

An Open Letter . . . Of Hope

Are you expecting a child or grandchild? Surely you must know of someone expecting. As soon as the new baby arrives, won't you remind your doctor or pediatrician to begin a series of simple urine tests? These tests may save the baby from mental retardation.

Recent articles in popular magazines such as The Saturday Evening Post, Today's Health, and Reader's Digest have been published about various types of mental retardation. One of the types mentioned is Phenylketonuria (PKU).

Many readers glance at these articles with no more than a brief skimming of the material. Too many, go along with the feeling that it couldn't happen to them, that there is no retardation in their family; others have retarded children, they don't. But retardation can hit any family.

What is PKU? Briefly, it is an inherited inability to assimilate properly one of the amino acids in protein, thus causing a build-up in the blood stream of a toxin and causing an arresting of brain development. As the condition progresses, severe mental retardation follows.

How can it be detected? There is such a simple answer to this that we now wonder why any child should be retarded because of PKU. From as early as the age of one week a simple urine test may be made on a wet diaper with a ferric chloride solution. This test naturally should be done by your doctor. It takes less than a minute to perform and its cost is a matter of pennies. It is recommended that the test be done on all new babies for at least the first six months of life.

Three years ago when our youngest son was born, PKU was barely being recognized. Now, in the past year, many strides have been taken toward the publication of information on PKU. Now, we feel, no child need become retarded due to Phenylketonuria because the recent publications and research have brought a greater awareness of its cause, detection, and control to the public and medical profession.

The Control. If the PKU test is positive, the child should be immediately put on a rigidly controlled diet. His main food is a special pharmaceutical preparation. The rest of his diet consists of a measured amount of fruits, certain vegetables, and certain cereals. The amount of food allowed each child is determined by the child's weight.

Is the diet effective? Most emphatically, yes. We saw our older boy, who was three at the time of detection, slowly gain the sense of balance he never had, show an interest in his surroundings, sleep through the night for the first time since birth, and generally become "alive." We saw our baby, who was nine months old at the time of detection, start to sit up unaided, pull himself up, stop staring into space for periods as long as seven to eight seconds without seeing any movement around him, and he too, became more and more alert. Without doubt, the baby has shown greater progress, but then the damage had not been

A & P HONORS TRI-VILLAGER: T. Donald Hamilton of Slingerlands, head of A & P Food Stores' Albany Unit, has been named a director and Vice-President of the food firm. Mr. Hamilton has been with A & P since 1926 when he joined the company at Youngstown, Ohio.

PAINTINGS ON VELVET IN LIBRARY DISPLAY

An art display of rare technique is currently being shown at the Delmar Public Library. Paintings on velvet by Jon F. Smith portray scenes and types seen by him during his tour of military duty in the Pacific. Mr. Smith, who enlisted in the Navy in 1955 following his graduation from Voorheesville, is now attending college with plans to specialize in the field of animated cartooning.

The art of painting on velvet, unusual and difficult, was acquired by Mr. Smith in Hawaii while stationed there. The vibrancy imparted to the paintings produces an absorbing effect.

His cartoon series "Sniff 'n' Snuff" and his many cartoons playing on the humor of Navy life won him an Armed Forces Press Service Pat on the Back Award, issued to the man or woman in the armed forces thought to be outstanding in the field. It is further awarded on the basis of humor, content and effectiveness in boosting service morale.

Bank Up 8 Places

State Bank of Albany has placed in 73rd position in size among the Nation's commercial banks, a gain of eight places since the year end. The rating is based upon the bank's total deposits of $414,452,892.18, at the close of business on June 30, 1961, and included in the quarterly statement of that date showing total resources of over $450,000,000.00.

The ratings were compiled by the "American Banker," the official publication of the American Bankers' Association, and are to be published in the paper's 125 Anniversary Issue on August 1, 1961.

as extensive as it had been with the older boy.

Although the boys have shown remarkable progress during the two years since detection, we realize that the brain damage which had occurred will never be repaired.

What is being done? The Department of Mental Hygiene of New York State is conducting intensive research and testing of PKU children. It is our hope the public in general will take steps to ask their doctors to do the tests on newborn children. Physicians can get further technical information by writing to the Department of Mental Hygiene, Albany, New York.

What more can be done? Write to your State Senator and Assemblyman recommending that this urine test be made a State Law.

Adele French Has Lead in "Wedding Breakfast"

Now playing at Shelley Players in New Scotland is "Wedding Breakfast," a tender-hearted account of the love stories of two sisters who live together in Sheridan Square. Ruth, portrayed by Adele French, sells perfume and saves her money for the day she will marry Norman, played by Tom Halpin.

ADELE FRENCH has the lead in the current play at Shelley players in New Scotland. She was a student at the Herbert Berghof Studios before the beginning of her professional career. She has been a star of both radio and TV. Her stage experience was gained in Boston with the Tributary Theatre and the Triangle Players, followed by Stock and Off-Broadway shows including "The Country Girl" and "The Little Foxes."

