Dems: Clean sweep in New Scotland

By JOSEPH A. PHILLIPS

There is a new political landscape in the town of New Scotland following last Tuesday's elections.

Democrats swept all contested elections in the town, including ousting incumbents from the town council and the clerk's office, and Democrat Martha Pofit was elected supervisor of the town, to succeed Herb Reilly, who narrowly won election to the county Legislature.

"I sensed during the campaign the outpouring of support we were receiving, but even I was taken aback by a 14-point win in my first run for office," said Pofit. With absentee ballots still to be counted, Pofit bested her Republican rival, Kurt Anderson, by 439 votes out of about 3,400 cast.

Outgoing Supervisor Reilly's son Richard, who ran with Democratic, Conservative and Independence backing, led all comers in the balloting for town board seats currently held by Republicans Michael Fields and Mark Dempf. In second place was Democrat-Independence candidate Cathy Connors, who squeezed out Fields by 81 votes. Fields, who also held the Conservative line, finished ahead of Dempf, running only on the Republican ticket.

Also failing in a bid to return to office was Town Clerk Kathryn Martin, named to the post by the town board in August. Her Democratic-Independence-Conservative opponent Diane Deschenes finished 161 votes ahead of Martin to move the post into the Democratic column for the first time in years. Incumbent town Superintendent of Highways Darrell Duncan defeated Republican challenger, Joseph Iacobucci, by more than a thousand votes.

The only remaining Republican officeholders to win in New Scotland last week were town Receiver of Taxes Marilyn Holmberg, the top vote-getter, and "To unseat incumbents in not a usual occurrence in this town," said Pofit of her party's sweep. "But I think the people demonstrated the faith in our team, and I hope they saw our hard work. We ran our campaign like a business, establishing common goals, breaking up responsibilities, subdividing tasks. We truly ran as a team."

In a gesture of unity, Anderson, Dempf and Fields ventured to Democratic campaign headquarters on election night to offer their congratulations in person to the victors. "I think it's a credit to our town that both sides ran good, honest people and ran clean campaigns," said town Democratic Chairman Michael Mackey, who succeeded former town chair and now county chairman Michael Burns last spring.

Mackey said he was "thrilled with the outcome, winning every race. If anyone had told me at the start of the campaign it would be a sweep, I'd have been surprised. As for the turnout, considering the weather, it was a good turnout for an off year election."

'Twelfth Night's the thing at BCHS

By KATHERINE McCARTHY

The play's the thing for the next two weekends, as William Shakespeare's comedy "Twelfth Night" takes to the stage of Studio 46 at Bethlehem Central High School.

Bethlehem Theater Support Group (BTSG) has been the driving force behind the production, and Jim Yeara is directing the cast of 21 students.

Yeara is pleased to be directing Twelfth Night, a show he has done before

"It's an even play," Yeara said.
"There's not just one lead, but eight or nine roles. It's a good play to teach with; it lets you analyze the parts, and learn to speak verse."

Yeara is using a warm-up method called the Alexander Technique, which he learned with the Royal Shakespeare Company. It is employed at acting schools throughout the country.

To maximize the number of students who can participate, "Twelfth Night" has a main cast and an alternate cast, who will serve as understudies and star in one performance.

"Using an alternate cast lets us bring more kids into the production," BTSG president Cindy Stambach said. "Eight of the kids had been in the Shakespeare plays in the last two years."

Yeara has also incorporated music and dance into this production of "Twelfth Night."

"The parents commented that a lot of the students are interested in dance," Yeara said. "Twelfth Night' covers a

Ag & Markets head recommends school district take only 2 acres

By Katherine McCarthy

Following a 60-day holding period, state Department of Agriculture & Markets Commissioner Nathan Rudgers has recommended that the Voorheesville Central School District take only 2 of the 20 acres it originally wanted for a proposed expansion of Clayton A. Bouton Jr./Sr. High School.

The school district had started eminent domain proceedings against neighbor John J.

Ag & Markets issued its hold order in September, after determining that the proposed condemnation and acquisition of 19.9 acres would have an adverse effect on the continuing viability of O'Connell's farmland, which is used to grow alfalfa for cattle feed.

The district said it needed the land for a $16.9 million addition to create a cohesive middle school program, relocating sixth-graders from the elementary to the junior/senior high school. Playing fields for school and community use were also planned.

Pete Gregg, spokesman for Ag & Markets, called the com-win/win situation.

We've reconfigured the ball fields," Gregg said. "This lets the school move forward with its expansion and construction of new fields, and leaves 17 acres of farm land. It's a viable alternative that fits the needs of the school and pand, and the farmer can keép some of the best farming soil in Albany County." -

School Superintendent Alan O'Connell of Martin Road for the McCartney said that landscape engineers are reviewing Ag & Markets recommendation to see if it can meet the district's needs.

> "At a first quick look, it can't," McCartney said. "Their schematic shows seven fields and a track, and I'm currently running a program on eight fields, and we need 10 and a track. We don't necessarily have to configure it as the commissioner recommended it; we're looking for alternative ways of setting it up.

"I appreciate that Ag & Markets realizes we have a problem and that we need land." Mc-Cartney added. "The role of Ag & Markets is to minimize the adverse impact on agriculture; mine missioner's recommendation a is to minimize the adverse impact on our programs. If we can come to a middle ground, that would be outstanding."

> Whatever the conclusion, Mc-Cartney said, the district doesn't want to jeopardize O'Connell's agricultural status.

O'Connell said he is waiting for the farmer. The school can ex- the school district to make the next move, although he was clearly perturbed that six days after the commissioner's recommendation, the district was conducting an archaeological dig on 5 of O'Connell's acres.

> "Zero acres is preferable to me," O'Connell said of the commissioner's recommendation, "particularly on their (the school district's) action today. They can't be trusted."

> O'Connell's sister Ellen Corcoran, who lives on land adjoining the farm, said she is unhappy Ag & Markets recommended the district get any land.

We gave in once," Corcoran said of the 35 acres her family sold to the district in 1955. "Now we'd like to stay and enjoy our days here. If the district is going to take land, though, then taking 2 acres is better than taking 20."

ARC invites community to Just Desserts

By Katherine McCarthy

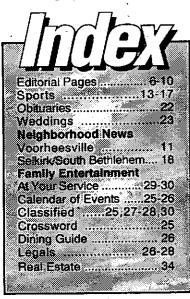

Who doesn't love a freshlybaked dessert? And with Thanksgiving right around the corner, who wouldn't love to have one less thing to prepare and be the bearer of a yummy finish to the best meal of the year?

You can take your pick of more than 100 treats at the "Just Desserts" fund-raiser on Tuesday. Nov. 16, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the Albany County Association For Retarded Citizens (ARC). John Gray from WNYT will be celebrity chairman for the evening.

'So far," said Rachel Swire, public relations and development coordinator for ARC, "over 35 bakeries, restaurants and caterers are donating desserts."

Some of the donors are: Bella Napoli, Grandma's Restaurant, Indian Ladder Farms, Price Chopper, Voorheesville Diner, and Londonderry Cafe. In addition, more than 25 area businesses have provided gift certificates, bakeware, cookbooks, and, of course, desserts, that will be raffled off during the evening.

The desserts will be sold by silent auction, and there will be entertainment to accompany the tasty treats. ARC employee John Cook will play classical guitar and senior housing facility on a site in the heart of the village of Voorheesville.

Alliance looks to build senior housing in V'ville

By Joseph A. Phillips

The alliance, which builds housing for low-to-moderate-income seniors and operates a similar facility in Feura Bush, is pursuing a purchase agreement for an 18-acre site on Route 85A near the intersection with Route 156.

According to alliance Executive Director Judy Eisgruber, the group hopes complete an agreement for purchase of the site, contingent on zoning approval from the village, in time to apply for state and federal funding for the $1.5 million project. 🦠

To that end, Eisgruber and Barbara Lamphere of Two Plus Four Construction Co. of East Syracuse, which would build the proposed two-story, 48-unit apartment building, appeared before the village board on Sept. 28 and a public meeting on Oct 14 to outline the proposal.

"I had a very strong feeling that there is support in the community for this project," said Eisgruber after the public presentation.

Eisgruber said her organization believes there is plenty of demand in the area for low-income housing for seniors. "We've conducted a preliminary market analysis of this area, and it looked very good for us," she said.

The site being considered, across from the Mobil station on Route 85A, is owned by Jean Claude Rodrique.

"We like to choose a site close to services, and on a bus route also," Eisgruber said.

Negotiations with Rodrique over a purchase contract are ongoing, and Lamphere indicated that further details of the facility's design are "kind of on hold" until site control has been secured. The Albany County Rural Hous- Both Lamphere and Eisgruber ing Alliance has taken the first believe the early announcement steps toward building a 48-unit of the project doesn't in any way compromise purchase negotiations. "Obviously, it would have been preferable to have that before our initial meeting with the village board," Lamphere said. "Hopefully, we'll have that very soon, perhaps before the end of the month. Then we'll go back to the village board and pursue the zoning issues."

The property is currently zoned Rural Agricultural, but Lamphere, whose firm has built numerous such facilities in upstate New York, including the six-year-old Feura Bush unit, noted that the village zoning code makes no provision for multi-family housing of this type in any of its zoning classifica-

"I have offered suggestions about how they can zone for senior housing, even within the parameters of their zoning code," she said, and suggested perhaps the creation of a "senior zone" designation.

Upcoming application deadlines for federal low-income housing tax credits and New York State Housing Trust funding necessitated the early meeting with the village board.

If the alliance wins its funding request, closing could take place by the end of 2000, Lamphere said. "After that, it will take 11 months to build, with rent-up to follow,' she said. "That's the easy part."

