Our town plaza

In an e-commerce world,
Delaware Plaza still thrives

By DIEGO CAGARA

cagarad@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — When Delaware Plaza first opened in 1973, it prided itself as being the only shopping center in town. But as decades passed, it has persisted through numerous challenges like competition from online shopping, its once-aging infrastructure, and tenant turnover.

But former state Sen. Howard Nolan, 86 — who helped first open the property on 180 Delaware Ave. in Elsmere and is still involved with its business — has remained positive. “Delaware Plaza has always been successful since the ’70s so we’ve been here a long time,” he said, adding that it is one of the few locally-owned shopping centers left in the Capital District.

When asked why the plaza has stayed open, Nolan offered several reasons, “Number one, we’ve got a great location here on Delaware Avenue and being close to the city of Albany.” Second, he said that the area has been undergoing renovations to help revitalize its aesthetic appeal and to attract new tenants and customers. Around $1 million has been poured into such improvements since 2018, including having added new modern-looking storefronts while sidewalk and possibly parking lot work are expected to commence in the near future. Concerning the former, Nolan’s daughter and Delaware Plaza’s managing director, Debbie Nolan Murray, chimed in, “Yes, we updated some of our store signs because they’re so old so we put them on LED lights now too so it’s a lot brighter.”

Structure fire in Ravenna

RAVENA — Several fire departments responded to the scene of a building on 119 Main St. in Ravenna on Saturday, Feb. 16 before noon to discover a stairwell engulfed in flames and thick smoke rising from the third floor.

A water main break also happened nearby on Central Avenue.

Ravenna, Coeymans, New Baltimore and Coeymans Hollow fire departments were among those that tended to the fire and served as mutual aid. A Selkirk Fire Department engine arrived on standby at the Coeymans Firehouse while the Westerlo Fire Department was sent to cover for Coeymans Hollow.

Within minutes, the fire was hosed down.

While there was no one inside when the fire broke out, firefighters did rescue a cat from inside which was then cared for at the Ravenna Firehouse.

While the cause of the fire remains undetermined, the building is known for having caught on fire once a few years ago, and a building next door still has heat damage from that.

School lockout

RAVENA — Ravenna-Coeymans-Selkirk High School was placed in a lockout for just four minutes sometime on Monday, Feb. 11 but Bethlehem police found no credible threat.

This stemmed from how Bethlehem police had received a report the day prior on Sunday, Feb. 10 where a customer at an undisclosed Glenmont ammunition store thought they overheard a RCS student inquiring about firearms, according to RCS Superintendent Brian Bailey.

The customer then allegedly reported it to the store owner who then notified the Bethlehem police, who then informed RCS district officials.

Bailey described the Monday lockout as how students and staff were not able to leave their classrooms or the campus for security reasons, while police located the student in question. Bethlehem PD Commander Adam Hornick said that the department worked with district officials and an Albany County Sheriff Resource Officer to track the student. "Based on information sent to us, we found him and interviewed him," Hornick said.

Bailey said that the student and his contacted family were "very cooperative" and the police determined that the student actually neither purchased nor asked a store employee about buying any firearms. "We and the police seemed to be satisfied from our conversation with him," he said, adding that the conversation occurred outside the school complex.

Both Bailey and Hornick agreed that although no threat was found, this was a case where the "see something, say something" mindset succeeded nonetheless. While Hornick confirmed that the investigation closed that same day, he was grateful that the public took precautionary measures and reported to the police.

"Unquestionably, the message about 'see something, say something' has found its way home with many, many people," Bailey concluded. "That has been a part of our world where I think it's a good thing that people are responsible, and not overreacting, are asking good questions and paying attention."

Walmart larceny

BETHLEHEM — Bethlehem police responded to the Glenmont Walmart store on Wednesday, Jan. 9 at 8 a.m. due to a report that a female employee was caught stealing money from her register for the past few weeks prior.

Shannon Lea McDonald, 42, of Ravenna, was placed in custody after the store manager said they realized just in early January that one of the registers had been missing money. Police determined that McDonald took the money whenever she was closing the department, stealing $2,556.67 in total. She was transported to the Bethlehem Police Department without incident where she was processed and released on an appearance ticket.

McDonald was charged with a grand larceny felony and has a return court date of Mar. 5 at 5:30 p.m.

Confessing

DELMAR — A 25-year-old Albany man was arrested after admitting to Bethlehem police of having committed identity theft and petit larceny at the Cumberland Farms location on 430 Route 9W in Glenmont back on Dec. 15, 2018 at around 7:30 p.m.

Kevin Dayquan Skeen came to the BPD and was processed on the above charges. He has a return court date of Mar. 5 at 4 p.m.

Drunk driving

DELMAR — A 27-year-old Westerlo female driver was pulled over by 700 Delaware Ave. in Delmar on Saturday, Feb. 9 at 12:20 a.m. after a police officer noticed she was driving her blue Subaru Legacy without any working tail lights.

While interviewing Rachel M. Schaible, the officer noted a strong odor of alcohol from her breath, her bloodshot eyes and slurred speech. After explaining that she had one beer, she was told to exit the vehicle and agreed to do field sobriety tests which she failed.

She was then placed in custody and transported to the BPD where she was charged with operating a motor vehicle with a BAC of 0.08 percent or more, a DWI and having insufficient tail lights.

Police: more calls in 2017 than 2016

Bethlehem police released 2017 annual report

By DIEGO CAGARA
cagarad@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — The Bethlehem Police Department received around 23,300 phone calls in 2017, an increase of roughly 1,200 from 2016's 22,100, according to its 2017 annual report released in early February 2019.

The report offered statistical data and insight into what the BPD accomplished and how many incidents it worked in 2017.

When analyzing phone calls made each day of the week, Sunday saw the fewest at 2,420 while the rest of the week each crossed over the 3,000 threshold and averaged at 3,325 calls.

On each day of the week, the vast majority of phone calls, around 3,000, were made in daytime, but calls made on each weeknight remained just below 400. Furthermore, 48 percent of the total estimated 23,300 phone calls, or 11,184 calls, were made in the day; 40 percent or 9,320 calls were in the afternoon; and the remaining 12 percent or 2,796 calls were at night.

"Phone calls made to us are not just about crime, that's something most people don't recognize," said Bethlehem Police Chief Louis Corsi. "This is a full-service police department and day shifts are primarily for service-oriented calls mostly. Afternoons are complaints and nights are crimes in progress. So, you get a lot of work in the day shifts, supporting ambulance calls, various calls for service and traffic accidents."

He added that people usually make complaint calls in the evening time since that's when people come home from work to find out something happened in the house, for instance.

BPD investigated 2,184 offenses in town in 2017, 183 more than 2016's 2,001 figure. Such offenses included kidnapping, robbery, arson, bribery, driving under the influence, drug/narcotic violations, and impersonation.

Among the highest-committed offenses were 188 simple assaults, 177 shoplifting cases and 148 incidents of damaged or vandalized property.

BPD conducted 8,166 motor vehicle stops in 2017, an increase of 2,277 from 2016's 5,889 figure. 3,606 traffic arrests were made in 2017, which was 1,245 more than 2016's 2,361 amount.

Cell phone usage while driving also spiked up to 256, 172 more than in 2016, whereas DWI arrests rose slightly to 56 in 2017, just six more than 50 in 2016.

Also, 2016 and 2017 each saw BPD handling just one fatal vehicular accident.

BPD's Animal Control received 1,350 calls in 2017, a slight increase from 1,389 in 2016, which handled incidents including animal cruelty, lost animals and animal bites. In 2017, BPD had just one full-time Animal Control officer but has since hired an additional part-time officer to help. "You wouldn't believe how many calls for service that Animal Control takes, and it's a service that's in high demand in town," Corsi said.

Corsi also said that while all the numbers may appear high, "They're not that high and I think that Bethlehem is a safe place to live in overall. But we're not immune to crime but we're fortunate we have a very well-seasoned staff. They do an excellent job and we're maintaining as great as we can."

BPD had also continued teaching educational programs to elementary, middle and high school students in the Bethlehem Central School District, those in A.W. Becker Elementary School in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District, and at St. Thomas the Apostle Parochial School.

It had a Family Services Unit, consisting of three Detectives, two School Resource Officers and a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) Officer, who were all assigned to specific schools.

This collective effort aimed to continue strengthening relations with the school communities, investigating family issues at risk, and showcasing numerous child-safety presentations. Examples of in-school programs concerned topics that included internet safety, bicycle and pedestrian safety, and Halloween safety.

BPD also held similar community presentations for Bethlehem residents which focused on subjects like crimes against the elderly, school safety geared towards parents, and fingerprinting.

Believing that maintaining communication with students and residents in town is invaluable, Corsi said, "There have been a lot of negative connotations nationwide now that come with police officers but we're just regular people and we like to interact with the people here. Openness, honesty and compassion are extremely important in this line of work. We strive to attain that with every opportunity."

When asked if he had one message to the public about the Bethlehem Police Department, Corsi said, "It's an honor to serve the community and we strive to do the very best as we can, within our budget constraints. The officers do a really good job and these are the finest group of individuals I've had the pleasure of working with and they're very talented. We're here for you and if you need anything, please don't hesitate to call us."

The Bethlehem Police Department is located on 447 Delaware Ave. in Delmar, and be reached via phone at 518-439-9973 or 911 specifically for emergencies.

■ TOWN GOVERNMENT

Bethlehem to buy eight acres of land

By DIEGO CAGARA
cagarad@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — The Bethlehem Town Board voted unanimously during its Feb. 13 meeting to formally move forward with acquiring eight acres of land, located near the intersection of Route 9W and Wemple Road in Glenmont, from the Albany County Land Bank.

Town Supervisor David VanLuven was authorized to sign the contract and other relevant documents pertaining to the purchase which costs just $1. This does include recording and closing costs of $762.

According to town documents, “the Town will place a deed restriction on the parcel so that it will never be developed for residential, commercial or industrial purposes, which will benefit the adjacent neighborhoods.” This all connects with how town officials believe this is one way to conserve land while development continues throughout Bethlehem.

For now, the parcel comprises of 3.5 acres of constructed wetlands, 0.75 acres of natural wetlands, and 3.75 acres of upland forest and scrub. While it is landlocked, it is accessible by a 40-foot wide easement from Wemple Road. Plans for the parcel include protecting its wildlife habitat, ensuring water quality protection and possibly walking trails or recreational amenities for residents to enjoy.

Town Board member Dan Coffey wondered if there were any other plans for it but Bethlehem’s Economic Development and Planning director Robert Leslie confirmed, “For now, we’ll keep it as it is. At some point, if we have a desire to put in some trails, we’ll have that conversation with the board and certainly the Parks [and Recreation] Department. But nothing to be had at this time.”

ACLB had previously accepted Bethlehem’s application to purchase it back on Nov. 27, 2018.

ACLB executive director Adam Zaranko had spoken about this in a Feb. 7, 2019 conservation-themed event at the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, saying that the Town of Bethlehem had first reached out to ACLB about their interest in the parcel. He added that had this parcel gone to auction, it most likely would have gone to the highest bidder like a developer.

“Under our relationship with Albany County, we control the flow of the property to make sure we get the highest and best use or outcome for it, which is not always necessarily the highest bidder or a developer there is,” Zaranko

The Delmar Development Company first bought the land in 1999 to meet federal wetland mitigation requirements at the time by the before the Albany County Land Bank owned it.

“When this opportunity first came to our attention, we jumped on it because it’s mostly surrounded by agriculture today,” VanLuven recounted. “In 10 to 30 years, there’s a good chance it can be an oasis of nature and residential developments. Parks are a vital part of our town character and we need to be looking at developing them, not just for our needs today but also for our needs in the future.” He continued by expressing gratitude for the $1 figure and ACLB’s co-operation.

