Dispatchers decry conditions

Bethlehem police dispatchers say coworker is dangerous and administration ignores complaints

By CHARLES WIFF

Several dispatchers in the Bethlehem Police Department say they're fearful for their safety now that a suspended employee is set to return to work, and that their superiors are failing to respond to complaints about the connected coworker.

Several town employees, speaking on separate occasions and on the condition of anonymity for fear of reprisal, said dispatcher Eric Kerr has during his time in the Police Department created a hostile atmosphere that culminated with his threatening workers in April, leading to an unpaid suspension. Employee complaints obtained by The Spotlight describe Kerr using profanity, throwing paperwork and threatening to "get even" with coworkers in an April 14 incident after he was supposedly reprimanded for leaving his post.

The following day, he was served the 30-day suspension. According to sources, Kerr has been disciplined in the past for showing internal documents to people outside the

Beverwyck program showcases new, healthy menu items

By CHARLES WIFF

Chef Cary Neff has long known of his culinary calling, but he didn't truly find an outlet for it until he visited his grandmother in a retirement home.

"She would tell me everything that was wrong with the food," he said. "Honestly, the food wasn't bad, but it could have been a lot better...it was basic, it could have been more innovative."

Chef Neff is the brains behind new food offerings from Morrison Senior Living, the company that supplies food for the Beverwyck retirement community in North Bethlehem and about 500 other senior living communities across the nation. Beverwyck will be one of the first markets to taste Neff's Flavors 450 meals, designed to clock in under 450 calories.

Neff (the vice president of culinary for Morrison), accomplishes this not only by using smaller portions, but by using more fresh ingredients and

Messina picks up backing

Conservatives endorse Bethlehem supervisor

By CHARLES WIFF
wiffc@spotlightnews.com

Bethlehem Supervisor Sam Messina has been endorsed by the Conservative Party in his bid to win a second term in office.

This marks the first time Messina has won an endorsement, guaranteeing him a place on the ballot. His challenger and sitting Town Board member Kyle Kotary has secured the Democrat, Republican and Independence lines.

"The Conservative Party and [Albany County Conservative Party Chairman] Richie Stack have demonstrated true political courage. They have stuck with me through thick and thin; they have demonstrated great conservative fiscal values and support for the issues that are important to people," Messina said.

Messina is an Independence Party member, and was also not endorsed by his own party in 2009, when he narrowly beat then-supervisor and Democrat

Rail Trail open for business

Public-private partnership leads way to light use of path

They've finally legalized it. Walkers and runners are now free to use a portion of the Albany County Rail Trail after local officials and open space activists gathered Thursday, June 2, to cut the ribbon on a 1.9-mile section running through the Town of Bethlehem.

"We know people have been walking it, but they can now do it legally and not feel guilty about it," said Jill Knapp, executive director of the Mohawk Hudson Land Conservancy. "I just hope it gets a lot of use and everyone enjoys the effort that's been put into this."

The MHLC will be assuming the cost of liability insurance on the trail. Town of Bethlehem crews will help out with maintenance, including mowing, and already volunteers have spent hours pruning the corridor. The

Lebron seeks county executive position

Colonie Republican wants to change the way county government works

ANDREW BEAM
beama@spotlightnews.com

When Colonie technology guru Nathan Lebron announced his interest in running as a GOP candidate for Albany County executive, he did it without any endorsement from the party.

Lebron said he felt he needed to get out in front of the situation after Jennifer Whalen shocked the party by announcing she was not running even though Albany County GOP Chairman Don Clarey said she was.

"It would have had the perception that their candidate was their plan B," he said. "That's why I announced early and quickly."

Lebron has also made a special request: He wants a non-competitive endorsement by the county GOP. He doesn't want to run the risk of losing a primary and have someone else participate in a losing effort. Even though he said he would have enough signatures to create an independent line, it wouldn't be enough to win the general election.

"I need the guarantee of the GOP line," he said.

He said he decided to run because he believes there needed to be a candidate to go up against Democratic candidate Dan McCoy, former chairman of the Albany County Legislature.

Nathan Lebron

Lebron said he was first approached to help out on the Whalen campaign as a technology expert, and he offered to help in any way he could.

Now that he is the one with a hat in the ring, he said he is looking to tackle the fiscal challenges he doesn't believe McCoy can, adding that his opponent has not taken any strong stances on economic issues.

He also said he wants to see a greater focus on small businesses and a reduction in the number of legislators in the county, as well as

Sheriff leaves a legacy of service

James Campbell says he is ready to pass the reins to a new generation

beama@spotlightnews.com

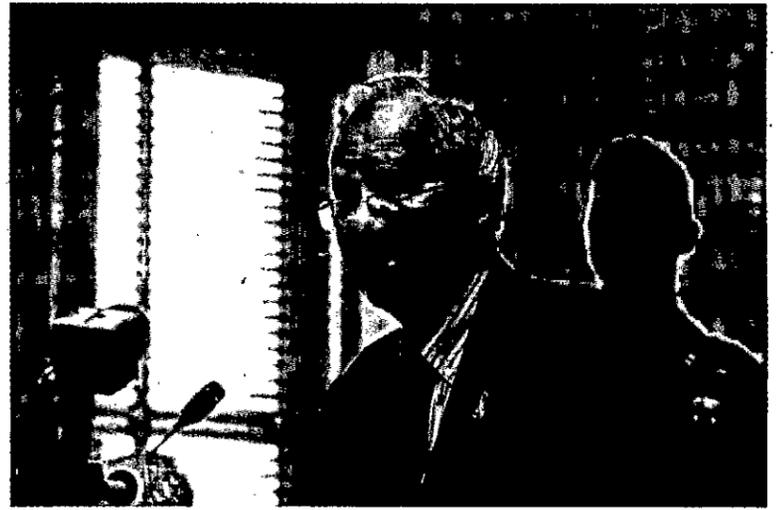

Albany County Sheriff James Campbell said that it is time for a younger generation to take over as he ended his 21 years of service by announcing his retirement on Thursday, June 2, at the Albany County Courthouse.

"I didn't advertise it publicly," the 71-year-old said, adding that he has been thinking of retiring for the past year. "I was getting used to going to the Price Chopper when everyone asked me, 'Hey, when the hell are you going to retire?'... It's probably been one term too long."

Campbell, who has been with the sheriff's department for 45 years, said the Democratic Party and his staff helped him run one more time. On Thursday, he said enough is enough, and that his retirement will begin on June 23, at which point Undersheriff Craig Apple will serve as sheriff until a special election is held.

Some called the announcement sudden, but Campbell said it was actually a long time coming. Although questions were raised about whether his health was becoming an issue, Campbell said that despite having prostate cancer three years ago, he is doing fine.

"I've got a clean bill of health so it's not a health issue," he said. "Thank God, but I don't want it to be an issue."

As Campbell looked back on his tenure, he said there may have been a few things he would have done differently, but some things were handled very well, he said, referring to the Amadou Diallo murder trial in 1999, in which four New York City police officers were charged with killing the unarmed Diallo. The trial, which attracted media from all over the world, was moved to Albany County, and local law enforcement received high praise from the prosecutors the defense for keeping the peace.

"That, to me, was one of the most important things in my time," he said.

There was also the expansion of the mental health facility at the Albany County Jail, which Campbell said will be a big help. He also spoke of the millions of dollars in grants the department has brought to the area that contributed to building its law enforcement.

Campbell said he is ready to support Apple as the new sheriff, praising him as a man that has gone through the ranks to get to where he is today and calling him the first sheriff "that is a career-oriented individual."

"Craig would be my definite choice," he said, "without a doubt."

Apple was emotional as he called Campbell a father figure and someone he looked up to. He

D-Day survivors

Thirty local survivors of the D-Day invasion of Normandy, France in World War II gathered Saturday, June 4, at the Holiday Inn Express in Latham for a memorial event. More than 270 other family members and friends were also in attendance, and about another 10 survivors couldn't make the ceremony. The keynote speaker was Maj. Gen. (ret.) Joseph Taluto, who commanded troops in Operation Iraqi Freedom and served as the Adjutant General for the State of New York. The event was organized by Delmar resident Frank DeSorbo, who worked for months to find survivors. He said he got the idea for the event after seeing media coverage for a Pearl Harbor survivors ceremony and realizing there was no local equivalent for D-Day vets. He plans to hold the event again next year.

Public input sought at gov't reform meeting

The public will have an opportunity to weigh in on a citizen committee's recommendations to overhaul Bethlehem's town government at the Wednesday, June 8, Town Board meeting.

The 20/20 Implementation Committee has suggested that the town move ahead with extending the town supervisor's term from two years to four and changing three elected positions over to appointed: highway superintendent, town clerk and receiver of taxes.

would have to be approved by the voters, and the 20/20 report suggests the measures be placed on the November ballot.

A recent public forum on the topic saw marginal turnout and some criticism of the plans. Members of the committee have said they wish to engage the public as much as possible. The Town Board has until early September to put the items on the ballot.

The meeting starts at 6 p.m. at Bethlehem Town Hall, 445 Delaware Avenue, Delmar.

BC educators rally against cuts

Speakers blast Cuomo and state property tax cap

By CHARLES WIFF
wiffc@spotlightnews.com

A series of rallies being called the "Students First Reality Tour" made a stop at Bethlehem Central High School Wednesday, June 1, where dozens of BC teachers gathered with representatives from the New York State United Teachers (NYSUT) and the Alliance for Quality Education to protest state cuts to education spending.

Speakers had harsh words for Gov. Andrew Cuomo. The state passed a budget this year that cuts aid to schools by $1.3 billion, which is less than what Cuomo had originally proposed.

David Rounds, president of the Bethlehem Central Teachers' Association, said despite salary freezes from all the district's unions, taking money out of reserves and closing Clarksville Elementary, Bethlehem will still cut 32 employees next school year.

Cuomo has publicly said that schools across the state are bloated and should look to their savings, reduce administrative compensation and negotiate better deals with unions to make it through the lean years.

"We as a district did everything the governor suggested to cut costs," he said. "We want to make it clear to the governor that this simply is not accurate."

Dozens of BC teachers gathered at the High School Wednesday, June 1, along with representatives from the New York State United Teachers (NYSUT) and the Alliance for Quality Education to protest state cuts to education spending. Speakers criticized Gov. Andrew Cuomo and efforts to pass a property tax cap.

Charles Wiff/Spotlight

The BCTA agreed to a partial-year salary freeze that saved BC $1.1 million on its 2011-12 school year budget.

Statewide, it's estimated 750 teachers will lose their jobs this year, said NYSUT Executive Vice President Andy Pallotta. He also slammed efforts at the capitol to pass a 2 percent tax cap, which would limit municipal power to raise property taxes year-to-year.

"We know it's malarkey," he said. "We have a powerful union, and we know these cuts are being felt throughout the state."

The tax cap is a perennial topic in Albany, especially around election time, but recent efforts indicate one could pass soon. Polls have shown a cap to be popular among New Yorkers, who pay some of the highest property taxes in the nation.

"I think a lot of people don't understand what it is," Pallotta said of the cap after the rally, arguing it would bring devastating results to schools without support from the state.

He suggested the state continue the "millionaire's tax" instead of letting it expire at the end of the year and investigate other, income-based taxes.

Teachers added their signatures to a letter to Cuomo at the conclusion of the rally.

