"Old Barn Atmosphere" at New Garden Center

TWO YOUNG MEN WITH A DREAM and the will to make it come true, have opened one of the finest Garden Centers in this area. Where larger concerns would have concentrated only on those factors which lead to pigger sales, these two men took the extra time and effort to make theirs a picturesque place first, a sales area second. The men are Michael Essex, in the picture above, who has combined his talents with those of Arthur Airey, to bring about the Glenmont Garden Center, located at the corner of Bender Lane and Route 9-W. Art has been in the landscape and gardening business in this area for the past 6 years, while Mike, a little younger, is a graduate of Long Island Agricultural and Technical Institute. They have taken a fair size barn and, while adding peg board and paint, they have retained every bit of the rustic atmosphere, so that the final affect is something to drive over and see. The Grand Opening is scheduled for Saturday of this week, April 12. Exclusive Spotlight Staff Photo.

ON DEAN'S LIST

Edward Boardman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Boardman of 29 Wood Terrace, Slingerlands, recently made the dean's list at Paul Smith's College.

Edward is a freshman in the Forestry Department. He was graduated from Bethlehem Central High School in 1957.

"AUNT BEA" NOW KNOWS THE POWER OF ADVERTISING

(Especially Spotlight Advertising)

"Aunt Bea" Alger was slightly overwhelmed one day last week. Twice her phone rang and summoned her with calls from "other lands." The first call came across the Atlantic from Spain, and the second from Canada. Both calls were registrations for Sunny Acres Day Camp, which Bea and Jim Alger operate right here in the Tri-Village area.

The ad which brought the out-of-country calls was in the March 13 issue. Area residents sent copies to relatives in Spain and Canada; the telephone calls were the direct result.

Pre-School Group Has Fine Record of Achievement

To bridge the gap between the school and the home; to prime the parents of pre-school children; to assist in sharing and finding answers to mutual problems, interests and ideas, has all been a part of the functions of the Pre-School Group of the PTA.

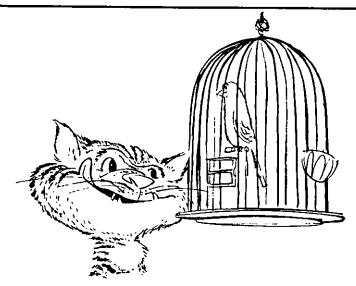

Starting in the Hamagrael School two years ago, the Pre-School Group, which is a part of the Parent Teachers Association, has branched out and now has active groups in the Slingerlands School and the Elsmere School.

Three years ago a planning committee, with members from three schools, went to work to find the where and the how of tackling this idea of a Pre-School program. After a year of discussion on the desire and needs of the future members, of conferences with the District Office, and the courses on how to attack such a program, they were ready to go. It was decided that, as more active people were from the Hamagrael area, it was best to begin there and hope to develop groups in the other schools as soon as it was feasible.

Although held in the Hamagrael School, it included everyone in the area who was interested in attending the meetings. With able assistance and cooperation of John Falvey, principal of Hamagrael, Richard Hermann principal of the Elsmere School and Anna Lee, kindergarden teacher at Hamagrael, the programs have covered many angles and points of interest to the parents of a pre-schooler.

One of the meetings this year discussed the Pros and Cons of Nursery Schools. During this program the original purposes and the history of nursery schools preceded the discussion on the

15 TIPS FOR PARENTS

This is the second installment in a series of articles designed as a guide for parents in bringing up children with justice, love and a respect for the important things in life. The material was taken from Christopher News Notes.

A SOURCE OF INSPIRATION

Cecil B. DeMille, shortly after his 75th birthday, gave an unusual answer when asked when and how he began to prepare for his great new picture, "The Ten Commandments."

The beginning of his interest went back some 70 years to his childhood, he said, when he listened to his father read selections from the Holy Bible each night in the family circle.

"The Biblical characters became as real to us as comic book figures to the children of today," Mr. DeMille commented.

Those early impressions of the heroes in the Scripture gradually developed into a lifelong ambition to share them with the world as far as he could reach.

Little did he dream that one day he would bring this great message to vast movie audiences all over the earth.

One of the most effective ways to make the modern home a powerhouse of inspiration is to look on it as a springboard to the world.

This spiritual stimulation, if fostered by such practices as reading from the Bible and Spiritual books, challenging discussions, grace before meals and night prayers, can develop a great and lasting good in each member of the family.

Parents can do their children no greater service than to 1) train them in the principles of religion, 2) give them a solid foundation, 3) attend church with them, 4) help them in the study of sound doctrine and good morals, 5) cultivate a spirit of prayer in them, and 6) provide a home environment which will both attract and inspire them.

Young people tend by their nature to be disposed towards God. If this precious trait is properly cultivated, it acts like a mainspring which gives moral strength, inspiration and meaning to their lives.

Once youth knows and loves God, they want to serve Him, especially if they can do this by blending His love and truth into vital spheres of influence.

SHOW THEM HOW

One of the founders of the Communist party in the United States started to teach his daughter, when she was only six years old, how to become a missioner of the Red cause.

He took considerable time and trouble to show this little tot how to blend Marxist ideas into the lives of her playmates, rather than to keep them to herself.

Over the years, her encouraged and coached her how to carry on her strange apostolate among youth groups. Eventually she became one of the leading women Communists in the country.

Fathers and mothers who believe in Christ can learn much from the zeal which His enemies show in training their sons and daughters to be missioners of the Communist cause.

Once the good homes of America start to arouse, nuture and direct a personal sense of missionary responsibility in their children, we will go far on the road to lasting peace in the world.

INSPIRE THEM

Young people can lead the way in restoring decency to literature and entertainment if they are well grounded in true values themselves.