Town Board member Jim Foster also recognized this as a financially responsible way to preserve open space and that it is a “win-win-win across the board.” He correlated this with how the topics of conservation and development have long been discussed among officials and residents alike, and that this was a positive step forward.

Eagles falls short of perfection

The Brothers play the spoiler;
Eagles look to post season

By SAM VAIL
news@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — On Wednesday, Feb. 13, the final game of the season, CBA handed The Eagles their first loss by a score of 65-54.

The previously undefeated Eagles came into Wednesday's game looking to put a cap on the regular season and complete the first undefeated season in program history.

Jordan King, who led all scorers with 27, and the rest of CBA's team were not backing down. The Brothers took a four-point lead into the half, and King had eight points in the third and went 10 for 10 from the line in the fourth to help put the game out of reach.

"I just think our guys played their hearts out tonight and were able to overcome many weapons," said CBA Coach Dave Doemel.

CBA started the game strong with a quick three-point shot, followed by great defense, forcing turnovers and blocking shots.

The Eagles offense flowed through Eric Salo in the first quarter, as he converted three of three shots for six points.

Bethlehem's players were selfless on offense, sharing the ball and racking up tallies in the assist column, yet for every point Bethlehem converted, The Brothers retaliated with offense of their own. At the end of the first quarter the game was tied at 18 points.

The Eagles could not get their offense into the game to start the second quarter, going scoreless for the first 3:24 until Michael Ortale converted a shot off the glass.

Junior Guard Zach Zonca kept Bethlehem in the game, hitting back to back three pointers for The Eagles. He followed those up with tough defense, forcing a turnover with one minute left in the half, which he converted for two points, to keep The Eagles within four points headed into the break.

Bethlehem started the third quarter strong. Forced turnovers led to quick points off fast breaks. Jake Laclair continued to find the open man for The Eagles, and after a three from Zonca, The Eagles were able to regain the lead for the first time since early in the first quarter.

CBA continued strong play throughout the entire second half with excellent defense. Peter O'Toole had a strong third quarter with seven points including a clutch three to stop Bethlehem's run.

King went 12 for 12 from the free throw line while O'Toole had 14 points and Drew Signor had 13. Mike Murray had five, Hagen Foley had four and Vincent Tirino had two to round out scoring for The Brothers.

Salo had 16 points to lead Bethlehem, while Zonca had 13 and Ortale chipped in a dozen. Pat Ryan had seven, Will Davis had four and Justin Barnes had two for The Eagles.

"We had to execute and we did not play well," said Bethlehem Coach AG Irons. "We learned what Bethlehem's Michael Ortale drives to the basket.

it's like to lose, we don't like it."

Bethlehem, the No. 1 seed, will get a bye in the first round and play the winner of No. 8 LaSalle and No. 9 Schenectady on Saturday, Feb. 23, at Hudson Valley Community College. CBA, the No. 4 seed, will host No. 13 Guilderland on Wednesday, Feb. 20.

Toga wins Sectionals ... again

COLONIE — The Saratoga gymnastics team won its 18th consecutive Section II title on Wednesday, Feb. 13, with a team score of 175.

Guilderland came in second with a team score of 161, edging out Bethlehem, who finished with a team score of 160.8. Host team Shaker, the fourth of just four teams in Section II, came in at 135.35.

Saratoga had the top three individual finishers too with Laura Eberlein (36.600) Ava Dallas (36.225) and Sophia Damiano (36.150.)

Guilderland's Rachel Drislane came in fourth at 34.650 and her teammate, Allison Rem, placed fifth with 34.450. Bethlehem's Alison Gray came in sixth with an overall score of 33.625.

Bethlehem girls advance

BETHLEHEM — The Eagles advanced to the second round on Friday, Feb. 15, by beating Catholic Central High School 61-37.

The No. 7 seed Bethlehem will play No. 2 Albany High at Albany on Thursday, Feb. 21. Tip is set for 7:30 p.m.

Bethlehem dominated the No. 10 Catholic Central, jumping out to a nine-point lead after the first quarter and taking a 33 to 19 lead into the half.

Eagles guard Ava LaClair led all scorers with 16 while her teammate Julia Harvey had 15 and Caroline Wise, Langston Williams and Kelly Maney had eight points each. Kiersten Murray, Maren Louridas and Emma Black had a bucket apiece to round out the scoring for Bethlehem.

Sarah Mattfield had 14 for CCHS, Riygia Harris had seven and Brooke Curtain had six.

Border disputes

Hopelessly defining Delmar and its boundaries

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

If your zip code is 12054, you may live in Delmar. Excuse me if Jeff Foxworthy's voice crept into your head while reading that. The truth is, people around here are quick to say they live in Delmar when, in fact, they may not.

For many residents, it's the go-to answer for when they're asked, "where do you live?" Geographically, Delmar is the center of Bethlehem. Demographically, it's the largest hamlet with a zip code.

Therein lies the rub.

According to the U.S. Census, the Delmar zip code has the largest population (8,292) as it relates to neighboring Slingerlands (7,646), Selkirk (6,775) and Glenmont (6,481). However, each of those corners of town has its own characteristics that distinguish it from its neighbors: Slingerland's Greek Revival homes, Glenmont's growing center of commerce and Selkirk's nostalgic touch of a more rural past.

Somewhere lost in there is Elsmere. True, there are other hamlets within the town that seldom get mentioned in conversation. Say you live in Cedar Hill, for example. You'll find yourself using Henry Hudson Park or the Red School House as references. Out of frustration, you may settle for Glenmont. We've done that, too.

The crux to this identity crisis involves two factors; zip codes and elementary schools. We either associate ourselves with our mailing addresses or the schools in which our children attend. Slingerlands has both a zip code and an elementary school, as does Glenmont. Selkirk doesn't share its name with an elementary school, but it does with Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District. Delmar carries the distinction of owning a zip code, but no school. Conversely, Elsmere has an elementary school which stands prominently in the center of town on Delaware Avenue. However, it has no zip code. See what I did there?

Residents of "Old Bethlehem," a term reserved for those whose families trace back generations before the turn of the 19th century, can and will correct you on the boundaries of this town's many hamlets. It's a trait Bethlehem Town Historian Susan Leath detailed in the prologue of her first book. The rule of thumb; when measuring out where one hamlet begins and another ends, don't depend on the U.S. Postal Service. She remembers when Haswell Farms was developed off of Feura Bush Road, developers wanted it to fall under the Delmar zip code.

Leath said the lines that separate these pockets of town are less defined than those stitched onto your blue jeans. They are ambiguous, except to those who wish to find them. Her Elm Estates home has a Selkirk address, though she's more than a ten-minute drive away.

Physically, she said, she's closer to Delmar. She shrugs her shoulders and smiles.

Longtime residents will agree that the eastern border that separates Delmar from Elsmere is defined by Elsmere Avenue, though this may conflict with the Elsmere Fire

The sleepy little hamlet has developed a nightlife of its own

By DIEGO CAGARA

DELMAR — The rise of a few key pubs, restaurants and bars around the Four Corners in Delmar within the past four years has helped to contribute to the town's nightlife scene, a sentiment shared across each establishment's owners.

The surrounding Four Corners area, located at the intersection of Kenwood and Delaware avenues, witnessed the openings of Twisted Vine Wine & Tap, the Real McCoy Beer Co., and O'Slattery's in 2015. These businesses, among others like Swiftly's, have attracted customers both from within and out of town, with the help of their central locations and being near the Albany County Rail Trail.

However, when asked if Delmar has a flourishing nightlife scene, responses varied slightly.

"I think Delmar does have a great nightlife scene because there are a lot of activities going on around town," said Liam Slattery, who co-owns O'Slattery's with his wife, Jackie. He said that O'Slattery's, an Irish pub and restaurant on 318 Delaware Ave., offers multiple events and activities to attract customers throughout the week, like Paint and Sip on Monday nights, Trivia Night on Tuesdays, and live music from Wednesdays through Saturdays.

"Our side of it is about entertainment and activity around the nighttime and I think people in Delmar feel done by midnight which is fine too," he said. "If you're busy from 5 o'clock til midnight, it's just as good as being busy from 9 at night to 4 in the morning."

Alex Scher, co-owner of the Real McCoy Beer Co., a brewery located on 20 Hallwood Road, said he believed that the Delmar nightlife scene is "still growing because the places around here are relatively new like O'Slattery's and Twisted Vine." He added that the brewery's space expanded in 2018 by annexing the building next door which previously belonged to a woodworker, "We took over and connected the two buildings, so now we're a bit bigger. So that's helped with accommodating much larger crowds."

Co-owner Mike Bellini said another way it has attracted customers was the creation of the Mug Club, similar to a loyalty program where members who join receive larger beers, which he believed has created a sense of community there.

Brendan McCann, co-owner of Twisted Vine Wine & Tap on 384 Kenwood Ave., believed that Delmar has a "community-oriented nightlife. The establishments here share a lot of the same customers. The nightlife scene — or dinner scene or restaurant scene, or whatever you wanna call it — has probably prospered because of having three or four restaurants located close together. When you walk into O'Slattery's, you'll probably recognize some people and if you walk to another place in town, it's probably the same deal." He added that when looking at nearby nightlife bars or restaurants, he does not view them as competition but rather as "an asset to each other's business and we've said that community is our philosophy."

Co-owner Daniel Casey brought up how one way Twisted Vine has contributed to Delmar's nightlife is having special events like "A Night in Italy" back on Saturday, Feb. 16, which includes a five-course meal with Italian food and wine, with presentations on each food and wine type, and desserts from Perfect Blend Café & Bakery — McCann and Casey co-own this establishment too next door. McCann also said they change the establishment's menu "probably four or five times a year to keep it fresh" and showcase live music at least once a week whenever the weather warms up.

The three establishments also take part in celebrating certain major annual events like St. Patrick's Day and Oktoberfest. Slattery said that O'Slattery will observe Parade Day and St. Patrick's Day on Saturday, Mar. 16 and Sunday, Mar. 17 respectively, "and on both days, we have live music and entertainment, as we also will do our traditional Irish food."

McCann noted that Twisted Vine has their annual SpringFest and FallFest which he said are a lot to put on and stem from both his own and Casey's personal love for music. "It's been getting bigger every year and just the support we've been getting is a lot of fun," McCann said.

When planning for annual or special events, Scher said that the Real McCoy Beer Co. has continued to try communicating with other local businesses to coordinate events on similar days and to also not clash on other certain days. "Oktoberfest is probably one of our biggest times here and we changed our normal sales procedure by selling beer tickets so that when people finally came to the bar, it'll be an easy transition because if you had a ticket, you'd pick up a beer," he recalled from last year. "And it was really nice weather, we had all the doors open and tables out. We had some food vendors like Cider Belly Doughnuts too."

As more customers frequent their establishments, safety was another general topic brought up.

While Bellini said that customers find the Real McCoy Beer Co. as a "very relaxed and supportive atmosphere," Slattery said he believed the Delmar nightlife scene is "safe 100 percent, and I've spent 17 years in New York City so Delmar is a very good community where everybody knows everybody." Both McCann and Casey also believed Delmar is "pretty" safe and walkable at night, and they confirmed that their employees were trained last year to handle any suspicious activity within Twisted Vine, like signs of sexual harassment and unruly behavior.

When asked if they each had any messages they'd like to say to the public, positivity exuded across the table.

Bellini recognized that many of his customers come out in droves and have continued offering support regardless of the seasons; Slattery said he felt blessed to be in the Delmar area and expressed gratitude to his establishment's regulars. "It's really a community and while we'd like to pull people from other towns and cities to come visit of course, we can't thank the local people enough because they're the ones who keep the lights on at the end of the day," Casey concluded.

Legacy in a catalog

Sears Modern Homes shaped towns a century ago, and draw today's homeseekers

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

DELMAR — Judi Gabler looks over the website of a modular home manufacturer, admiring the modern fixtures featured in the picture.

