across Cherry Avenue. I tried to get him back safely, but a red mid-sized car, going too fast, hit him. I watched Bandit fly across the road 40 feet. The driver never even applied the brakes or stopped. Bandit died en route to the veterinarian's.

Cherry Avenue is a residential street with a speed limit of 30 m.p.h. and many children and pets who could be hurt by speeding drivers.

I am angry and hurt by the inconsiderate driver who fatally injured my dog and sped away. I am grateful to those compassionate neighbors who tried to assist me.

Work together for solution

Editor, The Spotlight:

The reports of the consultants prove that the Town of Bethlehem's new water supply, after treatment, will be of extremely poor quality. It will be by far the worst water supply of 119 ground water supplies surveyed by EPA in the Northeast.

The consultants' data also prove beyond any scientific doubt that the water picks up significant contamination as the result of leaching sewage sludge lying on the bottom of the Hudson River.

There was also a very significant error made during the two-month pump test that should have been avoided by making a proper flow net analysis. During the test a contractor was dewatering an adjacent section of trench.

This resulted in drawing better quality water on the land side toward the well. However, three months later when there was no dewatering operation the levels of contaminants more than doubled. The whole series of tests made during the two months of testing should be thrown out.

Residents will also have to pay at least $28 million over a 30-year period for a water supply that will fail because of very poor design. In order to obtain six million gallons of water per day, the well was designed to draw in water over the entire depth of the aquifer.

As a result, shadow aquifer water containing dissolved oxygen will be drawn down into the deeper aquifer water containing soluble ferrous iron. A ferric iron precipitate will occur, clogging up the aquifer and shutting down the well in less than two years.

The State of New York's position is very clear. The water can be treated to meet minimum standards and the cost is up to the town. I can assure residents that there will be large additional sums of money needed to meet minimum existing standards and new standards such as for haloacetic acids, that will be enacted by EPA.

When the well fails, it is the town's problem and the state will require that we purchase water elsewhere. In any case, the state does not take financial responsibility.

Letters

In the October 19, 1994, issue of The Spotlight, I predicted that there will be large additional funds needed to keep this water supply in operation and that it will only stop when the Town Board finally decides to stop throwing good money after bad.

The question of separation of industrial water from residential water is an example of what I mean. It will cost millions of dollars to make the necessary changes to the two distribution systems.

When the well fails, a direct connection to the Hudson River will have to be made costing millions. It may be cheaper in the long run to buy all of our water from Albany. There is one thing for certain—we need to hire outside independent consultants to make a thorough study.

There is only one way to cut our large losses. The town should enter a long term contract with Albany to supply all of our residential water needs. There should also be a two-year short-term contract to meet existing industrial water needs until the industrial and residential can be separated. The town should immediately hire outside consultants to make the study.

I plead with Supervisor Sheila Fuller and the town board to take action to remove the water supply as a political issue. Let's work together to heal the sickness that is starting to destroy this community.

Questions raised on school assignments

Editor, The Spotlight:

Two years ago we bought a house in Delmar when a new job brought us to this area. The reputation of the Bethlehem school system and its cooperative relationship with the before and after school program ("School's In" and "School's Out") were important factors in our decision, particularly because one parent's job keeps him out of town during the week. Events this past week now cause us to question whether the system's leadership has any regard for the scheduling and transportation needs of Bethlehem parents.

This past week we were informed in a letter from Superintendent Loomis that our kindergartner is assigned to Hamagrael next year because of space constraints at Elsmere. For over a year, our future kindergartner has been registered for the same before-school program at Elsmere which her older brother attends. (This was noted on the kindergarten registration forms.) This program, called "School's In," is the early morning day care program at the school. Parents pay for this care, and transport their children to the school starting at 7:30 a.m., so that children are supervised until school starts at 9 a.m..

When we pointed out to Superintendent Loomis that the Hamagrael assignment would require a separate trip for each child each morning for the children's mother, it became clear that this transportation and day care situation had not even been considered. (Special arrangements would also have to be made to enroll the kindergartner in the Hamagrael "School's In" program, which is already full.) The 14 Elsmere kindergartners assigned to Hamagrael next year had been chosen based solely on bus routes, despite the fact that "School's In" children do not ride the bus from home to school.

While this situation creates great inconvenience for us next year, what also upset us was the response from Superintendent Loomis. He refused to consider correcting this oversight because doing so would be unfair to the parents who don't work outside the home.

Is this how the Bethlehem school system makes and implements policy, by pitting one stereotypical family against another?

We all know that parents lead complex and varied lives. But more often than not, Bethlehem parents understand the varying needs of their friends and neighbors. Because of the demands of paid jobs, some parents have scheduling and transportation needs which make them less able to be flexible when special problems arise, such as the kindergartner overflow at Elsmere.

Is it unreasonable for those transporting their own children to school to ask that both elementary school children be assigned to the same school?

Hamagrael PTA thanks Tom Bruno Jr. and his Taste Treat

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of the Hamagrael Elementary School PTA, we would like to thank everyone in the Hamagrael community who attended our Ice Cream Social on Sunday, May 21, to benefit the Hamagrael PTA Bethlehem High School Senior Awards. Over 200 people attended the event on a sunny, warm spring Sunday.

Special thanks are due to Tom Bruno, Jr., of Tom's Taste Treat on Route 85. Mr. Bruno donated the delicious ice cream and cones for the event.

Proceeds from the benefit will go into a scholarship fund for college bound seniors at Bethlehem High School who maintained at least a 90 average throughout high school, and were involved in interscholastic sports and extracurricular activities. This year's recipients also did a variety of volunteer work at St. Peters, Ronald McDonald House, St. Thomas Youth Group and Special Olympics. The recipients for this year are: Ethan Schoolman (who will be attending the University of Chicago), Katie McDowell (Union College), and Christian Meyers (Hobart College). We wish all of them the best of luck in their future studies.

BC honors Harvith with oak tree

By Dev Tobin

One year after his sudden death, Bernie Harvith was remembered Monday by the Bethlehem Central community as an educational leader who wanted the best for every student.

Harvith's family, district officials, school board members, teachers and students gathered for an early-morning tree-planting in Harvith's memory on the high school lawn.

Besides the oak tree and bronze plaque, Harvith will also live on at BCHS in the $1,000 Bernard Evans Harvith Environmental Scholarship, provided annually by Harvith's family.

The first scholarship, based on an essay, was awarded to BCHS senior Theresa Cleary, who plans to study environmental science at SUNY Plattsburgh in the fall.

Harvith served on the school board for 22 years, the longest tenure in BC's history. He was also a BCHS graduate — valedictorian of the class of 1956 — and then went on to graduate from the University of Rochester and Harvard Law School.

Besides his school board service, education was Harvith's professional life, too, as a professor at Albany Law School.