If the purchase agreement is successfully concluded soon, the zoning-variance process and funding applications could move forward at the same time, she said.

Eisgruber said the proposed facility would be fully handicapped accessible and would be intended for independent living for senior citizens with incomes under $20,850.

County Executive Michael Breslin and his Democratic colleagues. Worse, far from siezing a legislative majority, they suffered a net loss of at least five seats—and the Democrats secured "supermajority" in the Legislature, the two-thirds vote required to pass bonding legislation over GOP objections.

The town of Bethlehem, a traditional Republican stronghold, and New Scotland, historically a ticket-splitting town, were among the sore spots for the county GOP. In addition to Democratic inroads in town elections in both communities, two county legislative districts formerly held by Republicans fell into Democratic hands including one of only two defeated incumbent legislators in the county.

That came in the 35th District, where longtime GOP Legislator James Ross, who also carried Conservative Party backing, lost by a slim 63-vote margin (pending counting of absentee ballots) to Democratic-Independence nominee Charles Dawson.

Absentees might narrow the margin but are unlikely to change the outcome in the 33rd District. where outgoing New Scotland supervisor and Democrat Herb Reilly beat back a challenge from Thomas J. thread," said Reilly, declining fur- parties — helped give the county ther comment pending the counting of absentees. Efforts to reach Marcelle for comment were unsuccessful.

The Bethlehem-New Scotland results for Republicans mirrored their disappointing county showing. "When good candidates like Jim Ross and Tommy Marcelle lose so closely, something is definitely wrong," said Albany County Republican Chairman Peter Kermani.

With the Albany County Republican Committee leadership in transition, following the election of Kermani to the chairmanship to replace Field, most observers had rated the Republican slate a long shot - made more so by strong Democratic incumbents in all four top county posts.

A late start for the Republican ticket also hurt. The slate of Robert J. Maurer for county executive, Samuel Robideau for comptroller, and coroner candidates George Harrington and Jose Masilotti, did not take shape until after both the Independence and Conservative parties had made endorsements to Breslin and his fellow incumbents, Comptroller Michael Conners, and coroners Timothy Cavanaugh and Philip Furie.

Without those critical additional lines, and with the Republican ticket denied the Liberal line owing to filing errors, the Democratic slate ran up nearly 2-1 margins over their opponents.

"The parties that endorsed those other candidates — the InLegislature a supermajority, Kermani said.

The margin was widest at the top: Maurer was defeated by Breslin by just over 27,000 votes county-wide, and the other candidates fared only slightly better. Harrington, at almost 26,000 votes, was his party's top vote-getter.

Kermani said his party did best where its local organization is the strongest; citing the towns of Colonie and Coeymans as particular strongholds. In Bethlehem and New Scotland, candidates fared a bit better than they did countywide, and the overall turnout was better.

Efforts to reach Kermani's Democratic counterpart, Michael Burns, were unsuccessful. But Kermani felt poor turnout — less than 40 percent of registered voters - had hurt Republicans.

"But I'm not going to subscribe to bad weather or apathy as excuses," he said. "I've been listening to that stuff for 15 years, whenever there's a low turnout ... the reason we lost is, we didn't get out enough of our voters. We just aren't doing a compelling enough job of convincing voters these elections are important.

"The Albany County Republican Committee didn't make a compelling enough case for our candidates. Whatever the problems were, we didn't solve them. I'll take responsibility for that.'

Aparticularly bitter pill was the disappointing county legislative showing. In addition to the losses by Ross and Marcelle, Republi-"I'm hanging in there by a dependence and Conservative canslost four other seats they had well on Election Day. Seventeen Democratic incumbents and seven Republicans won re-election. They included a narrow escape for Republican David Young in Bethlehem's 34th District, who eked out an 86-vote victory over challenger Gary Olsen.

"Enrollment in my district is very close, more than it was 15 years ago," said Young. "And I was running on one ballot line against three." Democrat Olsen also held Independence and Conservative backing.

Mary Lou DeBartolo Connolly in the 32nd District, representing a portion of New Scotland in a district mostly in Guilderland. She handily defeated Republican Vincent Henry.

Kudos to Jim Ross

The Spotlight's longtime policy of not endorsing candidates during elections, we believe, helps us remain objective and fair to all political hopefuls. It is the voters' privilege and obligation to choose elected officials.

This year, however, with the election behind us, we would like to comment on a dedicated public servant who was not reelected to the county Legislature.

Editorials

Jim Ross of Elsmere, however, was one of the first come forth to congratulate his challenger and victor. Charles Dawson, and offer him help during the transition. This was a class act, yet typical of Ross's behavior.

Ross served in the Legislature for 16 years. Ross was responsive to his constituents and always accessible.

We believe Iim Ross deserves recognition for those years of service and his manner of service to the 35th District. We wish Mr. Dawson well and hope he serves as honorably as his distinguished predecessor.

Lend a helping hand

If you have any doubts about the benefits of volunteering, just talk to Bethlehem Senior Services Director Karen Pellettier or Assistant Director Joyce Becker.

They will both underscore the importance and "fringe benefits" of volunteering. Take a close look at the plethora of opportunities for Senior Services volunteers listed in Charles Tobin's Point of View this week.

From driving the senior vans to helping out at health clinics to staffing programs for seniors, volunteers are the backbone of a most successful town program for older residents.

And the bonus is the volunteers have a blast. They get as much as they give. This town prides itself on its unique character, and that's largely because of the caring individuals in it, who are willing to give of themselves.

If you have even a little extra time on your hands, consider signing on. Call 439-4955 ext. 168 for information. You'll be glad you did.

Veterans Day

Tomorrow is Veterans Day, which for most people is a day off from work. The meaning of the day, however, is to honor those men and women who served in the Armed Forces.

Take time out of your day to reflect on those who served this country during war and peace time. All veterans deserve our gratitude and respect. They've earned it.

Volunteers get chance to give back

Point of View

By Charles J. Tobin III

The writer, an attorney with the law firm of Tobin and Grifferty, is president of Bethlehem Senior Projects.

The passage "From those to whom much has been given, much is expected" inspired the Kennedy family to reach out to the less fortunate. It applies to us all, for we all have, in some fashion, been given much.

Bethlehem residents recognize this, and in various ways provide many hours of volunteer services to myriad social service programs.

My own exposure to Bethlehem's unique spirit began in 1988 when Town Supervisor Ken Ringler asked me to join the Bethlehem senior housing committee. This committee was charged with seeking out housing alternatives that would allow seniors to remain in the community, or move to Bethlehem to be near loved ones.

Based on the committee's recommendation and with the town's support, several nonprofit organizations, including The Eddy/Albany Guardian Society (The Beverwyck), Good Samaritan Nursing Home (Good Samaritan Senior Housing) and DePaul Management (Marie Rose Manor) developed senior housing alternatives in Bethlehem. Today. these facilities provide housing and support services for many elderly residents of our community.

Despite Bethlehem's success in encouraging the development of these facilities, it has become clear that their residents require additional services from Bethlehem's Senior Services Department. This need has, in part, been addressed by Bethlehem Senior Projects, a tax exempt, nonprofit corporation which was formed 12 years ago by members of the senior housing committee.

Managed and run solely by volunteers, Bethlehem Senior Projects has raised money for several wheelchair-equipped senior vans and the Bethlehem Food Pantry and has underwritten the cost of monthly nutrition displays. The organization coordinates its services with the town's Senior Services Department.

Bethlehem Senior Projects and Bethlehem Senior Services Department actively partner with community groups to accomplish needed projects including the following:

- Through the Bethlehem Food Pantry and with help from Colonial Acres Homeowners Association and Delmar Rotary Club, a yearly school supply drive is held. Needy children from within the community are assisted with school supplies and items to begin each school year. Typically, about 45 to 50 children are served each fall.
- · Working with Bethlehem's Parks and Recreation Department, and through the generosity of Delmar Kiwanis, Bethlehem Lions Club and Citgo Petroleum in Glenmont, equipment has been purchased to assist older residents of the community better access Bethlehem's recreational programs. Two sets of "handi-steps" were acquired for town pools, and handicapped-accessible picnic tables, a drinking fountain and park benches were also pur-
- For the past three years, Bethlehem Senior Projects has funded grants within the community to address specific gaps in service. It also has provided grant money for two innovative new programs for the town's elderly population. They are: year-long educational programs and a support group which meets monthly, both planned by the Alzheimer's Association; and a community outreach program developed by Stratton VA Hospital that has reached and connected several hundred veterans with services and programs, and held regular health and information fairs and forums.
- Bethlehem Senior Services Department and Bethlehem Senior Projects sponsor health-related screenings at Bethlehem town hall on the third Tuesday of each month. In addition to the community volunteers who take blood pressures at these screenings, Bethlehem Senior Projects sponsors nutrition counseling provided by area professionals including representatives from the county Health Department, Cooperative Extension and volunteer registered dieticians.

Bethlehem Senior Project's most ambitious and far-reaching effort was its purchase of three 12-passenger wheelchair-equipped vans. The most recent addition was acquired in 1998. These vehicles, together with a compact automobile, a 12-passenger van acquired through a federal grant and a 12-passenger van owned by the town, comprise an impressive fleet for use by the independently living elderly residents of Bethlehem. Amazingly, these vehicles are operated solely by volunteer drivers who donate their time to drive passengers to doctors' appointments, shopping malls, grocery shopping and the Other volunteers provide clerical help, deliver Meals on Wheels, assist at blood pressure clinics, and perform myriad other duties. Over the last year, Bethlehem residents - 'many senior citizens themselves - gave more than 15,000 hours of volunteer service. It is this spirit of volunteerism that makes it possible for Bethlehem Senior Services Department and Bethlehem Senior Projects to provide more than 20 programs for our elderly.