"It's crazy," she said. "It looks like," she said, catching herself before saying a house. As silly as it would have sounded, no one would doubt her ability to recognize the value of a home, let alone to identify one. Gabler Realty, LLC, of which she is broker-owner, negotiated approximately $58 million worth of real estate transactions last year. She was a top-selling realtor at one of the largest regional firms in the country before branching out on her own more than a year ago. Today, she sees the modular home as a way to sell land.

"It's easier for us to sell vacant land if we can show people what they can put on it, and how affordable it can be," she said. Another click of her mouse conjures a catalog of models ranging from one-story bungalows to two-story ranches. Each of the homes, regardless of the model, is built in sections, then shipped off and assembled.

The principal concept of ordering a house from a catalog and having it delivered from miles away is not new. Sears, Roebuck and Company started something similar more than a century ago.

"It's very much like a Sears Home," said Gabler.

Sears

The Sears name was once synonymous with quality when it possessed a stronghold on consumer confidence with household goods. But, as more agile companies embraced e-commerce practices, Sears became less visible and less profitable.

Last year, Sears earned headlines when it filed for Sears, Roebuck and Company bankruptcy protection last October. Riddled with debt and pension obligations, the retail giant appeared to be heading in the same direction as other iconic storefronts that have closed over the years, most notably Montgomery Wards in 2001.

Like Wards, Sears was founded at the dawn of America's consumer age of the late 19th century. The Chicago-based retailer developed a connection with people through its catalog, which included everything from sewing machines to automobiles. At more than 500 pages, the catalog ironically provided Americans a broad selection of items at a discount, challenging local store shops of the day. In 1908, the store included ready-to-assemble kit houses.

Kit Houses

Sears offered kit houses in its popular catalog in 1908 to address suffering sales in its building materials department. So, instead of selling parts by themselves, the retailer offered a kit: all the pieces you would need to build a house. In that first year, 44 different models were features, with a price range between $360 and $2,890 (or $9,849.60 to $79,070.40 in 2019 U.S. dollars). Four years later, Sears started offering mortgages.

Pieces for each home would be delivered in boxcars. Depending on the model, there would be 10,000 to 30,000 pieces that addressed everything but the kitchen sink. Indoor plumbing, heating and electricity could be purchased at an additional cost. According to

If a listed home is known to be a Sears Modern Home, one local realtor said she states that in its description. "They had a history. [...] I think it's nostalgic," she said.

Rosemary Thornton, author of "The Houses That Sears Built," Sears promised that, with the aid of a 75-page instruction manual, "a man of average abilities could assemble a Sears kit home in about 90 days." Sales of Sears Modern Homes peaked before the Great Depression. Sears jumped out of the mortgage business once it was forced to liquidate more than $11 million of defaulted loans in 1934. By 1940, kit homes no longer appeared in the Sears catalog. In all, more than 370 different models were offered, and more than 70,000 homes were built throughout the United States, predominantly in the Northeast. Coincidentally, Sears offered a five-bedroom, one-bathroom two-story model in 1924 named "The Delmar."

"I know I have talked to folks who have said, 'oh, yes. I have a Sears House.'" said Susan Leath, Bethlehem's town historian. "They're proud of it. It's the concept of your house arriving [by train]. The whole thing, that you go in a catalog and fill out a form. I don't know if a salesman came in, but I find the whole thing intriguing."

Several houses across Olde Delmar have been identified as Sears Modern Homes. A "Concord" model resides on Adams Place. A "New Haven" model, with its distinguished front door archway, can be found on Hawthorne Avenue.

However, Thornton states on her website that many people who claim they own a Sears Modern Home may be misguided. Sears was not the only retailer to offer catalog ordered homes. Ward was just one of several other competitors who offered similar homes. There are a few features that distinguish a Sears Modern Home from others. You can look for unique column arrangements on the front porch or stamped numbers or shipping labels adhered to lumber. Grantor records at the local courthouse may reveal a Sears mortgage.

If a Sears Modern Home is listed for sale, Gabler said she will state it as such in the home's description.

"I think it's charming," she said. "People tend to know that Sears-built houses were good quality. They had a history. It's fun to be able to see the floor plan as it was ordered and the features they had selected. I think it's nostalgic."

Underneath this vacant bank's drive-thru is the unlikely location of an expansive ballroom.

Best kept secrets

A ballroom under the former Bank of Bethlehem holds secrets of its own

By KAITLIN LEMBO
 lembok@spotlightnews.com

DELMAR — Under a set of stairs quietly tucked away in a corner of a bank lobby, a hidden room has a story to tell.

Looking at the old Bank of Bethlehem, located at 343 Delaware Ave., it looks like a normal bank building. Having housed at least four banks since the building was assembled, the lobby boasts a bunch of counters, an empty, open bank vault and a place for waiting. Across the room from the counters, long-vacant offices sit silently. The building is dark, dingy and abandoned. As Berkshire Hathaway continues to market the land, the doors remain locked.

However, I had the opportunity of getting into the building. The secret lies at the bottom of the hidden stairs to the left of the lobby, to the left, and down a cement hallway. Down a few more stairs, the realtor turned his phone flashlight on and looked at me. "This is it," he said. "This is where the ballroom was."

A checkered floor is hidden under a few inches of water. Five wrought-iron chandeliers hang from the ceiling, dusty but still functional. The walls are cement, but white adhesive is still attached methodically. The crusty paste once held mirrors to the walls, giving the room a taste of elegance.

There are no windows and no outside light; only the light from our phones gave us the ability to see around. An extra vault is on the far left wall. Long emptied, the door is open.

Another exit leads out the back. The room is not big, but not small; it lies underneath where the drive-thru now is.

The secret room gives no hints as to what it once was, however, it tells the story well; things happened here. This was a room that was used. This was a room that entertained people.

History doesn't lend itself too well. Records were not kept of this room. Most locals don't even know the room is there, and those who do are unsure what it was used for. We do know about the beginning.

The building began as the Bank of Bethlehem, opening in 1928 at the height of the Prohibition era, according to Bethlehem Town Historian Susan Leath's book, "Historic Tales of Bethlehem, New York." Plans for the building were created by Galen H. Nichols, and construction was done by the C.V. Soule Company of Delmar in about five months. D.A. Bennett owned the land and was a director of the bank when it opened. Bennett and a business partner started the bank because there were no local banks at the time; all banking was located in Albany and was about a day's journey. "Historic Tales" cites the bank as a source of charming, historic ads for a local newspaper.

In 1937, the bank was acquired by the National Commercial Bank and Trust, according to "Historic Tales." NCB&T traces its history back to 1825 when it was chartered by Gov. Dewitt Clinton as the Commercial Bank of Albany. The bank adopted the KeyBank name in 1979.

The ballroom was possibly used as early as 1928 by a fraternal organization called the Improved Order of the Red Men. The Redmen, as they were commonly called, often put on dances at a hall once located at 10 Hallwood Road, right behind the bank building.

The dances date back to 1890, Thomas Drake, the grandson of D.A. Bennett, said.

"The Redmen would use the dance hall on Hallwood for functions," Drake said. "We're unsure if they ever used the room under the bank."

Along with the dances, the organization would perform new member ceremonies, minstrel shows and banquets. While The Redmen did not have a Delmar chapter, there were several active ones in Albany at the time, David Lintz, Director of the Red Men Museum and Library, said.

"The use of the ballroom under the bank would depend on what it had that the other locations did not," Lintz explained. "It was very common for the group to hold private parties in rooms like these."

What these private parties consisted of is unclear. The Redmen, still in existence today, "are a non-profit organization devoted to inspiring a greater love for the United States of America and the principles of American liberty," according to the official website. "Along with our women's auxiliary, the Degree of Pocahontas, we support various charitable, youth, and educational programs."

Dances and functions for the organization were well documented at the time in question, and a search will yield several events located in the area. None that we could find mentioned the room.

It's impossible to say if alcohol was involved in any of the functions during Prohibition; however, it would not be uncommon for this to happen in the area. The Home Lawn Hotel, once located in Slingerlands, was a known location for imbibing. The hotel was closed in 1922 after a local was killed by a drunk driver who drank at the hotel. After the death, residents called the hotel a “public nuisance” and called for its closure, according to “Historic Tales.” The judge agreed and ultimately ordered the proprietor, Albert Kientz, to shut the doors.

Former Assemblyman Jack McEneny called Delmar a “straight-laced, Protestant town” at the time, but did not know of the room. Albany historian and author William Kennedy did not know of the ballroom at all. Of the 15-plus sources we talked to, nobody could even venture an educated guess on what else the room could have been used for during the unaccounted-for years.

As the bank evolved, whispers of a “meeting room” float around, used by the bank for parties and meetings. Unfortunately, no concrete records of any functions at 343 Delaware have been found in the week of research done. Drake said he found the blueprints for the bank, dated 1955, which show the room.

Many years later — the exact date is unclear — the room was used as a temporary home for a local church, Meyers Funeral Home owner Ben Meyers said. Meyers recalled the church used to call him for floral arrangements as needed. He also was a teller at the bank while it was under the KeyBank umbrella, the third bank to inhabit the space.

“It was a church for about a year,” Meyers said. “There were mirrors on the walls and I remember a mural that used to be there. I believe that Glenmont Community Church rented the space until they got into their new building.”

Drake recalls something similar to a church using the room but does not remember what church it was or for how long it was there.

Meyers added those who attended the services had to come in the back door, which leads right into the ballroom. Anyone who used the room could not use the staircase located in the bank lobby, he continued.

After the church moved out, the room seems to have been incorporated as storage. While Leath and other Bethlehem officials refer to it as a “ballroom,” it’s unclear how many, if any, balls were ever held there.

Spotlight News’ Kaitlin Lembo would love to write a follow-up story with more about the secret ballroom and about the history of other rooms such as this in the area. If you know anything about the underground ballroom, or other spots like this in Bethlehem, please call her at 518-439-4949 or email her at lembok@spotlightnews.com.

District, which stretches across the street. A 1930 insurance map, however, sheds light on another facet of our story. Sanborn Map Company defines a border that splits down the middle of present day Delsmere Avenue.

The former railroad helps define a portion of Delmar’s Northern border as it cross over Delaware Avenue. Motorists driving to and from the Four Corners now see road signs before the old Delaware and Hudson rail bridge that depict which hamlet they are entering. From this intersection, Delmar’s eastern boarder extends due north to the Normanskill where Bethlehem’s town line meets Albany’s city limit.

Delmar’s western border is another point of contention. Sanborn, dependent upon the fire districts between Delmar and Slingerlands, dissects Kenwood Avenue just east of Homestead Avenue. The line runs southwest from the Normanskill to just beyond Cherry Avenue. The border splits Cherry Avenue nearly halfway between where it intersects with Orchard and Delaware avenues.

A look on Google Maps, however, indicates a more defined line between Slingerlands and Delmar. From the Normanskill, McCormack Road North separates the two hamlets until it intersects with Cherry Avenue. Delmar’s western border then follows the length of both Cherry and Elm avenues.

Another border was established shortly after the opening of the Delmar Bypass in 1963. When the highway was installed, it created a divide. Residents along Feura Bush Road continue to own a Delmar zip code. The Delmar Fire Department maintains a station near the intersection of Elm Avenue and Feura Bush Road. Online, Google Maps uses the bypass as Delmar’s southern border as it extends from Elm Avenue back to Elmsere Avenue.

Leath doesn’t agree with some of the borders, but she’s not quick to correct it either.

“It’s really how people use the name, modernly,” said Leath. “Modernly, those people would say, ‘oh, no. I live in Delmar. Even though our kids go to Glenmont [Elementary].’ It’s always vague. It doesn’t matter. I don’t think it does. The matter, the boundary of the town of Bethlehem, I think that matters.”