"My father was very proud of his long involvement as a student, parent and school board member at BC," said his daughter Marnie, who is also a teacher. "His main source of satisfaction was making a significant contribution to the betterment of education for all students."

An oak tree and an environmental scholarship are appropriate memorials because "nature was a source of solace" for her father, Marnie Harvith added.

BC school board president Williams Collins praised Harvith's "sage perspective, brilliant insights and challenging dialogue — he was and is worth remembering by this tree and in our hearts."

Bethlehem Supervisor Sheila Fuller, who served with Harvith on the school board for 13 years, noted that Harvith's "patience and understanding" in setting education policy at BC helped countless students reach their full potential.

A Lab School student, Cleary has already completed two internships — at New York Audubon and at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute — that have helped her decide on an environmental career, she explained in her essay.

"As I was growing up, I could not stand to see trash on the sides of roads, read about oil spills, or see human technology deteriorate the earth," she wrote. "I have a goal — to be part of the science that will help alleviate these problems."

Glenmont teacher releases folk CD

By Mel Hyman

Thirty-nine-year-old Peter Rawitsch has been honing his musical talents for as long as he can remember.

Now the Glenmont Elementary School teacher is beginning to reap the benefits.

Rawitsch, who has been teaching first-grade in Bethlehem for the past 14 years, has a CD release party coming up on Sunday, June 11, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Mother Earth's Cafe in Albany.

Titled "Chinese Take-Out," the recording includes 10 original songs.

For many years, Rawitsch said "A lot of my musical energy was going into my classroom. Now I'm bringing it to a more personal level."

"It's been a lifelong dream to make a recording," he said. I started writing songs and playing the guitar when I was 8 years old. It's been part of my life for as long as I can remember."

Like many others in his generation, Rawitsch got caught up in the musical excitement of the 60s, first with the Beatles and later with Woodstock.

"My favorite folk artist from that time was Arlo Guthrie," he said. Other, more modern influences have included John Gorka, Cheryl Wheeler and the late Steve Goodman.

Rawitsch draws on "childhood memories, dinner table conversations and tabloid headlines" to write his lyrics. In the song "Cold Metal Wire" he recalls buying his first guitar with his father.

The song "Temporary Sanity" examines our judicial system and "suggests a novel defense strategy." In "Musical Chairs," he describes what it's like sharing a living space with someone you love.

"This CD really represents the best of my last three years of writing," he said.

The 10-song disc was recorded over the past six months at Arabelum Studios in Albany. Joining him on the recording are veteran area musician Roy Atkinson and Delmar folk singer Peggy Eyres, who does backup vocals on a few numbers.

Rawitsch acknowledged that if it wasn't for his "day job" he would never have been able to produce his maiden recording. But he has no plans to leave his teaching job anytime soon to pursue a career in songwriting.

A resident of Gunderland Center where he lives with his wife and daughters, Rawitsch confessed that the album title really does have some relevance to real life since it's a weekly menu of hot and spicy Chinese food that gives him the strength to teach school, raise a family and pursue a musical career at the same time.

VIEWS ON DENTAL HEALTH

Dr. Geoffrey B. Edmunds, D.D.S.

A Tribute to Dental Lab Technicians

Most advanced restorative dental procedures require a skilled laboratory technician to fabricate crowns, appliances, dentures etc. It is no accident that your dentist has chosen a particular lab for construction of dental prosthetics. Good teamwork is a necessity in completing consistently excellent work. Dentists search for labs that will give them the quality and teamwork they demand.

Ask your dentist about the lab used to complete your dental work. Most likely your dentist will brag about the quality of the labwork. Remember, your dental work is only as good as the quality and expertise of the lab technician. Some dental offices have a dental lab on the premises. This can be a tremendous advantage for patients, because often the lab technician works extremely close with the dentist. In turn, you receive a final construction that is very comfortable as well as aesthetic.

In short, dental laboratory technicians are often the unsung heroes, laboring diligently in the construction of excellent dental work. They deserve our gratitude.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the offices of:

Lecture on new Anne Frank edition slated

The definitive edition of Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl published this year will be the topic of a lecture at the Bethlehem Public Library on 451 Delaware Ave. on Tuesday, June 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Shelly Shapiro, co-author with the Anne Frank Center USA of a readers' companion to the new edition, will discuss the literary and historical significance of the book.

Call the library at 439-9314 to register for this free program.

Shapiro is director of the Holocaust Survivors and Friends Education Center in Latham, an adjunct professor at the University of Albany School of Education, and co-author and editor of the book Truth Prevails: Demolishing Holocaust Denial.

Recently, she was honored by the New York State Board of Regents as the 1994-95 recipient of the Yavner Award for Teacher of the Year in Holocaust education.

Survey to poll parents of middle school pupils

All Bethlehem Middle School parents should be checking the mail for a copy of the Survey of Parent Practices.

The survey was created by Sharon Felson and Jean Kerwin of MiddleWorks, a network of Middle School parents dedicated to improving communications between school and home. The Survey of Parent Practices includes questions about curfews, allowances, parties and clothing policies.

This information will be extremely helpful to parents when their children inevitably say, "Everybody's doing it." The survey results will help parents find out what is really going on.

A large response is necessary to make this project a success. Results will be published in The Spotlight and in the Parent to Parent Handbook which will be distributed to all parents of Bethlehem Central Middle School students in the fall.

All individual responses will be kept completely confidential. Respond by mailing the survey to the middle school at 332 Kenwood Ave., or faxing it to 475-0910.

Parks & rec accepting phone registrations

The Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department is now accepting phone-in registration for all summer programs. Openings remain in many programs including youth basketball, track and field and volleyball clinics, kung fu, waterworks, adult tennis clinics and adult basketball.

Also new for this summer is an all-day playground program. Openings still remain.

Register by phone 439-4131, in person or mail. Office hours are Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Participants must be residents of the town of Bethlehem or the Bethlehem Central School District.

Filmmaker to present program May 31

Albany filmmaker Steve Swartz will visit the library to discuss "Independent Filmmaking: Making, Marketing and Distributing Your Own Film" on Wednesday, May 31, at 7 p.m.

Call the library at 439-9314 for reservations.

The program is not just for filmmakers - anyone who loves film and/or pop culture will enjoy this unique offering.

Swartz will talk about how to get your own film made and distributed and lead a lively discussion about both the independent and mainstream movie scenes. He will show a portion of his feature film "Never Leave Nevada."

"Lots of people love film, but there's not much of a chance to talk about it," Swartz said. "I'd like to see a film discussion group, just like for books."

The program is free and open to the public.

Swartz, an Albany area native, holds a master's in film production from the University of Texas. He has worked in film and television for 20 years and is a former film school instructor.