No one is in a better position than a father or mother to give sons and daughters a healthy, balanced understanding of sex.

When this information comes from any other source, it is too often devoid of the true dignity and beauty that God associated with the precious privilege of reproducing life.

Far worse harm (that may last a whole lifetime) results for young people when they learn about the creative powers of man and woman from sources whose avowed objective is to cheapen and debase the dignity of sex.

In addition to preparing their own youngsters to be worthy fathers and mothers of the future, parents can deepen and preserve a sense of decency in them by stimulating each of them to

15 TIPS FOR PARENTS

A SENSE OF MISSION

Christopher Columbus was only a teenager of 14 when he set a big and bold goal for himself. He felt he had a mission in life to perform. He wanted to prove that a route to China could be found by sailing West as well as East.

As history shows, he also yearned to live up to the meaning of his name, "Christopher." He wanted to be a "Christbearer" to bring Christ to millions in the far corners of the earth.

"He's a man with a mission" is a tribute often paid to an individual who has performed an | outstanding service to God, country or the world.

The singleness of purposes, devotion and dedication displayed by such a person can usually be traced back to inspiration carly in life, and usually to his home.

PREPARE THEM

Only 3 percent of young American girls in the 11 to 18 year old bracket want to be housewives, according to a recent nationwide survey.

But this is not as bad as it sounds. 94 percent said they planned to marry_"someday." So most of them were probably thinking more about the immediate future when queried about their interest in becoming housewives.

Girls who start in their early teens to develop competence in running a home and to acquire the spiritual, mental and cultural aspects necessary for a wellbalanced household, usually find that this small but wise investment pays rich dividends during married life which may continue on for as much as a half century.

TEACH THEM

A young lady just out of college applied for a job as secretary at a New York publishing house. At the interview she she asked about salary, hours, time off, social security, surroundings and chance of advancement. But she didn't say one word about work. Her whole attitude was one-sided. only interest was to "take out" as much as possible and to "put in as little as she could.

She not only lost the job, but perhaps forfeited the one big chance of her lifetime to be in a position of far reaching influence.

Proper home training might have helped this young lady to rise above the self centered smallness which will probably plague her for the rest of her

DEVELOP THEIR FACILITY Most people with evil notions work hard to spread them far and wide. Though comparatively they master the art of communicating their dangerous ideas through newspapers, magazines, comic books, greeting cards, songs, television, radio and movie scripts.

Early in the game they learn how to be expert in parliamentary law, in organizing committees, in forming policies. In fact they seldom miss an opportunity to shape opinion, because they have trained themselves in the business of transmitting ideas.

On the other hand, those with good principles are frequently poorly equipped to share them on a big scale.

Having the ability to think, talk and write good thoughts can be a powerful aid in exerting an influence for good, both now and for the rest of one's life.

"Fifteen Tips" will be concluded in next week's issue. The Spotlight would like to receive letters from readers giving their reaction to the series.

If you'te a high-handicap golfer (and 67% of our golfers are), this is the golf ball for you. Harrington & Richardson, famous maker of fine sporting arms, worked for two years trying to find a ball on the import market that will stand up better than any ball in the popular price range. As a result of tests by an internationally known testing laboratory, the following results were obatined:

- the Capri meets the USGA requirements for size and weight.
- -the Capri averaged 261 yards in flight.

PLAZA BOAT SHOW TO FEATURE FISHING TACKLE BY BENNETT

Bill Bennett, proprietor of Bennett Gun Works of Delmar, today accepted an invitation from the Delaware Plaza Association to participate in the Boat Show at Delaware Plaza, April 21-26. This marks the first time that a Delmar merchant has taken part in any of the Plaza activities. According to Bob Warsh, Association President, Mr. Bennett will display just about the biggest collection of the newest ry Finke of Gerry Finke Marine, fishing tackle and lures ever seen in these parts. It is expected that and accessories, including a 25fisherman from as far as 100 miles foot cabin cruiser which was around will congregate at the Bennett Gun Works display and swap the gol-durndest fish tales you ever did hear.

Rumors were flying as this issue went to press. Strongest one was to the effect that Bill Bennett would offer a prize every day for the tallest tale.

At the Plaza this past week, the merchants were busy keeping up with the thousands of shoppers who are entering the contest for the 16' Family Runabout by Dundee which they will give away on April 26.

The Boat Show, first of its kind ever held in this area, will run for 6 days and 6 nights. The show will be presented and staged unchanging needs and uses of the nursery school today.

Creative Play was another evening's approach to the preschool parent. A display of materials and their uses led to the discussion and demonstration of musical instruments, art work, and toys. How to make these things from inexpensive materials was an important part of the program. Another evening found the group deep in the throes of the problem of discipline. In addition to these programs, a smaller group participated in a series on character development and discussed such things as sybling rivalry and aggressiveness.

At a final meeting, the Pre-School Group at Hamagrael is planning to bring the children into the picture. As an experiment, a small group of children and their mothers will work at painting, story telling and other group activities. If this is successful, it will be considered for part of their program for the coming year.

Next year's theme for the Hamagrael group will be "preparing for kindergarden." This is not only a program to help the parent prepare the 4 and 5 year old for the imminent next year, but is an over-all picture which includes the parents of 2 and 3 year olds as well.

Mrs. Robert Patton is the chairman for the coming year; Mrs. Douglas Bryson, vice chairman, and Mrs. Dale Petersen, secretary. The membership chairman is Mrs. William Dulaney, with Mrs. Ross Beyer handling the telephone chairmanship. The past chairmen of the Pre-School group, Mrs. Martin Faust and Mrs. Reinald Mc-Crum, will take over as the Hospitality co-chairmen.
