Northway crash claims life of Guilderland student

GUILDERLAND — An automobile accident on the Northway on Sunday, March 27 claimed the life of an 18-year old Guilderland High School senior.

According to State Police, Megi Hamza, of Guilderland was driving northbound at 4:46 a.m. in her 2006 Toyota Corolla when the car became disabled in the center lane. A tractor trailer stopped alongside Hamza and activated its hazard lights to assist her. Timothy Murphy, 72, of Glens Falls was driving a 2015 Chevrolet Tahoe in the right lane and changed lanes in response to the stopped tractor trailer, but failed to see Hamza stopped in the center lane and crashed into the back of the Corolla.

Hamza was transported to the Albany Medical Center hospital where she died as a result of her injuries. Murphy was also transported to Albany Med with non life-threatening injuries. State Police are still investigating the crash.

In a letter to Guilderland Central School District Families on Sunday, Superintendent Marie Wiles said the district will provide support services for those affected by the loss.

"It is extremely difficult to face the death of a young person. Tomorrow, GCSD school psychologists, counselors and social workers will be available in the Large Group Instruction room at GHS to provide counseling and support to students and staff members," she said. "Students who would like to speak to someone in a more private setting should contact their school counselor or ask any staff member for help."

The letter also encouraged families to talk to their children and answer any questions related to the loss of Hamza. Discussing thoughts and feelings is important in helping children work through grief, she said.

She said for families to contact Guilderland High School Principal Michael Piscitelli at 518-861-8591 if they need additional assistance.

"Megi will be remembered as warm and friendly, with a sweet disposition. Always positive and smiling, she lit up any room she was in. Many students were fortunate to call Megi their friend," Wiles said. "She touched many lives at GHS and will truly be missed."

Traffic stop leads to charges

GLENMONT — A traffic stop for license plate and tint violations led to the arrest of a Long Island man for DWAI on weapon and drug charges.

Matthew Denrich, 39, of Massapequa, was traveling on Kenwood Avenue on Sunday, March 19 when Bethlehem police performed a traffic stop for registration plate display and glass tint violations.

Denrich had a suspended license and the officer observed that he had slow and slurred speech as well as glassy, bloodshot and droopy eyes. According to reports, he said he had one beer.

When Denrich pulled his keys out of his sweatshirt, the officer noticed a small yellow bag containing a quantity of methamphetamine fall from his pocket. He was given and failed two of the standardized field sobriety tests and taken to the police station.

Police conducted a search of the vehicle and found two more glass pipes, one containing methamphetamine and the other marijuana residue. The search also found an open container of an alcoholic beverage, another bag of methamphetamine and a stun gun.

At the police station, Denrich refused chemical tests and was evaluated by a drug recognition officer.

He was charged with DWAI-drugs, criminal possession of a controlled substance, criminal possession of a weapon and aggravated unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle, all misdemeanors, and operation of a motor vehicle by an unlicensed driver, drinking alcohol in a motor vehicle, windshield/glass tint violation and registration plate display violation, all violations.

Denrich was issued a bill of particulars, traffic tickets and appearance tickets then released. He is scheduled to return to Bethlehem Town Court on Wednesday, April 5.

Felony Warrant

DELMAR — A Cohoes man charged with 15 offenses in October relating to a stolen U Haul and high speed chase was arrested again for failing to show up to Bethlehem Town Court.

The court issued a bench warrant for Jason Benn, 48, of Cohoes after he did not appear on Nov. 3.

Albany County jail officials notified Bethlehem police on Tuesday, March 15 that Benn was in custody and he was transported to Bethlehem to be processed.

He was sent back to the jail with a return to court date of March 27.

From page 1 ... Climate Action

Then-Gov. Andrew Cuomo signed CLCPA into law in July 2019, committing the state to reduce carbon emissions to 40 percent below those of 1990 levels by 2030. It follows by further mandating levels to be reduced to 85 percent below 1990 levels by 2050. To reach net-zero emissions, the law calls on such acts as planting trees to offset the remaining 15 percent.

The law, which created the council, charged it with developing a scoping plan of recommendations to meet these targets. Part of that plan includes targeting 70 percent of its electricity from renewable sources, such as wind and solar, by 2030. It's also required to maximize reductions in disadvantaged communities.

Defining those communities relies on a criterion of factors that includes public health, environmental hazards and socioeconomic factors. It's a means of climate justice as certain socioeconomic groups are perceived to have been more harmed by pollution and climate change in relation to more affluent areas.

"Along with this draft criteria for disadvantaged communities, I encourage the public to review the Climate Action Council's draft scoping plan and participate in the public hearings to shape the final product as we work to implement a bold climate agenda," said Doreen M. Harris, New York State Energy Research Development Authority President and CEO, and Climate Action Council

Co-Chair. "These efforts are clearly and mindfully incorporating climate justice at its core to deliver opportunities and improved quality of life to under-resourced areas across New York State."

The Climate Justice Working Group, a subcommittee of the council, released an interactive map that establishes what communities need targeting under state criteria. Ravena and Bethlehem are named along with parts of Albany, Schenectady, Troy, Cohoes and Rensselaer.

By default, the map distinguishes disadvantaged communities in a plum color. A click on an individual area reveals two bar graphs, the first of which lists population characteristics and vulnerability. From here, the selected community is viewed as how it compares to nearly 5,000 others on bases of race, income, housing and health. The second graph covers environmental burden and climate change risk.

A swath of purple covers a part of Bethlehem, covering Glenmont, Selkirk and Cedar Hill, from the Albany City Line to the Town of Coeymans. Other than ranking above the 75th percentile under percentage of adults 65 or older (78) and percentage with disability (87), the community of 3,088 falls under a relatively low population vulnerability (22 percent).

Those numbers increase under environmental burden where the state ranks the community higher than 99 percent than the rest of the state. Numbers are particularly high, at or above the 75th percentile, in seven subcategories; scrap metal processing (75), agricultural land use (75), inland flooding risk (79), wastewater discharge (83), driving time to urgent care (86), regulated chemical sites (96) and diesel traffic (96).

The Village of Ravena falls at 24 percent under population vulnerability and 94 percent under environmental burden; the highest of its factors include industrial manufacturing/mining (96), driving time to urgent care (97) and scrap metal processing (98).

Once identified, disadvantaged communities would receive at least 35 percent of the overall benefits of spending on clean energy and energy efficiency programs. This would include such things as preferential placement of projects, employment programs and additional investments. One such example includes installing monitoring programs that would address air quality problems as they arise.

Bethlehem Town Supervisor David VanLuven said he welcomes any resources the state can share to help his town.

"Climate change affects everyone in every community, but not everyone has access to resources to deal with new challenges or to take advantage of emerging opportunities," he said. Bethlehem Town Supervisor David VanLuven. "Our community has a wide range of incomes and many would benefit from the support. I also appreciate the state's commitment to ensuring equitable distribution of resources and opportunities in Bethlehem and our neighboring communities."

The council released its draft scoping plan on Jan. 1. It can be viewed at <https://climate.ny.gov/>. Public comments will be received through June 10. A public hearing is called for Thursday, April 14, at 4 p.m. at the Empire State Plaza.

Investment strategy earns national win for BC senior

DELMAR — Short-term losses but long-term gain.

That's the way you could sum up BC student Daniel Zhou's experience with this year's Stock Market Game and its culminating activity, the InvestWrite essay contest. While the Stock Market Game gives students the opportunity to build a virtual portfolio over a three-month period, the InvestWrite essay challenges the same students to address real-world financial issues and situations by writing about their long-term investment strategies.

And while Zhou's virtual short-term investments tanked over those three months, his essay soared.

The most recent InvestWrite competition challenged students like Zhou to describe an investment portfolio of stocks, bonds and mutual funds in sectors destined to transform the future, from technology to medicine to transportation.

By choosing space exploration as the final frontier for young investors, Zhou described his investment plan as one featuring companies and investments that in his words will "back the innovation that catalyzes and supports the efforts to carry humanity into a new era." With captivating writing and ideas, the BC senior's essay wowed a panel of experts and has been judged to be the best in the country, out of nearly 2,800 high school entries.

The InvestWrite essay contest and the Stock Market Game are financial education programs sponsored by the SIFMA Foundation. SIFMA is the leading trade association for broker-dealers, investment banks and asset managers operating in the U.S. and global capital markets. For more than a decade, the programs have been part of the BC experience for students of Jason Majewski, who teaches economics at the high school.

