

The significance of the Lutheran Church display, above, is to remind both young and old of the power promised by God's Son, Jesus Christ. The theme is based on words from the Bible, Luke 5; 1-10. The words of Jesus, "Launch out into the deep," must be reconsidered by Christians everywhere, the Rev. Lawrence Heuchert, pastor of the church, emphasized, "Too often we say with the discouraged fishers: "We have toiled the whole night and have taken nothing." The joyful note in the story should inspire all of us to rely on God's word more fully: 'Nevertheless, at thy word we will let down the net."" The display, one of the most outstanding ever seen in this area, was designed and executed by Rev. Heuchert. In the picture from left to right are: Mrs. Mae Westervelt, Enrollment Secretary of the Lutheron Church Vacation Bible School, Deborah Eaton and Stephen Burgeson. Exclusive Spotlight Staff Photo.

DECEMBER IN AUGUST!

Does Christmas seem far, far away? If so, it means you aren't on a Christmas planning board. Eric Krugman, of the Christmas Committee of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce, wants to get moving as soon as possible on a civic enterprise that will make our Town of Bethlehem an outstanding place to visit this winter,

For this, he needs cooperation from one and all. Ioe Todak and Clover Michaels. outstanding artists of Delmar, have volunteered to assist him but his idea is so tremendous in scope that he will need as many talented individuals as can be coaxed. bribed, or coerced.

Please, please, please stop in the Delmar Pharmacy and sign up with Eric now or with Lucille Williams at the Thistle Yarn and Gift Shop or contact Spotlight !!! We can get the work done and out of the way before our own homes need that personal touch.

SCHOOL DAZE!

The long hot summer's on the wane,

And happy days are here again. As mothers everywhere are singing

To the tune of school bells ringing.

Baseball, bats, and bathing caps, Worn-out sneaks and old road maps,

Sea shells, tubes and rusty fishhooks

Have given way to brand new school books.

Scrubbed-up lads and shining misses

Off in a flurry of tears and kisses. Oh mothers, enjoy this blissful day,

For tomorrow will bring --- the P. T. A. !

The boys drove off laughing. Recently, at dusk - a group of cars raced through at about 50 - So fast you couldn't see their plates.

The teens are not entirely to blame, The husbands who drive Thru-ways all day find it hard to slow down. They feel like getting out to push at 30. At least they wouldn't kill anybody that way !!

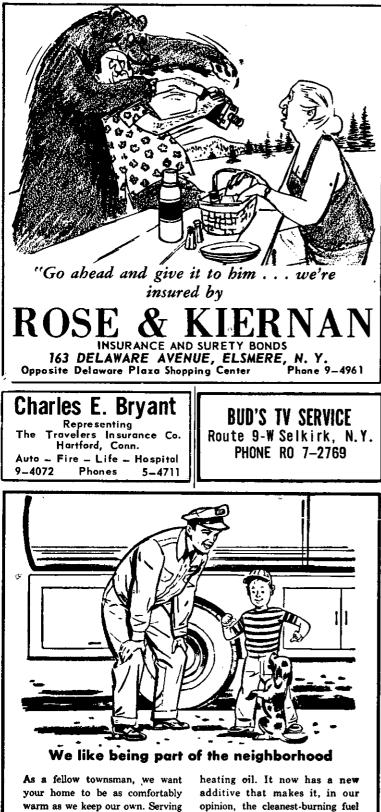

The mothers who drive their children to school spend more time watching the tulips and geraniums in the yards along the way. (I've seen this, too.)

The delivery people are not all bad. Some are conscientioussome not.

It is time something was done about this in Delmar.

Where are the parents of these children who drive? Don't they know how their children drive or don't they care?

COMMUNITY AMBASSADOR LETTER

Dear Spotlight:

The problem of foreign languages is something travelers must overcome when they are in Europe. Few are as fortunate as I, however, to have so much help in learning to speak another language. Since my arrival in Hausach, my entire family has taken on the role of German My sister, Barbel teachers. Kuhl, of course, is my biggest help because I spend most of my time with her. In the afternoons we go for long walks in the mountains near our home and, as I enjoy the beautiful scenery, I receive a German lesson. For everything we see I must learn its German name. As we climb up the mountain I learn all the names of the flowers, trees, animals, and everything else we pass and on the return trip I must put my memory to work and repeat all these new names. Everytime I get a name right I receive a strawberry or blueberry from Barbel. Whenever I forget I get another lesson. Naturaily, on a good day, I return home very well fed!

