Sales tax checks show big second quarter hike

By Dev Tobin

After a minor bump in the road in the first quarter, Albany County's sales tax revenues recovered strongly in the second quarter, which is good news for the county and for municipalities who depend on the sales tax as their major revenue source.

For local governments, consistent growth in sales tax revenue has allowed property taxes to remain stable or even decrease while overall spending continues to rise.

While the check towns and villages received in April was down 2.1 percent from the previous year's first quarter, the check they received in July was up 5.8 percent from 1995.

"Any time we get a check, it's wonderful, especially when it keeps us on target with our budget," said Judith Kehoe, comptroller for the town of Bethlehem.

Kehoe

Bethlehem's July check was $1,489,223, up from $1,408,085 in the second quarter of 1995.

Halfway through the year, Bethlehem is now 1.7 percent ahead of last year's pace, Kehoe added.

"This more than offsets what we lost in the first quarter," agreed New Scotland Supervisor Herb Reilly.

For New Scotland, the July check was $328,600, up from $310,697 in 1995. The $17,903 increase dwarfs the $7,119 deficit from the first

BCHS hires 4 new deans

Discipline to be focus of administrators

By Dev Tobin

The biggest administrative shakeup in the history of Bethlehem Central High School is nearly complete, as the district has hired a new assistant principal and four new deans, one for each grade.

The new structure will deal with what BCHS Principal Jon Hunter calls the "unusual contradiction of a high-achieving, successful school with a less-than-effective culture."

Another reason for the change is the expected growth of the high school student population, from its current 1,292 to more than 1,500 over the next five years.

The new assistant principal, Arlene

Maranville, will focus on scheduling, grade reporting, and overall supervision and discipline, while the new deans will have specific discipline responsibility

ZBA to give thumbs up to Hoffman's

By Mel Hyman

Citing the "deplorable" condition of the abandoned restaurant at 55 Delaware Ave., members of the Bethlehem zoning board of appeals last week informally approved plans for a new car wash and oil change facility.

"This property has a history of businesses not succeeding," said board member Richard Lewis.

"My first recollection is of some sort of a wholesale parts store, and then Louie Alteri came in and built the Fiesta (restaurant). Ponderosa came in after that, and then there was a Vermont

"I think Mr. (Tom) Hoffman's (owner of Hoffman Car Wash) commitment is long-term," Lewis said. "It puts the property back on the tax rolls and removes an eyesore. If we turn them down, I don't know what is going to come in."

Asked when he planned to start building his new car wash/Jiffy Lube operation, owner Tom Hoffman acted surprised.

Squeaky wheel gets two stop signs, wants two more

By Mel Hyman

Glendale Avenue residents concerned about traffic have received half a loaf, and they're hopeful about achieving the rest once school starts and another traffic count is made.

The Bethlehem traffic safety committee last week turned down a request to make the intersection of Glendale and Maple avenues a four-way stop, and recommended instead that stop signs be erected on Maple Avenue only.

"It's a first step," said Police Lt. Richard Vanderbilt. "We're going to revisit the whole thing once school is back in, and we have a chance to put out some more counters."

The traffic counts taken recently on Glendale did not find a speeding problem, Vanderbilt said adding that traffic volume, "right now, doesn't seem to be excessive."

That could change dramatically, however, once people return from vacation and school is back in session, according to resident Nancy Heinzen.

According to residents, the problem is caused by drivers trying to avoid the traffic light at

Kenwood and Elsmere avenues by cutting across Glendale.

"I think if you had stop signs on Glendale the people who use it as a shortcut would think twice," said resident Ed Hinsdale. "It would reduce the cut-through traffic."

Glendale is only two blocks long, connecting Kenwood and Herber avenues. Residents noted that, on this relatively short stretch, there are many young families with children, some of whom use the street for recreation or for walking to their friends' houses.

To prevent vehicle/pedestrian accidents, residents want some kind of control to discourage through traffic.

While sympathetic to the residents' concerns, nearly everyone on the traffic safety committee said they are averse to using stop signs to deter speeders or effect traffic control.

In some cases where there are children around, stop signs "create a false sense of security," said committee member Douglas Shanley. "They end up thinking that just because there's a stop sign there that the cars will stop. I think it's going to hinder you more than anything."

Committee member Charles Herr said that in many cases, stop signs tend to aggravate drivers, and they speed up as a way of making up for lost time.

Heinzen disagreed with that assessment, and told the committee that given the short length of Glendale, "I don't think people will have a tendency to accelerate again. It will most likely have a dampening effect."

Statistics also show that most people do not comply with stop signs and come to a "rolling stop" rather than a full stop, Herr noted.

But even a rolling stop would be better than giving drivers carte blanche to drive the way they want, said resident Terry Rooney.

Erecting stop signs at Maple Avenue "seems like a reasonable" solution for now, he told the committee, but the real story can only be told once summer is over and people resume their normal driving habits.

It's a first step. We're going to revisit the whole thing once school is back in, and we have a chance to put out some more counters.

V'ville teachers, board meet to resolve contract

Representatives of the Voorheesville school board and teachers' union will meet Tuesday in an attempt to resolve a three-year-long impasse over a new contract before school starts in September.

The board recently offered the teachers a salary increase of about 18 percent over six years, which is closer than ever before to what the teachers have been asking for, according to board president John Cole.

Previously, the board had offered 14 percent over five years, while the teachers were pushing for 18.6 percent over five years, Cole noted.

Voorheesville Teachers Association president Mark Diefendorf said the union was eager to settle, concerned that the prolonged dispute was disrupting community support for the schools.

At the teachers' initiative, the two sides met face-to-face for the first time this year in July.

Mock industrial accident highlights safety event

The 10th annual Safety Awareness Day will feature a mock industrial accident, with evacuation provided by a State Police Life-guard helicopter.

Several teams, more than 30 people in all, will respond to the "accident" triggered by an "explosion," featuring a combination industrial service team dealing with "extensive injuries."

Victims suffering from shrapnel, smoke and the force of the blast will require medical rescue transport. Ambulance, fire and industrial personnel will work together on the medical evacuation from the helicopter airlift to a local hospital.