Thirdly, Nolan brought up how he and Delaware Plaza have maintained a positive relationship with Bethlehem's government and residents alike. Nolan, a Democrat himself, was a state Senator from 1974 to 1994, being known for winning over the then-mostly Republican Town of Bethlehem in 1983 which had never seen an elected Democrat in 188 years prior.

Nolan said that up to around a decade ago, all of the town supervisors were Republican and yet, "We still worked with them and it never became a political issue between Democrats and Republicans. It's all because we were all interested in seeing the town do well for the sake of the people living here. We've always worked very closely trying to be good citizens, and by the same token, they've always been very fair to us, regardless of party. But we never got involved politically." He added that it would be detrimental to ever have a "confrontational approach" to the town government; instead, he believed in maintaining cooperation between the plaza, town officials and residents.

A fourth reason is how Delaware Plaza has welcomed new tenants who have long stayed in the plaza over the years since Nolan said that most of the original tenants since 1973 have either left or moved to a new location within the property. Examples of current businesses include Delmar Bistro, Verizon, Yan's Chinese Buffet, Shalimar Restaurant, and Bruegger's Bagels. "That goes to show how much we value our longtime tenants here and how they value us as landlords," said Murray. "One of the first things my dad ever taught me was,

NOLAN

"If a tenant is successful, then you're successful." So we pride ourselves with really working with our tenants and getting to know them, and the new facades also helped enhance their businesses and stay competitive."

"The more people that work here at the plaza, it provides more customers for the remaining stores so it's important that we keep it full of tenants," Nolan said. "If you also have a mix of different types of tenants, there are more services to the community." Murray also said that customers can find it convenient to park their cars and explore the stores since they are all located door-to-door.

Among the stores is The Paper Mill, a Hallmark Gold Crown store which offers Hallmark cards, gifts and ornaments, and is managed by Lauri Mendleson. Saying that her parents first owned the store three decades ago, Mendleson credited the plaza's central location, Hallmark's positive reputation as a company, and the support from Bethlehem residents for having kept her business running for so long.

However, she noted that online shopping has become one of Hallmark's bigger issues nowadays but she believed that "customers love to still come into the store and feel the product and browse and look at the merchandise and get ideas. I mean, how else can you get ideas? I find from my conversations with many of my customers who also say, 'Please don't leave,' that it's harder to do that online." She said Bethlehem residents have realized that in order to enjoy local businesses, they need to physically come over.

Todd Yutzler, co-owner of Upstate Wine & Spirits Company, said that it has been at the plaza since 1967, and was then known as the Delaware Plaza Liquor Store, even predating Nolan and his business colleagues purchasing the overall property in 1973. The establishment then moved just two doors down into a larger location within Delaware Plaza in January 2016.

When asked how it faces competitors like online shopping and other similar businesses, Yutzler said that it keeps up by offering stellar customer service, having a rewards program — a member earns two points for every $1 they spend — which has over 5,000 members now, setting competitive prices and it has recently launched a new website at www.upstatewine.com. "With this new website, if things start to get crazy, maybe we'll have to take over another area just for shipping but right now, no, we'll stay here," he added, also expressing gratitude to the loyal customer base so far.

These examples are how Nolan said he believes Delaware Plaza will continue to thrive. "The more supportive the tenants, the town and residents are, it was better for us," he concluded. "So it's a good marriage."

Don't say it

Out of the limelight since 2015, comedic superstar Dane Cook is back on tour, but don't call it a comeback

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

Comedian Dane Cook achieved monumental fame more than a decade ago, but has been out of the limelight over the past three years.

With his upcoming tour set to launch — with a stop at the Palace Theatre on Friday, Feb. 22 — people want to attribute the word “comeback.” An introspective Cook, however, would use a different word to define the sum of everything that has happened.

quote of the week

"Yeah, it's kind of funny, because when people say, 'is it a comeback?' I say, 'if I had become a carpenter for the last five years, and had been nowhere near a comedy club, I would say that would be a comeback.'"

SCHENECTADY — Proctors is thrilled to announce that "The Lightning Thief: The Percy Jackson Musical," a musical adaptation of the New York Times best-selling novel written by Rick Riordan, will open on Friday, Feb. 22.

Ticket costs range from $20 to $50 and are available at the Box Office at Proctors, by phone at 518-346-6204, and online at proctors.org.

Chris McCarrell and Kristin Stokes will reprise the roles of Percy Jackson and Annabeth, respectively, after bringing the characters to life in the critically acclaimed New York production. In addition to McCarrell and Stokes, two other actors from the New York production will reprise their roles on the road: Sarah Beth Pfeifer as Clarisse and others, and James Hayden Rodriguez as Luke and others. The cast also features Izzy Figueroa (Understudy for Grover, Mr. Brunner, Assistant Stage Manager), Jorrel Javier (Grover and Mr. D), Ryan Knowles (Chiron and others), Sam Leicht (Understudy for Percy and Luke), Jalynn Steele (Sally and others), and T. Shyvonne Stewart (Understudy for Sally and Clarisse).

With more than 100 million copies of the book series sold worldwide, this global phenomenon has found a new home on the live stage in a "mesmerizing" theatrical event that proves "lightning can strike twice!" (TheaterMania). Following a sold-out run in New York City, where it garnered 3 Drama Desk Award nominations, including Best Musical, this "winning adaptation" (The Hollywood Reporter) is coming to rock Schenectady.

As a son of Poseidon, Percy Jackson has newly discovered powers he can't control, monsters on his trail, and is on a quest to find Zeus' lightning bolt to prevent a war between the Greek gods. Based on the best-selling novel by Rick Riordan and featuring a thrilling original rock score, "The Lightning Thief: The Percy Jackson Musical" is an action-packed theatrical adventure that has been celebrated by audiences and critics alike.

"The Lightning Thief: The Percy Jackson Musical" has a Drama Desk-nominated book by Joe Tracz, music and lyrics by Rob Rokicki, and is directed by Stephen Brackett, with choreography by Patrick McCollum, set design by Lee Savage, costume design by Sydney Maresca, lighting design by David Lander, Obie award-winning sound design by Ryan Rumery, fight direction by Rod Kinter and orchestrations by Wiley DeWeese and Rob Rokicki. The production is being presented by special arrangement with Rick Riordan and the Galt & Zacker Literary Agency.

"The Lightning Thief: The Percy Jackson Musical" is produced by TheaterWorksUSA, Martian Entertainment, Greg Schaffert, Lang Entertainment Group, Lisa Chanel, Jennifer Doyle and Roy Lennox, Glass Half Full Productions, Hummel/Greene, Mary Maggio, Tim Schwider, and Van Dean/Meredith Lucio in partnership with The Road Company.

Electro-Symphonic Piano

The Linda — Friday, Feb. 22

ALBANY — Pianist Sophia Subbaya Vastek and electronic artist David Ibbett present an electro-symphonic journey of growth and discovery at The Linda on Friday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m.

Described as "cosmic jazz" (Boston Music Intelligencer) and "like Mozart mashed up with Club Beats and Electronica" (Original Gravity), Vastek and Ibbett bridge the worlds of classical chamber music with electronic beats and sampled sounds of the universe.

Vastek and Ibbett perform a concert of Ibbett's works that explore such terrain as the fractal patterns of nature, the growth of an embryo, bleached coral reefs, and rising seas and a changing global climate."

Tickets cost $22 each. For tickets and information, visit eventbrite.com.

The Linda WAMC's Performing Arts Studio is located at 339 Central Ave. in Albany.

Money from nothin'

Understanding the bitcoin phenomenon

The going rate of bitcoins continues to rise. As of September 2017, one bitcoin was equal to nearly $4,000 USD and $4,900 Canadian, according to the CoinDesk calculator. Considering bitcoin is such a highly valued yet volatile form of currency, many people have questions as to how bitcoins were created and how they are used.

Bitcoin is a relatively new currency that was created in 2009 by an anonymous person (or group) using the alias Satoshi Nakamoto. Bitcoins are produced and traded in the virtual world. In a relatively short period of time, bitcoins went from being worth pennies to thousands of dollars. Unlike other forms of currency, which are controlled by a central authority of a particular country, bitcoins are completely virtual.

How to get bitcoins

Bitcoins are not acquired in the same way as other currencies. Bitcoins can be bought and sold in marketplaces called "bitcoin exchanges." These online trading areas enable people to buy and sell bitcoins using various currencies, says CNN Money. Similarly, people can send bitcoins to one another using mobile apps or a computer, much like one would make digital transfers at a bank.

Bitcoins are not based on gold or another backing currency, but rather on mathematics. Instead of a federal reserve deciding on when to print and distribute money, bitcoins are created as a reward for mining. "Mining" involves a special open source software that is designed to solve math problems. As a reward for solving these problems, people are rewarded with bitcoins. This creates an incentive for people to mine.

Bitcoin mining is designed to require exertion and take time so that the rate resembles the rate at which commodities like gold would be mined from the ground, offers Bitcoinmining.com. According to ABC News, available bitcoins are hidden amid a complex encrypted computer program. Users' computers work around the clock to solve a complicated mathematical problem in order to release new coins. The system requires more work to get coins as time goes by.

How are bitcoins stored

Bitcoins are stored in a digital bitcoin wallet. Only 21 million bitcoins can be found by miners so the value of the system is preserved. To date, not all bitcoins have been mined. Every bitcoin transaction is completely transparent, which means they can be traced back to creation. The "block chain" is a public ledger where every bitcoin transaction that has ever taken place is registered.

Anonymity

Even though bitcoin transactions are recorded publicly, the names of buyers and sellers are never revealed. Only a wallet ID is recorded. This enables bitcoin users to buy or sell anything without it being traced back to them. While many legitimate businesses now accept bitcoins, bitcoins also are highly valued for black market ventures like purchasing drugs and illegal weapons.

Bitcoins are changing the way people see money and store their private wealth. The concept decentralizes money and makes the bitcoin exchange a relatively transparent process.

Michelle McGowne

Michael Hallisey: You've got to be feeling strong. I'm going over your Twitter feed, and you have a lot of people coming out in support for you. How does that feel?

Dane Cook: It's so funny. Every time, as a comedian, you get past say, a special or an album, you're a new comedian again. It's basically going back to basics. Back to the open mic of it all. New ideas, new premises, and at the same time, an evolution in your life. Our tastes change. Our perspective changes. So, you're always a little bit — really — peeking out, because you're hoping that the comedy is going to be well-received, like, fortunately, it has been in the past.

So, last year, what I did a secret, underground tour. I didn't promote. It was just a lot of interesting locations that I never happened upon before. And, what I found was — what was so thrilling was — as I was approaching 29 years this year, people were coming up to me after these shows, or emailing or DMing me, and saying, 'hey, I've been a fan. [...] I was at Madison Square. I was at a show you did in Miami at 'The Improv.' And, a lot of them were saying, 'this show exceeded my expectations.' And, when you start hearing that, it really gives you the incentive to go out there, put a label on it, and do a large-scale tour. And, after about two and a half years of working on this, we're ready to go.

Hallisey: You wrote this beautiful post on your Instagram account, and I'm picking up that you're being a little introspective. You admit you've been doing this for almost three decades now. Are you feeling old now?

Cook: I don't know if we ever as comedians... I know I don't feel any different, from when I first started doing comedy. What's really incredible is, I've been friends with some of the legendary comedians from many, many years down the road. Jerry Lewis being one of them, who I was very close with. A mentor and a friend. And, here was a guy, 90 years old and still had a boyish enthusiasm. So, I think there's always a little fountain of youth element in doing stand up. I don't feel any different, but I've obviously have experienced different things. And, having been through high highs and low lows, I've got more to pull from in the minutiae of life to be able to observe and report. So, I feel great. I don't feel like... I'll tell you what. When I wake up in the morning, I'm as enthusiastic as I've ever been to face the day, and to get on stage at night, if that answers your question.