Bethlehem Senior Volunteer Program, cosponsored by both Bethlehem Senior Services and Bethlehem Senior Projects, coordinates the efforts of more than 350 community volunteers who provide staffing for senior services programs. Bethlehem Senior Projects salutes these loyal volunteers each year at a "Volunteer Recognition" event at Normanside Country Club.

If the phrase, "From those to whom much has been given, much is expected," resounds in your heart, and you would like to reach out to those we serve in the community, call us at 439-4955 ext. 168. Your generosity can yield gifts to so many.

Clarksville math scores upset concerned parent

Editor, The Spotlight:

A little over a year ago, I read with interest the letters written to The Spotlight regarding Clarksville Elementary School.

I am a mother of a preschooler, and like the parents in Cedar Ridge, live far closer to Slingerlands Elementary than I do Clarksville.

After reading many testimonials as to the quality of Clarksville in response to this original letter, and in the absence of any data, my conclusion was that although it certainly is inconvenient to go out to Clarksville, the quality of the school is on par with Slingerlands.

After reading the October/November Bethlehem "Highlights,"

I'm no longer certain that this is

Of the five elementary schools, Clarksville scored lower than any other district school on the grade four math results.

In fact, it was the only school where the majority of students did not score at level four.

Assuming that the students there are just as bright as at any other school, I can only conclude that the quality of the math education is lower.

Perhaps the issue is more than just inconvenience. I am now concerned.

Jour Opinion Matters

Traffic committee's arguments are spurious

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Friday, Oct. 29, the Bethlehem Traffic Safety Committee unanimously voted down the request of community members for stop signs at the intersection of Wellington and Sylvan in Delmar.

The arguments presented consisted of the results of a "survey" in which median speeds were gathered by an automated device in place for one week. Bar graphs and statistics were composed to indicate rates of speed.

This is, in my opinion, the equivalent of a lie detector test and is equally admissible in the hearing as a lie detector is in court. The data gathered is subject to many factors that deem the results inaccurate. The results cited 70 motorcycles. There have not been 70 motorcycles on this road in over two years. The median speeds must have included bicycles or pedestrians both of whom have only "two wheels."

The committee also states that they are concerned with stop signs becoming redundant and ineffective and that people will eventually "ignore them." This argument would be better heard should there be a push to increase fines for this horrendous violation and increased enforcement. The committee readily admitted in the hearing to their personal compliance to stop signs and also stated that and inaccurate the moment they traffic is slowed by them.

Reports were cited constantly indicating that traffic speed increases due to stop signs. Once again the method of collecting this information is done by the very same device that indicates median speed. So, one might ask, does the device work solely to support arguments or to provide valid research?

The most heinous argument is the actual questioning of parental supervision. Included in this argument is the notion that stop signs will become parents, thereby excusing the actual guardians of the children.

I suggest that effective parenting is educating your child about safety. "Our" children have been involved in this process from the onset. It is downright insulting to be labeled as ineffective parents when we labor to provide our kids with a wonderful quality of life and demand action be taken to protect them. Members of the committee unanimously refer to manuals about highways rather than viewing children on a residential road playing, while cars literally zip down their street.

I thank Bruce Secor for his points at the hearing, and feel that the points presented clearly put an end to any need for further discussion. The road was designed wider to support pedestrian traffic, being a rural road in a subdivision. Stop signs are used to discourage through traffic, and so be it. There has to be parity. The same consideration was given to Fernbank Avenue and stop signs were placed there.

The committee argues that the speeders are local residents. This is absolutely untrue. The speeders are careless individuals who could leave a little earlier to get to work before hurting someone, and not be in such a rush to get home.

The issue here is a request to make a common sense, proactive and caring decision. I am a proud and extremely proactive parent. You can trust that every parent on Wellington Road has their children well-versed in safety mea-

Traffic studies are confounded are put on paper. Protocol dictates that committees and town board meetings make these recommendations and decisions. Protocol also dictates that those present at meetings, and the recommendations and decisions made, are matters of public record.

On Nov. 10, another public meeting is supposed to take place. hope for all involved that it is the last meeting on the issue, and stop signs are put where they belong. The cost of more processing – be it continued meetings, litigation_ or civil protest - will outweigh the cost of the requested stop signs. The cost of human lives is even greater.

Stop signs are needed for safety

Editor, The Spotlight:

I was recently informed that the Bethlehem Traffic Safety Committee unanimously voted against adding stop signs on Wellington Road at Sylvan Avenue. The committee has implied that stop signs are not necessary, just better parental supervision. I can assure you, our children are supervised. Not only do we take care of our own children, the caring adults in our neighborhood watch over all of the kids playing outside.

We have a close-knit neighborhood, due partially to the speeding cars that travel down our street. There are many afternoons where we all gather on a front yard while the children play. Our kids are not running wildly down the middle of the road. They are playing basketball in my driveriding bikes and Rollerblading on the edge of the road, enjoying a game of hide and seek, or just being kids and having fun. They have been taught to be careful and to watch for cars. It intersection does help. It allows is not our children's behavior or lack of supervision that is the problem. It is the speed at which cars travel through our neighborhood that needs to be addressed.

The Bethlehem Traffic Safety Committee has said that a stop sign would be ineffective. They believe that if there are too many signs that drivers will start to ignore them. It is their opinion that this is the case at the stop sign on Wellington Road and Delmar Place. I find the rationale of this committee to be appalling. Hundreds of children walk on Delmar Place and Wellington Road in order to get to the middle school and home again. My son is one of those children. Without a stop sign at this intersection the lives of so many are at risk. Drivers use these roads as a shortcut to the middle school. As a school district emplovee who used to work at the middle school, I have seen firsthand that the stop sign at this children to cross Wellington Road safely and it does slow the cars

My neighbors and I agree that a stop sign is the answer to our problem. We have been told that a sign on Wellington Road and Sylvan Avenue would interrupt the flow of traffic. Isn't that the whole idea! If given a stop sign, our neighborhood would not be lulled into a false sense of security. We would still be out there supervising our children. A stop sign would just give our children a second or two to get out of the way.

Clearly the priority of the Bethlehem Traffic Safety Committee is just that; traffic. Perhaps the town board should consider working with a pedestrian safety committee when making decisions that impact people, particularly children, in our community.

Matters of Opinion

Safety committee is uncooperative

Editor, The Spotlight:

Shame on the Bethlehem Traffic and Safety Committee (a misnomer if there ever was one).

It voted down the request for placement of three stop signs on the corners of Wellington Road and Sylvan Avenue. As residents have noted, this is one final street. that car's tear down after they pass the stop on Wellington and Delmar Place.

In their haste to get to Elsmere Avenue, they have been sighted to nearly miss adults, children and other cars. Quite simply, our children are not safe riding bike, skating or even walking down this particular part of Wellington.

Now, the Traffic Safety Committee representative was full of helpful advice. Keep your kids in husband and I did not choose to leave New York-City, only to end up forcing our kids to stay off the streets of their town. I am a runner. Am I supposed to run through people's yards? What nonsense. and how arrogant to tell loving, caring parents how to raise their children.

The Traffic Safety Committee has clocked cars on our street. According to them, the average speed on Wellington is 34 mph. Does that take into account people on the street pulling out of their driveways or cars coming at a slower rate of speed off Sylvan? I don't think so.

The Traffic Safety Committee says that stop signs will not deter people from speeding. Oh really? last I heard, it is very challenging the back yards, we were told. My to go from a dead stop (or even slowdown) and approach the rates of speed that we have observed on our street.

> These are stop signs we're talking about. This is our children's safety we're talking about.

Perhaps if the Traffic Safety Committee is unwilling to take a stand on behalf of the children of our community, it's time for our elected officials to come to the fore. If not, I have a truly awful feeling that we will be seeing yet another Bethlehem child become the victim of both an irresponsible driver and a Traffic Safety Committee that seems to have left its backbone at home.

Traffic committee needs to be more responsive

Editor, The Spotlight:

With regard to recent letters in The Spotlight about pedestrian safety, I feel compelled to relate my experience with local traffic concerns and the Traffic Safety Committee.

Lindsey Baron was killed on Roweland Avenue just two doors from our home. My husband and children were the first at the scene and experienced a horror that still profoundly affects them and all of our neighbors.

After the accident, we tried to have some changes considered for our street. We asked the town to consider altering traffic patterns, reducing vehicle speed or adding a stop sign. Neighbors met and circulated petitions. Then we spoke with the police and town traffic representatives. The town responded by monitoring the speed and frequency of cars on our street. Car speed varied from under 30 mph to over 50 mph!

At certain times of the day, the majority of cars did exceed the maximum speed limit of 30 mph. But the police advised us that they would not ticket cars traveling over the maximum speed limit of 30 mph unless it was about 8 miles over that. They also advised that speed limits could not be reduced on local streets because they are regulated by the state. The addition of a stop sign, they claim, causes drivers to speed in annoyance from stop sign to stop sign.

So we were left with no recourse, only to plead with drivers who speed down our street on the way to theirs. Sidewalks were considered too costly. Glance down at your speedometer as you travel the narrow and well-used streets in our town.