Safety Awareness Day, on Saturday, Aug. 17, at Elm Avenue Town Park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., is sponsored by Air Products, BOC Gases, Conrail, GE Plastics, Owens-Corning Fiberglas and Selkirk Cogen, in conjunction with the Bethlehem Police and the Bethlehem Fire Officers Association. The industry representatives meet throughout the summer to organize the events and pay all the expenses involved.

On a lighter side of Safety Awareness Day, if you have a child riding a bus to school for the first time, there'll be school bus safety tips with an actual school bus. Let your child get on and off the bus to see what that big ride will be like on the first day of school.

Conrail's Operation Lifesaver will present safety rules for railroad crossings, along with illustrations of the dangers of trespassing on railroad property and general train dynamics.

Bethlehem's recycling program will present the Economics of Environmental Shopping, covering the gamut of recycling, reuse and reduction, as well as details on composting and toxic waste.

The Bethlehem Police Youth Bureau will be on hand to photo-ID children for its Kid Care Program. Since its inception, this program has provided an instant investigative tool, if ever needed, to thousands of parents who retain this "passport" of identity information on their children.

Learn how to provide CPR or use the Heimlich maneuver. For anyone still not convinced that seat belts save lives, watch the demonstration that simulates a rollover car accident. Additional presentations will feature local fire and rescue departments. Continuous displays include blood pressure checks, the latest in eye safety wear and more.

Safety Awareness Day will offer all of these lessons in safety, as well as hot dogs, soda, popcorn and popsicles (instantly frozen by Air Products) throughout the day.

"Every year is different as we introduce additional topics of safety. We try to present the messages in interesting ways because everyone hears the message from a different level. Everyone from child to adult can learn something new from this full day dedicated to safety," said Mary Barkman, an occupational health and safety technologist at GE Plastics.

So, for an education for all ages on safety for everyday activities, bring family and friends to the safety tent at town park. No admission, no charges and plenty of door prizes every 30 minutes. It's on rain or shine, and everyone is invited.

For information, call Barkman at 475-5698, or Lorraine Smith at Selkirk Cogen at 475-5773.

Traffic group recommends limiting parking on Dorset

By Mel Hyman

To deter high school students from parking their cars on Dorset Street, the Bethlehem traffic safety committee will recommend that parking be limited to one hour on school days between 7:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

In 1988, the town board restricted parking on school days on several other streets near Bethlehem Central High School, including portions of Brockley Drive, Longmeadow Drive, Grantwood Road and all of Evelyn Drive, according to Police Lt. Richard Vanderbilt.

Now as a result of complaints from Dorset residents about high school students parking on the edge of lawns, throwing trash around and congregating around their vehicles, the committee has decided to recommend parking restrictions there.

"Eight years later, the same problems have expanded to Dorset Street," the first intersecting street with Longmeadow Drive off Delaware Avenue, Vanderbilt said.

Another school-related parking problem handled by the traffic safety committee last week involved the situation around the administrative offices of the Bethlehem Central School District on Adams Place.

"On nights when there are school board meetings, people tend to park on both sides of Adams Street and Hawthorne Avenue, which makes these streets practically impassable to large vehicles such as ambulances and fire trucks," Vanderbilt said.

To prevent this type of situation from occurring, the committee recommended that parking be prohibited on these two streets on the sides away from the district office, he said.

Specifically, the town board will be asked to consider two no-parking zones: on the east side of Adams Street from Adams Place to a point 280 feet east of Adams Place, and on the west side of Hawthorne Avenue from Adams Place to a point 260 feet south of Adams Place.

Public hearings on both these recommendations, along with a recommendation to install stop signs on Maple Avenue at its intersection with Glendale Avenue, are scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 28.

Before the recommendations become part of the town's traffic code, they must be approved by the town board.

DA, sheriff fight domestic violence

By Tom Murnane

Responding to a jump in reported cases of domestic violence in Albany County, the district attorney and sheriff have formed a new domestic violence unit.

District Attorney Sol Greenberg and Sheriff James Campbell last week unveiled a new domestic violence unit, within Greenberg's special assaults cases team, which will be comprised of prosecutors and investigators responsible for handling all domestic violence cases.

The unit already prosecutes sex offenses and child homicides, Greenberg said. The unit is expanding its work to include domestic violence and, because the members of the team already work for the county, no new staff will be hired, Greenberg said.

The special assaults team, lead by Assistant District Attorney Paul DerOhannesian, includes fellow ADA Veronica Dumas, investigator Darlene Rinaldi and unit manager Chris Muller. In the new configuration, ADA Cheryl Coleman and Lt. Sarah Stout will join the team, Greenberg said.

The new unit will help other law enforcement agencies within the County and lend support to victim advocacy organizations, he said.

One of the top priorities of the new unit is to work with advocacy groups and agencies that help battered people, DerOhannesian said.

"We want to look at all aspects of domestic violence — not just handling the prosecutorial end, but also working with the community groups that will help us prosecute more effectively," he said.

Dumas agreed, noting that as public awareness increases, so too will the number of reported cases and "We must be ready to handle them aggressively. That's why this unit is necessary."

In 1994, there were 1,042 cases of domestic violence reported in Albany County. In 1995, that number jumped to 1,464, and preliminary statistics for 1996 show the trend is continuing in the county and the state, Greenberg said.

County Executive Michael Breslin is also involved, offering Campbell office space at the County Office Building on State Street where investigators can interview victims, Greenberg said.

During a press conference on the unit's creation, Campbell also announced a new hotline number for domestic violence victims. The number is 765-4444, although in emergencies, victims should call 911, Campbell said.

Garage cleared for takeoff

By Tom Murnane

It looks like Albany County Airport is going to get its 1,000-car, covered parking garage after all, answering the prayers of travelers and airline companies alike.

Plans for the proposed garage, which had been on hold due to a lack of funding for nearly a year, were revived after $40 million was appropriated in the 1996-97 state budget approved last month.

Airport Authority Executive Director John Egan said last week the garage, which will most likely be four or five stories with a second floor walkway to the existing terminal's western end, is expected to cost $15 million to as high as $20 million "on the very high end," and will have room for between 800 to 1,000 cars.

With the airport's new passenger terminal set to open in October 1998, Egan said he hopes the garage will be ready for use the following year.

