SCHENECTADY — Students from 16 schools participated in the inaugural Capital Region High School Musical Theatre Awards at Proctors on Saturday, May 20. Cast members from individual schools performed selections from 'Best Musical' nominees, and came together for opening and closing numbers from "Finding Neverland" and "The Wiz."

Bethlehem Central High School's production of "Wizard of Oz" earned a Jimmy Award at the Capital Region High School Musical Theatre Awards for Best Student Orchestra.

The National High School Musical Theatre Awards (NHSMTA) — also known as the "Jimmys," in honor of theatre owner and producer James M. Nederlander — was established in 2009 "to elevate the importance of theater arts education in schools and reward excellence in student performance." The program reaches more than 50,000 students annually who participate in high school musical theater competitions sponsored by professional theaters throughout the country. Regional winners in the Best Actor and Best Actress categories have the opportunity to compete nationally and perform at the awards ceremony on Broadway.

Styled after the Tony Awards, and co-presented by Proctors and the Times Union, the May 20 program was studded with excerpts of some of the winning performances, medleys, dancing and ensemble numbers featuring students from all 16 schools. In between, awards were announced and talent was recognized, onstage and backstage. Niskayuna and Voorheesville took home the most awards, with three each, and Voorheesville and Queensbury will have the honor of being represented at the

BCSD to review tentative Clarksville agreement

By ALI HIBBS
hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — During its next meeting on June 7, the Bethlehem Central School District Board of Education will review a possible inter-municipal lease/purchase agreement with the Albany County Sheriff's Office, the current tenant at Clarksville Elementary School. The meeting will take place in the high school's Library Media Center (LMC) beginning at 7 p.m.

Clarksville Elementary School was closed by the district in 2011 due to declining enrollment and a $4 million budget gap, and its K-5 students were transferred to Eagle and Slingerlands elementary schools.

The Sheriff's Office has occupied the space since 2012 and has expressed interest in purchasing the property, according to district officials. Based on enrollment trends and projections compiled by the Capital District Regional Planning Commission, the school district said that it does not foresee a need to re-open the school.

"District administrators and the Sheriff's Office have put together a tentative framework that would extend the Sheriff's lease for three years, through 2020, and modify it to be a lease-purchase agreement, with a purchase price of $325,000," said BCSD Superintendent Jody Monroe.

Monroe said the framework deal would provide the school district with a "right of first refusal," giving the school district the option of purchasing the property from the Sheriff's Office should the department seek to sell it at a later date. It would also preserve the school's history as much as possible by maintaining the Clarksville Peace Pole, the building sign, the school's bronze plaque and by working with the school district to digitally preserve the school's existing artwork.

"In March, the Bethlehem Central Board of Education held a community meeting to discuss a possible sale of Clarksville Elementary School to the Albany County Sheriff's Office," said Monroe. "At that meeting, the prevailing sentiment from those who live in the area was that while the school is greatly missed, the Sheriff's Office has been a welcome addition to Clarksville."

At a March 8 public meeting to discuss Clarksville's future, Sheriff Craig Apple talked about his vision for the building, which would include turning more than half into a fully functioning police station and seeking grant funding to use the rest as a community and outreach center that could be used to host youth sports programs. He also expressed interest in bringing county services closer to the hill towns in the hopes that they will be more likely to access those services.

"We've been here for five years," said Apple, who will also attend the June 7 meeting to answer residents' questions. "We've always tried to be good neighbors."

Several residents at the March meeting doubted the accuracy of the enrollment projections used by the district and voiced concern that the classrooms may be needed sooner than currently thought. "Are you guys going to build another school," asked one. "Are you going to build another school out in Clarksville?"

Others were concerned about things like potentially increased noise and changes to the property, and many were clearly still upset that the school had been closed at all, taking issue with the way the 2011 decision was handled by the Board. A host of complaints that Clarksville children have been subjected to long bus rides in some cases resulted in the addition, in the 2017-18 school budget, of two new bus routes to Clarksville in the 2017-18 school budget. Otherwise, there has been no serious discussion of re-opening the building as a school in the foreseeable future.

"We have a vision," Apple said. "But this is far from a done deal."

Residents who have questions in advance of the June 7 meeting are encouraged to reach out to Superintendent Monroe by email at jmonroe@bcsd.neric.org.

TOWN GOVERNMENT

Three micro-businesses selected for grant program

Bethlehem awards over $50K to CrossFit gym, residential construction firm and beauty salon

By ALI HIBBS
hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — In December 2016, the Town received $200,000 from New York state Office of Homes and Community Renewal to establish a microenterprise grant program virtually identical to one established in 2014. Under the program, the town may award no less than $5,000 and no more than $35,000 to small businesses, “to support and foster the development of microbusinesses by providing grants in conjunction with capacity building and entrepreneurial assistance.”

The first group of grant applications were reviewed by members of the Microenterprise Grant Application Review Committee during its first meeting on May 15, after which they recommended three businesses for grant funding. On Wednesday, May 24, the town board unanimously approved their recommendations and awarded the first $58,600 to two businesses in Delmar and one in Glenmont.