He made "Never Leave Nevada," an adult comedy, in the late 1980s. The film, which was shot in Texas and Nevada and took 2 1/2 years to make, premiered in 1990 in Utah at the Sundance Film Festival, Robert Redford's showcase for independent filmmakers. "Never Leave Nevada" opened in New York, Los Angeles, and Cannes in 1991.

Swartz said, "The film is notable because most of today's hottest, young independent filmmakers worked on it." These include Rick Linklater, who directed "Slacker" and "Dazed and Confused," two well-received films about the Austin youth scene, and this year's hit "Before Sunrise."

Ethan Hawke, who was seen in "Dead Poets Society" and stars in "Before Sunrise," also appeared in the film, as did 24-year-old Chicano filmmaker Robert Rodriguez, who went on to write, direct and produce "El Mariachi."

The score of "Never Leave Nevada" is by the Grammy-winning Austin-based country band Asleep at the Wheel.

There are displays galore at the library this month. Local artists Susan Wooster and Colleen Skiff Kriss share the foyer gallery.

Kriss' exhibit, "Angels and Other Beings," consists of eleven alkyds, a fast-drying oil that give the paintings the look of pastels.

Kriss, a teacher and art therapist, is a Delmar resident. Wooster, who teaches art at Bethlehem Central Middle School, is exhibiting 15 watercolors of flora and nature scenes.

The library is also hosting an exhibit celebrating New York State Archaeology Week by Floyd Brewer. The display features artifacts uncovered by Bethlehem Archaeology Group digs.

Local resident Elizabeth Kay is exhibiting her collection of sea shells, and Howard Gmelch has contributed to a 50th anniversary display of historic Albany and French newspapers announcing the end of World War II in Europe.

In the children's room, Paul Sypek, 9, a third-grade pupil at Slingerlands School, is displaying his collection of butterflies and other insects.

Author/illustrator Diane DeGroat is the children's room author of the month. She has illustrated more than 70 books, including works by Johanna Hurwitz, Eve Bunting and Anne Lemieux. All exhibits continue until May 31.

The library will be closed on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, May 27, 28 and 29 for Memorial Day.

Gallery to display Delmar potter's works

"Air and Stone" will be the main gallery exhibit through May 30 at the Broadway Gallery, 991 Broadway in Albany.

"Air" alludes to the aerial drawings and paintings by popular local artist Andrew Masino, and "stone" is in reference to the fluid, graceful pottery crafted by Ulla Sattinger of Delmar.

"Nature's Inspiration," a collection of realistic landscape and floral paintings by Rita Buttiker, will be the May solo exhibit in the lobby gallery.

Gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m.

For information, call 463-3252.

Extension to teach backyard composting

The Cornell Cooperative Extension of Albany County is planning a backyard composting demonstration site. The site will include examples of composting units suitable for handling the yard and kitchen wastes of most homes.

For information, call 765-3500.

Extension to celebrate 80 years of service

The Cornell Cooperative Extension of Albany County will celebrate its 80th anniversary of serving the residents of Albany County on Saturday, June 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the William Rice Jr. Extension Center on Martin Road in Voorheesville.

Festivities will include a guided farm and garden tour, composting demonstrations, exhibits and live programs by extension agents and staff, musical events, and many more attractions and educational projects.

Join the fun at state campgrounds

With Memorial Day weekend fast approaching, the state Department of Environmental Conservation urges all New Yorkers to enjoy the family fun available at EnCon's 50 campgrounds in the Adirondacks and Catskills.

Throughout New York last year, 1.5 million people visited EnCon Campgrounds, and this year that number is likely to rise, said EnCon Spokesman Gary Sheffer. A campground vacation is appealing for a number of reasons. "Generally they (campground vacations) are a very inexpensive option for families," said Sheffer.

Depending on the amenities at the campground, fees range from $9 to $15.

Special registration procedures will be enforced for Memorial Day weekend at several campgrounds, including Hearthstone Point and Rogers Rock in Warren County, Northampton Beach and Caroga Lake in Fulton County and Moffitt Beach and Sacandaga in Hamilton County.

At these campgrounds, only registered campers will be allowed in the facilities from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m., and campers will be required to complete pre-registration forms.

For Memorial Day weekend, campers with more than one case of beer, one beer ball, one liter of liquor or two liters of wine will be required to get a special alcohol permit.

In addition, at Hearthstone Point, Rogers Rock and Caroga Lake campgrounds, special ID bracelets will be issued to all registered campers in an effort to curtail unauthorized entry. At Hearthstone and Rogers Rock, there will be no day-use or visitors allowed.

At all EnCon campgrounds, no one under age 21 is permitted to possess alcoholic beverages. Those who are age 21 or older who are in possession of alcohol must produce proper identification and proof of age upon request from an authorized campground supervisor, park ranger or police officer.

Anyone who violates the rules or regulations of EnCon campgrounds is subject to immediate removal from the campground without a refund.

A copy of the rules and regulations is available at the registration booth at the campgrounds.

For a free brochure on EnCon campgrounds, call 457-2500 or write to the State Department of Environmental Conservation, Summer Recreation, 50 Wolf Road, Albany 12233-5253.

The camping season is open through Labor Day.

New book adds spice to old summer foods

Summer has finally arrived, and with it comes the chance to get out of the kitchen and cook in the great outdoors.

Barbecuing is a great and easy way to get out of that warm kitchen and cool off and relax, while cooking dinner on the grill. To spice up old recipes and help create new dishes, Margaret Fraser has written "The Random House Barbecue and Summer Foods Cookbook."

A sample menu from the book includes:

Cheddar-topped beef burgers

Ingredients: 3/4 cup shredded old Cheddar cheese, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1/3 cup chopped green onions, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet red pepper, 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard, 1 egg, 1/4 cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons water or milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon each pepper and dried thyme, 1 pound ground beef

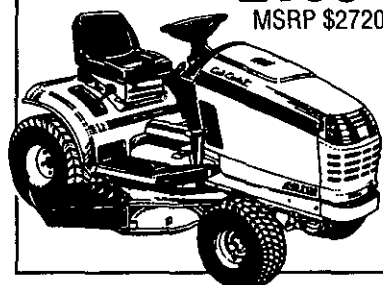

In small bowl, combine cheese, mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons of the onions, red pepper and half of the mustard. Cover and set aside. In bowl, beat egg; mix in bread crumbs, water, salt, pepper, thyme, and remaining onions and mustard. Mix in beef; shape into 4 patties.

Cook patties on greased grill over hot coals or on high setting for 5 minutes; turn and cook for 2 minutes longer. Spread cheese topping over patties and cook for 2 to 3 minutes longer or until desired doneness and cheese has melted. Serves 4. Serve on toasted whole wheat rolls.