"The one thing educational experts agree on is that smaller class size promotes learning. Any progress gained over the past 10 years to reduce class sizes has been lost in just one state budget," the letter reads in part.

NYSUT and the Alliance for Quality Education have held about 30 such rallies since July and will continue to tour the state, said Alliance Executive Director Billy Easton. The state budget has been passed and voters just went to the polls on school budgets for the coming year (voters statewide approved more than 93 percent of school budgets), but he thinks the battle is far from over.

"[Cuomo] says these cuts won't hurt or impact schools, but that just doesn't mesh with what you have here," Easton said.

Thruway stop yields crack bust

State Police on Sunday, May 29, arrested Larry G. Wimberly, 37, of Watervliet, and charged him with criminal possession of a controlled substance in the fifth degree (a felony) and DWI following a traffic stop on the Thruway in the Town of Bethlehem.

Larry G. Wimberly

Police said Wimberly was speeding in a 2008 Mercedes

Benz when pulled over. He was found to be intoxicated and in possession of over half a gram of crack cocaine, police said.

Wimberly was arraigned in Bethlehem Town Court and remanded to the Albany County jail without bail. He was scheduled to be back in court on June 3.

Other arrests

- State Police on Thursday, June 2, arrested a Vermont man on Leandra's Law charges.

A toll collector contacted police after allegedly seeing Daniel Vieu, 33, of North Clarendon, entering the Thruway driving erratically. Police located his vehicle traveling southbound in the Town of Bethlehem and allegedly observed Vieu drifting from lane to lane.

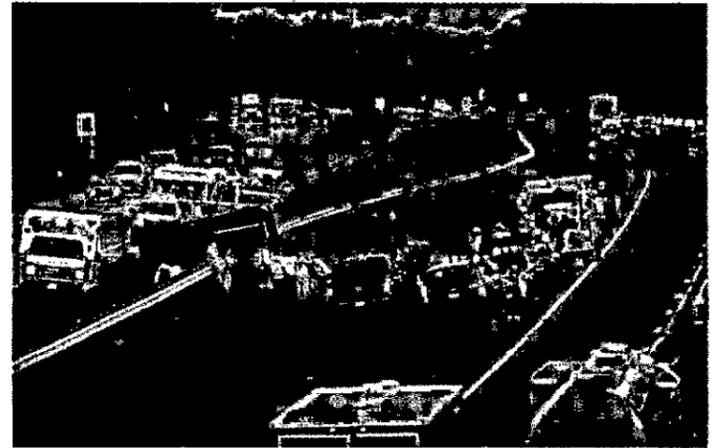

When stopped, Vieu gave police a friend's name, police said, and also admitted to taking prescribed Oxycodone and Valium, which are painkillers.

Vieu was driving with his 2-year-old daughter in the car, leading to felony DWI charges under Leandra's Law. He was also charged with criminal impersonation in the second degree and DWAI-drugs. He was arraigned in Guilderland Town Court and remanded to Albany County jail in lieu of $30,000 bail.

- Bethlehem police on Sunday, May 29, arrested Mark David Dean, 54, of Altamont, and charged him with DWI and several traffic law infractions.

Police said Dean's 1998 Chevrolet Suburban was observed without a license plate light and driving out of its lane and was stopped on McCormick Road in Slingerlands at about 1:36 a.m. He allegedly had the odor of alcohol on his breath and failed sobriety tests. A breathalyzer test at the station allegedly showed his BAC to be 0.12 percent.

Three injured in crash

The Selkirk Fire Department, Bethlehem Ambulance, and Albany County Paramedics responded on Saturday, June 4, to the New York State Thruway for a reported SUV rollover with ejection. Upon arrival, EMS personal found one passenger had been ejected from the vehicle. Three victims were transported to area hospital with various injuries. The SUV ended up on top of the guard rails. The crash occurred in the northbound lanes, about one mile south of exit 23. State Police are still investigating the cause.

Grimm to step out of politics

GOP councilmen will not return to Guilderland board

By CHARLES WIFF
wiffc@spotlightnews.com

Mark Grimm

After capturing two Town Board seats from an all-Democrat body in 2007, it turns out both of the Republican councilmen in Guilderland will be calling it quits after a single term.

Councilman Mark Grimm announced last week that he would not be seeking another term on the board, or for any other political office.

Grimm said he would like to focus on his PR business, Mark Grimm Communications, and other projects, including a radio talk show, as well as spend more time with his family.

"People don't understand what it takes to win as a Republican in Albany County," Grimm with plans to move to Florida as soon as his house sells.

Redlich and Grimm have been at odds with Democratic members of the board during their nearly four years in office, especially with Runion.

"It's a little frustrating because I worked awfully hard to win that seat," Grimm said. "But I'm doing the right thing, and I think I made a positive difference."

The Guilderland GOP did not endorse a candidate for supervisor, and endorsed Michele Coons and Peter Hubbard for Town Board. Howard M. Koff received the endorsement for town judge.

The Guilderland Democratic Committee was slated to meet Monday, June 6, to pick candidates. The meeting occurred after The Spotlight went to print.

said. "It's an enormous undertaking. ... When you look at all the things on my plate, I just didn't see how I could juggle it."

There had been some speculation that Grimm would be looking at another office, perhaps vying to unseat Democrat Supervisor Ken Runion.

Also leaving the Town Board will be Warren Redlich, the only other Republican on the Town Board. He may leave before his term is out

Public hearing scheduled on Vista plan

The Bethlehem Industrial Development Agency will be meeting regularly in the coming weeks to finalize plans to build Vista Boulevard, including at an evening public hearing.

The agency has been working to garner approval for its plans to build the road into the Vista Technology Campus, which involves the sale of up to $7 million in tax-free bonds to investors. Those investors would be paid back through collection of payments in lieu of taxes from the tech park tenants, which is a structure the Bethlehem Central School District, Town of Bethlehem and Albany County have all signed off on.

The IDA hopes to issue the bonds on Thursday, June 16. There will be a public hearing on Monday, June 13, at 6 p.m. at Town Hall, where the public will have the opportunity to offer comment on the plan as a whole.

The IDA would be taking on construction of the 3/4-mile road itself, with plans to approve a construction manager and make other final votes at a June 22 meeting.

Matters of Opinion in The Spotlight

Allegations and implications

We field a lot of phone calls in The Spotlight offices.

We listen to a lot of criticism, gather a lot of tips and make a lot of connections to the communities we serve.

Occasionally someone will call us up bearing a grudge — not against us, we're perfectly fine with that, but against another reader — hoping to put us in the middle of some private altercation or personal vendetta. On those occasions, we allow them to blow off steam, thank them for the call and that's the end of that — no ink or paper committed.

Editorial

But when a number of people call us on separate occasions with the same complaint, centered on the same individual, all of whom are working for an institution whose mission is to ensure the safety of the public at large, then we take a serious look at committing ourselves to reporting the story.

On the front page of this newspaper you will find a story about a group of Bethlehem police dispatchers who fear for their personal safety because of a coworker with a violent history. They brought their complaints to their chain of command as well as town officials, and, fearing the matter would be cast aside, ultimately came to us on the condition of anonymity.

This is not a responsibility we take lightly. We are not a vehicle for character assassination or a forum for people to cast stones at others without fear of retribution. We understand that the words we print have real-world implications, but we also understand that so does the situation the dispatchers have presented.

We appreciate and have a profound respect for the excellent work that dispatchers and other members of the police department do for our communities, but we also appreciate and have a respect for the consequences of any dysfunction among their ranks.

We've said this before, but it bears repeating: The Spotlight doesn't have a horse in this race. We bring this information to you, our readers, not only because of the possible implications to your safety, but also because it is the town's business and, thusly, your business.

Annuals to the rescue

By SUE PEZZOLA

The writer is Community Educator for Horticulture at Cornell Cooperative Extension of Albany County.

Annuals are the perfect solution for new perennial gardens that are not yet mature or areas of the garden that just do not look full enough or colorful enough to the gardener's eye. The wide range of annuals allows the gardener to tailor plant to place as there are many annuals that look very at home in a mixed border with shrubs, trees, bulbs and perennials. Annuals are warm-season plants for the northern garden and most will not overwinter as plants but many will drop seed that overwinters and grows the following spring. Annuals are high maintenance as they require more fertilizing and many need faithful deadheading to continue their non-stop bloom, but gardens can be a mix of many elements and annuals should be a part of the palate. Many gardeners would agree that the additional expense, the fertilizing and deadheading are well worth the effort. Annuals are a good bang for the gardening buck and here are some choices for very specific locations and uses.

Annuals that tolerate shade or semi-shade:

- Annual Candytuft (Iberis umbellata)
- Basket Flower (Centaurea americana)
- Begonia tuberos
- Chinese Forget-Me-Not (Cynoglossum amabile)
- Clarkia (Clarkia elegans)
- Coleus (Coleus blumeii)
- Edging Lobelia (Lobelia erinus)
- Evening Primrose (Oenothera drummondii)
- Flowering tobacco (Nicotiana glauca)
- Four O'Clock (Mirabilis jalapa)
- Impatiens (Impatiens wallerana)
- Pansy (Viola tricolor hortensis)
- Scarlet Sage (Salvia splendens)
- Sweet Sultan (Centaurea

- moschata*)
- Wax Begonia (Begonia x semperflorens)
- Wishbone Flower (Torenia fournieri)

Annuals for moist, cool conditions:

- Annual Canterbury Bells (Campanula medium)
- Annual Candytuft (Iberis umbellata)
- Baby blue-eyes (Nemophila menziesii)
- Balsam (Impatiens balsamina)
- Bluelace Flower (Trachymene coeruleus)
- Calendula, Pot Marigold (Calendula officinalis)
- California Poppy (Eschscholzia californica)
- Cape Forget-Me-Not, Bugloss (Anchusa capensis)
- China Pink, Indian Pink (Dianthus chinensis)
- Edging Lobelia (Lobelia erinus)
- Forget-Me-Not (Myosotis sylvatica)
- Larkspur (Delphinium agacis) [Consolida ambigua]
- Monkey Flower (Mimulus luteus)
- Nemesia (Nemesia species)
- Pansy (Viola tricolor hortensis)
- Polygonum, Princes Feather (Polygonum orientale)
- Summer-cypress, Burning Bush (Kochia scoparia)
- Sweet Pea (Lathyrus odoratus)

Annuals for dry, hot conditions:

- African Daisy (Gazania species)
- American Marigold (Tagetes erecta)
- Angelonia augustifolia (summer snapdragon)
- Annual Baby's Breath (Gypsophila elegans)
- Annual Blanket-Flower (Gaillardia pulchella)
- Annual Phlox (Phlox drummondii)
- Argeranthemum frutescens
- Basket Flower (Centaurea americana)
- California Poppy (Eschscholzia californica)
- Cardinal climber (Quamoclit sloteri)
- Creeping Zinnia (Sanvitalia procumbens)
- Cup-Flower (Nierembergia)
- Four O'Clock (Mirabilis jalapa)
- French Marigold (Tagetes patula)
- Lantana camara
- Mealy-cup Sage, Blue Sage (Salvia farinacea)
- Nasturtium (Tropaeolum majus)
- Perilla, Beefsteak Plant (Perilla

