1996 The Year in Review

Matt Frese led the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk football team to its greatest year ever in 1996. The Indians were undefeated until they lost in the state tournament final. Inset, Larina Suker's powerful arm carried the Voorheesville softball team into the state semifinals.

JANUARY

- Heavy rains and melting snow combined to cause the worst flooding in years along the Hudson River and several area creeks that empty into it. The flooding caused hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage to roads, bridges and parks in Bethlehem and New Scotland.

- Kmart informed developers of the proposed Southgate Mall in Glenmont that it was not interested in being one of the mall's anchor stores.

- The proposed New Options on Waste recycling facility in the Port of Albany received a skeptical hearing from the Bethlehem town board.

- Longtime Bethlehem Public Library Director Barbara Mladinov announced plans to retire at the end of the month.

- The Bethlehem Central School District and the town of Bethlehem cooperated on a locally unique school resource officer program, which placed police officers Mike McMillen and Vince

Rinaldi in the middle and high schools, respectively.

FEBRUARY

- The preliminary $38.3 million budget for the Bethlehem Central School District for 1996-97 was 4.7 percent higher than the 1995-96 spending plan.

- Democrat Neil Breslin of Delmar announced that he would challenge freshman state Sen. Michael Hoblock, R-Colonie, in the fall election.

- The sheriff's department's Advanced Life Support paramedic service began operating out of the Delmar Fire Department station on Adams Street.

- T.J. Smith, a senior at Bethlehem Central High School, died as a result of injuries sustained in a skiing accident at Gore Mountain.

- Another sign of the changing retail times was the closing of Voorheesville Pharmacy, leaving the village without a drugstore for the first time in memory.

MARCH

- Christopher Arnold, 21, on parole for vehicular manslaughter for driving drunk and causing the death of Erin Cox

Good budget news looms for town of Bethlehem

By Mel Hyman

Thanks to higher-than-expected mortgage tax and sales tax receipts and more than $377,000 in unexpended appropriations, the town of Bethlehem has transferred more than $1 million into a capital reserve fund to purchase new equipment and fund new projects this year.

Supervisor Sheila Fuller said the money was set aside to pay for special projects in 1997 such as improvements to the playing fields at Elm Avenue Park and installation of an elevator (estimated cost $550,000) at town hall to accommodate handicapped people.

The budget transfers took place at Monday's town board meeting on the recommendation of town Comptroller Judy Kehoe.

The total amount of savings in the 1996 budget was $377,000, Kehoe said, which came from a number of departments spending less than they were budgeted for.

For example, about $32,000 was saved as a result of a budgeted position not being filled in the Department of Information

Enck: No meat in wild turkey fines

By Mel Hyman

An Albany-based lawn care firm received a "slap on the hands," says a local environmentalist, for applying overly high concentrations of a chemical pesticide to a Delmar lawn that led to the death of five wild turkeys.

But whether the punishment is sufficient to deter pesticide companies from repeating sloppy practices is a question that still needs to be asked, according to Judith Enck, senior environmental associate for the New York Public Interest Research Group.

Enck called the settlement reached between Barefoot Grass Lawn Service and the state Department of Environmental Conservation "pretty pitiful."

Under terms of the agreement, the company will pay a $1,000 fine and contribute $2,500 to both the National Wild Turkey Federation and the New York State Bluebird Society for activities within Albany County.

"There is a real history of environmental and health problems associated with lawn care companies," Enck said, "and the nature of this agreement provides no financial incentive for companies to act more responsibly in the future."

"If you have five turkeys keeling over from exposure to lawn chemicals, who's to say what the effect could be on children or ground water, and who knows how many other animals might have been

Storytime registration set Jan 13

Registration for Bethlehem Public Library's winter storytime sessions will be held on Monday, Jan. 13. Registration begins in person at 9 a.m.; phone registrations will be accepted beginning at 1:00 p.m.

Storytimes are designed to suit the needs and development of various ages. Children meet with their storyteller once a week. On days when the Bethlehem Central Schools are closed or have a delayed opening, there will be no storytimes. Participants will be eligible for a make-up storytime at the family session.

All storytimes require registration. Toddler groups are limited to 15 children, each with an attending adult. Preschool and advanced groups are limited to 20 children. There are no registration limits for the family session and Saturday Storybreaks.

Storytimes begin Tuesday, Jan. 14, and run through Thursday, March 27. There will be no storytimes Feb. 18-20. Storytime schedule follows:

Toddler: ages 22 months through 35 months, with an adult who must attend and participate.

Tuesday 9:30 a.m.

Wednesday 10:15 a.m. or 11 a.m.

Thursday 10:15 a.m. or 11 a.m.
Preschool: ages 3 and 4 with no attending adult.

Tuesday 11 a.m.

Wednesday 9:30 a.m. or 1:30 p.m.

Advanced: ages 4-1/2 to 6 with no attending adult. Tuesday 10:15 a.m. Thursday 1:30 p.m.

Family: ages 3 to 6 with attending family. Tuesday 1:30 p.m.

Saturday storybreak: ages 3 to 6 with attending adult. Saturday 10:30 a.m. (Jan. 18, Feb. 1 and 15, and March 1 and 15).

Free rides offered for holiday revelers

Albany County "Safe Ride Program" will begin tonight at 10 p.m. and end at 5 a.m. New Year's Day.

The program provides free rides for individuals who have been drinking and should not be driving.

For information, call 447-7706.

Delmar Progress Club to hold luncheon

The Delmar Progress Club will hold a luncheon on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 11:30 a.m. at the Delmar Reformed Church in Delmar.

There will be "A Doll's Tea Party" hosted by the garden group, the creative arts and the performing arts groups.

Reservations open for '55 Alive' course

Bethlehem Senior Services will start accepting reservations for the Jan. 15 and 16 "55-Alive" safe driving course on Jan. 2.

Reservations can be made, in person only, at the Bethlehem Town Hall at 445 Delaware Ave. in Delmar starting at 9 a.m.

If space permits, phone reservations will be accepted at 439-4955, ext. 170, the following business day. The course fee is $8.

Police charge teens with deerjacking

Three teen-agers were charged with violations of the state penal code and environmental conservation law for allegedly deer jacking — using a light to hunt deer after dark — last week in the vicinity of Meads Lane.

Bethlehem Police Officer Brian Hughes was on patrol after 2 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 22, when he noticed a vehicle parked along the side of Meads Lane and a person trying to stuff something into his trunk.

As he approached the vehicle, the person ran to the driver's side, entered the vehicle and sped away.

The vehicle was stopped a short distance away on Van Dyke Road, and the driver, Carlos Arthur Morgan, 18, of 55 First St., Castleton, reportedly told Hughes that he was trying to load a deer that he had just shot with a rifle into his trunk.

Morgan also admitted that he used a spotlight to freeze the deer before shooting it and that two other teen-agers aided him in the deer jacking, police said.

The other suspects, Joshua Lawrence, 17, of 2012 Delaware Turnpike, Clarksville, and a 15-year-old Delmar boy, who was not identified because he is eligible for youthful offender status, were quickly apprehended nearby.

