Superintendent of highways presents road maintenance plan, new sidewalk procedure

By ALI HIBBS

hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — Highway Superintendent John “Tiger” Anastasi presented the Town Board with the 2018 road maintenance program during its meeting on Wednesday, June 27.

During the course of his presentation, Anastasi talked about how the road maintenance program was developed based on a pavement condition assessment that was conducted in the spring of 2017.

Explaining that seemingly small defects in the roadway can quickly become larger and more expensive problems if left unaddressed, Anastasi said the town uses a scale — from one to 10 — to quantify the extent and expense of potential maintenance projects.

Currently, most of the town-owned roadways — a total of 99.79 miles — are rated a six or seven, meaning that routine maintenance or preventative treatments are likely all that is needed. A smaller percentage — 62.32 miles — are rated eight or nine, meaning they require little or no maintenance. The remaining 24.47 miles are a five or lower, meaning that more expensive preventative treatments, structural work or full reconstruction are needed. (Only about three miles have been deemed in need of full reconstruction.)

For example, before reconstruction, he noted, Borthwick Avenue was rated a three.

“The goal,” said Anastasi, “is to find and fix problems early.” He said it’s preferable to address roads before they reach a rating of five, as a rough winter could cause them to quickly deteriorate by a full level or two. Right now, he said, the department is working on roads rated six and seven.

This week, crews are working north of the Delmar Bypass, on Parkwyn Drive, Pheasant Lane, Jordan Boulevard, Catherine Street and Woodstream Drive. Also targeted for work in 2018 are Bethlehem Court and Salisbury

Local protesters call to end ICE

By JIM FRANCO
francoj@spotlightnews.com

COLONIE—About two dozen people protested outside the federal Department of Homeland Security building on Route 7 on Friday, June 6, and called for the elimination of Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

“I’m terrified for my country and the way we treat people who are coming here and the people who are already living here as part of our communities,” said Miriam Tell, of Albany. “I think this is a first step towards some even more terrifying things like what we saw in Germany in the 30s. We are imprisoning babies in concentration camps already and we are talking about questioning people who have been naturalized citizens. They come for the most vulnerable first and then they can come after anyone.”

She said ICE has become a “rogue agency” that is no longer “following the law.”

“They are showing up on private property and on farms to pull away workers. There is no humanity left in the way it is operating,” she said. “It is acting to terrorize people. We need to start over with an agency that is running with a different mindset.”

The day held no particular significance as to why the protesters showed up, but there was a sign on the door saying the building was closed for the day. The protest does come as the national outcry over the practice of separating families at the border gets louder as too does the outcry by some Democrats in Washington to disband ICE.

Steve Downs, an attorney from Selkirk who made national news in 2003 for getting thrown out of Crossgates Mall for wearing a “Peace on Earth” T-shirt, was on the scene as a legal observer. While he was part of a program established by the Civil Liberties Union and other organizations to keep an impartial eye on protests — and the police should they opt to intervene — he does have strong personal reasons for being there, too.

“Nobody should be treated the way people are being treated. Families are being separated and immigrants are being abused,” he said. “I’ve re-settled a number of immigrant families in this country and all of them have gone on to live productive lives — they have jobs, they pay taxes, they have gone to college and they have done exceptionally well. I can’t tell you how distressed I am the way we treat people who are trying to build our country.”

Pete Looker, who grew up about a mile away from the protest, was wearing a shirt that said “Homeland Security is Sustainable Energy.”

“If we were not hooked on foreign oil, we would not be invading the Middle East and creating all these refugees and all these terrible problems,” he said. “My grandparents came here from Scandinavia to avoid World War II, and I am here to protest the unfairness of our immigration system today as it relates to our empire.”

Protesters use signs and sidewalk chalk to protest the existence of ICE at the federal Dept. of Homeland Security building in Colonie.

Still time to register for CBRC road race in Ravena this Saturday

RAVENA — Officials with the Capital Bicycle Racing Club (CBRC) remind area cyclists that there is still time to pre-register for its 17th annual NY Capital Region Road Race, which takes place this Saturday, July 14, online at <https://www.bikereg.com/Net/ny-capital-region-road-race>. The race features a 20 mile rolling loop, with several steep climbs and an elevation gain of 1,500 feet per loop, with a maximum grade of 16 percent; (39x25 gearing is recommended).

On site registration and staging begin at 8:30 a.m. at Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Junior Senior High School on U.S. Route 9W. Different race divisions will depart from the Finish Line located on Jarvis Road 0.2 miles north of its intersection with Bushendorf Road every five minutes from 10:30 to 10:55 a.m.

Prospective racers should be aware that registration is capped at 100 or 75 cyclists depending on the race. With the exception of the Juniors race, which has a $10 fee, all other races have a $65 fee through Friday, July 13, increasing to $75 on race day. Racers are also advised that USAC Road Racing rules apply; helmets are required while aero-bars and sleeveless jerseys are both prohibited.

Proceeds from race fees will be distributed to the fire, police and EMS organizations that provided their professional services during the event.

For more information, including a race map and guide, visit the CBRC’s website at <http://cbrcc.com>. For questions or other concerns, contact Beth Ruiz at (518) 334-6058 or bmiller17@nycap.rr.com

Castleton woman hits BPD officer with car

GLENMONT — On Saturday, July 7, at 2 p.m., a Bethlehem police officer was in the parking lot of the Glenmont Walmart taking a report for a property damage crash when he reportedly observed a Walmart loss prevention officer attempting to apprehend a woman who had just shoplifted from the store in an unrelated incident. According to BPD, the officer ran towards the fleeing suspect in the parking lot as she got into her vehicle. The officer signaled for the woman to stop and approached the front of her vehicle. The suspect reportedly then put the vehicle in drive and drove forward, striking the officer. Despite being injured, the officer approached the vehicle on the driver side and was able to convince the suspect to stop the vehicle.

Wendy M. Downey, 58, of Castleton, was arrested in the parking lot and charged with felony counts of assault and reckless endangerment, as well as the misdemeanor counts of petit larceny, criminal possession of a weapon, resisting arrest, reckless driving, aggravated operation of a vehicle, operating while registration/license suspended, and the violations of unregistered motor vehicle, uninsured motor vehicle, unsafe backing and failing to comply with an officer.

The injured officer was treated by Delmar-Bethlehem EMS and transported to St. Peters Hospital for a knee injury. Downey was arraigned in the Town of Bethlehem Court by Judge Ryan Donovan and remanded to the Albany County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bail. A preliminary hearing in Bethlehem Court was set for Tuesday, July 10.

12 illegal weapons found near BCBS

Marijuana-growers and stash of weapons found near BCBS

DELMAR—On Friday, July 6, the Bethlehem Police Department, assisted by the Albany County Sheriff's Department, executed a search warrant pursuant to an on-going investigation. They searched a home near Bethlehem Central High School on Longmeadow Drive in Delmar and discovered a small marijuana growing operation and multiple weapons.

Also located inside the house was evidence of a larger growing operation that had been recently removed, as well as five cane swords, metal knuckles, 13 Kung Fu throwing stars, two sets of "chucka sticks," a metal knuckle knife, numerous daggers and a bullet proof vest.

Joseph J. Martin, 42, and Daniel S. Johnson, 48, both of Delmar, were arrested. Each has been charged with 12 misdemeanor counts of criminal possession of a weapon, as well as misdemeanor counts of criminal possession of marijuana and unlawfully growing cannabis.

Both Martin and Johnson were arraigned in the Town of Bethlehem Court by the Judge Ryan Donovan and were remanded to the Albany County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail. A return court date has been set for Tuesday, August 7 at 4 p.m. The investigation was led by Bethlehem Police with the assistance of the Albany County Sheriff's Department Criminal Investigation Unit.

The investigation is continuing and anyone with information on these two subjects is asked to contact Bethlehem Police at 518-439-9973.

Cumberland Farms employee arrested for stealing wallet

Glenmont.

According to reports, while Dall assisted officers with the investigation the previous day, he neglected to tell them that he was in possession of the wallet after another customer found it in the men's bathroom. On the day of the arrest, he told officers that he had forgotten about it. When asked if the money was in the wallet when it was found, Dall reportedly replied, "It might have been in there" and "I don't remember taking it but might have."

Dall was taken into custody, where police say he confessed to the felony and provided an apology note to the owner of the wallet.

He was released on an appearance ticket to return to town court on Tuesday, July 3.

Virginia man wanted for armed robbery and murder found in hilltowns

JEFFERS

ALBANY COUNTY—A Virginia man is in custody at the Albany County Jail after New York State Troopers were tipped off that he was hiding out in the hilltowns of Albany County.

New York State Police Investigators from the Latham barracks say that Andrew Jeffers, age 47, of Roanoke, Virginia was sought by the US Marshalls and Roanoke County Police Department regarding his involvement in a murder and robbery in Roanoke County, Virginia on May 19. Jeffers was one of four suspects involved in the robbery gone bad. He was taken into custody by troopers without incident and arraigned in the City of Albany Court. His extradition to Virginia is pending.

Dispute involving firearm ends in arrest

GUILDERLAND—The Guilderland Police Department arrested John Seminary of Guilderland for felony reckless endangerment on Saturday, June 30. According to reports, Seminary discharged a firearm during the course of a domestic dispute on at approximately midnight at a home on Western Turnpike. Police say no one was injured during the incident and additional charges are pending. Seminary was arraigned later that day in the Guilderland Town Court.

Fake check results in arrest

DELMAR—Bethlehem police arrested Erykah Wooten, 19, on Friday, June 22, for felony criminal possession of a forged instrument.

Wooten allegedly passed a fraudulent check at the Hannaford Supermarket in Delmar on Saturday, April 14.

According to reports, video footage from Hannaford was utilized and responding officers interviewed Wooten at her place of employment, where she admitted to committing the crime. She was taken into custody and charged with the felony as well as a misdemeanor count of petit larceny.

Wooten was arraigned before Judge Donovan in Bethlehem Town Court and released under supervision of probation. She was scheduled to appear at court on Tuesday, July 3.

Road, both rated a level five, and the neighborhoods off of Herrick Avenue and Wedgewood Lane, all rated level six.

Using the 2017 assessment to identify which roads are most in priorities that could affect the timing of road maintenance projects in those areas.

“We don’t want to go and put new pavement down and then have them come up to put different infrastructure in and tear out cheaper and is a better job in the long run.”

Noting new developments in town and the age of the roads, Anastasi said that it will be important to keep an eye on certain potential problems, such as roads that show evidence of structural weakness in areas where heavy materials will be transported and traffic volumes are expected to increase.

It costs the town $6K to mill a mile-long stretch of roadway that is 24 feet wide and $50K for just the materials to pave the same area, according to Anastasi. An eight-person crew, as well as two flagmen and three or four truck drivers are also needed. Of the town’s approximately 187 miles of roads, an average of 11 to 13 miles are replaced each year.

“This is why the assessment is so vital,” he said. “Some roads weather better than others. Otherwise, in rotation, it would take 18 years just to do the full rotation if we just went in order.”

In 2018, the highway department will also reassess sidewalks.

“We maintain approximately 56 miles of sidewalk,” said Anastasi. “And 700 curb ramps. About 60 percent have ADA compliant detectable warning plates and 40 percent do not,” he said, referring to standards set by the Americans with Disabilities Act.

According to Anastasi, per the town’s allocated budget for sidewalk maintenance in 2018, $50K, approximately one-third of a mile would be able to be replaced at the contracted rate. “At that rate,” he said, “it would take 155.6 years to replace all existing sidewalks.” He added that does not include the cost of the ADA compliant plates, which cost $500 each.

So, rather than paying a sub-contractor to do the work, Anastasi was able to outfit his own crew with all the equipment needed to replace or construct sidewalks, which he anticipates will cost the town 50 percent less than hiring someone else. He explained to the board how sidewalks, such as the new one along New Scotland Avenue, are constructed by town crews and showed photos of the finished results.

Noting that this is the first time town highway crews have fully constructed town sidewalks, Anastasi said, “They did a really good job. I’m very proud of them.”

“I’ve never really thought about sidewalks before,” said Town Supervisor David VanLuven. “And, seeing the crews working on them, they’re truly hand-crafted. They’re done entirely by hand. That many miles is truly back-breaking work and they do a fantastic job.”

Grandma’s Pies is closing down

Iconic Colonie restaurant was in business for 42 years

COLONIE — Grandma’s Pies and Restaurant is closing its doors as of July 15.

The thank you note announcing the closing appeared on the longtime restaurants Facebook Page on Saturday, July 7 and quickly made the social media rounds. As of Monday, July 9, it had 775 reactions, was shared nearly 3,000 times and generated nearly 500 comments.

“It is with a heavy heart that we announce Grandma’s & Restaurant will be closing its doors on Sunday, July 15,” reads the note signed by Dave and Ron. “We wish to thank you all for being a part of our family, as well as allowing us to be a part of your families for these last 42 years.”

In April, the owners said they were selling the iconic restaurant on Central Avenue but said the restaurant and pie shop would remain open.

According to reports, Grandma’s was opened by Joe Danaher and purchased by Dave Houle and Ron Raylinsky in 2008.

“Although Grandma’s will no longer be here to share in your family’s reunions, engagements, births, celebrations and times of mourning, we will cherish the memories and hope you will as well,” according to the note.

The restaurant will be open on Friday and Saturday, July 13 and 14 until 9 p.m. and on Sunday July 15 until 4 p.m.

County continues to upgrade Lawson Lake

FEURA BUSH — On Saturday, July 7, Albany County Executive Dan McCoy unveiled three major infrastructure upgrades at Lawson Lake County Park that included a brand new basketball court, playground and a state-of-the-art amphitheater. He was joined by Sheriff Craig Apple, Sr. and the Boy Scouts of America to make the announcement.

“We really have come a long way since we reopened this park in 2013 and I think that’s clear to see today. These upgrades are just the latest in our efforts on behalf of the families of Albany County,” said McCoy. “Projects like this give our children the opportunities to learn and grow, opportunities they may never get elsewhere, and that is the mission of county government.”

