

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

We commend the parents who wrote you letters about the misfortunes of their children under the Bethlehem Central School System.

Our child was a victim of this "outstanding system" and will undoubtedly be intellectually scarred for life. When our child was a student in the lower grades we were told that we "shouldn't expect too much, for your child has a moron's I.Q." The fact that the school authorities never got onto was that our child did 90% of school work from memory because, with all their wonderful methods, our child hadn't been taught to READ!

We spent a considerable amount of money on Remedial Summer Reading Courses in the BCS system to no avail.

In desperation we sent our child to a private school where we discovered that our child's scholastic problems all stemmed from poor preparation in the 3rd and 4th grade in Bethlehem Central's "outstanding system." And what do you know? Our child had a perfectly normal mentality when finally taught to REALLY READ in 7th grade!

To all you parents who want a good public school education for your children, wake up! Average students are being sacrificed to experimental methods, poor teachers, and parental complacency. A school system is only as good as its teachers and the parents who really care!

Two voices in the wilderness

Dear Sir:

I humbly submit that if 'Indignant Father' (May 10 issue) will consult any qualified counselor, he might be helped.

Perhaps he might learn that a number of procedures have been developed in terms of parent-child communications that could possibly be more effective than combining 'grim discipline with 'popsicles.' He also might learn that a very basic method for maintaining contact with a child's teacher has evolved—personal contact! He might realize that indignation is not a valid substitute for alertness and awareness. He might appreciate that problems involving children can be resolved only by forthrightness and a determination that the child's welfare is the top priority, not personal emotional catharsis.

Courtesy on the highway is a rare bird indeed, but wherever you see a courteous driver, you see a safe one.

He's looking out for the other fellow as well as himself. He yields the right of way graciously . . . gives clear signals, never crowds the car ahead.

Best of all, he's never in a hurry. He's not interested in trying to beat a red light.

Because he's calm and relaxed he's a better driver — and probably enjoys his travel more. We need more of him.

Reeves, 348 Wellington Road, Delmar. Library Notes . . .

The Delmar Public Library has had many "mothers" in the years since its simple start but the first and most strong has been the Delmar Progress Club.

Another instance of its care for the Library is shown in the gift of an old photograph found in the papers of Mrs. William Glenn a staunch library friend. Mrs. John Glenn turned this picture of members of the Progress Club dressed in costumes unusual to 1916 and ready for presenting a play benefit for the Library in that year, over to the Club which had it framed and given to the Library.

The Library will display the old photograph with its stage setting and clothing of an unidentified play for any nostalgic resident who wants to view it. Names of the cast include Mesdames Harry A. Knapp, Frank S. Resboro, Edgar B. Shufelt, Charles S. Shanks, F.E. Blake, Herman Gregg, William E. Johnson, F. C. Thornbury, Willtam H. Glenn, William B. Phepps.

before the child's fifth year; and much of it can be prevented.

Most hearing impairments are the result of childhood diseases such as meningitis, measles, scarlet fever and influenza. Since these ailments, in their early stages, often resemble the common cold, the baby should be put to bed at the first sign of a cold symptom and the doctor called.

A hearing loss also can develop if care is not taken in cleaning baby's ears. Ear wax is a normal secretion from the glands in the ear canal and it helps to keep the skin healthy. It will, in most cases, fall out by itself as it accumulates. When sticky, it should be carefully wiped out.

It is suggested you consult your physician before you attempt to clean baby's ears. He will show you how to do this correctly so you don't injure baby's ears, pave the way for an ear infection or push the wax deeper.

Particular care should be taken to prevent water from entering the ear. Too much water can cause the delicate nose and throat tissue to swell. This will interfere with the ventilation to the middle ear and can result in impaired hearing.

Allergies of the nose, throat, and ears also can cause swelling which will obstruct proper ventilation of the middle ear and thereby interfere with the baby's hearing mechanism.

Exalted Ruler Weisheit Calls Community-wide Flag Salute

Stressing the need for a revival of "the fervent patriotism that won our freedom," David Weisheit, Exalted Ruler of Bethlehem Lodge of Elks #2233, today called for a community-wide salute to the flag on Flag Day, June 14.

Mr. Weisheit said that the Bethlehem Lodge will hold an observance honoring the flag on the 185th anniversary of its adoption by the Continental Congress in 1777. The lodge's observance will be held at the lodge rooms, located on Route 144 at corner of Winnie Road on June 10th. He invited every resident of Bethlehem and the surrounding communities to participate and also urged that the flag be displayed before every home and place of business on Flag Day, June 14.