- frutescens Crispa*)
- Petunia (Petunia)
- Plume Cockscomb (Celosia cristata)
- Poppy (Papaver species)
- Moss Rose, Portulaca (Portulaca grandiflora)
- Sand Verbena (Abronia umbellata)
- Scarlet Sage (Salvia splendens)
- Scavola
- Snow-on-the-Mountain, Gout Weed (Euphorbia marginata)
- Spiderflower (Cleome hasslerana)
- Statice (Limonium)
- Strawflower (Helichrysum bracteatum)
- Summer-cypress, Burning Bush (Kochia scoparia)
- Sunflower (Helianthus annuus)
- Sweet Sultan (Centaurea moschata)
- Zinnia (Zinnia species)

Annuals for poor soil:

- Basket Flower (Centaurea americana)
- Calliopsis (Coreopsis tinctoria)
- Cosmos (Cosmos species)
- Cup-Flower (Nierembergia)
- Flour O'Clock (Mirabilis jalapa)
- Impatiens (Impatiens wallerana)
- Love-Lies-Bleeding (Amaranthus tricolor)
- Morning Glory (Ipomoea species)
- Nasturtium (Tropaeolum majus)
- Perilla, Beefsteak Plant (Perilla frutescens Crispa)
- Plume Cockscomb (Celosia cristata)
- Poppy (Papaver species)
- Moss Rose Portulaca (Portulaca grandiflora)
- Spiderflower (Cleome hasslerana)

Annuals for dry locations:

- African Daisy (Gazania species)
- Annual Candytuft (Iberis umbellata)
- Browallia (Browallia)
- California Poppy (Eschscholzia californica)
- Cosmos (Cosmos species)
- Ageratum
- Nasturtium (Tropaeolum majus)
- Plume Cockscomb (Celosia cristata)
- Portulaca (Portulaca grandiflora)
- Spiderflower, Pink Queen (Cleome hasslerana)
- Swan River Daisy (Brachycome)
- Zinnia (Zinnia species)

Check soil for pH level as most annuals require a pH in the range of 6.0 to 7.2. Your local Cooperative Extension office can do a basic pH test for a small fee and advise you as to how to amend the soil if needed.

Your Opinion in The Spotlight

Gov't changes benefit supervisor GOP so far ahead of curve Spotlight can't see them

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Wednesday, June 8, at 6 p.m. at the Bethlehem Town Hall there will be a discussion at the Town Board meeting regarding changes to the structure of Town Government as suggested by the 20/20 Committee.

The options being presented will include lengthening the term for the Town Supervisor from two to four years, and moving the Highway Superintendent, Town Clerk, and Receiver of Taxes from elected positions to appointed positions.

The 20/20 Committee contends that a two-year term is not enough time to propose, develop, and implement solutions to complex issues. Understanding that some problems do take a long time to resolve, is four years the magic number? Take the Vista project for example. This was started during the Shelia Fuller administration and has seen three Supervisors take office since and we have yet to see a single tenant.

The Selkirk By-Pass is yet another project that has languished for many years and many Supervisors. It seems to me that the only thing extending the Supervisor's term to four years will do is prevent the voters from voting in another a Supervisor of their choice after two years if he/she is not doing their job up to par.

The other weak argument of moving elected town officials to appointed positions is to consolidate departments with the goal of saving money. The 20/20 Committee has not verified/proven that any savings would actually take place.

The Committee did indicate that $300,000 could be saved by consolidating the Highway Department with the Department of Public Works. This estimate amount came from the IMAC report completed six years ago, and those changes and savings have already been made under the existing structure without consolidation. The 20/20 Committee did not propose an estimate on how much, if any, could be saved with the consolidation of the Town Clerk and Receiver of Taxes positions. So where is the benefit?

The benefit, as I see it, seems to go to the Supervisor who could now choose whomever he/she wanted to fill those positions. This clearly means that the citizens who live here would lose their right to vote for their choice of who should serve in those positions. I personally have more faith in the voters over politicians who are beholden to a certain political party and special interest groups to make that choice.

This is a major change to our town's government. Voters should learn more about this issue and understand the risks, ask questions, and make an informed decision. This Wednesday, June 8, 6 p.m., at the Bethlehem Town Hall is your opportunity to make your feelings known about this issue.

Editor, The Spotlight:

It is a great thing to read one's local paper and see facts of local interest printed and opinions expressed.

The May 25 edition of The Spotlight did a fairly good job of printing the facts of what I said regarding the endorsement of our future Town Supervisor but completely missed the fact that we also endorsed Gregg Sagendorph (R) for Highway Superintendent, Nancy Mendick (R) Receiver of Taxes, Jeremy Near (R) Town Board, Jeremy Martelle (R) Town Board, and Rich Mendick (C) for County Legislator from the 36th district, and, oh yes, Mark Jordan (I) for Town Justice.

If you didn't know any better you'd think that the only person endorsed by the Bethlehem Town Republican Committee for this election cycle was Kyle Kotary for Town Supervisor. This is not as big a news event as one might assume. Mr. Kotary comes from a long line of Utica Republicans and was himself a Republican staffer working for his Republican Congressman in Washington, D.C., when such Representative introduced him to then Senator D. P. Moynihan. Kyle got a job with Senator Moynihan and registered as a Democrat. Ok, fine.

But more importantly, people who have attended Town Board meetings have probably noticed Mr. Kotary's actions vis-à-vis, town financial matters, and would agree that Mr. Kotary is nothing less than a budget hawk, somewhat like the moniker hung on our endorsed County Legislator Rich Mendick (C), i.e., budget guru.

The editorial was right about one thing though. At this level, if you can find someone who is qualified and has the time to take away from his or her family and business and is willing to put up with all of the abuse and hard work, what he is registered as is really a secondary issue.

But, you know, there are still some people who love to see a dog and bear fight. However, the Republicans in the Town of Bethlehem are not about fighting for fighting's sake. We are all about getting the most qualified person in the public seat to do the best for the Town.

Now, our hometown press and maybe even some of our political opponents think the Republican Party in the Town of Bethlehem is on the lamb, but I don't think the 50 or so Republican Committee people represented at the endorsement meeting think so. They think that our Republican endorsements show that we are adults and in that regard we may be way ahead of the political curve.

Maybe we are so far ahead of the curve that the opinion editor just couldn't find us, yes, maybe that is it. Maybe that is why its so hard to see us clearly.

Public should know the fracking facts

Editor, The Spotlight:

Apparently the Bethlehem Neighbors for Peace has given up on "Peace" and is now going to devote themselves to Hydrofracking. Anyone who read their letter should also be aware of the facts as we know them.

"When asked about the dangers of hydrofracking during her sworn testimony in a recent hearing before Congress, President Barack Obama's EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) administrator, Lisa Jackson, admitted the environmental risk of hydraulic fracturing is practically none. In fact, what she said was, "I'm not aware of any proven case where the fracking process itself has affected water."

Some people seem to object to any energy source. They would have more credibility if they disconnected themselves from the power grid and bought themselves a burro!

Your Opinion in The Spotlight

Town needs no-spin zoning

Editor, The Spotlight:
The late Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan once said "everyone is entitled to their own opinions but not their own facts". That saying keeps running thru my mind after I read last weeks Spotlight story about the proposed zoning law changes regarding the establishment of set back requirements of cell towers. Specifically the quote from town hall that said "It's our opinion that the federal government has preempted this field."

Really?
The facts I have presented to Supervisor Messina on numerous occasions since January 2011 say otherwise. I provided examples of what other communities around the country currently have in their town/zoning laws. They clearly demonstrate that local governments do in fact have the ability to make decisions about the placement of cell towers as per the Federal Telecommunications Act of 1996.

In fact, he has yet to dispute my facts, let alone acknowledge the letters and e-mails I sent regarding these examples dating back to January 6, 2011. After reading the spotlight article in which it was said my 1500 feet setback suggestion was illegal I decided to present the facts directly to the residents of Bethlehem. They can decide for themselves if municipalities like Bethlehem can make their own decisions about the placement of cell towers.

Since 1996 many communities have implemented regulations that are more restrictive than what is being proposed here in town. They include: a 1500 set back requirement from schools, playgrounds, Day Care centers, recreational areas and parks, and historical districts. In addition, local regulations include a setback of 500 feet from a residence. Localities have even prohibited cell towers on certain parcels, along with the proximity to other cell towers.

My first example is Martha's Vinyard: The Town of Aquinnah Zoning By-laws article IX Personal Wireless Service Facilities (cell towers) enacted May 23, 2000. The following was copied directly from the town's website:

"SECTION 9.5 Siting Criteria; Setbacks (A.) WCF (wireless communications facility) must be at least five hundred (500) feet from any residence, and must be at least fifteen hundred (1500) feet from any historic district, school, playground, day care facilities, recreational area and parks... No ground mounted WCF shall be located on the property on which a school, playground, day care facilities, recreational area and parks are sited.

SECTION 9.3 Site Plan Review: Siting Criteria (A.) Areas Prohibited: No WCF will be permitted on any scenic ridge line, scenic vista/viewshed (as determined by the Planning Board/Plan Review), wetlands, or wetland buffer areas, or within any Aquinnah Coastal District (including Menemsha Pond) or Roadside District (Moshup Trail) District or Cliff District. No WCF shall be located on the property on which schools, daycare facilities, parks and recreational areas or playgrounds are sited."

Another example is Caldwell County, North Carolina: Cell Tower regulations, section 90.G.16. The following was copied directly from their website:

"Telecommunication towers shall be located at least 2 miles from other telecommunication towers and no closer than a quarter mile to the perimeter line of an R-20 & R-15 Zones based upon a survey of surrounding sites using GPS or other methods provided by the applicant.

These are merely two examples among many and they are far more restrictive than what is being considered by our town.

Those are facts. I have yet to hear a clear understanding of why communities all over the country are including in their local regulations site limitations similar to my suggestion, but Bethlehem Town Hall is claiming they can't. Clearly local cell tower regulations are not illegal

I encourage everyone to do a simple web search to confirm the facts I have presented.

Thank you, Guilderland, but it's time to go

Editor, The Spotlight:
I have decided not to be a candidate for Guilderland supervisor or any other office in 2011.

With a growing small business, a book, on-camera and voiceover work, a radio talk show, college teaching, a wife who works fulltime and a young child, and important volunteer interests, this is not the right time.

My three-and-a-half years of service to Guilderland residents and businesses have been a great privilege.

You elected me with more votes than any Republican Town Board candidate in the past 12 years. In return, I have strived to place the interests of my constituents ahead of all else. My commitment to work hard, to my principles, and to producing positive results will continue through the remainder of my term.

Thank you to the many people who have supported me. You have been my inspiration and my guiding light. Perhaps at some future date, I will again ask for your support in order to serve the public good.

A runner's 'hi'

Runner Nicole Blood stopped by Guilderland Elementary School on Thursday, June 2. Blood ran for Saratoga Springs in high school. Since then, she's made a name for herself on the running scene and participated in the 33rd Annual Freihofer's Run for Women in Albany, coming in 16th overall. Blood told students to follow their running dreams. "I want you guys to shoot for the top, always push yourself hard," she said.

Sheriff

also said that Campbell is a very kind individual and that he will be a tough act to follow.

"It's really bittersweet," he said of Campbell's retirement. "He's been a mentor for 20 years. He's put me through every one of my promotions. I love him like a father."