Stella, the hardworking older sister, is played by Carolyn Pace. Alex Wipf, as Ralph, provides the new romantic interest in Stella's life.

Miss French, presently from New York City, has extensive theatre credits from Boston with the Tributary Players and the Triangle Players. She has also starred in numerous off-Broadway and stock productions. Other credits for Miss French include her own radio show and television work in the Brookline-Boston areas. Last week Miss French was seen as Aunt Queenie in "Bell, Book and Candle."

Tom Halpin is well known in off-Broadway circles for his work with Pygmalion Productions. He has also starred with the Hudson Guild and the Seven Arts Centre of New York City; the Grist Mill Playhouse, Andover, N.J.; the Players Guild, Bogota, N.J.; the Towndock theatre, Port Washington, L.I.; Glen Cove, L.I.; and both the National Catholic theatre conference and the United Nations World Affairs Centre.

IT'S A WOMAN'S WORLD

Montreal Business Women Visit

Chartering a plane for a visit to New York City recently, 70 women members of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce toured "behind the scenes" at Macy's Department Store, visited the National Design Center and gathered at luncheon to hear American business women discuss the working woman's role in the United States. The State Commerce Woman's Program assisted in arranging their tour.

Secretary of New York State, Caroline B. Simon, in welcoming the club said, "taking our interests out of our homes and into business and government is important to women because loving our family, we want to make the community and the world in which they will grow, the best community and the best world that our working toward these ideals can help evolve . . . more and more women are beginning to take active part in our professions, in the general community and in government. Today a woman (in business) must look like a girl; must act like a lady; must think like a man; and work like a dog. It is my pleasure to tell you that here in New York State Government, women also have an important role and, through our Governor, we are being given the opportunity to play that role."

More Women In Banking -- Discussing the career opportunities for women in the banking business, Miss Ruth Irish, Assistant Vice President of the Union Dime Savings Bank in New York City, and a Woman's Council member, appointed by Governor Rockefeller, noted that "in 1940 there were more men than women employed in banks and trust companies, whereas today there are twice as many women as men. About 12,500 women are officers of banks in the United States, an increase of 266% in women officers in the past 20 years." Miss Irish said, "Mr. Carl Bimson, past President of the American Bankers Association, who has 26 women officers in his own bank, believes that any woman who attains the rank of officer in the banking business has reached her position by being at least twice as efficient and capable as her male associates."

Miss Irish continued, "In the National Association of Banking Women, which has a membership of over 35,000, all in executive or official positions in banks, 10 women members are Chairman of the Board; 9 are Presidents; 20 are Executive Vice Presidents; 189 are Vice Presidents; and 269 are Associate Vice Presidents. Local Chambers of Commerce have found that women bankers can be valuable board members and dedicated workers for civic betterment."

What Price A Baby?

Three year old Chris, grandson of State Commerce Business Consultant Mildred Meskil, when asked by a neighbor if his newly arrived baby sister might come live with her, said, "No. You don't need her. You just got a dog last week."

Famous Cookbooks

A collection of several hundred early edition cookbooks, thought to be possibly the finest in existence, is in the library of Cornell University's Hotel Management School in Ithaca, according to a report from the New York State Woman's Program. Some of the books, which were presented to the School by Mrs. E. M. Statler, were collected originally by Joseph Dommers Vehling, a chef who used to commute from Chicago to teach at the Hotel School one day a week. Another part of the library's culinary collection was left to the School by James B. Herndon, Jr., who died in 1953. Mr. Herndon was Chairman of the Board of the American Hotel Association and a Vice President of the Hilton Hotels. He gathered his prize copies over a period of 20 years.

Included in the collection is a 1924-27 translation from Latin, by Joseph Vehling, of the oldest known cookbook -- "Apicius Coelius De Arte Coquinaria." The Woman's Program staff, persuing the manuscript, found the following comments from Mr. Vehling:

"Gastronomical insanities, follies and vices of such as Nero were far between and spread over centuries. The daily grind of the average Roman was meager. He was miserable fed. In Caesar's and Augustus' reigns, law limited the sum that could be spent for public and private dinners and inspectors checked every party." Bootleg cookery resulted, and gourmets went underground, Mr. Vehling said. He noted, too, that the Greeks showed Romans how to cook and how to fatten chickens.

Mr. Vehling's translation includes chapters on keeping foods, and recipes for such gourmet dishes as roast suckling pig glazed in honey; asparagus cooked in coconut milk (place it in boiling liquid "backwards," directions say); and pumpkin stewed with hen, garnished with peaches and truffles and seasoned with herbs, caraway, oil and vinegar. Quantities were often omitted. An illustration in the famous translation, pictures a Pompeian bronze and marble table which could be lowered in height or collapsed to store flat, very similar to designs around today.