Hallisey: Obviously, just reading your posts and everything that's happened in the past week alone, I can pick up your attitude and how you're excited about the upcoming tour. Tell me a little about it. Because what I'm hearing is that people want to attribute the word 'comeback' for you. I know that's not how you want to define it, but I definitely see something more along the lines of a change. You made reference to a George Carlin act a recent Hollywood Reporter article, in which he made a change in his routine.

Cook: Yeah, it's kind of funny, because when people say, 'is it a comeback?' I say, 'if I had become a carpenter for the last five years, and had been nowhere near a comedy club, I would say that would be a comeback.'

Truth be told, it was more of a sit back moment. I just wanted to sit back. Live my life. Fall in love. Get past all the hardships I had experienced. About ten years I went through a lot of capsizing moments in my life. All in a row, like at a very strange time. I was reaching this superstardom, but at the same time, I was at this personal strife with my life. I lost both my parents to cancer. I lost my brother because I put him in jail. He had taken all this money from me. It was a terrible, spiraling time. Eventually, when I came out of that, and I started forming my stand up, I felt I had an obligation. Before I go out there and put my name on something, I want to make sure it's the best that I can be at this point right now.

So, two things, to answer your question. It definitely felt more like, for me, my trajectory. I always knew this was not going to be a quick run. It's going to be a marathon. And, also accepting the fact that a career, like life, is filled with times when the phone is ringing off the hook and times when it's not ringing at all. That's when it's your obligation to pick up the phone and start making it ring somewhere else, piecing together the new articles you need to present where you're at now in your life. So, going through all that, and moe. is the preeminent progressive rock band on the music scene today. With 20 years of touring and just as many albums under its belt, the quintet of Al Schnier and Chuck Garvey on guitars and vocals, Rob Derhak on bass and vocals, Jim Loughlin on percussion and vibes, and Vinnie Amico on Drums, continues to push the standard for performance art. Critical acclaim and a solid national and international fan base has built a dedicated following that grows each year. Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 7 p.m. The Paramount Theatre, 30 Center St., Rutland, Vermont. $39. Paramountvt.org.

Electro-Symphonic Piano

Described as "cosmic jazz" (Boston Music Intelligencer) and "like Mozart mashed up with Club Beats and Electronica" (Original Gravity), pianist Sophia Subbayya Vastek and electronic artist David Ibbett present an electro-symphonic journey of growth and discovery - bridging the worlds of classical chamber music with electronic beats and sampled sounds of the universe. Vastek and Ibbett perform a concert of Ibbett's works that explore such terrain as the fractal patterns of nature, the growth of an embryo, bleached coral reefs, and rising seas and a changing global climate." Friday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m. The Linda WAMC's Performing Arts Studio, 339 Central Ave., Albany. $22. Eventbrite.com.

The Lightning Thief:

The Percy Jackson Musical

This "winning adaptation" (The Hollywood Reporter) of the best-selling Disney-Hyperion novel by Rick Riordan, The Lightning Thief: The Percy Jackson Musical is "electrifying!" (Newsday). The Greek gods are real, and they're ruining Percy Jackson's life. As a son of Poseidon, Percy has newly discovered powers he can't control, monsters on his trail, and is on an epic quest to find Zeus's lightning bolt to prevent a war between the gods. Nominated for 3 Drama Desk Awards including Best Musical, The Lightning Thief is "mesmerizing" and proves "lightning can strike twice!" (TheaterMania). Friday, Feb. 22, at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 23, at 2 & 8 p.m. $20-$50. Proctors, 432 State St., Schenectady. 518-346-6294 or proctors.org.

The Mousetrap

Mysterious twists and thrilling turns abound when a group of strangers stranded in a guest house during a snowstorm discover that a murderer is in their midst. Whodunnit? Is it one of the suspicious newlyweds or the spinster with the curious background? Perhaps it's the architect, the retired Army major or the strange man running from his past. Enjoy an evening of exhilarating intrigue as Agatha Christie's greatest mystery unfolds to its surprising conclusion. Come find out why The Mousetrap is the world's longest running play! Feb. 22, 23, at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24, at 2 p.m. $24-$27. Home Made Theater, 19 Roosevelt Dr., Saratoga Springs. 518-587-4427. Red.vendini.com.

Reality Trippin

Black Diamond Group Performance Ensemble presents "Reality Trippin." "Reality Trippin" is a collection of original poetry by Penny Meacham, drama, song and dance intended to honor Black History Month in general but more specifically to acknowledge the joy and pains of Black life that keep us rolling along. A special tribute to Aretha Franklin, Tupac, Paul Laurence Dunbar, and Lucille Clifton. Special guest Donald "The Soul Man" Hyman and other noted community performers. The Black Diamond Group is a small new group of actors, poets, and singers performing original material of its founder, Penny Meacham, along with other pieces from selected seasoned local talent. Sunday, Feb. 24, at 5 p.m. $15. The Mopco Improv Theatre, 10 North Jay St., Schenectady. eventbrite.com.

COMEDY

Dane Cook

The beleaguered comedian is on national "Tell It Like It Is" tour. The popular comedian and film actor has released five comedy albums, including "Harmful If Swallowed," "Retaliation," "Vicious Circle," "Rough Around The Edges," "Live from Madison Square Garden" and "Isolated Incident." His observational style of comedy has also been described as vulgar and dark. Friday, Feb. 22, at 7:30 p.m. Palace Theatre, 19 Clinton Ave., Albany. $39.50-$59.50. Ticketmaster.com.

Eddie Griffin

One night his cousin dared him to go on stage at the local comedy club Sanford and Sons where he was told to do three minutes. He performed off-the-cuff for 45 minutes successfully. It was then that Griffin purchased a one-way ticket to Los Angeles to pursue his dream of becoming a stand up. In only one short month, he was a regular at the renowned Comedy Store, where he was compared with esteemed talents such as Richard Pryor, Redd Foxx, and Benny Bruce. After only two short months, Griffin was chosen to open for Andrew Dice Clay at Madison Square Garden that kicked off a 22-city tour. These

'Alita: Battle Angel'

From visionary filmmakers James Cameron (Avatar) and Robert Rodriguez (Sin City), comes Alita: Battle Angel, an epic adventure of hope and empowerment. When Alita (Rosa Salazar) awakens with no memory of who she is in a future world she does not recognize, she is taken in by Ido (Christoph Waltz), a compassionate doctor who realizes that somewhere in this abandoned cyborg shell is the heart and soul of a young woman with an extraordinary past. As Alita learns to navigate her new life and the treacherous streets of Iron City, Ido tries to shield her from her mysterious history while her street-smart new friend Hugo (Keanu Johnson) offers instead to help trigger her memories. But it is only when the deadly and corrupt forces that run the city come after Alita that she discovers a clue to her past - she has unique fighting abilities that those in power will stop at nothing to control. If she can stay out of their grasp, she could be the key to saving her friends, her family and the world she's grown to love. Thursday, Feb. 14. PG-13. 125 minutes. 20th Century Fox.

'How To Train Your Dragon: The Hidden World'

Now chief and ruler of Berk alongside Astrid, Hiccup has created a gloriously chaotic dragon utopia. When the sudden appearance of female Light Fury coincides with the darkest threat their village has ever faced, Hiccup and Toothless must leave the only home they've known and journey to a hidden world thought only to exist in myth. As their true destinies are revealed, dragon and rider will fight together-to the very ends of the Earth-to protect everything they've grown to treasure. Friday, Feb. 22. PG. 110 minutes. Universal Pictures.

'The Changeover'

Sixteen-year-old Laura Chant (Erana James) lives with her mother and four-year-old brother Jacko (Benji Purchase) in a poor new suburb on the edge of a partially demolished Christchurch, New Zealand. Laura is drawn into a supernatural battle with an ancient spirit who attacks Jacko and slowly drains the life out of him as the spirit becomes ever younger. Laura discovers her true identity and the supernatural ability within her and must harness it to save her brother's life. Friday, Feb. 22. NR. 95 minutes. Firefly Films.

'The Iron Orchard'

The Iron Orchard is the story of Jim McNeely (Lane Garrison), a young man thrust into the vibrant and brutal West Texas oilfields in 1939. In a state gushing with oil and filled with ambition, McNeely settles into a small-town community that is slowly overcoming the trauma of the Great Depression. The formidable path before him is riddled with obstacles -- overbearing bosses who try to keep him down, powerful oilmen who are reluctant to invest in a fresh face, and women who see salvation in his charms -- but he finds a glimmer of hope with his first loves: new wife Lee Montgomery (Ali Cobrin) and drilling for oil. With everything falling into place to ascend to the top of the oil chain, McNeely stumbles upwards through his success and in turn jeopardizes his desperate longing to conquer this brave new world of influence and wealth. What will define his legacy in building the rich oil tradition of West Texas? Friday, Feb. 22. R. Santa Rita Films.

'Run The Race'

In Run The Race, two desperate brothers sacrifice today for a better tomorrow. Reeling from his mother's death and his father's abandonment, Zach, an All-State athlete, finds glory on the football field, working to earn a college scholarship and the brothers' ticket out of town. When a devastating injury puts Zach and his dreams on the sidelines, David laces up his track cleats to salvage their future and point Zach toward hope. Friday, Feb. 22. PG. 101 minutes. Roadside Attractions.

'Total Dhamaal'

And the madness, and the craziness, of the biggest franchise of laughter continues. Total Dhamaal is a mad adventure comedy about money. Guddu (Ajay Devgn), a small-time crook gets double-crossed by his own colleague, Pintu (Manoj Pahwa), after they have managed to get their hands on an illegal booty. Guddu and his sidekick Johnny (Sanjay Misra) manage to trace his colleague but only after Pintu has given the information of the booty to three other groups i.e. Avinash (Anil Kapoor) and Bindu (Madhuri Dixit Nene) — a bickering couple about to be divorced; Lallan (Riteish Deshmukh) and Jhingur (Pitobash Tripathy) — Fire Officers turned offenders & two weird siblings Aditya (Arshad Warsi) and Manav (Javed Jaffrey). All of them refuse Guddu's offer to distribute the money and the race to reach the booty first begins. Finally, after many ups and downs, all reach the designated place. But it's not as easy as it seems. Is there any truth about the hidden booty? Or all of them are being fooled? After a day full of life-changing, near-death experiences, will the adventure ever end or another one begin? Find out how the story concludes and if they are able to get the booty or not! Friday, Feb. 22. NR. FIP.

Albany Institute of History and Art

Continuing: "Bejeweled and Bedazzled: Jewelry and Personal Adornment." More than 100 works of jewelry and personal adornment dating across four centuries will sparkle and shine in this exhibition. Drawn from the collections of the Albany Institute, these personal effects will tell stories about the individuals who owned them, where and why they were purchased, and what they reveal as works of art and embellishment.

Through Sunday, July 28. Also, "Shape and Shadow: The Sculpture of Larry Kagan." A retrospective exhibition that will feature 50 works from three distinctive phases of the Troy sculptor's career: the 1970s cast acrylic sculptures that reflect and refract light; the found steel works from the 1980s and 90s that play with texture, pattern, and shape; and, more recently, the shadow pieces that rely on strategically positioned steel rods to sculpt light. Through Sunday, June 9. Also, "Joan Steiner's Look Alikes." Ten miniature dioramas by the award-winning illustrator are on exhibit in different locations throughout the museum. These meticulously crafted scenes were created from everyday objects and edible treats and photographed for her Look-Alike books. Through Monday, Feb. 18. Also, "Heavy Metal: Cast Iron Stoves of the Capital Region." During the 19th century, Albany and Troy, New York, manufacturers were considered to be among the largest producers of cast-iron stoves in the world. Stoves made in these cities were renowned for their fine-quality castings and innovations in technology and design. This exhibit showcases 25 of these utilitarian objects as both works of art and technological innovations that made the home more comfortable as well as beautiful. On display through, Sunday, Aug. 18.