Zhou and Majewski were both recognized Thursday, Mar. 24 with the surprise announcement that Zhou was both the New York State winner and the national InvestWrite winner. That announcement was made by SIFMA Foundation representatives, including the foundation's president Melanie Mortimer.

"SIFMA Foundation congratulates Daniel and his teacher on this remarkable achievement," said Melanie Mortimer, President of the SIFMA Foundation, who joined the celebration via Zoom. "They are a powerful example of the impact our programs can have in classrooms nationwide. We are preparing youth to navigate the capital markets and financial decision-making, equipping them early on for lifelong success."

Zhou explained to Mortimer that his interest in space exploration came about through his role on the school's speech and debate team.

"I do public forum debate and one of the topics was about the Space Force," said Zhou, who runs a Speech and Debate summer camp. "My research into that was how I first came to understand the potential of this industry and some of the companies that were involved with space exploration as a whole."

Zhou used some of that research to identify companies and investment funds that he thinks will be at the forefront of space exploration or space-based defense systems. His essay, which can be read below, and the 2,666 other high school entries were judged by a network of 2,000 investment professionals who work at institutions such as Fidelity Investments, Deloitte, Morgan Stanley and the European Central Bank.

At the announcement on Thursday, Zhou was presented with several prizes, including two large trophies, a $750 Amex gift card, a banner and more. For his role, Mr. Majewski also received a $750 prize. An additional $100 is being made available to fund a classroom celebration.

Bethlehem Central High School has had several top InvestWrite and Stock Market Game finishers, including four other InvestWrite New York State first-place winners.

"There is quite the legacy at Bethlehem Central High School," said Liz Reidel, national director of the SIFMA Foundation, who delivered the trophies to Zhou in person. "You are at the top of the heap."

The goal of the InvestWrite competition is to ensure young people are exposed to the essentials of personal finance early in life and to encourage students to consider careers in financial services.

Zhou, who is planning to attend Dartmouth in the fall, admits he is considering a career path in business but also has aspirations that hit closer to home.

"I'm thinking I want to go into finance but ultimately I'd like to be a high school teacher," said Zhou.

Superintendent Jody Monroe, who attended the surprise celebration along with high school principal Dave Doemel, cheered Zhou's response by saying, "You're hired!"

State issues new fishing regs

Streamlined rule changes to take effect on Apr. 1

ALBANY — New York State Department of Environmental Conservation announced the adoption of new freshwater fishing regulations that will take effect on April 1.

Following a public comment period on the draft proposals earlier this year, the new regulations reflect the input received and the support of the angling community in DEC's efforts to make fishing New York's waters less complicated and easier to understand.

"The new regulations adopted today coupled with the reformatted Freshwater Fishing Regulations Guide reflect DEC's sustained commitment to ensuring the enjoyment of both novice and expert anglers in New York State by making fishing easy and accessible," Commissioner Basil Seggos said. "Amendments to freshwater fishing regulations provide greater consistency and significantly reduce special regulations while still maintaining protective measures to sustain the health of the State's fisheries."

DEC is implementing changes to reduce the number of special regulations while still providing the protections necessary to ensure sustainable fisheries, including changing some statewide regulations for certain species and eliminating special regulations that are no longer necessary. Some of the new statewide regulations were already broadly applied via special regulations. Some special regulations are still necessary, particularly for waters that require unique management strategies to achieve desired fisheries outcomes, but DEC has significantly reduced the number of special regulations. Additional changes include opening the season for all sportfish on a hard date and allowing ice fishing in waters inhabited by trout in most of the state.

DEC also adopted more conservative harvest regulations for sunfish to protect populations from overharvest and increased the minimum size limit for crappie to 10 inches to improve the stability and size structure of populations. DEC also placed experimental regulations on 11 waters to determine if larger sunfish can be produced under a 15-fish-per-day harvest limit and an eight-inch minimum size limit.

A complete compilation of changes and an assessment of public comment associated with the final rulemaking is available on the DEC website. Major regulation changes include; new

Poll: Inflation is weighing on our minds

Siena Poll says 70 percent sees inflation having 'serious impact' on personal finances

By JIM FRANCO
francoj@spotlightnews.com

LOUDONVILLE — Seventy percent of recently polled New Yorkers say inflation is having a very or somewhat serious impact on their personal finances — 26 percent of which say “very serious.”

Meanwhile, 54 percent say the war in Ukraine and the international response to it will lead to long-term economic problems resulting in personal financial difficulties all American will face for years.

“Inflation had gotten New Yorkers’ attention, but now add in war in Ukraine and consumers are very concerned, and many are planning to cut back,” according to SCRI Director, Don Levy. “While a third think the war will soon be over and that our finances will not be largely affected, over half believe the war in Ukraine will generate economic shock waves that New Yorkers will face for years to come.”

In light of current economic conditions and the war in Ukraine, 87 percent are concerned about food prices, 80 percent are concerned with the cost of gasoline, 76 percent with home utility costs, 71 percent with the worth of the American dollar and 68 percent with the value of their retirement accounts.

In response to price increases due to inflation, 69 percent say they will buy less, 67 percent will buy less expensive items and 28 percent plan to dip into savings to pay everyday expenses. More than a third, 35 percent, plan to get a second job or generate another source of income while 34 percent say they will postpone or cancel a vacation. Just 10 percent say they will continue to spend as before.

“With the pandemic’s effects lessening, New Yorkers were ready to exhale, but economic conditions and war in Eastern Europe have us holding our breath again,” Levy said. “We will have to wait and see how the economy reacts this spring and summer and what the impact of war in Ukraine will be, but for now, New Yorkers weary from two years of COVID, are expressing economic concerns that will pre-occupy their decisions and perhaps slow economic activity in New York.”

NYS added 39K private-sector jobs in February

ALBANY — According to preliminary seasonally adjusted figures released last week by the New York State Department of Labor, the number of private-sector jobs in New York State increased over the month by 39,800, or 0.5 percent, to 7,888,300 in February 2022. By comparison, the number of private-sector jobs in the U.S. increased by 0.5 percent in February 2022.

New York State's private-sector jobs (not seasonally adjusted) increased by 458,000, or 6.3 percent, over the year in February 2022. By comparison, the number of private-sector jobs in the U.S. increased by 5.4 percent over the year.

New York State's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate decreased from 5.3 percent to 4.9 percent in February 2022.

The number of private-sector jobs is based on a payroll survey of 18,000 businesses conducted by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Nonfarm and private sector jobs within New York state increased in February after a sharp decline during the 2020 pandemic. Jobs, however, are still not at the same level as they were prior to mandated COVID-19 shutdowns.

Building a sustainable future

Owens Corning releases 16th annual sustainability report

TOLEDO, Ohio — Owens Corning published its sustainability report of initiatives and results from 2021 on Thursday, March 24. The data and stories detail the company's progress toward its ambitious 2030 Sustainability Goals.

"Owens Corning continues to build a sustainable future through material innovation, with a clear view of the challenges and opportunities ahead," said Chair and Chief Executive Officer Brian Chambers. "Our 20,000 employees around the world are inspired by our shared mission, and the impact we continue to have on our customers and communities where we work and live."

The report is organized according to the 16 topics that reflect stakeholders' priorities across different aspects of sustainability, from product innovation and environmental footprint reduction to community outreach, inclusion and diversity, and wellness and safety.

Frank O'Brien-Bernini, senior vice president and chief sustainability officer, said, "The latest reports from the International Panel on Climate Change make clear the need to act decisively to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Our commitment to a decarbonized future is evident throughout the report, as we share our progress toward doubling our product handprint and cutting in half our environmental footprint."

The company's guiding sustainability aspirations are to double the positive impact of its products; halve the negative impact of its operations; eliminate injuries and improve the quality of life for its employees and their families; advance inclusion and diversity; and have a positive impact in its communities. Selected highlights include reducing greenhouse gas emissions, switching to renewable electricity, recycling materials, and building an inclusive workplace.

Owens Corning reported it has reduced absolute greenhouse gas emissions by approximately 60 percent since its peak year of 2007. The company estimates that 51 percent of its electricity across came from renewable sources, such as wind, hydro, solar, and geothermal. The company also consumed more than 1.4 billion pounds of recycled glass in 2021, which reduces energy use and lowers scope 1, 2 and 3 greenhouse gas emissions (full value chain). And, almost 51 percent of U.S. hires were from underrepresented groups in 2021, up from 40 percent in 2018 (the base year for the company's 2030 sustainability goals).

Detailed information about the company's progress against all 2030 goals is available in the report online at www.owenscorning.com/sustainability.