Hughes said the suspects stated they had taken "several other shots" at deer in the vicinity of Meads Lane and Waldenmaier Road. A 22-caliber rifle was recovered from the woods where the deer was shot.

Lawrence and Morgan were charged with criminal trespass, taking deer with the aid of an artificial light, and possession of a loaded firearm in a vehicle, according to Bethlehem Police Sgt. Joseph Sleurs.

Morgan was also charged with fifth-degree conspiracy for conspiring with a person under the age of 16 to commit a criminal act.

Morgan and Lawrence were released pending a Jan. 7 appearance in town court, and the juvenile was released pending a Jan. 8 appearance in Family Court.

The deer, rifle, spotlight and rifle shells were turned over to an environmental conservation officer.

Parsons sets parenting session

An orientation session for adults interested in becoming foster or adoptive parents will be held on Monday, Jan. 6, at 7 p.m. at Parsons Child and Family Center, 60 Academy Road in Albany.

Foster parents are urgently needed to care for children and teenagers who are unable to remain in their own homes. Single or married adults who are 21 and older and live within 50 miles of Albany may qualify as prospective parents. Both working and at-home parents will be considered. Minority families and others interested in adopting older children are encouraged to attend. Board rates and stipends are available to cover the cost of care.

To reserve a place at the orientation or for information, call Parsons at 426-2100.

State honors local man who finds middle ground on archaeological sites

By Mel Hyman

When the state Dormitory Authority ran into opposition from historic preservationists to its plan for a new headquarters in downtown Albany, Rob Kuhn of Slingerlands came to the rescue.

Kuhn, who was recently given the L.L. Hutton Award as one of the top 10 employees of the state Department of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation, was asked to mediate the dispute over the fact that the proposed new building on Broadway sat on top of some of the earliest ruins of Albany.

Kuhn

A threatened lawsuit by preservationists was dropped as a result of negotiations, Kuhn recalled, with the upshot being that "much more extensive archaeological research" will be conducted on the site at the same time that the project's construction timetable would proceed on schedule.

"What could have been a rather ugly legal battle was avoided," Kuhn said. Many of the artifacts uncovered last year as a result of the compromise dated back to the first Dutch settlers who arrived in the 17th century. The Dormitory Authority, which is now headquartered on Delaware Avenue in Elmsmere, still plans on moving into the new building by the end of 1997.

Besides his troubleshooting duties, Kuhn works as historic preservation program coordinator at the state Parks Field Services Bureau on Peebles Island in Waterford. He supervises a staff of 11 who monitor construction projects around the state to make sure they comply with state and federal historic preservation laws and programs.

Because of Kuhn's "exceptional dedication and abilities," he has been asked to "tackle some of the agency's most difficult and challenging assignments," said parks and recreation Commissioner Bernadette Castro.

Another sticky situation Kuhn mediated concerned plans by the Topps supermarket chain to build a large distribution center on top of a long-abandoned Iroquois village in Erie County near the city of Buffalo.

"We knew there was a (historic) site there, so we required the company to hire an archaeologist to do excavation work before construction began," Kuhn said.

The excavation eventually revealed the remains of an entire Iroquois village dating back to about 1500 A.D. It was a "phenomenal" discovery, he said, that yielded numerous artifacts from that period.

"We review about 4,000 projects each year," he said, although "only a very small percentage of them have major archaeological significance."

When a significant discovery is made, however, it often has major ramifications, such as the prehistoric site uncovered during construction of a new school building on Staten Island by the New York City School Authority.

"We worked to make sure that it was properly excavated," Kuhn said.

Closer to home, Kuhn brought together the leaders of two Indian tribes and successfully coordinated the reburial of Native American remains uncovered on Peebles Island last year.

Meg Levine, attorney for the Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation, described Kuhn as "that rare person in state government who can translate the concerns of the scientific community so that others can understand them."

Kuhn, 37, has lived in Bethlehem for about 10 years. He was born and raised in northern New Jersey and came to the area to study archaeology at the University of Albany.

"I got my degree and never left," he quipped.

Scout's heroism wins national notice

First Class Scout Scot H. Sokolowski, a member of Troop 58 in Elmsmere, recently received the Honor Medal of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The medal recognizes Scouts who have demonstrated unusual heroism, skill and resourcefulness in saving or attempting to save a human life at considerable risk to their own.

On Dec. 21, 1995, Sokolowski was a passenger in a van driving from Binghamton to Albany on Interstate 88 in severe weather — the temperature was about freezing with slush on the road and visibility reduced by blowing snow.

The van was being driven by Scot's soon-to-be adoptive mother, Judith Wilday, and had two of her children and Scot's half brother, Tim Plecka, as passengers.

Wilday pulled into the passing lane at about 45 mph to pass a slower-moving vehicle. Just after she had passed, her car fishtailed and was hit on the passenger side by a tractor-trailer hard enough to put a 28-inch bend in the frame. The car was pushed to the shoulder while the tractor-trailer wound up in the median.

Despite having a strained back and multiple cuts, Sokolowski crawled out his window and broke through the rear door of the van to rescue the other children.

After getting Wilday's children out and administering first aid, he found his brother slumped in his seat and not breathing. He performed cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) until he revived and was capable of breathing on his own.

Emergency ambulances took all the children to a local hospital. Plecka had to be transferred by ambulance 100 miles to the nearest trauma center — Albany Medical Center Hospital. Today, he still has mild neurological problems, but he is alive thanks to Sokolowski's ability to overcome the panic, shock and stress created by the accident and still be able to utilize his lifesaving Scouting skills.

Sokolowski demonstrated unusual heroism and Scouting skills to save the life of his brother, according to the citation. Because of the severe weather, the proximity to traffic and the catastrophic destruction of the vehicle, Scot saved his brother's life at considerable risk to his own.

"I just did what I had to do," Sokolowski said. "I just did it on impulse and fortunately everything worked out."

Internet investing comes to Delmar

When the Edward Jones investment firm started a World Wide Web page on the Internet last month, it was the first financial services firm in the area to do so.

While many other companies are now jumping on board, the reaction from customers has been great, according to Jerry Pittz, Edward Jones investment representative in Delmar.

"The ones who have access to it say they love it," Pittz said. "It saves them a lot of calling around."

"It's basically an informational thing," he said. Visitors to the interactive Internet site at <http://www.edwardjones.com> "can track the performance of their stocks, or they can find out what the interest rates are on treasury notes, New York tax-free bonds or certificates of deposit."

You still cannot transact business over the Internet, although that's likely to be available in the not-too-distant future.

The Edward Jones Web site has a unique branch office locator, Pittz said. Not only can users find a local office, but each individual investment representative's personal page offers customized information including a photo, local interests and upcoming events.

Visitors have the option of entering their home address so that a Jones investment representative can contact them.

"We are really excited about the neighborhood branch category," Pittz said.

The new Web site will also offer a category on investment solutions, in which users can calculate personal information such as income and retirement savings.