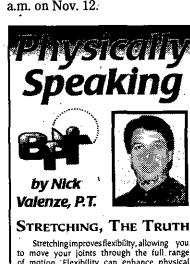

The maximum speed limit is 30 mph and while you may not receive a ticket for exceeding it, you also might not be able to avoid a pedestrian or bicyclist. The life you save could be that of, someone's beloved child or your Stretching improves flexibility, allowing you to move your joints through the full range of motion. Flexibility can enhance physical performance, as well as relieve muscle tension and stiffness. Stretching should also protect against injury. The important thing to do remember is that cold muscles are more likely to tear than warm ones. Warming up before stretching may prevent stretching injuries, and stretching itself may prevent injuries, while exercising. Also, stretching too vigorously, stretching until it hurts, or bouncing while stretching is not recommended. You should stretch up to the point of mild discomfort, at most, then ease up. Static stretching, where you stretch through a muscle's full range of movement until you feel resistance, is probably the safest kind.

Most people think of stretching as precursor to exercise, rather than the "main_event," yet stretching in and of itself is a fine way to condition one's body and relieve stress.

It's also a very important component in rehabilitation following many forms of surgery. Whenever I returned home from a visit to another presidential house, I always followed up by going to Bethlehem Public Library to read out of a reference book that contains short biographies of U.S. presidents.

Most recently, when I went to the library to consult this book, it wasn't on the shelf so I queried a librarian about it.

I was told that that area of the reference section had been "thinned out" and that the book in question had been put into the book sale pile or had been discarded.

After the initial shock wore off, I am left a little sad and a little bit. angry that this book is gone. Most of all, its loss seemed unnecessary as there appeared to be plenty of shelf space in this part of the reference section.

Are there other books containing U.S. presidents' biographies? Yes, but none as good as this one

On Saturday, Oct. 30, enthusiastic Bethlehem First Committee members in Halloween costumes planted about 800 daffodil bulbs on the embankment of Delaware Avenue near Tool's Restaurant, and in the Median on Normanskill Boulevard.

The committee also donated several hundred bulbs to be planted at elementary schools by the students.

Residents who want to participate in the millennium project still have time to get bulbs in the ground. They are available at participating nurseries—Olsen's and Price Greenleaf.

A big thanks to committee members (and Marty DeLaney) who worked on the project: Joan Persing, Joanne Lenden, Karen Kermani, Shirley Seyler, Ted Howell and Elaine Loder.

Lady Eagles capture Suburban Council championship

In its last meet of the millennium, the Bethlehem Central High School girls swim team captured the Suburban Council championship in thrilling fashion. The Lady Eagles knocked off their bitter rival, the Lady Plainsmen of Shenendehowa High School 159-156, in a heart-stopping meet that was decided on the last event of the day. The Lady Eagles completed an undefeated, dream season in dramatic style.

Going into the meet held at the RPI pool, both the Lady Eagles and Shen, who had not lost a dual meet in over five years, were vying for the Suburban Council title. In recent history, Shen has held the upper hand over BCHS. Just a yéar ago Shen, who was ranked No. 2 in the state, won the Suburban Council by getting the best of then, No. 7 rated BCHS. Circumstances were different this time around as a remarkable Lady Eagles team would not be denied.

"This is the best meet I've ever coached," elated BCHS head coach Kevin Merges said. "In 13 years of coaching and six years of swimming this is the most exciting meet I've been involved with."

This high praise was not unfounded. The Lady Eagles set a goal in the beginning of the year to be ranked No. 1 in the state. Part of achieving that goal meant defeating staunch rivals Saratoga High School and Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake High School in addition to their nemesis, Shen. Entering Tuesday's meet, BCHS had completed the first two steps, with the third at hand. The Lady Eagles are even closer to fulfilling their pre-season expectations now that they have knocked off the Lady Plainsmen.

The BCHS victory was made possible by a total team effort. The triumph was a collective effort that took individual efforts and combined them into a group collage. Beth Malinowski added a piece to the puzzle taking 1st in the 200-freestyle (1:54:71) and the 500-freestyle (5:07:23). Elyse McDonough turned in a stellar performance capturing both the 200-individual medley (2:05:46) and 100-freestyle (52:01). Meredith Singer also pitched in when she won the 50-freestyle (25:43).

The 200-medley relay team comprised of Courtney Arduini, Becky Corson, Kim Link and McDonough maintained its dominance as they won in 1:42:72, while the 200-free relay with Theresa Rosetti, Singer, Arduini and McDonough cruised to victory in year. BCHS took second, third, fourth and sixth place, spearheaded by Jen Rogers fine performance.

The biggest win of the day came in the final race, the 400-free relay. BCHS had to place at least first and third in the event to win the meet. Corson, Rosetti and Singer swam their fastest legs of the year, but still had to make up a one-half length deficit to get the win. Malinowski made a gritty run at Shen's Jen Labarr and overcame the deficit when she outtouched the Lady Plainsman to capture the first place spot in a spine-tingler. BCHS sealed the win when the team of Katie Gold, Ellen Bandel, Kristin Robinson and Katie Richardson easily cruised to a third place finish. The Lady Eagles Hail-Mary attempt came through and BCHS had captheir best performances of the tured the Suburban Council title. highly talented unit is selfless to a fault. According to Merges, throughout the season, the considerate Lady Eagles have made it team policy not to run up the scores on their opponents. The skilled group of swimmers would sacrifice personal recognition and acclaim by conceding events, once BCHS had clinched a victory in the meets, and allow their opponents to maintain their dignity. This was a remarkable gesture considering that many of the girls who sacrificed glory were sophomores and freshmen who do not receive the attention that their upperclass counterparts do.

Another noteworthy feature about the Lady Eagles is that three swimmers are candidates for academic All-American honors. In addition to their swimming laurels which are the result of tremendous amounts of time and dedication, Erica Wasserstein, Sarah Gold and Becky Paraficzuk each maintain academic grade averages that are above 97.

The varsity football team from Bethlehem Central High School ended its season on a high note. After losing a heartbreaker to Schenectady High School, the Eagles finished strong when they captured their first win of the long season against Albany High School.

It was a beleaguered but unbowed BCHS football team that took the field against Schenectady on Friday, Oct. 21. Under a steady rain, the Eagles played a hardnosed brand of football, but eventually fell to the Patriots 34-26. Although they did not get the win, BCHS looked very good early on in the game.

by the crushing blocks of linemen Sumeet Gupta, Adam Tafilowski, Tim Cronin, Dennis Lenhardt and co-captain Greg Brown, BCHS marched down the field to score on its first possession of the game. Sophomore sensation Pat Heenan found the end zone, giving the Eagles a quick lead. Heenan had a spectacular game as he ran for 248 yards on 34

Schenectady wasted no time in answering as they mounted a drive of its own and scored on a 10-yard run that knotted the score at 6-6. On the ensuing kickoff, the Eagles offense soared again as Heenan continued to gain yardage in large chunks. Senior co-captain Eamon McNiff laid some vicious blocks and battered the Patriots with his rugged runs. This BCHS drive culminated in an 8-yard touchdown pass from junior quarterback John Meyer to sophomore Aaron Griffin, and the Eagles were on top again.

BCHS was stymied by Schenectady's defense for the rest the game, scoring two touchdowns that gave Schenectady a 22-12 advantage going into intermission.

Eagles soar to the finish, in tough season

The start of the second half bore little resemblance to the offensive fireworks display that took place in the games first stanza. Defense ruled the day as BCHS delivered one jaw rattling hit after another. The Eagles defensive stalwarts who doled out the punishing blows were co-captain Dan Santola, Steve Hallock, Tim Cronin, John Cameron and the brothers Hazen, Bob and Dan. Chris Bourey pitched in when he alertly scooped up a Schenectady fumble and stifled what seemed a certain Patriot

This defensive war was washed away in the heavy rain as the ofagain in the fourth quarter. The Eagles complimented the sloppy field with some sloppy tackling as the porous defense surrendered another Schenectady touchdown. However, the never-say-die Eagles of the half, and the Patriots of-refused to go down without a fight

The Eagles started quickly. Led fense was able to take control of and as they had in the first quarter, Heenan and McNiff churned out huge gains behind the malevolent blocking of the BCHS offensive line. Meyer lofted a perilous pass into the air where surehanded Bob Hazen leaped high, fighting off the blanket coverage of two defenders to haul in a 19yard touchdown catch.

> Whatever momentum the Eagles had mustered was quickly dashed when a failed on-side kick was followed by a 55-yard Schenectady touchdown run that all but ended the game. BCHS refused to quit and managed to take it to the house again, when Heenan scored his second touchdown of the night. Unfortunately for the Eagles, it was a case of too little too late as the Patriots held on to a hard fought 37-26 victory.

After the loss to Schenectady, fenses took center stage once BCHS only had one more chance to get a win before the season was over. One win wouldn't erase the pain and disappointment of a tumultuous season, however, it would give the scrappy Eagles something to hang their hats on, and point to as a positive going into the new millennium. Facing off against the Falcons of Albany High School, the Eagles knew that this game wasn't for the birds - it was now or never.