Owens Corning is a global building and construction materials leader committed to building a sustainable future through material innovation. The company's three integrated businesses — Composites, Insulation, and Roofing — provide durable, sustainable, energy-efficient solutions that leverage the company's unique material science, manufacturing, and market knowledge to help our customers win and grow. The company is global in scope, human in scale with approximately 20,000 employees in 33 countries dedicated to generating value for its customers and shareholders and making a difference in the communities where they work and live. Founded in 1938 and based in Toledo, Ohio, USA, Owens Corning posted 2021 sales of $8.5 billion.

statewide regulation for rainbow, brown trout, and splake in lakes and ponds. The season will now be open year-round, with a five-fish daily limit, any size, with a "no more than two longer than 12 inches" harvest rule.

Changes also include statewide Atlantic salmon regulations will now allow for a year-round open season and ice fishing is permitted on all waters in New York unless specifically prohibited.

New state also declares specific dates rather than floating dates for statewide season openers.

May 1 - Walleye, Northern Pike, Pickerel and Tiger Muskellunge;

June 1 - Muskellunge. Note that in 2022, DEC will allow for the fishing of muskellunge beginning the last Saturday in May to accommodate previously planned fishing trips; and June 15 - Largemouth and Smallmouth Bass.

A five-fish daily walleye limit in Oneida Lake;

A new regulation to limit the growth of the walleye population in Skaneateles Lake. No daily possession limit; 12-inch minimum size limit, open year-round;

The statewide sunfish daily harvest limit has been reduced from 50 to 25 fish; and

The statewide minimum size limit for crappie has been increased from nine inches to 10 inches.

New 2022 Freshwater Fishing Regulations Guide In 2021, DEC removed advertisements and articles from the annual fishing regulations guide to make it easier to use.

This approach and larger print size continues this year, along with more improvements to facilitate finding regulations.

Measuring 5 ½ x 8 ½ inches, the new guide allows anglers to keep a copy in their glovebox or tacklebox.

The new guide will be posted to the DEC website to download or print at home later this month. Hard copies of the guide are currently being produced and guides are anticipated to be available at License Issuing Agents by the second week of April. Hard copies can also be requested by emailing FWFish@dec.ny.gov.

G'land mourns death of student

A message from Dr. Wiles:

Dear GCSD Families,

It is with tremendous sadness and heartache that I must inform you of a loss to the Guilderland High School community. Today, Sunday, March 27, Megi Hamza, an 18-year old senior, passed away as a result of injuries sustained in a car accident that occurred on the Northway.

Megi will be remembered as warm and friendly, with a sweet disposition. Always positive and smiling, she lit up any room she was in. Many students were fortunate to call Megi their friend. She touched many lives at GHS and will truly be missed.

It is extremely difficult to face the death of a young person. Tomorrow, GCSD school psychologists, counselors and social workers will be available in the Large Group Instruction (LGI) room at GHS to provide counseling and support to students and staff members. Students who would like to speak to someone in a more private setting should contact their school counselor or ask any staff member for help.

I encourage families to talk with their children as they may have questions and worries about this loss. Discussing thoughts and feelings is important in helping your child work through grief. We have included some resources [on the district website] that may be helpful as you discuss Megi's death. Please feel free to contact Guilderland High School Principal Michael Piscitelli at 518-861-8591 if you need additional assistance.

We extend our deepest sympathy and condolences to Megi's family and friends.

Sincerely,
Marie Wiles, Ph.D.
Guilderland Superintendent

Reader gives thanks for return of lost cat

Dear Editor:

A couple of days ago my little chihuahua went out of the house without me knowing. I was desperate for 2 1/2 days putting signs out and calling everywhere. I walked many streets yelling "Dobby."

I would like to say thank you to all for the assistance, caring, concern and love shown to me, my family and my little animal. There are a lot of incredibly compassionate and good animal loving people in Delmar. I would like to thank the Bethlehem Police and Animal Control Folks and all the neighbors. We found Dobby hit by a car on Cherry Avenue. I am so sad for my loss but enheartened by the really good people that helped.

Thank you all for your compassion. Please slow down and keep watch for all children and animals on our roads. Their lives depend on you doing that.

Thank you,
Mary Bayham

Did you know?

Hunger is a global issue, but certain parts of the world are significantly more vulnerable than others. According to the global humanitarian organization World Vision, an estimated 22 percent of the population of sub-Saharan Africa is facing undernourishment due to lack of food. By contrast, less than 3 percent of the population of North America and Europe are malnourished. Action Against Hunger notes that the threshold for food deprivation is fewer than 1,800 calories per day, which underscores how preventable global hunger and undernourishment is. In fact, Action Against Hunger indicates that more than enough food is produced to feed the global population. Despite that, the number of undernourished people increased by an estimated 161 million individuals between 2019 and 2020. Various factors, including conflict and COVID-19, contributed to that increase, which marked a heartbreaking turn of events after significant progress in the fight against world hunger had been made between 2004 and 2019. Getting back on that pre-pandemic track is not impossible, and individuals interested in learning more about combatting world hunger can visit Actionagainsthunger.org.

■ BUSINESS SHORTS

CSX Corp asks shareholders: reject 'mini-tender'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — CSX Corp recommended to its shareholders to net tender their shares to an unsolicited "mini-tender" offer made by TRC Capital Investment Corp in a statement released Wednesday, March 23.

CSX Corp. announced it received notice of an unsolicited "mini-tender" offer by TRC Capital Investment Corporation to purchase up to four million shares of CSX common stock at a price of $34.75 per share in cash.

The offer price is 4.43 percent below the $36.34 closing price of CSX common stock on March 18, the last trading day before the mini-tender commenced.

CSX is not affiliated with TRC and does not endorse TRC's unsolicited offer.

"CSX recommends that CSX shareholders do not tender their shares in response to the offer because the offer is at a price below the current market price for CSX shares," the company shared in its statement. "The offer is also subject to a number of conditions, including TRC's ability to secure sufficient financing to consummate the offer."

The railroad company also urged its shareholders to obtain current market quotes for their shares, to review the conditions to TRC's mini-tender offer, to consult with their brokers or financial advisors and to exercise caution with respect to TRC's mini-tender offer.

Mini-tender offers seek to acquire less than five percent of a company's outstanding shares. Consequently, these mini-tender offers can avoid disclosure and procedural requirements of U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, rules that apply to offers for more than five percent of a company's outstanding shares. As a result, mini-tender offers do not provide investors with the same level of protections as provided by larger tender offers under U.S. securities laws.

The SEC has cautioned investors about mini-tender offers noting that "some bidders make mini-tender offers at below-market prices, hoping that they will catch investors off guard if the investors do not compare the offer price to the current market price." The SEC also published investor tips regarding these offers on its website at <http://www.sec.gov/investor/pubs/minitend.htm>.

GE to speed up software certification for military systems

NISKAYUNA — GE Research, the central technology development arm for the General Electric Company, is leading a $10.5 million project through the Defense Advanced Research Agency's Automated Rapid Certification of Software program, to revolutionize the process of certifying software for critical military and industrial systems.

DARPA's ARCOS program is focused on accelerating new developments that reduce the time and cost of certifying new software or software updates to the Department of Defense's large military platforms. Today, this process is largely manual and highly dependent on a variety of human subject matter experts that must evaluate millions of lines of code and other verification data when reviewing the certification of software for a typical system. The ARCOS program is aiming to achieve a more principled and automated certification process.

Kit Siu, a Principal Engineer on GE Research's Controls and Optimization team, and Dr. Abha Moitra, a Principal Scientist in the Artificial Intelligence Group, are leading GE's ARCOS project. Siu and Moitra are creating an automated assurance model that can quickly gather and curate the right data and evidence to analyze for certification. This is wholly different from a typical App update we might experience as consumers with our mobile devices or PCs. As part of GE's project, Siu and Moitra will be developing and demonstrating an assurance model for a complex aerospace system, which involves a much bigger, more complex and safety critical application.

"A typical aerospace platform contains tens of millions of lines of software code," Siu said. "If you want to make any software changes or updates to that system, you must build what is known as an assurance case where you gather and curate the right data and evidence much like a lawyer would do to prepare for a big court case."

Moitra adds, "You must build a solid case that proves the changes being made will not compromise the system. To make this process faster, we will be using AI, semantic technology, natural language processing, automation and data analytics to gather and curate the right evidence to build a thorough assurance case in an expedited manner."