CrossFit Spur, at 35 Hamilton Lane in Glenmont, was awarded $28,000 to purchase equipment and fixtures.

CrossFit Spur is a functional fitness facility that focuses on providing a safe and effective means of improving fitness for all ages and ability levels. As membership has expanded so has the need for new programs catered to more specialized populations. Grant funds will be used to purchase additional equipment that will allow CrossFit Spur to extend programs to breast cancer patients/survivors, law enforcement officers, Olympic Weightlifting athletes and youth.

MacFee Home Services, at 22 Bedell Avenue in Delmar, received a $15,000 grant to purchase machinery and equipment. The start-up business specializes in all aspects of residential repair, remodeling, preservation and restoration work, including plumbing, electrical, painting, carpentry, refinishing and tile installation. The business model is such that MacFee Home Services would take on smaller projects that other general contractors would not accept. Grant funds will be used to purchase equipment and allow MacFee to create an assistant position to help with client on-site jobs.

Rain Hair Studio, at 266 Delaware Avenue in Delmar, was awarded $15,600 to purchase furniture, fixtures, equipment and inventory. The new full-service hair salon is currently located on Delaware Ave., and will be moving into a previously vacant storefront. Rain Hair Studio will offer hair, skin and nail services. The business will create five new jobs, including hairstylists, an esthetician and nail technicians.

Applications for the program are still being accepted and can be found on the town's website by following the link for the Department of Economic Development and Planning to its Economic Development/Business Resources page. According to Economic Development Coordinator Elizabeth Staubach, there are currently five applications under review and the Microenterprise Application Review Committee is expected to reconvene in mid-June to consider them.

Program guidelines define a microenterprise as “a commercial enterprise that has five or fewer employees, one or more of which is the principal and owns the enterprise at the time of application.” Eligible businesses must contribute at least 10 percent of the costs of the project and create one new job made available to persons from low- or moderate income families, or be owned by someone in that category. Additionally, a minimum of 50 percent of grant funds must be awarded to start-up businesses that have been in operation less than six months and businesses receiving grant funds are required participate in an Entrepreneurial Training Program.

Rail yard conversion under consideration

Transitioning Selkirk's 'hump yard' to flat-track could lead to downsizing at the CSX railyard

By ALI HIBBS
hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

SELKIRK — During a presentation to investors on Tuesday, May 23, CSX Chief Operating Officer Cindy Sanborn said that the likely conversion of a 'hump yard' at the Selkirk CSX rail yard is part of a larger effort to streamline and improve service times across the CSX network.

A hump yard is one that relies on gravity to switch rail cars among tracks in order to connect them with the correct train to reach their intended destinations. A different technique, called flat switching, is often more efficient and, ideally, can be handled by a single employee without requiring additional field personnel (although, as of April, a Conrail yard in New Jersey is the only flat switching yard in North America that employs true one-person remote-control operations, according to Progressive Railroading).

Since taking over as CEO of CSX in March, Hunter Harrison has been working on implementing 'precision scheduled railroading,' a system he used to turn Illinois Central, Canadian National, and Canadian Pacific into ultra-efficient and highly profitable railroads over the past three decades. Part of that implementation has involved a series of hump yard conversions, with at least five more likely to occur.

"This is part of a larger plan to make transit across the network faster," said Sanborn. She said the benefit of hump yards is their ability to handle density and compared them to airport hubs. "If there are not enough cars that want to go there to support the infrastructure needed to maintain and utilize the hump, then we simply don't need it," she said.

According to Sanborn's presentation, five CSX hump yards have already been transitioned; Selkirk and a yard in Birmingham, Ala. are currently classified as "being evaluated for potential transition to flat switching," and four more yards are under consideration. Sanborn said it was likely CSX would leave two or three hump yards in operation and is currently reviewing which would provide the greatest efficiency,

"We're moving at a very quick pace to make these conversions," Sanborn said. "But we want to do it right and make sure that we have all the components of the conversion laid out before we make the change."

Under Harrison, CSX has dramatically improved labor efficiency, cutting 1,000 management positions since February. What effect the yard transition will have on local employment is not clear but, according to a memo sent to member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Trainmen and reported by the Albany Times Union in May, union officials are not pleased.

Multiple attempts to reach the union's local chapter were unsuccessful.

No final decisions about Selkirk have been announced yet," said CSX spokesman Rob Doolittle on May 24. "CSX will share news about any changes that may occur with employees and other stakeholders who may be impacted when it is available."

Elsmere FD volunteer involved in fatal ambulance accident

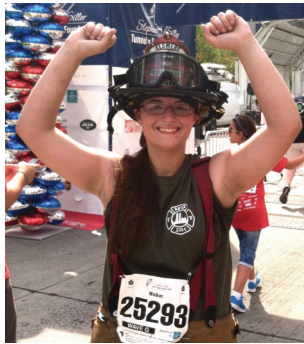

By JIM FRANCO
francoj@spotlightnews.com

DUANSEBURG — A Mohawk Ambulance went off Route 20 in Duaneburg on Wednesday, May 24, killing its passenger and sending both the driver and a technician to area hospitals.