> BCHS wasted no time in informing the Eagles faithful that they were ready for some football. In an instant BCHS was up 6-0, thanks to a spectacular 49-yard touchdown run by Heenan. The sophomore runner, who has been a work horse when healthy, added another touchdown, this time going 65 yards for the score. Although Heenan would miss some substantial playing time when he re-aggravated the lingering ankle injury that had plagued him allyear long, the running machine would eventually return and finish the game with 208 rushing yards and two touchdowns. In his absence, senior Joe Donnelly quickly picked up the slack as he carried the ball 24 times, gaining 144 yards and scoring three touch-

The Eagles defense surrendered some big plays to Albany, and let the Falcons notch 26 points on the night. Nonetheless, the BCHS defense made as many big plays as they surrendered which was the deciding factor in what would turn out to be a long overdue Eagles win. Gary Brown joined McNiff, Santola, Cameron and Gupta by making clutch hits for the Eagles. Bob Hazen had a huge game on defense as he killed two Albany drives delivering a wicked sack and snaring an interception. Brendan Hughes also chimed in with a big pick of his own. In the end, there was too much BCHS running for Albany to cope with as the Eagles ran roughshod over the weary Fal-

As time expired the scoreboard showed a 44-26 BCHS win which prompted a release of emotion that the Eagles could only express with a win. The good news is that BCHS was finally triumphant after a year filled with trials and tribulations. The bad news is that the win signaled an end to the season, meaning that the Eagles will have to say goodbye to all of their seniors. Among the departing upperclassmen whose hard work and dedication finally came to fruition in the form of a win are; Bob Hazen, Dan Santola, Greg Brown, Donnelly, McNiff, Gupta, Lenhardt, Cronin, Tafilowski, Chris Pace, Ian Morgan, David Agneta, Foluke Griffin, Bill Schipano, Louis Ambrosio, Matt Goedeke, Dave DeLong and Jon Santola.

Pop Warner teams valiant in victory and defeat

The Bethlehem Pop Warner's dors lost to the Flying Horses of South Troy. Despite a strong team effort from the Bethlehem boys, South Troy eventually triumphed.

In a change of pace, the Condors struck the first blow, scoring on their first possession. The Bethlehem boys were fired up as they stormed out of the gate when Nick Gonino found the end zone on a nifty reverse play.

The drive was a methodical march that was led by capable blockers, Bobby Shields, Willi DeRuve, Peter Bergquist, Steve Schubmehl, Chris Massie, Taylor Woodside, Matt Abriel and Peter Kansas. Quarterback Dylan Eder looked sharp as he pointed the Condors in the right direction and had them gain an early lead. Craig Languish, Aaron Eastwood and Mike Pankow. were all primary contributors.

The first half turned into a entertaining and compelling slugfest between the two teams. The Flying Horses quickly answered the Condors score with a touchdown of their own the knotted the score

When South Troy was driving again, looking to be on their way to a certain score, Condor defensive back Joe Paratore made a huge play. Paratore who was engaged in a fierce battle with the South Troy receivers, stepped in front of a Flying Horses pass and scampered down the sideline for a gainer and a swing of momen-

The Condors did not let Paratore's big play go to waste as they capitalized on their new found momentum by scoring another touchdown.

Again, it was Gonino who took the honors, as he powered his way into the end zone, however, both Matt Johnson and Dan Unright kept the drive alive with big plays of their own.

Junior Pee-Wee division, the Conhittheir peak as South Troy proved too much for the remainder of the game. Despite a gutty goal-line stand just before the end of the first half that was anchored by hard hits from Bergquist, Tim Deitz, Ryan Cerone and John Drazen, it was all downhill for the Condors.

> The Flying Horses dominated the second half, as the Condors fought in vain. Except for one big run, the Condors played tight defense in the second half, but were maligned by a punt block that was returned for a touchdown.

> Despite fine efforts on both sides of the ball, the Falcons eventually lost.

> In an heart breaking game, the Pee-Wee level Falcons lost to the Ballston Spa Scotties, 18-6.

> After an early lapse led to 18 quick points for the Scotties, the Falcons dug in and played inspired football for the remainder of the game. Captain Brian Nolan led the defensive group that shut the Scotties out for the final three quarters of play. Jason Coons, Adam Storm, Ryan Paratore, David Sterret, Chris Marsh and Bobby Reynolds were among the other defensive stalwarts for the Falcons.

The Bethlehem offense nearly broke through late in the first half when Paratore busted loose on a long run. The play was nullified when the officials made a questionable call that ruled Paratore had fumbled the ball away to Ballston Spa.

The Falcons finally broke the plane of the end zone in the second half when Eric McCleer scored on a two-yard plunge. Other fine offensive performances were turned in by quarterback David Plummer, Brian Hoeg, Chris Abriel and Nate House.

Despite the second half resurgence, the Falcons could not compensate for the Scotties early lead, and fell 18-6.

Bethlehem Pop Warner found

Leading 16-8, the Condors had more success with the victorious Junior Midget Hawks. The Hawks were able to score their fourth win of the season and clinch a playoff berth when they vanquished the Spartans of Burnt Hills, 35-12.

> Bethlehem got off to good start when the team scored midway through the first quarter and doubled their pleasure with two second quarter touchdowns. Ryan Eder opened the flood gates on a scintillating 50-yard touchdown run. Eder eluded would-be tacklers and scampered to the end zone for the games first score. The Hawks found the promised land again when both Geoff Wilcox and Dan Mulhall ran to glory. Shawn Bukowski added a timely two-point conversion and put the game out of reach.

The offensive explosion from Eder was not over as he got things going again in the second half as both he and Matt McKenna scored touchdowns.

The second half scoring was an added bonus as the Hawks sturdy defense neutralized the Burnt Hills offense all game long. Although they ultimately surrendered 12 points, the Hawks defense produced a defensive gem.

Leading the defense was Ryan Miller, Sean Conway, Jeff Moody, Marcus Hauf and Neal Plummer who helped to shut the Spartans down.

With their backs against the wall, the Hawks pulled together and have won three games in a row to secure a spot in the playoffs. Key contributions came from Craig Orner, Steve Hannigan. Tim Hannigan, Rylan Conway, Ryan Murphy, Daniel Klob, Scott Heighton, Joe Lennox and Matt Carroll.

The Hawks look to continue their winning ways on Sunday. Nov. 14, as they travel to Albany's Hoffman Ballpark for the first round playoff game. A Hawks win will extend their exciting season as they are gunning for a Pop Warner championship.

RCS runs out of options in season ending loss to Glens Falls

By Noah Feit

All things shall pass, and so too does the Ravena Coeymans Selkirk High School football season. After a 13-0 shutout at the hands of rival Glens Falls High School, the Indians (5-3) threeyear run as Section II Class B champions came to an end on Saturday, Oct. 30.

Going into the heated football game held at Steuerwald Stadium on the campus of Shenendehowa High School, the site proved to be the only thing that was neutral. In an ugly turn of events, a great deal of contention was built between the two teams as a result of off-thefield squabbles that had little, if anything to do with football or the players themselves. However, it was the players who were being used as pawns that settled the matter once and for all on the field.

"The kids have been the victims of foolish adult decisions on both sides. Glens Falls won a good football game and congratulations to them. I hope there is no lingering ill will," RCS head coach Gary VanDerzee said.

What will linger is a feeling of disappointment by the Indians who did not get the closure to the season many of them dreamed of, that being a fourth consecutive Class B championship.

The game was a defensive war that both teams struggled to wage. In the early going it did not appear that RCS would have any trouble scoring, as the Indians steadily got closer and closer to the goal line. However, events took a decided turn for worse for the Indians at the end of the first quarter.

Senior co-captain and primary offensive weapon Brad Palmer went down in a writhing heap of agony with a severely sprained ankle. Palmer would be unable to return to action, and RCS was never really the same. VanDerzee took the high road regarding the Palmer injury and vehemently refused to use it as an excuse or crutch to hang the loss on. Things went from bad to worse for the An illegal procedure penalty

RCS junior tailback Oscar Olemeda looks for running room after taking a hand off from junior quarterback Matthew Deyo.

Indians on the same drive Palmer coupled with an incomplete pass went down, as they lost momentum and the tide turned in favor of Glens Falls for the remainder of the game.

After Palmer was helped off of the field, his replacement, junior Oscar Olmeda churned out another first down on two runs. Following Olmeda's lead, senior cocaptain Mike Stott broke open a big gainer as he streaked the right sideline on a collision course with the end zone. At the last moment Stott was tripped up and fell just short, still RCS was in the catbird seat with a first down and goal to go from the one-yard line. A score was inevitable, it was just a matter of one mere yard between RCS and an early second quarter lead.

Deyo and two runs for negative possession for much of the secyardage pushed the Indians back to the 10-yard line with a fourth down looming.

Deciding to get points on the board, VanDerzee sent on the field goal unit for the easy chip shot. When the ball ricocheted off the right upright it was clear harbin-

The Indian offense never got another realistic scoring opportunity for the remainder of the game. A Glens Falls goal line stand and the loss of their top runner had RCS playing a flat game in a haze from which they could not escape.

Deyo never got in a groove as he was often constantly forced out of the pocket trying to evade a relentless Glens Falls pass rush that forced a number of sacks and two interceptions.

The running game was missing in action as Glens Falls won the battle of the lines, grudgingly surrendering next to no yardage after the goal line stand. In fact, the Indians lost yardage at higher rate of frequency in the second half than they gained it.

The offense's inability to score, spoiled what was a good performance by the Indians defense. Glens Falls broke one big run for a touchdown late in the first half from junior quarterback Matthew and was able to control time of ond, but the RCS defense played a gritty and hard fought game. They bent, but did not break as they surrendered a heap of rushing yards but only two scores as RCS turned in strong red zone stonewallings.

The stalwarts who led the deger of the bad things to come for fensive battle for the Indians were senior co-captains James Latter, Larry Alberts, Nate Seaburg and Stott, Other vital contributions came from seniors Surrey De-John and Mike McGraw and juniors Anthony Calabrese, Jared Lackie and big Josh Stumbaugh who clogged the middle of the field all game long.

> The Indians didn't have much trouble stopping the runs up the middle, it was the non-stop barrage of option plays that stretched RCS from sideline to sideline that gave the Indians the most trouble.

> Despite the few big plays it gave up, RCS did come up with a number of big plays on defense that gave the offense ample opportunities to make something happen.

> The best example came when Seaburg made a timely interception in the end zone and ran 40yards before being tackled. Unfortunately for the Indian faithful, nothing did happened for the RCS attack as they squandered momentum. Their fleeting chances evaporated in the autumn air.