The basketball court, playground and amphitheater were installed with a joint effort between the Albany County Departments of Public Works, Recreation and General Services. Funding for the playground was made possible thanks to a donation from Freihofer’s.

The latest enhancements come on the heels of other upgrades spearheaded by McCoy, including the new visitor center, parking lot, bathrooms, lean-to barn, guardrails, the recently renovated Waldman Lodge and other enhancement projects. None of these improvements would have been possible without the help of local unions, area Boy Scout troops and hundreds of volunteers.

The 420-acre park is open year-round and, since 2013, has been home to numerous festivals, summer camps and educational programs, offering ample opportunities to hike, fish, canoe, birdwatch, picnic, cross country ski, snowshoe and more.

Boy Scouts, local union members and county officials and staff proudly display Lawson’s new amphitheatre (above) and playground (below).

Battle of the BBQs to benefit local food pantry

Six teams will be competing for the title of Ultimate Kosher BBQ Champion during a Battle of the BBQs fundraiser to benefit the Shalom Food Pantry in Delmar.

On Sunday, July 29, six teams representing six local organizations will compete in different categories, including Ultimate BBQ Champion, Best Wings, Best Brisket and People’s Choice. Attendees will get to sample each of the teams briskets and wings as well as all-you-can-eat sides, including vegetarian options. There will be activities for children, including face painting and a bounce house.

The Shalom Food Pantry, which was launched in response to the lingering recession and an increased need in the local Jewish community, provides food to more than 120 individuals each month.

“We do great work and help many people behind the scenes,” said Chanie Simon, director of the Shalom Food Pantry, “With this event, we look forward to bringing awareness to this great cause”.

The Battle of the BBQs event will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Bethlehem Chabad at 393 Delaware Ave. in Delmar.

OBITUARIES

Hallisey, Elsie C. (Detzel)

DELMAR — Elsie Hallisey, 75, of Delmar, died peacefully on Thursday, July 5 at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany after an extended battle with illness.

Born in Queens, N.Y. on July 29, 1941, Elsie grew up in the Ridgewood neighborhood of the New York City borough. She was the first of seven children born to Clifford and Elsie Detzel. She graduated from Grover Cleveland High School.

Elsie will be best remembered as a strong-willed and kind-hearted woman. Over the years, she developed a tremendous green thumb. She spent countless hours working in her gardens, where her hosta plants were the envy of her daughter-in-law, Jessica. She enjoyed long drives into the country with her husband and time spent with her three grandchildren. She also looked forward to conversations with friends she made over meals at New Village Deli and

Online Property Assessment Roll

BETHLEHEM—Town residents can now view 2018 assessments on SDG Image Mate Online, at <http://sdg.townofbethlehem.org/imo/search.aspx>

The Image Mate Online system provides information on real property data maintained by the Town of Bethlehem Assessor's Office. The site allows homeowners to view property information, structure information, exemption information, property sale information, and tax bill and payment information. It also offers the capability to perform comparable property assessment and sales searches.

Any assessment changes after July 1 will not be reflected until the tentative 2019 roll is run on the first of May 2019.

Summer Yard Waste Collection

BETHLEHEM — From May to October, properly prepared yard waste is picked up by the Town of Bethlehem Highway Department and is composted at the town's compost facility.

Yard waste must be placed in reusable containers or paper bags. Brush and branches under four feet in length should be piled neatly along the sides of the road, not so high or so wide as to obstruct roadways or line of sight and not in the roadway itself. Placing debris into the roadway constitutes a violation of vehicle and traffic law and creates a hazardous situation for pedestrian, bicycle, and vehicular traffic. Please make sure that storm drainage inlets are also kept clean of leaves and branches to ensure proper drainage.

reusable containers or in biodegradable paper bags (not over 50 pounds per container), as well as brush and branches under 4 feet in length stacked neatly at curbside. No other items or materials are accepted, and all non-conforming items will not be collected. No brush or trees from private contractors will be accepted.

Pickup Schedule

Please note that weather conditions play a major role in the town's ability to adhere to the schedule. To find out which day yard waste is collected on your street, visit www.townofbethlehem.org/218/Summer-Yard-Waste-Collection

The Town no longer sells paper yard waste bags; they are available for comparable prices at many local businesses, including Phillips Hardware, Hannaford, Price Chopper, Curtis Lumber, Stewarts, Lowes, Walmart and more.*

Tri-Village All Stars have a busy week

Colonie American 8U bests Tri-Village American

COLONIE — The Colonie American 8U All Stars bested the Tri-Village American squad on Saturday, July 7, by a score of 16-8 at Cook Park.

There was one more round of games on Monday, July 9, before the top four of seven teams play for the championship beginning on Thursday, July 12, at a field yet to be determined.

Heading into Monday's games, Guilderland had a 4-0 record, Colonie American and Tri-Village National were at 3-1, Tri-Village American was at 3-2, National was at 2-2, Colonie National was 0-5 and Hudson Valley was 0-5.

Check out our website to see more photos of all the games.

Tri-Village 10U gets by Colonie

COLONIE — The Bethlehem Tri-Village 10U All Star team got by Colonie on Tuesday, July 3, by a score of 13-2 at Cook Park.

Tri-Village went on to beat Guilderland in a re-match of the double-elimination tournament on Thursday, July 5, at McGee Park 7-5 and then dropped a heart breaker to Guilderland 11-10 a day later.

Guilderland won the District 13 championship and will now play in the sectionals.

Guilderland beat Colonie on Sunday, July 1, and then beat Tri-Village 4-3 on Monday, July 2.

Against Colonie at Cook Park, the Bethlehem squad scored eight runs in the first, two in the third and three more in the fourth to end the game early.

Colonie had a mini-rally in the third when it scored two runs and sent eight batters to the plate.

Guilderland 12U beats Tri-Village to win District 13 championship

BETHLEHEM
— Guilderland got the better of the Tri-Village 10-12-year-old All Stars on Friday, July 6, and then again on Saturday, July 7, to win the District 13 championship.

Guilderland won the first game on their home field in the best of three series by a score of 10-2. The second game was at McGee Park, and Guilderland won 22-8.

Guilderland will now play in the sectionals against teams from Districts 14, 15, 16 and 17.

Putting around BPL

The Bethlehem Public Library's annual indoor mini-golf event was a success again this year.

On Sunday, July 8, BPL was transformed into an 18-hole miniature golf course. Golfers enjoyed snow cones, made crafts and participated in other library activities. A few even went home with a book.

BCMS Garden Club to sell produce at Delmar Farmers Market this weekend

Although school is out of session, students and community members have still been hard at work in the BCMS Garden.

This Saturday, July 14, the BCMS Garden Club students will once again be selling fresh, organically grown produce from the middle school's very own gardens at the Delmar Farmers Market from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Items that will be available include fresh picked carrots, green beans, beets, swiss chard, kale, garlic, onions and cut flowers.

All proceeds directly benefit the middle school garden program.

Beating the heat

Bethlehem residents took to the Elm Avenue Park pools to stay cool during the early July heat wave.

With temperatures going back up early next week and remaining above 85 degrees for most of July, those who haven't gotten their pool passes yet may want to consider doing so.

Photos by Jim Franco / Spotlight News

 Residents can choose one of two kinds of passes—pay as you go or seasonal.

Passes must be obtained in person at the pool or the office during the following hours:

Pool: Daily, 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Office: Monday - Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

If you are a Town of Bethlehem property owner, bring photo ID and the town will verify your residency using the current year's tax roll.

If you rent in the Town of Bethlehem, bring photo ID and proof of residency, such as a current utility bill or lease agreement.

For prices and additional information, visit the Pool Complex page on the town website.

Siena to install giant telescope

By JIM FRANCO

francoj@spotlightnews.com

COLONIE — Siena College will soon be home to the largest telescope in the Capital District.

A crane hoisted the 2,600-pound dome onto the top of an observatory, which sits on top of Roger Bacon Hall on Monday, July 2, that will eventually house a $210,000, 27-inch telescope.

The telescope will be used for a range of purposes, said Rose Finn, chair of the Physics and Astronomy Department at Siena, from allowing the public to come and take a peek to research projects.

“This is a new capability at Siena,” she said. We had very small portable telescopes but this is a completely new facility for us so this is a game changer not only for our majors, but a third of our students take astronomy and they have never had a chance to look through a telescope like this,” she said.

“It’s been something the physics department has been trying to do for 30 years and there was an opportunity to apply for a grant and given the number of students who pass through the program we decided this was a good use of the funding.”

The telescope will see “millions and millions of light years” into space and it’s hard to describe what that actually means. But, Finn said, the moon would be too bright – or too close – to examine through the telescope.

“You will get a great view of nearby galaxies and different planets and that is what you can see with your eye,” she said. “If we put a camera on the back, it’s totally different, and we can do integrating for a long time and you can see deep sky objects like distant galaxies.”

How the telescope will ultimately get used is still up in the air, said Finn, who has chaired the department for eight years. There are rudimentary plans to show what is seen through the telescope on social media or other websites and allowing the public to do astrophotography is also being discussed.

“There is so much interest in astronomy that we can do a lot with our students and with the community,” she said, adding that when the college hosted an “eclipse night” around 500 people showed up.

The dome is very basic, and is made out of simple tin. It’s by design, though, because for optimal viewing the temperature inside the telescope must be the same as it is outside. There is an entire field of science dedicated to optimizing such equipment and if there is that drastic of a temperature change, fungus and other imperfections could distort the high-tech, high quality glass and mirrors. If it’s 10 degrees below zero or 90 degrees outside the dome, it should be the same inside.

The dome has a trap door-type feature that opens so the telescope can see outside, and spins depending on which direction the user wants to view. Once everything is up and running, most everything can be done from a remote location via computer.

It took a carpenter with the construction company BBL, and his apprentice daughter, just two days to build and that was after a week to build the base. There is about another week of work left to finish everything off. The telescope should be up and running by the time students return for classes in the fall.

“It’s been an interesting job, said Brian Gordon. “I’ve been doing this for 28 years and I’ve never done anything like this before and probably never will be again,” added the Schenectady resident who is a member of the Carpenters Union Local 291. “It’s odd and it’s different and you only get one chance to get it right.”

He said it was somewhat nerve wracking knowing the media and some 40 to 50 people would be watching the crane hoist the dome he built on the ground onto the circular base he built on the roof.

“On Friday, I triple checked this thing five times because the last thing you want to do is pick it up, with these people watching, and find it doesn’t fit,” he said.

Asked if it was going to fit, he and his daughter Brianna, without hesitation, said “of course ... absolutely.”

“This is my first big project and this is super exciting because this is making history,” Brianna Gordon said. “Before I even graduate and become a full-fledged journeyman I get to help make history. I’ve always enjoyed working with my hands and making something out of nothing. Money is nice, but the whole point is saying ‘look what I did’ when it’s all done.”

BCSD’s top spring athletes recognized by BOE

On Monday, July 2, student athletes who competed in spring sports including All-American athletes and those who had qualified for state-level competition were honored by the Bethlehem Central Board of Education. FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Put violent protests on ICE

Violence and destruction overshadows the message

As we write this today, we still have the right to peaceably assemble, we still possess the freedom of speech. The oldest of our country's laws remain as one of the strongest definitions of our democracy. It continues to be a shining inspiration for oppressed people who fight to change their own countries for the better.

In recent months, people have scrutinized over the practices of the Immigration and Customs Enforcement. The enforcement agency is a response to 9/11, established in 2003 under the Department of Homeland Security. It has served as an additional safety blanket. Whereas the United States Border Patrol is tasked with preventing undocumented immigrants from entering into the country, ICE takes that effort a step further. It investigates and ultimately facilitates the removal of illegal non-citizens from the country.

Then-presidential candidate Donald Trump made the topic of strengthening immigration laws and borders a part of his agenda before his election to office in 2016. A great deal of focus was placed on building a wall along our southern border shared with Mexico. And, in recent months, the his administration has established a "zero tolerance" on illegal immigrants with a policy that has separated more than 2,000 children from their families.

Trump also pushed for a ban on all Muslims during his campaigns, and followed through with an executive order.

Though it is widely interpreted to be illegal to prevent people of specific origin or ethnicity from traveling into our country, his executive order was ultimately upheld by the United States Supreme Court, as it targets countries, not people.

Opponents have labeled the administration's practices as xenophobic to racist. Though, supporters will point out similar acts by President Obama.

While in office, Obama earned the nickname "Deporter-in-Chief." The moniker, a play on the president's Commander-in-Chief role as head of the armed forces, was earned after a record 2.4 million immigrants were deported between 2009 and 2016. Obama, too, had ordered a similar travel ban in 2011; however, that was in response to a specific threat from Iraqi nationals living in Bowling Green, Ky. Trump's proposed ban did not follow an apparent threat to the country. Nonetheless, the act of separating children from their parents has drawn strong criticism from both sides of the aisle. The practice has since been curtailed.

The images of these children have remained in the circulation of national news coverage as the task of reuniting these families becomes reportedly more daunting. There are also reports of Border Patrol agents establishing checkpoints within 100 miles of our U.S. border, searching and verifying citizenship along our roadways.

The 100-mile buffer zone is supposedly within the enforcement agency's jurisdiction, but there is the question as to whether or not it has the right to conduct such searches without probable cause. There is the matter of the Fourth Amendment of the United States, which protects citizens from random stops and searches. The American Civil Liberties Union is not considering this a trivial moment. It has recently established a page within its website to address these concerns. This scenario doesn't play out exclusively along what is perceived to be the MS-13 infested border to the south. The ACLU points out that two out of three Americans live within this 100-mile buffer zone. CNN and the New York Times each published articles on such checkpoints in both New Hampshire and Maine last month, states closest to the benign Canadian border.

Democrats and liberals have called for the abolition of ICE. Protests have gathered in pockets throughout the country, including two dozen local residents who gathered last week before the federal Homeland Security building in Colonie. Those who spoke with our reporter, Jim Franco, voiced their disdain as the enforcement agency raids local farms and gathers at area courthouses to detain illegal immigrants. One such protestor said, "It is acting to terrorize people." The protest later escalated into acts of vandalism, with at least one writing his message to disband ICE on the building's facade.