The patient's name, according to many reports, is 64-year-old Chris Aernecke, of Sloansville. He was being transported home from the hospital by the ambulance.

The technician, 19-year-old Alyssa Bevilacqua-Schufelt, is a volunteer with the Elsmere Fire Department. She was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for treatment of non-life threatening injuries. The driver, 20-year-old Cody Bryans, was taken to Ellis Hospital.

Both were treated and have since been released

from their respective hospitals.

"Things are as good as can be expected," said Elsmere Chief Frank Wickham of Bevilacqua-Schufelt. "Emergency services are pretty tight-knit group and we are hoping for a speedy recovery."

She joined Elsmere in February 2014 through the Explorers Program, which is designed to get high school students involved with volunteer emergency services.

Tom Heffernan Sr.

Wickham said she was recently honored for her high level of participation. Not only the number of calls she answered, but she also completed the state Firefighter I course - the basic requirement to become a volunteer - and then opted to get certified in hazardous material contamination and as an emergency medical technician.

Her employment at Mohawk Ambulance was separate and distinct from her volunteer work at Elsmere.

"On behalf of Mohawk Ambulance Service and all of our employees, I would like to extend our heartfelt condolences to the family in this very difficult time," said James P. McPartlon III, president of the Schenectady-based Mohawk Ambulance Service. "We are working in full cooperation with law enforcement and

Town looks to control traffic at six new intersections

By ALI HIBBS
hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — A public hearing has been scheduled to discuss amending a chapter of town law to place ten new stop signs at six intersections, and one 'no stopping zone' sign near Bethlehem Central High School — all at the request of town residents.

Rather than passing a new local law for each intersection, Superintendent of Highways Brent Meredith said that he, Supervisor John Clarkson and Town Clerk Nanci Moquin felt it would be easier, administratively, to simply pass one local law. "It's easier to make a change one time if it's the same chapter," he said, noting that he would be adding another intersection and the new zone near the high school to the five intersections he had already outlined in a request to the town board to schedule the mandatory public hearing.

"In the five that were on the original memo," he said, "we did do a traffic study and then accepted the recommendations from the engineer that we do need some kind of stop control other than what's there now.

"In the other case," he said of the additional stop sign, "there's a new development on Jolley Road, adjacent to the Quail Hollow development. At the intersection of Jolley and Mallard [Road], there's currently no control there."

Meredith said residents requested a stop sign at Mallard to control traffic moving onto Jolley.

The 'no stopping zone' sign would be placed near the high school, at the intersection of Brockley Drive and Delaware Avenue, said Meredith. "The condition the police have observed is that there are numerous cars there during drop-off and pick-up times that basically stop short of that stop sign on Brockley and sit and wait." Residents, he said, have complained that they are unable to safely navigate the area during those times. By making that area a no stopping zone, he said, the Highway Department hopes to "alleviate some of those hazards."

The remaining nine stop signs would be placed at five intersections identified in Meredith's original memo:

- East and West on Berwick Road at Dumbarton Drive;
- North and South on Devon Road at Dumbarton Drive;
- North and South on Grafton Road at Harwick Drive;
- South on Grafton Road at Somerset Drive
- North on Grafton Road at Clover Leaf Lane, and
- South on Honeysuckle Way at Clover Leaf Lane

A public hearing is scheduled for 6 p.m., immediately preceding the June 14 Town Board meeting at Town Hall.

Counties explore joint facility

Organic waste digester would save money and landfill space

By ALI HIBBS
hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY – The Albany County Legislature will examine potential development of an organic waste digester facility with Saratoga County that would treat organic material and sewer sludge from water treatment plants and significantly reduce the need to incinerate, truck and landfill the material.

On Wednesday, May 17, the Albany County Water Purification District voted to move forward with the study and to hire a consultant. Two weeks earlier, on May 4, Saratoga Sewer District did the same.

On Monday, June 12, the Albany County Legislature is expected to vote on hiring Arcadis of Clifton Park to produce a feasibility study for the shared facility. The study would be funded by a $50,000 grant from the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority and $25,000 from each county.

Presently, Albany County incinerates its sludge and disposes the waste in the City of Albany Landfill. Saratoga County incinerated bio-solids until 2016 after it had been determined that its incinerators would require improvements to meet new emission guidelines, and currently hauls its leftover waste to a landfill. A regional Anaerobic Digestion facility could generate cost savings, practically eliminate the incineration process and save space at landfills at a time when the governor is working to remove organics from them, according to Albany County Legislature Majority Leader Frank Commisso, Sr. “This is an important regional project that could be a huge win for Albany and Saratoga counties, economically and environmentally,” Commisso said, noting that the two counties would share construction, operation and maintenance costs. “Saratoga County Sewer District is excited for the possibility of this type of facility,” said Saratoga County Sewer Executive Director Dan Rourke. “It could give us the ability to be involved in regional measures to reduce the cost of biosolids processing, and be able to aid in the reduction of organics in New York’s landfills. Our goal is to reduce costs to the ratepayers and this study will reveal if that is a real possibility. As the Board of Supervisor’s have already approved the funding of the study, our next step will be assisting the engineering firm in any way we can to work toward completion, and then analyze the results.”

