

TO HONOR RETIRING TRI-VILLAGE NURSERY SCHOOL TEACHERS

The Tri-Village Nursery School will honor three teachers who are leaving after a long association with the school at a reception on May 27.

From 7:30-9 parents of children who have attended the school for the last number of years will say "thank you" to Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. John Paige and Mrs. Estelle Dayter. They will say it by word of mouth and they will say it by presenting to the Delmar Public Library in their names a shelf of books and periodicals on Nursery Schools and on The Pre-School child.

Since 1951 Mrs. Adeline Smith has helped to start pre-school children on their trip to higher education in the Tri-Village Nursery School. She has taken part in three moving days of the school and worked under conditions which were not always easy. It has been more than just a job to Mrs. Smith whose imagination and ingenuity helped to bring the school over many a rough spot.

Perhaps her "Story Hour" and imaginative play which follows it will be the best remembered by her "students" in the seven years in which she taught. Many a child has a better developed imagination because of her guiding hand. From Safaris in doll carriages to shooting and cooking alligators Mrs. Smith's "let's pretend" periods have sparked the full imagination of the four year olds who have played and learned in her classroom. Mrs. Smith will carry her teaching to a slightly older group as she joins the staff of the Selkirk School as first grade teacher next year.

Mrs. Peggy Paige joined the Tri-Village Nursery School staff in 1952 and like Mrs. Smith stuck by the school through thick and thin and three moving days. She too gave far more than any contract required.

The piano and all it offered them in the class room will no doubt be the high point in the minds of her three year olds as they set forth on their way to school. For music plays a special part in Mrs. Paige's classroom. The first notes on the piano will bring children from all parts of the room, not because they obey signals so well, but because those notes signal the time for songs and musical games. There are few of them who do not have a response to "Creepy Creepy Mouse" or an interpretation for the "Clock Game" in which their sense of rhythm takes many forms. And who knows what influence their very first "band" will have upon their future. Cymbals clang, drums whang, triangles tingle and an accordion with most of its stops out require their full concentration as they try to keep in time with the music. The din is something but the children can never have enough of it.

Mrs. Paige's quick response to a small unsure child or to the loud busy body have been equally gentle and warm in her 6 years of Nursery School and we are sure she will carry all this to her new job next year at the Kindergarten of the South Bethlehem School.

"Dadie" as Mrs. Estelle Dayter has been known to 5 years of pre-school children is another grandmother to each and every one of them. If she had a penny for every zipper she has zipped and unzipped she'd be a millionaire today. Her eye was always alert to their safety particularly during play periods. She prepared their "snack" and poured their milk and mothered them as if they were her own. There is many a third grader, and second and first as well, who remembers a warm feeling for the "grandmother" of their early school days.

All parents and friends are cor-

Other officers installed were: 1st Vice President, Mrs. Ella Came; 2nd Vice President Mrs. Leona Arnaud; Recording Secretary Mrs. Adeline Jackson; Corresponding Secretary Miss Joanne Baldwin and Treasurer Miss Louise Rossiter. The officers were installed by Miss Helen Knowles, Director of District 3 BPW clubs. Mrs. Betty Geurtze, retiring President, was presented a Past President's pin by Mrs. Maeder.

dially invited to attend the reception on the 27th at the Delmar Public Library. Among those parents who have assumed responsibility for details of the reception are Mrs. George Wessinger, refreshments; Mrs. Maurice Lohman and Mrs. Price Chenault, presentation; Mrs. Edward Tisdall, guest books; Mrs. Albert Hessberg, Mrs. Elmer Chase, and Mrs. Ruth Gulling, telephone.

Church Auction Scheduled

"Shall we keep it or shall we donate it to the church auction?" is a common query these days in many families. They are making a careful check of their premises looking for items which may be valuable to other people.

The Slingerlands Community Methodist Church is having an Auction - not on its lawn, for that is not very pretty right now what with bulldozers, air hammers, workmen pushing ahead on the building program. No, the Auction will be held on the lawn of Miss Ruth Miner's home, 1599 New Scotland Road, beginning at 1:00 o'clock on Saturday, June 6th. The public is invited to come in, compete in the bidding, chat with old friends, and pause at the Snack Bar which will serve refreshments throughout the proceedings.

Mrs. John Pendleton and Mrs. James Rhodes are co-chairmen of the Auction. Mrs. Olof Lundberg, chairman of the Telephone Committee, is organizing the home calls, and Dr. Eugene Horn and Mr. Donald Arthur are making sure that transportation service is available for those who cannot get their items to the Auction.