Coach VanDerzee summed up the day when he reflected, "The kids were outstanding. Somebody is going to lose the football game. Losing is a part of life. That is why football is such a great game. They're crying and upset because tney sold out, made great contri butions and believe they should win. It hurts when you lose."

Trendy scents sights and smells for holiday decorating

By Leigh G. Kirtley

HEN YOU INVITE GUESTS TO YOUR HOME, YOU'D LIKE them to feel welcome, comfortable and in a festive mood.

Decorating your home can help you create the right atmosphere and it's not as difficult as you might think.

"Fill all their senses up with sights, sounds and smells," said Aimie Wockenfuss, owner of ADiA! Design in Ballston Lake. Wockenfuss specializes in coordinating special events and holiday decorating.

According to Wockenfuss, decorating doesn't have to be intimidating or expensive. She suggested doing many little things all around the house, being whimsical. Give your guests something to look at every time they turn around.

You can use something as simple as evergreen branches throughout your home.

Don't toss those trimmings from the Christmas Tree, instead use them to line your mantel or the buffet in the dining room.

Why not use pine roping to pull back your curtains or as a swag over your windows and doorways?

You can easily jazz up the pine with a little gold or silver ribbon depending on the look you're after.

Like evergreens, floral arrangements can add to any holiday mood. A beautiful arrangement instantly dresses up a room and can be designed to last from Thanksgiving to well past New Year.

Janet Gough, of The Floral Garden in Delmar, said to follow your personal style when selecting an arrangement.

Whether it is country, contemporary or rustic, she can create a coordinating holiday arrangement.

Gough suggested spending a little extra money for a quality arrangement. If you store it properly, it can last for years, making it worth the expense. As for colors, Gough recommended that using burgundy, winter white and pine green will also add to the longevity of your arrangement.

"People tend to get sick of red, white and green and want. to get rid of it the day after Christmas," she said.

Flowers and evergreens also add wonderful scents to your home, enhancing the holiday mood. But there are other ways to bring scents into your home.

"Candles are huge this year," Wockenfuss said. Candles come in just about any scent you can imagine, but Wockenfuss cautions against smells that are too strong.

A beautiful arrangement instantly dresses up a room and can be de-

Thanksgiving to well

signed to last from past New Year.

Try to use one common scent throughout your home and one that won't over power the dinner you are cooking.

Candles can also be a fire hazard so she said to make sure they are in globes or hurricane lamps.

She also suggested simmering your own potpourri as an alternative.

In a large pot of water add a sliced orange, cloves and a cinnamon stick and start simmering about 30 minutes before your guests arrive.

Finally, sound can be just as important in setting your holiday mood. Soft music playing in the background makes an empty house a home, especially when those first few guests arrive.

The sound of jingle bells is always a holiday favorite, too. Hang them inside your front door so you can enjoy their ringing.

Whether you opt for a large, elegant floral center piece or sprinkle holiday cheer in every room, remember to think of your own taste. The real trend today is to do your own thing.

Thanksgiving parties combine traditions and trends

INCETHE COUNTRY'S FOUND ING PILGRIMS PLANNED THE FIRST THANKSGIVING BACK in 1621, one tradition has remained the same; the amount of planning and perparation that goes into making the day memorable.

Many Thanksgiving traditions have endured over the centuries, such as sharing the dinner with friends and neighbors, just like the pilgrims did with the Native American Indians.

A closer look at some of our most popular holiday traditions reveals that they are constantly being updated and reinvented. Just when you think your family is getting it right things change.

Don't worry that you are old fashioned if you are still following the traditions your grandparents followed. Just note the new ones and see if they fit into your new family scheme.

Here's a list of some "old" Thanksgiving traditions and their modern-day counterparts that you might want to try:

Planning

If you're still keeping guest lists, shopping lists and other important information on scraps of paper, or in notebooks, you're doing in the old fashioned way.

There is good news this year for those who use the computer for evertying from e-mailing to shopping lists. This year, it is possible to get organized by doing it, the new way and making all your Thanksgiving Day plans on the Internet at Event411.com (http:/ /www.event411.com).

At this site, you can create your own home page-for free-and generate a detailed planner/to do list that can help you stay right on top of things.

Decorations

Are you still decorating the old way, putting pumpkins, gourds, sheaves of wheat and fruit and vegetables around the house?

Try adding a new fragrant touch this year. Place candles-in different shapes and autumn colorsand fresh flowers in rich jewel tones, around the house.

The Dinner Table

A formal table with tablecloth, silverware and dishes, and a served multi-course meal-that's the old tradition.

If you want fewer things to worry about, save yourself time and effort by going the new route and having an informal Thanksgiving dinner, buffet-style.

This means its fend for youreslf and can give you a rest. You can even encourage your guests to dress more casually to suit the less formal serving style.

The Feast

All Thanksgiving celebrations center on the traditional dinner. Historians believe that at the very first Thanksgiving dinner the pilgrims had wild turkey and pumpkin, in some form.

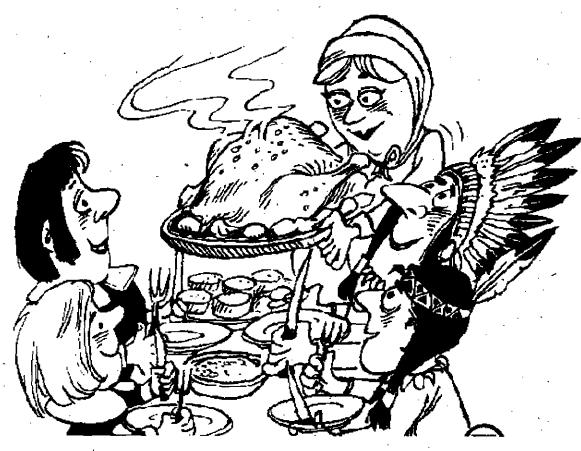

This old traditional menu is still very popular, and delicious, but the new menu calls for you to add meat substitutes for vegetarians, low-calorie foods for guests on a diet and ethnic foods for people who are new to America.

Giving Thanks

In many families, before Thanksgiving dinner starts, the tradition is for each person to state what they're thankful for. The or grand things.

The new tradition is for people to show how thankful he or she is the less fortunate during the holiday season.

THEN! NOV!

Preserving Memories

Taking photos during Thanksgiving dinner can be a great way to preserve memories.

Make this old tradition new by person can be thankful for simple posting the photos in the special photo album at your personalized home page.

As well as keeping a high-tech for life's bounties by helping out record of this special day, far-away family members and friends unable to make it to your home for

Easy tips for healthy, hassle-free holiday entertaining

OSTING A PARTY MIGHT SOUND LIKE FUN, BUT EVERY HOUR OF entertaining often means several hours of grocery shopping. cooking, decorating and other stressful pre-party activities.

Anxiety is common, and with an abundance of fattening, highcalorie party foods offering "comfort," even the healthiest lifestyle can be challenged before the first guest arrives.

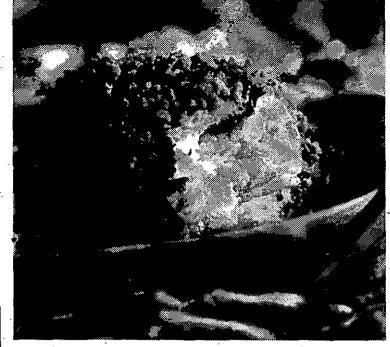

Weight management expert Jenny Craig says the key to successful entertaining is simplicity, both in terms of planning and recipes.

"Remember," she said. "social events are 'people' events, not 'eating' events."

To help keep parties fun for everyone, including the host and hostess, Craig offers these suggestions for healthy and hassle-free entertaining:

- Prepare your grocery list and most important shop on a full stomach.
- Fill your buffet table with fresh flowers, fruits and vegetables, colored napkins and other interesting decorations instead of fattening chips and

- Chew sugarless gum while cooking, baking and serving food or while storing leftovers.
- If you can't avoid "tasting" as you cook, use a teaspoon for each tasting.
- During the party, keep busy by visiting with your guests, playing games or taking pictures.

 Turn up the stereo and dance away some extra calories.

Once you are ready to really impress your guests, try this easy, tasty-and nutritiousappetizer.

College students help community

Four area residents who are members of the class of 2003 at Providence College recently participated in the college's all-volunteer Urban Action program.

Sarah Manco of Slingerlands, Mary Elizabeth Gecewicz of Selkirk and Elizabeth Thomas and Joshua Myer, both of Delmar, were among 195 freshman who contributed an estimated 4,500 hours of community service to their neighbors.

During a three-day period before classes began, students worked at seven sites in Providence, Rhode Island's capital city.

Past projects have included digging trenches for the city to lay electric lines for a midnight community sports league, and clearing and preparing a spot for Smith Hill Center's outdoor performance enter and park.

Students also participate in similar neighborhood projects throughout the academic year.

Happy Hikers take to the hills

By Katherine McCarthy

Sometimes there are 12, sometimes 24, but once a week during the summer, the informal group meets at Bethlehem middle school and heads out for a hike. Afterward, they stop at the nearest ice cream store for a welldeserved treat.

This was the third summer for the Happy Hikers, Edie Pregent said. Pregent, Jayne Weber and Rita Gavin are three of the Happy Hikers, whose walks started almost coincidentally in 1996. They had been in Craft Club and the fire auxiliary together, and done some cross-country skiing, as well as aerobics classes.

"It was the longest day of the year, and we were walking on our lunch hour," Pregent said, "and talked about doing this more regularly. Our first walk was at Five Rivers, and we said, 'Why don't we do this more?""