Sewer district commissioners from Albany and Saratoga counties agreed to award Arcadis the job after requesting public proposals. The study would evaluate existing infrastructure and data at the three treatment plants, identify design criteria and funding sources, and help prepare a master plan and project schedule.

Currently, Albany County owns and operates two wastewater treatment facilities, designated North and South, which provide secondary treatment to the wastewater of eight communities in Albany County.

The North Plant, which treats wastes originating from a portion of the cities of Albany, Cohoes, and Watervliet, parts of the towns of Colonie and Guilderland and the villages of Colonie, Menands and Green Island, is located in Menands and is designed to treat an average daily flow of 35 Million Gallons Daily (MGD.)

The South Plant, which treats wastes for the City of Albany as well as the entire Port of Albany, is located in the Port of Albany and is designed to treat an average daily flow of 19 MGD, while it is permitted and effectively treats 29 MGD.

Albany County officials evaluated installing an Anaerobic Digester facility at both water treatment plants last year, but determined the project would only provide an acceptable return if it was co-developed at the North Plant.

G'land falls to Colonie

COLONIE — It took nine innings for the No. 2 Lady Raiders to get by the No. 7 Guilderland Lady Dutch on Monday, May 22, in the Class AA quarterfinals.

With two outs in the bottom of the ninth, though, Madison Judge beat out a grounder between short and third for an infield hit. Sarah Baluch reached on an error and then Myaisha Kelly ripped a walk-off single up the middle for a 4-3 Colonie win.

Emily Kurtzner and Maria Tedisco split the pitching duties for Colonie giving up three runs — all in the fifth inning — on four hits while striking out 10 and not walking any.

Tedisco struck out the side in the top of the ninth and pitched four scoreless innings in relief.

Alyssa Burg and Amanda Smith teamed up on the mound for Guilderland giving up four runs, on 10 hits while striking out seven and walking three.

are in danger of losing your home. If you fail to respond to the summons and complaint in this foreclosure action, you may lose your home. Please read the summons and complaint carefully. You should immediately contact an attorney or your local legal aid office to obtain advice on how to protect yourself. SOURCES OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE. The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid, there are government agencies, and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with our lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by New York State Banking Department at 1-877-BankNYS or visit the Department's website at www.banking.state.ny.us FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services. Section 1303 NOTICE YOU ARE IN DANGER OF LOSING YOUR HOME If you do not respond to this summons and complaint by serving the copy of the answer on the attorney for the mortgage company who filed this foreclosure proceeding against you and filing the answer with the court, a default judgment may be entered and you may lose your home. Speak to an attorney or go to the court where your case is pending for further information on how to answer the summons and protect your property. Sending a payment to your mortgage company will not stop this foreclosure action. YOU MUST RESPOND BY SERVING A COPY OF THE ANSWER ON THE ATTORNEY FOR THE PLAINTIFF MORTGAGE COMPANY AND FILING AN ANSWER WITH THE COURT. COMMUNITY

Author Ann Leary to speak at BPL

Originally scheduled to speak in September, bestselling author Ann Leary, whose writing credits include "An Innocent, A Broad," "The Good House" and "Outtakes From a Marriage," will be stopping by the library on Sunday, June 4, at 2 p.m. to discuss her creative process and her latest book, "The Children."

Leary's novels have always had a certain New England sensibility to them, and "The Children" continues that tradition with the story of a wealthy but unconventional Connecticut family.

Leary's work has been translated into 18 languages, and she has written for the New York Times, Ploughshares, National Public Radio, Redbook and Real Simple among other publications. "The Good House" is currently in development for a feature film. She and her husband, Denis, live on a small farm in northwestern Connecticut.

Copies of "The Children" will be available for purchase at the event through Friends of Bethlehem Public Library. The author will also be signing copies following her talk. Because space is limited, this free event is first-come, first-admitted, and doors will open at 1:45 p.m. Leary's talk is a Writers and Friends program underwritten by Friends of Bethlehem Public Library.

Do you have a larger-than-life personality like Fancy Nancy? Then join us at the library for a very special Fancy Nancy Tea Party on Wednesday, June 7, at 10 a.m.! FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Have a safe summer

This time of year, everyone's thoughts are occupied with summer plans.