Sports experts recommend running gear

Choosing the right shoes, socks and clothes can enhance runners' performance in all seasons. However, special fabrics are formulated to increase comfort during warm-weather runs.

According to the SGMA Sports Apparel Products Council, consumers should look for the following qualities in running gear:

- Fabrics should be used that draw moisture away from the body to keep you and your clothes cool, dry and free of moisture.
- The fabric should also "breathe," in order to keep you from getting overheated.
- You want to feel your clothes as little as possible. Make sure clothes are light and do not stick to your body.

• Choose bright colors to be fashionable and safe. These colors help motorists, cyclists and pedestrians to see you.

One of the most important pieces of sports equipment used by runners is their shoes. Runners should consider the following factors when selecting shoes:

- They must absorb shock to prevent injuries like shin splints.
- They should give support to stabilize your feet, in order to prevent injuries to ankles, knees and thigh bones.
- They must be lightweight and comfortable to wear.

Most importantly, shoes should be running shoes and not any other type of shoe on the market (aerobic, tennis, etc.).

When trying on shoes, you should wear the same socks that you will be running in. Socks may be thick or thin; it is just a personal preference. However, they should be able to manage moisture and keep feet cool and dry. Many runners prefer to wear thick socks, because they provide extra padding and last longer.

This season's suits offer more support for swimmers

This season's swimsuits can make the traditional summer "unveiling" a little less daunting for many women. According to fashion experts, the secret is foundation-garment construction for comfortable support and figure control.

Catherine Glover, fashion director for Spiegel, a catalogue sales outlet, said, "We're discovering that women want extra support in swimsuits. They're opting for underwire in tops, whether it's a one-piece or two-piece suit, and high-waisted bottoms with tummy-control panels are doing extremely well."

Color is another important factor this season, she said. Brights are strong, such as tropical florals or bold solids like French Blue or Azalea. A lush floral one-piece suit with gold accents will be right in fashion this summer, she said. Sophisticated black-and-white one-piece suits feature sheer panels for dramatic contrast.

Glover offers these helpful tips for getting the best swimsuit:

- Use a full-length mirror, and turn on the brightest light in the room. Remember, you'll be wearing this suit in the sun.

- Move in the suit. Touch your toes and raise your arms to make sure the suit doesn't pull in the crotch.

- Concentrate on your rear view. There's nothing more annoying than a suit that keeps riding up — and few things less attractive than constantly tugging at it.

- If you are a serious swimmer, approximate those motions when you try on the suit. Make sure the straps stay put.

• Be sure you are not spilling out of the cups. It is better to go up one size than to have to worry about accidental exposure.

- Most importantly, take your time, so you won't have to worry about an ill-fitting or uncomfortable swimsuit later.

Plant doctor prescribes techniques

Ellen Henke, Ph.D., known as America's Plant Doctor, recommends the following tips for growing great vegetables:

- Enrich the soil and improve its texture with compost. Make your own compost in a pile or even more efficiently in an enclosed bin.

- Try to plant on a schedule that does not coincide with pest-emergence times. Remove pest habitats, and plant pest-resistant and disease-resistant varieties if available. If pesticides are necessary, investigate insecticidal soaps and botanicals, and try to apply spot treatments for specific problems.

- Nurture healthy soil and healthy plants, since weak plants that are under stress are more prone to problems. Clean the garden, as well as the places where pests overwinter, regularly to eliminate pest eggs.

- Cold-tolerant vegetables, like lettuces, spinach and peas, are best grown from seeds and can be planted as soon as the soil is workable. Other fast-maturing types, like cucumbers, pumpkins and beans, can be planted from seeds after the danger of frost is past.

- Slow-growing varieties, like eggplants, peppers and tomatoes, should be started from seeds indoors or bought from nurseries.

Don't Drink and Drive!

Good driving requires more than keeping alert and driving defensively. What you do before you get into that car is even more important. If you drink alcohol and then get behind the wheel — no matter how good a driver you are — you become a danger to yourself, your passengers, pedestrians and other motorists.

Unfortunately in Albany County, most DWI fatalities involve passengers.

Memorial Day parade dedicated to Boy Scout Troop 73

This year's Memorial Day parade in Voorheesville is dedicated to Boy Scout Troop 73 which is celebrating its 75th anniversary. Scoutmaster Ray Ginter is the parade grand marshal.

A memorial ceremony and trophy presentation will be held after the parade on the village green behind village hall.

Commander Jack McClintock of American Legion Post 1493 will lead the ceremony. State Sen. Michael Hoblock will be the guest speaker.

There will be children's races on the village green following the memorial ceremony. Free refreshments will be provided by the Legion Post.

The 20th annual Voorheesville races include a 15K race that is part cross country and part road race and a 3.5K road race. The 15K race starts at noon and the 3.2K race at 12:05 p.m. on Saturday, May 27.

Both races start and finish in front of the Voorheesville Ambulance building on Voorheesville Avenue.

Entry forms will be available at a table next to the ambulance building. Runners must sign up by 11 a.m. the morning of the race.

Entry forms are available in

There is a $6 entry fee.
The Boy Scouts annual 25-mile bicycle Tour de Troop is also set for Saturday, May 27, starting at 11:50 a.m. in front of the First United Methodist Church on Maple Avenue.

There is no entry fee.

Kiwanis sponsors barbecue, soap stars after parade

Voorheesville's very own soap opera star, and her hunky co-star, will be featured guests of the New Scotland Kiwanis following the parade on Saturday.

Yvonne Perry, who plays Rosanna Cabot on "As the World Turns," and co-star Shawn Christian (her boyfriend Mike Kasnoff) on the show will sign autographs from 1 to 3 p.m. in village Memorial Park, at the corner of Route 85A and Voorheesville Avenue.

All proceeds from the fans will go to the Albany Medical Center Pediatric Trauma Center.

Called "daytime's sexiest couple" by Alan Carter of Entertainment Weekly, Perry and Christian portray one the classic soap-opera relationships - rich girl loves poor-but-honest guy, despite her family's intense disapproval.

Perry, a 1984 graduate of Clayton A. Bouton High School, grew up on Picard Road and is the daughter of Kiwanian Vincent Perry.

In addition to sponsoring the children's and road races, Kiwanians will also cook up a Brooks chicken barbecue for 2 to 7 p.m. next to Memorial Park. Proceeds will go to support the club's sponsorship of youth programs.

The cost is $6.75 for adults and $5 for children.

Fire company to serve hungry man's breakfast

The Voorheesville Volunteer Fire Department will serve hungry man's breakfasts on Sunday and Monday, May 28 and 29, from 7 a.m. to noon, at the firehouse on Altamont Road.

Breakfast includes pancakes, french toast, eggs, sausages, and a beverage.