Apple said Campbell always gave hints that he would retire and added that with such a big department and a difficult economy, being sheriff is not the kind of stress he needs to be dealing with.

Albany County Executive Mike Breslin called Campbell a great guy and said he will be missed as sheriff. He said Campbell has been able to advance the sheriff's department.

"He was a trooper for over two decades. He knew law enforcement inside and out, and he was a great public servant," he said.

Breslin also supported the idea of Apple taking over as sheriff, whom he also praised as being "an outstanding public official."

"I look forward to working with him," he said.

Campbell said there is one piece of unfinished business he is leaving behind: the ongoing renovations on the courthouse.

"I never thought I'd say I'm retiring before this courthouse was completed," he said.

Lebron

term limits on the office of the county executive.

"[County Executive Mike] Breslin stayed in power for so long and did not do anything," he said. "I want term limits. I think it's something that really hasn't been approached at the county level."

Lebron said he wants to look into reducing the county workforce, but he mainly wants to look at the management level and not the unionized lower-level employees. He said there is too much patronage and waste at that level that it needs to be addressed.

"That's something, quite frankly, the Democrats never tackled as they reward their own political cronies," he said. "My own party hasn't tackled it either. But that's the layer that could actually realize some real savings by streamlining and making it more efficient."

Lebron said this race has provided him the perfect opportunity to not only look for the endorsement of the GOP, but also the disenfranchised Democrats in the county. He is looking to create a "fusion ticket," by garnering the support of both parties, especially those who have felt slighted by the process.

"I can get on the Independent line where Democrats can come over and vote, and voice their concern and discontent with the government," he said. "I want to actively go after Democrats who feel they have been disenfranchised by their very own process. McCoy was elected by a fairly non-democratic process."

Clarey said he thinks it is good that Lebron got his interest out early, but the Republicans are still looking across the board for contenders. He wants to keep it a fair process and properly vet all of the candidates. Each candidate will have 15 minutes of talking and 15 minutes of questions from the committee, which is made up of town chairs, secretary and treasurer, Clarey said.

"He will have the opportunity to state his case," Clarey said. "If there's another candidate, we'll go with that one or we may say no endorsement. I'm letting the committee drive the decision."

Clarey said that Lebron is "a positive political force" and that he considers him a good friend. His job as chairman, though, is to find as many candidates as possible for the job, which means he is still not ready to give any endorsement.

"I want to have all the pieces in place," he said. "It may take a couple of weeks for that."

Lebron said he is ready for all of the challenges that are to come his way as a result of running. He added that he understands that Clarey is just doing his job. He does look forward to pulling an upset.

"I'm excited about the race's challenges and the potential of actually pulling off an upset," he said. "Not just for the GOP, but for the county and the battle between those who want change in the county and the machine that wants to keep it old school."

Free Energy Efficiency Services through EmPower New YorkSM

Do you have a limited income and are you feeling the pinch?

Get free energy efficiency services through EmPower New York and take control of your energy use.

High energy costs can strain any household budget, but they are a real challenge to families living on a limited income. Poor insulation, air leaks, and inefficient lighting and appliances can all add up to high energy costs.

Help is available for you. EmPower New York offers free energy efficiency services and education to HEAP eligible low-income New Yorkers, including renters.

A participating contractor, accredited by the Building Performance Institute (BPI), will provide energy efficiency measures, such as insulation, high efficiency lighting, and upgrades to appliances, all at no cost to you.

Mere walls were left of the west wing of the state Capitol after a 1911 fire. Stuart W. Lehman, education coordinator for the Capitol, will visit Guilderland Public Library on June 16 to reveal why the losses from this fire will forever haunt us.

Summer Reading Program has international influence

"One World, Many Stories" will take young people on fun-filled journeys to countries around the globe this year.

New York Summer Reading Program 2011 is open to young people, preschool through teens, to encourage reading, to develop positive attitudes about reading and books and to maintain their reading skills during summer vacation. Most of all, we want kids to know that the library is fun. Stories are here at the library waiting in books, audio books (CDs and Playaways), films, and comics, and great programs round out the summer experience.

Online sign-up begins on June 13, but kids may register all summer from home or at the library. Keep track of book titles from vacation or camp! And post reviews of favorite books from the website. Registered SRP members are eligible for prizes at every program.

The list of programs and the meeting calendar are all available online and will be mailed in the summer Bookworm, the library newsletter.

Vincent Zandri

Register according to the grade the child will be entering in September 2011.

Zandri to speak

Crime writer, journalist and foreign correspondent Vincent Zandri will be at VPL to discuss writing, ebooks and publishing in a program titled "The Rapidly Changing Paradigm of Publishing and Getting Published" on Wednesday, June 15, at 7 p.m. He will give the insider's take on how independent authors are achieving remarkable success through ebooks and introduce his new novel, "The Concrete Pearl." No sign-up is necessary. Refreshments provided by the VPL Friends. For more information about the author go to www.vincentzandri.com.

eReader primer

To learn more about your eReader and book downloading, sign up for the Digital Download Demo program on Monday, June 13, at 7 p.m.

Summer hours

We are now operating on our summer hours: Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and closed on Sundays.

Barbara Vink

All library programming is free (unless otherwise noted) and open to the public. Voorheesville Public Library is located at 51 School Road, Voorheesville. For information, call 765-2791 or visit www.voorheesvillelibrary.org.

Library fired up for talk

"$5,000,000 Loss in Capitol Fire" is the century-old New York Times headline describing the 1911 inferno that gutted the west wing of the New York State Capitol, consumed a good part of our State Library and our history, and which is the topic of a June 16 presentation by Stuart W. Lehman, education coordinator for the Capitol.

"Sparks from the Capitol Fire" will be presented at 7 pm, on Thursday, June 16, at the Guilderland Public Library. Mr. Lehman will offer a PowerPoint presentation that examines the events of that fateful 1911 morning, and how the effects of that fire are still very evident today. Through word and picture, he will chronicle

how it began during the early morning hours of Wednesday, March 29, and before it was over, one life had been lost, and more than a million irreplaceable, historical documents had been destroyed.

According to the Times article, "There was no insurance on the building or its contents, a fact for which no explanation has yet been offered. The greatest loss, because it is irreparable, was in the State Library. Besides about 600,000 volumes, it contained 400,000 pamphlets, 300,000 historical manuscripts, and the sacred wampum of the Six Nations.... The bitterness of this loss is increased by the fact that in a short time all the books and records were to have been removed to the new building of the [Education] department just across Washington Avenue."

This special educational program is free and open to the public.

Mark Curiale

For more information, call the library at 456-2400, or email info@guilpl.org. The Guilderland Public Library is at 2228 Western Ave., Guilderland.

G'land seniors taking trip to Mac-Hayden Theater

Guilderland seniors are taking a trip to the Mac-Haydn Theatre Thursday, June 23, with an 11 a.m. departure from Town Hall.

Cultures clash and love is shown in many different ways in "The King and I," as the determined English schoolteacher and tradition-bound King of Siam each learn something from — and about — each other. One of Rodgers and Hammerstein's most glorious scores includes "Shall We Dance?" "Something Wonderful," "Hello Young Lovers" and "We Kiss in a Shadow."

Lunch will precede the show at the White Stone Café.

Cost: $41 for lunch and show and $5 for transportation on the day of the trip.

Checks may be made payable to Town of Guilderland and sent to Town of Guilderland Senior Office, P.O. Box 339, Guilderland, NY 12084 or paid in person.

Groups raising money for flood victims

Three local faith groups are working together to raise funds for domestic flood victims: the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community of Rotterdam Junction and, Temple Sinai and the Presbyterian-New England Congregational Church - (PNECC) of Saratoga Springs.

All proceeds will go to ShelterBox USA, a disaster relief program of Rotary International.

On Sunday, June 12, the three groups are hosting a dinner featuring Indian/Pakistani and American food. Vegetarian food will be available. They will be serving dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Presbyterian-New England Congregational Church, 24 Circular St. in Saratoga Springs.

ShelterBox is an international disaster relief charity that delivers emergency shelter, warmth and dignity to people affected by disaster worldwide. Each box supplies an extended family of up to 10 people with a tent and essential equipment to use while they are displaced or homeless. Included are a tent, blankets, water purifier, cook and heating stove, eating and cooking utensils, tools and other essential items.

An actual Shelter Box will be on display for the event.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $7 for children and $30 for a Family (two adults and up to four children). Seating is continuous for dine in and take out is available. Tickets can be purchased by calling the PNECC office at 584-6091.

Lyme disease association to host speaker

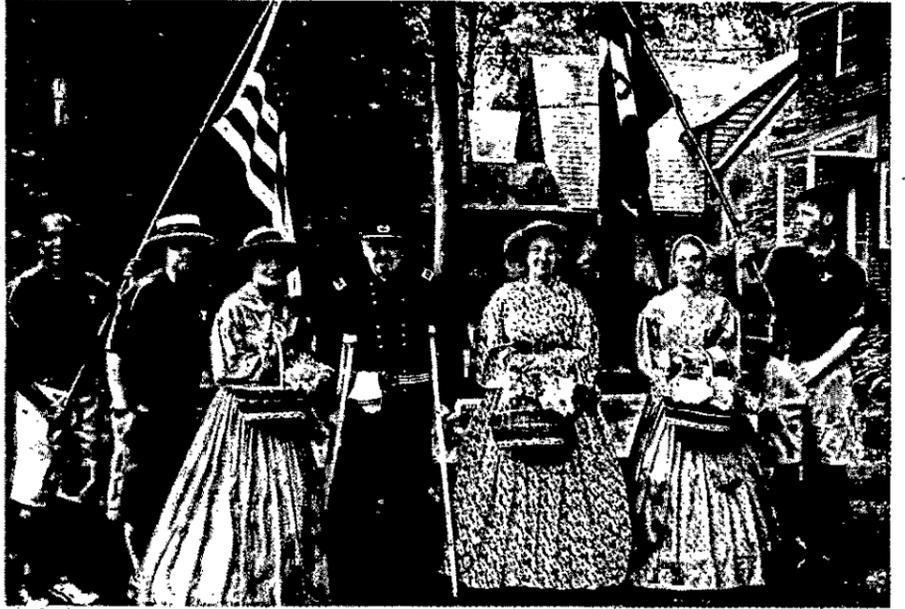

The Capital Region Chapter of the Empire State Lyme Disease Association will present Susan McCamish, Board Certified Naturopath, as guest speaker at its June 23 meeting. The presentation, "More Than Just Microbes" will be held at the Redeemer Church, 183 Schoolhouse Road, Albany. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. The presentation will begin at 7 p.m.

McCamish's work centers around the understanding of how to build, enhance, and support the body's own immune system using protocols she has developed. The lecture will include various health issues and highlights of her unique individualized programs.

Flowers for the departed

Pet of the Week

Sponsored by Benson's Pet Center

Scratch is a lover not a fighter!

This beautiful boy was named Scratch, not because he's a fighter, but because he's such a love and he lives for getting scratches behind his ears! He is 2 yrs. old, and needed to be rescued from a neighborhood of feline bullies that were picking on him. Scratch needs a loving home to call his own. He may be a little shy at first until he gets to know you and then he'll become your little shadow and companion. Please call H.O.P.E. (Homes for Orphaned Pets Exist) 518-428-2994 to adopt Scratch and visit us online to see all the other beautiful faces looking for a forever home. www.hopeanimalrescue.org

Teen tries new fundraising effort

A Bethlehem teen who has been doing charity work for a village in Africa has launched a new fundraising effort.