When to vacation? Where to visit? What to bring? Who to call to house sit? Where's the money coming from? And, if you haven't already scheduled time off from work, there's the thought over whether or not you'll be able to even get a week off over the next three months. There's also the worries about transporting kids to games. Your daughter's playing baseball, and some of her games conflict with your son's soccer games. Not to mention, there's dance, and Boy Scouts. Who can you carpool with and who else do you have to make arrangements with. Pick up your smartphone and take to Facebook. Maybe someone is looking for help, too.

Now, stop.

Hopefully you're not picking up that phone while driving. Please don't. Our papers have been full of automobile accidents the past several weeks. Though we can't speculate behind the cause of any of them at this point, we do know distracted driving is one of the leading causes of accidents today. Simply consuming our conscious thoughts with plans or daydreams for the summer is distracting enough that it could cause us to miss our turn, or a stop sign. Factor in a brief, "oh, it's a text," into our driving routine and you have a situation that will cause an accident.

It will cause an accident.

Maybe it hasn't happened to you, yet. Maybe it won't happen the next time. But, it will happen.

We at The Spotlight hope that all of our readers practice safe driving this summer, so that we all can get to the places we daydream about, whether that be the Cape or back home to our families. Our job to provide you the news reminds us all too well that accidents are never planned, and can happen to the best of people, at the worst of times.

If you care to share with us, and your fellow readers, your experience with distracted driving, please send a letter to the editor at 341 Delaware Ave., Delmar, NY 12054 or by email at halliseym@spotlightnews.com

Our papers have been full of automobile accidents the past several weeks. Though we can't speculate behind the cause of any of them at this point, we do know distracted driving is one of the leading causes of accidents today. Simply consuming our conscious thoughts with plans or daydreams for the summer is distracting enough that it could cause us to miss our turn, or a stop sign. Factor in a brief, "oh, it's a text," into our driving routine and you have a situation that will cause an accident.

WHAT HAPPENED IN 2011

First section of Albany County Rail Trail opened

DELMAR — The first section of the Albany County Helderberg-Hudson Rail Trail was opened on June 2, 2011, when local officials and open space advocates gathered to cut the ribbon on the first 1.9 miles of the trail — a section running through the Town of Bethlehem.

At the time, officials did not know what the future of the trail would hold, nor where they would find the money to complete all 9.1 miles of the route, which required the repair or replacement of eight bridges along its path.

"We don't have any specific outlook," said then-County Executive Michael Breslin. "Until we get these bridges addressed, this is what it is."

In 2011, the county had secured about $2.4 million in federal funding for the trail, about a million dollars short of currently estimated totals. The goal was to pave the entire path, including construction of an ADA accessible trail surface along 3.18 miles of the trail, safety improvements and deck repair/fence installation on several bridges.

The county initially purchased the nine-mile stretch of the old Delaware & Hudson Railway between the Port of Albany and Voorheesville for $700,000 from Canadian Pacific Railway in 2009, with a 2003 grant from the New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation of $350,000. Scenic Hudson, the Poughkeepsie-based non-profit land conservation organization, matched funds to complete the purchase.

The opening of the trail's first 1.9 miles was the result of a unique private-public partnership.

A year after the purchase, a group of volunteer trail advocates, anxious to take advantage of the new trail corridor, formed the Friends of the Rail Trail (FORT). The group circulated petitions and encouraged public officials to move the project forward. The same year, FORT became a committee of the Mohawk Hudson Land Conservancy (MHLC).

MHLC then entered into a unique agreement with Albany County and the Town of Bethlehem to lease the 1.9-mile portion of the trail, between the Veterans Memorial Park in Delmar and the Firefighters Park in Slingerlands, assuming the cost of liability insurance. Volunteers and crews from the Town of Bethlehem worked to prepare and clean-up the overgrown route for pedestrian use, and MHLC created the volunteer "Trail Ambassador" program to help patrol and maintain the section of trail under lease to the Conservancy. The success of the effort led to leases on additional sections of the path that eventually reached five miles to the terminus in the Village of Voorheesville.

"We know people have been walking [the trail], but they can now do it legally and not feel guilty about it," said Jill Knapp, executive director of MHLC in 2011. "I just hope it gets a lot of use and everyone enjoys the effort that's been put into this."

Six years later, in 2017, the Rail Trail is expected to be complete before the end of the year, after the final section between Slingerlands and Voorheesville is paved. It has become a hugely popular destination for bicyclists, runners, walkers, and other lovers of nature.

Local Special Olympians strive for fun

The automatic doors opened at the entrance to the Bethlehem YMCA, letting out a gentle blast of warm air to welcome athletes from across the region who were looking to escape the cold wind and snow.

They made their way to the indoor running track. Some bolted up the stairs, others wheeled into the elevator. For 15 people ranging in age from 12 to 56, they were not coming to the Y for just a simple workout; they had their eyes on a summer weekend when the state Special Olympics tournament comes to Siena College, Saturday, June 16 to Sunday, June 18.

Now, fast forward to a mild May evening at the Bethlehem High School track. The Special Olympics athletes have moved outside into the sunshine and warmth to continue their many weeks of training. Their work ethic is amazing and their smiles are contagious.