GE Research is collaborating with GE Aviation Systems, a leading manufacturer of avionic systems; Galois, a leading developer of software to assess the trustworthiness of critical systems; and Guardtime Federal, which has developed a unique implementation of blockchain technology to secure the integrity of data used to manage critical systems.

Leading the team at Galois is Dr. David Archer, an expert in data-intensive systems and particularly in curating data and its provenance — the story of its origins, evolution, and resulting confidence in the data. "Unlike computer programs, which you can evaluate by formal methods or testing, data can't speak about its trustworthiness. A key piece of our work in ARCOS will be to give users of assurance evidence data a quantifiable confidence based on where the data originated, who touched it, and when it was modified."

NIPPERTOWN MARCH 'MUSIC' MADNESS

Down to the final two

BY JIM GILBERT
nippertown.com

ALBANY — March 'Music' Madness is now down to only two bands — Pony in the Pancake and Side-B.

This week's virtual one-on-one features two popular acts from the local scene.

Pony in the Pancake

Cousins Robert Flynn and Dan Prockup have been on a quest. They put Pony in the Pancake (PIP) together two decades ago to explore the earth and the sun. They secluded themselves in the darkest basements of Upstate New York where they went to work channeling joy, sadness, and death on a four-track recorder. They write all of their songs in the moment of inspiration. Their recipe has proven successful, as over the years they have amassed a faithful following around the Northeast.

The duo has gone through many lineup changes throughout the years. They slowly evolved into a psychedelic juggernaut. "Anyone who's had the pleasure of witnessing their live show has felt the sweet spot where the propulsion of the Velvet Underground, the wide-eyed romanticism and surf twang of the Beach Boys, and the elliptical grooves of Krautrock intersect." (Jeremy Schwartz, Chronogram Magazine)

PIP is Robert Flynn — (Lead Guitar and Vocals), Daniel Prockup — (Guitar, Synths, Vocals), Andrea Kosek — (Synths, Vocals), Pat Thorpe — (Bass), and Doruk Ozturk — (Drums).

Side-B

Albany's Side-B is a band steeped in various sounds — and never seeming to pigeonhole themselves — some of the better tones can be picked out came from genres such as indie-rock, funk, and alternative-folk-based music.

The four-piece alternative rock band formed in their early teenage years and began performing at local music venues across the Capital Region.

They bonded over a shared love for classic rock acts like Led Zeppelin and The Police along with modern alternative bands like Weezer and Vampire Weekend.

Between working on their first full-length record, planning live performances, and never seeming to be off their social media game, they certainly have a lot going on.

Side-B consists of Dylan Travison — (Drums), Eric Mitchell — (Bass), AJ Horton — (Guitar), and Ian Justino — (Vocals).

Final Four voting started at 10 a.m. (today) Wednesday, March 30 and polls close at midnight on Saturday, April 2nd. Bands who advance to the finals will be announced next Wednesday in The Spot 518 newspaper, as well as on Nippertown.com. The Crew on Nippertown will also discuss results live on their program that airs every Wednesday night at 7 pm on their Facebook, YouTube, Twitter, and Twitch channels.

Erin Harkes to return to Proctors stage as emcee

SCHENECTADY — The musical line-up for the 4th annual Capital Region Thomas Edison Music Awards has been announced.

Erin Harkes, Buggy Jive, Nite Train w/ Thomasina Winslow, Hot Club of Saratoga, Rich Ortiz and Super 400 will perform during the 6 p.m. Sunday, April 24 Eddies Music Awards on the MainStage at Proctors.

Also announced: Erin Harkes is returning as emcee. Harkes, a musician and comedian, hosted the first Eddies Music Awards in 2019 and was a musical performer at the 2020 Eddies Music Hall of Fame induction ceremony.

This year's ceremony marks the first return of the Eddies to Proctors since its debut in 2019. The pandemic necessitated that the 2020 event be broadcast from a closed set and in 2021, the Eddies was held in front of a limited audience at Universal Preservation Hall.

"This year's ceremony represents a little bit of the old and new," Eddies producer/founder Jim Murphy said. "While four performers are new to the Eddies stage, we brought back Rich Ortiz and Erin Harkes to recapture some of the magic of our pre-pandemic, high-spirited inaugural ceremony in 2019."

Buggy Jive is a soul rock singer-songwriter who describes himself as "equal parts (Led) Zeppelin and D'Angelo and Prince and Joni (Mitchell)." He has been nominated each year of the Eddies Music Awards including a record five nominations this year, and was a winner of Video of the Year in 2021 for "Ain't Going Anywhere."

Nite Train w/ Thomasina Winslow is a seven-piece blues outfit that has been active in the Capital Region for 19 years; singer-guitarist Winslow joined the band in 2019, the year that the band was an Eddies Music Award nominee for Best Blues Act. The band released the album "Cat on A Mission" in late 2020.

Hot Club of Saratoga is a gypsy swing collective that plays a repertoire that reflects the spirit and style originated by Django Reinhardt and Stéphane Grappelli in The Quintet of the Hot Club of France that was prominent in the 1930s. The act is a 2022 Eddies nominee for Best Jazz Artist.

Rich Ortiz is a singer-songwriter who has opened for Chicago, REO Speedwagon, Styx and many other touring artists. He is a three-time Eddies nominee for Solo or Duo Performer of the Year (covers category), having won in 2019.

Rock trio Super 400 has released one live and four studio albums in their 26 years. All proceeds from their sold-out Troy Music Hall benefit concert on March 23 will be donated to Ukraine humanitarian relief.

Eddies Music Awards tickets are available at proctors.org.

How to overcome mental fatigue

Fatigue and exhaustion are often discussed in terms that characterize the physical effects that they have on the body. However, mental fatigue can be just as draining as physical exhaustion, even if its symptoms are not as evident as achy muscles or tired feet.

The online medical resource WebMD notes that mental fatigue typically arises when individuals focus on mentally challenging tasks for extended periods of time. Many individuals also experienced mental fatigue during the pandemic. Pandemic-related restrictions forced individuals across the globe to confront a number of unforeseen, unexpected challenges, including a sudden shift to remote work and school closures that forced working parents to juggle the rigors of their careers with the difficulties of remote learning. That upheaval contributed to prolonged mental fatigue for many individuals.

Much like athletes need routine breaks from exercise to let their muscles recover, individuals need to look for ways to give their overworked minds a chance to recuperate from fatigue. Each person is different, but these strategies can help people overcome mental fatigue.

- Take breaks from the news. Overconsumption of news is one potential contributor to mental fatigue. That's especially so in the digital age, when the latest headlines are never further than a smartphone away. The Johns Hopkins Women's Mood Disorders Center notes that limiting news consumption during stressful times can be an effective way to reduce symptoms of stress, including mental fatigue.

- Schedule time to relax. The pressure to feel as if you should always be doing something, whether it's working, taking care of your family or tackling a to-do list around the house, can contribute to mental fatigue. Schedule time to relax and make a concerted effort to keep that time open. Avoid using scheduled relaxation time to work on household chores or check work emails. Instead, use this time to do something you find genuinely relaxing, even if that activity feels like you're doing "nothing."

- Spot the signs of mental fatigue. Another way to overcome mental fatigue is to learn to recognize its symptoms. Recognition of these symptoms allows individuals to use them as alarm bells that alert them when it's time to take a step back and unwind. WebMD notes that mental fatigue symptoms include mood-related issues like increased irritability or anger; difficulty concentrating that makes it hard to finish tasks; zoning out; difficulty sleeping; and engaging in unhealthy behaviors, including overconsumption of alcohol.

The signs of mental fatigue may not be as instantly recognizable as the symptoms of physical exhaustion. But mental fatigue can be just as dangerous as physical tiredness if left unchecked.

Did you know?

A comprehensive review of research published between 1990 and 2020 studying the link between physical activity and mental health outcomes determined that nearly 90 percent of all peer-reviewed, published research reported a positive, statistically significant relationship between exercise/physical activity and mental health. Conducted by the John W. Brick Mental Health Foundation, the review found that 1,029 of the 1,158 experimental studies examined reported significant positive relationships between physical activity and mental health outcomes. General physical activity, a broad descriptor referring to the amount of daily or weekly physical activity people engage in irrespective of type, had the greatest number of positive studies of any type of physical activity, followed by cardiovascular and aerobic activity and yoga. Authors of the review concluded that their findings illustrate that exercise and movement can now be considered mainstream elements of mental health care.