John Bachman, the firm's managing principal, said Jones decided to establish a Web site mainly because of the tremendous potential it offers for serving customers.

"With so many individuals on the Internet, we felt it was important to be there too," he said. "Today, about 24 million people in the United States and Canada are online. The number will be nearly 200 million by the year 2000. We want those people to know what we have to offer."

The Delmar office of Edward Jones is at 316 Delaware Ave., in Main Square Shoppes.

Matters of Opinion

Happy New Year

Many will ring in the new year at Albany's First Night, while others lounge in front of the tube, watching parades and sporting events. And others herald in the new year by hopping on the latest home exercise equipment determined to shed unwanted pounds.

We hope that however the New Year is rung in that it is done safely and the warning of police agencies against drinking and driving is heeded.

The beginning of the new year is a time of reflection and resolve to make the future better. As a newspaper, these are things we do with each new issue.

We look back on our stories and ask how we could have done better. We look ahead and ask how we can best cover events in our community. We look to our readers for input and insight, and relish their contributions in our letters to the editor pages.

We are grateful to this community for its genuine concern, illustrated in numerous ways throughout the year.

For 1997, we wish all our readers and advertisers and friends happiness and prosperity. Happy New Year.

Give gift of life

If you're already regretting the calories consumed in a fit of holiday frenzy, there's an opportunity to get rid of some of the guilt on New Year's Day. The Red Cross, always in need of blood, is conducting a drive at Crosstown Plaza on Route 7 in Schenectady from 8 a.m. to noon.

Conducting the drive on a holiday is a reminder that the need for blood never stops. If you are 17 or older and weigh 110 pounds or more, you can participate in this special drive by calling 1-800-272-4543 to make an appointment.

Current, lapsed or new donors are being urged by the Red Cross to give the gift of life. Type O-negative blood supplies are low, and especially needed since this blood type can be transfused to anyone.

If you can't make it on New Year's Day, make it one of your resolutions to schedule an appointment in the near future. Giving blood is relatively painless — just don't look at the needle — and takes less than an hour. There are several blood drives a week in the Capital District, so there's always an opportunity to contribute.

Driven to serve BC

The Bethlehem Central School District has good reason to be proud of its transportation record. BC transportation supervisor Bob Peters says the department is unsurpassed in terms of its safety record, with no accidents ever recorded and no alcohol or drug-related incidents. This is indeed good news for the children and parents who rely on the department on every school day, year after year.

Part of this exemplary record must be credited to the mutual respect between the district and the drivers. Bus drivers are fairly compensated for a job that carries our most precious cargo. And in turn, the drivers exhibit a sense of responsibility and concern in their jobs.

For both the district and the drivers, safety is truly first — as it should be. Driving a school bus is an important job, and the district should be commended for recognizing it as such. Perhaps other districts in the area who have not been so fortunate with their drivers should look to BC to see how things can and should be handled.

At BC, doing the right thing seems to come naturally. BC bus driver Chuck Emery and monitor Sue McNally also deserve a round of thanks for a lesson in honesty recently when they found a manila envelope filled with cash and checks and turned it in to Peters.

The grateful business owner rewarded them, but for Emery and McNally the act was all in a day's work.

Bravo!

Alzheimer's drugs need test of time

By Marvin R. LeRoy Jr.

The writer is executive director of the Northeastern New York chapter of the Alzheimer's Association.

Over the past few months, we have all been bombarded with information regarding the tremendous advances of research initiatives within the world of drug therapies for the treatment of Alzheimer's disease.

While media accounts accurately portray the exciting developments, it is important to keep things in proper perspective. The process of bringing forth drugs to the marketplace is a long, arduous series of testing on an internal level within drug manufacturers, and later in the public sector through the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Making matters worse for those hoping for immediate remedies, most drugs released to the public still require a number of "generations" of production advances to become truly effective for their intended purposes.

With the upcoming release of Aricept (also known as donepezil hydrochloride or E2020) by the Japanese pharmaceutical firm Eisai, jointly marketed in the United States by Pfizer, the renewed excitement of yet another breakthrough in the efforts to ultimately rid our society of this horrible disease is again piqued.

We have been down this road a few times before, most notably a few years back when Parke-Davis released the first drug for Alzheimer's known as Cognex (also referred to as Tacrine). Aricept is a Tacrine-like drug in that it is also an acetylcholinesterase inhibitor that seeks to slow down the progression of the illness. It has exhibited relative improvement from this other first generation drug, with fewer side-effects, in individuals with earlier-stage, mild to moderate cases of the disease.

Clearly, we in the Alzheimer's Association find only reason for celebration of these advances but are regularly reminded by the many families we serve of the limited impacts these early drugs will have on the overall population. The real importance of these advances, however, is the incremental aspect of moving forward with research and trials toward future generations of drugs and

We must continue to support these efforts if we are to ultimately find a way to prevent and cure the disease. Similarly, we must not forget the need to fully understand the time-consuming, careful testing process that precedes the marketing of new drugs in this country. While often frustrating, we cannot dismiss the significance of providing for this proper experimentation and assurances of safety prior to public release.

Every year, some 1.5 billion prescriptions are filled in the United States, with more than 2,500 different prescriptions drugs now available.

For each and every drug in production nationally, hundreds of thousands of chemical compounds are created and evaluated. For a new drug to move from discovery to drugstore, it can take a company 10 years or more and an average of $65 million to pass through all of the testing phases prescribed in the guidelines set by the FDA. A close examination of the process, from "preclinical testing" (that phase best known for its use of animals to test reactions) to the "Investigational New Drug Application" (which documents the early testing toward approval for human studies) to the lengthy, three-phase testing of the drug in human volunteers, surely demonstrates the tremendous care given to a thorough and exhaustive study of each substance under consideration.

In some cases, a number of which involve the assessment of Alzheimer's-related drugs, an expedited review program (six to eight years) may be initiated to provide for the speed required to combat serious and life-threatening diseases.

Within the context of this more complete comprehension of the FDA review process, we will watch with great interest — and cautious optimism — the advancement of some half-dozen drugs currently in this pipeline. News of estrogen therapies (the first research studies to claim reversal capabilities) and nicotine patches has already hit the streets of America, and will most likely capture our attention again as further studies reveal important findings.

As always, we will continue our work to assist families in their many challenges in meeting the needs of loved ones impacted by this dreadful disease as we await word of the ultimate discovery.

Along with critical education and support services, we will also energize our efforts around the need for increased funding for research (through the association's Ronald Reagan Institute) as we carry out our mission of "help and hope."

Time to make reform work

Editor, The Spotlight:

Increasing the Earned Income Disregard is critical to the effort to move welfare participants into jobs.

It is ironic that welfare recipients who work while on welfare have long been the major source of fraud within the state's welfare system. In Gov. George Pataki's first state of the state address, he acknowledged that welfare participants with paid jobs are the highest taxed in the state.

New York penalizes welfare recipients who work much more than other states. It is a major reason why the rate of outside employment for welfare recipients is so low compared to the rest of the country.