Bethlehem YMCA member Barry O'Keefe has been head coach of the Thunderbolts Special Olympics team for 10 years. After the Special Olympics track season moves through the local, regional, and finally the state meet at Siena, he will coach the local Special Olympics softball team.

"We have a great coaching staff and family participation," O'Keefe said. "We've got folks that come from home, some live in community residences, and some folks that live independently on their own and we are looking for more participants."

started Special Olympics track nine years ago. His mother, Bonnie Hildenbrand of Fuera Bush, said: "I think it makes him feel great. I enjoy being here with him and working with him. He loves it. He interacts with the other folks and it's great for him to get to know other people."

Assistant Coach Jeff Touchette of Albany said the athletes, coaches and families are a tight-knit group. "It is inspiring," Jeff said. "Everybody comes together and has each other's back. Some of the older guys show the young kids what it means to compete. It's good for them to get this kind of social interaction. It's great to see them show up and give it their all."

Shazear Wright of Albany has competed in the Special Olympics for two years and is doing the running long jump this year for the first time. He is excited about running, but cautions, "you have to stay in the lines."

Maria Farnam of Rotterdam is both a parent and a Special Olympics coach. She appreciates the positive impact the Olympics have had on her daughter Taylor. "I love the Special Olympics. It changed my daughter's life. She has a lot more self-confidence than she had before. She's just a completely different kid.

It's awesome. Everybody accepts everybody. You don't care if you come in first place or second place, everybody is happy."

Coach O'Keefe thanked people in Bethlehem who have stepped up to help the Special Olympians, including Mark Thurman at the Bethlehem YMCA, Dave Swift, owner of Swifty's, who held a fundraiser for the Special Olympics softball team so they could buy new uniforms, and the Town of Bethlehem for use of the fields at Elm Ave park softball fields.

The local Special Olympians' extensive training may bring them medals and ribbons at competitions, but the rewards for results pale in comparison to the smiles, joy and laughter of the team's journey along the way.

A city councilman and a career musician come together to save a beloved summer concert series in Lansingburgh

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

LANSINGBURGH — “For too long we have kicked the can down the road,” stated Troy Mayor Patrick Madden (D), announcing his 2017 budget last October, his first since winning the mayoral race in November 2015, proposing a then 28 percent tax hike. “We have based [previous] budgets on hopes rather than facts. We did so to avoid hard decisions. When those numbers failed to materialize, we were forced to dip into our reserves. They are effectively gone. There is no more road left to kick the can down. It is time for us to face reality.”

Deep cuts, local flavor coming to FM radio

WAIX 106.1 FM flips switch on format Thursday

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

MALTA — Music lovers of the Capital District will have another radio station to choose from, promising a unique change in experience.

Did you just hear Jimi Hendrix when reading that? You might hear it on the radio come Thursday, June 1, when WAIX 106.1 FM switches its format from dry toast news to a cornucopia display of music genres.

Radio personalities Flounder and Brad Berletic are the new faces to a radio station that drew a better connection to grandpa than yourself. But, who knows. If your grandfather is hip to Joy Division, Dire Straits, or begs to hear more local acts, he may have himself a new favorite station.

The radio station is already boasting a larger catalogue of songs than most presently on the dial. Forget “Stairway to Heaven,” or “Hotel California.” “The X” has songs, perhaps from the same artists, but not played as often — “Gallows Pole” or “Ol’ 55.” There is also the promise of paying homage to the Capital District’s bustling music scene. Ranked among the best in the nation, The X is tapping into that local talent to showcase on air.

“Instead of just putting in singles and what not — we have some of those in there as well — we’re finding ourselves putting in more comprehensive CDs realistically,” said Flounder, who you’ve heard on a couple of local classic FM radio stations in recent years. “We’re putting in the, maybe the single that would have got you to go out and look at the CD in the first place, then you found something really cool on the CD. We’re likely more to play that thing you found then the hit, at this point.”

We honored Flounder’s request to keep to his on-air name, but not Berletic. Forget him. (Actually, Brad didn’t ask.)

FACES FOR RADIO
Flounder and Brad for “The X” 106.1 FM.

— Flounder, WAIX 106.1 FM radio personality

But, the chance to write “Flounder” multiple times within this article was too good to pass up. Plus, he seems rather fond of the name given to him. It’s reference to the portly fraternity pledge in the 1978 John Landis film, “Animal House,” to whom he has no resemblance.

“Girls think it’s from “The Little Mermaid,” he said. And, he seems to be a polite enough gentleman not to correct them.

Berletic... Brad, is the relative novice to Flounder’s expertise. The quick-

Important Information for Breastfeeding Mothers

Lawrence Kotlow DDS

SOS 4 TOTS
 Tethered Oral Tissues - Tongue-Ties & Lip-Ties
 Exposing the myths about breastfeeding and healing the heartbreak to make breastfeeding a joy.