Sara Weinman made a visit to Ddegeya village in Uganda this past February, and while conditions there are much different from those here in the states, one of the things that left an impression on her was how schoolchildren in this remote village didn't have any schoolbooks.

"Most kids in Uganda might go to school, but they'll never touch a book," Weinman said in an interview with The Spotlight shortly after her trip.

The BC high schooler was involved heavily in starting the Engeye Teen Connection, an offshoot of a group that helps people in Ddegeya, and she recently launched the ETC Bucks for Books drive.

The money raised in the drive will go directly towards purchasing textbooks and school supplies for Ugandan classrooms, which will be delivered by ETC member Brian Hickey when he travels to Africa in July.

To donate or learn more about ETC and Engeye's other projects, visit www.etcbucksforbooks.org. Donations are tax deductible.

BC High School student Sara Weinman teaches a class in Ddegeya village in Uganda this past February. The teen has been involved in efforts to help people of the African village for years, and now is launching a drive to provide books and supplies to schools there.

Nature center plans programs

Thacher Nature Center in Voorheesville has the following programs planned.

• Saturday, June 11, at 9 p.m.: Stargazing

View stars, planets, and other objects in the night sky through a powerful telescope with amateur astronomer Ken Dubois. Cloudy skies will cancel program. Call 872-0800 before 5 p.m. to confirm.

• Saturday, June 18, at 9 a.m.: Friends Roadside Cleanup

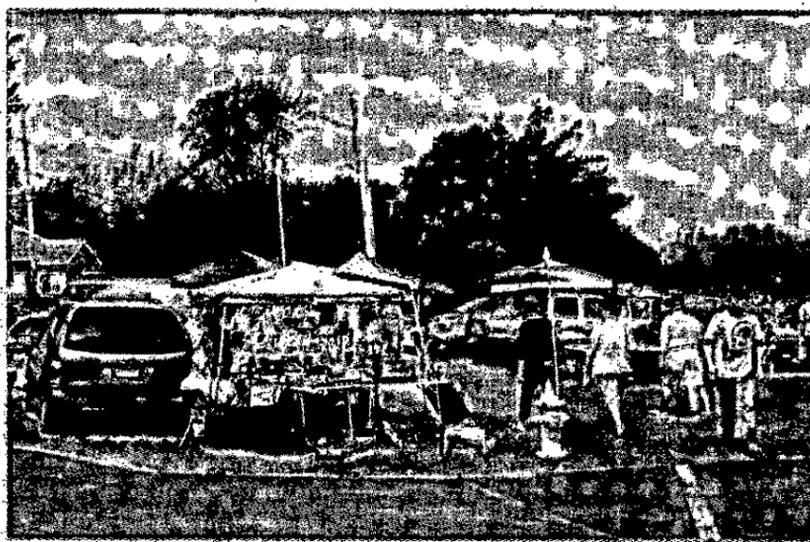

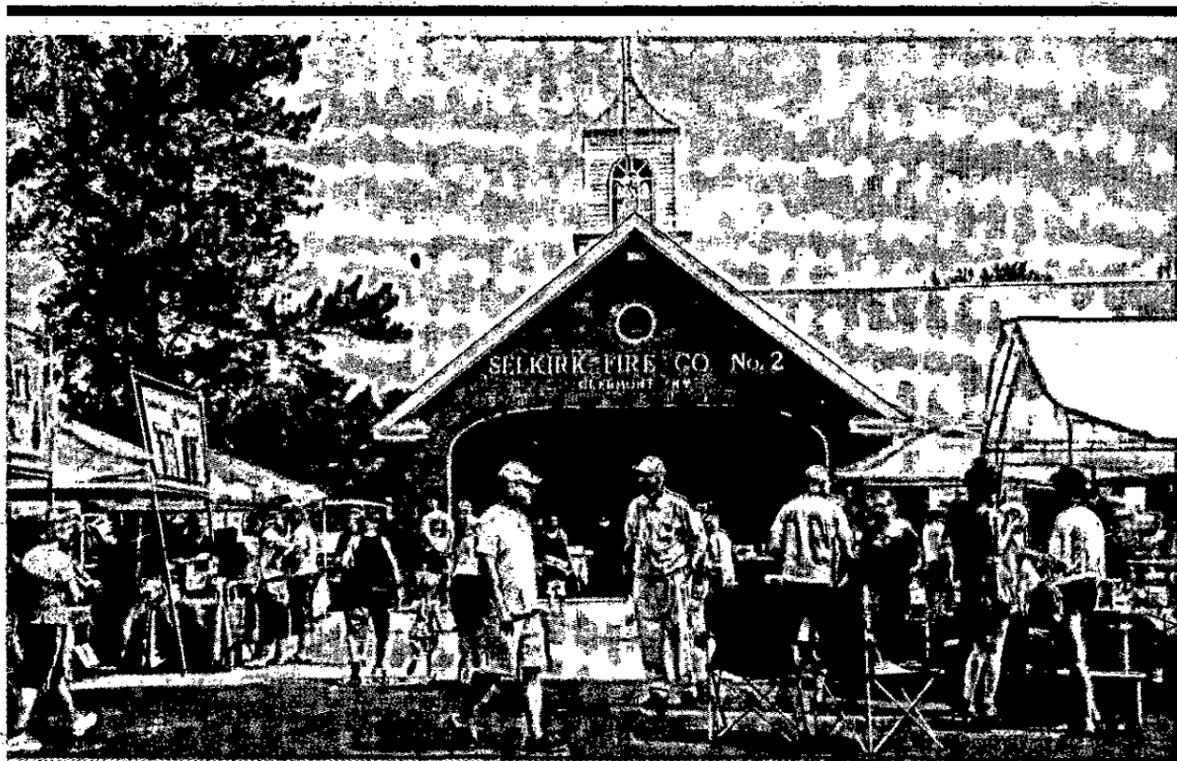

Help the Friends of Thacher Park pick up litter on their adopted section of Thacher Park Road. Meet at the Hop Field picnic area. Park entrance fee waived for volunteers.

• Saturday, June 18, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.: Seventh Annual Native Plant Sale "Edible Natives" is the theme for this year's sale, so bring your garden notes and plan to enhance your yard with lots of plants to dine on. The sale will also include many hard to find species of perennials, shrubs, trees and ferns. Build a Backyard Habitat or add to your existing one. Call 872-0800 for more information.

• Sunday, June 19, at 10 a.m.: The Stories in the Rocks: A Geology Tour at Thacher Park

Hmm, what's the story of these rocks? Do you wonder this sometimes? Explore various rocks throughout the park with geologist Dr. Chuck Ver Straeten and find out what the rocks tell us about New York today, and 400 million years ago. Meet at Hop Field picnic area. Call 872-0800 to register.

Charity softball game with the Albany Dutchmen raises money for muscular dystrophy research

By JACQUELINE M. DOMIN
Dominj@spotlightnews.com

When Derek Murphy was a baby, his parents noticed he wasn't hitting developmental milestones as quickly as his two older brothers had. He had trouble crawling, instead using a "commando crawl" to fight his way forward. His first birthday passed and he still wasn't walking.

Derek's parents, Sue Ellen and John Murphy, tried not to worry. Everyone develops at a different pace, they reasoned. But when Derek still wasn't walking at 15 months, "we just knew something wasn't right," Sue Ellen said.

After blood tests and a clinical observation, the Murphys found out what exactly was wrong: Derek had Duchenne muscular dystrophy, a neurological disease that weakens muscles at a fast rate. Life expectancy is only in the teens.

The diagnosis changed the Murphys' lives in many ways, one of which was that they embraced the role of raising money for muscular dystrophy research. One of their endeavors, The Derek Murphy MVP for MDA Game, is a charity softball game sponsored by Spotlight Newspapers and the Albany Dutchmen and featuring local media personalities. Last year's inaugural game brought in more than $1,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Organizers say this year's game, planned for Thursday, June 16, at 7 p.m., has already raised even more.

"We had a blast last year and we're looking forward to doing it again this year," Spotlight Managing Editor Bill DeVoe said. "It raises money for a great cause."

Duchenne muscular dystrophy moves quickly, wiping out muscle strength throughout the body. Sue Ellen said kids with Duchenne lose the muscle function in their lower body and then up through their torso and trunk; a wheelchair is pretty much an inevitability.

Derek started to lose his balance last summer, and within months, he had to start using a wheelchair and leg braces. But the fourth-grader at Bell Top Elementary School in North Greenbush has an attitude that stands in stark contrast to his physical problems.

"He just plugs away and says, 'I'm going to still do whatever it is that my friends do,'" Sue Ellen said.

It's the same kind of mindset his parents have had: "It's OK, we just do things a little differently," Sue Ellen said.

In fact, for a long time, the casual observer would have had a hard time knowing anything was wrong with Derek. "People would always say, 'He looks great,'" Sue Ellen said.

Put Derek next to his peers, though, and it is and was clear he was behind. At the root of the problem, Sue Ellen said, is a missing protein called dystrophin. Without dystrophin, the muscles in people with Duchenne muscular dystrophy start to disintegrate.

It sounds simple enough: find a way to get that protein inside the body of kids with Duchenne. But science is rarely simple, which is why funds are needed to continue researching muscular dystrophy and how to treat, and hopefully cure, it, Sue Ellen said.

It's a cause the Dutchmen, a summer baseball team for some of the country's top college players, are happy to get behind. Charity work is a cornerstone of the organization's operation; players regularly volunteer with local groups and give baseball clinics.

"They're very intertwined with the community," Dutchmen General Manager Jason Brinkman said.

Last year's game in honor of Derek was played at the Dutchmen's home field in downtown Albany, Bleecker Stadium. This year, the Dutchmen move to the Plumeri Sports Complex, and so does the charity game.

"It's really just a phenomenal place to watch a game," Brinkman said. "The facilities have been significantly upgraded."