The project sends a message to the public that the authority is being responsive to it, he said. "I think it says to the public that we heard them," Egan said. "In a survey we conducted, most said they wanted a covered parking area in close proximity to the terminal."

The $40 million sponsored by state Senate Majority Leader Joseph Bruno, R-Brunswick, is expected to cover about 25 percent of the entire $158 million airport redevelopment tab. The difference will be paid with federal, state and local grants, authority bond sales and airline contributions.

The state aid was "everything we asked for," Egan said. "That funding represents a belief on the part of Senator Bruno in particular, and the legislative contingent in general, that this airport is an important part of the economic future of the region."

Delmar psychologist offers hope for future Naturalists to explore live of the Vlomankill

New book a hard-hitting portrait of unspeakable abuse

By Susan Graves

Richard Kagan's new book Turmoil to Turning Points: Building Hope for Children in Crisis Placements should be required reading for anyone contemplating a career in child-related services.

The realistic, hard-core portraits of abused, troubled children are hair-raising, and there are no happily-ever-after endings. There is at best a glimmer of hope for children who have lived in perpetual darkness.

The Delmar resident and psychologist has logged more than 20 years at Parsons Child and Family Center in Albany, and his book pulls no punches about the reality of child abuse and the grueling, often thankless, work of those who combat it. His experiences in the book, which reads like a thriller to the lay person, offer insight into human nature and hope for seemingly hopeless cases.

Kagan, who believes that working with whole and extended families is far more productive than working just with a child alone, said the book was a way for him

"to deal with frustration and pain I experience in this work" as well as a way to share what he's learned.

"People need to know what can be done to help, what works, doesn't work and how well we're using our resources," he said.

In Turmoil to Turning Points, actual cases, often painful to even read about, illustrate Kagan's philosophy. Children, sometimes emotionally, sexually and physically abused, come alive in Kagan's rendering as very real people coping as best they can with seemingly impossible circumstances.

What Kagan doesn't do in the book is point fingers at alleged wrongdoers, who in many cases are the child's parent or parents.

Kagan and his colleagues at Parsons treat everyone in a family group with respect.

"It's a real tribute to the staff. You have to be able to deal with the reality of what's going on and realize people have a healthy side," he said. "What keeps people like me going is seeing that children, adolescents and parents can become stronger and do better for the next generation."

"When we have children and adolescents who are dangerous to themselves and others and lack a safe bonding relationship with someone they trust, the primary focus has to be on who cares enough for that child to help them heal and give them a home," he said.

"That may or may not be the biological parent," who sometimes does the right thing by surrendering a child, who can then be adopted or cared for by someone else. Sometimes, by giving up a child, "A parent helps break a cycle of abuse," he said.

In some cases, an abused child is better off with another family member or someone from the community — ministers, rabbis, big brother or sister — who can act as his/her protector, Kagan added.

People need to know what can be done to help, what works, doesn't work and how well we're using our resources

The message for society is that violence against children cannot be tolerated, and that the community must assume responsibility for keeping children safe.

Kagan said cutting back programs such as after-school programs can be devastating. Without these programs, troubled youth "will be back on the streets, leading to more delinquency," he said.

Kagan and the Parson's staff come across as tightrope walkers, juggling heavy objects at the same time. "Child and family services is very stressful," he said. "People get severely hurt."

Sometimes their lives are even threatened, he added.

Still despite stress and burn-out, people like Kagan remain optimistic that by "fostering strong and positive attachments for at-risk children and empowering families and communities to give children what they need," a chance for a brighter future is possible.

Kagan, with coauthor Shirley Schlosberg, also wrote Families in Perpetual Crisis. Both books are published by W.W. Norton & Co. Turmoil to Turning Points is available locally at Borders Books & Music in Colonie.

Rebecca's story

A typical case in Turmoil to Turning Points involves Rebecca who terrorizes the other children in the crisis shelter.

Up to this point her claims of being sexually abused since age 4 by her father have been dismissed. She has been in a mental institution, received tranquilizing medication and been bounced from institution to institution. She threatens suicide if she is sent home. Rebecca is 9-years-old.

Finally, after a psychological evaluation, she is believed, and the childcare workers unite in her behalf. Two-and-one-half years later, she makes the honor roll at her school. Her parents surrender their parental rights and she is eligible to become adopted. Not exactly a happy ending for a traumatized child, but one that offers hope.

Matters of Opinion

Regionalization can work

Several months ago a regionalization report was issued by Charlotte Buchanan, a Glenmont lawyer who's long been a champion of communities combining in common purchases, merging of work forces and seeking new industry in the region.

Many people dismissed the report's recommendations as too involved and costly.

Yet, this past week, three communities demonstrated that by cooperative effort, important advantages can be gained. The mayors of Albany, Troy and Schenectady cooperated to net $5.8 million for continuing existing youth programs and establishing a mechanism for evaluating these programs, which basically help inner-city youth.

Most important about this grant, half federal and half state, is that it came about through a regional effort by the mayors of all three cities.

The three mayors also worked together to seek funds to create enterprise zones in sections of each of the three cities.

It's our opinion that regionalization will come as evolution rather than revolution. Officials will continue to see the wisdom of cooperating with one another and eventually make headway suggested in the report, not by an overall plan but rather as situations arise that encourage officials to work together.

Action on discipline

Behavior problems among young people often seem like the weather — everybody talks about it, but they can't do a thing about it.

Granted, our area does not suffer from felonious behavior problems, like murders and brazen drug dealing, that make the headlines, but rather too much from low-level background-noise misbehaviors like rudeness, alcohol use, graffiti and vandalism.

Bethlehem Central administrators, to their credit, have responded to concerns expressed by teachers, parents and students, creating a new dean structure at the high school that promises to bring unprecedented pressure to bear on young miscreants, both for their own good and for the good of the larger community.

Cop move needs work

Let's hope the town of Bethlehem gives a lot more thought to moving the police department before deciding to find them a home outside of town hall. It is simply not economically feasible or demonstrably necessary at this time.

A brand new home for the police would likely mean a good deal more money from town taxpayers. In a town this size, where felony crimes are relatively low, there would have to be a much stronger case for new police lodgings.