Plausible threats to our

country and our people need to be addressed. Shortly after 9/11, our ability to defend ourselves against small, organized individuals with the training and resources to cause destructive havoc was in serious question. The climate of fear and weariness has never abated since the Twin Towers crumbled down nearly two decades ago. However, fear has also seemed to be used as a tool wielded by some more than others to garner support. That is something to be concerned over.

We live in divisive times where there is no longer a middle ground between political stances. Describing one's self as conservative or liberal has created the potential for each to wear a scarlet letter upon his chest, open to ridicule and mocking at an unprecedented level. It's akin to baseball fans who wear a rival team's jersey. Regardless of the person, his education or civility, insults, barbs and fists are thrown at haste. The political realm is not a game. There should never be a devotion to the Democrat or Republican party. We, as citizens, do not pledge allegiance to a donkey or elephant. Party agendas change. Blind faith into a particular party, or person, leads us down a dangerous road. Our democracy demands we question our leadership and hold it accountable for its actions.

As for our own actions, as we protest, we need to do so without violence or destruction. Those acts only overshadow the message we try to convey. That message, as righteous as it may be, falls to deaf ears the moment we turn to violence. It only casts a shadow upon the light we try to shine out onto the world. Otherwise, a poor example of what this country once stood for.

LIBRARIES

The library is ready to rock

Teen lip sync, photography contest and a how-to contest

Teen lip sync

Hey teens, get ready to rock the library later this month at our first ever lip sync battle.

On Friday, July 27, at 7 p.m. let out your inner diva and dazzle friends and adoring fans with your very best rendition of a favorite song. There will be prizes, crafts and ice cream.

You are also welcome to just cheer on friends or watch the show; you don't have to perform in order to take part. Send your song choice to tori@bplteens.org by July 20.

Please make sure it is the "clean" radio version and lasts no longer than 1.5 minutes.

Photography contest

Celebrate the Town of Bethlehem's 225th anniversary by entering your best shot of the town in our photography contest.

Photos must be submitted framed (maximum size is 11 by 14 inches) and ready to hang between July 30-Aug. 31. Entries will be on display in September with winners in four age groups awarded Friday, Sept. 21.

Visit our website at bethlehempubliclibrary.org for entry form and details. Prizes will be provided by the Friends of Bethlehem Public Library.

Self-checkout is here

Need to check out your materials in a hurry? Would you like a little privacy? The new self-checkout kiosks at the Circulation Desk and the Children's Place give you plenty of checkout options.

Our whimsical robot kiosk in the Children's Place will delight young readers and give parents the opportunity for a quick exit if they sense a meltdown looming.

Two self-checkout machines at the circulation desk are user-friendly and will help speed up the checkout process during our busier times.

Unfamiliar with the technology? Our staffers are happy to help walk you through the process until you are comfortable with it.

One of our favorite features of the new machines is that staffers can step in any time and complete the transaction seamlessly without having to cancel everything and start over.

We know some library users will always enjoy face-to-face interaction with staff. No worries. We're not going anywhere and will still be at the desk to assist you in person, if you prefer.

Calling hobbyists and craftspeople

We are still looking for people willing to share their special skills at our How-To Festival on Saturday, Aug. 4. From noon-2 p.m. artisans and instructors will demonstrate their trades – from blacksmithing to yoga – to members of the community.

If you are interested in sharing your knowledge on a topic, we'd love to have you join us.

Contact Natalie McDonough at (518) 439-9314, ext. 3023 or by email at natalie@bethpl.org.

WiFi at Five Rivers

The library has begun offering free year-round WiFi at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center in one of the first DEC/public library partnerships in the state. Now you can connect to "Free Library WiFi" when you're out and about at Five Rivers picnicking, hiking or exploring the nature center.

This network is in addition to "Free Library WiFi" at the town park and pool, as well as inside and outside the library building.

Summer hours reminder

The library is closed Sundays in July and August. You can access the library catalog and other library services online anytime at www.bethlehempubliclibrary.org

Other upcoming events

All events are free and take place at Bethlehem Public Library located at 451 Delaware Ave., in Delmar.

LIBRARIES

A puppet show at the library

Carnival of the Animals

Share in the fun as a musical menagerie gets the Guilderland library rockin' on Monday, July 16, at 6:30 p.m. It's a show full of glorious melodies brought to life by the Robert Rogers Puppet Company.

Music can do so many things. It can tell stories and describe a world of images in the most exciting way; it can call to mind the mighty lion, a lumbering tortoise, silly monkeys, even a graceful swan. About 150 years ago, composer Camille Saint-Saens did just that when he wrote the "Carnival of the Animals," his most famous piece for young people.

Now, Robert Rogers and his puppets supply the magic by bringing to life this incredible musical parade of feathers, furs and fins. This program is for all ages.

Kazoo Fest

Local musicians from the Lost Radio Rounders AND the Ramblin Jug Stompers will "rock out" the library on Tuesday, July 17, at 6 p.m., with a wonderful, interactive program your entire family will love.

Be sure to bring your KAZOO (the one you received in your Summer Reading goody bag) because you're going to hear classic American folk and children's songs, played on some wacky instruments — including washboard, jug, mouth bow, nose flute, ukulele, siren whistle, and best of all, your KAZOO. We're going to ask everyone to play along on some tunes. This program is for all ages.

Start From Scratch Music Band

If you know more than basic Scratch and have built your own programs, this program is for you. On Monday, July 16, come to the library at 2 p.m. and learn more about coding using Scratch, MIT's interactive programming software for creating stories, games, and animations.

Open to both parent and child to discover Scratch together. For grades three to five. Please call 518-456-2400 x 4 to register.

Rockin' Uni the Unicorn Book Party

Let's get together on Wednesday, July 18, at 11 a.m., to read the very special book: "Uni the Unicorn and the Dream Come True."

We'll celebrate the magical world of unicorns. This program will include music and movement activities, games, and a colorful craft. This is for children in grades PreK through two. Please call 518-456-2400 x

4 to register.

Make Your Own Album Cover Art

Unleash your inner graphic artist. Come to the library on Wednesday, July 18, at 2 p.m., and use the free design website Canva to design an album cover for your favorite music playlist.

You'll need an email address to create an account with Canva. This program is for grades six through 12. Please call 518-456-2400 x 4 to register.

Song Construction Zone

Did you ever think you could create an original song from scratch? You can. We know you can. Come to the library on Thursday, July 19, at 2 p.m., and — by using traditional instruments as well as unusual sounds found in the library and beyond — you'll write and record a brand new song that will be posted on the library's Facebook page.

Come try out a bass, guitar, keyboard, banjo, trumpet, and weird instruments like Stylophone, Otamatone, and more.

Record the sound of your favorite book slamming shut, and turn it into a beat to sing along with. That annoying noise your parents tell you to stop making? It's our favorite, let's make a song out of it.

No musical knowledge is required, and all instruments and recording equipment will be provided. Bringing in instruments or weird sounds from home. We want them. This program for kids and teens of all ages. And you don't even need to register. Just show up.

Painting Pottery Pieces

Paint your choice of pottery figurines at the library on Thursday, July 19, at 10:30 a.m. After you paint them, give us a week to get them kiln-dried, and then you can take yours home. Be sure to wear clothes that you can get messy in. And thanks to the Studio for Art and Craft for letting us use their kiln. This program is for grades three through 5.

Why preplan with us?

If you appreciate peace of mind, you'll understand why it makes sense to preplan with us. We know of no other policies that work as this:

- Spares your family from making detailed decisions at an emotional time
- Ensures that wishes are expressed
- Prevents overspending and can lock in costs

We're experts at preplanning, and know all of the issues that may arise. Call us, you'll be glad you did.

Supersuckers stick a Troy show in anniversary tour

Hangar will host the iconic band Sept. 30

TROY — Join Supersuckers at the Hangar on the Hudson in Troy as they tour to celebrate their 30th anniversary! The Big Show tour... featuring a country set plus 'Smoke of Hell' and 'La Mano Cornuda' in their entirety, and more!

The band will be visiting the Collar City on Sun, Sept. 30 and tickets will go on sale July 13.

Doors at 6:30, show at 7:30

Opening act will be announced soon.

"You've heard our name, you've seen our records, our t-shirts and our stickers. We're probably the favorite band of someone you know and yet maybe we're still a mystery to you. Well my friend, that's okay, you're at the right place to get to know the greatest rock-n-roll band in the world, The Supersuckers.

And the next time you see the 'Supersuckers' name, whether it's in the record store, online somewhere, or on the marquee at your local rock club, know that there's some quality, honest, ass-kicking, hard working individuals behind it all trying to make your life a little better through the "Evil Powers Of Rock-n-Roll" (and the occasional detour into the country music, of course) and we'd love nothing better than to have you there with us as! Just remember to wear clean underwear, 'cuz we're gonna rock the pants right off of you!" said Eddie Spaghetti of The Supersuckers.

You can find a link to ticket sales on Guthrie Bell Productions or The Hangar on the Hudson websites.

The Supersuckers will take the stage at The Hangar on the Hudson on Sept. 30.

Consortium Actors present 'Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat'

ALBANY — Consortium Actors is opening its 2018 season with a limited 10-day production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

The production will take place at Siena College's Beaudoin Theatre, Foy Hall in Loudonville. The play will show July 19 through July 29. The showings on July 19, 20 and 21 will take place at 7 p.m., as will the ones on July 26, 27 and 28. There will be a 2 p.m. matinee showing on July 22 and July 29.

To purchase tickets, visit www.consortiumactors.com/showsevents/.

The production will use the artwork from "Saint John's Bible," a hand written, hand illuminated Bible exhibit which will be on display at Siena for the next year and will offer guided tours and lectures to learn more about the work.

"We are privileged to incorporate [the art of "Saint John's Bible"] into the production designs of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," said Sharon Paluch, artistic director for Consortium Actors. "This family-friendly, high-octane musical is near and dear to the heart of Siena College."

Paluch continued alumnus from the original "Joseph" production, which showed in 1986, will be joining the current cast on stage for a reunion grand finale at the July 21 show.

Premiering in 1970, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" is originally written by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber. The story follows the story of Joseph from the book of Genesis, and the coat of many colors the book revolves around.

Deeply rooted in education, Consortium Actors is dedicated to training and encouraging young adults and youth in both performance and technical aspects of theatre, which enriching the Capital District through professional-caliber performances.

Rock the dock

its familiar jams back to the steel pier of the Lake George Steamboat Company on Friday, July 13.

Driving a tough bargain, the improvisational powerhouse is offering advanced ticket sales for just $7 a pop to enjoy a fun-for-all-ages summer day, filled with live music, vendors, beer, food and crafts. Boasting a handpicked lineup of Soule Monde (featuring Ray Paczkowski & Russ Lawton of Trey Anastasio Band), Strange Machines and Let's Be Leonard, the entertainment can be appreciated from any of the three historic Lake George vessels that appropriately dock around the stage, acting as musical grandstands and welcoming wandering folk to explore free of charge.

According to Luke Dow, the event manager for Rock the Dock, the event "was started as a way to celebrate the Lake George Steamboat Company's 200th anniversary by doing something that the company has never done in its history, hold a concert on the pier. The free concert was a way of giving back to all the loyal patrons as well as showcase the talents of local artists and food trucks. This year's festival will also be focused on giving back, with 25 percent of all ticket proceeds benefiting the Fund for Lake George, to help with their efforts to keep the lake clean and pristine for years to come."

Saratoga Springs-based Let's Be Leonard will kick things off at 4 p.m. for an hour long set of rock 'n roll jazz explosion before passing the baton to New England-based Strange Machines at 5:15 p.m. for a melting pot of funky rock and livetronica fusion. At 6:45 p.m., Soule Monde will take the stage, featuring Russ

Lawton and fellow Trey Anastasio band member, Ray Paczkowski. An ideal union of swagger and raw talent, the duo is colorful, bold and highly responsive to one another's artistry. Lake George's own Formula 5 will once again take the stage as this year's headliner at 8:15 p.m. Every performance by Joe Davis, Matt Richards, Greg Marek and James Woods is unique, leaving the listener excited for where the band may venture with its broad range of styles.

"It's pretty cool growing a band from such a little town. We play all over the Eastern watershed and to have so many people gather in a place that molded who I am, it's pretty special," said drummer Greg Marek. "This place is pretty special. I'm just happy I can share the beauty of the lake along with our music to such wonderful people."

If the music and inexpensive ticket price aren't enough to reel you in, food trucks like The Plaid Pancake, Wood Shack Pizza and Sunshine Catering will keep your bellies full while a beer truck and bars on all three ships will keep your thirst quenched. Vendors will include Buffalo Bannan Designs and Adirondack Aromatherapy as well as other unique craftspeople selling soaps, oils, jewelry, festival gear and more.

Advance tickets cost $7. Day-of ticket prices for this year's festival are $10 for ages 12 and up, and is free for everyone under 11. For tickets and information, visit rockthedocklakegeorge.com.

Spin Doctors wheeling its way to Schenectady

By KAITLIN LEMBO
 lembok@spotlightnews.com

SCHENECTADY
 — When it comes to '90s jam band success, the Spin Doctors are one of the biggest names.

Songs like “Little Miss Can't Be Wrong” and “Two Princes” first splashed across MTV airwaves in summer 1992, gaining the band commercial success. The group found itself on the lineup for the first H.O.R.D.E. Music Festival, sharing the stage with big acts like Phish, Widespread Panic and The Samples.

Twenty-six years after the MTV wave, the Spin Doctors are coming to Schenectady for one night of musical fun. Headlining the Schenectady County SummerNight 2018 concert, the Spin Doctors are performing with bands Lucy and Bendt.

This concert is free to all and will take place on Friday, July 13, from 5 to 10 p.m. on the Jay Street Pedestrian Mall, at 109 Jay Street. The Spin Doctors will take the stage around 8:30 p.m.

The Spin Doctors was formed in the late '80s, tracing its roots back to New York City. Originally called Trucking Company, the band changed its name in 1989 and released several popular records, including “Pocket Full of Kryptonite,” “Turn It Upside Down” and “You've Got to Believe in Something.” The band also recorded covers of other songs, including Creedence Clearwater Revival's “Have You Ever Seen The Rain?” for the movie “Philadelphia” and Jimi Hendrix's “Spanish Castle Magic.”