New York needs to raise the Earned Income Disregard so the welfare recipients can keep more of their earnings. Currently, every dollar of earnings counted as income reduces a participant's welfare benefits by $1.

While the governor has publicly supported the need to raise the state's Earned Income Disregard, he blocked the increase in the last two state budgets because it was not accompanied by a cut in bene-

The other step needed to make the Earned Income Disregard work is job creation, especially entry-level jobs that welfare recipients have the most chance of obtaining. The governor denies there is a need for job creation — even though state Labor Department statistics show the number of welfare participants and unemployed New Yorkers exceeds the number of job openings by more than a million.

Unfortunately, the governor's recent welfare proposals merely continue his ideological attacks on the welfare system, rather than focusing on the nuts and bolts of moving people into jobs. It is time to make welfare reform work.

Project Access heightens awareness

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am pleased to see that the Bethlehem police department actively participated in the county-wide effort on Dec. 19 to enforce handicapped accessible parking zones.

This effort, Project Access, was initiated by Sheriff James Campbell in 1994. Project Access has three components — public awareness, public education and enforcement.

In December, 98 summonses were issued to individuals parked illegally in designated handicapped spaces. Bethlehem police issued 22 summonses.

As a disabled individual who participated in the public awareness part of Project Access, I often find vehicles parked in handicapped zones without proper permit or license plate. Again, I thank the sheriff's department and Bethlehem police for heightening awareness of those who overlook the needs of the disabled.

Remember, even 60 seconds is a minute too long to park illegally in a handicapped zone.

New Year's Day blood drive slated at Crosstown Plaza

Those who have vowed to turn over a new leaf in 1997 can start bright and early on New Year's Day at one of nine American Red Cross blood donation centers that will be open across the state to keep the community blood supply stable during the crucial holiday period.

The donor centers in Albany will be open from 8 a.m. to noon, offering anyone age 17 or older and weighing at least 110 pounds the chance to start the new year by saving a life. The blood donation center will be at the Crosstown Plaza on Route 7 in Schenectady.

Current, lapsed or new blood donors are encouraged to call, toll-free, 1-800-272-4543 to schedule an appointment to make the gift of life.

"The fact that we're open on New Year's Day is a clear statement that the need for blood never stops," said Mark Thornhill, director of donor services for American Red Cross Blood Services, New York-Penn Region.

"While many may be able to stop work for a day or so to celebrate a mid-week holiday, hundreds of patients in hospitals are not able to stop the serious diseases or medical conditions that cause them to need blood, and they and their doctors need our help."

The Red Cross entered the two-week holiday period with a shortage of Type O blood, the most transfused blood type.

Artist's Deer Mountain trail renderings on display

Rita Buttiker's color photographs and charcoal drawings will be on display in the northwest gallery this month.

Her exhibit is devoted to depictions of the Deer Mountain Nature Trail located about a mile south of South Bethlehem off Route 101 on Jarvis Road.

The trail, opened in the fall of 1995 by employees of Blue Circle Cement, is a new source of inspiration for Buttiker.

The pureness of the air and stillness of the earth abound in this place. I hope to have captured some of it," she said.

Born in Wwitzerland; Buttiker emigrated to the U.S. in 1962, began studying art with the late Betty Warren. She then continued her studies with Franklin Alexander, formerly with SUNY Albany's continuing education program in art. Buttiker's work in charcoal portraiture with Warren sparked an enduring love for this medium of light and shadow.

A member of the Bethlehem Art Association, Buttiker has exhibited in the Capital District, Baltimore and Kent, Conn.

Homer Graf's watercolors occupy the southwest gallery. Graf, a self-taught artist, took up painting after he retired 10 years ago.

The exhibit includes landscapes, seascapes and painting in an Oriental style. This is Graf's first public showing.

January is National Hot Tea Month, and Charles Meinert's collection of tea paraphernalia is a proper tribute. Meinert is an avid collector of familiar household objects like toys, teapots and milk bottles.

The library displayed his collection of roly-poly toys last year. He collects these items for their shape, design and function, rather than for pristine condition or monetary value.

Meinert has said, "I bought it because I liked it," which is really the best reason to collect anything.

A frequent visitor to the library, Meinert works for the state Education Department. His collection will grace the library's glass cases through Jan. 31.

Bird walk to feature a look at cardinals

A bird walk will be held on Saturday, Jan. 11, at 2 p.m. at the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center on Game Farm Road in Delmar.

The program will start with a look at Five Rivers' feeders from the indoor bird-watching area. Cardinals, their natural history, habits and food preferences will be highlighted. An outdoor bird walk with a Five Rivers naturalist will complete the program.

For information, call 475-0291.

Slingerlands soloist takes the stage

Meg Bragle, a Slingerlands native, recently performed with the Dearborn (Mich.) Symphony Orchestra as the mezzo soprano soloist in John Rutter's "Magnificat."

She also performed "The Messiah" with the Charlotte (N.C.) Symphony Orchestra as the mezzo soloist.

A University of Michigan graduate, Bragle is completing her studies toward a master's degree in choral conducting at Michigan State University.

Civil War buffs to view cavalry slide show

The Capital District Civil War Round Table will hold its January meeting on Friday, Jan. 10, at the Bethlehem Public Library at 451 Delaware Ave. in Delmar at 7 p.m.

The featured speaker is Dr. Bruce M. Venter, who will present a 40-minute slide lecture entitled "Kill-Cavalry: A New Perspective on Gen. Judson Kilpatrick."

Greg Robinson, Sara Hotopp and Lori Robinson are teacher representatives. Alice Mensching and Carol Relyea represent the support staff, and Lisa DePaulo and Edward Diegel represent the administrative staff.

Meeting dates and agenda information are published on the monthly school lunch menu that is sent home with each student. Each year, the committee chooses one or two topics for consideration.

The public is welcome to attend all meetings. For information, call the elementary school at 765-2382.

Planners to meet

New Scotland's planning board meets Tuesday, Jan. 7, at 7 p.m. at town hall on Route 85.

The town board organizational meeting for 1997 will be on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 6:30 p.m. prior to the board's regular monthly meeting.

Seniors to attend covered-dish luncheon

New Scotland Senior Citizens will host a covered-dish luncheon on Wednesday, Jan. 8, at noon at the Wyman Osterhout Community Center on the Old Road in New Salem.

Everyone should bring a dish to share and utensils. All senior citizens in the community are invited to attend.

Workshop to present classes at high school

The Heldeberg Workshop will offer classes at the high school during the February recess. Classes will run from 9 a.m. to noon on Feb. 18 through 21.

The cost is $25 per course, with additional fees if special materials are required. Course offerings will be posted in January.

Workshop to create new pond

An aquatic habitat has always been thought of as a missing ecosystem at the Heldeberg Workshop. The board of directors has set up a pond fund to help realize the dream of constructing a pond on the property.

A modest plan has been developed consisting of a quarter-acre pond, designed with children's safety in mind. The board has the necessary permits to start construction. The pond will cost about $10,000.

To date, $3,000 has been raised. Individuals can help complete the project with a contribution. Donors can also honor a friend, relative or special teacher with a contribution.