As a parent you have great expectations for motherhood. Unfortunately for many mothers, breastfeeding becomes a toe-curling, painful experience because of poor or missed diagnoses of tethered oral tissues such as tongue-ties and lip-ties. Dr. Kotlow's new book, SOS 4 TOTS, demystifies why. Dr. Kotlow has been treating infants for breastfeeding difficulties due to tongue and upper lip-ties since 1974. In recent years, with the increased number of mothers desiring to breastfeed their infants, he has revised countless abnormal frenum attachments of what are now referred to as "tethered oral tissues" (TOTs). Don't let anyone tell you it is a "Placebo" effect when these tissues are revised. Thousands of infants and mothers have been able to successfully resolve these issues and have a pleasurable, successful breastfeeding experience. No need for your baby to undergo needless general anesthesia or spend time in the hospital, using the state of the art in laser oral surgery, infants and older children can safely and quickly have these tissues corrected. No need to have most infants take adult acid reflux drugs when most infants having reflux do so due to swallowing air. Air induced reflux, not adult acid reflux! Rekindle that bond you wanted with your infant.

If you are a mother who has been suffering needlessly; there may be times when you will cry as you read this book because you will realize the problems are not your fault; the professionals on whom you were depending for help had a basic lack of understanding. SOS 4 TOTS seeks to expose the myths about breastfeeding and heal the heartbreak to make breastfeeding a joy.

HOROSCOPES

May 2017 Week 5

CAPRICORN

December 22 – January 19

The urge to travel hits, and luckily for you, there is a trip in the making. Take up the offer, Capricorn, whenever it presents itself. A mistake is corrected.

AQUARIUS

January 20– February 18

Listlessness sets in, and it's up to you to find the solution, Aquarius. A colleague surprises you with their keen observation. Take it to heart.

PISCES

February 19 – March 20

Take a look around, Pisces. See anything in your home that could use some sprucing up? This is the week to do it, as help will be on hand and time will be available.

ARIES

March 21 – April 19

There is no harm in asking, Aries, so ask. Don't be surprised, however, if you have to make a compromise. A crisis in faith comes to an end for a loved one.

TAURUS

April 20 – May 20

Yes, Taurus, the project will be a total bore, but it must be done. It is the steppingstone to where you want to be. A book inspires a change.

GEMINI

May 21 – June 21

Understanding comes at a price this week. You will have to step on some toes to get the information you need, Gemini. A truce is reached.

CANCER

June 22 – July 22

Young friends bring a new solution to an old problem. Give it a try, Cancer. You just might like the results. Finances shape up with an increase in revenue.

LEO

July 23 – August 22

Keep it short, Leo. The more you say, the less that will be heard. A favor is returned but not in the way expected. Be gracious. A letter proves insightful.

VIRGO

August 23 – September 22

Brilliant, Virgo! You take the initiative to resolve an issue, and you succeed. Celebrate with outdoor fun. A health problem recurs. Time to try something new.

LIBRA

September 23 – October 22

You're usually right, but not this time, Libra. Your instincts are off, way off. Step aside. A test proves tricky. Slow down and read carefully.

SCORPIO

October 23 – November 21

Efforts to go green come to a screeching halt with a change in legislation. Work around it, Scorpio. There is a way. The chain of command is broken.

SAGITTARIUS

November 22 – December 21

Keep your eye on the prize, Sagittarius. It truly is yours for the taking. A colleague's courage amazes you. Take a cue from them.

For the 'burgh

By the time the city budget was ultimately passed, Madden's inadvertent reference to a childhood game of tag was all too poignant as the City closed public pools, and canceled youth programs and slashed municipal jobs

The cuts shaved approximately $130,000 from the initial proposal, softening the burden of city residents who are now paying approximately 14.5 percent more than they did in 2016. Nonetheless, the prospect of losing two public pools, each of which more than 200 kids attend every day, leaves city residents wondering how to entertain their children during the summer. To worsen the blow, families in Lansingburgh who have walked to Powers Park with lawn chairs and coolers in hand for their annual concert series, learned that was gone, too.

There was a time in which Lansingburgh was considered one of the best neighborhoods in the Collar City. Victorian Age homes on tree-lined avenues between Powers and Knickerbacker hint of more affluent times, not too far from when author Herman Melville penned his first few novels, or when President Chester A. Arthur called it home. As downtown Troy receives attention from real estate investors looking to take advantage of a resurgence in urban living, neighborhoods like Lansingburgh have all but been forgotten. Shortly after the budget was first proposed last October, Lansingburgh's city councilman took to social media.

"It's frustrating and disheartening," stated Troy Councilman Jim Gulli (R-Lansingburgh). "Our over taxed residents are having a hard time now meeting their bills every month. I can not imagine how an increase like the one proposed would affect our residents."