The cost is $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Yvonne Perry and Shawn Christian will sign autographs from 1 to 3 p.m. following the parade.

V'ville classes invited to reunion

The Voorheesville High School class of 1965 is extending an invitation to members of all classes from the late 1960s and early 1970s to attend a reunion picnic in the pear orchard pavilion at Thacher Park on Saturday, Aug. 12.

Organizers will provide paper goods, utensils, condiments, a large pot of chili, and a gas grill. Everyone is asked to bring a dish to share and a main course for their own family.

There is a $3 per car park fee.

Everyone is encouraged to bring pictures, old yearbooks and memorabilia to share.

Call Donna Sutton Ginder at 439-0032 before June 15 if you plan to attend.

Sale, auction slated Saturday at church

An added attraction at the Saturday Memorial Day weekend celebration will be another innovative Friends of the Library idea known as a Chinese Auction.

Local merchants have donated useful and interesting items to be auctioned off with raffle tickets. You can buy several tickets for a dollar and place the tickets in the appropriate basket near the prizes you would most like to win.

Put all your tickets in one basket to increase your chances of winning or distribute them any way you want.

Raffle tickets for the wall hanging and lap quilt donated by the Krazy Quilters are now on sale at the library or from any Friends member.

Both drawings will take place at the end of the annual book sale in the Methodist Church parking lot.

Book lovers can walk away with an entire bag of books for a mere $2 at this year's sale. There are many children's books, so bring the kids to pick out a pile of reading material.

The sale starts at 9 a.m. before the parade — and the best books will go fast — so come early for a good selection.

The young people's department has a request for postage stamps — used are fine — for a 1995 summer Reading Club program. Stamps can be dropped off in the yellow box at the young people's librarian's desk.

The library is also looking for an international doll for display in the showcase in June in conjunction with the reading club theme of Read All Over the World. If you have a multi-cultural doll that you are willing to loan, call Meg Seiberger-Hughes at 765-2791.

The Every Other Thursday Night Poets will meet on May 25 at 7 p.m.

The library will be closed on Saturday, May 27, and Monday, May 29, for the beginning of barbecue season. Plan ahead to get your books and videos.

Applications are available at the BCHS athletic office, the Bethlehem Central School nursing office and local elementary schools, or by calling Zornow at 439-6241 or 439-4921. The deadline for responding is Friday, June 9.

Bike racers taking to the road in June

Team Superclub and the OTRCC are planning the Rural Albany Twilight series of bicycle races for Thursdays, June 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29.

The races will begin at 6 p.m., leaving from the corner of Ostrander and Stone roads in Voorheesville.

Proceeds will benefit the Voorheesville DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program.

Entry fee is $8 per day, $2 for those under 18. For information, call 272-9244.

V'ville Class of '65 to reunite this summer

The Voorheesville High School Class of 1965 has scheduled its 30th reunion on Saturday, Aug. 12, at John Boyd Thacher State Park.

The reunion will be held at the Pear Orchard Pavilion, the first pavilion on the right coming into the pool area of the park.

For information or reservations, call Donna (Sutton) Ginder at 439-0032.

Stephanie Bollam, left, Becky Marvin and Linda Drew are hoping to find a director for the Friendship Singers.

Hugh Hewitt

Singers seeking new director

The Friendship Singers are lifting their voices in the hopes of attracting a new director to the 13-year old volunteer group.

"We're facing demise," said Stephanie Bollam, one of the original members of the women's vocal group. She said the group's current director, Norma Irvine is moving to North Carolina.

The Friendship Singers began as a church group in the Community United Methodist Church in Slingerlands, later becoming a community organization. The singers still rehearse on Tuesday mornings throughout the school year at the church on Route 85.

"We need to find a new director; There's no one in the group who wants to step up," said Bollam.

The singers perform at varied venues from grade schools to nursing homes to the county jail to The Troy Savings Bank Music Hall. "We've maintained a real satisfaction from sharing music with all ages," she said. Bollam said the group is flexible and would be willing to change the rehearsal day to accommodate the schedule of an incoming director. The group itself has changed over the years, adding dance to its repertoire. "the original group sang less popular and Broadway music compared to now," said Bollam.

Linda Drew, Friendship Singers accompanist, said performing at the music halls was one of the highlights of her association with the group.

"It was the most fun and the most challenging," said Becky Marvin about the music hall performance.

But for Bollam, performing at the Albany County Correctional Facility for women was especially gratifying. "The response that we received" was unbelievable, she said.

Marvin recalled one performance at a nursing home that brought tears to one of the resident's eyes. "It was most moving," she said.

Prospective directors can send resumes to: Director, 79 Paxwood Road, Delmar 12054.

V'ville girls capture Colonial

By Joshua White

The Voorheesville girls softball team overcame the odds on Friday afternoon to defeat league rival Averill Park 4-3 to clinch the Colonial Council Championship.

The Lady Birds, who upended the Lady Warriors for the second time this season, had to contend with playing in rainy conditions and on their opponents' field.

However, Voorheesville took advantage of the playing conditions in the first inning. RBI singles by seniors Kelly Griffin and Kristin Dougherty and two Averill Park throwing errors helped give the Lady Birds a 3-0 lead.

The bats for Voorheesville then went cold as the team went scoreless over the next five innings. Averill Park countered by scoring a run in the third and two in the fifth inning to tie the score at 3.

With the game tied at 3 entering the final inning, Larina Suker stroked a 2-2 pitch for a ground-rule double. Sophomore Tia Sullivan pinch-ran for Suker and went to third on a bunt by Lauryn Lloyd. A fly ball to right field by Cristie Arena scored Sullivan with the game-winning run.

Suker was the star of the game once again for Voorheesville (14-1 league, 16-2 overall). In addition to scoring the winning run, Larina struck out 10 and turned a key double play in the bottom of the seventh inning to clinch the win. Ironically, in an earlier season-matchup at Averill Park, Suker belted a solo home run to lead the Lady Birds to a 1-0 victory.

"This was a special win for us," said head coach Nadine Bassler. "The girls handled the pressures of defending the championship. We defied the odds by not only playing in Averill Park, but with the conditions we were dealt."

On Tuesday, May 16, as a result of committing four errors in the field, Mechanicville handed Voorheesville its first league loss of the season 4-2.

The loss broke V'ville's 31-game league winning streak. The Lady Birds' last Colonial Council loss came against Mechanicville in their 1994 season opener. Voorheesville now awaits its seeding in the upcoming Section II, Class C Tournament.

V'ville junior Jenn Delaney takes a mighty swing during recent Colonial Council action. Next up for the Lady Birds is the Section II tournament. The girls are hoping for a number one seed. Jon Getnick

Sharks start off strong

The Bethlehem Sharks have begun their season with a record of 2-0-2.