The ice cream treat afterward is "our carrot on a stick," Pregent said of the frozen delight.

"I've always been suspicious that they pick a place closest to an ice cream store," Weber said.

In 1998, the group put together a typed schedule for their everincreasing numbers. "We average 12 to 14 who come every week," Pregent said. "We get 24 if it's a good place."

Last summer's walks expanded beyond the immediate area. The group met at Bethlehem middle school and carpooled to destinations as various as Thacher Park, George Landis Arboretum and the Mocassin Kill preserve in Rotter-

"We do the walks farthest away flat terrain," Pregent said. during the beginning of the summer, and the closer ones toward the end," she said.

The group is mostly women, with an occasional man or older child joining in. The Happy Hikers span all age ranges and come from all over.

We try not to have the hikes too difficult," Gavin said. "It's nice to get together and talk to different people."

"We have a lot of fun," Pregent added. "When I retire, I'm going to spend three months in the Adirondacks, but come back to hike and do laundry."

The Happy Hikers are on hiatus now, but their next hike is already planned for the first Tuesday in June at 6 p.m.

Anyone who would like join the group is invited to meet them at Bethlehem middle school on "We try to make sure it's not all Kenwood Avenue in Delmar.

Inc.' names Delmar firm one of fastest growing in nation

By Joseph A. Phillips

A Delmar business has been named one of the fastest-growing private firms in the country by Inc. magazine, the leading national publication focusing on small busi-

The annual "Inc. 500" listing singles out the top 500 growing businesses, based on sales growth over a five year period; its alumni include such prestigious firms, now publicly traded, as Microsoft and Timberland. The 1999 list, published in the October issue of the magazine, ranked Telecommunications Analysis Group, a ness that moved to its present and Illinois. headquarters at 266 Delaware Ave. in Delmar last year, as number 197.

The firm provides installation and maintenance support for telephone systems and Internet infrastructure, according to its president, Patrick Maney.

"A lot of what's going on today in the rapidly-growing telecommunications world, we provide support in installing the infrastructure for that," Maney said.

His firm, founded in Clifton Park in 1991, has a national client base, with strong regional preshomegrown Capital District busi- ence in the Northeast, California tomers include Saratoga Hospi-

The "Inc. 500" ranking was based on sales performance for the years 1994 through 1998. From sales in 1994 of $1.3 million and 10 employees, the business grew to 300 employees and sales of nearly $18.2 million by the end of 1998. It currently has 425 employees, about 50 of whom are based at the Delmar home office; the rest are nationwide sales and installation

The firm, which moved to the Delmar location from its previous home in East Greenbush, is a certified vendor for such prestigious firms as Bell Atlantic, Ameritech and Nortel Networks. Local custal, Siena College and several other universities in the North-

The firm is actively recruiting, including administrative staff, technicians and personnel administrators; and expects staff to grow by another 50 percent in the coming year.

"Sales growth is the easy part," Maney said. "Managing the growth is not so easy."

With the explosion in the telecommunications field, he said, "Demand for our services far exceeds any supply." The home office, he said, is already bursting at the seams.

"We just moved here last year, and we've already doubled in size,' Maney said. "We'd love to stay in the area, but so far I don't see anything anywhere. We're in need of warehouse space and more office space. I'm looking anywhere locally. But we'd certainly like to stay in Delmar, and in the Capital District. That's where my roots are."

The firm's current office lease runs through the end of 2000, "but I don't know how we'll accommodate our growth, even with that," he said.

He is proud of the "Inc. 500" recognition. "The biggest thing it means for us is a sense of pride for our employees." he said. "We're really looking to attract new employees, and this will help us get the word out."

Delmar student studies abroad

Margaret Thomson of Delmar, a student at the University of Virginia, is spending the fall semester studying in Florence, Italy, through Syracuse University's Division of International Programs Abroad.

Now in its 41st year, Syracuse's Division of International Programs Abroad offers credit-bearing study opportunities for SU students as well as those enrolled at other colleges and universities across the United States and Canada.

The Florence program enrolls more than 600 students each academic year. Students can study art history, studio art, architecture and Italian language, or take a wide range of courses in the liberal arts. Many students live with local families and visit historic sites in Rome, Venice, Assisi and other destinations.

four-month span of time, and a lot of the characters call on time to solve their problems. We've set sonnets to music and used dance to show the passage of time."

Some of the music and dance are modern, although the students will wear period costumes. Yeara said that modernizing or adding to Shakespeare doesn't dilute his plays, but enhances the teaching of Shakespeare.

"It lets us use the kids' talents," Yeara said, "and bring out all the qualities of the play.

Yeara had high praise for the students, and also for the parents who support the production of Shakespearean plays Bethlehem,

"If it weren't for the parents, there would be no Shakespeare at the high school," Yeara said.

Stambach said Bethlehem Theater Support Group raises funds for productions in the district, and lobbies to bring back a Shakespearean play each year. This is the third year for a Shakespeare play. Parents raised the money for costumes, lighting and Studio 46 itself.

The school district pays Yeara's stipend, and Stambach said a high estimate for the total costs of "Twelfth Night" is $3000. Stambach feels that staging a Shakespeare play is well worth the cost and effort.

"It teaches the students about one of the greatest living playwrights in the English speaking world, as well as theater techniques," Stambach said. "In this day of TV and movies this production of Twelfth Night provides a means for people who would never read Shakespeare to view and understand it."

Yeara sees the enactment of a Shakespeare play as an extension of his teaching.

"It's the greatest challenge in theater," he said. "Shakespeare is the most produced playwright, year after year. It's great to wrestle with his plays, and see what the kids bring to it."

Tickets are available in the high school cafeteria or at the productions, although Yeara said the Shakespeare plays usually sell out. Performances are at 7 p.m. on Nov. 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20. There are 2 p.m. matinees on Nov. 14 and 21, and understudies will present a 1 p.m. show on Nov. 20.

RCS open house on tap Saturday

By Joseph A. Phillips

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District will host an open house on Saturday, Nov. 13, to discuss the proposed $29.2 million building project slated for a public referendum on Dec. 8.

The proposed project is aimed at updating current buildings and providing additional space. The district will be eligible for 78 percent state building aid for the project, leaving $6.4 million to be raised through the district. If not approved this year, the state aid formula is reduced after June 30 to 68 percent.

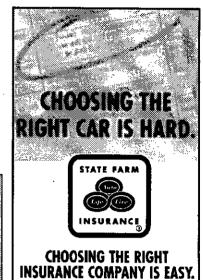

The project will include expansion of the high school and middle school science labs in preparation for new graduation requirements mandated by the state. A larger high school library is planned, as well as modernization of the high school's technology rooms. Other improvements at the high school would include a six-lane indoor pool, also available for community use.

At the middle school, band facilities would be expanded. The capacity of the elementary school would also be expanded, permitting the relocation of the fifth grade away from its current siting at the middle school. Additional rooms will also be constructed for the prekindergarten program to permit its expansion to accommodate all 4-year olds.

The proposal also calls for moving the district office out of the 70-year-old board of education building into the middle school to reduce costs. And at all district buildings, improvements are planned including new safety and handicapped access improvements, new roofs, and upgrading of heating, lighting, ventilation and electrical systems.

The open house, to be held at RCS Middle School from 9 to 11 a.m. will consist of displays and tables overseen by school board members and district staff. The architect will also be on hand to explain aspects of the project. "The public won't hear a long presentation. Rather, they will be able to walk around to the different tables. pick up information, and ask questions," said board president Gerald DeLuca.

Missoula Children's Theatre holds local auditions for "Alice in Wonderland".

By JOHN BRENT

e don't give them the option to fail. They might miss a line here and there but one of our actors is always on stage to help bail them out," said Kristen Lee, tour marketing director for the Missoula Children's Theatre. Lee is referring to the large cast of local young people who audition for and are cast in the group's touring productions.

Once again the Missoula Children's Theatre will be coming to The Egg in Albany for a weeklong residency which will culminate in two performances of "Alice in Wonderland" on Saturday, Nov. 20. This is the ninth time the group has visited The Egg.

Auditions will be held on Monday, Nov. 15 and from those trying out, about 50 area children and teens will be chosen to tackle roles both large and small. An oe chosen to tackle roles both large and small. An intense five-day rehearsal period follows culminating with the Saturday performances.

"The process is selective," said Lee. "We've had as many as 150 young people showing up to audition for 50 parts. Some of the kids will not be selected but that's part of the learning process."

The Missoula Children's Theatre's Tour Project is the largest producing theater for children in the United States with 23 teams that will visit more than 800 cities this year. "Alice in Wonderland" is one of six shows currently on tour in the United States and Canada. James Caron who serves as the group's executive director founded the company in 1970. Caron along with Artistic Director Don Kukla and Musical Director Michael McGill are responsible for the original musicals presented by the group.

One of the most exciting things about Missoula is the way in which touring shows are cast with local young people. The junior thespians are given a concentrated dose of live theater. In addition to picking up some basic performing skills, they learn team effort and to work with a large group under pressure.

"We see school age children from kindergarten through 12th grade," said Lee. "We have an open group audition, and we just get the kids on stage

"Because it's a group audition," continued Lee, "everybody's on the same level. You start off by saying your name and your age.

It's an amazing process. Our team is moving everybody around and pretty soon we start to see a group coming together."

When asked if they prefer kids who have acting experience, Lee responded, "It doesn't matter. Depending on the community we have different levels of experience. In some of the larger towns and cities we have kids who are seasoned but in the more rural areas we may be the only glimpse of the arts that many of the students have had. Maybe theater is something a student is interested in but they haven't had the opportunity to do anything about it. This might be their first chance."