Checks should be made out to the Heldeberg Workshop and sent to Box 323, Voorheesville 12186. Gift forms are available upon request.

Club to add 2nd session

On Wednesday, Jan. 8, the library club for children in grade-four through six will meet at 3:30 p.m.

Beginning in February, the group will be divided into two sections to meet on the first Tuesday or Wednesday of each month. Kids must sign up to attend the session they prefer. Children can only participate in one of the two sessions.

Voorheesville Public Library

The additional session will enable each group to explore the activities which have been difficult because of the large numbers who attended in the past.

Transportation is available both days from the elementary school. The sessions end at 4:30 p.m.

From 6:30 to 8:30 on Jan. 8, Art Expressions will participate in its monthly drawing workshop in the community room. Teenagers and adults are welcome to bring their own materials and draw from a still life or each other. Tea and coffee and conversation are part of the evening.

Food for Fines is under way this month, so if you dig up all those overdue novels, CDs and picture books, you can return them all to the library at a bargain rate. The library is accepting canned or non-perishable items for each dollar owed in fines up to a maximum of $3.

The food will be donated to St. Matthew's Human Concerns Committee for local distribution.

Parents and caregivers should be happy to note that regular story hours will resume for the winter session on Jan. 6. Story hours will be on Mondays at 10:30 a.m., Tuesdays and Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and Fridays at 1:30 p.m. No sign-up is necessary.

Dutchmen capture Helderberg title

Guilderland stops Bethlehem

By Seth Carr

The Eagles made it to the championship round of the Helderberg tournament on Saturday, but were unable to overcome Suburban Council rival Guilderland.

The Dutchmen used a balanced scoring attack to capture the title. In fact, just three players accounted for 86 percent of the Dutchmen's firepower.

Brian Kavanaugh scored 20, while Keith Watts, a member of the all-tournament team, contributed 21, and Mark Gillen chipped in 16.

Too many turnovers, and a lack of defensive rebounding led to the Eagles' downfall. Senior Tim Staniels and junior Geoff Hunter were the only Eagles to score in double figures with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

The turning point in the game came when Watts made a three-point shot and was fouled by Staniels. He went on to sink the free throw, and the Dutchmen claimed an 11-point lead at halftime.

Basketball

The Eagles attempted to claw their way back in the third quarter, but by the middle of the fourth quarter Guilderland's lead had widened, and they cruised to a 65-51 win.

"I don't think subconsciously we were ready for the game," said senior point guard Seamus Gallagher.

"We failed to execute when we had to," Hunter said.

Bethlehem coach Chuck Abba said that he has divided the season into four quarters.

The first quarter was the pre-season, which went well, and the second quarter was the beginning of the season through the holidays in which the Eagles posted a 5-2 record, good for first place in the Suburban Council Gold Division.

Abba believes that in the third quarter, which starts now and finishes when the regular season is over, the team "will find out a lot about just how good we're going to be."

In first-round tournament action, the Eagles pummeled Berne-Knox-Westerlo by a score of 85-39. The real story here was Leo Bresnahan's barrage of three-point shots and his game-high 17 points, 12 of which came in the second quarter.

Junior Justin Pinchback cleaned up the boards, and sophomore Ryan Venter scored 12 points and showed some excellent all-around play.

Dolphins seek members

The Delmar Dolphins Swim Club has limited openings for new swimmers. The club is open to swimmers 6-to-18 years of age who are residents of the town of Bethlehem or its school district, and who can swim 25 yards without assistance. Competition will be offered but is not required.

For information, call Kathy Arduini at 439-9206.

Blackbirds turn back Berne-Knox-Westerlo

By Alison Leonard

Voorheesville played Guilderland tough in the first round of the Helderberg tournament, but finished on the losing end, 62-51.

John Christiansen led Voorheesville with 16, while sophomore John Krajewski had 12.

"Guilderland's pressing man-to-man defense is probably the strongest we'll play this year," said Voorheesville coach Bill Logan. "It really affected our offense."

The loss put the Blackbirds in the consolation game on Saturday against Berne-Knox-Westerlo, which lost to Bethlehem in the opening round.

Voorheesville went on to defeat the Bulldogs 60-47 to grab third place in the tournament. Christiansen led the Blackbirds again with 18 points, and junior Bill Meade added 16. Krajewski had 13 points and 14 rebounds. Karl Mier had seven steals for the 'Birds.

"We had a nice comeback with a defensive change that really turned things around for us," Logan said.

Voorheesville trailed the Bulldogs at the half, 28-21, but the Blackbirds held Berne-Knox-Westerlo to just one three-pointer and a foul shot in the third quarter to take the lead.

"It was a big game to win since we'll have a week before any more competition," said junior Joe Dougherty.

BC girls edge Pittsfield

By Tim Kavanagh

After losing a tight game to defending state champion Bishop Maginn in the first round of the Capital District Holiday Hoopfest, the Bethlehem Lady Eagles stormed back to beat Pittsfield in the consolation game on Saturday, 64-52.

The girls came out inspired against Pittsfield with Karly Decker leading the inside attack. After two quarters of back-and-forth action, the scoreboard read 33-28 with the Lady Eagles on top.

In the third quarter, Bethlehem played extremely well and outscored their opponents 17-9. The Lady Eagles breezed from there, as they recorded their third non-league victory of the season.

Nicole Conway, who made the all-tournament team, led the Bethlehem offense with a game-high 18 points. Lily Corrigan also came up big with 10 points and 15 rebounds.

In the first-round game, Bethlehem jumped out to a 7-0 lead, but Bishop Maginn came back to take a 20-16 lead after the first half.

In the second half, each team's offense was in high gear. Bishop Maginn, considered the top team in Section II, was just a bit too strong, however, and prevailed by a 52-43 score.

Conway poured in 17 points and junior Kate Smith scored 11.

The Lady Eagles, unbeaten in Suburban Council play, take on Columbia Saturday at home.

RCS boys capture Gold Medal tourney

By Meghan Smith

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk boys basketball team hosted Cairo and Maple Hill for their annual Gold Medal Tournament and came away with a first-place finish.

The Indians beat Cairo 60-51 in the opening-round game. RCS came out strong during the first half, taking a 33-17 lead. Mike Patounas led the scoring with 14 points. Sophomore John Weinheimer chipped in 11, and Robert Nieves added 10. Mike Decker and Corey Blakesley each contributed nine.

Ryan Powell and senior Kevin Mastriano also had baskets to round the scoring for RCS.

In the championship game against Maple Hill, the Indians jumped out to a 29-15 halftime lead and held their ground on the way to a 69-48 win.

The Indians continued their strong scoring by pouring in 17 points during the third quarter and 23 during the fourth.

Nieves scored 16 points and captured the tournament MVP award. Decker had another strong game with 15 points. Weinheimer and Patounas also scored in double figures.

RCS coach Bruce Stott had considerable praise for his team and their tournament performance.

"They have come a long way thus far in the season," he said. "This is a fairly new and young team, and I emphasize family and close-knit bonds to them. It is very hard for me to decide who to place out there on the court because each and every one of these kids is extremely talented.