Park and hike

The AMR is a privately owned 7,000-acre swath of land that begins at the Ausable Club off Route 73 in the Town of Keene. It runs along Lake Road and features a number of trail heads that lead to popular High Peaks like the Great Range, Dial, Nipple Top, Calvin and Blake mountains and smaller mountains like Noonmark. It also leads to destinations like Indian Head and Fish Hook Cliffs that overlook Lower Ausable Lake, as well as a number of streams and waterfalls.

Parking at a lot located about a quarter mile from AMR's iconic wooden gate was a first come first serve basis until the DEC and the AMR initiated the parking permit system. The AMR has a long standing conservation easement with the DEC that allows the public to use the private land for hiking.

Years ago, there was a bus that took public hikers up and down Lake Road, dropping or picking them up from various trailheads, but today the bus is reserved for just Ausable Club members and the public must walk up the road that terminates some three miles from the parking lot at Lower Ausable Lake.

"DEC and the Adirondack Mountain Reserve are gearing up to launch the second year of our parking reservation partnership using the valuable input shared by hikers, local leaders, and other stakeholders committed to making the Adirondacks safer and more accessible," DEC Commissioner Basil Seggos said. "Tens of thousands of hikers and visitors successfully used the system last year and we will continue to work with AMR and others to build upon the progress we've made to encourage the safe, sustainable use of our trails to benefit both the recreating public and our natural resources."

The permit system was met with mixed reactions from the hiking community with some saying the DEC should follow the national park system and parks in other states that require permits and/or fees for some activities in order to cut down on use and help preserve the land and others saying it should remain as is, forever wild and on a first come first basis. Parking, though, at the popular St. Huberts lot on the AMR was often unruly and overrun with hikers using "unofficial" spots on AMR land and along Route 73.

Last year, the pilot parking reservation system accepted registrations from 14,200 New Yorkers, 6,600 registrations from people residing out of state, and 138 people from other countries. While the Adirondacks are a popular spot for Canadian hikers, just 113 from north of the border registered last year, a reflection of travel restrictions implemented because of the COVID-19 pandemic. That number is expected to increase this year.

Parking reservations at AMR are available at no-cost, and must be obtained for single-day or overnight use, getting dropped off or picked up in the AMR lot by a vehicle, or arriving by bicycle. Seventy reservations, including overnight reservations, are available per day. Walk-in users without a reservation are not permitted unless these users can provide a Greyhound or Trailways bus ticket from within the past 24 hours. Up to eight people can be included under one reservation.

Reservations can be made as far as two weeks in advance. New bookings for 2022 will open on April 17, and users will be able to make reservations 14 days out on a 24-hour rolling basis.

The system was put in place as interest in outdoor recreation activities, including hiking, ballooned in the past decade and illegal parking along Route 73, one of the most picturesque roads in the country that stretches from the Northway past Lake Placid, became a safety issue. Also, the more popular trails in the Adirondacks are heavily used, particularly on weekends and holidays, leading to concerns about preserving certain areas of the 2.6 million park and having too many people on the trails also diminishes the outdoor experience.

"We are very pleased with the results of the first year of the reservation system which was able to meet and exceed the three primary goals of the pilot: (1) to improve the safety for all those who travel the Route 73 corridor, (2) to provide fair and equitable access to parking for all levels of the hiking community and (3) to preserve and protect both public and private lands for future generations," said John Schuler, general manager of the AMR. "The mission of the Adirondack Mountain Reserve, as stated in our conservation easement, is to preserve and protect the forests, lakes, mountain streams, and wildlife on our lands, and we believe that our partnership with the DEC on the pilot parking reservation system is supporting our efforts to continue to carry out our mission. We are confident the second year will be even more successful."

When compared to previous years, 2021's reservation system resulted in visitor use at AMR more equally distributed throughout the week. This information is valuable in helping DEC and AMR determine if the pilot system is reducing the heavy use typically experienced on weekends or holidays, and if dispersing visitors will help both minimize natural resource impacts from crowded trails and provide visitors with a more natural experience.

Parking at other trailheads, like the Garden, the Adirondack Loj and Upper Works remain on a first come first serve basis. Those owned by the Adirondack Mountain Club require a fee.

For a list of frequently asked questions and to register at the AMR lot, visit AMR's website at <https://www.hikeamr.org/>. Reservations will open on Sunday, April 17.

Hue & Cry: French Printmaking and the Debate Over Colors - Brightly colored prints and posters are synonymous with Paris in the 1890s—a period known as the Belle Époque (beautiful age). Yet their extraordinary popular appeal both then and now masks the fact that, for a very long time, color in print was an outlier phenomenon. Not only was printed color difficult and expensive to achieve, it was also frowned upon as a matter of taste. Critics at the time scorned color printmaking, calling it gaudy, garish, vulgar, cheap, showy, and commercial. These negative associations discouraged the practice even after technical advances had made it more feasible and affordable. By the terms of the period, prints were understood as an art of black and white; if a print had color, it failed to qualify as fine art and had to be considered within some other classification, like illustration or advertising. Exhibit goes from December 11th 2021 to March 6th, 2022. Museum hours: Daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. Admission: Adults, $20; children 18 and younger, free. 225 South St., Williamstown, Mass. 413-458-2303 or www.clarkart.edu

Thomas Hart Benton

In 1956 Thomas Hart Benton was commissioned by Robert Moses, chairman of the New York Power Authority, to create two murals for the powerhouse building of the state's first hydropower facility in Massena.

They feature Jacques Cartier's explorations of the St. Lawrence River and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Alternately titled The Seneca Discover the French and Jacques Cartier Discovers the Indians, the murals depict the 16th-century encounters from two points of view. These life groups were on view at the Museum when it was at the State Education Building.

The original building in Massena where these murals were displayed is now closed to the public. They were removed and conserved beginning in 2018 and are on loan to the New York State Museum until Dec 31. Also, "a small fort, which our people call Fort Orange." ### Tang Teaching Museum

On Their Own Terms- On Their Own Terms is an exhibition curated by students in the Scribner Seminar "Outsiders? Folk and Self-Taught Artists in the United States" which presents works by a selection of nineteenth- and twentieth-century artists from the United States who have been variously categorized as "self-taught," "outsider," "folk," or "visionary," among other labels. Objects range in form and medium and include textiles, sculptures, relief carvings, paintings, and drawings. The exhibition aims to present the visual art and lives of these artists while also interrogating the ways that curators, dealers, and scholars have exhibited, acquired, and sometimes overlooked this important work. Although a diverse group of artists, most of them began to create work late in life, received no formal training, and share a decisive commitment to what and why they wanted to create. Exhibit starts December 4th, 2021 - April 10th, 2022.

Lauren Kelley Location Scouting- Conceived and designed for conversation, dialogue, study, and contemplation, Location Scouting is the fourth exhibition in a series that invites an artist to re-imagine what a community space in the museum can be. Artist and curator Lauren Kelley reshapes the Tang Teaching Museum's mezzanine by combining meditations on travel with snapshots of everyday life in her drawings, sculpture, and stop-motion animation videos. Using plasticine, toys, and souvenirs, Kelley's videos conjure worlds that are malleable and unfixed, inhabited by robust protagonists whose quirks stem from efforts to correct the asymmetrical relationships they encounter. Accentuating the off-kilter, Location Scouting speaks to the shifts and rifts inherent in navigating today's post-pandemic landscape. Skidmore College, 815 North Broadway, Saratoga Springs. Museum hours: Tuesday - Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.; Thursday until 9 p.m. Free admission; suggested donations of $5/adult; $3/child 13+; seniors, $2. 518-580-8080 or tang.skidmore.edu

Throughout this exhibition, which will include artwork from 2012 to the present, Quevedo's own family's emigration from Ecuador to New York serves as a catalyst for work reflecting on socio-political issues of migration, Indigenous experiences, and sacred spaces. On stage, the group's enthralling performances give audiences a sense of how much they love what they do. On record – including their 2021 release and ninth full length album, The Departure – the band explores their collective life experiences through songwriting and intricate instrumentation. Working with the U.S. State Department and under their own non-profit, Bluegrass Ambassadors, the Prowlers have toured over 25 countries across the globe. The group's experiences with people and musicians across Africa, Asia, Europe, and The Middle East have shaped the band's world view and broadened the group's direction towards bridging cultural gaps with music, educational programs and workshops. Using traditional American music as a foundation, connecting folk music and cultures the world over, the Prowlers incorporate international elements into their already robust repertoire of unique traditional American music. Catch the show March 31st at 6 p.m. only at Carson's Woodside Tavern 57 Route 9P, Malta.