My sister im't the only member of my family interested in my German, though. Frau Kuhl takes a great deal of joy in teaching me German sayings and songs. Every day when we are working or talking together she sings me German songs or explains interesting phrases to me. She was really pleased when I sang an old German song called "Muss i denn" for her one day, and I was even happier when I heard her tell a neighbor about it and how my German was improving!

My brother Hans Peter is, perhaps, my most challenging teacher, however. Of course my German gives him many opportunities to tease! Whenever I say a word incorrectly, he repeats it after me as seriously as possible and then waits to see if I know he is mimicking me. The time he really capitalized on my limited knowledge of German, however, was in the midst of a conversation on colors. When he mentioned the color

I told him that it was my favorite color and then pointed to my coat. "See," I said, "blue, just like my skirt and sweater. It's always blue for me." At this Peter broke into gales of laughter and asked me if it was really always blue for me. When I replied in the affirmative, he made me repeat my sentence to Barbel and Frau Kuhl. It was at this point that I learned that in German when you say, "It is always blue," it means you are. drunk!

Yes, I am learning a great deal of German but in the process I am becoming a real part of my German family. When people can converse in the same language many of the old ideas about foreign people disappear. As I improve my German daily, my family is just as quickly making new discoveries about the United States. It certainly is a wonderful feeling to know that as we laugh together over my German we are learning to understand each other better too. Sincerely yours,

RPI NEWS

Dr. Richard Gilman Folsom will be formally installed as president of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in inaugural ceremonies on Saturday, October 4, it is announced by Dr. Livingston W. Houston, president emeritus, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and chairman of the Inaugural Committee.

Governor Averell Harriman will bring official greetings from the State authorities in an address at the luncheon preceding the inaugural convocation.

Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California for 27 years until his retirement the past June, is to make the inaugural address. He is a personal friend of Dr. Folsom who was associated with the University of California at Berkeley from 1933 to 1953, rising through the faculty in mechanical engineering, becoming chairman of the division and director of the mechanical engineering laboratories.

Central figures of honor in the Field House convocation will be educators and administrative dignitaries bringing greetings to Dr. Folsom and to Rensselaer from the nation's universities and colleges, from the learned societies, and from Federal and State educational commissioners and departments.

The address of Dr. Folsom.

presenting new concepts of Rensselaer's contributions to science and engineering education in the years ahead, will follow the awarding of honorary degrees and the address of Dr. Sproul.

As president of Rensselaer, Dr. Folsom is the 12th executive head of the oldest college of science and engineering in the English speaking world. The Rensselaer School was organized by Amos Eaton in 1824 under the sponsorship of Stephen Van Rensselaer, military leader, member of Congress and last of the patroons presiding over the ancestral Manor of Rensselaerwyck. The college adopted the four year program of study under the leadership of Benjamin Franklin Greene, director from 1847 to 1859. Greene originate the plan for a "true polytechnic institute" but the widest development of curricula in the varied fields of science, architecture and engineering came under Dr. Palmer C. Ricketts, director and president from 1892 until his death in 1934. Dr. Folsom succeeds Dr. Houston who became executive vice president in 1943 and was made president a year later.

As Dr. Folsom formally assumes the leadership of the Institute, special greetings among the hundreds of congratulatory messages, will come to him from the three great educational institutions with which he has been associated through most of his adult life. He earned the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's degree from California Institute of Technology and has retained the closest ties with his alma mater. His record at the University of California, Berkeley, has been cited.

"your guests will never tell you!"

Remember that widely publicized advertising slogan: "your best friends will never tell you?" It's the same with your pillows. If a house guest finds himself sleeping on a flabby, lifeless pillow that has become "sour" from long contact with perspiration, hair and skin oils, he will maintain a discreet silence. It's a hush-hush subject!

Why not have ALL your old pillows renovated by Killip's exclusive "sanitizing" method? All feathers removed and sterilized in hot steam, then fluffed dry in warm air currents. Result: a sanitary, sweet-smelling pillow as bouncy and resilient as the day you bought it. Homemakers, hospitals and hotels use this service and it is highly commended by all health authorities.

It costs only $1.85 to have a pillow SANITIZED by KILLIP

One pillow processed at a time. Never do your feathers come into contact with others. Our low charge includes washing and ironing the old ticks. New ticks and new feathers of excellent quality available, if needed, at very reasonable cost.

The Town of Bethlehem is ideally situated for interesting vacation spots, with the emphasis on children. So many of us seem to have them.

Before we go wandering too far from home, Albany, the third oldest city on the American continent, is worth exploring. Yes, the schools do make field-trips to many of the showplaces but a rainy day - a nice one - or just as a change from sun and swimming can be profitably spent checking the historical significance of this town.