“There was always something special, from the very first time we played together,” Spin Doctors member Chris Barron once said of the band's longstanding musical chemistry. “Even if we don't see each other or play together for a while. It's like riding a bicycle. A bicycle that makes loud, very beautiful music.”

Lucy, a Saratoga Springs-based band, was formed in 2014. The band maneuvers through indie pop and rock to form its unique sound. Lucy has performed with national acts Cold War Kids, Circa Waves and July Talk.

Bendt has formed a sound that has carved itself into modern day rock. Formed in Albany in 2015, its three members work to craft a unique presence, one that draws from their individual musicianship and shared love of hard rock, alternative, metal, and funk.

For more information about Schenectady County SummerNight 2018, visit <https://www.schenectadycounty.com/content/summernight>.

The Spin Doctors, known for a string of jam hits off of its 1991 “Pocket Full of Kryptonite” release, will perform a free concert as part of Schenectady County's SummerNight 2018 this Friday night.

'Rocking Horse Winner' and 'Vinkensport, or The Finch Opera'

Double bill features the American premiere of 'Rocking Horse Winner,' the critically acclaimed chamber opera based on D.H. Lawrence's short story of the same name, and the world premiere of a new chamber version of "Vinkensport." "Winner" explores the relationship between Paul and his emotionally distant mother. Paul becomes dangerously obsessed with solving the "bad luck" of his family in order to win his mother's love. His pursuit awakens a strange magic that connects him not only to luck, but also to powerful voices only he can hear – voices that tell him which horses will win at the track. "Vinkensport" is a bittersweet comedy in one act that explores the nature of competition and the need to win through the frame of an obscure Flemish folk sport, Finch-Sitting. We see a motley assortment of contestants battle to see who has the most melodious bird. As they compete, the joys, sorrows, delusions and all-too-stark realities of their trainers are revealed. Please note that both productions contain suggestive, comedic adult content that may not be suitable for children. Sat., July 14 at 2 p.m. The Spa Little Theatre, Saratoga Spa State Park, 19 Roosevelt Dr., Saratoga Springs. Ticket prices start at $50, $72.50, and $95. (518) 584-9330 or tickets.spac.org (scroll to then click on preferred performance date and time).

'The Consul'

Almost 70 years later, Gian Carlo Menotti's riveting opera still delivers a punch as powerful and timely as its subject matter – the struggle for freedom against oppression, and the maddening nature of unrelenting bureaucracy. Set in an unnamed European city, political dissident John Sorel is on the run from the secret police. After he escapes the country, his devoted wife Magda clashes with the bureaucracy at the Consulate while trying to obtain an exit visa for her family. The emotional high point of the opera comes when Magda, thwarted in her quest for a visa, addresses the Consul's secretary in "To this we've come," a stirring lament over the world's indifference to inhumanity and suffering. The suspenseful narrative surprises with several magical touches and is buoyed by a melodic score in which love, hope, and redemption all play their part. Please note that this production contains mature themes and is not suitable for teenagers. Presented by Opera Saratoga. FILM

'The Beatles:

Yellow Submarine

An icon of psychedelic pop culture, Yellow Submarine is a colorful musical spectacle brimming with peace, love, and hope for all ages! Propelled by Beatles songs, including "Eleanor Rigby," "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," "All You Need Is Love," "When I'm Sixty-Four," and so very many more, Yellow Submarine was instantly recognized as a landmark achievement. Now, for its 50th Anniversary, both the audio and the artwork have been painstakingly restored, and – due to the delicate nature of the hand-drawn original art – the restoration was completed frame-by-frame by hand. Rated G. 85 minutes. Wed., July 11, at 7 p.m. GE Theatre, Proctors, 432 State St., Schenectady. Adults, $9 for evening shows; $6 for matinees before 6 p.m.; All tickets for seniors, students and children are $6. (518) 346-6204 or tickets.proctors.org

HOROSCOPES

July 2018
Week 2

ARIES – MAR 21/APR 20

Aries, your head is in the stars and your feet are on the ground, but this outlook is working for you. Just do not live in fantasy land too long.

TAURUS – APR 21/MAY 21

Taurus, just when you thought a relationship had gone as far as it could go, things start to change this week. Plenty of excitement is coming your way.

GEMINI – MAY 22/JUN 21

You might get word of something exciting or new coming your way, Gemini. A chance to socialize with others or even a job opportunity may be on the horizon. Keep an eye out.

CANCER – JUN 22/JUL 22

This is a week for having fun and letting loose, Cancer. These may be things you haven't done in some time and you can certainly use a break from the norm.

LEO – JUL 23/AUG 23

You may be reticent to go back to work, especially if you are coming off of an extended vacation, Leo. But putting off the inevitable will only make the transition tougher.

VIRGO – AUG 24/SEPT 22

Virgo, there may be some buzz surrounding your social life this week if you are game for taking chances. It may be time to pursue a burgeoning friendship.

LIBRA – SEPT 23/OCT 23

Are you ready for a well-calculated risk, Libra? If so, then a startup venture, sizable investment or converting a hobby into a career could be the way to go.

SCORPIO – OCT 24/NOV 22

You can't lie to yourself, Scorpio, so own up to anything that needs improving. Take some time for some serious self-reflection and devise a plan to fix things.

SAGITTARIUS – NOV 23/DEC 21

Love and support are all around you this week, Sagittarius. This support couldn't come soon enough. Some extra support will help you overcome an obstacle.

CAPRICORN – DEC 22/JAN 20

Capricorn, there is strength in numbers. If you can rally together a team, you can accomplish much of your to-do list for the week in half of the time.

AQUARIUS – JAN 21/FEB 18

Thoughts about how you can work less but earn more may have been swirling through your mind, Aquarius. Write down your plan and determine how to make it happen.

PISCES – FEB 19/MAR 20

Truth may be stranger than fiction this week, Pisces. Before you believe that something is false, gather all the facts.

FOOD & VINO

Fake it 'til you make it

Farm-raised catfish is a great choice for diners who prefer healthy, sustainably sourced seafood. But as flavorful as farm-raised catfish can be, chef Kevin Gillespie, author of "Fire In My Belly" (Andrews McMeel), wanted to up the flavor factor even further, ultimately crafting this recipe for "Shrimp-Stuffed Pan-Fried Catfish."

Shrimp-Stuffed Pan-Fried Catfish

Ingredients — Serves 4

- 8 skinless center-cut catfish fillets, about 2 ounces each
- 1/3 cup Fresh Shrimp Paste (see below)
- Canola oil for frying
- 3/4 cup fine-ground cornmeal
- Salt
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 large eggs
- 1/2 cup Avocado Puree (see below)

Directions:

1. Pat the fillets dry with a paper towel. Trim the fillets so that they are the same size and thickness. Set 4 of the fillets skin-side up (where the skin used to be) on a paper towel and spread each with 1 Tablespoon shrimp paste; you want a nice thick layer evenly covering the fillet. Top each with a second fillet, (former) skin-side down. Refrigerate to allow the shrimp paste to set and kind of "glue" the fillets together, about 10 minutes.

2. Heat the oil in a deep fryer to 325°F. Or heat 1 inch of oil in a deep skillet to 325°F. This frying temperature is lower than normal to allow the heat to reach the filling before the outside burns.

3. Line a baking sheet with a cooking rack. Season the cornmeal with salt.

4. Bread the fish using the 3-step fry prep with the flour, eggs and seasoned cornmeal. Fry the fish until it's golden brown, 5 to 6 minutes. If you are pan-frying, fry for 4 to 5 minutes, flip over and fry for another 3 to 4 minutes, until all sides are golden brown. Transfer the fish to a rack to drain.

5. To serve, use a thin-bladed knife to cut each fish bundle in half cross-wise. Spoon a pool of avocado puree onto the center of each serving plate and stand the two halves cut-side up on the puree.

Fresh Shrimp Paste

Makes about 2 cups

- 8 skinless center-cut catfish fillets, about 2 ounces each
- 2 egg whites, at room temperature
- 12 ounces shrimp, peeled, deveined and diced
- 1 tablespoon Sweet Herb Blend (see below)
- Salt

1. Fit a mixer with the whisk attachment and add the egg whites to the mixer bowl. Beat on low speed until frothy, then crank it up to high and beat until soft peaks form when the whisk is lifted.

2. Fit a food processor with the metal blade and add the shrimp to the work bowl. Pulse about 6 times, or just until the mixture is nearly smooth. Add the egg whites, herbs and a pinch of salt. Pulse to a smooth paste, about five 5-second pulses. Transfer to a bowl and refrigerate until ready to use. This is best used the day it is made.

3. To make the sweet herb blend, gather together equal parts fresh celery leaves, parsley leaves, tarragon, and thyme (stems removed). Mince and go.

Note: Leftover shrimp paste can be used to make shrimp toast as an appetizer. Remove the crusts from white sandwich bread and cut the bread diagonally into quarters. Spread each triangle with about 2 teaspoons shrimp paste and fry, shrimp-side down, in an oiled skillet over medium heat until golden brown, about 3 minutes. Flip and fry the toasts for another minute to brown the bottom crust. Transfer to a paper towel to drain.

Avocado Puree

Makes about 1/2 cup

- 8 skinless center-cut catfish fillets, about 2 ounces each
- 1 ripe avocado
- 1 plump lime
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

1. Cut the avocado in half from the north pole to the south pole and remove the pit. Cut the flesh into small chunks and transfer to a mini chopper or small food processor with about 1 tablespoon lime juice, the water and the salt. Puree until smooth, about 30 seconds. Press the puree through a fine-mesh strainer to make it even more velvety. Cover and refrigerate. If you are making and storing the puree overnight, squeeze some more lime juice over the surface of the puree before covering it so that it won't turn dark.

Pairing:

Kendall Jackson 'Vinters' Reserve Chardonnay 2016

Kendall Jackson Family Estates — California

When we first started this adventure of pairing recipes with wines, we often used a picture of this wine — regardless of what wine we selected that week. This week, however, we go to Kendall Jackson Family Estate to go along with this dish. This chardonnay provides ripe pear and buttery flavors with lemony acidity, which pairs perfectly.

Of course, the best pairing is one of your own choosing. Let us know what you think by reaching out to us on Facebook at TheSpot518.com. Please share what pairings you ultimately went with.

What to do after suffering a sunburn

Summer fun routinely involves days spent soaking up some of the sun's rays. Relaxing days at the beach, barbecues in the backyard or picnics at the park can make for fun summer activities that create lasting memories.

While spending time in the great outdoors is a great way to take advantage of summer weather, it's important that revelers take steps to prevent sunburn when spending days beneath the hot summer sun. Sunburns may seem temporary, but the Skin Cancer Foundation notes that sunburn can cause long-lasting skin damage. In addition, the SCF notes that a person's risk for melanoma, the most dangerous form of skin cancer, doubles if he or she has had more than five sunburns.

It can take several hours to notice the full damage of a sunburn, though some people may notice mild symptoms of sunburn more quickly than that. The SCF recommends that people get out of the sun at the first sign of sunburn, and then take the following steps to treat their skin.

Cool the skin down quickly

People sitting near cool water, whether it's the ocean or a backyard pool, should take a quick dip to cool their skin. Make this dip quick so your skin is not further exposed to the sun. After taking a dip, cover up your skin and get out of the sun, continuing to cool the skin with a cold compress. Do not apply ice directly to sunburned skin. Some people may want to take a cool shower or bath after suffering a sunburn. While that's alright, the SCF recommends keeping the bath or shower short, as long baths or showers can dry the skin, and avoiding harsh soap that can be irritating.

Moisturize skin while it's still damp

Apply a gentle moisturizing lotion while the skin is still damp, and continue doing so to affected areas for a few days. Avoid petroleum- or oil-based ointments, as they can trap the heat and make burns worse.

Decrease inflammation

A nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory (NSAID) like aspirin, ibuprofen or naproxen can help sunburned men and women manage the pain and discomfort associated with their sunburns. Symptoms such as redness and swelling may be mitigated with a 1 percent over-the-counter cortisone cream applied as directed for a few days.

Wear the right clothing

Tight clothing can rub up against sunburned skin and irritate it even further. Until sunburned skin returns to normal, wear loose, soft and breathable clothing to keep irritation to a minimum.

Make a conscious effort to stay hydrated

Sunburns draw fluid to the surface of skin, taking it away from the rest of the body. So it's important that men and women who have suffered a sunburn make a conscious effort to drink more fluids until their skin heals so they can avoid becoming dehydrated.

Report severe sunburns to a physician

Symptoms of severe sunburn include blistering of the skin, fever, chills, wooziness, and/or feelings of confusion. Report such symptoms to a physician immediately, and avoid popping blisters, as doing so can lead to infection.

Sunburns can always be avoided. Men, women and children planning to spend time in the sun should take every measure to avoid sunburn, which can produce long-lasting damage to the skin.

Experts recommend using moisturizers on sunburned skin while it's still damp, and avoiding petroleum- or oil-based ointments.

A night of rockin' southern soul

Special Guests Join Tedeschi Trucks Band at SPAC

By PETE MASON
nymusic.com

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Southern rock and roll rose up in the Spa City on Tuesday, July 3, led by Greenville, South Carolina's Marcus

King Band, Tuscaloosa, Alabama's Drive-By Truckers and Jacksonville, Florida's Tedeschi Trucks Band.

If that lineup of musicians doesn't conjure images of extended soulful guitar solos and rock 'n' roll in the vein of The Allman Brothers Band, you may need to eat a peach.

Over three hours of combined music, these three bands combined for one of the most rockin' shows this year, and a treat for anyone able to see the Wheels of Soul tour and is treks across New York state and the country this month, headed west for a two-night run at Red Rocks in Colorado.