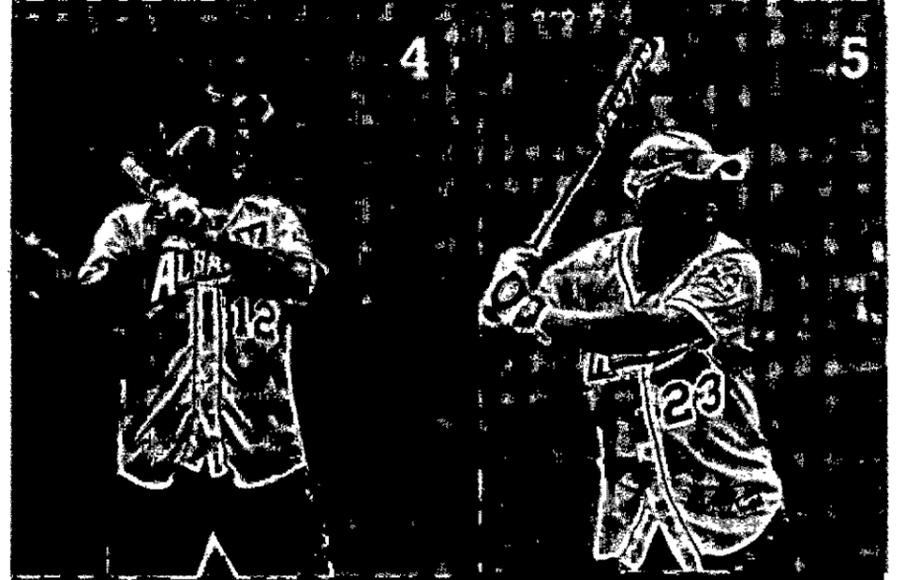

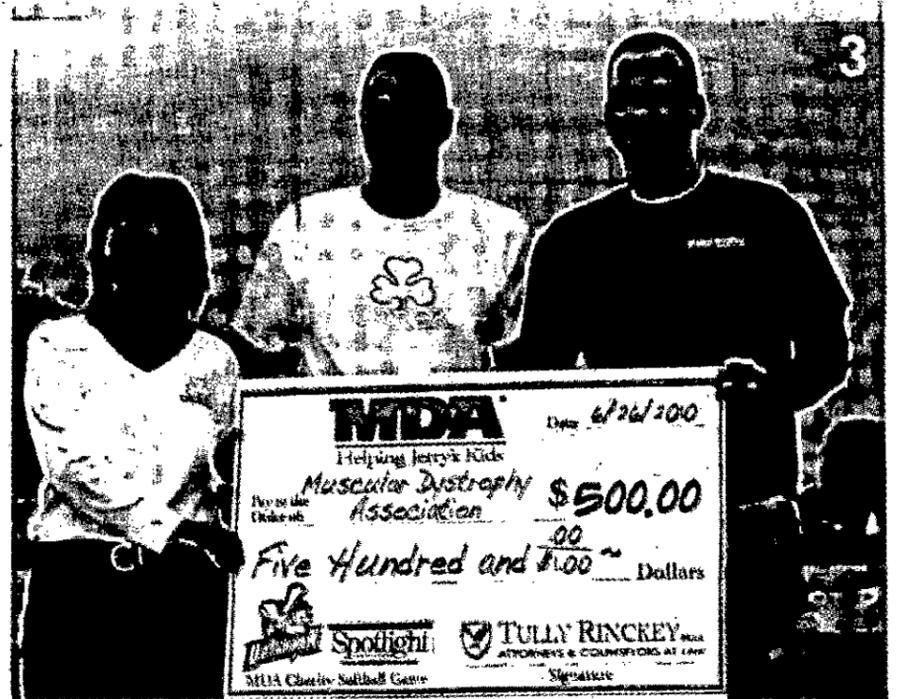

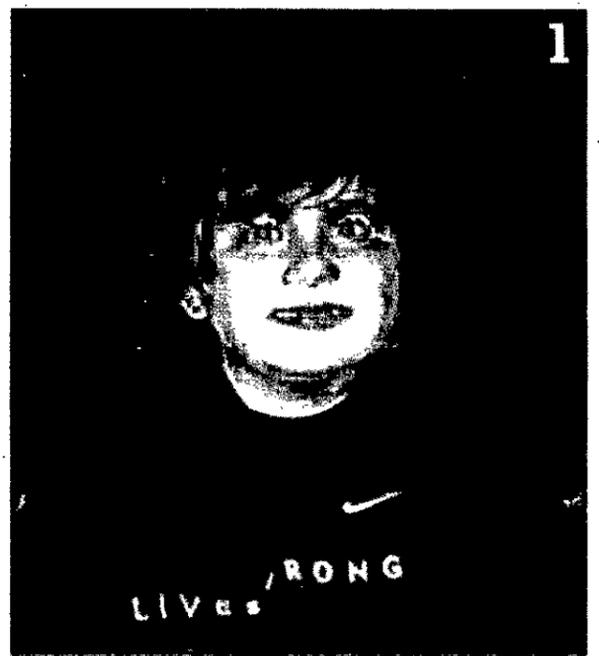

Both Brinkman and Sue Ellen stressed that the softball game is fun for all ages. Brinkman added that the same is true of Dutchmen games, which give college players the chance to use wooden bats like professional players do (the college game uses aluminum bats). The Dutchmen's home season starts June 9 and features 26 home contests.

As for the softball game, players include Bob Kovachick and Jason Gough of WNYT, as well as players from The Spotlight, The Times Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers, as MDA is their nationally sponsored charity. The Plumeri Sports Complex is on Frisbie and McCarty avenues at the foot of I-787 in Albany. Admission to the game is $5, with all proceeds benefiting the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

1) Derek Murphy, a 10 year-old from North Greenbush was diagnosed with Duchenne muscular dystrophy at the age of 2.

2) Members of the Albany Dutchmen and local media raised more than $1,100 last year for Duchenne muscular dystrophy research.

3) Matthew Tully, far right, of the Tully Rinckey law firm, presents a check for $500 to John and Sue Ellen Murphy, Derek's parents. Tully is onboard to support MDA again this year.

4) Bob Kovachick from WNYT Channel 13.

5) Jason Gough from WNYT Channel 13 at last year's charity softball game.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Gjonaj, Sose

DELMAR — On the afternoon of June 2, 2011, Sose Gjonaj entered into eternal rest, surrounded by her family at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany, NY. Born in Kokdode, Albania, on February 5, 1933, Sose was a devoted daughter, wife, and mother.

After WWII, having married and started a family, she and her husband (the late Pjeter Gjonaj (1919-2007) were identified as aiding the anti-communist resistance. With great care and planning, they and her brother-in-law's family escaped by cover of darkness through the forests, streams and mountains of Albania.

Years later they settled in New York City where Sose and Pjeter were hard-working Building Superintendents for many years. In 1979, they moved to Cossackie, NY and then in 2003, Sose and her husband moved to Delmar, next door to her son, Leka, and his wife, Erma. All of her sons and daughters took great care of Sose.

Some of Sose's fondest memories were the days spent as a young girl, shepherding the family's goats, along with the other children tending to their herds. Sose was always happier outside. Later in life, in Delmar, Sose would frequently be seen slowly raking her lawn in between walks up down the sidewalk. Sose took great pride in keeping her lawn and house beautifully maintained.

Pre-deceased by her husband, the late Pjeter Gjonaj, Sose is survived by her five children: Zef Gjonaj, Paska Nayden, Maria Gjonaj, Leka (Erma Klein-), and Lena Gjonaj as well as her grandsons, Sean and Robert Nayden, her dear sister-in-law Katrina Gjonaj, and many beloved nieces and nephews. Sose drew people to her and many were grateful for the time spent with her in St. Peter's Cardiac Care Unit.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated Saturday, June 4th, 11:30 am at St. Thomas Church, 35 Adams Place, Delmar. Friends may call at the funeral home, Saturday, 9:00am to 11:30am. Interment will be at Most Holy Redeemer Cemetery in Niskayuna. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made in memory of Mrs. Sose Gjonaj to St. Peter's Cardiac & Vascular Center, 315 South Manning Blvd., Albany, NY 12208.

Pine Bush plans summer activities

The Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center has the following programs planned.

• Whimsical Wildflower Walk

Saturday June 11, 10:30 a.m. to noon

Come walk with us to explore and identify the early summer flowers of the Albany Pine Bush. We will be hiking 1 mile over rolling topography. Please remember to wear sturdy walking shoes, long pants and bring drinking water. Feel free to stay after the program to explore the Discovery Center.

Location: Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center, 195 New Karner Road

Fee: $3 per person/$5 per family/Children under 5 yrs free. Registration is required.

• Discover the Pine Bush

Sunday June 12, 1 to 2 p.m.

An extraordinary journey into the Albany Pine Bush, the best remaining example in the world of an inland pine barrens. Experts will guide you through this one mile hike over rolling sand dunes where you will discover Pine Bush natural history, seasonal surprises and transformations. Please remember to wear sturdy walking shoes, long pants and bring drinking water.

Location: Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center, 195 New Karner Road

Fee: $3 per person/$5 per family/Children under 5 yrs free. Registration is required.

• Almost Summer Solstice Sunset Hike

Friday June 17, 2011 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Enjoy the longest day of the year, watch the sun set and moon rise while hiking the Albany Pine Bush preserve. We will explore several habitats, seasonal changes, while hiking 2.0 miles over rolling topography. Please remember to wear sturdy walking shoes, long pants and bring drinking water.

Location: Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center, 195 New Karner Road

Fee: $3 per person/$5 per family/Children under 5 yrs free. Registration is required.

• Bringing It Back- Restoration Hike

Saturday, June 18, 10:30 a.m. to noon

Come witness the transformation of the Pine Bush. Through habitat management, the Albany Pine Bush Preserve Commission is restoring the Pine Bush to an open pine barrens. Join us for a hike along the trails and learn how the Commission is bringing this globally rare community back. We will be hiking approximately 2 miles over moderate terrain. Please remember to wear sturdy walking shoes, long pants and bring drinking water.

Location: Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center, 195 New Karner Road

Fee: $3 per person/$5 per family/Children under 5 yrs free. Registration is required.

• Discovery Hike

Sunday June 19, 2 to 4 p.m.

Join us on a two-hour journey through the preserve. Each program will explore a different part of the preserve highlighting its unique ecology, history and management along the way. We will meet on the 3rd Sunday of the month. There's sure to be something new each week! Program will run "rain or shine", please be prepared for the weather and dress appropriately.

Location: Karner Barrens West (trailhead #1)

Big hearts, green thumbs

St. Thomas the Apostle School shows their big hearts and green thumbs during their trip to the Greene County Community Garden. Seventh grade students and their third grade buddies planted 185 marigold, pepper, squash, kale and bean plants in the Community Garden this week. The plants were grown by students in kindergarten through fifth grade. The harvest from the school's plot which will be maintained by students and their families throughout the summer will be donated to the local food pantry.

fewer preservatives; less or no butter, cream and salt; and sensible, well-presented meals that seniors will take a liking to.

He showed off some of his menu items at a demonstration for Beverwyck residents on Thursday, June 2, and if the audience reaction was any indicator, his meals will be a hit. He even met up with a few residents afterward to compare recipes and canning techniques.

In all the new dishes, the emphasis will be placed on using in-season and, if possible, locally-produced ingredients. These are healthier and more flavorful, and because the portions are a bit smaller on these dishes the company basically breaks even while using a higher quality ingredient. Chefs will use vegetable stocks in a lot of the dishes, which will be produced in-kitchen daily.

"This generation understands and is used to what happens in the garden," Neff said. "They know that they need better ingredients that don't promote having illness."

The Flavors 450 dishes are already being introduced in Beverwyck dining rooms, but even when fully rolled out residents will still always be able to choose to have something off the regular menu.

Chef Neff definitely made a few converts with a spring vegetable risotto he cooked up on Thursday, though. His recipes also allow for plenty of changes Cunningham. Messina said he would "absolutely" primary for the Independence line. He did so in 2009 and could not take the line from Cunningham, but a protracted legal battle was fought in the courts.

Messina had strong words for his own party.

"I have served the people of Bethlehem well, and acted independently for all people. And to my way of thinking, the Independence Party should have supported their Independence Party member and the current supervisor. ... I earned their support. Once again, they have show that they are controlled by the [town Democratic Committee Chairman Matthew] Clyne political machine, and that's too bad for Bethlehem," he said.

Albany County Independence Party Chairman Paul Caputo said it was in part Messina's past performance in primaries that led the executive committee to endorse Kotary (who has found the Independence Party's support in his other runs for office).