Founded in 1914, five years after Hendrik Hudson had sailed his ship, The Halfmoon, up the river which was named for him, it was called Fort Nassau and was primarily a fur-trading station. The words Beaver and Beverwyck (place of beavers) are reminiscent of this era. Symbolic beavers are carved into the stone facade of the Delaware and Hudson Building at the foot of State Street, the most beautiful building intown. And I am sure everyone has heard of Beverwyck beer

Albany was a vital spot in the Revolutionary days and existed more as a military fortress. It is no accident that State Street is one of the widest streets in America - it was the main thoroughfare of the pioneer town with a block house church in the middle of the street at the foot of the hill. The men, of course, carried their muskets to church and they needed a wide sweep in case of a surprise attack.

ALBANY

(Continued from Page 7) Mansion at the corner of Clinton and Catherine (named for Mrs. Schuyler) Streets. This famous home is Albany's historical treasure. It was acquired by the State and restored in appearance with most of the family furniture in position. One can imagine George Washington being entertained as a guest: the wedding of Betsy Schuyler and Alexander Hamilton; and one can see the gouge in the mahogany balustrade made by a tomahawk flung during a raid. It is a State Historic site and fortunately has been able to keep its dignity in an otherwise changed neighborhood. No admission. Week days 9-4:30; Sundays 1-4:30.

The New York State Education Building; Washington Avenue opposite the Capitol. This building cost $4,000,000 and houses the State Museum. All children love the life-size Iroquois Indian groups. Made from life-casts, their settings and activities are so natural, they confound even the sophisticate. It also has one of the finest collections of invertebrate Paleozoic fossils and of animal habitat groups. Other attractions are Cohoes Mastodon, mineral collections, a large relief map of New York, historic murals, and Indian archeology and ethnology. Daily 9-5, Sundays and holidays through Labor Day 1-5. No admission.

The State Library on the second floor of the Education building is also worth a visit. On the wall beside the entrance to the Medical Library are three tremendous iron links from the chain that blocked British war-ships at West Point during the Revolutionary war. Also to be seen are the original drafts of Washington's Farewell Address and Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation. Open 9-4:30.

The State Capitol, (also known as the Contractor's heart-ache) was begun in 1967 and completed in 1898, although it was occupied by the Legislature in 1879. Supposedly many contractors went bankrupt, while others undoubtedly made their fortunes during its construction. Total cost, including recent modernization, is close to $30,000,000.

This is a building that will be wasted on the small fry but should be of much interest to the average teen-ager. Visitors are usually allowed to see the Executive Chamber with portraits of former Governors, valued at $500,000; the Senate and Assembly Chambers; War Museum, which has been a recent collection, and the varied examples of interior stone architecture.

The Alfred E. Smith State Office Buildingon Washington Avenue is interesting mainly because it is the tallest building in Albany - 350 feet. It is connected with the Capitol by an underground passage, which young boys, particulary, find intriguing. The names of all the counties of New York State are engraved around the exterior of the building.

Albany Institute of Art - 125 Washington Avenue. This building houses the historic heirlooms in exquisitely reproduced rooms: The Albany room, a Dutch Room, an English room and a Van Rensselaer Room. There are also colonial collections, Hudson Vallev paintings, 18th Century porcelain figurines, etc. Almost always, one will find a contemporary art show in progress as the Institute has done a valuable performance in the showing of the work of creative artists.

First Church in Albany - The Old Dutch Church, Clinton Square. In 1942, it was founded as the Dutch Reformed Church and stood in the middle of State at Broadway. The present church was designed by Philip Hooker (who also designed the Joseph Henry Memorial in Academy Park, south of the Education Building) and dedicated in 1799. The weathercock was brought from Holland in 1656 and bears 3 bullet marks, reputedly scars from Indian warfare. The handcarved oak pulpit, which is still in regular use, came over on the same boat from Holland. Theodore Roosevelt, while Governor. attended this church and his pew is marked.

of someone else's children? Have they ever thought how it would & feel to have a child'd body hit the front of their car - or run over him?

What about the Dads? Do they want to run down the very ones they work so hard for?

What are horns for? I use mine to warn a child I am approaching. I've heard people say they don't want to scare the children. I say let them get scared once, then they won't be in the street when a car whizzes past who doesn't honk his horn. Our youngsters have no sidewalks to skate on, to ride their trikes and bikes on. You can't depend on children to remember not to dash into the street - the driver has to be ever watchful.

Before a Delmar Father, Mother or teenager has a child's blood on his hands, will something be done?

Sincerely, Mrs. K.H.S.