"I do my best by allowing everyone some playing time," he said. "In the beginning, many of my starters had some confidence problems, and they didn't believe in themselves very much. Now one can tell the difference in their performances. ... Mike Patounas, Mike Decker, and Corey Blakesley are exceptional ball players. Every game I can count on them to keep us in the game and the team going."

The RCS girls also advanced to the title game of the Gold Medal Tournament, but were defeated by Maple Hill, 41-31.

The girls had an easy time with Cairo during their opening-round game, winning 62-46. Jennifer M. Jones led the attack with 26 points.

Melissa Eissing grabbed 11 rebounds in addition to her 13 points, and Jessica Stanton tallied seven. Elyse Griffin, Jennifer L. Jones and Krista Perrine also broke into the scoring column.

Jennifer M. Jones led the team with 13 points in the loss to Maple Hill. Perrine won the tournament sportsmanship award.

Champions return

About 40 Bethlehem Central alumni returned to participate in a just-for-fun swim meet on Friday to commemorate the school's astounding success in winning the Section II boys swim title for 25 of the last 26 years. In the evening, about 120 alumni attended a banquet celebrating their past success.

Budget

Management Services and another $43,000 was saved on the purchase of computer software in the office of Receiver of Taxes Nancy Karins.

Unanticipated revenues of approximately $720,000 also helped the town's bottomline, Kehoe said, especially larger-than-expected mortgage tax receipts.

Because of a drop in mortgage tax revenue for 1995, Kehoe only budgeted $350,000 for that line in 1996. But major construction projects in the county apparently fattened that fund considerably because the town will end up receiving about $817,000 in mortgage tax payments for this year.

The unexpended funds and the additional revenue will make it possible for the town to spend $310,000 in 1997 on completion of the new playing fields at the Elm Avenue Park, she said. Plus, there will be $35,000 available for work on the new boat launch under construction at Henry Hudson Park off Route 144.

Other possible projects that may be undertaken this year include putting a new roof on the town highway garage at an estimated cost of $100,000 and installation of above-ground fuel tanks at the garage, also expected to cost about $100,000.

By paying for these projects outright instead of issuing bond anticipation notes, the town will save a significant amount in interest.

One department that came in slightly above projections was the police department, as Police Chief Richard LaChappelle needed an additional $8,000 to cover higher-than-anticipated overtime costs.

The additional overtime is pretty much in line, according to Kehoe, given the department's overall budget of $2 million for salaries and benefits.

LaChappelle originally estimated that he would need $200,000 for overtime, $1,780,000 for full-time staff salaries and $20,000 for part-time workers. The full-time salary amount included payments to three police officers who were out on disability leave for nearly the entire year.

Overtime in the police department for 1995 was about $192,000.

"This represents excellent fiscal management," Fuller said. "I'm extremely pleased that we are not going into debt for these projects and will be able to pay for them out of pocket."

harm and not killed right away?"

The consent order cited several violations regarding incidents in both Delmar and Albany. The Delmar incident took place on Sept. 6, 1994, when the company applied diazinon in the vicinity of 3 Pinetree Lane and failed to "water in" the chemicals as called for by instructions on the label.

Five young turkeys that had been feeding on the Delmar property were found dead by state wildlife pathologist Ward Stone, who attributed their demise to the ingestion of pesticides.

EnCon spokesman Gary Sheffer defended the punishment meted out to Barefoot.

The company is paying out $6,000 for a "relatively minor incident," he said. Plus, the company "received a considerable amount of negative publicity."

Stone called the consent order "garbage" because it ignores the fact that "millions of birds are killed by diazinon each year."

The lawn care chemical, which has been banned for use on golf courses and sod farms since the late 1980s, should be banned for use on lawns, he said.

"Generally speaking, the concentrations you need when applying it to turf grass are quite heavy in order to get at the grubs," he said.

"We only document a few of the robins, bluebirds and turkeys that are killed over the course of the spring or summer because we are such a small unit."

Progress club has tips on making stationery

Free lifeguard exams set for state facilities operated by EnCon

A free exam will be given on Sunday, Jan. 26, at 9 a.m. at the College of Saint Rose at 432 Western Ave. in Albany for those interested in working as lifeguards at New York State Department of Environmental Conservation facilities in the Adirondack and Catskills this summer.

The test is open to individuals ages 16 and older. It includes an in-water demonstration of lifesaving techniques and a CPR demonstration.

At the time of employment, lifeguards must: possess a valid American Red Cross or equivalent certification in lifeguarding, community first aid and safety and basic life support; have passed the DEC exam; have attended one of the DEC lifeguard orientations; have completed a personal interview with the DEC; and submit a current certification of their physical ability to perform lifeguard duties. Candidates must also have 20/40 uncorrected vision in each eye.

BCHS grad receives tuition-free gift

Marc Mannella, a senior majoring in biology and psychology at the University of Rochester, has been accepted into the university's "Take Five" program.

This program enables selected undergraduates to take a fifth year of study toward their bachelor's degree, tuition-free.

Mannella, a graduate of Bethlehem Central High School, is a resident of Delmar.

The "Take Five" program broadens the scope of undergraduate education by allowing students to explore new subjects outside their major area of study. It also permits students with a demanding schedule of course requirements to take electives or study abroad for a semester.

Caitlin McCarthy and Michael Larabee

McCarthy, Larabee marry

Caitlin Susannah McCarthy, daughter of Maureen McCarthy of Albany and the late Timothy McCarthy, and Michael Rand Larabee, son of John Larabee of Southfield, Mich., and Marcia Larabee of Ballston Spa, were married Sept. 28.

The Rev. Karen Ann Boyden performed the ceremony in John Boyd Thacher State Park, with the reception following at the Cheldan House in Knox.

The maid of honor was Marialahna McCarthy, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids were Katherine McCarthy, the bride's sister-in-law, and Kimberly Tiffany, the bride's cousin.

The best man was Adam Greenberg, and ushers were Kyle Larabee and David Larabee, the groom's brothers.

The bride is a graduate of Middlebury College and is studying for a master's in library science at the University at Albany. She is employed as an assistant manager by Borders Books & Music in Colonie.

The groom is a graduate of Clayton A. Bouton High School and the University at Albany. A former reporter and managing editor for Spotlight Newspapers, he is employed as a copy editor for the Times Union in Colonie.

After a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, Mich., the couple lives in Albany.

The Spotlight remembers

This week in 1986, these stories were making headlines in The Spotlight.

- Developers proposed a self-contained community, Brookhill Village, for about 70 acres south of Krumkill Road and west of Blessing Road. The plan included 93 single-family houses, 25 two-family houses, 96 apartments, 44 townhouse units, 36,000 square feet of professional offices and 4,000 square feet of convenience store/retail space.

- Work has begun on a bicentennial history of the town of Bethlehem, from pre-history to the present, Floyd Brewer reported. The retired University at Albany professor was leading the collaborative effort to produce the book in time for the town's 200th birthday in 1993.