Opening with "Tell the Truth," TTB's love for Clapton shone on both ends of the set, with "Key to the Highway" appearing later in the set. "Don't Know What it Means" with its blaring horn intro and Tedeschi's pipes never fail to get bodies moving, and a giant sax bridge from Kebbi Williams segued perfectly into "The Letter." A smooth jam in "Little Martha/Midnight in Harlem" preceded covers of Dylan's "Down in the Flood," and the Stevie Wonder written/The Band performed "Loving You is Sweeter Than Ever," then punctuated by "I Want More," an original that crescendoed like a rock orchestra, ending with thunderous drums from the duo of J.J. Johnson and Tyler Greenwell.

The earlier performers of the evening were welcomed to the stage eagerly by both band

and audience. Drive by Trucker's Patterson Hood joined in on "Let me roll with it," a sing along featuring double driving guitar via Hood and Trucks. Marcus King joined on guitar and vocals for Clapton/B.B. King's "Key to the Highway," where Mike Mattison showed monster presence with his powerful vocals. To close the night, the band welcomed Eric Krasno of Lettuce and

Soulive fame and Tash Neal from London Souls for an enthusiastic "Statesboro Blues."

There is as mantle for the wider Allman Brothers Band family, including Gov't Mule, Les Briers, Great Southern, Derek Trucks Band, Tedeschi Trucks Band, and many more yet to come. To see any is to experience the full southern rock band sound, the real deal, every time.

Taylor Doesn't Disappoint Fans In Timeless Concert

By LAURA DaPOLITO
nysmusic.com

LEE, Mass. — Berkshires resident and world-loved music legend James Taylor crooned to a sold-out crowd at Tanglewood on Tuesday, July 3, the first night of his traditional two nights at the rural venue near his summer home. The crowd filled every inch of the manicured lawn with blankets, tables, chairs and fine dining accessories, clearly reflecting that this wasn't the first JT concert attended by most fans. Inside seats were filled as the crowd sat in high humidity and heat, waiting with anticipation for the first set.

Taylor was the first artist to set foot on the stage a little after 8 p.m., and he was met by cheering fans who quickly forgave the brief tardiness. The 70-year-old star appeared in his long pants, dress shirt and cap, and after brief waves, he slung his guitar over his shoulder as he sang "Carolina on My Mind."

Taylor transitioned through both well-known pieces and some lesser-known songs in the first set. The light show, coordinated with the chorus and highlights of "Country Road," seemed intent to remind the audience that they are indeed at a rock concert, not a folk concert.

It would be a bumpy first set, though, marked by amp problems, some pacing issues, and low energy from artist and crowd alike. At one point after "Frozen Man," seasoned Taylor matched the key of the reverb from the amp and joked, "Do we have any songs in that key?" Using humor and his incredibly flexible vocals, Taylor kept the crowd engaged through some slower moments. He introduced band members throughout the first set, and indeed the band members, including two percussionists, a trumpet player, flute and saxophone player, three backup singers, pianist, fiddle and of course the customary guitar and bass, are an all-star band. Taylor turned to look at each artist as he or she performed, and genuinely reflected an appreciation for sharing the music with the artists.

Folksy and dancing little jigs, Taylor covered "(I'm a) Road Runner" and danced around the stage. This seemed to wake the audience back up, but there was a bit wrong with the rhythm section and the band seemed off the pace with one another. "Copperline" saved the set, though, with Taylor's infallible voice finding its vertical pitches with beautiful ease. They rolled into "Handyman" and "Mexico," bringing the crowd to its feet.

Before breaking for intermission, Taylor looked at the setlist and joked with the audience, pacing them for the 20-minute break and promising "a lot of hits" in the next set. In between, he was on stage, signing autographs and taking pictures with fans.

The second set delivered on the hits, and more than compensated for any troubling moments from earlier in the night. Fans sang along to the most famous James Taylor tunes, swaying in the heat to "Something in the Way She Moves." Taylor impossibly made himself even more human and relatable with a song about his dog, Sunny, and shared adorable pictures of the pug. Each song in the set related to the human experience: loving someone, losing someone, having a dog, being a friend.

And that's really why people go to see James Taylor – the articulation of their own very human experience. We go to be reminded that we aren't alone in these hard emotions, and in fact everyone struggles with sadness, joy, and how to show love. "Shower the People You Love" brought the crowd to its feet, singing along and encouraging folks to do just that – show the love to those around you.

From "Sunny Skies" and "Walking Man," the set transitioned to the faster, more intense rock feel of "Steam Roller." Playing on a baby blue electric guitar, Taylor's only electric guitar song featured some impressive riffs by the pianist, bassist, and sax players. Taylor waved his cap over the instruments, and jumped on one leg like an old time rock star, bringing gasps of joy and screams of love from the audience.

Filled with folks who had traveled long distances to get to Tanglewood, the crowd talked to each other with civility, gentleness, and a genuine interest in one another in the shed. Couples surrounding this reviewer came from New Haven, Rochester, and even Philadelphia. It had become an annual pilgrimage for many of them. When asked why the same smile crossed their lips, heads shook a bit in disbelief, and no one could really articulate a specific reason beyond loving the music. But with the encore of "You've Got a Friend," fans were truly speaking their hearts. James Taylor is their friend, their company in easy and hard times alike.

En Vogue

ALBANY — One of the top selling all-female groups in music history plays to a Capital City crowd for free at the Empire State Plaza on Wednesday, July 11, at 5:30 p.m.

En Vogue takes to the stage as part of the Capital Concert Series at the Empire State Plaza. The group had burst out into national view with hits like "Free Your Mind" and "Whatta Man," making it a household name in the early '90s. It has since sold more than 20 million albums to date.

The show is free and starts at 5:30 p.m.

The Empire State Plaza is located in downtown Albany.

Film: Muse 'Drones World Tour'

SCHENECTADY — Relive the visual magic of Muse's 2015-16 "Drones World Tour" with a showing of the documentary film at the GE Theatre at Proctors on Thursday, July 12, at 7 p.m.

Muse, the multi-platinum selling band, launched a 130-date tour in 2015. The band gave audiences a 360 degree view while performing "in the round" in the middle of each arena. In addition, the band launched drones into flight, broadcasting unique views projected onto giant screens, giving audiences a unique perspective.

Key songs performed on tour included "Psycho," "Madness," "Uprising," "Plug in Baby," "Supermassive Black Hole" and "Knights of Cydonia."

The 90-minute movie is not rated for audiences.

Tickets cost $9 each. For tickets and information, visit proctors.org.

GE Theatre at Proctors is located at 432 State St. in Schenectady.

Summer of Slamchop Tour

WATERFORD — Upstate Black n Blue presents another night of metal mayhem at Chrome Food & Spirits on Saturday, July 14.

Sunmark opens new branch

Latham-based credit union opens its second state-of-the-art branch on Delaware Avenue in Delmar.

DELMAR — Sunmark Federal Credit Union recently announced the opening of their second branch in two years. Following the successful opening of Sunmark's Rotterdam location in early 2017, Sunmark selected 265-267 Delaware Ave. in Delmar as the site of their most recent branch.

Sunmark has constructed an eighteen hundred square foot branch at the Delaware Avenue location with a grand opening scheduled for July. Sunmark would like to recognize Mr.

Rob Leslie and Mr. Kenneth Kovalchik from the Town of Bethlehem planning department for assisting Sunmark on the project. With their help, residents will now be able to explore Sunmark as a financial partner and enjoy the benefits which include award winning technology, convenience and customer service.

The new Delmar branch is a full-service location that is also equipped with Interactive Teller Machines or myTM's. Offering more functionality than an Automated Teller Machine (ATM), the myTM's are a convenient and easy to use self-service kiosk banking platform that can perform many of the same transactions that would traditionally require a teller. This award-winning technology will extend convenient hours to all Sunmark members with select myTM's available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Sunmark CEO, Frank DeGraw added "This is another very exciting step for Sunmark. Our vision is to be the Capital Region's trusted and preferred financial institution that provides value and convenience. We look forward to serving the Delmar community and continue to review opportunities that will allow Sunmark to expand our services in the Capital Region."

Sunmark now has nine branches serving six counties and plans to continue to open more branches to accommodate current and potential members. All new branches will also feature the myTM kiosks to allow members the flexibility to do their banking on their schedule.

Since 1937, Sunmark Federal Credit Union has been helping members in the greater Capital Region community improve their financial position.

Sunmark is committed to the financial health and well-being of the community by offering tools that educate and inform and products and services that make it easier to reach financial goals. For more information, call (518) 382-0605 or visit www.sunmarkfcu.org.

Summer has arrived at The Spinney

By KAITLIN LEMBO
 lembok@spotlightnews.com

DELMAR — Cottages are running low at The Spinney at Van Dyke, peppering the grounds with happy residents who are enjoying the beginning of summer.

“If someone is considering moving into the cottage lifestyle, I suggest making an appointment to come tour our grounds now before the cottages become occupied,” said Samantha Raynor, director of leasing and marketing at The Spinney Group. “Chances are, they will like what they see and find the cottage life is for them.”

The Spinney at Van Dyke is a neighborhood of its own, designed for the 55-and-older community that has retired into their next phase of lifestyle, or working professionals working towards that goal.

What makes The Spinney so unique is its one-story living approach. All of its buildings are built this way so residents do not need to climb stairs in their homes again, allowing them to age in place. Another reason for this building technique is for the convenience of privacy. No one will ever live above or below them, unlike apartment buildings that are built floor on floor. Adding to the attractiveness of this concept, most unit types have attached, direct-access garages and private front porches and back patios, further mimicking the feel of a single-family home.

The neighborhood is also designed like a typical residential development.

Each home given a distinct character, and in some cases, tree rows lining the side of the road. The aesthetic that often times mirror the neighborhoods residents leave behind, tends to coax back a sense of community.

While Spinney cottages’ amenities may make residents feel as if they’re living in a single-family home, they will no longer feel the woes associated with homeownership. Think about regaining all the time spent on mowing the lawn, shoveling snow and fixing the plumbing, so you can focus on family, friends and hobbies — hobbies which can be further fostered by the group’s community events calendar.

Crews are hard at work completing the new community garden and two new pools at The Spinney at Van Dyke.

“We hope to have the pools done by the end of the summer,” Raynor said. “The weather tends to be the hottest toward the end, so the residents will have a place to cool off right in their backyard.”

In the meantime, residents have been using Van Dyke’s sister property, Adams Station, and the pools it has to offer. Raynor said she sees the most excited residents be using their new pool once it is finished.

Accompanying the pool and garden is a nature scene of one’s dreams, as deer, fox and other wildlife roam the grounds and trees that border most of the cottages.

“I think what sets us apart from other 55-and-better communities is how we are not just tall buildings, sitting on a slab, surrounded by parking lots,” Raynor said.”

Another huge development, a 4,000-square-foot community center, The Spinney’s clubhouse, opened in January, providing a town square feel that allows its residents to socialize and gather for sponsored events. The community garden, complete with raised beds, will allow residing gardeners to plant and grow their favorite plants that can later be planted by the group’s grounds keepers. All residents have to do is clean up their plot at the end of the season.

“We hope to have the garden completed at the same time as the pool, although planting season will have passed by then,” Raynor said. “We are aiming for a 2019 planting season. We want to make sure all of the dust from construction is gone so everyone can enjoy the garden.”

Bank gives back to the community you love

KINDERhook supports a number of local organizations, and likes pets too

By KAITLIN LEMBO and MICHAEL HALLISEY
news@Spotlightnews.com

DELMAR — It has been almost seven years since Delmar welcomed Kinderhook Bank into the neighborhood, and there hasn't been a word of regret since.

"The recent move from 180 Delaware Ave. to our present location at 197 Delaware Ave. is great — it's really a prime location," John A. Balli, president and CEO said. "We're now able to offer customers a full-service branch and the Delmar staff are drawing in lots of new business."

It's what the bank does with its business that makes it so special — staff members make it a point to get personally involved in their communities. In Delmar, Branch Manager and Assistant Vice President Shoham Piorentino and Tanyah Simmons, personal banker, started a bank program Team KINDerhook

Bank which recognizes first responders and other community groups in the area who make a difference.

"Shoham rallied other branch staff to make personal visits to various community groups in the Capital Region," McDannold explained. "While many have been first responders like fire, police and emergency services, there are also food pantries, veterans and senior organizations who have been recognized."

Staff members bring goodies like cookies, bagels, sandwich platters and other sweets to show their appreciation. The platters are decorated with a small American flag and accompanied with a very BIG thank you.

"This is our way of thanking those who have what sometimes seem like thankless jobs," Piorentino said, "and we want to personally tell them that the work they do is incredibly necessary and so important to our community."

The idea has set off a spark at Kinderhook Bank, and now all 11 branch areas participate in the program, affectionately named #teamKINDERhookbank on Facebook.

"People often focus on all the negatives going on," Simmons said. "There are so many more reasons to share the positive and kind things happening in our communities."

Kinderhook Bank also prides itself on being pet-friendly, sharing pictures of its furry customers and their humans as they trot — or drive — through the bank.

"The pet program has been going on at Kinderhook Bank for a long time," McDannold said. "We have free coffee and cookies for our customers so we also want to welcome their pets with free treats and leashes at each branch. We love seeing our furry friends. They get their pictures taken and are posted on Facebook whenever we get a visit."

In fact, recently two young deer were spotted in the drive-thru at the Delmar branch. The bank posted a fun picture on Facebook, garnering over 30 reactions. The post included a note about the young family returning to Mama Deer safely.

The KINDness continues with Kinderhook Bank sponsoring many little league teams in the communities they service, recently purchasing a new scoreboard for the Tri Village Little League field in Bethlehem at the opening of the 2018 season.

"We were happy to step up and sponsor the new scoreboard when we found out the team needed it," McDannold said. "For many years, Frank Trosset was involved with the league and knew there was a need."

She added the reason why Kinderhook Bank stands out is because it continues to support important sponsorships like this wherever possible including school programs, food pantries, scout troops, many smaller not-for-profits and other local community programs.

Delmar's branch is run by Piorentino; Liz Bukowski, senior personal banker, and Tanyah Simmons, and Laura Kennedy, personal bankers. Kelly Bailey, AVP & residential mortgage lending and Frank Trosset, VP of commercial lending are also located at the Delmar branch.

"We are people who love our communities," McDannold said. "And we love finding ways to build new relationships that keep us involved and help to grow the communities we serve."