Among other unique books in the collection is a 1621 German book on carving; a 1688 London book on banquets with pages that open out to reveal the full banquet table laden with foods; and a 1749 French manuscript of a menu from the court of King Louis XV which includes amounts and costs of

By the Way

by Abbie Utz

Whew! Finally, at long last, we've been having "some-kind" of summer weather, as our friends from Virginia say. At the Member Guest weekend at Normanside Country Club, Barker Serian won the Championship Flight. Looks like the next event to be determined is the Mr. & Mrs. Tournament. Play was scheduled for July 22 with a Buffet on the patio at 5:30. Eileen and Hank Kiernan of Delmar are the co-chairmen. Also they are twice winners of this tourney.

We want you Spotlight readers to know that something very different and exciting is coming to 'our town!' By The Way has been pledged to keep this a secret, but Amateur Artists, attention, if you please. Also junior artists, ahoy there! Pirates Alley will afford limited space for an arts and crafts show. Won't tell another bit now, but you all may call the following numbers for details

Last Wednesday the Senior Citizens from Bethlehem, some thirty-nine of them, chartered a bus and went to The Catskill Game Farm. Left here at 9 in the morning and had luncheon at The Sky Line Restaurant. Back home about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They particularly enjoyed the Bird Sanctuary and, all in all, fed the deer and walked miles. For those Seniors in our community who would care to join in these activities, they meet every Tuesday noon with transportation for lunch (bring your own sandwich) at the Junior High School, coffee and tea served at the school. Then there's handiwork and activity, with bus pickup at 4. Of course, there is the White Face Mountain trip to look forward to in October, just at the height of the color of the leaves, quite a long way off tho'.

By the Way, we'd like to wish Dr. Theodore Beecher of Oakwood Ave., Elsmere, who has served as Chief of Laboratory Service at Albany Veterans' Administration Hospital since 1951, best wishes, for, effective August first, Dr. Beecher will assume his duties as Director of Pathology and Allied Sciences, Department Medicine and Surgery, V. A. Center Washington, D. C.

Had a wonderful visit with Alice Heidel last weekend. She and John are now in Des Moines, Iowa, by the way, and Susan has just completed her Freshman year at Colorado College. In fact she liked it so well that she has a summer job out there. Steven has been visiting friends at Kinderhook Lake during July. The Heidels made their headquarters at the Hansons on Herrick in Elsmere and have now headed back via Syracuse and Akron, Ohio, visiting family en route. Oh yes, Jack Heidel is just out of the Navy and is in Iowa City planning to return to college there this fall.

Fred Van Hoesen of Adams Pl., Delmar. He is working this summer at the Tamarack Lodge, Greenfield Park, N. Y. and will be affiliated with The Hotel Algiers, Miami Beach. Jan majored in hotel management while in Delhi.

Thanks to Mrs. Andrew Mc Connell of Delmar for the news of our local girls, including her daughter, Nancy. Along with Pat Dunn of Adams Pl., and Margie Reid of Wellington Rd. they flew to London on June 19 and have rented a car and are really touring through Europe. They have already been in England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, and Sweden. While in London they saw Brian Emery, son of Mrs. Helen Emery of Adams St.,

Delmar. Then in Amsterdam they were graciously received by the brother of Mrs. Joseph Parser of Wellington Road. Again in Malmo, Sweden, they had a royal welcome from the uncle of Mr. Olaf Lundberg of Mayfair Drive, Slingerlands. At present they are in Germany, where at the close of the month, they expect to see Sandy Parker in Munich. From there they will go to Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Spain and France. They will fly home from Paris on Sept. 10. While in Paris they expect to see Jackie Berge who was the Mc-Connell's house guest while she was also an exchange student here two years ago.

By the way, Sandy Parker of Roweland Ave., Delmar, will be coming home during that first week of September from Germany. Just in time to spend some time, we hope, at the Cape before returning to her senior year and studies at Smith.

Meanwhile back at home, have fun. We enjoyed Tanglewood last Saturday evening, even in the rain. The concert was all Mozart with soloists on Bassoon and Flute. What a delightful place! Have you ever gone over for the Saturday morning rehearsal at 10? Take a picnic and enjoy this treat over in the Berkshires with your family and friends. Off to New York City this week for a day-long trip, business and pleasure. Maybe a ball game for the boys and a matinee.

Hey, it was great seeing Rusty Trask and her family out East Nassau way last week one day. What a lovely place they have in those hills. Only Mandy and Chip are home this summer. Joanna has gone to Gorham, N.H. Missed Joe who is busy traveling over most of New York State these days. 'Twas a delightful treat and so restful for us. By the way, have a good stay on the Island Peter Applebee at Word of Life Camp. Bon Voyage to Beth Kier of Kenwood Ave., Delmar, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Kier. Beth has gone to Europe just this week with several girls from Loudonville.