Delmar Bookmobile Is On Its Way To Moscow

The new Delmar Bookmobile is now on the high seas headed for Moscow.

Filled with books which give a well rounded representation of the many literary facets of reading in America the bookmobile will land in Finland and travel by rail to the American Fair in Moscow which opens July 25. A book banned by Russia, Dr. Zhivago by Boris Pasternak, will be among those on the shelves of the mobile library.

Delmar itself will be on "view" in Russia as among the 2,800 books aboard the bookmobile are folders describing life in Delmar as a typical American Community. Mrs. Barbara Rau, librarian, added that "the bookmobile will be stocked with pictures and other information about Delmar." The folders have been translated into Russian by Dr. Anash Bormanshinov, assistant professor of languages at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Delmar Library Trustees decided to send the library on wheels to the fair last week after considerable deliberation. The only cost to the Delmar Public Library will be the postponement of the Bookmobile going into action here approximately 5 months later than originally planned. As "Moby Dick" the present bookmobile will continue its rounds until that time the sacrifice is not heavy. The new Bookmobile will have a complete overhaul on its return before making its home at the library.

Vice President Nixon will be on hand to open the American Fair in Moscow which will continue until the first week in September.

Notes on the Second Meeting to Choose a School Board Member . . .

Whitman Daniels Elected!

The lights burned bright in the Blanchard Legion Post the other night. They were celebrating the victory of Whitman Daniels in one of the hottest school trustee contests in recent years.

Trustee-elect Daniels has worked hard for the Legion in our town and it is obvious that the members returned the favor. This center of activity unquestionably was the difference when Bethlehem voters made one of the most difficult decisions in recent years. They had to pick one among three well qualified candidates who had conducted intelligent campaigns in a gentlemanly manner. (A friend of ours from a neighboring county cried in anguish "just give us any one of those three for our school board and we'd be happy.")

Daniels won on the third ballot but the first that was cast at the adjourned annual meeting. He drew 609 votes and his Elsmere neighbors, John Fladeau had 305 votes and Dr. Theodore Beecher, 251.

The contest drew the biggest turnout of voters for a school district election since the great debates over the High School.

School Board elections are traditionally non-partisan, but the large turnout of voters had some observers wondering if a new element is arising in town. Any time more than three people get together political minds start whirling, seeking cause and, naturally enough, potential effect. That we leave for summer discussions over the charcoal broiler.

One of the nicest evenings of the spring encouraged the voters to come to the high school. There the atmosphere was more that of lawn social than a serious election.

The neighbors, after dutifully casting their ballots, clustered outside to greet friends not seen since the snows arrived, to discuss the latest family inroads of the pesky virus and to report contentedly on progress of the tulips or disgustingly on the effects of the blasted "winter-kill."

Here was suburbia fully occupied with the pursuit of domestic tranquility as it exercised its democratic right to rule its highly important public institution the school system.

The friendliness shown by the neighbors carried on even after the results were announced. There were no signs of bitterness in the losing camps. The School Board promptly invited the victor to sit in on its meetings prior to taking office July 1. He plans to accept the invitation to get a running start on his new job.

Villagers will remember the new school trustee for his one man art show at the Library during the last season. He is considered one of the top public relations men in New York State and has a rich background in educational endeavors.

A Short History of an Old Church at Onesquethaw

Onesquethaw, a hamlet of stone and wooden houses, is tucked beneath the shoulder of a ridge of the heldebergs. Here where modern design has yet to show itself to any great extent except in the form automation stands a small community which in its past boasted three stores, and a post as a stop over for many travelers on their way to and from Albany was the cause for its nickname "Tarrytown."

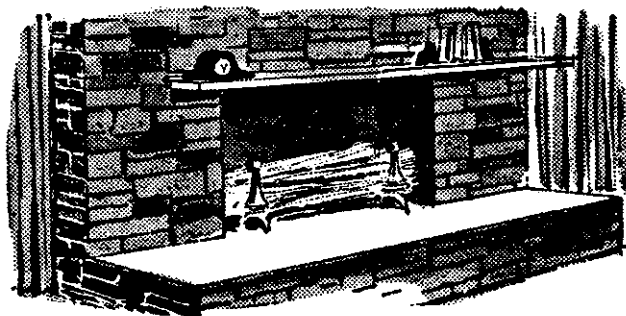

The focal point of interest in this hamlet is its stone church, spireless, whose square bell tower bears painted clock faces, and its stained glass windows are of simplicity and beauty. Construction of the Erie Canal in 1825 was responsible for this little church. When the canal was being built a large force of men quarried stone near Feura Bush to be used in building the locks. In constructing the locks the smaller size stone was rejected. The hardy residents of Onesquethaw saw the possibility of having a church at small cost, and after obtaining permission the rejected blue stone was to build the edifice at Onesquethaw. This Church was organized by the Presbytery of Albany in 1924.