Veronica's in Altamont

Challenges perceptions and pleases palates

By LIANNE WEBSTER-KIM

kiml@spotlightnews.com

ALTAMONT — Longtime Capital District restaurateur Peter Blackman is challenging the long-held perception that the village's only restaurant is an unapproachable, high-end dining establishment.

At Veronica's Culinary Tavern, housed in what used to be Mio Vino, Blackman strives to provide a versatile dining experience where everyone is welcome, whether they've come to celebrate a special occasion with a fancy dinner or simply enjoy a beer at the bar after finishing yardwork for the day.

Blackman, who's previously been at the helm of both Mazzone Hospitality's Apertivo in downtown Schenectady, and White Management's Mangia Wood Fired Pizza in Slingerlands, admits that Veronica's could very well be considered the child borne of the other two establishments.

While Blackman's goal is to provide diners with service and experience that exceeds their expectations, even more so than the food, he says the dishes prepared by Johnson & Wales trained Chef Alex Carusone are nothing short of "spectacular." In fact, the two test and approve each dish that appears on Veronica's menu.

In the two weeks since the restaurant debuted its new menu, Blackman says the Pappardelle Bolognese, the Buffalo Pork Chop, and the Chicken Oscar are extremely popular. His suggestion for selecting an entree: "If it sounds good to you, then it's going to be fantastic."

Blackman considers Veronica's menu items to be reasonably priced, with entrees and pasta dinners ranging from $20 to $35. The restaurant is also introducing daily specials along with its new 10 to 1 Happy Hour, featuring drinks and small plate items priced from $1 to $10.

Veronica's Culinary Tavern, located at 186 Main St. in the village of Altamont, is open Tuesday through Thursday from 4 to 9 p.m., and Friday and Saturday, from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. For more information about the restaurant, including its current menu, visit www.veronicastavern.com. To reserve a table, please call (518) 595-5095.

A continuing presence

Vella, Carbone & Associates work to ensure continuity

DELMAR — The attorneys at Vella, Carbone & Associates in Delmar have planned their business to be a continuing presence in the community.

"We often work with multiple generations of the same family and we are building our staff in a manner that ensures continuity for those families," said Aaron Carbone, one of the founding partners.

Margaret Vella, Carbone and their associates have served the Capital District for many years, concentrating in the areas of trusts and estate planning and administration, elder law, and guardianships for incapacitated individuals.

"We often deal with several issues within a family," said Vella. "For example: an individual may have died, the surviving spouse now needs a caregiver and their adult children need our help sorting out the next steps."

The attorneys in the firm often collaborate on planning for clients, which Vella says, "gives our clients the benefit of all of our experience."

Carbone is an experienced litigator, for example. "Litigation can be complex," he said. "And we work hard to explain the process to our clients and obtain a fair outcome for them."

Good communication is key, according to Vella. "We take the 'consulting' part of our profession seriously," she said. "We want to create an environment where our clients feel comfortable, ask questions, and tell us if they do not understand something. We want to work in partnership with our clients."

Look no further than The Richer Team

A local firm with national exposure

By MICHAEL HALLISEY and KAITLIN LEMBO

news@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY — When it comes to commercial real estate, you want to find a reputable agent, or team of agents, who handles each sale as if it were their own. That's exactly what you'll find when you make a visit to The Richer Team.

Each member of The Richer Team holds specific professional expertise, which allows them to bring a unique perspective to meeting the real estate challenges of their clients. A full service commercial real estate team, The Richer Team, under the umbrella of Hanna Commercial Real Estate, possesses experience in all aspects of commercial real estate sales and leasing including land development, professional/medical office, warehousing, mixed use buildings, hotels, gas stations, restaurants, multifamily apartment buildings and senior housing communities.

"As a result of our dedication, we are recognized by our clients and peers alike for our outstanding service and positive results," commercial real estate agent Jessica Richer said.

She added the team's clients benefit from its local presence, as well as vast exposure that rivals national firms, due to the wide berth of territory that Hanna CRE covers. Hanna CRE currently conducts business in seven states, giving it wide recognition while still holding onto its family-owned roots of satisfying customers.

"Many of our clients have to be counseled in the fact that we are in a strong real estate market and their strategies may have to change from what their strategy may have been just two or three years prior," Richer said. "Now is a good time for buyers to mobilize their equity from smaller investments into larger investments."

While the Capital District real estate market is heavily influenced by technological, political and global forces, Richer said this is one of the best times to be purchasing real estate.

"We are continuing to see declining single digit cap rates on investment properties with an increasing interest rate environment," Richer said. "This would suggest increased demand for commercial real estate investments."

Richer said everyone looking to purchase real estate or make an investment should look at several agents to see who fits them best.

By doing this, the potential buyer is saving time, money and frustration in the long run. However, many will find exactly what they are looking for in a commercial real estate experience as soon as they walk through the doors of The Richer Team's offices.

"There are so many pitfalls and potential areas where a buyer and seller can cost themselves time, money and legal aggravation that a real estate expert can alleviate," she said. "We are committed to listening to our clients and understanding their individual needs and unique business challenges."

Contact The Richer Team by calling Jessica Richer on her cell at (518) 364-7506, via email at jessicaricher@HannaCRE.com or by or visiting its office at 20 Aviation Road, Albany.

It's time for the Punkintown Fair

New Salem Fire Department hosts community event for the 76th time

VOORHEESVILLE — This year marks the 76th Annual Punkintown Fair for the New Salem Volunteer Fire Department.

A favorite summer tradition for many, the fair is held during the last full weekend in July and offers three evenings of fun-filled activities for the whole family. This year, the Punkintown Fair will take place on Thursday, July 26 through Saturday, July 28, culminating in a fireworks display on Saturday night. The fair opens each evening at 6 p.m. and admission and parking are free.

Originally held as a fundraiser for troops overseas, the Punkintown Fair has grown into the largest annual fundraiser for the fire department since its inception in 1949.

“The fair is definitely a community tradition,” said Katy Carl of the Punkintown Fair Committee. “Each year we love seeing so many familiar faces in the crowd!”

In addition to fair games, carnival rides (suitable for every age), great food, live music and karaoke, a fair raffle will award one lucky winner a grand prize of $2,000. (Second place wins $1,000 and third place wins $500. There are also smaller items, provided by local businesses, that will be won by raffle ticket holders.) Residents of the fire district receive tickets in the mail and are invited to purchase them for $5, either by mail or at the fair. Everyone else can buy tickets during the fair at the announcer's booth.

The Punkintown Fair is located directly across the street from the New Salem Fire House in Voorheesville, at 694 New Salem Road.

“All three nights are sure to be packed with good food and fun,” said Carl. “We hope to see everyone there again this year!”

Please visit the fire department website at www.newsalemvfd.org for additional information and updates as the event gets closer.

Expand living spaces

Major renovations are not always needed

Homeowners looking to add more space to their homes do not necessarily need to make major renovations.

Outdoor living spaces are coveted niches in a home. The American Home Furnishings Alliance says more than 70 percent of American households have outdoor living spaces, and nearly 70 percent of people use these spaces at least once per week in-season. Furthermore, homeowners are increasingly interested in enhancing these spaces to make them more usable and comfortable.

While the creation of outdoor living spaces can cost thousands of dollars depending on the renovation, homeowners have more budget-friendly options at their disposal as well. The following are some ways to create inviting spaces no matter how much square-footage is present.

Revamp a garage or shed

Rather than turning a storage area into a catch-all for items time forgot, clean out the space and put it to better use. For instance, kids may appreciate their own clubhouse away from the main living area. These spaces also can be handy bonus rooms for when Mother Nature doesn't cooperate and backyard guests need to seek shelter. Wall art, curtains, a pendant light, and some comfortable outdoor-compatible furniture can quickly transform a space.

Create a relaxing nook

Whether there's a ledge, overhang, small terrace, or porch off the house, turn it into a relaxing area for reading a book or sipping a beverage. Use a few outdoor pillows, pull up a small folding table and dress the area with hanging lights and potted plants for a quiet retreat.

Add privacy to a porch

If it's privacy you covet, install curtain rods and hang lightweight mesh or another translucent material that obscures neighbors' views without blocking out natural light. Invest in outdoor sofas and chaises to create an outdoor living room right on the porch. If your budget allows, consider closing in the porch as a true three-season room so it can be used throughout fall, spring and summer.

Delaware Plaza to get a new look

Owners hope improvements will keep center competitive

DELMAR — Delmar Plaza will be receiving a facelift over the next several months, as the owners—a family with deep roots in the area—endeavor to beautify and modernize the property, which received its last makeover about 30 years ago.

“We’re going to put a whole new facade on the front of the whole plaza, except for Hannaford because they just spent millions of dollars redoing their whole store,” explained former state Senator Howard Nolan. “We will also be replacing sidewalks in front of the plaza and doing some work on the parking lot.” The work will begin on Monday, July 16 and is expected to be complete by mid-November.

“We just felt that it’s time,” he continued. “When we bought this plaza, we were the only shopping center in the Town of Bethlehem and now there are many.” Noting the increased development in town, he said they are hoping to remain competitive and draw new businesses to occupy the 180 Delaware Avenue location, easily accessible by both Bethlehem and Albany residents.

Currently, the plaza is home to eight eating establishments, including Shalimar, Delmar Bistro and Hidden Cafe, a Greek restaurant voted best in the region many times. It also boasts two banks, Key and Citizen’s; five health and beauty options; six services (realty, taxes and daycare among them); and six retail stores—for things such as video games, wine, paper, and paint.

One thing Debbie Nolan Murray, Howard’s daughter, would like to see is a wider variety of retailers in the plaza. While she knows that many do their shopping online these days, she believes (correctly, according to one Facebook survey we conducted) that Delmar residents and other locals would be thrilled to have more clothing and home retail options nearby.

Acknowledging that there may be more options in town than in generations past, she said she still believes that they have the best location, “because we are right in the heart of Delmar, and Delmar is a great community!” Nolan said she has been a member of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce for many years, saying, “They really support their local businesses.”

“We have always had a good working relationship with the town,” said Sen. Howard Nolan, smiling as he recalled the relationships he has developed with each Town Supervisor, regardless of party politics.

Anyone interested in renting space in the plaza, which is usually close to capacity, should call (518) 439-9030 or email Debbie at debbie@thedelawareplaza.com.

Stop living with nail fungus

Albany Podiatry offers breakthrough treatment

ALBANY — Every summer Dr. Mark Friedman of Albany Podiatry sees an influx of patients with fungal nails.

Many people ignore the issue during colder months, but sandal season seems to bring a sense of urgency.

Albany Podiatry offers a breakthrough treatment for nail fungus called Clearanail.

This remarkable technology is a drug-free, pain-free medical procedure previously only available in Europe.

Clearanail assists in the treatment of unsightly and embarrassing toenails by penetrating deep to the nail bed where the fungus occurs.

Why is it so hard to get rid of?

Traditional treatment options for toenail fungus often don't work because topical products are unable to get through the toe's thick nail plate. Oral medications are not always an option for patients. Other treatments require removal of the affected toenail, creating an open wound which is not often advisable.

How does Clearanail work?

Clearanail is an "intelligent" nail drill that utilizes a patented Controlled Micro Penetration technology to create micro-pathways, or microscopic holes, in toenails, leaving the entire nail intact. This enables topical anti-fungal medications to penetrate beneath the nail plate and wipe out the fungus.

Patients typically need only one appointment, 40 minutes or less — depending on the number of toenails affected.

Is Clearanail safe?

Yes. Clearanail is computer-controlled and is completely safe, painless, and quick. It produces micro-pathways — just 0.4mm in diameter — in the nail without ever touching the skin beneath.

How many visits are required for it to work?

One. The micro-pathways remain in the nail until it grows out, and a new, healthy nail grows in.

Patients typically need only one appointment, 40 minutes or less — depending on the number of toenails affected.

The doctor will reevaluate the nails in a follow-up visit to assess patient progress, discuss ways to optimize success, and ensure desired results.

Is it possible to instantly improve the nail's appearance?

Yes. KeryFlex Nail Restoration System provides an immediate cosmetic solution to unsightly nails.

KeryFlex is a safe, durable method of instantly restoring a damaged nail to a healthy, natural look in less than an hour. KeryFlex is a great option for a special occasion prior to beginning Clearanail treatment.

Experience gracious living without worries

The tradition of caring continues at Kingsway

SCHENECTADY — It was 43 years ago that Kingsway Arms Nursing Center opened. The year was 1975 – when “Jaws” was the movie hit of the summer. Since that time, Kingsway has been providing quality care and a meaningful life for residents specializing in emphasizing an individual’s highest level of functioning within a safe, comfortable living environment.

The self-contained, 25-acre Kingsway Community campus is family-owned and operated. Whether living independently, in assisted living, memory care, or requiring skilled nursing or short-term rehabilitation, each resident can expect a variety of benefits and services from a dedicated staff of warm, caring professionals.

If you aren’t ready to come to Kingsway, Kingsway can come to you via Kingsway Home Care Service, where companions, aides or nurses can be of assistance in your own home. Having some help with laundry, housekeeping, meal preparation or errands can often make a big difference.

There is also an adult social day program for seniors who want to get out of the house and spend the day at Kingsway enjoying activities and socialization. For longer stays of two to six weeks, a Respite program is available within assisted living.

Some seniors need assistance with medications and personal care. Kingsway Manor Assisted Living provides such assistance along with restaurant-style dining for all meals, daily housekeeping, linen service, and transportation so residents can relax and enjoy the many social and intellectual life-enrichment programs. Enhanced assisted living levels of care are also available so residents can age-in-place.

Kingsway recognizes that each resident has individual and specific needs relating to their medical, physical, emotional and social well-being. Therefore, the numerous activities and programs offered at each level of care engage each resident, enhance socialization, maximize independence and increase quality of life.

Kingsway Community is more than senior living, it is a lifestyle. In addition to skilled nursing, rehabilitation, assisted living, memory care and home care, the campus offers three separate apartment buildings for independent seniors, each providing different services. Those services range from maintenance and transportation to fine dining, weekly housekeeping, linen service and the potential for a full social calendar.