Playing in the Under-12 Division 4, the Under-11 team has defeated Albany Parks by scores of 2-0 and 5-1 and have tied Averill Park, 2-2, and Lakehill, 1-1. Mark Bulger, Ryan Dalton, Erik Lowery, Kevin Neubauer, Mike Nuttall, Nitin Roper, and Stephen Perazzelli have all been credited with goals. Fullbacks Michael Hoghe and Andrew Swiatowicz have limited the number of balls that goalies Michael Nuttall and Erik Turner must handle.

The strong play of these forwards and midfielders completes the overall team effort: Zachary Gray, Ryan Hogan, Stephen Hoghe and Dan Kidera.

The team returns to action on Tuesday, May 23, against Clifton Park.

Cliffhangers mark TVLL action

By James Williams

How much excitement can a person take in two days? If you are a player or coach on the Davies Office Refurbishing Little League team, the answer would be about 15 innings worth.

Davies played back-to-back games Friday and Saturday, both of which went into extra innings and were finally decided by one run. They lost the first game, 7-6, to Farm Family Insurance after seven innings, and then came back Saturday to defeat Messina and Cahill, 4-3, in eight innings. Regulation play is six innings.

In Friday's game, Davies opened a four-run lead in the second inning, which was answered with one run by Farm Family in the top of the third. Farm Family added two more in fifth when pitcher Mark Melcher drew a walk, Rick Root singled him home, Chris Kasarjian hit a single and came home on a fielder's choice.

With the score tied 4-4 at the bottom of the sixth, both starting pitchers, Avi Rasowsky for Davies and Malk Melcher for Farm Family, had to be relieved because of the league's six inning pitching limit rule.

Mound chores fell to Steve Maltzman for Davies who issued three runs, bringing the score to 7-4 in the bottom of the seventh inning, and Davies coming to bat. Farm Family's reliever, Jean Laraway, gave up three walks and a single to Rasowsky, and found herself with the bases loaded, two outs and the score 7-6.

She heaved a wild pitch that got away from catcher Kenneth Porter, and brought the runner speeding home with the potential tying run. But Porter scrambled back in time, and tagged out the runner, ending the game.

The next day Davies found itself in another extra-inning nail-biter against Messina and Cahill. This time Davies had to battle back from a 3-0 deficit opened up in the third inning by a lead-off home run by Messina's Brian Rowan.

Again the starting pitchers, Jimmy Morrill for Davies and Brian Rowan for the Messinamen, had to be relieved at the end of the regulation six innings with the score notched at 3-3.

Neither team scored in the seventh inning, as relievers Morgan Gmelch (for Davies) and Matt Primomo (for Messina and Cahill) held their ground.

Gmelch got the side out in the top of the eighth, and moments later he came home with the game-winning score on a fielding miscue, giving Davies a heart-stopping 4-3 come-from-behind victory.

Elsewhere in the Little League's fourth week of action, Horticulture Unlimited defeated Farm Family, 5-3 Saturday, Howard Banner, DDS, lost to Burt Anthony Associates 8-1 Saturday.

Jeffrey Levine, CFP, and the Jawbreakers split a weekend pair — the Jawbreakers winning Saturday, 10-7, and Levine winning Sunday, 11-2.

Friedman's Flyers, which has been struggling so far this season, put a big hit on Messina & Cahill Sunday, defeating their opponent 15-6.

Eagles just miss out on tournament bid

By Janice Gallagher

The idea that a team always plays better against better teams held true for the BC baseball team (7-7, 10-11) this year.

Although they narrowly missed sectionals, they did manage to beat four, first-place area teams, including Columbia and Troy last week. A Columbia victory would have clinched the Gold Division title for the Blue Devils, and Troy remains in first place in the Big Ten.

BC is now in fifth place in the section. The top four teams will go to sectionals.

Last Wednesday, May 17, the Eagles avenged an early season defeat at the hands of Columbia with a 9-8 win.

Kosoc pitched an unusually high-scoring game, giving up nine hits and four earned runs, but still striking out 10 and walking only one. These nine hits make up 45 percent of the hits Kosoc has given up all season.

"The team needed to help (Kosoc) by scoring some runs against one of the hardest pitchers around and against a good team, and we did," said coach Jesse Braverman. "It was a good team win." And indeed the hitting was the most impressive of the season.

No one had tripled all year, but against Columbia, BC's Martin Cadieux had two triples, while Dan Conway and Aaron Thorpe each had one. John Czajka, Eric Bartoletti and Mike Soronen each had an RBI.

This win came off of a 9-8 loss to Saratoga on Monday. Although the Eagles came back from a 4-0 and 9-6 deficit, they couldn't pull it through in the end.

Nevertheless, the hitting effort was valiant, led by sophomore Jeff McQuide, Soronen and Bartoletti.

On Thursday, May 18, the Eagles once again proved that they are competitive in the area with a 7-2 win against Troy. They also won for the second time without Kosoc on the mound. Mike DelGiaco, a promising sophomore pitcher, had his first varsity win, pitching seven innings and striking out five and allowing two runs.

The BC hitting reached a peak with a season-high 13 hits. Kosoc singled and homered, Josh Naylor had two singles and a double.

On Saturday, the Eagles fought another close game, but ended up on the short side of the 13-12 Cobleskill game. "We had one bad inning with defensive lapses, and that ended up costing us the game," Braverman said.

VV bats heat up a little too late

By Kelly Griffin

When the weather warmed up, so did the Voorheesville baseball team.

The Blackbirds raised their record to 5-10 in the league with a 9-2 thumping of Waterford on Monday. Jason Patterson yielded five hits and struck out 13 to gain the win.

The team nabbed its third win of the season on Tuesday, May 16 — once again versus Waterford. "It was the first game this year that we got a lot of hits in a row," said head coach Bill Logan. "Our offense really came on strong."

The Blackbirds were led by the bats of Adam Cole, Joe Robichaud and Steve Pilatske, all of whom had two hits and three RBIs each. Brandon Emerick had two hits and two RBIs, Tom Iarossi had two hits and an RBI, and Dan Meservy chipped in two more hits.

This offensive surge earned Voorheesville the 15-8 victory. Emerick and Pilatske also excelled on the mound for Vville.

One bad inning cost the Blackbirds a game against Schalmont last Wednesday. Although Vville had four hits to Schalmont's two, errors in the field resulted in unearned runs and a victory for Schalmont.

Baseball

"They scored three runs in the fifth inning when we had two key errors," said Logan. "That was our downfall."

"Kevin Nugent pitched the best game I've ever seen," Logan said. "He did a great job, and really shut them down. Schalmont has a strong hitting team, and Kevin kept them off-balance all day."

The senior had four strikeouts and gave up only two hits. Robichaud led the Vville offense with two singles. Pilatske and Sean Devine each added a single.