Ongoing: "The Hudson River School: Landscape Paintings from the Albany Institute," "Ancient Egypt," "Nineteenth-Century American Sculpture" and "Traders & Culture." Museum hours: Wednesday: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday: 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Friday and Saturday: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday: noon to 5 p.m. Admission: Adults, $10; seniors/students (w/ID), $8; children 6-12, $6; free admission Thursdays from 5 to 8 p.m. 125 Washington Ave., Albany. 518-463-4478 or albanyinstitute.org

Albany International Airport
Continuing: "Landmark." Visual artists and writers reflect upon a changing American landscape. Thomas Cole's love for and concern about the American landscape were expressed in his paintings and writings, and persist in the work of many significant artists and writers today. Features work by Ellen Driscoll, Valerie Hammond, William Lamson, Portia Munson, Kenneth Ragsdale, Anne Roecklein, Lisa Sanditz, Kiki Smith, Darren Waterson and Susan Wides. Through Monday, March 25. Presented in partnership with the Thomas Cole National Historical Site in Catskill. Gallery hours: Daily, 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Free admission. Main Gallery, third floor, adjacent to Observation Area, 737 Albany Shaker Rd., Latham. 518-242-2241 or www.albanyairport.com/arts

Arts Center of the Capital Region

Continuing: "In Ply." A band of artists converging on a single mission to create an environment that can be used without regard to a specific means of interaction outside of community use and art. Over 50 artists create work within the narrative of skate culture including skate decks, street art, skate photography, and carpentry. The exhibit will include a skate ramp built in house for public use. Public reception on Thursday, Feb. 28, from 6 to 8 p.m. On view in the Main Gallery through Friday, April 5. Also, Hyeyon Stella Rim "Painting Inspiration: FOR CHILDREN TO THRIVE NOT JUST SURVIVE." Moving to Canada from Korea as a child, Stella, as she likes to be called, overcame barriers and thrived through her passion for art. Art can be used as a form of communication that transcends nationality, ethnicity, and language. This exhibition showcases Rim's artwork as well as the artwork of the children she volunteers her time to at RISSE (Refugee Immigrant Support Service of Emmaus) in Albany, N.Y. On view in the Wallace & Foyer Galleries through Friday, Feb. 22. 265 River St., Troy. Gallery hours: Daily, Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. Free admission. 518-273-0552 or artscenteronline.org

Capital Repertory Theatre

Continuing: "Cathy Frank's On the Way to the Compost Pile: Digital Paintings." The photographs and digital paintings featured in this exhibit explore her surroundings with her irrepresible imagination. The exhibit's opening coincides with the 40th anniversary of the opening of Cathy's Waffle Store. The artist is also known from Firléfanz Gallery on Lark Street in the 1980s. On display through Sunday, Feb. 17. 111 North Pearl St., Albany. Free. 518-462-4531 or www.facebook.com/pg/CapitalRep/events/

The Clark Art Institute

Continuing: "Thomas Gainsborough: Drawings at The Clark," features 16 drawings that capture the artist's idealized view of country life while demonstrating how he championed an imaginative approach over naturalistic detail and revealed his fascination with mixed media technique. On view through Sunday, March 17. Also, "Turner and Constable: The Inhabited Landscape," features works by two of the most important landscape artists of the 19th century from England—Joseph Mallard William Turner and John Constable—which explore the significance of human figures and the built environment in the landscape, as well as the personal significance of specific places to each artist. Through Sunday, March 10. Also, "Extreme Nature!" Features more than 35 prints, drawings and photographs from the 19th century that reveal how artists sought to mitigate nature's dangers, transforming the hazardous and remote into awe-inspiring portrayals of natural phenomena. On view through Sunday, Feb. 24. Also, permanent collections and exhibits, including the American Arts Decorative Arts Galleries, French Impressionist paintings, and works by Winslow Homer, George Inness and John Singer Sargent. Museum hours: Daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. Admission: Adults, $20; children 18 and younger, free. 225 South St., Williamstown, Mass. 413-458-2303

The Esther Massry Gallery

Continuing: "Revised Realities: Isidro Blasco + Elise Engler." Both artists held solo shows in the former Picotte Hall Gallery. Isidro Blasco (2007) works between Madrid, Spain and New York City. He combines architecture, photography, and installation to explore physical and psychological terrains with a focus on the New York urban environment. A life-long New Yorker, Elise Engler (2005) is a painter who documents people, places and things. Her series "First Radio Headlines Heard of the Day," is a daily drawing project that has been ongoing since before the 2016 presidential election. Through Saturday, Feb. 23. Massry Center for the Arts, The College of Saint Rose, 1002 Madison Ave., Albany. Gallery hours through Saturday, April 27: Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 5 p.m.; open until 8 p.m. on Thursday, closed on Sundays, academic holidays and between exhibitions. Free admission. 518-485-3902 or www.facebook.com/esthermassrygallery

The Hyde Collection

Continuing: "From the Vault: Staff Selections." Members of The Hyde team each picks their favorites from among the Museum's 4,000-work collection. Spanning five centuries, the exhibition includes paintings, drawings, prints, and sculpture. With choices as eclectic as their backgrounds, Museum staff members give insight into who they are and reveals what inspires them. On view in the Hoopes and Whitney-Renz Galleries through Sunday, March 31. Also, "Colorama." For more than four decades, enormous advertisements displayed in New York City's Grand Central Station affirmed a picturesque notion of everyday American life. The 18-foot-by-60-foot images depicted an idyllic nation: beautiful landscapes, holiday celebrations, world-changing historical events, family road trips, and patriotism. This exhibition examines the captivating advertisements, offering insight into America, and the histories of advertising, photography, and technology. Thirty-six reproduced images from the George Eastman Museum depict an idealized past for a new generation, and a welcome reintroduction for those who lived through the decades that helped shape photography. Organized by the George Eastman Museum. On view through Sunday, April 14. Also permanent collections. Museum hours: Daily, Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, noon to 5 p.m., Closed Monday. Admission: adults, $12; seniors (60+), $10; Children, students (w/ID)/ active military members and their families, free. 161 Warren St., Glens Falls. 518-792-1761 or www.hydecollection.org

The Jan Rutland Memorial Artists' Space

New: "The Adirondacks Made Me Do It!" This open call art show features Adirondack-themed works by 23 regional artists. Continuing: "The Wild Side." Features works by Cassidy Freeman, a senior at Galway Central School.

Both exhibits on display through March 16. Gallery hours (through Thursday, Feb. 28): Thursday, Friday, and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Free. Second Floor, National Bottle Museum, 76 Milton Ave., Ballston Spa. 518-885-7589 or nationalbottlemuseum.org/the-jan-rutland-artists-space/

Mabee Farm Historic Site

Continuing: "A Dishonorable Trade: Human Trafficking in the Dutch Atlantic World." This traveling exhibit curated by the NYS Department of Parks and Recreation not only examines the role that slavery played in the creation and maintenance of the Dutch trading empire, but also delves into the lives and stories of people affected by the trade. On display indefinitely. Also, ongoing and permanent exhibitions. Winter hours: Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. 1100 Main St. (NY Route 55), Rotterdam Junction. miSci

Continuing: "Zoom into Nano." A hands-on interactive exhibition focusing on how scientists see and make things that are too small to see. Nanoscale science and engineering are methods of manipulating materials on the molecular scale to generate very, very small structures and devices. At 5,000 square feet, Zoom Into Nano presents a variety of large-scale, immersive experiences in the world of nanotechnology. Plus ongoing/permanent exhibits: "Wind and Solar: The Renewable Energy Revolution," an interactive exhibit designed to encourage visitors understanding of renewable energy technology and climate change factors; "Fueling The Future," Learn how different fuels affect the economy and the environment with interactive displays, images, video and artifacts from the miSci collection; "Design, Build, Create, KEVA!" Use these precision-cut smooth wooden blocks for a hands-on learning experience about building principles of balance, cantilevers, geometric shapes, optimum proportion stability and more; "Play Space," Discover hands-on, fun science toys you don't have at home to learn about weight, measurement, sorting and fun; and "MRI: Examining the Human Body," in addition to "Planetarium Shows: "Season of Light." Explore humankind's history of lighting up our lives during the December holiday season. It's an exploration of the astronomical meanings behind seasonal traditions—from the burning Yule log, sparkling Christmas tree lights and candles in windows, to the lighting of luminaires in the American Southwest and the traditional ritual of the Hanukkah Menorah. Daily, Tuesday through Sunday at 2 p.m. with additional show on Saturdays at 11 a.m. Also, "IMPACT!" This show teaches about meteors, meteorites, asteroids, and comets, including results from recent NASA missions and about the dangers they can pose to life on Earth. It shows the effects of cosmic impacts and describes ways that asteroid hunters seek new objects in the solar system. Daily, Tuesday through Sunday at 3 p.m. Also, "Amp's Amazing Night Flight." Take a fun and exciting tour of the night sky, the solar system and more with the energetic firefly, Amp. One weekly showing, Saturday at noon. Also, "Night of Pegasus." Celebrate fall and explore Pegasus, the flying horse, a constellation visible in the autumn night sky during this fun and informative live exploration of the planets, stars and constellations in the seasonal night sky. Saturdays and Sundays only, at 1 p.m. Museum hours: Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (observatory open until 8 p.m. on Thursday); Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. 15 Nott Terrace Heights, Schenectady. Admission: Adults (13+), $12; seniors (65+), $10; children (3-12) $8. Additional $6/person for planetarium show. 518-382-7890 or www.miSci.org

National Museum of Dance

Continuing: "Dancers After Dark-Photographs by Jordan Matter," features photographs from Matter's 2016 book of the same title. Also, "Art in the Foyer: Tom Caravaglia in Celebration of Alwin Nikolais." Features images by the renowned dance photographer of groundbreaking choreographer and multimedia artist Nikolais during the 25th anniversary year of his passing. Plus ongoing/permanent exhibits: "Dancers in Film," which celebrates the relationship between the two genres and features both well known dance and acting stars; also "Gender Neutral," which explores the history of non-traditional roles in dance from the 18th Century to the present day with the all male travesty ballet troupe Les Ballets Trockadero as its centerpiece. Museum hours: Daily, Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. 99 South Broadway, Saratoga Springs. Admission: Adults, $6.50; seniors/students (w/valid ID) $5; children ages 4 to 12, $3; children ages 3 and younger, free; free admission for all patrons on Tuesday. 518-584-2225 or www.dancemuseum.org

New York State Museum Continuing: "The Historic Woodstock Art Colony: The Arthur A. Anderson collection." Long before the famous music festival in 1969, Woodstock, New York, was home to what is considered America's first intentionally created, year-round arts colony—founded in 1902 and still thriving over 100 years later. Collecting the remarkable range of work produced there has been Arthur A. Anderson's focus for three decades, resulting in the largest comprehensive assemblage of its type. The artists represented in it reflect the diversity of those who came to Woodstock, including Birge Harrison, Konrad Cramer, George Bellows, Eugene Speicher, Peggy Bacon, Rolph Scarlett, and Yasuo Kuniyoshi, among many others. This exhibition introduces to the public for the first time just a sample of the highlights of this extraordinary collection, which represents a body of work that together shaped art and culture in New York and forms a history of national and international significance. On display in the West Gallery through Tuesday, Dec. 31. Also, "a small fort, which our people call Fort Orange." This exhibition examines the momentous discovery of Fort Orange and the lasting impact of events occurring there 400 years ago that shaped the character of the region, state, and the nation. Select artifacts, film footage from the excavation preceding the construction of I-787, and four decades of historical and archaeological research are highlighted. In Adirondack Hall through May 5, 2020. Also, "Enterprising Waters: New York's Erie Canal (Phase Two):" A continuation of the Erie Canal's story with components on the canal's growth, politics, industries, social reform, and the Canal's legacy.