For seniors who have spent many years alone or been responsible for a household, community living can bring welcome relief. Residents quickly discover a whole new world awaits them – a world of social events, education programs and meals guaranteed to please the palate. The benefits of senior living and that sense of belonging that comes from having others care is only the beginning. There is peace of mind knowing that preferred consideration at the skilled nursing facility on campus can take place if the need arises.

While initially the challenge of a move may seem overwhelming, once the destination has been chosen, the rest falls nicely into place. Residents soon find that the environment created at Kingsway ensures friends are made, burdens shared and days are more carefree. Call Kingsway at (518) 393-8800 to schedule a tour and see for yourself why so many people call Kingsway home.

Come home to Kingsway

Since 1975, Kingsway has been providing quality care, comfort and safety in supportive surroundings. For seniors who want independent living or for those who need assisted living, enhanced assisted living, memory care, rehabilitation or skilled nursing, Kingsway Community is the only senior living community dedicated to “Caring in the Family Tradition”. Come see for yourself why so many people call Kingsway home.

Camp is a real kick for kids

Popularity of soccer has exploded

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

The number of specialty sport camps have blossomed in recent years.

A recent New York Times report suggests the number of summer camps designed specifically for an individual sport has increased by nearly 25 percent within a 10-year period. The same article looked at a soccer camp in California's Silicon Valley which jumped 10 times its initial size over a 15-year period.

Though soccer continues to trail football, baseball and basketball in popularity, those numbers suggest America's youth is catching on to the rest of the world's love affair with the sport.

Jeff Guinn has been around the game of soccer long enough to recognize a change.

The Delmar native has coached the game for nearly 30 years — 29 years with the Bethlehem Soccer Club and another 22 years as the head coach of Union College's soccer program.

"I take from what I learned from being a pro," said Guinn. "But, the sign of any good coach, you take and borrow from others along the way, too."

The game is more accessible to today's children. Where games featuring the world's top talent was once limited to a single cable network, Guinn said kids can access highlights of Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo on demand through the internet. It's now common to see those same names scripted across the backs of his campers each summer.

Prokick Soccer is more like an academy than a day camp, said Guinn. Children enrolled into the program have a genuine interest in the game. Days focus on both individual skills and team working exercises.

Guinn said he's able to incorporate his unique experience as a soccer professional into his campers' lessons.

After playing for North Carolina State University, Guinn played seven years as a pro for the Albany Capitals.

Guinn said he won't promise that each of his campers will become collegiate or professional soccer players, but there is one goal he hopes they all achieve.

"We don't promise the kids will be pros once they leave," said Guinn, "but, we do focus on making sure they leave here learning at least something new."

Why Radiance is hot

The hot yoga and other workouts at Radiance Hot Yoga are geared to improve your body, mind, and soul.

Even if the physical work you do at RHY were similar to other places, our environment is unique.

Our yoga is practiced in a room heated by an infrared heating system that is both healing and soothing to the body. Research into heat therapy tells of benefits in circulation, relaxation, skin purification, and other areas. Humidity is also maintained in the room to optimize the environment.

Unlike many hot yoga studios that use forced hot air, our Glenmont studio's combination of heat, humidity, and constant flow of fresh, filtered air creates a healthy environment free of headaches and stale air.

Practicing in the heated room improves flexibility, strength, and range of motion. Vital physical balance and optimal body system health is restored, particularly through yoga classes like Bikram and Barkan yoga.

Bikram yoga, or sometimes called 26 & 2, is known for its back healing results.

Radiance yoga is different, too. We focus on instruction and alignment and think of our studio as a school. We aim for our students to learn more about themselves inside and out through their yoga experiences.

Sometimes discoveries are immediate, i.e. learning to do a properly aligned triangle pose in Bikram, and some learning happens over time, like learning to love the body you live in and treat it with loving kindness.

In every class we teach, including Bikram, Barkan, Yin, Vinyasa, Barre variations, HotHIIT (a core-based, strong, low-impact all over body workout) or Pilates-fusion classes, you will come out stronger, smarter, longer, happier, and ready to come back again.

A feel good event for a great cause

By KATIE HOPSICKER
intern@spotlightnews.com

SLINGERLANDS — “What’s special about us is that we stick to our motto... we provide a homey neighborhood feel while keeping up with current medical practices,” said veterinarian and owner, Dr. Lexi Becker.

“Hometown values with state of the art medicine” really does describe the small, family practice. The Animal Hospital has been serving the capital region for over 40 years, and has helped thousands of pets in the process.

The hospital’s “strong passion for rescue animals” will be shown at its ninth annual Pet Adoption Day on Saturday, July 21.

Becker stated that over the past nine years, the event “has grown beyond our wildest expectations.”

Last year, with the help of Steve Caporizzo and News Channel 10’s Pet Connection, the event raised over $20,000, and over 200 pets were adopted in a four-hour window. The partnership allows dogs in awful situations to finally be cared for. “It’s truly inspiring.”

Becker, who took over the practice from her father five years ago, says that both the staff and clientele are “lucky in many aspects... we truly treat every patient like our own.”

One of the only general practices in the region that offers laparoscopic surgery, the practice has developed reduced pricing, making the procedure more available. The smaller incision, faster recovery time and fewer complications make the surgery “much better for patients overall.”

The hospital limits its client base to focus efforts on and develop close relationships with clients and patients. The hospital and its staff prides itself in valuing the needs and care of each patient.

Pet Adoption Day will take place on Saturday, July 21, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Animal Hospital is located at 2 Rocking Horse Lane in Slingerlands.

Family-to-farm fun

BALLSTON LAKE — At Lakeside Farms Country Market and Restaurant in Ballston Lake, it’s all about family.

The business started when Robert Pearce bought the Schaubert Road farm in 1948 for its 19th century barn and cider press. Today, the place is run by third-generation brothers Rich and Jeff Pearce and has grown to include a restaurant and market, a pavilion for special occasions and a gift shop.

Beyond the cider and cider donuts, which Lakeside Farms is well known for, the family offers a variety of locally grown produce. Among the items for sale are eggs from a farm in Schuylerville, Battenkill milk, local honey, maple syrup from New York and Vermont and New York cheddar cheese.

Lakeside Farm isn’t just about the local produce and products. It’s also about the food! Lakeside Farms really began to diversify in the early 1980s, when it sold sandwiches and pies in the store. When that became popular, the business expanded to offer a breakfast menu in 1990, and then a full-blown dining area was created in the late 1990s.

It was also in the late 1990s when the Pearce’s built a pavilion for special events. Today, the pavilion is used for large celebrations including graduation parties and weddings, as well as Class Reunions and an annual antique show.

The Ye Olde Farmhouse Gift Shoppe at Lakeside Farm is split into several theme rooms, including a children’s room and an Adirondack section. The Gift Shoppe offers a large variety of items including curtains/valances, specialty kitchen items, seasonal decorations, greeting cards, Christmas ornaments and clothing.

Pearce said the response to the gift shop has been strong. “A lot of people were in there last year because they were interested in seeing what we did with the house,” he said.

Between the gift shop, the pavilion, the restaurant and its famous cider and cider donuts, Lakeside Farms is primed to be a family favorite for generations to come.

“It’s been a generation-to-generation type of thing. Parents bring their children here, and their children bring their children,” said Pearce.

Professional and courteous

Meyers Funeral Home celebrates 50 years

DELMAR — "In 50-plus years, no one has ever been turned down for lack of money," said Stephen Meyers of Meyers Funeral Home at 741 Delaware Ave. in Delmar.

During that time, he and his father Ben, who founded the home in 1968, have directed everything from "immediate disposition to the Taj Mahal" of funerals, he said, but no one has ever been turned away because they couldn't pay.

Most of those who have been bereaved, according to Meyers, are not aware of the options available to them when a loved one dies and there may not be much money left behind to cover funeral expenses.

"There are benefits out there, but people don't know where to look," said Meyers. "A big part of my job is finding assets for people that they didn't know they had." For instance, Meyers explained, the county will often cover many of the expenses, but each county has a different policy and it can be difficult information to find during a time of grief. In addition to Medicaid assistance, he said that there are additional veteran's benefits as well, including free interments for veterans and their spouses at Gerald B. H. Solomon Saratoga National Cemetery in many cases.

"Some counties are more difficult than others to work with," he explained. "Other counties, it's just a phone call and you can get a confirmation the next day. But, as long as we know the process is in order, we can go ahead and work with the families."

Meyers said he probably goes through that process four to six times a month, often with families from the various nearby counties.

"We have a very flexible policy," he said. "No two people are the same, and so no two funerals should be the same. We can meet needs at both ends of the spectrum and everything in between."

Joking that he could write a book about the funerals he has directed, Meyers declined to share any of those stories out of respect for the families.

"Remember that is someone's loved one that you're taking care of," he said. "So I always use the utmost professionalism and courtesy."

Wolf's is more than a sports bar

New banquet facilities are a hit

COLONIE — Locally owned and operated on Wolf Road for nine years, and surrounded by huge chains stores, restaurants and hotels, Wolf's has undergone some changes in the past year.

Last December, the huge game room in the back was converted into a banquet hall and owner Mike Diraddo said the response has been fantastic.

"We felt the business model had to shift and we felt that with the square footage we had to offer that this was the way to go," he said of the spot that can comfortably seat 275 people. "Our staff works very hard on food preparation and presentation and people have been unbelievably impressed."

The restaurant was known for bar-type food and while that is still an option for patrons, Diraddo and staff are focusing more on its traditional sit down meals of steak, sea food and pasta.

The restaurant also offers a family-style menu — platters of different food that can then all be shared among larger parties so everyone can try different things — which Diraddo said has been a very popular choice.

"We can cater to the couple looking for a nice meal to the large groups of people like an office coming in after work or an athletic team or a bus full of people on a trip," he said. "It's not unusual for us to have a group of 50 or 60 without a reservation."

The new draw, though, is the banquet hall and Diraddo expects the months of July and August, historically a slow time of year, to be his busiest in 2019.

"We are locally owned and operated on Wolf Road where there is chain restaurant after chain restaurant," he said. "We constantly have to re-invent ourselves to keep the customers happy while still offering a great meal at a great price."

These people don't have any problems - but your family may, if you don't pre-arrange and let them know exactly what you want.

Sign up for the Summer Academy

A fun and educational experience

ALBANY — The College of Saint Rose is running its 26th annual Summer Academy for Youth for students in grades six through ten.

The camp offers 60 classes in a variety of disciplines including math, science, art, technology, performing arts, history, writing, music, business and athletics. The focus is to provide fun and educational summer experiences in an effort to increase understanding in a given subject matter and to foster summer learning on a college campus.

Classes are not college level, but the goal is to provide key concepts and ideas related to the subject, while supplementing it with hands on activities, field trips and guest speakers. Material focuses on subjects and skills not commonly encountered in school and allows students the opportunity to delve into a new area of interest.

The instructors are either certified teachers, college professors or experts in the respective fields.

The camp is in its second week and there are three weeks left.

Notable classes for 2018 include screen printing, astronomy, mystery and crime writing, video production, sports team management, jamming and musical improvisation, environmental technology and sculpture.

“The mission of the Summer Academy is to provide students with a fun and educational experience in the summer months, and to get them excited about new areas of study,” said John Hunter, program director.

All classes are held on the College of Saint Rose campus at 432 Western Ave. The majority are held in classroom type settings but some may use theater spaces, recording studios, computer labs, TV studios or art space.

Lunch is part of the tuition for any student attending a full day of Summer Academy classes. All necessary supplies will be provided such as CDs, art supplies and computers. Students are welcome to bring a notebook and writing utensils if they desire.

Visit www.strose.edu/summer to view a complete list of classes or to register online. Last-minute registrations are welcome.

A salon that offers Great Clips

GLENMONT — “It’s gonna be great” is more than a slogan at Great Clips — It’s a promise.

Great Clips is largest hair salon brand in the world with more than 4,300 locations in the U.S. and Canada and three in the Capital District – Troy, Clifton Park and Glenmont.

“We make it easy on the customer, and we are the best at doing that,” said Gaurav Nawani, the franchise owner of the three stores mentioned above, about what sets Great Clips apart from the competition.

He said the salons are open extended hours to accommodate customers and Great Clips set an industry standard by offering an online check in to make it easy for customers to make a quasi-reservations.

Rather than walk in the salon and adding your name to the waiting list, a customer can add his or her name online and walk-in to get a haircut at their own convenience without having to wait a long time. Customers can also take advantage of an online check-in feature by downloading the Great Clips app.

“You can get a great haircut at your convenience without breaking the vault,” he said.

Also he said, the salons offer a shared database of their customer’s preferences.

“We have a system called clip notes where we keep detailed notes of each haircut a customer gets,” he said. “For example, say you are taking a vacation in Florida and you want to get your hair done while you’re away. All you have to do is visit a Great Clips in Florida and that stylist can pull up all your information and look at your preferences to ensure every customer who comes into our salon gets a great haircut every single time.”

For more information, visit the company website at GreatClips.com or you can call the Glenmont store at (518) 434-4000.

Minimize your downsizing dilemmas

By ALI HIBBS

hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

DELMAR — “Regardless of their age, the number one thing we hear when we meet a client for the first time is that they are overwhelmed and do not know where to begin,” said Michelle Kavanaugh-Anastasi, CEO and founder of Organize Senior Moves, LLC.

Organize Senior Moves (OSM) is an independently-owned moving management company trained and certified to work with clients during what can often be a stressful and emotional time, particularly for those going through the process of downsizing their possessions late in life. A member of the National Association of Senior Moving Managers, OSM also offers organization services and can help you stage your home for sale at any time of life.

Working with the client and, often, their family, OSM facilitates the move, while the client makes all the choices and directs the process. “Oftentimes, our clients are not only anxious about the move, but are also reluctant to say goodbye to some of their possessions,” said Kavanaugh. “Many of which they’ve had for many years.”

Eric Johnson and his brother found themselves in need of help when it was time for their mother to downsize to a smaller, more manageable living situation. They both live out of the state and neither was able to handle the daunting process alone. So Johnson found OSM and spoke with Kavanaugh.