Dave Porter

At the age of twelve, Dave could be found on the floor of his bedroom, learning to play guitar to his brothers' hand-me-down Beatles albums. He drummed in the school band, and by high school, he'd discovered jazz and fallen in love with the electric and upright bass guitar. Fusion and progressive rock reigned supreme in his album collection as his formative influences included Geddy Lee of Rush, Chris Squire of Yes, and innovative jazz bass superstar, Stanley Clarke. After years on the road, Dave returned to his hometown, sharing his talents in regional rock acts, as well as local recording studios as a first-call musician, recording on dozens of albums with longtime rhythm section partner, the late Todd Cooper. Catch the show April 1st at 6 p.m. only at Carson's Woodside Tavern 57 Route 9P, Malta.

The Ill Funk Ensemble

Described as "soul for the masses" (Technorati.com), "airtight on all levels"

(JamSphere Magazine), "brilliant" (The Signal Magazine) and "about to change the face of hip-hop music" (Indie Band Guru), Ill Funk has shared the stage with Grammy-winner Mr. Cheeks of the Lost Boyz and hip-hop legends Naughty by Nature. Perhaps their proudest moment was being given the green light by Quincy Jones himself to use a sample of song, The Streetbeater (the theme from Sanford and Son) on their own track, Bringin' the Heat. The band has also been featured on dozens of music and entertainment publications, including Okayplayer and Officially the Hottest, appeared on the Under the Radar digital sampler, the Launch Music Festival and Conference sampler 2013, the MTV show, "Road Trip Nation", along with airplay on radio stations across the country and the world. The Ill Funk Ensemble independently books and performs at more than 100 shows per year at venues all over the Northeast and has created a fan base of loyal followers; no purchased Facebook 'likes', fake Twitter followers or bought YouTube views here. There's a reason for this: not only do they make great records, they absolutely throw down live on stage. You can catch this show April 1st at 4 p.m. Only at Centre Street Pub 308 Union Street, Schenectady.

Misty Blues

International Blues Challenge finalist, Misty Blues, is led by lead singer/band founder Gina Coleman. The band is based out of Berkshire County, Massachusetts playing original and traditional blues with hints of jazz, soul, funk and tent revival gospel since 1999. The band has recorded with Charles Neville and Joe Louis Walker, and opened for contemporary blues artists like Tab Benoit, Room Full Of Blues, John Primer, Albert Cummings and Michael Powers. Misty Blues performs extensively throughout New England and has toured New York City, Harrisburg, Mishawaka, Knoxville, Birmingham, Montgomery, Muscle Shoals, Clarksdale, Memphis, New Orleans and Ontario Canada. The band recently earned an Independent Blues Music Award nomination for the best contemporary blues song. The band's original recordings have wide radio airplay in the U.S. and UK. In the summer of 1999 Gina Coleman was performing in the Williamstown Theatre Festival production of A Raisin In The Sun. That production featured the acting of Ruben Santiago Hudson, Viola Davis, Kimberly Elise and Gloria Foster. Coleman was casted as a gospel singer. Nearing the end of the show's run, Ruben Santiago Hudson gave Coleman a cd collection entitled Men Are Like Streetcars. He told her that her voice was well suited for the blues and urged her to take that next musical direction. Coleman heeded his advance, and after 20 years, Misty Blues has stood the test of time. The show will be April 1st at 8 p.m. only at Cohoes Music Hall 58 Remsen Street, Cohoes.

The Joni Project

From the deep folk roots of her musical beginnings, Joni's music has evolved over the years to include elements of funk, rock and the full palette of harmonic colors embodied by modern jazz. Her innovative guitar tunings and brilliantly original chord progressions were paired with beautifully crafted melodies adorned by lyrics of unmatched poetic profundity to create some of the most powerfully enduring and well-loved songs of all time. The Joni Project is fronted by the remarkable multiple-instrumentalist and songwriter Katie Pearlman on guitar & vocals, and also includes jazz and jam band mainstays Dave Berg on guitar, Dan Ehrlich on bass, Alan Lerner on drums, Mark Mancini on keyboards, Steve Finklestein on percussion, Premik Russell Tubbs on saxophone and flute, and Victoria Faiella on background vocals. The show will be April 2nd at 8 p.m. only at Cohoes Music Hall 58 Remsen Street, Cohoes.

Mephiskapheles

Leading the charge of the New York City ska revival scene, Mephiskapheles was formed in the East Village in 1990 by lead vocalist the Grand Invidious, guitarist Brendog and keyboardist Brian Martin. Within the course of the following months, the group's classic lineup -- also consisting of bassist Michael Bitz, trumpeter Osho Endo, alto saxophonist Alexander McCabe, and trombonist Greg Robinson -- was firmly in place, and over the next few years Mephiskapheles toured relentlessly up and down the East Coast, building a tremendous cult following. In 1994 they joined with producer Bill Laswell to record their debut LP God Bless Satan, originally issued on their own Pass the Virgin label. By 1996, with new drummer Wayne Dunton on board, Mephiskapheles toured the U.S. opening for the Buzzcocks; their second album, Maximum Perversion, was released a year later, followed in 1999 by Might-Ay White-Ay. Show will be April 1st at 8 p.m. only at Empire Underground 93 North Pearl St, Albany.

bred staple THE SOUL REBELS expand musical boundaries with an unwavering commitment to originality and innovation through genre bending songs and collaborations. Brass sensation The Soul Rebels are riding high in 2021 after receiving national attention following the release of their new album, Poetry In Motion. The eight member collective appeared on Def Jam artist Dave East and Nas' "Godfather 4" single, Big Freedia and Iona Pop's "Pipe That", and reached fans with original singles "Greatness" featured as ESPN's official College Hoops theme anthem, and "Good Time" featured on Netflix's #BlackAF and Dad Stop Embarrassing Me! The Soul Rebels have impressed viewers with two recent appearances on The Late Show with Stephen Colbert, featured on NPR's Tiny Desk series with Wu Tang Clan front man GZA, headlined the global TED Conference, and appeared on the official soundtrack for Universal Pictures' hit comedy Girls Trip. On the heels of their new supergroup with The Wu Tang Clan, The Soul Rebels continue to expand their international reach touring four continents including Europe, Australia, China, South Korea and Japan. Their explosive stage presence has led to live collaborations with the likes of Katy Perry, Nas, G Eazy, DMX, Robin Thicke, Macy Gray, Portugal. The Man, Robert Glasper, Big Freedia, Macklemore & Ryan Lewis and Matisyahu. The Soul Rebels started with an idea to expand upon the pop music they loved on the radio and the New Orleans brass tradition they grew up on. They took that tradition and blended funk and soul with elements of hip hop, jazz and rock all within a brass band context. The band has built a career around an eclectic live show that harnesses the power of horns and drums in a deep pocket funk partylike atmosphere. The Soul Rebels continue to chart new territory as they feature in major films, tour globally, and combine topnotch musicianship with songs that celebrate dancing, life, funk and soul. The show will be March 30th at 8 p.m. only at Lark Hall 351 Hudson Avenue Albany.

A healthy twist to classic Sloppy Joes

Sweet yet savory ground meat served on a bun is a comfort food classic that has been a staple for restaurants and home cooks for decades.

Sloppy Joes are beloved sandwiches that feature meat paired with a lip-smacking, tomato-based sauce. Some attribute the original Sloppy Joe to a café in Sioux City, Iowa, where in 1930 a cook named Joe added tomato sauce to his “loose meat” sandwich. Others say the sandwich evolved from sandwiches that were introduced by Floyd Angell, the founder of the Maid Right Restaurants, in 1926. Others attribute the recipe to a bar and café in Havana, Cuba, called “Sloppy Joe’s.”

Though the origin story is debatable, most people agree that the sandwiches are delectable. Sloppy Joes are called by many different names in various parts of the country, including yum yums, steamers and slushburgers. While it’s traditional to make them with ground beef, any other meat can be substituted, including ground turkey for a leaner take. Try this recipe for “Turkey Sloppy Joes for a Crowd” from “Taste of Home Healthy Cooking Cookbook” (RDA Enthusiast Brands, LLC) by the Taste of Home Kitchen.

Turkey Sloppy Joes for a Crowd

INGREDIENTS: Serves 16

- 3 pounds lean ground turkey
- 3 medium green peppers, chopped
- 3 medium onions, finely chopped
- 2 1/4 cups ketchup
- 3/4 cup water
- 3 tablespoons white vinegar
- 3 tablespoons spicy brown mustard
- 1 jalapeño pepper, seeded and chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 16 whole wheat hamburger buns, split

INSTRUCTIONS

In a Dutch oven coated with cooking spray, cook the turkey, green peppers and onions over medium heat until the meat is no longer pink and the vegetables are tender; drain.