Police officers, to their credit, spend most of their time out on the road, anyway. This is as it should be. The police should be a part of the community, and what better way than to provide a visible presence, rather than work behind the scenes in an office.

Hoffman's makes sense

Although two car washes within a stone's throw seems redundant for a town the size of Bethlehem, the zoning board of appeals approval for a Hoffman's car wash and Jiffy Lube on Delaware Avenue makes sense.

The site is zoned commercially, and has been an eyesore to those entering the town from Albany for too long.

A vacant building with broken windows and parking lot with overgrown weeds are not the kind of welcome mat to greet visitors and residents alike. Hoffman's, whose other car washes in the area are well-maintained, promises to present a more attractive first impression of the town of Bethlehem.

Gambling not the cure for New York's economic woes

Casinos: quick fix or Pandora's Box?

By Joseph W. Dalton Jr.

The writer is president of the Saratoga County Chamber of Commerce.

Few pieces of legislation could have as profound effect on individual families and local jurisdictions as the casino gambling bill currently working its way through the Legislature in Albany.

It is a complex issue, the many facets of which cannot be adequately described in a short article. However, the likely effects of enacting this legislation will have a direct, unmistakable impact on families, local law enforcement agencies and the courts.

It all comes down to a question of economics. To a financially strapped community, the promise of a casino creating hundreds of jobs and pouring millions of tax dollars into depleted coffers is very appealing indeed. That is the promise. Unfortunately, that is not always the reality.

We have only to look at the experience of our neighbor to the south to witness what really happens when casinos are given free license to move in and essentially control a community.

It has been 14 years since New Jersey legalized casino gambling in Atlantic City. Those who fought for this privilege painted pictures of the revitalization of the once-glorious ocean resort, with jobs for everyone and tourists spilling out of the casinos and into the local shops and eateries.

Let's look at Atlantic City today:

- The unemployment rate is between 14 and 15 percent, one of the highest in the country. Despite initial promises that local residents would be given jobs in Atlantic City Casinos, the industry found ways around the residency requirements and today only 23.5 percent of casino employees are residents of Atlantic City.

Point of View

- At the same time, the casino industry has had a devastating impact on other businesses in Atlantic City. Between 1977 and 1990, the number of manufacturing jobs in the city dropped by 82 percent.

- Atlantic City has failed to reap the tax revenue benefits once envisioned. Only 5 percent of tax revenues from the casinos goes to the local government, while 36 percent goes to the federal government and the state gets 59 percent. And the 5 percent the city does earn is more than erased by skyrocketing spending for police services and court costs associated with casino-related crime and domestic disputes.

Don't be fooled into thinking about the busloads of tourists arriving on our doorsteps to spend their money. In almost every casino community in the country, the majority of clientele are local citizens.

- Instead of providing new customers for local businesses, the casinos have effectively shut down tourist traffic outside their doors by offering full-service operations, including hotels, restaurants and gift shops. In 1977, Atlantic City had 243 restaurants. Today, there are only 146. And the number of retail stores has dropped by more than a third since the casinos opened. Today, non-gambling visitors are discouraged from visiting the city due to traffic delays, parking shortages and increased crime.

These startling statistics are not unique to Atlantic City. Dozens of other communities where casino gambling is allowed have experienced similar difficulties. Independent studies have shown that in gambling communities, for every dollar earned in tax revenue, between $1.10 and $10 is expended in social and public safety costs.

The Saratoga County Chamber of Commerce does not oppose casino gambling on moral grounds. We recognize that gambling in the form of horse racing is a cherished way of life in our community. Year-round harness racing and the thoroughbred meet are social events for thousands of people. But the giant leap between betting on a horse and betting against the house, between a racing window and a slot machine, is one that could destroy a community and the lives of families for miles around.

Don't be fooled into thinking about the busloads of tourists arriving on our doorsteps to spend their money. In almost every casino community in the country, the majority of clientele are local citizens. The same will take place should casinos be allowed to open in the Catskills and Niagara Falls region. And it will be the police departments of these local communities that will respond to the calls about domestic disputes as families face economic straits due to money left inside casino doors.

Many residents of Saratoga County remember the days of the casinos back in the 1940s and '50s. They remember the corruption, the assault on family relationships, and the deterioration of community standards.

Sadly, there is no quick fix, no panacea for the economic woes of many of the towns and villages in New York state. To quote Professor William Eadington of the Institute for the Study of Gambling and Commercial Gaming at the University of Nevada, "In place after place, the casino-based economy soars, then slumps into a black hole."

Saratoga remembers what that black hole looks like. We cannot allow it to happen again.

Bethlehem Task Force is making a difference

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Saturday, Aug. 3, members of the Bethlehem community supported the first fund-raising effort of the Bethlehem First Task Force. Both the Delmar and Glenmont car washes donated all proceeds on that day to the task force.

A group of concerned citizens and business people, Bethlehem First is dedicated to improving the business climate in our town by promoting community awareness of local businesses and professionals.

On behalf of the task force, we would like to thank Dennis O'Shaughnessy for his generous contribution of the car wash proceeds, which will enable the task force to raise community aware-

Spruce-up marred by misuse of flag

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Four Corners spruce-up editorialized in last week's Spotlight is darkened by the mistreatment of the American flag in a store window in the shadow of the site.

"Respect for flag" is the title of Section 176 of the Flag Code. It establishes the manner in which the flag should be seen. What is on view at the Four Corners is the American flag attached to a wall, with a mop and other articles set against it. According to the flag code, the flag should never be used for advertising purposes.

I hope this letter is received in the patriotic spirit in which it is sent.

Dolphins appreciate park, town hospitality

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of the Delmar Dolfinsswim club, I would like to thank the Bethlehem community for so kindly allowing us to utilize the town park facilities for what turned out to be one of the hottest weekends of the summer.

The Dog Days International Invitational Swim Meet turned out to be an extremely successful event. Apart from its financial benefit, the meet brought together about 350 swimmers and well over 1400 spectators from as far away as Canada.

The staff at the park treated all the swimmers and guests with great friendliness and courtesy. The school district, the town and many local businesses and organizations helped to bring this swim meet together. An event like this should bring pride and stature to this fine community.

Thank you again, one and all.