“After our free, one-hour assessment, we develop a plan of attack,” explained Kavanaugh. “If you allow somebody to help you with the process, moving can be done very quickly and efficiently.”

“They were able to talk with my mom about what it means to get moving and what options they have,” said Johnson. “And not just about the logistics, but also about the change aspect—and to make it feel more positive.”

The process is simple. First, the new space is measured and a layout is chosen. Then, OSM works with the client to decide which items they will keep, and which they will sell, donate, give to family members or simply toss. The client is then packed up, moved and finally unpacked in their new space — including placement of furniture, hanging pictures, unpacking personal items, putting away dishes and making beds.

“At the time she was in a nursing home recovering from surgery and they would FaceTime with her and walk her through her place so she could pick out the things she wanted to bring with her and make decisions about the rest,” he said. “They also took pictures and created a shared library.” The team was good about guiding his mother through the process of downsizing things as simple as silverware, he noted, so she wouldn’t be bringing more than she really needed. “From 12 forks to four.”

“They were super trustworthy too,” he continued, explaining that OSM staff found an envelope filled with cash that his mom had “squirreled away” and contacted them right away.

On the day of the move, OSM had everything ready and Johnson said the new place was ready for his mother to move into within 24 hours. They also organized and tagged the remaining items heading to different locations.

“The most exciting part of our job is the day we move clients,” said Kavanaugh, who is clearly passionate about the work she does. “When our clients walk in to view their new home, the expressions on their faces are priceless.”

“Michelle [Kavanaugh] is awesome to work with,” said Johnson. “She’s totally on her game.”

“Whatever the client needs to make the move easier and less stressful,” said Kavanaugh. “Our team is dedicated to creating the confidence that a client needs to make the necessary decisions during a difficult transition. We will work closely with them to ensure their comfort, happiness and peace of mind.”

Total dental care

Dr. Abele offers comprehensive care for patients of all ages

DELMAR — “Building an oral health home for families where comprehensive, top-of-the-line dental services were easily accessible was my goal,” said Dr. Thomas Abele, who, since 1969, has been a pioneer and leader in the dental sciences in the Capital District. “With the support of a talented and dedicated staff, I hope I have achieved that.”

By offering a total spectrum of care for all ages, Abele eliminates the need for patients to move from doctor to doctor to achieve optimal oral health, comfort and beauty. Early on, he spent the additional hours of training to become qualified in dental implant technology and root canal therapy. His consistent reinvestment in his practice ensures that patients are offered the latest in minimally invasive approaches, digital imaging, laser power and sedation dentistry.

“Dental medicine, most pointedly when encompassing cosmetic dentistry, is definitely an art,” said Abele. “Every aesthetic aspect of a patient’s face must be taken into consideration when addressing reconstructive procedures, whether in the application of veneers and crowns or restorations with implants.”

Because Abele works closely with the technicians of his on-site dental lab, issues such as tooth color and shape are seamlessly addressed. His deep experience in placing dental implants, including the latest in genetically coated bone grafting, when required, and beautifully designed tooth restorations is renowned.

Citing the importance of patient education, Abele said, “Although I personally feel responsible for my patients’ oral health, they have to ‘buy in.’ That requires helping them understand why compliance with good oral health habits, including attention to their gums, can make them healthier and happier. I enjoy taking the time needed to answer questions and provide ongoing support.

“As much as I have always enjoyed the research and ongoing education that dental medicine requires in order to stay at the top of the game,” said Abele, “I most enjoy the results I see in my much valued patients. They are the ones who make me look good.”

Be pro-active at Judson Meadows

SCOTIA — Mr. Kelly was born in Coral Gables, Florida. As a child he lived in Guatemala and England, and spent most of his school years in Pennsylvania. He attended Wake Forest University in the ROTC program. During college he played football, and at a game against Duke University he met a Marine Colonel who was head of ROTC. He told Sam if he did real well he would like to transfer his commission into the Marine Corp. During his military career he became a helicopter pilot, and he served in Vietnam from 1968 to 1969 training other pilots. He had a varied career as an aviator, serving as a pilot in Jacksonville, Florida, flying for a small jet company, and working for the Howard Hughes Tool Company’s aviation department in Houston, Texas. He has a MA in Aviation.

After Sam retired he divided his time between Stuart Beach, Florida and his condo in Portland, Maine, where his son also lived. He and his wife had divorced. After surgery on a broken ankle his health problems increased and he was no longer able to live independently due to the risk of falling, so he moved to upstate New York to be nearer his daughter and grandchildren. His daughter recommended a move to Judson Meadows Assisted Living Community. Sam said that at Judson Meadows, his health issues are addressed immediately and he likes it there very much.

It took Sam very little time to adjust to life at Judson Meadows. He finds nursing and management to be very accommodating.

“They bend over backwards to make residents happy,” Sam says. He enjoys the family atmosphere. “Everyone knows everyone else.” Sam noted that he is more social than he ever was before, and participates in all of the activities.

Sam’s attitude toward life is that it’s better to be pro-active and take charge. “You can make the best of the situation, or you can feel sorry for yourself” is his philosophy.

It seems he’s certainly chosen to make the best of life by spending it at Judson Meadows.

It's about more than just opening a book

kiml@spotlightnews.com

SCHENECTADY — This summer, The Open Door Bookstore & Gift Gallery has a fun way for you to get caught reading.

First, snap a photo of yourself, a friend, a family member, or your pet reading in a recognizable or unusual location in Schenectady County.

Then, post your photo to the store's Facebook page by Wednesday, Aug. 15, and "like" it for your chance to win. The three photos receiving the most likes will win a prize.

Winners will be announced during an end of summer party held at the store on Sunday, Aug. 25.

That's not the only party taking place at The Open Door this summer.

On Tuesday, July 31, bring the whole family for crafts and other activities to celebrate Harry Potter's 20th birthday. Adults and children are encouraged to come in costume for the chance to win prizes.

Speaking of parties, are you looking for a one-of-a-kind gift to give someone for a special occasion?

Longtime store owner Janet Hutchison and her staff take great pride in their ability to find the perfect gift for any man, woman, or child, whether the recipient is a book lover or not.

While The Open Door is well known for its emphasis on children's and local-interest titles, Hutchison believes its gift gallery sets it apart from its competitors, by featuring a variety of personal and home accessories, such as FinchBerry handcrafted soaps, Joy Susan vegan leather accessories, Le Souk hand painted ceramics and kitchen ware, and Wild & Wolf's stylish, functional products for men.

The Open Door Bookstore & Gift Gallery, located at 128 Jay St., across from City Hall, in downtown Schenectady, is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (until 8 p.m. on Thursday) and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For more information about upcoming events, sales, and available products, please visit its website at www.opendoor-bookstore.com.

Bigger is not always better

Window air conditioning units help people who do not have a central cooling system stay cool when temperatures rise.

When shopping for window air conditioners, consumers will no doubt encounter the acronym BTU. BTU stands for British Thermal Unit, which is a traditional measurement of heat, defined as the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit at sea level. While BTUs may make sense when determining heat output of gas grills or the warming capacity of a heating appliance, just what do heating units have to do with air conditioners?

According to Compact Appliance, when BTUs are used in relation to air conditioning systems, the measurement expresses how many BTUs can be removed from the air per hour, essentially reflecting how well heat can be extracted from a room and cooled by the unit.

While it may seem like having the highest BTU rating would always be ideal, this isn't always the case. Cooling a room too quickly with an oversized unit may result in the appliance having to cycle on and off frequently, eventually overworking the air conditioner's compressor and potentially shortening its life span.

Similarly, using a unit that doesn't have enough BTUs will prevent the air conditioner from making a room comfortable, potentially compelling users to run the appliance in excess.

Instead, consumers need to find the right unit for their needs. Measuring the square footage of a room and then comparing it against BTU guidelines for particular air conditioner units is a great way to ensure you find the right window unit. According to the home improvement experts at Lowes, the following are the advised BTU ratings matched up with room sizes:

- 150 to 350 square feet: 5,000 to 8,000 BTUs
- 350 to 550 square feet: 8,000 to 12,000 BTUs
- 550 to 1,050 square feet: 12,000 to 18,500 BTUs
- 1,050 to 1,600 square feet: 18,500 to 25,000 BTUs.

Other factors will influence cooling capability as well.

Consider whether a room gets a lot of sun or shade, and then adjust the BTU rating accordingly.

Second-story rooms may have more ambient heat. Also, the number of occupants in a room may drive up the temperature, which may require purchasing a larger unit.

Jake Moon buys local supplies for its home cooked food

CLARKSVILLE — Tucked away in the foothills of the Helderberg Mountains is the Jake Moon Restaurant and Café.

In addition to featuring the work of Chef Dan Smith, who offers an eclectic mix of fresh foods and restaurant-baked goods, the restaurant makes every effort to give back to the local economy by buying its supplies from local farmers and vendors.

The restaurant also offers a full line of specialty items for your party needs — from simple barbecue dishes to elegant selections that are proven crowd pleasers and make your event special. They can also create special occasion cakes and centerpieces.

Smith grew up in Ulster County and has lived in the Capital District since 1997, when he took a job as executive chef at Nicole's Bistro in downtown Albany.

He moved to Clarksville in 2007, and hopes Jake Moon will “serve as a focal point and meeting place for the local community while drawing people from farther away to appreciate the beauty and unique worth of Clarksville and the wider hilltown community.”

Some of the local businesses Smith purchases supplies from include: Meadowbrook Arms Dairy, Champlain Valley Flour, Schoharie Farms, Harney & Son Tea Trader, Capital City Coffee Roasters, Charles Groesbeck Grassfed Beef, Randy Rapp Maple Syrup and Windy Hill Farm.

“Jake Moon is a place where dollars spent on great food are passed back to local farmers, helping to keep farming a viable economic activity right here in the greater Capital District,” according to the restaurant’s website. “In supporting us you are also supporting area farmers, and voting with your dollars to preserve the agrarian values that have defined the character of this region since time immemorial.”

Hours of operation are breakfast and lunch on Wednesday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.; breakfast and brunch Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.; dinner Thursday through Saturday 5 to 9 p.m.; drinks and light fare Thursday through Saturday 3 to 5 p.m.

The restaurant is located on Route 443, 2082 Delaware Turnpike, 7.5 miles from the four corners in Delmar headed towards Thacher Park.

Breakfast is served at Jake Moon Cafe in Clarksville.

The go-to place for pizza

Pizza by Dominick pays attention to detail

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

SLINGERLANDS — Pizza can be like a car, said Cosimo Crupi; while some are nice, a few can be luxurious.

That’s how Crupi starts to describe Pizza By Dominick. The pizza joint he runs with his brother, Dominick DeLeo, has been the go-to place for families.

“A lot of our customers, mom is at one place and dad is at another, so they walk in needing a quick bite to eat,” said Crupi.

That’s the kind of life, Crupi said, he sees most often with his customers. He said he sees it with families who are often split between two different activities. There’s dance practice next door, but a soccer game across town, and both are at the same time.

Local parents don’t necessarily struggle with finding a bite to eat for dinner. For more than 25 years, they’ve been walking into their Stonewall Plaza location on New Scotland Road to pick up a quick slice or an entire pie.

That convenience is always nice for jet-setting families. There’s also the matter of quality, said Crupi. The difference between an economy class car and a luxury sedan is the attention placed on the details.

Ask a pizza guy what makes a great pizza, and the conversation turns into an education. There’s the dough. What goes into the dough, and how long do you let it sit. Yeah. There’s a process that goes beyond waiting for it to rise. And, one simple question about his and his brother’s award-winning sauce turns into a half-hour, one-sided conversation; one, at which, I am unable to divulge the details.

“There is an attention to the details,” said Crupi. “That’s what makes the difference.”

The top selling agent in the Capital District

Gucciardo Real Estate does more than sell houses

At a young age, Anthony Gucciardo knew that he was destined to sell homes in the Capital District. He not only started hosting open houses for Robert Marini Builders (now Marini Homes, LLC) while he was still in high school, but also spent time on weekends familiarizing himself with the model homes in Marini's Dutch Meadows development in Latham.

"I never was the typical kid. I have been working since I was 12," Gucciardo explained.

Fast forward a few years, and Gucciardo is now the Capital District's top-selling real estate agent. He was honored during the Women's Council of Realtors' 2017 Breakfast of Champions for selling $52 million, $10 million more than his nearest competitor, in real estate in 2017. That same year, his firm also closed more than $98 million in sales.

When asked about his success, Gucciardo says, "It's a true passion for me and the fact that I started at such a young age getting my name out there helped a great deal. It comes down to pricing property appropriately and treating clients respectfully and not telling them what they want to hear, but rather reality. I am not always right, but try my hardest to pinpoint pricing."

Gucciardo who has resided in Latham since 1985, first started in real estate in 2002, and will mark his 16th full year in the business in August. He and his parents, who retired from their long careers to assist their son with his business, just opened a new office in Latham at 1074 Troy Schenectady Road, across from Keeler Motor Car. He and his associates make it a point to give back to the community they also call home.

Although his company's primary mission is to sell homes, it will also purchase homes as-is at fair market value less expenses to guarantee a 30 day turn around if the seller so desires.

While he believes that most sellers care about selling for the highest price, he also knows that some sellers are very smart and realize that keeping a house on the market for years and years is not a constructive use of their time.

"We always have an option B and an option C should the seller want alternatives that will fit their needs", Gucciardo said. "We take pride in our business and making sure our clients' have more than just a traditional Realtor program."

Gucciardo's newest program has attracted many senior citizens. After his company purchases a senior citizen's home at fair market value, it offers him or her a lease which remains in effect as long as he or she wants. "It works out well because the senior citizen who has lived in the home for 30 or 40 years gets to stay where they are comfortable and not have to worry about roofs, water tanks, insurance, and other maintenance items," he explains, adding that "It also usually costs much less than the average assisted living facility per se and sellers have no moving expenses at all."

His mother, Theresa Gucciardo, serves as the company's leasing and property manager. While seniors may need the assistance of an aide or a family member, they won't have to worry about their home because Gucciardo's company will make certain their house is well cared for. "We fix things immediately," said Gucciardo. "It's my name out there and its imperative that all clients are happy."