Tang Teaching Museum
"The Second Buddha: Master of Time"

presents the story of the legendary Indian Buddhist master Padmasambhava, who is widely credited with bringing Buddhism to the Tibetan lands. The exhibit explores the visual and material world centered on Padmasambhava through sculpture, thangkas (Tibetan scroll paintings), textiles and manuscripts from the 13th through 19th centuries. On display in the Wachenheim Gallery through Sunday, May 19. Also, "Like Sugar," which explores both the problematic and joyful aspects of sugar, complicating our view of how this multi-layered substance affects us through artwork by contemporary artists. On display in the Malloy Wing through Sunday, June 9. Continuing: "The Shelf." Exhibition presents work from the museum that spans place, time, material, style and subject. Displayed together on a single shelf, the selected objects confuse distinctions between "high" and "low" art, between "decorative" and "fine," or between work made for function and beauty. On display in the Winter Gallery through Sunday, April 14. Also, "Tel .:" Kamau Amu Patton's continually evolving interpretation of what a museum community space can be. In the State Farm Mezzanine Gallery through Sunday, Sept. 1. Skidmore College, 815 North Broadway, Saratoga Springs. Museum hours: Tuesday - Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.; Thursday until 9 p.m. Free admission; suggested donations of $5/adult; $3/child 13+; seniors, $2. 518-580-8080 or tang.skidmore.edu

Union College Galleries
Continuing: "A Decolonial Atlas: Strategies in Contemporary Art of the Americas."

Drawing from the hemispheric context of the Americas, and broad questions of civilization and culture, this exhibition presents recent works by artists from the United States and Latin America who are grappling with continued questions of colonialism and postcolonialism in an effort to locate "place" in contemporary society. The exhibition highlights the medium of video as a critical tool for expanded narratives and immersive imagery, in addition to painting, photography, sculpture and works on paper. Structured around four thematic constellations, the artworks in this exhibition consider an alternative mapping of the region, charting new courses for the present and future. Works presented in the section Recasting Indigeneity subvert the exoticized view of indigenous cultures in the imperial gaze, by reasserting native identity formations, beliefs and practices situated in the contemporary moment. Rupturing a linear notion of time, works within Dislodging Time maneuver the viewer out of an ordered Gregorian clock into abstract cycles. In the section Countering Extractivism, featured works intercede the anonymity of state and private extractive economic practices to bear witness to the depletion of natural resources and methods of social control. Lastly, works within Intervening the Archive disrupt the official narratives of specific places and events, broadening the confines of the archive, from the contemporary, to the colonial, to the origins of conquest. Organized by the Vincent Price Art Museum, California, and curated by Pilar Tompkins Rivas. On view in the Mandeville Gallery, second floor of the Nott Memorial, through Sunday, June 16. Also, "Fragmented Memories: Thomas Aung." The artist, a native of Yangon, Myanmar, and a junior at the college, paints bold, vibrant portraits that exude thoughtfulness and reflection of both their subjects and their portraitist, through the use of a somewhat discordant combination of brilliant hues and loose brushstrokes with somber and meditative poses and expressions. On view in the Wickoff Student Gallery, third floor of the Nott Memorial, through Sunday, March 17. "Mark Bradford Installation." This acclaimed artist's mixed media piece Untitled (buoy) from 2015 is on loan from Board of Trustees member Kelly Williams for the next year in honor of President Harris' inauguration. The sculpture conjures natural and man-made environments, simultaneously evoking neighborhood streets, arterial veins, and woven snares. Through August 2019 in the Beuth Atrium (1st Floor) Schaffer Library. Also, "For Freedoms: 50 State Initiative." The Four Freedoms articulated by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1941 and illustrated by Norman Rockwell's 1943 paintings serve as the inspiration for this initiative, founded by artists Hank Willis Thomas and Eric Gottesman that seeks to use art to deepen public discussions of civic issues and core values, and to clarify that citizenship in American society is defined by participation, not by ideology. Public exhibition in which participants defined freedom in their own way and articulated their own vision of freedom that includes multitudes by completing one of four lawn signs. Installed in the Schaffer Library Learning Commons. Through Thursday, March 21. Hours (all galleries): Daily, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. 807 Union St., Schenectady. Free. 518-388-6004 or muse.union.edu/mandeville/home

HOROSCOPES

February 2019 Week 3

ARIES - MAR 21/APR 20

A sense of magic is in the air this week, Aries. Some may conspire to keep you in the dark about a situation. Don't worry ... it will have a pleasant culmination.

TAURUS - APR 21/MAY 21

Taurus, once someone earns your love, that bond is not easily broken. You will find new ways to show your affection this week for a person close to you.

GEMINI - MAY 22/JUN 21

Gemini, sometimes your mind is too quick to speak before you fully think through your thoughts. This can get you into trouble in some instances. Find ways to address any faux pas.

CANCER - JUN 22/JUL 22

Past relationships do not have to get in the way of current ones, Cancer. Things aren't always as complicated as you make them seem. Just go through with your daily business.

LEO - JUL 23/AUG 23

Leo, things will seem like a piece of cake this week, so much so that you may wonder if there's a catch. There is no catch. Enjoy your good fortune and lightened workload.

VIRGO - AUG 24/SEPT 22

Virgo, you may enjoy an unexpected respite in the next few days. Initially you may not know what to do with your time off. But soon enough you will figure it out.

LIBRA - SEPT 23/OCT 23

Libra, even if you might be afraid of confrontation, you should not use that as an excuse that prevents you from righting wrongs. You will find your voice.

SCORPIO - OCT 24/NOV 22

Scorpio, your focus and commitment to the task at hand are unrivaled. Others may not understand your passion, but all will be happy with the results.

SAGITTARIUS - NOV 23/DEC 21

Sagittarius, be there for someone who comes up to you and asks for help this week. Every little bit helps, and your generosity will be greatly appreciated.

CAPRICORN - DEC 22/JAN 20

Think about what you have to offer this week, Capricorn. Run your plan by someone you trust. You may not be ready for the spotlight.

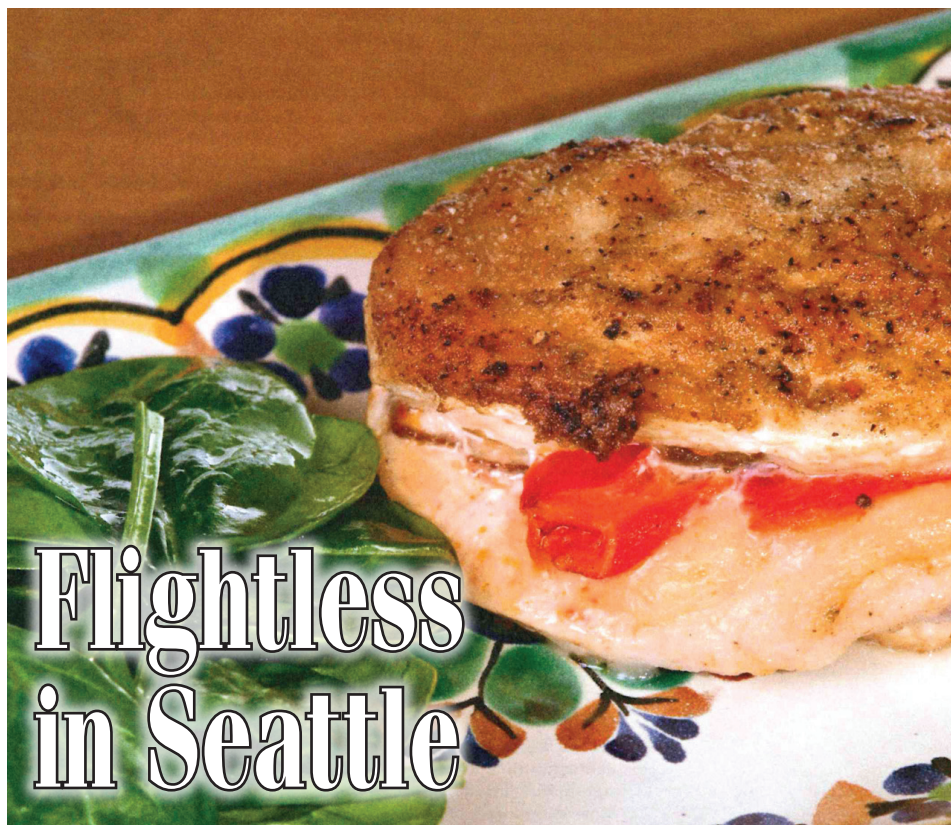

AQUARIUS - JAN 21/FEB 18

Aquarius, a string of misunderstandings will soon get worked out. All will be right in the universe once more, and you can get on with all of the plans you have in mind.

PISCES - FEB 19/MAR 20

Pisces, take a few extra moments each morning or evening to slow down and think about all the good luck that has recently come your way.

FOOD & VINO

Flightless in Seattle

Chicken is a versatile food that can be served in various ways. Many cultures have their own unique takes on chicken, and each of those takes gives poultry a distinct flavor.

Foodies who want a northwestern United States take on poultry can try the following recipe for “Chicken Breasts with Roasted Red Peppers, Hedgehog Mushrooms and Truffled Cheese” courtesy of Jill Lightner’s “Edible Seattle: The Cookbook” (Sterling Epicure).

Chicken Breasts with Roasted Red Peppers, Hedgehog Mushrooms and Truffled Cheese

Ingredients: Makes 4 servings

For the roasted red peppers:

- 2 red bell peppers
- 2 cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- Freshly ground black pepper

For the stuffed chicken breasts:

- 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 3/4 stick (6 tablespoons) unsalted butter
- 1/4 pound hedgehog mushrooms
- 3 to 4 ounces truffled cow’s milk cheese
- Salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons olive oil

Instructions:

1. Move the top oven rack so it’s about 5 inches from the broiler element. Preheat the broiler and line a baking sheet with aluminum foil. Place the whole peppers on the sheet and broil, turning them every few minutes, until their skins are entirely charred. Transfer to a bowl large enough to hold them, and cover the bowl with the foil. Allow the peppers to rest for 20 minutes.

2. Uncover the bowl and use a paring knife to remove the skins, stems and seeds, while capturing the juice and flesh in the bowl. Cut or tear the peppers into 1-inch-wide strips. Using the flat side of a large knife, crush the garlic cloves and remove

HEALTH & FITNESS

Feel your best starting with your stomach

Did you know that the key to personal health may begin in the core of the body? Doctors and researchers are learning more and more about how the immune system and other functions of the body are tied to microscopic players housed in the stomach and intestines. Improving this digestive environment can benefit the body in various ways.

in the body are harmless, and many of them in the gut actually are linked to numerous health benefits, such as weight loss, enhanced immune function, reduced risk of disease, and improved digestion. Unfortunately, bad bacteria also vie for space in the gut. If the good bacteria and yeasts, or probiotics, are not in abundance to push out the bad bacteria, like salmonella and E. coli, those bad bugs can proliferate, causing problems. It is essential to keep an abundance of probiotics available to stay healthy and maintain the “good vs. bad” balance in the gut.

Understanding probiotics

Bodily bacteria outnumber body cells by 10 to one, offers the health and wellness resource Healthline. Most of the bacteria

Getting probiotics

While the body can be healthy without the addition of probiotics, having more can be beneficial. The Cleveland Clinic says that food and supplements containing probiotics assist the good bacteria already present in your gut. When a course of antibiotics wipes out both good and bad bacteria, for example, probiotic-rich foods and supplements can more readily replace what's lost.

Dietary sources of probiotics include some yogurts, cheeses, kefir, sauerkraut, miso, kimchi, pickles, and beverages like kombucha, a fermented tea. Getting probiotics from foods is the most natural way to supplement good gut bacteria, as the foods meld with the probiotics in ways that doctors may never understand to deliver the most benefits.

The downside is it's impossible to measure just how many probiotics can be acquired from foods. That is what makes supplementation so handy. Capsules and tablets are loaded with a variety of different active bacteria and yeast cultures to aid the digestive system in measurable ratios. Some tout anywhere from one to 30 billion active colony-forming units (CFUs) per serving.