'Mayor' Ciccarelli

Vito Ciccarelli has earned a name for himself in the area's music scene. As Troy's Special Event Coordinator, he was the one calling local musicians to gather entertainment for every city event. Not only that, he's known to slip local acts into the playlist on his radio show with WVCR 88.3 FM. Though the city position was just a part-time job, it was common to see him walking around as an ambassador of Troy. A long-time resident of the 'burgh, himself, he said he was most proud of the Powers Park concert series he started in 2004. It was common to see him walking around the stage, snapping pictures of the bands to later post on social media. In the eyes of people in the crowd, he was practically mayor. But, last December, his job was cut from the budget.

"He was the brains behind Powers Park, ChowderFest and River Street Fest," said Joe Mele, Troy resident and noted staple to the local music scene. "He did all that stuff for years. He's a good friend. For years and years and years. And, [the City] just pulled the rug out from under him."

Mele has lived in Troy his whole life. The 'burgh was a place to hang out with friends. He and Ciccarelli have a friendship that dates back before the Collar City Bridge's silvery facade first gleamed in the sun. (Replacing the Troy-Green Island Bridge that shot steel rivets across the city before falling into the river in 1977.) Mele learned about his friend, and soon later, learned the fate of his beloved concert series.

“Lansingburgh is on a downswing, and these Saturday events [bring in] 3, 4, 5,000 people at times,” said Mele. “It’s a great thing. So, when this thing crashed and burned... I was doing stuff online, and this one guy — who always suckers me — was complaining, ‘We don’t have money for SPAC. This is our SPAC. I take my mother every Saturday, and sit under a tree in a lawn chair.’ And, that’s exactly what it is. People come out and sit under a tree in lawn chairs, and we entertain them.”

Mele said he approached city councilmembers with the idea of funding the Powers Park concert series without municipal money. He shared his experience with organizing fundraisers. Each year, he raises funds for local charities in memory of his son, Dustin. He said councilmembers appeared impressed with his idea, but after weeks of going “back and forth,” the prospect of bringing the shows back to Powers Park seemed unlikely. Then he was approached by Gulli.

“[The City Council] just dropped the ball on me,” said Mele. “I just tried my best. And, about, probably a month and a half ago councilmember Jim Gulli called me. And, he said, are you still interested in doing this?”

Mele had initially offered to present some of his own money to the cause, but, with having been left with little promise from the City to take his offer, Mele’s money went elsewhere. Gulli asked if

There was a time in which Lansingburgh was considered one of the best neighborhoods in the Collar City. Victorian Age homes on tree-lined avenues between Powers and Knickerbacker hint of more affluent times, not too far off from when author Herman Melville penned his first few novels, or when President Chester A. Arthur called it home. the two of them could raise the money together. Assessing the price of resources to host the series for the summer, including renting port-a-potties, insurance premiums, paying the bands and sound equipment, the price tag stood at $12,000.

“I didn’t know anything about port-a-potties, so that’s what Jim was handling,” said Mele.

So, Mele and Gulley split up as a team. Gulley handled gathering the logistical resources, was able to obtain insurance at a discounted rate through the City, and obtained corporate sponsors. Mele gathered additional donations, and reached out to musicians. By his own estimate, Mele has been in the local music scene for 50 years. “They’re all friends of mine,” he said. Many of whom take part in his annual Dustin Mele Memorial Concert. “There are bands who have played [Powers Park] for $1,000, and they did it for me for $600.

“Everybody was into this idea of trying to help.”

Mele secured a line-up. Gulli gathered the funds. Now, as May rolls into June, the public pools may not be expected to open this summer, but there will be concerts in Powers Park starting in July.

“I think it’s great, what Jim Gulli did, for picking the ball up,” said Ciccarelli. “I put my heart and soul into Powers Park, and it was something I loved. ... This is important to the community.”

witted rookie has a few internships under his belt with both classic and Top 40 radio experience. He's on his second career, after toiling through the soul-sucking world of call center customer service. For those who have not chained themselves inside a cubicle by means of a telephone cord, it's one environment that often inspires you to try another vocation.

"This one dude said, you have a good voice," said Brad, referring to a co-worker at one call center. "It's audio chocolate." You should go into radio."

"[Laughs.] Did he actually say that?" asked Flounder.

"He actually said [it]," said Brad. "This is a guy I worked with, so I'm like, 'you're not just blowing smoke up my skirt. Hold on with the insurance claim. We'll get back to that, man. Tell me more about my smoky, smoky, dulcet tones.'" And, so was planted the seed for a career change. "I like to talk. I like to talk about the

The two radio personalities already have a familiarity with one another that resembles college roommates. It's nearly a comedy routine with the two seated together over beers. However, there are no plans for the two to be on the air together. They're splitting air time between themselves. And, already, they are busy at work. With hours left before the new format hits the airwaves on Thursday, Flounder and Brad continue to add more music to the station's catalogue. As for programming, there is no schedule for specific genres planned. Flounder said the music choice is going to evolve through each passing hour.

"It's going to be very interesting in the beginning, especially for us, to hear how it all rolls out and sounds," said Flounder. "Because, it's going to be a different experience than, at least, with some of the stations I've been on the air before."