"We've actually had kids show up with resumes and head shots. Some kids even come in with agents. But those are not necessarily the kids we are looking for," says Lee. "We have to be convinced that each person cast is going to be a team player, that they are going to be part of a group effort."

"We look for three things during the audition process," said Lee.
"We want to see if the student can follow directions, we want to hear a loud.

directions, we want to hear a loud voice and we want to see large body movements."

The musical itself is based on the Lewis Carroll classic, "Alice in Wonderland." Some of the lyrics for the songs are taken directly from the Carroll text. "It's a lot of fun for kids, of course, but parents won't be falling asleep," said Lee. Like the Carroll source material, "Some of the humor is better understood by adults."

One interesting aspect of the show is that Alice is played by three girls of different sizes to show the character growing and shrinking as required by the story.

Two professional actors traveling with the show will be on stage. One will be playing the White Rabbit and the second performer doubles in the roles of Alice's sister, Margaret, and the Queen of Hearts.

Registration for the auditions will be on Monday, Nov. 15 between 4 and 4:30 p.m. No one will be allowed to register after 4:30. The auditions will take place between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. Participants must remain for the full audition period. It is not necessary to prepare anything for the audition. The cast will be announced at the end of the tryouts. Several of the participants will be asked to serve as assistant directors for the production.

Once the cast is selected, an intense rehearsal period follows. For the Albany engagement, rehearsals start at 7 p.m. on the same day as the auditions. Participating children are encouraged to bring a bag dinner in case they are selected

Not everyone in the show is required for all the rehearsals. Schedules will be distributed following the casting announcement. On Tuesday through Friday, Nov. 16 to 19, rehearsals begin at 4 p.m. and continue to 8:30. There will be a 30-minute dinner break. There may be an additional rehearsal on Saturday morning.

"The commitment is important," says Lee. "At the beginning of the auditions we give the big commitment speech." Actors must be prepared to give the rehearsals priority. Any conflicts must be avoided.

It can be challenging to get the cast up to speed in so short a rehearsal period. "We've seen some amazing things," said Lee. "In our version of 'Jack and the Beanstalk,' Jack is a huge role. In one production we had a fifth grader — only 10 years old — playing the part. He was incredible."

"Sometimes, during the dress rehearsal we think, 'Oh my goodness,'" said Lee, "Is this ever going to come together?" But it always does.

"Teachers and parents sometimes wonder what the kids are getting into," said Lee. "But imagine seeing your kids on stage in the finished production. It's exciting. The kids have really learned something. You've changed their lives for a week."

The two performances will be presented on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 1 and 4 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for seniors and children 12 and under. For information on the show and to reserve tickets, call The Egg box office at 473-1845. For information on the auditions call The Egg main office at 473-1061.

demographics of electoral politics in Bethlehem.

"You don't have such a difference in pluralities anymore," said Democratic Chairman Matthew Clyne said. "It's just not a Republican-dominated town anymore."

With overall voter turnout at just over 50 percent, down from a typical 60 percent in previous offyear elections, the growing number of voters not enrolled in any political party increasingly hold the balance of power — and the smaller parties, particularly the Independence line, hold the key to reaching them.

"If you look at the enrollment figures, it's clear that the people not enrolled are finding the Independence Party gives them a vehicle to think of politics not as usual," said Dave Pillittere, the Independence Party chairman for Bethlehem. "Only one or two candidates we endorsed in this town didn't win, and those who didn't were newcomers like (county Legislature candidates) Tom Marcelle and Gary Olsen. And it looks like they came close to making it too."

Supervisor Sheila Fuller, Town Clerk Kathleen Newkirk and Superintendent of Highways Gregg Sagendorph, all Republican incumbents running without opposition, were easily re-elected. Newkirk was the top vote-getter with almost 7,100 votes, with absentee ballots remaining to be counted.

Incumbent Receiver of Taxes Nancy Mendick, a Republican who secured both Conservative and Independence backing in September's primaries, easily topped Democratic challenger Anthony J. Cornell Jr. with roughly 64 percent of the ballots cast.

In the town board race, Republican incumbent Doris Davis, who also carried both minor party endorsements, led the field, almost 1,700 votes ahead of runner-up Plummer.

"I'm just delighted I have the vote of confidence of the people I work for, the residents of this town," Davis said of her victory. "I look forward to four more years of working hard for the residents."

Boosted by almost 600 votes on the Independence line, Plummer bested Republican-Conservative candidate Parker Mathusa by nearly 500 votes for the second seat up for grabs. Equally telling, Plummer finished ahead of Mathusa in a straight Democrat-to-Republican vote count, and so did fellow Democrat George Harder. But with no second endorsement line for Harder, he finished last, a scant 30 votes behind Mathusa.

"I think the fact that my family has been in this community for such a long time helped,' Plummer said. "But frankly, I did an awful lot of door-to-door campaigning. And had I not had the Independence line, I wouldn't have won. That much is clear."

Town Republican Chairman Brian Murphy concurred. "If you look at the numbers, the difference in the election was the off lines," he said. "But I don't give those as much weight as some Harder's campaign stressed the argument "150 years is enough," referring to the GOP's traditional lock on town offices.

"The biggest issue (the Democrats) ran on was the balance question," Murphy said. "Whether that struck a chord with voters, I don't know."

Rather, he attributed the poor showing to the lack of "crucial issues that maybe made some difference in the voters' lives and might have driven them to the polls," and the lack of competitive elections at the top of the ticket.

In Selkirk, where county-legislative incumbent Robin Reed joined the town Republican slate in running without opposition, turnout was less than 40 percent, particularly in several key electoral districts where enrolled Republicans heavily outnumber Democrats.

Nevertheless, Clyne disagreed with Murphy's take on the results.

'I can't really attribute the vote turnout to the lack of contested elections," he said. "It may have suppressed the overall turnout, but the numbers are proportionate to what has gone before, and are consistent with '97, '95, and really even the '93 election." That was the year Fuller, running for the first time, narrowly defeated Clyne for the supervisor's post.

Clyne also stressed the importance of the Independence line in future elections.

That's undeniable," he said. "That line will continue to play an important role in the outcome of elections in this town. It will make it increasingly important for both parties to make special efforts to secure that line for their candi-

"I don't think anyone knows how important they are," said Davis, "but they are certainly a factor. Dan Plummer and I received a significant number of votes on the Independence Party line, and I received a significant number on the Conservative line. I think there are many Democrats who didn't want to pull the lever for me as a Republican, and many Republicans who felt the same about Dan Plummer.'

Pillittere foresees a day when the Independence line won't automatically go to a major-party candidate.

"I have no doubt whatsoever that this country needs a threeparty system," he said. "Can you tell much of a difference between the Democratic and Republican parties now?"

In the meantime, secondary endorsements will become increasingly important to the major parties — and thus the primary season will take on greater weight as well.

"I just hope we don't get to the point of eight parties out there," said Davis. "That would mean eight primaries, and that would be awful.'

Will primary campaigning stretch the election season even longer in future local election years? "I don't know if it will become longer and longer," Davis said, "but I'm sure it'll become more and more intense.

Sweep

Judy Von Ronne, who also took the helm earlier this year, is still sifting last week's results for answers. "To say we were surprised was an understatement," she said. "We ran what I think was the best slate, and I'm quite surprised the voters didn't choose one of them. That was a real learning experience, although I'm not sure what we learned by it."

Certainly, she said, they didn't see a sweep coming during the campaign. "We worked very hard in getting the vote out," she said. "We did mailings, we did door-todoor, we did phone banks, and we thought it was going well. We're still trying to figure this out. This one amazed us.'

Enrollment in the town is evenly split among Democrats, Republicans and non-enrolled voters, with a few hundred smallparty enrollees. But Von Ronne thinks many of those non-enrolled are a Trojan horse full of Demo-

"A lot of the non-enrolled, not all of them, but many, told us when we called them that they were Democrats," she said. "I guess it's no longer a Republican town. I think I can say that definitely.

She expressed concern over the unanimous defeat of her. party's incumbents. "I'm a little concerned for the future because there will be three new people on the board with no experience,' she said. "They'll have to look to Scott (Houghtaling) and Andrea (Gleason) and Fred Riester, the town attorney. I hope they're quick learners.'

For her part, Pofit said she has spoken to Reilly and the current board members, and urged the defeated incumbents to "remain. involved in the business of the town in one way or another. I've. already received assurances from Herb that he will work closely with us in this transitional period so we can hit the ground running on Jan. 1. And I think Mike and Mark will also stay active. We all still care about New Scotland."

More construction thefts reported in Bethlehem

By Joseph A. Phillips

The recent spate of burglaries sites in construction Bethlehem continued last week, with two more thefts, one in the heart of Delmar just blocks away from the Bethlehem police sta-

That incident occurred at the site of a new fellowship hall at Delmar Reformed Church, 386 Delaware Ave. Three separate contractors on the site reported on Monday, Nov. 1, that sometime over the weekend, various tools were taken from inside the building under construction.

According to police reports, thieves may have entered the building through an unboarded window or by breaking a lock on a door. There were also indications that the site may have been cased during the summer. More than $9,000 worth of tools were taken, including a 100-pound air com-pressor, a $5,000 wall-mount laser and other items.

An earlier theft, reported on Thursday, Oct. 28, occurred at another construction site on, Spawns Hollow Road in Selkirk. and is believed to have taken place between Monday and Thursday of that week. A $1,000 generator and about $350 worth of lumber was taken.

In the string of about 15 heists' dating back to at least Sept. 12, thieves have now stolen more than $42,000 in tools and equipment from construction sites throughout the town.