Side effects

Probiotics are generally healthy for people to consume in amounts found in foods, advises the Mayo Clinic. Most healthy adults can safely add foods or dietary supplements that contain probiotics to their diets. Introducing probiotics may cause temporary and mild flatulence, discomfort and bloating.

Probiotics can be another tool to improve health at any age, but especially for adults looking to minimize illness risk.

the skins. Add the garlic, olive oil and salt and pepper to taste and allow the roasted peppers to marinate at room temperature for 2 hours, stirring occasionally.

3. Preheat the oven to 350 F. If the chicken breasts are large, insert a knife with a 1-inch blade into the center from the end of the breast, creating a pocket. Be careful not to pierce the outside. If the breasts are small, butterfly them out flat, cover with plastic wrap, and pound flat.

4. Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in a small sauté pan and briefly cook the mushrooms until they're soft, 3 to 4 minutes.

Fill the pocket of each chicken breast with a strip of pepper, then some of the mushroom, then the cheese, and repeat until it can hold no more. Close the opening with a toothpick, season to taste with salt and pepper, and dredge in the flour.

5. Melt the remaining 4 tablespoons butter in a large ovenproof sauté pan, add the olive oil, and cook the breasts, turning until lightly browned. Transfer the pan to the oven and bake the chicken until cooked through, about 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

School in session

Engaging production of 'School Of Rock' at Proctors

By SHANNON M. PALMO
nysmusic.com

“School of Rock: The Musical” took Schenectady by storm with its five-night

performance at Proctors in the heart of downtown. Based on the Paramount film, written by Mike White and starring Jack Black, the musical follows suit. With lyrics by Glenn Slater and new music by Andrew Lloyd Webber, in addition to director Laurence Connor’s vision, this musical took the 2003 film into a completely different light.

School of Rock follows failed rock star Dewey Finn, played by Merritt David Janes, as he takes a class of straight-A prep school kids and turns them into rock stars. With the pressure of needing to pay rent from his roommate and best friend Ned and Ned’s bossy girlfriend Patty, Dewey finds himself in an unusual predicament. With Ned being a substitute teacher, the principle of Horace Green Prep School calls in need of a fill-in. And thus, the kids at this prestigious prep school go from model students to rock and roll stars, playing in a battle of the bands and learning to go outside their comfort zone.

Opening the show was an announcement allowing the audience to know that the children in the musical do play their own instruments. Right in tune with the opening announcements, the musical was treated as a live rock concert and began with a performance in which Dewey was originally in — which was refreshing compared to most musicals.

Throughout the show, there was a balance of musical numbers and dialogue that both adults and children were able to enjoy. Keeping up with the humor that fans of the movie came to enjoy, the musical had plenty of laughs for everyone. With jokes referencing Harry Potter and making light of hot topics like, “the man” can also be a woman, it kept the crowd pleased and laughing.

The show also had songs that everyone could relate to and enjoy. One song sung by the students called “If Only You Would Listen,” allowed children in the audience to relate to what the actors were saying. The song featured four of the students and showed us what home life was like with their parents, and the expectations parents had for their children. This song resonates not only with the children watching, but even adults because at some point we have all felt the pressure of our parents. Another song that also was relatable and hilarious was when Dewey was teaching the students to learn to relax. “Stick It to the Man” rang through as more of an anthem for the musical as a whole; the idea behind it was to teach the kids to loosen up — what rock and roll is all about. Throughout School Of Rock the audience watched how these kids went from being shy and rule-bound to loosening up and having fun. But it’s not just the kids who go through a transformation, Dewey does as well. He goes from being a selfish, fame hungry, failed rocker to someone who realizes what it’s like to be in a band and part of a team. Dewey becomes someone the students can confide in and trust.

The stage set up and lighting was just as impressive as the cast. The backdrops for each scene was easily movable by either sliding up or to the side and even turning around. For the opening number and the finale of the show, the audience gets thrust into a rock and roll concert. The kids performing for a battle of the bands had their parents in the audience watching in awe, as well as us being a part of the show. With the lighting matching to that of an actual concert, bright and flashing, we were part of the show, cheering on the band of students aptly named School of Rock.

This show was both engaging and fun. With a great cast and song selection to keep the audience both engaged and interested, "School of Rock" knocked it out of the park. It is both a new and inventive show, fun for all ages. The music was meaningful and there are songs that will resonate with each person. "School of Rock: The Musical" enhances the movie to a whole new level of interactions. Altogether the show was enjoyable and kept you laughing at every turn.

Still 'feels so right'

50 Years Of Mountain Music:
Alabama still strong
after all these years

By LAURA DAPOLITO
and JIM GILBERT
nysmusic.com

Alabama brought its mountain music to Albany on Friday, Feb. 8. The Times Union Center celebrated with over 5,000 fans clapping along to Alabama's 50th Anniversary tour, complete with old favorites "High Cotton" and "Roll On Eighteen Wheeler." Band members danced and jumped along joyfully celebrating 50 years of country hits and friendship between cousins Randy Owen and Teddy Gentry. Their third cousin, Jeff Cook, sadly wasn't there. But the band played on with high energy, hopefulness, and a strong sense of family fondly connected to Alabama.

Randy Owen entertained with stories between songs, shaking hands at one point with a farmer and identifying his trade "by the feel of his hands." The hominess and warmth toward farmers and veterans was heartfelt; fans cheered as Owen pumped his fist when the fan announced he was "a veteran farmer."

Owen, wearing all black and a sweet scarf, a few times jumped up and down in excitement, only to slow himself, stating, "They tell me not to jump so I don't hurt my back." Fans would never guess Owen is 69 years young; his spry dancing, high energy clapping, and strong vocals defied age. His narrative, though, gave a bit of a hint: he dedicated one song to his great-granddaughter, Lucy.

Fans appeared to include many multigenerational families, including many mothers and daughters clad in flannel and cowgirl hats. When Owen noted they had to reschedule from January due to a snowstorm, he suggested the band should've come back in the warmer weather. Fans hooted and hollered, laughing and clapping at his observations of upstate winters.

The band played "Roll On Eighteen Wheeler," a hit they admitted they hadn't played on stage in years. Additionally, they brought up their opening group, Exile, to join them for "Closer You Get."

Perhaps one of the most tender moments of the night was the performance of "Angels Among Us." Owen explained the band, in conjunction with country stations across the country, had raised over $800 million for St. Jude over his career. The lights dimmed, and fans held up cell phones to reflect the heartfelt and gentle support of kindness toward strangers.

Alabama is still going strong at 50 years, and their fans are clearly looking forward to at least a few more.

Burly's 'Self Titled Demon'

By DAVE OSTROFF
nysmusic.com

Slow down, stay a while and unwind with something like you have never heard before. Troy natives, Burly, have created a lush, warm and plain relaxing collection sure to help you let go of the day's struggles – sinking into your chair for a spell. You won't find anything else like it, and it just might be your odd cup of tea you never knew you needed.

The album is laced with jazz, folk and indie influences with poetic lyrics layered over the top of each track. They're literally poems. The "Infinite Broken" lyrics are lifted directly from one of the non-performing member's own poems. Lyrically, it's intriguing. But what really sets this group apart is the instrument arrangement: jazz-inspired percussion, airy guitar, breathy saxophone, thoughtful bass and mellowing vibraphone. This ensemble is reminiscent of pivotal jazz groups and it's warming to see a modern revival of this setup. That being said, the group is still in their grassroots stages, so there is a lot of experimentation happening here. We find rockish songs, ones with a western feel and some that are plain melancholy.

We start out with "Branches of Blood" and to be honest, the whole song is perplexing. Highly interpretive lyrics, unique instrumentation and odd time signatures and tempos make the song intriguing, and a bit discomfoting. But it's still very good. It's obvious that everything is done with intention and diligence. The fact that the group can evoke so many emotions within the songs is incredible. It's a great way to kick off the album, but as stated before, things keep changing.

Another one of their best is "Happy Birthday 2001," a song about a "half-remembered birthday party of a high school friend." Lyrically, it's pretty comical because we've all been to those awkward parties, finding the piano in the basement and "stabbing at the piano keys," playing video games and "smoking weed out of a corn cob pipe" and "talking to cousins, trying not to seem like a kid". Beyond that, we find a style that's high energy and rockish, a much different feel compared to the rest of the album. Yet, it still holds a jazzy feel thanks to the vibraphone and sax. "Happy Birthday 2001" gives an otherwise cringe-worthy story, a light-hearted and airy feel. It's just fun to listen to.

"Kent Lame" brings the vibe down. Way down. We're told a story about, what we can only suspect, is drugs use and the effect it has on people. "I met crystal hazard... two days with two friends of mine confused on acid." One can only assume. It's accompanied by a very fitting tone — a soft bed of slow and deliberate instrumentation. This is the vein of the group and they've mastered it.

This is one of the most interesting albums I've heard in a long time. And although Burly has done an incredible job creating such a unique atmosphere, I would hope to see more work like working on this particular set the last... it's been about three years since Troublemaker. I directed my last special, and from that said I would take a long break. I didn't know if it was going to be a year. Two years. Two and a half. Three years. But, I'm going to take a long break, and I'm really going to work on the Act II of my life and career. Act I was over, and it was time to take a look at where I wanted to take my fans that I've grown up with. You know, I grew up with a generation of comedy bits. I grew up with them. I was doing colleges to college aged-kids when I was college-aged. I was headlining all these colleges all around New England. So, I felt like I had a great opportunity having grown up with this generation of fans. To speak to how I feel and see things, today. It was really, really great. As you can probably tell, I'm very enthused to get out there and share it with more people.

"Happy Birthday 2001" in the near future. And, whatever you do, don't get rid of that vibraphone.

Hallisey: Absolutely. Now, it's no secret that when you came out you were one of the first acts to really embrace social media to help you get your name out there. Now, as you are getting ready for your tour, is it different. Are there more obstacles in your way? How is it different now versus when you were utilizing MySpace and other social media channels?

Cook: You know, it's interesting. It's actually more streamlined, and there are less obstacles. And, the reason for that is, when you're coming to fruition, young, green in the industry, and when you starting putting together a winning formula, people see that. And, suddenly, there's a lot of people impeding on that movement. You're not sure if everybody is there for the right reasons. Or, if they're giving you the best advice and you're taking more advice because you've never done it before. So, I was at the helm of my own career. I was the one dictating how

I wanted to be branded and perceived because I was having direct conversations with fans through this new thing of social media. But, it added way more hurdles because then I found I was encumbered and sometimes tied into things and people and contracts that, maybe, were not entirely the best fit at that time for me. But, I needed to learn that. I didn't know that. So, when I went through that era of hitting this magnificent high watermark in this industry, and then came down the other side and settled into some normalcy, I found that I can still have those spikes when I go out and tour. I can put my effort into a film role. But, I don't need to live up there. I don't need to have the machine with me always. The last five, six, seven years. It's a lot easier to map. And, when things do get big and broad, I know how to deal with it. I'm the old bull on the hill now. I'm not the young bull, and that's good. I've got a great perspective for people who I mentor. People who now come to me, young comedians and artists. I can tell them, 'hey, I've been through the wringer. I've been through it all. But, I can also tell you what works.' At the end of the day, it's actually a simple equation and it leads to one word. There's just one word that defines this entire conversation. There's only one word that matters. There's only one thing that would have kept me in this position, and that's the word 'funny.' If I wasn't funny, I wouldn't be here. We wouldn't be talking. If I wasn't funny, people wouldn't come back and fill out an arena or a theater, 5, 10, 20,000 people, again, and again, and again. So, it's cool to be able to share this with the generation coming up. And, of course, what do I always tell them? Try to keep as few obstacles. Try to hone in on your voice and getting across the things you want to get across.