Resident likes party choice

Editor, The Spotlight:

I was pleased with the Conservative Party endorsement of Neil Breslin to represent the 42nd District in the state Senate.

As a registered Conservative, I firmly believe that big government and career politicians do more harm than good.

Last year, the Conservative Party endorsed Mike Breslin's fresh approach to running government. That decision paid off with smaller government and a tax cut on the county level.

If Neil Breslin can do half the job his brother Mike has, New York state government and Albany County will be much better off.

New shopping service makes home deliveries

By Mel Hyman

Tired of fighting traffic and long lines at the supermarket?

Karen Aloisi and Kevin Bestler of Delmar believe they have an answer. Just give them a call, and they'll be glad to take your order for whatever you need in the line of groceries, and it will be delivered to your door for the modest sum of $5.

It can be four items or 40. The price is still the same, although the minimum delivery order is $20.

Called EZ Shop, their new business started on May 1, and all of the shopping is done from the Delmar Marketplace at the Four Corners.

The idea for EZ Shop just kind of evolved, Aloisi said, once the couple realized there was a need for it, especially among senior citizens who cannot venture out every time they need to replenish the refrigerator.

But it's not just older folks who are signing up. "One of our customers, who has been ordering from us right from the beginning, has her own business and has no extra time available to shop," Bestler said.

The first question that might occur to people considering the service is whether it will cost more money or less.

Aloisi and Bestler contend that in most cases you'll be saving, or at a minimum, spending about the same.

Kevin Bestler and Karen Aloisi get ready to make a grocery delivery from the Delmar Marketplace.

"One of our customers told us they're actually spending less money each week because they're buying just what they need and not making impulse purchases," she said.

EZ Shop also stacks up favorably next to other delivery services, Bestler said. "Price Chopper has a delivery service, and they charge about twice as much as we do."

For same-day delivery, you need to order between 9 a.m. and noon. For next-day delivery, call 768-8124 between 3 and 6 p.m.

Everything is computerized, so customers are encouraged to request a EZ Shop catalogue, which has all of the Delmar Marketplace products listed according to item

A big plus for the business, Aloisi says, is that people can order fresh meat and fish from McCarroll's, part of Delmar Marketplace.

There is also a fresh produce section, with competitively priced fruit and vegetables.

Aloisi, 29, is a native of Delmar.

She has worked in retail for the past several years and has a business background.

Bestler, 31, is also a BCHS graduate, and he holds an associate's degree in telecommunications management from Hudson Valley Community College. He's still working a shift at Norlite Corp. in Cohoes while the new venture develops its customer base.

Bestler and Aloisi do all the deliveries for Delmar Marketplace, and they receive a percentage of every order besides the fee received from customers.

It's been tough going thus far, but business is gradually increasing, Bestler said, as the word spreads.

"Once winter comes, things will pick up," he said hopefully.

for students in one grade, and will follow that class through graduation.

The new deans, who still need to be approved by the school board at its meeting Aug. 21, are John DeMeo, a physical education teacher at the high school, Kim Hopkins, a technology teacher at the high school, Joleen Roe, an art teacher at the high school, and Deborah Elmendorf, a former teacher, supervisor and principal in the Utica City School District.

The deans will devote about 40 percent of their time (.4 full-time-equivalent) to their discipline work, according to Superintendent Leslie Loomis.

The deans' work will focus on five areas, identified by the school's shared decision-making committee as "major priorities for change," Loomis said.

The five areas are improved behavior and cleanliness in the cafeteria, reducing class cutting, improving on-time arrival and decreasing classroom interruptions, reducing student acts of insubordination and instituting a Saturday suspension program to replace the current in-school suspension program.

Under the original plan, the deans were also to be responsible for leadership of a general, school-wide program area, such as student activities or school and community service. But after consultation with the prospective deans, the administration decided to have that responsibility handled as a separate job, with .2 FTE release time and a stipend of about $2,000, Loomis said.

"The new structure will help our high school to take a significant step forward," Loomis said. "We have outstanding students, very talented staff, and parents committed to making the high school the best. This new structure will help achieve that."

Hunter said the new structure will "help our school get back to the the basics of high standards and high expectations, resulting in a better school with better achievement and more pride."

Hunter noted that the new deans have been assigned to grades. DeMeo will work with the ninth-grade, Elmendorf with the 10th, Rose with the 11th, and Hopkins with the 12th.

Hunter also said that he is "working on some options" for more responsibilities for Elmendorf.

Last year's assistant principals, Richard Bassotti and Alida Smith, have returned to teaching

Town board to consider buying land

The Bethlehem town board tonight, Aug. 14, will consider whether to purchase a 1.3-acre parcel adjacent to the Vly Creek reservoir in New Scotland.

Bethlehem owns the reservoir, which provides the town with nearly all of its drinking water, and the additional land is needed for an upgrade of the system.

"It will enable us to make necessary repairs to modernize the backwash water lagoon and drying beds for the reservoir, which are parts of the water purification process," said Supervisor Sheila Fuller.

The land will cost $8,000 to purchase, and part of it will be used as a buffer between the reservoir system and nearby properties.

Other items on the agenda include:

- Setting a public hearing regarding an ordinance prohibiting use of barbed wire fencing in residential zones after year.

- Recommendation from the town comptroller regarding selection of a deferred compensation plan administrator.

- Request from the receiver of taxes for appointment of temporary personnel to assist in preparation of 1996 school tax bills.

- Recommendation from the commissioner of public works to provide water service to an out-of-district customer on Elm Avenue East in Selkirk

- Recommendation from the commissioner of public works to set a public hearing on a proposed water district extension for Haswell Farms subdivision off Feura Bush Road.

- Request to set a public hearing for no-parking zone and stop sign recommendations made by the traffic safety committee.

- Appointment of election inspectors and poll clerks for this year's primary and general elections.

- Recommendation from the commissioner of public works to award bid for chemicals.

Parties to help ring out youth summer programs

The youth services summer schedule is winding down, so it must be party time.

Summer reading club members will celebrate on Thursday, Aug. 15, with magician and escape artist Mike Carnevale. This party is for members only. Register for either 2 or 7 p.m. by calling 439-9314.