The Blackbirds had a discouraging matchup with Albany Academy last Thursday in which Academy pounded out 22 hits and amassed 21 runs.

"They just hit the ball all over the place," said Logan. "We tried three different pitchers, but no one could stop them."

"The outcome of the season was not totally unexpected. At the beginning of the year, our major concern was our hitting, and it has proven to be our weakness. Right now we're batting .210 as a team and only getting four or five hits a game. We aren't going to score a lot of runs like that."

BC boys team 4th in Council

By Ted Hartman

The Bethlehem boys track team finished its season last week with a 6-4 record. The squad placed second in the Gold Division and fourth in the Suburban Council.

Last Thursday, BC competed in its final meet against opponents Columbia and Scotia, beating them 96-85 and 112-68 respectively.

Track & Field

The Eagles' mile relay team came in first with members freshman Scott Cavanaugh, junior Adam Bender, junior Matt Zalen, and senior Scott Rivard.

Cavanaugh was also on the winning 4 x 8 relay team along with Rivard, sophomore Matt Clement, and junior Colin Mooney. Cavanaugh won the 800 meter dash as well, with a time of 2:06.

Off the track, Jason Gutman stood out for Bethlehem. The senior won both the high jump and the discus throw. He finished second in the shot put.

"Our performance in field events has been the key our success this season," said coach Dave Banas. "Over the past few years we have improved in this area tremendously. There was a time when we would only score 20 points in the field."

Suit

intended to file suit after suit to keep us from being able to build," Sister Diaz said.

Douglas and Cheryl Fisher, along with Michael and Rona Devane, were the petitioners named in the Article 78 proceeding filed in state Supreme Court in Albany last week. The suit seeks an annulment of the recent Bethlehem Planning Board approval of the project site plan.

While June 9 is the date that has been set to hear the case, it could take several weeks before a decision is rendered, according to town attorney Bernard Kaplowitz. That could delay plans by the Diocese to start construction this summer since the Article 78 means an automatic stay of proceedings, barring the town from issuing any building permits until a court decision is rendered.

The 50-unit apartment complex is slated for a six-acre site off Krumkill Road. Residents of Marquis Drive, which would be the main ingress and egress for Marie Rose Manor, have objected to the project, claiming it would negatively affect their neighborhood.

The only other access to Marie Rose Manor would be along Autumn Drive, a private road owned by The Beverwyck Retirement Community that can only be used in emergencies.

In seeking to annul the planning board action, Fisher cited the effects of added traffic on Marquis Drive from trucks, vans and other vehicles servicing the senior development.

Also mentioned is the decline in property values allegedly caused by a multi-unit development being located adjacent to a single-family housing area.

In a prepared statement, Fisher said, "We have commenced the first of a series of lawsuits challenging approval ... of the 50-unit apartment building to be located at the end of Marquis Drive.

"It is unfortunate legal action was necessary, however, all of our concerns previously raised to town officials, the sponsor and others were inadequately acted upon. We are extremely confident that the court will fully agree with our position in this action and reverse the site approval given by the town planning board."

Planning board chairman Doug Hasbrouck denied the neighbors were given short shrift. "I think everything was addressed and I think they know that."

Sister Diaz said the $3.2 million in federal money that makes the project possible "will not be jeopardized at this point in time. We have 18 months from the time the grant was made (Sept. 30, 1994) to start construction and HUD (the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development) is anxious for us to move forward."

Residents of the Dutchbrook development (including Marquis Drive and Clifton Way) made their concerns known to the planning board during review proceedings last year, but panel members did not feel the issues raised were significant enough to deny the application.

Officials of DePaul Management Corp. earlier this year commissioned a traffic study from the Creighton Manning Engineering firm that concluded the project would produce only about 14 additional vehicle trips per peak hour (from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.).

Town board members have been solidly behind the project since it was first proposed in 1993, voting to rezone the Marie Rose Manor parcel from residential to senior housing district — a special designation meant to encourage such projects in the town. Fisher plans another lawsuit within the next few weeks challenging the zone change.

prices" are. "The industry makes the customer uncomfortable and insecure," and that has changed the relationship between the retailer and the buyer, she said.

Another problem is the feeling of uncertainty resulting from the delayed state budget and the future of many state workers' jobs. In the past, state workers who live and shop locally have always been a stable population, whereas now, "They feel insecure," said Schuyler.

"When people are feeling insecure, it's not the time they make a furniture purchase," she added.

She said she thinks the furniture business will ride out the slump when the economic dust settles, but she is eager to pay her debts through an inventory reduction sale.

She said she has always done business by her parents' rules: "Buy beautiful things, always tell the truth, pay your bills, treat customers as someone special and you'll be fine," but the rules seem to be changing in today's world.

Schuyler said the decision was not an easy one. "I really feel sad. First of all, this business was a continuation of a 40-year service to Delmar." Village Furniture had evolved as an extension of the Village Shop, which was started by Schuyler's father, Herman Rasker. Schuyler took it over nine years ago in a 900-square-foot space on 411 Kenwood Ave.

"We had country pine pieces and a few rugs," she recalled, adding that the business quickly outgrew its limited space.

For the next five years, the store was located at 380 Delaware Ave., which now houses I Love Books. The Village Furniture Company then moved to Main Square nearly three years ago. As a result of the three large windows facing Delaware Avenue, the space and light of the Main Square space helped create "a certain charm" to the store and its wares. "Customers come in and they say 'I want to stay.'"

But Schuyler will miss more than the ambiance when she leaves. She said she will sorely miss her staff — Della Haggerty (with more than 30 years), Gordon Blaisdell, Cindy Daley, Glenna Magee, Kevin Northrup and Brian Scott. "Some of them worked for my parents — I feel tremendous attachment and respect," for them," Schuyler said.

The Village Furniture Company will first close for two days, today, May 24, and May 25 to prepare for a final sale, which is scheduled to last throughout June.

For customers who have already placed orders, Schuyler said she wants to assure them that all orders will be completed. "People who have special orders have no reason for concern," she said.

"I've been blessed to work in this community, and I feel like the customers are my extended family."

Southgate

Rubin Organization of Philadelphia "appear to have done a pretty credible job in addressing the board concerns," said town planner Jeff Lipnicky.

"My suspicion is that they will probably end up recommending that the (planning) board consider (the DEIS) complete," Lipnicky said.

Should the planning board make that recommendation to the town board, which has lead agency status, a full-fledged public review of the controversial project could begin this summer.

Town Supervisor Sheila Fuller said that if the planning board acts on May 31, she's prepared to seek action at the June 14 town board meeting as far as setting a public comment period and the date for a public hearing on the 423,000-square-foot plaza.