"Quite honestly, if you look at the last two primaries in our party. ... Sam lost nearly 2-to-1," Caputo said. "That gives a very clear message to our executive committee that our members don't favor what Sam is doing. ... Just because a person is a member of our party does not mean he's the best man for the job."

The Working Families Party has yet to make an endorsement.

county, which owns the land, agreed to participate in the partnership.

There's only some limited work to be done before the trail can be brought up to standards for mountain bike use, and advocates of the project hope it's only a matter of time before more of the trail can be opened.

"I'm really excited that we can open this section so our community can enjoy this," said County Legislator Thomas Cotrofeld, who has the newly opened section of trail running through his district. "I look forward to when the whole 9.1 miles of the trail can be opened."

A year ago, the prospects were not so good for anyone who dreamed of legally walking the trail. The county completed the purchase of the corridor from Canadian Pacific Railway in early 2010, but funding the completion of the trail would prove to be a much heavier lift with nearly $8 million of work needed at last estimate.

The county has $2.4 million of federal money promised so far, but lining up other grants has proven difficult. The county wants to pave the entire path and repair or replace eight bridges that cross roads and rivers along the route. The county also wants to do this without any cost to the taxpayer and all in one project, which would save on construction costs.

County Executive Michael Breslin said today the prospects for funding are still a long way off.

"We don't have any specific outlook," he said. "Until we get these bridges addressed, this is what it is."

Some at the ribbon cutting were pleased that the public and private sectors were able to coordinate relatively quickly on this effort. Though the rail trail effort has been at least conceptually active for over 15 years, it took only months to get the partial opening set up. Now, the public can finally enjoy some benefit of the purchase.

"We've got about two miles of a beautiful stretch of path that I've walked, and it's a pleasure," said Bethlehem Supervisor Sam Messina. "When we can work with partners in government like this to get going, there's no end to what we can do."

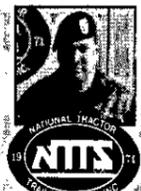

A public celebration commemorating the opening of the trail was held Saturday, June 4, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. where the trail crosses Adams Street, off Kenwood Avenue in Delmar.

department, screaming an obscenity at a coworker, throwing objects and other offenses.

Efforts to reach Kerr for this story were unsuccessful.

Eric Kerr is the son of James Kerr, a sergeant in the Bethlehem Police Department, former chief of the Delmar Fire Department and current president of the Bethlehem Firefighters Association. Kerr also works part time as an Albany County EMT (a representative said he has no ongoing disciplinary actions there).

Personnel files, including disciplinary records, are generally not available under the state's Freedom of Information Law, but sources said Kerr has accumulated many disciplinary charges during his few years in the department and has had more than one "last chance."

In April of 2010, Kerr was arrested by Bethlehem police on charges he pointed a handgun at an ex-girlfriend during a domestic dispute. The charges were later dropped. The Albany County District Attorney's office stated it was "unable to satisfy the burden of proof without the testimony of witnesses in the case." A source close to the case said it was because the alleged victim would not testify against Kerr, who was on paid suspension for more than seven months while the case was ongoing.

Now Kerr, who is referred to as "Teflon Kerr" by some dispatchers for his apparent ability to skirt disciplinary actions, is set to return to work in the coming days after completing his 30-day suspension and anger management classes. Several of his coworkers said he's unfit to be working and that they're afraid to be in the same room with him.

"He's out of control, he's really angry, and he doesn't see anything wrong with it," one police dispatcher said.

Town employees said concerns have been taken to Police Department administration, to the dispatchers union and to Town Hall, but little if anything has been done to address them.

Dispatchers said it was made clear the union is supporting Kerr and that union leadership shunned complaints.

"The town is supposed to protect [the complainants], and the union is protecting Eric," one dispatcher was reportedly told.

As the last day of Kerr's suspension approached, records show letters were written to the town's Human Resources Department, to the Town Board and to the supervisor, saying questions about the suspension were not being answered by police administration.

A meeting was scheduled for May 19 with Human Resources Director Mary Tremblay-Glassman, Police Chief Louis Corsi and other members of the Police Department. Members of the telecommunications department said Corsi grew angry with the complaining dispatchers for bringing the matter outside the department.

Corsi denied this, and said the meeting doesn't ring a bell.

"I have no idea what you're talking about. I'm in meetings all the time," he told The Spotlight on Monday, June 6.

"We don't do business that way," he continued, adding that labor counsel would be the lead on any such talks.

Town representatives, including Corsi, declined to discuss Kerr's employment in any but the broadest of terms. Town Supervisor Sam Messina said he's aware of Kerr's suspension but declined to discuss specifics of the town's response because it's a personnel matter and thus confidential.

"I can't talk any more about an internal matter like that," he said. "We are aware of their concerns, there's been a meeting held with the telecommunicators [dispatchers], and we are doing everything necessary and appropriate for our employees."

Messina said he was not at the aforementioned meeting.

Some in town employment don't want to work with Kerr again, especially in close quarters.

"He's going to come back and he's going to be angry," said one employee. "He's going to have a chip on his shoulder."

"In his mind, he's won," said another. "When he comes back, what is he going to do?"

The issue was thrust into the public eye on Monday, May 30, when embattled police officer Christopher Hughes placed signs along the route of the Memorial Day Parade alleging violence in the dispatcher's office. Days later, he protested on the lawn of Town Hall with more signs.

Town police and code enforcement officers took the signs down. Town Attorney James Potter said the town's zoning code prohibits signs from being placed on town property, with limited exceptions.

"He has a right to carry a sign in protest... but he does not have a right to place signs on town property," Potter said.

Hughes said he acted on behalf of dispatchers.

"This isn't about me," he said. "This is about those poor dispatchers and what they have to put up with."

Hughes has been the subject of controversy in Bethlehem after blowing the whistle on a racial slur used by Corsi, being placed on disability leave from the force and then filing a lawsuit against the town and police department for full reinstatement, a clean disciplinary record and compensation for damages.

WIDNENY plans networking event

Women In Development of Northeastern New York will hold a networking program at Wolfert's Roost Country Club, 120 Van Rensselaer Blvd., Albany, on Wednesday, June 15.

"Embracing Technology: 4 Easy Steps to Engage Donors and Enhance Prospect Research" will feature speaker Kristina Pelly, account executive in the eTapestry Division of Blackbaud. Registration and networking starts at 7:30 a.m., with the program running from 8 to 10:30 a.m., followed by WIDNENY's annual meeting and election of officers.

Cost is $20 for WIDNENY members and $35 for non-members; late registrations will be assessed a $5 fee.

WIDNENY is an association of women in the fields of development, advancement and related professions. Pelly works with not-for-profit organizations in the Capital Region by helping them to evaluate fundraising goals and challenges. She also will discuss how not-for-profits can engage their existing donor bases by using technology to enhance traditional fundraising efforts.

Neighbors for Peace sponsor presentations

• Peak Oil Presentation by Sandy Steubing and Dave Hochfelder, Thursday, June 16, 7-8:30 p.m., Bethlehem

Scouts helping out

Letters pay off

On Thursday, May 26, the C.A. Bouton High School Chapter of the National Honor Society presented St. Jude Children's Research Hospital with a check for $11,725.44. The money raised was a result of the "Team Up for St. Jude" letter writing campaign hosted on March 18. The campaign asked students to come to school with the addresses of 25 friends and relatives to write to and explain the work of St. Jude's Hospital as well as request donations. More than 2,659 letters were written and sent during the campaign.

RCS bus driver among 10 honored by AAA

On Tuesday, May 31, AAA Hudson Valley recognized 10 dedicated school bus drivers from local area school districts with its annual Safe School Bus Driver Award.

Laura Prividera, AAA Hudson Valley traffic safety administrator and child passenger safety technician, and Michael Sweeney, traffic safety educator and child passenger safety technician, coordinated the nominations and awards ceremony. "We all know how much patience it takes to be a school bus driver. The safety record of school bus pupil transportation is beyond admirable," Prividera said.

The 2010/2011 School Bus Awards recipients are as follows:

- Dan Patton Brunswick Central Schools
- Becky Davis East Greenbush Central Schools
- Jeffrey Rauf Greenville Central Schools
- Audrey Nerney New Lebanon Schools
- Ronald Pettis North Colonie Schools
- Richard Shaffer Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Schools
- Paul Mero Schodack Schools
- Myron Kniskern South Colonie Schools
- Kathy Bonnier Stillwater Schools
- Louise Mirra Stillwater Schools

Each Safe School Bus Driver Award recipient received a plaque and a one year free membership at AAA Hudson Valley.

with a throw of 127 feet.

Bethlehem's Jackie Kearney was the pentathlon champion with 2,979 points. Kearney won three of the five events – the 100-meter hurdles, the long jump and the 800-meter run.

Four area athletes had top-three finishes in girls Division 2 events. Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk's Arnelle Thomas placed second in the 100-meter dash with a time of 12.74 seconds, while teammate Leann VanHoesen finished third in the shot put with a throw of 34 feet, 6.75 inches. Voorheesville's Caitlin Ableseth was second in the 400-meter dash with a time of 1:00.03, and Schalmont's Isabella Borini took second place in the high jump by clearing the bar at 5 feet.

On the boys' side, Shaker and Colonie each had multiple winners in Division 1 events.

Nazim Roberts-Smith and Giancarlo Sainato led Colonie by winning individual events and teaming up with Frederick Freeman and Tommy Osipitan to finish first in the 1,600-meter relay with a time of 3:24.06.

Roberts-Smith out-kicked Shen's James Marra to win the 400-meter dash with a time of 50.63 seconds. Marra was second with a time of 51.28 seconds, and Ballston Spa's Philip Michael Williams finished third with a time of 51.58 seconds.

Sainato breezed to a 1.4-second victory over Bethlehem's Matt Crawford in the 800-meter race. Sainato finished with a time of 1:55.69, while Crawford finished with a time of 1:57.09.

Shaker's Christian Delago held off Saratoga's Sam Place to win the 1,600-meter race with a time of 4:21.10, and then he joined Mike Libruk, David Marthy and Reuben Feinman to help the Blue Bison's 3,200-meter relay team take first place with a time of 7:49.06.

BH-BL's Otis Ubriaco denied Libruk a chance to be a multi-event winner. Ubriaco won the 3,200-meter race with a time of 9:26.85, while Libruk finished second with a time of 9:37.57.

Saratoga's Kyle Wegner finished first in the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a time of 9:32.98, while Ballston Spa's Jermaine Hammond claimed the pentathlon title with 2,986 points. The Shen 400-meter relay team of Albert Daggs, Jared Allen, Derek Boland and Marcelino Christie took first place with a time of 43.77 seconds, 0.17 seconds ahead of runner-up BH-BL and 0.2 seconds ahead of third-place Shaker.

Colonie's Jayson Gayle was the lone area Division 1 male athlete to win a field event. Gayle took first place in the long jump with a leap of 21 feet, 7 inches.

Voorheesville's Vinny Saccocio and Schalmont's Devon Willis each won Sectional titles in Division 2. Saccocio finished first in the pole vault by clearing the bar at 12 feet, 9 inches, while Willis claimed the triple jump title with a distance of 42 feet, 11.25 inches. Willis also placed third in the long jump with a leap of 19 feet, 10.25 inches.