Stir in the ketchup, water, vinegar, mustard, jalapeño, and pepper. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 20-30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve on buns.

Upgrade the safety features in your bathroom

Bathrooms can benefit from updates that improve their form and function. While styles and color patterns may inspire bathroom renovations, improvements to safety also should be considered.

Bathrooms can be one of the most dangerous rooms in a house. Bath and shower areas account for about two-thirds of accidental injuries in these spaces. Many other injuries involve the toilet. In 2008, a thorough investigation of bathroom dangers conducted by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found that mishaps near the bathtub, shower, toilet, and sink caused an estimated 234,094 nonfatal injuries in the United States among people aged 15 years and older.

Seniors are particularly vulnerable in the bathroom due to reduced mobility and flexibility, visual impairment and other factors. However, some key modifications can make bathrooms much safer for aging populations.

• Raised toilet seat: Install an ADA-compliant raised toilet seat. Standard toilet seats are roughly 15 inches high, but elevated seats can raise the bowl an additional two to four inches. Another option is to invest in risers that can be attached to an existing toilet.

• Grab bars: Seniors may use towel holders as grab bars, which don't have stability and can dislodge from the wall. Install secured side grip bars by the toilet and inside the shower to make maneuvering easier.

• Water temperature: Seniors may be vulnerable to hot water temperatures. Lower the water temperature setting on the hot water heater. StaySafe.org recommends 120 F.

• Faucets: Change faucet handles to paddle-style handles rather than knobs. Knobs can be challenging to grip for those with arthritis in their hands. Also, handles that are easier for seniors to use can reduce the risk of the elderly losing their balance as they attempt to gain leverage to turn the water on and off.

• Nonslip mats: Nonslip mats or tape strips can be used in showers and tub bottoms, as well as outside of the shower to reduce the risk of slips and falls. Rugs should have rubberized, slip-resistant backing.

• Rounded corners: Choose counters and fixtures with rounded corners. Should a senior fall against something, the rounded corner may prevent serious injury.

• Shower benches and transfer seats: Benches and transfer seats make it easier getting in and out of the shower. Also, sitting while showering reduces the risk of becoming light-headed or losing balance.

• Walk-in tubs/showers: Minimizing the threshold to the shower or bathtub is an important safety feature. Some manufacturers make walk-in tubs with doors that secure and make watertight seals. Showers that don't have a lip or tub to scale also are better for seniors.

• Lighting: Eyesight weakens over time, so improve lighting with combinations of overhead lighting and softer side lighting. Night lights or soft-glowing toilet lights can make it easier to get around the bathroom in the middle of the night.

These are just some improvements that can create safer bathroom environments for seniors.

Certain home improvement projects are more complex than others. Projects that involve working with gas lines are among the most complicated and risky undertakings, and even seasoned do-it-yourselfers are urged to leave such tasks to certified professionals. According to Angi, the average cost to move a gas line is between

Did you know?

$15 and $25 per linear foot, and homeowners can expect to pay an additional $1 to $10 per linear foot for pipe materials. A natural gas plumber can install, extend and repair natural gas lines and ensure that the project is completed safely, on time and within homeowners' budgets. Angi notes that the average cost to move a gas line is between $250 and $750 for the whole project. However, if a buried line must be excavated, that cost could run into the thousands of dollars.

What causes curled shingles

No homeowner wants to look at the exterior of his or her home and see roof damage. Such damage may lead homeowners to think they need a new roof, a potentially costly expense that can quickly throw household budgets into a state of disarray.

According to the HomeAdvisor, the average homeowner spends a little more than $7,600 installing a new roof. Various factors, including the size of a home and the type of roof homeowners prefer, will affect the cost of a roof replacement. In addition, homeowners who see roof damage can rest assured that not all roof problems will necessarily require a replacement roof to be installed.

Curled shingles are a problem many homeowners have encountered. This particular problem is not always indicative that a roof is on its way out. In fact, the home improvement resource

This Old House notes that, as asphalt shingles age, their corners often begin to curl downward or upward. Homeowners who notice this early enough can glue down the curled section of each shingle that's beginning to curl.

Some shingles may be curling because they're defective. Fortified Roofing, a New Jersey-based roofing company that specializes in the repairing and replacing of various roofing configurations, advises homeowners to contact a local roofing professional to diagnose the cause of the curling. Doing so quickly can prevent curled shingles from contributing to more widespread damage.

Moisture and poor ventilation may be contributing to curled shingles as well. Homeowners with attics in their home may see curled shingles on their roofs because moisture is building up in their poorly ventilated attics. In addition to causing damage such as curled shingles, a poorly ventilated attic allows moisture to build up, potentially contributing to mold growth. Mold presents a host of additional problems, including some that can adversely affect the health of a home's inhabitants.

Improper roof installation also may be the culprit behind curled shingles. When a roof is not installed correctly, shingles may not be aligned or nailed down in the right way. This might be what's causing shingles to curl on recently installed roofs.

Curled shingles are unsightly and can pose a significant threat to a home if not addressed promptly. Homeowners can protect themselves and their roofs by working with skilled roofing professionals, who can diagnose issues like curled shingles and offer the right solutions.

The art of buying art for your home

Designing a home's interior can be fun. Whether furnishing a first apartment or a newly purchased family home, many people feel that the art they put on the walls of their homes is an expression of their individuality, and that a home isn't truly a home until its interior reflects their personalities.

Furnishing a home with art can be intimidating, especially for people doing so for the first time. But a few tricks of the trade can help men and women turn the interiors of their homes into spaces that reflect who they are.

• Embrace your personal taste. Don't hesitate to decorate your walls with art you like. When buying furniture for a home, it can make sense to follow certain rules. For example, parents of young children might want to purchase dark-colored furnishings that can hide stains. But no such rules should govern your choices of artwork. Art reflects the person who made it, but it also reflects the person who buys it, so buyers should embrace their personal taste when furnishing their homes with art.

• Shop around. Thanks to the internet, billions of pieces of art, from tapestries to photographs to paintings, are at your fingertips. Comparison shopping can be fun and help novices discover their personal tastes. It also can be a great way to support artists. For example, 90 percent of all image royalties on art purchased from YourArtGallery.com goes directly to the artist, ensuring much of buyers' money is going toward supporting the people responsible for the art they plan to hang in their homes. That can give people a greater sense of pride in their home's decor.

• Seek inspiration. If you're unfamiliar with art, don't hesitate to seek inspiration. Art is everywhere, from the hotels you stay in while traveling to the billboards you pass while driving to work to the local art museum near your home. If you're uncertain of what you like, make a concerted effort to recognize the art you see but may not stop to notice each day. As you expose yourself to more and more art, you will gain a greater knowledge of what you like and dislike. Use that knowledge to inform your decisions when buying art for your home.

• Switch things up. Your entire home does not need to follow a theme. If your taste in art is eclectic, embrace that and have different rooms throughout your home reflect your different tastes. This can give each room its own unique feel and make for a colorful home.

The art people hang in their homes is a personal choice, and the process of finding that art can be fun and eye-opening. The walls of their homes is an expression of their individuality, and that a home isn't truly a home until its interior reflects their personalities.

Get Ready: Early Spring landscaping tips

During the cold months of winter, many people stare longingly out of the window dreaming of spring and time spent outdoors. For those with green thumbs, images of tending to the garden and other aspects of their landscapes no doubt dominate such daydreams.

Draw inspiration from those budding crocuses and daffodils pushing through the last remnants of snow and employ these tips to prepare for the upcoming gardening season.

- One of the first steps is to apply a preemergent weed killer to get a head start knocking out weeds that can plague the lawn during the growing season. Killing weeds at the roots early on can mean far fewer hassles in spring and summer, and may prevent new generations of weeds from cropping up each year.

- While it may be tempting to take a prematurely warm day as a sign that spring is in full force and purchase a bunch of annuals, it's better to know the last of the possible frost dates (check "The Farmer's Almanac"); otherwise, you may waste time and money planting flowers or vegetables only to have them zapped by another frosty day.

- Amend the soil so that it is the right consistency — just crumbling when lifting it. Soil that is too muddy after spring thaw can harden, making it difficult for plants to flourish later on. Speak with representatives at a local lawn and garden center about which types of amendments you can add to the soil in your particular area to enrich it.