Mr. Weisheit said that his lodge will be one of 2,000 Elks lodges across the nation conducting Flag Day programs. He pointed out that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has been observing Flag Day for more than half a century.

infected adenoids can endanger the ears. Obstruction from adenoids will tend to disappear in adolescence. But in young children the adenoids may grow large enough to fill the ear passage leading from the throat to the ear. Your doctor can advise you whether or not they should be removed.

Regular ear checks and hearing tests for the baby are the best safeguards against impaired hearing. Hearing societies, clinics and hearing aid manufacturers throughout the country urge periodic ear examinations and have assisted in establishing community hearing conservation programs.

At the slightest indication of an ear infection or injury, baby should be taken to the doctor. Prompt and adequate medical treatment of infections and injuries is the best way to maintain good hearing and prevent a hearing loss.

HORSE TALK . . .

Changes in the stakes schedule at Aqueduct and Belmont Park, made necessary by the cancellation of turf racing for this season at Aqueduct, were announced today by James Cox Brady, Chairman of the Board of the New York Racing Association.

The major change will be the shifting of the $100,000 added Man o' War from Aqueduct to the Belmont Park turf course on the final day of the Fall meet at Belmont, October 27. The $50,000 added Ladies Handicap, which originally held the October 27 date, will be shifted to Aqueduct on Saturday, November 3, the original date of the Man o' War.

Due to the difference in the size of the tracks at Belmont and Aqueduct, both of the aforementioned races will have changes in distance. The Man o' War will be run at one mile and three furlongs instead of one mile and three sixteenths, and the Ladies will be at one mile and five sixteenths rather than the previously announced one mile and one half.

We've received word from Marie K. Schmitt, a third grade teacher in the Elsmere Elementary School of her private reading school for the summer months. Miss Schmitt received her training in remedial work at Durrell Reading Clinic in Boston, and her Masters at Columbia Teachers' College. She has also taught all grades, first through sixth. The classes will be held daily 8:30-10:30 a.m. for grades 4 through 7, with small group instruction and private.

Several items from Donna Reulbach, news reporter for the Delmar Stitch and Chatter 4-H Club. By the way, the girls entered the Dress Revue. Also two of the girls, Susan Goddard and Donna attended a meeting to assist a group of younger girls in 4-H beginning work. Of course, the girls were in the Memorial Day Parade.

The Tri-Village Little League Auxilliary deeply appreciated the grand help given to them by the Junior High girls. They just plain volunteered their services and assisted at the recent successful spaghetti dinner sponsored by the Auxilliary on Opening Day. Unstintingly, these gals gave of their time and energy and the entire Auxilliary wishes to commend them for their unselfish enthusiasm.

Attending the National Education Association Convention in Denver, Colorado, July first through sixth, will be Richard Baker of Delmar, teacher of Science at BCJH. The Bakers plan to leave June 27 for Denver. However, this year just Mrs. B. and their two children, Judy and Allen, will accompany Dick out, while Diana will go to visit a grandparent in Pennsylvania. After the convention they expect to go camping in North Dakota, Duluth, Minnesota and home via Detroit, Southern Ontario and Buffalo. Aron Shaloum has been selected

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE!

YOU can buy Early American designed sofas at most any price - BUT there has to be a difference AND THERE IS! A sofa or chair made on an assembly line where a dozen different hands work on it using stiff zig-zag horizontal wire seating with non-descript filling is certainly different from a fine bench made piece, the work of only one Master Upholsterer - who uses fine interlaced webbing, steel, tempered coil springs, hair filling and muslin undercover. There is a joyful difference from the lower price piece when you sit upon it.

This beautiful sofa from our Thirteen Colonies Collection is a Bench made piece as are all of our pieces. The frame is solid maple and is finished like a table top. It is tailored in a handsome TOILE. The comfort is supreme because the pitch of back and seat are correct to support every part of the body. $320.00

It is available in muslin and in a fine and great selection of fabrics.

A charming Cape Cod armchair from our Thirteen Colonies collection. Solid maple frame. The cushions are covered in Quaint Early American Fabrics. Our present stock is finished in antique maple, but these chairs are available in any fabric and with frames finished in black and gold, old white and cherry. $59.50