Voorheesville's Keegan Nally and Tim Stewart had second-place finishes at Sectionals. Nally was the runner-up in the 400-meter dash with a time of 51.77 seconds, and Stewart placed second in the high jump after it took him more attempts to clear the bar at 6 feet than Sectional champion Zach Vosburgh of Catskill.

Schenectady Christian's Sam Taft was second in the 110-meter high hurdles and third in the high jump, while teammate Jake Ury was the runner-up in the 1,600-meter race.

Schamont's Stephen Brucker (400-meter intermediate hurdles) and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk's Mike Mowbray (3,000-meter steeplechase) also placed second at Sectionals.

All individual winners from last Friday's Sectional meet qualified for this weekend's state meet at Caledonia-Mumford High School in western New York.

point]," said Sullivan.

Shen kept Bethlehem off the scoreboard in the fifth and sixth innings, but it couldn't get another rally going against Sullivan.

"We've been hitting so well for the last few games that we thought we'd get that Shaker inning where we'd score three or four runs, but it didn't happen," said D'Amboise.

The victory capped a long journey for Bethlehem's senior class - Rice, Mary Beth Dombrowski and Meghan Burns - from a middle-of-the-pack Suburban Council team to Sectional champions. The Lady Eagles reached last year's Class AA final before losing to Colonie - a team that they defeated 3-1 in last Wednesday's semifinal game to advance to the championship game.

"We had to beat the best to be the best," said Gentile. "We had to go through the top two twams in Colonie and Shen to do it."

Sullivan was the one who put Bethlehem over the top, though. She allowed only two runs and nine hits between the semifinal and championship games to guide the Lady Eagles to the Sectional title.

"This team didn't finish it last year, so it was fun for me to come in and help them finish it this year," said Sullivan.

team fell behind 9-0 on its way to a 20-3 loss to the Huskers at the University at Albany, while the girls team couldn't recover from a 13-5 halftime deficit in an 18-8 loss to Yorktown at Fox Lane High School.

Still, those one-sided losses shouldn't supercede the accomplishments BH-BL made on the lacrosse field this year. The boys and girls teams have been at the varsity level for only a handful of years (four for the boys, five for the girls), and though there is little doubt that they both benefited from Niskayuna's move from Class B to Class A, they still had to play well in the Sectional finals to win their first titles.

Hopefully, the lessons that both BH-BL teams learned in their regional losses to Yorktown will help them in the future.

• Finally, the Albany Dutchmen are starting their third season this weekend, and they could use your support.

The Dutchmen have made some moves that should help them. For one, they are now part of the Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League - an offshoot of Perfect Game USA, which bills itself as the world's largest baseball scouting service. That move seems to have already paid off, as the Dutchmen roster is now loaded with primarily NCAA Division I talent. That is opposed to the past two years in the New York Collegiate Baseball League when the Dutchmen had to fill some roster spots with Division II and Division III talent.

Another move that should help the Dutchmen is a change of home venues. Instead of playing at aging Bleecker Stadium in midtown Albany, they will be playing at the relatively new Bob Bellizzi Field at the end of Interstate 787. The neighborhood around Bellizzi Field should be more welcoming to suburban families who were turned off by the neighborhood around Bleecker Stadium, and the look of the new facility is more professional than the old facility.

The Dutchmen's first home game is Friday against Mohawk Valley.

Eagles soar to title

Sullivan keeps Shen batters off balance

By ROB JONAS

jonasr@spotlightnews.com

Inwardly, Meagan Sullivan was a bundle of nerves.

Outwardly, the freshman was the cool customer that shut down a hot-hitting Shenendehowa softball team and delivered Bethlehem its first Section II title since 1978.

Sullivan limited Shen to five hits, and Cassie Smith added three hits to lead third-seeded Bethlehem to a 2-1 victory over No. 1 Shen in last Friday's Class AA Sectional final at Clifton Common.

"I don't like showing nerves - I never do," said Sullivan. "But inside, I was definitely a mess."

"We are so proud of what Sully has done for us," said Bethlehem coach Karen Gentile. "She's stepped right in and taken the leadership role inside that [pitcher's] circle, and the other kids have been very supportive of her in the field."

Shen (19-4) entered the championship game off a 12-hit performance in a 9-2 semifinal victory over Shaker two days earlier, but Sullivan kept the Plainswomen off balance with her collection of off-speed pitches. Shen hit the ball out of the infield only once through the first four innings.

"That's always something that I've worked on," said Sullivan. "I've tried to keep up with it because there are some good hitting teams out there. Shen is a very good hitting team."

"It just seemed like the low balls that we didn't swing at were called strikes, and then when she didn't throw low, we got nervous at the plate," said Shen coach Dan D'Amboise. "We had a lot of half swings today."

Meanwhile, Bethlehem's hitters were in fine shape early on against Shen starter Cameron Sprague. Smith delivered a long double in the bottom of the second inning to drive in Mikayla Shade for the game's first run. Then in the fourth inning, Morgan Mazone hit a seeing-eye single between shortstop and third base to bring in Shade to give the Lady Eagles (19-5) a 2-0 lead.

Still, Gentile was uneasy about her team's two-run advantage.

"You can never have enough runs, and we left a couple of players on base," said Gentile. "One [insurance run] is never enough."

Shen carved into that lead in the top of the fifth inning. Kate Traver hit a leadoff double and scored on Lea Cook's one-out double to make the score 2-1.

Bethlehem's defense came to Sullivan's rescue, though. Right fielder McKenzie Pezze caught Caitlin Lawson's fly ball, and first baseman Kat Rice fielded a slow roller from Melissa Morgan to end Shen's rally.

"I just wanted to get out of that inning because we still had the lead [at that

Junior wins two events

Diamente jumps to state meet for Guilderland

Guilderland's Cadi Diamente was a double winner at last Friday's Section II Track and Field Championships in Johnstown.

Diamente won the Division 1 (large school) girls high jump title by clearing the bar at 5 feet, 2 inches, and she finished first in the triple jump with a distance of 37 feet, 10.5 inches.

Colonie's Kyle Plante, Saratoga's Ellery Bianco and Shenendehowa's Lizzie Predmore each won an individual event and ran on a first-place relay team at the Sectional meet, which served as the qualifier for this weekend's state meet.

Plante breezed to the 400-meter dash title with a time of 55.92 seconds, and she ran the lead leg on Colonie's first-place 1,600-meter relay team. Plante, Kristina Lenge, Uwa Omorogbe and Andrea Guidarelli finished with a time of 3:55.31, more than 10 seconds ahead of runner-up Saratoga.

Bianco won the 200-meter dash with a time of 25.37 seconds and joined Kelly Fredette, Rachel Shannon and Dionna Soto on Saratoga's winning 400-meter relay team. The Blue Streaks sprinted to a time of 49.25 seconds, more than one second ahead of second-place Colonie.

Predmore won the 1,500-meter race with a time of 4:37.11 and teamed up with Sam Crisafulli, Gina Stalica and Kristen Jordan to lead Shen to a victory in the 3,200-meter relay. The Plainswomen finished with a time of 9:08.74, more than four seconds ahead of runner-up Saratoga.

Saratoga's Amanda Borroughs and Keelin Hollowood, Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake's Dani Martino, Colonie's Emilia Sainato and Shaker's Kristen Hayes each won individual races at Sectionals.

Borroughs edged Ballston Spa's Demi Feder for the 800-meter title. Borroughs finished with a time of 2:13.98, while Feder crossed the finish line with a time of 2:14.15.

Hollowood took first place in the 2,000-meter steeplechase with a time of 6:56.38, while Martino won the 3,000-meter race with a time of 9:54.80. Sainato finished first in the 100-meter high hurdles with a time of 14.56 seconds, and Hayes earned a Sectional title in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles with a time of 1:05.69.

Shen's Maddesen Weekes and Sam Kosa each won individual field events, as did Shaker's Emily VanDenburgh and Colonie's Tehresa Coles.

Weekes won the pole vault by clearing the bar at 11 feet, 6 inches, and Kosa claimed the shot put title with a throw of 41 feet, 8 inches. VanDenburgh - who also placed third in the 100- and 200-meter dashes - earned the long jump title with a leap of 18 feet, 1.25 inches, and Coles finished first in the discus

An old adage holds true in Sectional finals

Observations from a week of Section II and regional playoff action ...

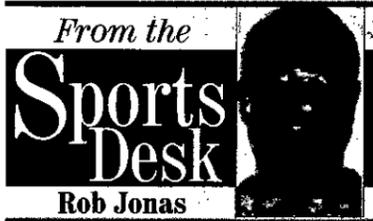

• A good offense wins games, but good pitching and good defense wins championships.

That adage was proven over and over again in Sectional baseball and softball title games last week.

All some teams needed was a strong pitcher. Shaker's Jeff Hoffman limited Colonie to three hits and struck out nine to lead the Blue Bison past the Garnet Raiders 6-0 in last Thursday's Class AA baseball final.

Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake's Corey Parks also came up big. The senior shut out Scotia-Glenville over four innings to help the Spartans post a come-from-behind 4-3 victory in last Wednesday's Class A baseball championship game. This after Scotia-Glenville's Dan Saccocio shut down BH-BL through six innings before giving up the tying run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Other times, the pitchers relied on their defenses to see them through. Shenendehowa made contact with Meagan Sullivan's pitches, but Bethlehem played nearly flawless defense to help the Lady Eagles defeat the Plainswomen 2-1 in last Friday's Class AA softball final.

Loudonville Christian's defense struggled early on against Germantown in last Wednesday's Class D baseball title game, but the Eagles played well over the last four innings in an 11-3 victory. It also didn't hurt that Loudonville Christian pounded out 16 hits. But in truth, the Eagles only needed Alex MaLossi's game-changing grand slam in the bottom of the fourth inning (which gave them a 6-3 lead) to defeat their Central Hudson Valley League rivals.

The Saratoga Central Catholic baseball team embodied the complete package, though. The Saints received a dominating pitching performance from Dylan Anderson, played near-perfect defense and put together two long rallies to down Cairo-Durham 11-1 in last Thursday's Class B championship game.

The challenge for all five of those teams was to replicate those performances in regional play at the start of this week. Of the five, Saratoga Catholic had the advantage of previous regional-level experience, having gotten beyond Section II play each of the past two years.

That's not to say teams with no prior state-level playoff experience can't be successful. After all, there is another adage associated with sports in general - on any given day, one team can beat another team. It all depends on how well the teams play.

• On a side note, it was interesting to see how the Loudonville Christian baseball team chose to celebrate its first Sectional title.

Rather than mob each other following the 11-3 victory over Germantown, the Eagles simply walked off the field shaking hands and slapping each other on the back. It was quiet and dignified.

Asked why his team chose a low-key celebration, Loudonville Christian coach Tim Phelps said that it was to show respect to Germantown.

"They're our league rivals, and we didn't want to show them up," said Phelps.

No one would have faulted the Eagles if they had mobbed each other in unbridled joy, but the fact that they chose to be dignified showed a level of maturity that you don't often see at any level of sports.

• BH-BL's boys and girls lacrosse teams discovered how much more development they will have to do in order to approach the level of the other top teams in the state.

BH-BL reached the regional level for the first time before running into a buzzsaw in last Saturday's state Class B playoffs against Yorktown. The boys