Check It Out

Bethlehem Public Library

The library summer volunteers are invited to a pizza party on Friday, Aug. 16, from noon to 2 p.m. Festivities include the film "Barefoot in the Park."

Volunteers should register so we know how many pizzas to order. Many thanks for your help with our programs this summer.

This summer's Evenings on the Green series, which drew more than 1,000 people in July alone, concludes tonight with jazz standards and original music by Blues Wing. Now based in New York City, the group was born right here in the Capital District in 1991.

Blues Wing has performed at clubs, concerts and festivals throughout the Northeast and Canada.

Tonight's showtime is 7:30 p.m. and admission is free. Bring a blanket or lawn chair. If it rains, the concert will be held indoors.

The adult Great Books discussion group also meets tonight at 7:30 p.m. Selections from The Federalist will be discussed.

Next month's discussion of Gogol's short story "The Overcoat" on Wednesday, Sept. 11, concludes the current series.

The next series, starting in October, meets on the second Thursday of the month at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsorship will be transferred from the library to group members at that time. New members and guests are welcome, but only those who have finished the reading can join the discussion.

For information on the new series, call Jim Cornell at 439-2305.

In August, the front hall gallery features poems, pastels and photos by Judy Larkin, a member of the Bethlehem Art Association.

One final note as we approach the end of summer. The library will be closed Labor Day weekend, Saturday, Aug. 31, through Monday, Sept. 2.

County League of Women Voters.

Two additional committee members, Charles Gunner and Lisa Englestein, have also been appointed.

The committee is scheduled to meet on the following days: Tuesday, Aug. 20; Thursday, Aug. 29; Thursday, Sept. 12; Thursday, Sept. 26; and Tuesday, Oct. 8. The committee will determine the actual number of meetings necessary. All meetings will be held at 7 p.m. in the library's community room, and are open to the public.

Homemakers group to celebrate 50 years

The Glenmont Homemakers will hold a 50th anniversary celebration on Wednesday, Oct. 16. The group was originally started by 20 members on March 25, 1945, as a Home Bureau unit. Of those 20 original members, one is still active in the organization.

Because the group has no permanent home and has had to move its possessions several times, members are looking for some of the unit's history such as photo albums dating back to 1965, meeting minutes from March 1945 to June 1962, and minutes from May 1990 to January 1991.

Past and present members are welcome to participate in the anniversary celebration on Oct. 16 at the Glenmont Reformed Church on Chapel Lane in Glenmont.

A family-style meal will be served at 7 p.m. Cost is $17 per person. Because of the seating capacity of the church, reservations are limited. All reservations must be paid for by Sept. 18.

For reservations, call Karla Burns at 767-2482, June Magliocca at 436-8419 or Janet Burns at 462-3537.

To make the celebration complete, the group is asking members to bring completed projects for display, such as aluminum trays, caned chairs, lampshades, toothbrush rugs and other crafts.

Dog Days meet carries an international flavor

More than 300 competitors, representing 20 different swim clubs from the United States and Canada, gathered at Bethlehem's Elm Avenue Park pool recently for the Delmar Dolphins Swim Club's annual Dog Days Invitational swim meet.

The weather was beautiful, and meet organizers Mary Ellen Rosetti and Bob Tettelbach agreed that a good time was had by all.

Fifty-two Dolphins participated in the meet with many of them placing near the top in their events.

Matt Shaffer was fifth in the 8-and-under boys 50 meter backstroke. In the 8-and-under girls division, Mackenzie Glannon was fifth in the 50 freestyle, and sixth in both the 50 butterfly and 50 backstroke.

Black Sox sweep Lansingburgh

The Bethlehem 13-year-old All-Stars continue to march impressively through late, post-season games in the area.

In their most recent contests, the Black Sox swept a two-game series from Lansingburgh by the scores of 12-11 and 5-1.

The first contest was highlighted by a total team effort offensively and strong relief pitching by Morgan Gmelch who struck out seven batters over a three-inning stretch.

Stellar pitching by Alan Lewis marked the second game against Lansingburgh. Lewis had a no-hitter through six and two-thirds until he gave up two singles in the bottom of the seventh.

He struck out nine batters on his way to the victory.

Two double plays erased the only scoring threats mounted by Lansingburgh all day.

Rick Root led the offense with three singles and a double, while Gmelch helped his own cause with two singles and a double.

Craig Hermann also made a big contribution as he collected two hits on the afternoon.

The Black Sox won the Eastern New York 13-year-old 1996 District Babe Ruth championship this year.

Hoffman's

the planning board," he said. "I guess as soon as we can get the drawings the board wants, we'll start."

Prior to giving the official go-ahead, board chairman Michael Hodom requested that detailed drawings be submitted of the landscaping and signs planned for the site.

Hodom said Hoffman should also provide engineering specifications for a concrete retaining wall and a metal guard rail to be erected at the rear of the property to protect people from driving into the deep ravine bordering the parcel.

A resolution authorizing the special exception variance for Hoffman's is expected to be ready for the board's next meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 21.

While traffic from the car wash was a major complaint voiced during the public hearing held in July, in the final analysis, ZBA members did not consider traffic to be a major problem.

"At first I had some serious concerns about the site," said board member Bob Wiggand, particularly with "ingress and egress" from the same location.

But Hoffman's plan to create a separate exit (on the west side of the building) for 95 percent of the vehicles entering the car wash should make for a smoother traffic flow, Wiggand said.

"I just don't see why we should get into another situation (of a business using with the same ingress and egress) where people are going to get killed going in and out of there," he said.

Moreover, "Any new business along the road is going to add to the traffic," he said. "That's why businesses want to locate along Delaware Avenue. We're going to continue to have problems (on local thoroughfares) as long as we have automobiles."

"It may not be much longer before we see this building start falling in," Wiggand added. "I think with all of the improvements, with a new brick facade and good landscaping, you'll have a much better view."

Wiggand said he visited several Hoffman car wash facilities in the area and found them neat and well-maintained.

At the East Greenbush Hoffman's, "I could not find a cigarette butt on the ground," he said. "Even the trash bins had flowers around them."

Board member James Morgan noted, "Past experience has shown that this site is not viable for a restaurant."