For a while, it looked like the project would never get off the ground. The original DEIS submitted last summer was roundly criticized by the Tectonic Engineering Co. of Highland Mills and Greenplan Inc. of Rhinebeck. The consultants identified more than 350 omissions and oversights regarding the project's impact on traffic, noise and safety.

The Rubin Organization, which has owned the 75-acre Southgate parcel since the early 1970s, has been pushing for prompt action by town officials since the plan was unveiled in 1993.

The anticipated action of the planning board is "certainly good news," said project director Doug Grayson. "I hope the planning board follows through because this is what we've been shooting for for a long time."

Grayson declined comment on whether the Rubin Organization would be amenable to building a smaller-scale mall along the lines of 250,000 square feet.

As part of the revised DEIS, the developer was required to describe the impact from a 250,000-foot shopping center — the maximum size recommended recently in the town master plan.

"Obviously, we'd prefer to do what we initially applied for," Grayson said. But at least one town member, Doris Davis, has come out opposed to the larger-scale plan, citing the significant impacts that Southgate would have on the surrounding area.

If at all possible the company would like to start construction this year and open the shopping center by the time school begins in the fall of 1996, Grayson said.

The anchor store for the Southgate complex is expected to be a K mart "Super K" that combines a supermarket with a discount general merchandise store.

Members of Citizens Monitoring Southgate, a grass-roots organization opposed to the project, plan to contest the conclusion that the DEIS is now complete.

Riverside revel to kick off summer fun

By Susan Graves

Usher in summer with your family at Albany's first-ever "Festival on the Hudson" on Saturday and Sunday, June 3 and 4, at the Corning Preserve.

The festival kicks off at noon both days and is designed as a family-oriented event on the waterfront.

Instead of traditional food vendors, the festival will offer "a taste of Albany" from nine restaurants, representing some of the best cuisine the city has to offer, said Andrew McCoy of radio station K-Lite. K-Lite, WABY and the city of Albany are co-sponsoring the festival.

Albany Mayor Gerry Jennings said the festival will provide an opportunity for people to "celebrate our historic connection with the river."

According to McCoy, the festival will also feature tethered rides on the RE/MAX hot-air balloon, midway rides for kids, clowns, magicians, crafters, fireworks by Alonzo, The DARE car, McGruff the Crime Dog and plenty of entertainment, both on and off the water. A raffle for two flyaway balloon rides will also be held.

D theater and extreme sports action films.

Admission to the festival is free, and prices for rides will be affordable for Weather permitting, the Scotia Sky Diving Club will "drop by" on Saturday between 2:30 and 3 p.m. on the lawn near the main stage. Members of the Albany Firebirds will be on hand Sunday afternoon to sign autographs and talk about football.

In addition, a Tug Boat Ballet will be offered on Saturday at 4 p.m. in which the crafts will demonstrate their mobility while shooting streams of colored water. The Coast Guard will also send two cutters to demonstrate law enforcement and rescue techniques.

Water activities include a Jet-Ski riding demonstration and a lighted parade of boats from the Albany Yacht Club on Saturday between 8:30 and 9 p.m.

In honor of the festival, the USS Albany Foundation has compiled a display in commemoration of the Navy ships that have borne the city's name.

Performers on dry land will include Susannah McCorkle and John Pizzarelli on Saturday. Entertainment begins at 5 p.m. and continues until the fireworks at 9:30 p.m.

On Sunday, the Little River Band from Australia will perform at 4:30 p.m.

The Little River Band from Australia will be one of the featured attractions at the "Festival on the Hudson," scheduled next weekend at the Corning Preserve. The event will also include food, rides, fireworks and a hot-air balloon.

Acting favorite returns to Williamstown to star in Noel Coward comedy

Frank Langella who, as a young actor, established his career working summers at the Berkshire Theater Festival in Stockbridge, Mass., and at the Williamstown Theatre Festival, will star in Noel Coward's Present Laughter this summer at Williamstown.

Langella whose starring role as Dracula in the early '70s at Stockbridge was written off as summertime camp, later developed the character in an exciting new production that took Broadway by storm and finally established him as a leading actor.

He had also worked closely with the late Nikos Psacharopoulos at Williamstown where he did a definitive Sherlock Holmes.

Still, Langella was always known as a private person who, when he married, slowed down his quest for stardom and now does an occasional movie, playing suave villains.

It was unfortunate also that in the late '70s and early '80s a disagreement with Psacharopoulos ended their working arrangement. This will be the first time Langella has appeared at Williamstown since that time. Fortunately, the friendship was renewed before the director died of cancer seven years ago.

Present Laughter plays August 2 for two weeks as the fourth play of a five-production season.

The season opens June 21 when artistic director Peter Hunt presents Alan Ayckbourn's comedy Time of My Life about a family celebration that gets turned upside down.

This will be followed by Tennessee Williams' Sweet Bird of Youth, opening on July 5. Williamstown has let few will summers in its 41-year history go by without doing a Williams' play.

The third production, Tad Mosel's All The Way Home, from James Agee's novel about a turn-of-the-century Tennessee family, opens July 19.

The fifth play, as yet unnamed, will be offered during the last two weeks of the season.

There will be well-known names appearing this summer but, as is the custom, most of these stars wait until the last minute to commit themselves because of the possibility of getting a television, movie or Broadway contract.

More information is available at (413) 597-3400.

Mychelle Vedder plays leading role in The Baltimore Waltz in Schenectady

One of the busiest young actresses in the area, Mychelle Vedder will play the lead in The Baltimore Waltz, a new play by Paul Vogel, which is being done for the first time in this region June 9 at the Lewis Wyer Theater in The Egg.

This production by Actors' Collaborative Inc. is being done as a benefit presentation for the AIDS Treatment Program at Albany Medical Center. Money from the production will also go towards the Pediatric AIDS Program at Children's Hospital at Albany Medical Center.

Martin P. Kelly

Vedder plays a woman who's trying to come to grips with the AIDS-related death of her brother, in a comedy-drama which was written from the playwright's experience.

As directed by Chris Foster, the production mingles adult humor with the drama of the woman's quest. The two male actors who are involved in the sister's drama are played by Gary Avanzato and Ward Dales.

Tickets and information are available at 382-0062.

Local actress marries and goes directly into show after honeymoon

When Carolee Ann Carmello of Albany married several months ago, she was just finishing touring with a new musical, Jekyll and Hyde.

She also knew that once back from the honeymoon, she was going into a new off-Broadway show. Fortunately, her new husband, Gregg Edelman, understands this emphasis on work, since he's also a Broadway actor.

Carmello began her acting career as a student at State University at Albany and after several shows in community theaters, tested her wings in New York and eventually flew to the Broadway stage. There she played leads in City of Angels and Falsettos.

The couple met while both performing in City of Angels for which Edelman received a Tony Award nomination.