- Lawn and garden experts at The Home Depot suggest filling in bare patches of lawn now by mixing a few shovelfuls of soil with grass seed. Then apply this patch to the bare areas, water, and continue to care for the area until the spot fills in.

- Spend a day in the garage or shed tending to the lawn mower and other gardening equipment. Clean all tools and ensure that everything works, repairing parts as needed.

- Give outdoor entertaining spaces a good scrubbing, clearing away dirt and grime that may have accumulated over the winter. Use a leaf blower to blow away any leftover leaves.

- Check if the front porch, railings or decking need painting and/or staining. Tackle these projects when the weather is cooler so everything will be ready for those peak spring days.

- Think about any annuals you might want to plant in the landscape this year that will complement any existing shrubbery or perennials. Come up with a theme so that the entire yard is cohesive.

Before homeowners know it, winter is gone and it is time to once again enjoy long days spent outdoors. Get a jump start on spring lawn prep as soon as you can.

CONCERT REVIEWS

Super 400 at Troy Music Hall

By LEIF ZURMUHLEN
nippertown.com

TROY — “This is an honor,” said Kenny Hohman, lead singer and guitarist for Super 400 before the hometown trio played its first-ever show at Troy Savings Bank Music Hall. He appeared moved by the moment of taking the stage where he said he had seen so many legendary performers play. “This is a bucket list for us.”

The Wednesday night performance was part of The Lift Concert Series, a very special, limited seating showcase which presents performances of new, independent music featuring regional performers, curated by local artists Sam Torres and Sophia Subbaya Vastek. The audience was invited to enter the Hall through Franklin Alley, take the freight elevator to the backstage area, and be seated on stage with the musicians, creating a special concert experience.

The concerts are designed to last about an hour and after the performance concert-goers are encouraged to enjoy the rest of the evening at one of Troy’s many restaurants or breweries. Vastek explained, “To me, what’s so exciting about this series is that it’s such a unique experience—both to be able to hear local and regional groups in that hall, but also in the way that the music is presented with the audience on stage. The atmosphere is intimate and informal. It’s rare and special to be able to break down barriers like that at a concert hall of this size and stature.”

The hard rock and blues band Super 400 is Kenny Hohman, guitar and vocals, Joe Daley on drums, and bassist Lori Friday. The trio brings out a hybrid of power pop and classic rock that’s inspired by Cream, Jimi Hendrix, and the Allman Brothers. This year marks their 25 anniversary as a band, and in that time they have created a great history with the Capital District and become hometown rock and roll heroes.

With Hohman on acoustic guitar, Daley using brushes on his drum, Friday’s bass stack lowered, and tasteful keyboard accompaniment from special guest Frank Moscowitz the group was able to explore a quieter setlist of their original songs that they don’t always include in their live shows. The rolling “Quiet Giant” was a stunner and the great hall was silent for just Hohman, his guitar and light keyboard swells on the haunting “Devil Song”. A spectacular showcase for excellent songwriters and performers. Freshly pressed vinyl of their classic albums “3 And The Beast” and “Blast The Message” were on sale for the first time at this show and are available now at super400.com

“How lucky are we to be here, safe in this building?”, asked bassist Lori Friday referring to the yellow and blue stage lighting in solidarity with the people of Ukraine as the band performed an achingly beautiful rendition of Traffic’s “Can’t Find My Way Home”.

Capital Region Creatives For Ukraine, in collaboration with the other members of the Capital Region Arts Restart Coalition, are raising awareness and funds for humanitarian aid in Ukraine. Super 400 is donating every dollar from this sold-out show to humanitarian aid in Ukraine. Razom for Ukraine’s Emergency Response initiative is providing critically needed medical supplies and aid to Ukrainians in need. Razom, in Ukrainian, means “together”. This organization has delivered medical supplies, helped disabled children to evacuate, and provided life-saving measures and hope to many Ukrainian people. Donate to Razom, Ukrainian Humanitarian aid here: <https://razomforukraine.org/donate/>

The next upcoming show in The Lift Series will be The Westerlies on May 25. The Westerlies explore jazz, roots and chamber music influences to create music that is both “folk-like and composerly, lovely and intellectually rigorous” (NPR Music). Equally, at home in concert halls and living rooms, The Westerlies navigate a wide array of venues and projects with the precision of a string quartet, the audacity of a rock band, and the charm of a family sing-along. ### The Psychedelic Furs, Royston Langdon at Empire Live

nippertown.com

ALBANY — Former Spacehog, former Arckid, former Leeds and ex-son-in-law of Steven Tyler, Royston Langdon took the Empire Live stage solo armed with his acoustic guitar, cowboy hat, and white sunglasses on Monday night, March 21, breaking the ice with his new song about his “Nazi Girlfriend” from his 2021 release “Chains.” He followed with the Spacehog hit “In The Meantime,” Tin Machine’s “Amazing,” and Arckid’s “Germany.” He ended the set with a cover of David Bowie’s “Ashes to Ashes,” after a tribute to the late icon — and the loss of a guitar string which failed to slow down his strong opening set.

Backlit and rocking, The Psychedelic Furs commanded the stage from the start with song after song. “The Ghost In You,” “Pretty In Pink,” “Love My Way,” “President Gas,” “Heaven,” “Heartbreak Beat” — a strong of songs reminding the John Hughes-bred crowd why these songs were in constant rotation as they struggled through art school in the ’80s.

Richard Butler’s corrosive rasp was in fine form as he raffishly draped himself over band members, raised his arms in artful poses, and easily lowered himself into deep bows belying his 65-year-old knees.

New songs “Wrong Train,” “The Boy That Invented Rock And Roll,” and “Don’t Believe” from “Made Of Rain,” the band’s first release in almost three decades fit right in stylistically with their classics. The night was drenched with synth and sax. With hardly a beat between songs and minimal banter, the Furs delivered a tight, propulsive presentation encoring with Sister Europe and India, both from their excellent 1980 eponymous debut.

Nektar at The Linda

By MARK HUDSON
nippertown.com

ALBANY — Cosmic, man. The venerable Nektar trundled into The Linda on Thursday night, March 24 to treat a small but devoted audience for a two-hour-plus set of their psychedelically tinged prog rock.

Amazingly, this is the 53rd year of the band’s existence. Even more notable is that 3 of the original 5 members are still in place; drummer/vocalist Ron Howden, bassist/vocalist Derek “Mo” Moore, and lighting technician (or as he is grandly titled “Visual Environment”) Mick Brockett, non-playing yes, but always considered an essential part of the team. Moore proudly stated of his rhythm section partner: “Ron and I have been playing together for 60 years!”

The band is rounded out by newer recruits Randy Dembo — bass/guitar/pedals, Ryche Chlanda — vocals/guitar, Kendall Scott — keys, and MaryAnn Castello — backing vocals.

Nektar was formed in 1969. Although all of them were Brits, the fact that they were originally based in Germany led to the oft-repeated misconception that they were a German band. Nektar’s music can be compared to other bands of that era, the slow stately organ drenched passages recalling pre-Dark Side Pink Floyd, the dense and murky repetitive riffing, somewhat like a more polished Hawkwind.

Nektar was formed in 1969. [Its] music can be compared to other bands of that era, the slow stately organ drenched passages recalling pre-Dark Side Pink Floyd, the dense and murky repetitive riffing, somewhat like a more polished Hawkwind. All of this was on display at The Linda, deep cuts from their extensive catalog as the name of the tour suggested, and impressively, three songs from their latest album, 2020’s “The Other Side”, proving that they are not just an exercise in nostalgia.

All of this was on display at The Linda, deep cuts from their extensive catalog as the name of the tour suggested, and impressively, three songs from their latest album, 2020’s “The Other Side”, proving that they are not just an exercise in nostalgia.

Unfortunately, Chlanda (replacing original frontman Royce Albrighton, who passed away in 2016) struggled to meet the requirements of the role. Maybe he was just having an off night, but his vocals did not seem up to the task, constantly veering off-key, out of time, and in some instances missing lines altogether. The same can be said for his guitar solos, overly relying on his wah-wah pedal and whammy bar, and often failing to mesh with the rest of the band. Castello, in darkness at the back of the stage, was under-utilized. I suggest that she could have been given more vocal responsibility to help Chlanda out. Or maybe give more passages to Howden, who handled his few vocal sections with more confidence.

Regardless, the majority of the audience (mostly bearded prog grey hairs, er, like myself) appeared to have no such misgivings and gave the band a warm and appreciative reception throughout.

And, I too, was pleased to see a veteran band, whose music I have long enjoyed, still treading the boards. Even if they didn’t play “Astral Man.”