Board member Marjorie O'Brien said she was satisfied that "98 percent of the (Hoffman's) traffic" will exit about 250 feet west of the car wash entrance, which should prevent any bottlenecks from occurring.

Hoffman's plan was approved by the state Department of Transportation, she noted.

Work could begin on the new facility this fall. It will include an exterior car wash, an express detailing service, nine coin-operated vacuum cleaner stations and a Jiffy Lube.

The fact that Hoffman's is a locally based company was another plus for Lewis.

"This is a family enterprise that as far as I know has never had a scandal," Lewis said. "If we have a problem with them, we don't have to go to Pago Pago or Pittsburgh to get something done."

Catskill man stopped for drunk driving

Bethlehem police arrested a Catskill man last week on a felony charge of driving while intoxicated.

George W. Alverson, 41, of 1160 Schoharie Turnpike, was stopped on Thursday, Aug. 8, for driving erratically on Route 9W, police said.

He was charged with failure to keep right and a felony count of DWI because of a prior DWI conviction recorded in May 1992.

He was released pending an appearance in Bethlehem Town Court on Tuesday, Aug. 20. Officer Chris Pauley investigated.

Tax

quarter.

"I don't understand why (the) April (check) went down, but now it's starting to go back up," Reilly said.

The village of Voorheesville's check was $164,645 this July, compared to $155,675 in the second quarter of 1995.

"The good news is that there is no bad news," said Voorheesville Mayor Edward Clark. "People were predicting a downturn with the loss of state jobs, but it did not occur."

But the extra revenue is not quite Christmas in July. "It keeps us abreast of inflation," noted Clark, adding that he sees "small signs of prosperity" in the success of the SuperValu supermarket and in a few new businesses in the village.

Bethlehem, New Scotland and Voorheesville all estimate sales tax revenue conservatively, with the resulting surpluses generally used to moderate property tax rates in the next budget year.

For example, Bethlehem received just over $6 million in 1995 in sales tax revenue, and has budgeted $5.7 million for 1996. Last year, New Scotland received $1,325,444 in sales tax revenue, and its budget for this year projects $1,250,000 from the sales tax. And the village of Voorheesville received $660,547 for the 1995-96 fiscal year (which includes the first-quarter 1996 sales tax check), and has budgeted $625,000 for the 1996-97 fiscal year.

Marty DeLaney, president of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce, said this year's uncommonly wintry weather "was a factor in the first quarter. There was a lot of pent-up demand, and when the weather cleared, off they went to spend money."

As a result, Bethlehem chamber members "are much more upbeat. They seem to be seeing a turnaround," she added.

Car wash OK stuns Del Ave. competitor

Dennis O'Shaughnessy, owner of the Delmar and Glenmont car washes, was aghast at the zoning board of appeal's 5-0 straw vote in favor of the Hoffman's car wash and oil change facility proposed for 55 Delaware Ave., south of the Normanskill bridge.

"When I left there last night, I had to pick myself off the floor," he said. "My feeling was that the town didn't care what business went in there as long as they beautified it."

"I thought the major issue was safety," he continued. "That's all they talked about during the public hearing. At the very least, I thought they would have asked for another traffic study, since the first one was based on only one day in the middle of the week for two hours."

Safety was the primary issue "when the Delmar Car Wash was built 28 years ago," O'Shaughnessy said. "At that time, the town said, 'Let's put it some place where it doesn't interfere with the traffic.'"

When ZBA members had little to say about possible traffic problems, "I was shocked," O'Shaughnessy said. "It seemed like it never entered their minds, even after what the residents had to say about it during the public hearing."

O'Shaughnessy, who had previously said the last two years have been difficult for the car wash business, was not optimistic about the future of his Delmar facility, behind Del Lanes.

"It's going to take a big dent out of it, no doubt," he said. "My brother and I are meeting on it already to see what we can do."

"I had heard from a number of people, including the chamber of commerce, that there was a local doctor looking to open a medical arts building there for things like acupuncture. And he would have had maybe 15 or 20 cars a day," he said. "Apparently he put in a bid for it, and it didn't reach the level of Hoffman's. For the board to act like no one else would have moved in there is a bit ridiculous."

Principal

feeling-out period."

Chase, 40, was appointed principal on Aug. 5 to fill the void left when Andrew DeFeo resigned in July to take a job at Northern Westchester County BOCES, where he will study and help develop methods to use technology in schools.

"I've known him a long time and I'm delighted to have him," RCS Superintendent Bill Schwartz said of Chase. "He has a lot of strengths. He's well-received and respected by the staff. He has a lot to offer."

This fall will mark Chase's 10th year in the district. The first nine were spent as a guidance counselor, mostly in the high school and one year on the elementary level. He has spent seven years in high school guidance in other school districts.

Chase received a bachelor's degree in psychology from the State University of New York at Geneseo, a master's degree and education specialist in counseling degree from the University at Albany and a certificate in administration from the State University of New York at New Paltz. He is currently studying at The College of Saint Rose to be certified as a school psychologist.

Schwartz said Chase is taking a one-year leave of absence from his position as guidance counselor to serve as principal. His status in his new position will be evaluated after one year.

Chase called his predecessor DeFeo "a visionary leader who had a lot of new ideas and put a lot of them in place. My goal is to get everyone on the bandwagon" for those initiatives.

"He was a fine principal who brought many ideas to the school," Schwartz said. "He will be missed."

"Andy did a very good job," Chase said. "His biggest strength was to work with local business and people to foster a great relationship. He brought us more into the community."

Schwartz said Chase's knowledge of DeFeo's work made him an attractive person for the job. "We needed someone who was really up to speed with things going on at the high school," he said. "Greg was a highly desirable candidate."

Chase said General Electric's mentoring program, for example, shows how DeFeo's outreach brought more community resources — financial, technological and personal — into the school. DeFeo's work also resulted in greater technology education and support for the arts at RCS.

In a statewide initiative that DeFeo helped bring to Ravenna, Chase said he is excited to work with the Goals 2000 program. The Ravenna school district will receive money to help define student and school achievement goals for that program.

His experience as a faculty member, Chase said, will be one of his strongest assets.

"We have a strong faculty and staff," he said. "Having been a foot soldier along with them for a number of years, I look forward to working with them now."