In 1939 the church and property passed into the possession of the consistory of the Reformed Dutch Church in America, being received into the Classis of Albany.

This blue stone church has continued through the years to remain as a house of worship to all who wish to meditate or visit it. The Church underwent a complete renovation in 1959. Its walls were done in a rose-tone which compliment its stained glass windows and the edifice

In the Delmar Elementary School several assembly programs and many classroom activities dedicated to the Hudson-Cham-ing place this year. As the final program, the operetta,

"Rip Van Winkle," by Theodosia Paynter and G. A. Grant-Schaefer, will be presented by the sixty members of the elementary School Choir on May 26th at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of Miss Sandra Wermick, vo-

Dutch-American life in the year 1757 in an old village on the Hudson River and in the nearby Kaatskill Mountains is the setting of the three act play,
The touching and amusing story by Washington Irving and the lively stories and dances are combined to form this delightful musical play.

All parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to join the children in our closing tribute to the Hudson-Cham-

Leisure Time

This series of articles is reprinted from the booklet, Leisure Time, published by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Reprinted by permission of the publisher.

SOME DAY

Those children of ours will leave home - and if we don't want our home to turn suddenly into an empty, lonely, silent place, we had better develop at least the beginning now of some long-range strong interests that will give life contained meaning and happiness then.

How long is it since the two of you have done something for fun, just together, not with the youngsters? How often do you enjoy long talks together—about something other than the children and their problems? (NOT that you should neglect the children—but too many fond parents forget that husbands and wives are people, too, and also shouldn't be neglected.) And how long is it since you've done something all by yourself?

Can You Afford To Put It Off?

"Oh, I'll worry about all these things later—I'll have more leisure time when my children are older, when I'm nearing retirement age." It's a temptation to think this way, in the busy years of work and parenthood.

The trouble is when the children fade out of our lives later (as they almost certainly will) we are going to feel lost and miserable... unless we have developed strong interest to take their place. If not we'll find ourselves clinging to our children, when they are longing to live their own lives. Do we want to become a nuisance instead of staying active and resourceful, admired and loved by our children? Isn't it better to make plans now for the future while we're still liked and appreciated?

Later may be too late. Habits sneak up on us when we aren't looking, especially lazy habits. Is it really going to be easier to develop new interests when we are older and less energetic than we are now? Unused keys get rusty and become useless--and so do unused talents. Besides, some of the most satisfying interests are lifelong interests, and these require time to develop. They don't spring forth full-grown when we need them--we have to plan for our interests and help them to grow gradually.

TOO BUSY TO HAVE FUN?

Whether it's your family or your job that keeps you so busy and on the run, there are two things you can do about it... 1 Take a good hard look at yourself in an imaginary mental mirror, and then ask yourself, very firmly, and answer, very honestly...

A - Could you "make" more free time for yourself, if you really tried, by increasing your efficiency--by a little clever rearranging of tasks, by working faster, by eliminating puttering, by combining jobs, by planning better? Analyze your work, and see if you can discover any shortcuts that will prevent overtime or after-hours worry-time.

B - Could you cut out some work that you think is vital but that really isn't? Many of us have time-consuming responsibilities - because we enjoy feeling important, or just don't know how to say "no" or don't know how to delegate any work, don't trust other people enough. If that's why we're too busy, we should do something about it.. starting right now.

WHERE DID THE TIME GO??

Last week, how much time did I spend on sleep? Too little? or more than was really necessary just because there was no particular reason to get up, nothing exciting to look forward to?

How much time did I spend on meals? Were they just needed nourishment, or leisurely social occasions in which I shared ideas and plans with my family or friends in pleasant conversations? How much time was spent on necessary work? On transportation?