- Representatives of the Farm Family Insurance Co. and the town of Bethlehem broke ground on a new 54,000-square-foot building on Route 9W in Glenmont.

- Voorheesville's boys basketball team defeated Bethlehem 56-48 in the consolation round of the Helderberg Tournament. Key players for the Blackbirds were Kyle Larabee, Dean Decker, Marty Gordinier and John Meacham.

Norreida Reyes and Thomas Murnane

Murnane, Reyes to marry

Norreida Reyes, daughter of Marcial Reyes of Whitehall and Melody Spotts of Wood Dale, Va., and Thomas F. Murnane, son of Thomas J. and Joyce Murnane of Delmar, are engaged to be married.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of the University at Albany. She is a senior committee assistant for the New York State Assembly Education Committee in Albany.

The future groom is a graduate of the Albany Academy and is attending Empire State College in Albany. He is a reporter for the Colonie Spotlight/Loudonville Weekly and a freelance writer.

A December 1997 wedding is planned.

JAVA JOINTS DOT CAPITAL DISTRICT

By Joshua Kagan

Coffee shops are not just for Seattle or Greenwich Village crowds anymore; they have filtered into the Capital District and found a broad range of customers.

"In recent years, it's become more popular," said Frank Figliomeni, owner of Professor Java's Coffee Sanctuary at 213 Wolf Road in Colonie. "It's not like Seattle where you can open up a shop and expect business. In the northeast, the coffee culture is just coming around."

"It's been popular in most parts of the country and has crept east," said Barrye Cohen, co-owner of the Daily Grind, which has stores on Lark Street in Albany and Broadway in Troy.

Some stores see youth as an important part of coffee culture, although it now encompasses many age groups.

"I think they've become more popular," said Tony Fisher, manager of Carol Ann Coffee at 855 Central Ave. in Albany. "I think a lot of younger people are going to coffee instead of alcohol." Still, he said, Carol Ann Coffee, located in an office building, primarily serves an older, more professional crowd.

"We cater to a 21 and older crowd," Figliomeni said. "It's more for an older crowd to come in, sit back and relax. There's a library room, an art room, a bar room."

"I think we've found our niche in Troy and Albany," Cohen said. "We're more of a neighborhood place. Some places have music and offer a place for kids to hang out without alcohol."

The towns of Bethlehem and Colonie are now home to Java Jazz, Professor Java's, Stephanucci's, the cafes within Borders Books and Music and Barnes and Noble Bookstore and a number of diners. These are all complemented by numerous coffee shops within the cities of Albany, Schenectady and Troy.

The coffee culture features an enormous selection of drinks. According to Fisher, Carol Ann Coffee has about 35 selections of coffee, in addition to espressos, teas and Italian sodas. Coffee can be found from different locations around the world, such as Hawaii, Columbia, Brazil and Kenya, and with different flavors, such as hazelnut or Irish cream. Figliomeni said Professor Java's makes "pretty much anything and everything" including "frappuccinos" (a cold drink like a "cappuccino slush"), a banana latte and a "red eye" (an espresso shot in a regular cup of coffee).

Most coffee shops roast their own beans. The Daily Grind, one of the oldest coffee shops in the area, has roasted its beans since 1978.

A range of performers have become an integral part of many shops. Many cafes feature open mikes and provide a stage for local performers. Professor Java's, for instance, regularly hosts a jazz band, a blues band and an acoustic guitarist.

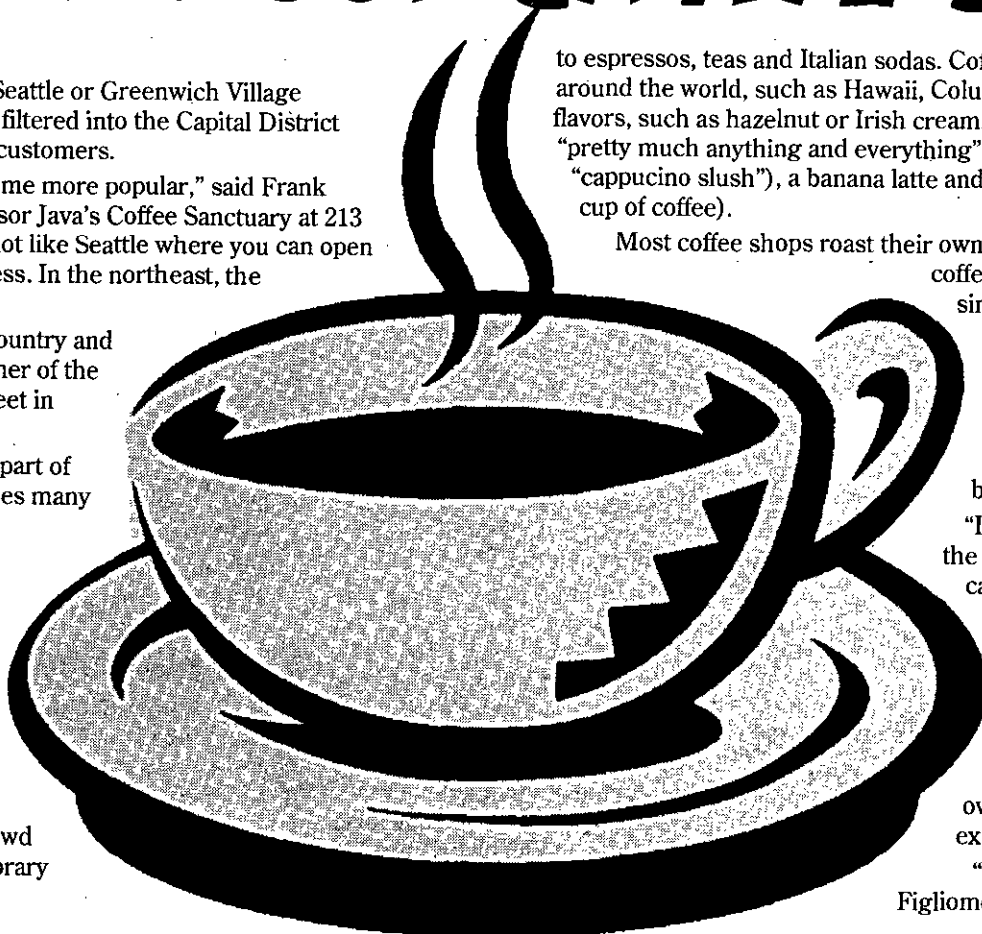

"I don't think people come in specifically for the acts, but it adds to the atmosphere of the cafe and bookstore," said Steve Sarnham, assistant manager of Barnes and Noble Bookstore on Wolf Road.

Figliomeni said Professor Java's is also suited for daytime and early evening business meetings and presentations.

Owners said that while there may be an overabundance of coffee shops now, their existence is not a passing craze.

"In my opinion, the coffee fad has faded," Figliomeni said. "The stores that last will be stores that are exceptional or stores that are part of the culture, not an alternative to it."

I think things will shake down in a couple years," said Cohen. "But once people realize there's coffee other than Maxwell House or Folger's, it's hard to go back."