Chase lives in Delmar with his wife Joanne Chase, who is a reading specialist at Pieter B. Coeymans Elementary School.

NS planners approve cellular tower

By Dev Tobin

New Scotland will have at least one more communications tower, despite planning board concerns about whether the future will bring a forest of cellular telephone towers to a town that already bristles with most of the radio and TV transmitters in the area.

At its meeting last week, the planning board approved a special use permit for a 100-foot monopole tower proposed by Sprint Spectrum on the site of the village of Voorheesville water tank off Swift Road.

The tower will provide "personal communication service" — higher-quality, more capable and more secure digital communications — but will need more towers than current cellular systems, according to Philip Pearson of Clough Harbour Associates, a consultant to Sprint Spectrum.

The physics of the higher-frequency digital service, with each tower serving a radius of about five miles, will require significantly more, albeit shorter, towers than first-generation cellular systems, Pearson explained.

The tower project had received height, lot size and setback variances from the town zoning board of appeals at its July meeting.

Sprint Spectrum is in the process of securing approvals for and building more than 100 towers for its planned upstate New York coverage area of Orange County to Lake George (along Interstate 87) and Syracuse to Schodack in Rensselaer County (along I-90), including developed areas along those highways, as in southern Albany County.

The possibility that Sprint Spectrum may want to build another tower in New Scotland, and that current cellular systems may try to switch to the tower-dense digital system, concerned board members.

"I can see it coming — if this technology is good, the rest of them will want it," said board member John Loucks. "We're gonna have to draw the line someplace."

"One tower sets a precedent for the next tower, then how can we deny you?" added board member Annick Belleville.

Board chairman Robert Stapf noted that any change in the zoning law to limit future towers would have to be approved by the town board.

"We cannot zone them out, but we can restrict them to certain areas," Stapf said.

As if to underline the planners' concerns, Alfred Cook had on the agenda (but withdrew) an application for a 250-foot tower for wireless communication on his Dunbar Hollow Road property.

The board unanimously approved the special use permit, with stipulations that include landscaping for screening and a cedar stockade fence partly around the site, and allowing the village of Voorheesville and the town to affix whip antennas for their highway department two-way radios.

Albany gets the blues

By Zachary Beck

Albany isn't quite the blues mecca that Chicago is, but this weekend it'll come close.

Eight blues crunching acts will perform at the Empire State Plaza on Saturday and Sunday as part of the first Fleet BluesFest.

"Fleet is very pleased to bring this two day Blues extravaganza to Albany," said Hermes Ames, president of Fleet Bank. "It is a great opportunity for us to give something back to the community we serve, and we especially like the fact that the Fleet BluesFest is a free, family event. We'll be handing out balloons to the kids and giving away prizes, so I hope everybody drops by the Fleet Tent."

Playing on Saturday, in order of appearance from 1 to 10 p.m., will be local favorites Scottie Mac and the Rockin' Bonnevilles, New York City's unique Paul Mark and the Van Dorens, Texas guitarslinger Debbie Davis and finishing out the day will be the legendary Dirty Dozen.

On Sunday, local artists CD Blues will kick things off at 1 p.m., followed by Chicago's slide and harp meister Studebaker John and the Hawks, Alligator Records' celebrated bluesman Luther Allison will play at 5:30 p.m. and guitar great Robben Ford and the Blue Line will wrap up the festival at 8:30 p.m.

The two-day free music festival is presented by the Office of General Services and is sponsored by Fleet Financial Group and Molson Beer and Ale.

Marketing director for OGS David Ostrowicki was excited about the event. "Working with Fleet in bringing this free, family festival to the Empire State Plaza has been a pleasure," he said.

The Office of General Services also has two other events planned for this week. Today at 8 p.m. at the Empire State Plaza Sugar Hill recording artist

Luther Allison, above, plays the first Fleet Bluesfest on Saturday, while Tabu Ley Rochereau, left, and the L'Orchestra Afrisa International headlines the fest on Sunday.

Psychograss will be performing as part of the At the Plaza "In Concert Series".

The next week on Wednesday, Aug. 21, from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. the 1996 International Food Festival will take place. Performances will be featured on two stages during the day beginning at 11:30 a.m. with headliners Tabu Ley Rochereau and the L'Orchestra Afrisa International.

For information, call the OGS special events office at 473-0559.

Albany-Schenectady League of Arts celebrates its 50th year at SPAC

This Friday (Aug. 16) a special benefit at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the Albany-Schenectady League of Arts will celebrate its "golden anniversary".

Since 1946, the Albany League of Arts has been providing programs and services for individual arts and arts organizations. It merged with the Schenectady League of Arts more than a decade ago to form a virtual regional league. The Albany League is the oldest arts council in the United States.

The Golden Anniversary Gala this Friday will feature a dinner in the Hall of Springs and then a concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra. Since it is also a benefit, a silent auction will be held during the evening to raise funds from a wide variety of donated items.

One of the services the league provides is group-rated health insurance which cover hundreds of individual artists and their families.

There are also non-profit management seminars held during the year which attracts arts administrators from throughout Northeastern New York.

Info about the Gala may be obtained at 449-5380.

Give us an inch ...

and we'll heat your home with unsurpassed comfort.

Radiantpanel is the most advanced concept in perimeter baseboard heating. Extending only one inch from the wall around the perimeter of a room, Radiantpanel gives the appearance of typical baseboard trim.

Architects choose Radiantpanel for its unique design and its ability to blend with all styles of architecture, from contemporary to antique restoration. Builders appreciate Radiantpanel's ease of installation. Interior designers enjoy the total freedom of furniture placement afforded by Radiantpanel's sleek design. For homeowners, Radiantpanel's energy-efficiency and the unsurpassed levels of comfort it provides are among Radiantpanel's most valuable features.

Radiantpanel's baseboard heating warms a room from its perimeter, maintaining a consistent temperature throughout the room for unsurpassed comfort and energy efficiency. Radiantpanel eliminates the drafty corners and cold feet found with other methods of heating. Gentle, radiant warmth is maintained at a person's level, where it belongs, not at the ceiling. Radiantpanel provides superior comfort by warming you directly with radiant heat, just like the sun.