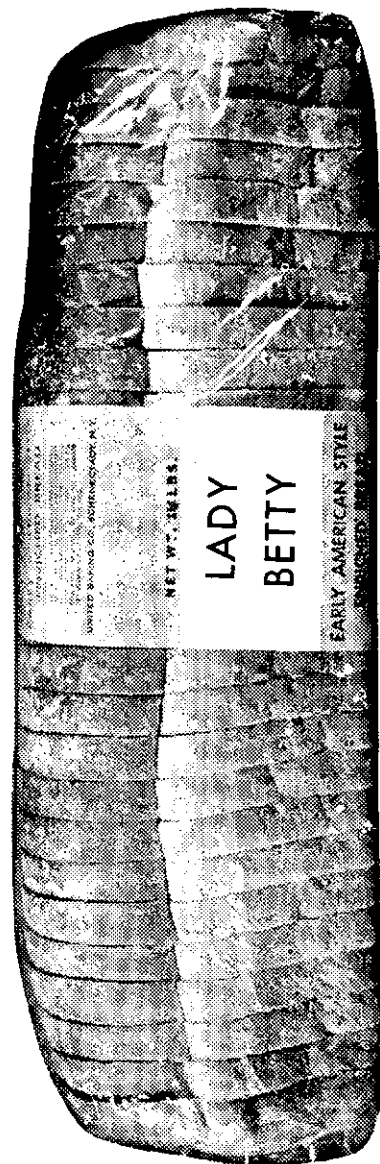

Now--how much leisure time did I have? And how did I spend it? How much time did I spend on passive things--watching TV, listening to the radio, at the movies, or just loafing, enjoying the luxury of doing "nothing"? Enough to relax me and "unkink" the knots acquired in my working hours? Or too much - so much that I got sluggish or fidgety? And how much time did I spend on activities? What were they? Did I enjoy them? Which did I enjoy the most? Why? Ideally, some of our free time should be spent "passively" and some "actively" some "receiving" and some giving"; did my week include both of these types of recreation?

How much leisure time did I spend alone? How much with other people? Here again, for full and well-balanced living, we should have some "solitary" and some "social" recreation. Did I meet any new people I liked? Did I arrange to see them again? Did I look up any old friends?

How much time did I spend outdoors? How much time did I spend in physical activity? Exercises - walking - team or competitive sports. How much time, if any, went for cultural recreation? Reading - studying - painting - music - etc. How much for spiritual concerns? Prayer - spiritual reading - volunteer work for my church or temple or favorite charity.

Did I do anything that I particularly enjoyed? If so, was it once-in-a-blue-moon lucky break, or can I look forward to doing it again soon? Did I do anything that made anyone else particularly happy? Mark Twain once said, "the best way to cheer yourself up is to cheer someone else up."

Tulip Time U.S.A. The 11th annual Tulip Festival a three-day celebration, so dear to the hearts of the Capitol District community, is really a spectacle of the past now. . . We all realize the tremendous amount of work that goes into this involved project. Involved since the very first Festival in 1948, is Mrs. D. Cady Herrick, 2nd of Slingerlands, also a member of one of Albany's prominent and eldest families. We know she has assumed many jobs in the past with the Festival, but now she is chiefly known as the co-ordinator, and naturally is a member of the executive committee for the Tulip Festival. Tulip-orchids to you Mrs. Herrick on a truly inspiring production right through from the first show at the Albany Institute, on Friday, May 15th to the Queen's Luncheon on Monday May 18th at the Manger-DeWitt Clinton. SPOTLIGHT ORCHID goes to William J. Schoonmaker on being elected president of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce. Bill is a partner in the law firm of Schoonmaker and Hayes down at 90 State Street in Albany. . . "South Pacific," has had the longest run of any movie that has ever played in the city of Albany. . . .Joan Crawford is returning to the screen in "The Best of Everything," based on the novel by Rona Jaffe. . .Last week, after I saw "Some Like It Hot," the voice of the girl who played Dolores, kept running through my mind as to where I had heard it before. I later found out that the starlet who played Dolores is Beverly Hills the daughter of comedienne Joan Davis. . .Paul Anka makes his screen debut in Metro Goldwyn Meyer's "Girl's Town". . .On Saturday May 30, Dick Clark's TV show will be telecast from Binghamton, N.Y. . .Due for release late this summer is "The Big Circus," with Victor Mature, Rhonda Fleming and Red Buttons. While on the subject of the circus, for a real good time this coming Tuesday night, take the kids to see the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Combined Circus up in Menands. . .On June 9th, Eddie Bracken opens the season in "Say Darling" at Eddie Rich's Colonie Musical Theatre in Latham. Mr. Rich has booked the tops in musicals for this season, so we should be in for a wonderful summer of entertainment. . ."The Judy Garland Revue," starring Judy Garland, packed the Metropolitan Opera House at every performance last week, in a four star-studded revue. . .Best L.P. Album of the week is on the R.C.A. label. It's "Porgy and Bess," with Lena Horne and Harry Belafonte together for the first time. . .Dear Miss M.F. In the movie "Some Like It Hot," the singing was done by Marilyn Monroe's voice, no dubbing was used. Thank you for your card.