Local arts groups gain funds from state for 1997 activity

As the new year begins, there are 42 arts and cultural organizations in Albany and Schenectady counties which will receive grants for programs of artistic merit, community benefit and outreach to underserved audiences.

The sum being distributed totals $38,000 and is part of the grant administered by the League of Arts from funds for reganting from the New York State Council on the Arts.

This $38,000 grant represents a 17 percent increase over last year's funds.

The grants range from $249 to the Bethlehem Public Library to fund introductory writing workshops to teach people how to translate life experiences into written form, to $2,677 to the Art Partners/Tschaya & Co. to provide two 12-week dance workshop sessions for children in Albany.

Eight of the local grants are for theater groups and/or productions.

The Academy of Holy Name in Albany will receive $622 for bringing one-act plays by students to retirement complexes, nursing homes and other senior residences. The Actors Collaborative will get $1,148 for its five performances of Les Liaisons Dangereuses at The Egg in Albany and The Albany Civic Theater's Whole Village Theater, a free community project, will get $1,148.

Heritage Artists, Limited, a touring professional company, receives $1,674 to help produce a regional concert version of Jesus Christ Superstar in March at Proctor's Theater.

A Berne community troupe, Hilltowns Players, Inc. is receiving $908 to help produce a 1997 presentation of Carousel and a Rensselaerville dance troupe, Impulse Theatre and Dance, Inc. is getting $1109 towards an original full-length musical about anti-ent strikes in the area.

The Park Playhouse, a summer venture in Albany's Washington Park, has been allotted $765 to help provide free, professional Broadway musical theater next summer.

A grant of $382 has been given Theater Voices Inc. in Albany to continue its program of free staged readings of plays.

Two local ballet troupes will also receive grants for 1997.

The Northeast Ballet Company in Schenectady will receive $956 towards a presentation of its own ballet version of Cinderella on May 10 at Proctor's Theater.

The Capital Ballet Company of Albany will receive monies to aid in the premier of a new ballet Hudson Valley Legends.

Kiss of the Spider Woman set for Proctor's run Jan. 8-9

The Tony Award-winning musical, Kiss of the Spider Woman, will be presented at Proctor's Theater in Schenectady as part of its nationwide tour.

This musical version of a successful novel and later film concerns the fantasies of two unlikely prisoners in a South American prison. Their dreams of a Hollywood movie queen reveal their own personalities as the woman acts out their fantasies.

Premiered on Broadway in June, 1992, Kiss of the Spider Woman has become a popular musical on Broadway and on tour.

Both performances at Proctor's are at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, the management at the Schenectady theater has announced the addition of two new shows for the spring season.

Tommy Tune and the Manhattan Rhythm Kings will appear on Saturday, April 26 at 8 p.m. and the award-winning Broadway musical, Ain't Misbehavin', will be offered Saturday, March 8 at 8 p.m.

Proctor's will also substitute a musical production during the week of May 27-June 1 when Robert Goulet brings his presentation of Man of La Mancha to the area. This production replaces Funny Girl which is ending its tour later this month.

Goulet's last performance at Proctor's was in 1993 when he did Camelot. Several years prior to that, he toured South Pacific and again had sold out houses in Schenectady. Info/reservations available at 346-6204.

Capital Rep's next play begins previews January 14

Gordon MacDonald, an actor seen on the soap opera, All My Children, and in the series, Law and Order, will play the lead in the area premiere of Richard Kalinoski's Beast On The Moon which opens for previews on Jan. 14 and officially on Jan. 16. It will run through Feb. 9.

The playwright, a teacher at Nazareth College in Rochester, has written 20 other plays but Beast On The Moon represents Kalinoski's breakthrough into regional theater.

The play deals with Armenian refugees in 1921 Milwaukee who having witnessed the massacre of their families at the hands of the Turks, have brought their troubled pasts with them to America. The young couple deal with their pasts and their futures in different ways and find their tentative marriage moving towards doom.

The bittersweet romance was acclaimed at the prestigious Humana Festival at the Actors Theatre in Louisville and 1996 winner of the Osborn Award of the American Theatre Critics Association. Info/reservations available at 462-4531.

STAN SMITH'S TENNIS CLASS

USE YOUR APPROACH TO JAM HIM

One way to make your opponent's passing shot more difficult is to hit your approach shot deep and down the center. This will make it harder for him to set up for his shot.

Besides reducing the angle for the passing shot, your opponent will be jammed with the ball coming right at his body. This will force him to make a tough last-second adjustment.

"There was only one thing I could do to make my pharmacy better. I teamed up with Price Chopper."

—Vince Rebbitt, R.Ph.

Tri-Village Pharmacy had become too expensive to operate independently. By joining with and eventually moving to Price Chopper, I can still take care of your everyday pharmacy needs with all the quality and service you've been used to, plus a whole lot more.

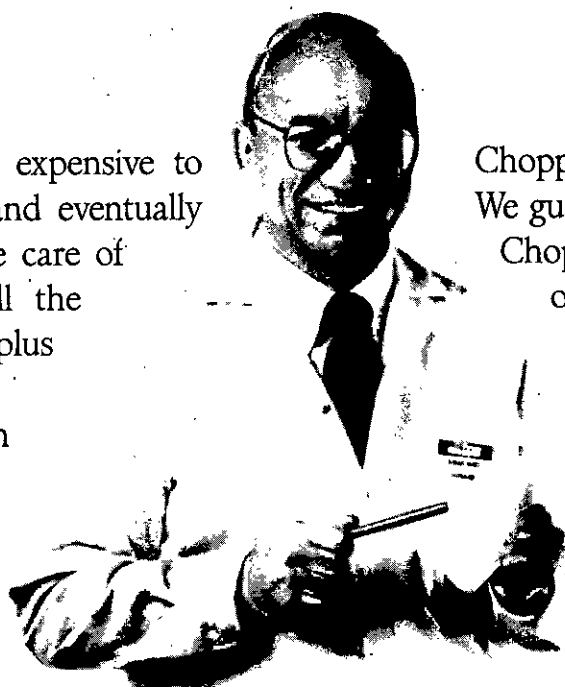

Now, you'll get the lowest prescription prices guaranteed. If any drugstore beats us, we'll match the difference. And we give Senior Citizen discounts.

We'll honor many, many medical plans including MVP, CHP, P.A.I.D., Blue Cross/Blue Shield, P.S.C.N.Y., Value RX, Workmen's Compensation and starting January 1st, CDPHP (CAPITAL DISTRICT PHYSICIANS' PLAN).

As part of Price Chopper we'll now offer lower prices every day on hundreds of Price

Chopper Health & Beauty Care Items. We guarantee the quality of all our Price Chopper Brand items. They're as good or better than the comparable national brand, but at low everyday Price Chopper prices. Just compare and save.

All in all, I think my pharmacy is going to be better than ever. So, if you're an old customer of ours, you're in for a pleasant surprise. If you've never shopped with us, just come in and say "Hello". And, to celebrate our new affiliation, please accept this $10 off coupon for any new or transferred prescription.
