VAN WIES POINT

By Allison P. Bennett

Our Town of Bethlehem is full of interesting bits of early Americana and it is fun to look back and reminisce on "Things that were." We are all fascinated by the waters of the Hudson River that flow along the eastern border of our town and the settlement at Van Wie's Point is one of the earliest. Hendrick Van Wie, from whom the place takes its name, built a home there as early as 1679. One of the "old" Van Wie places, built in 1732 is gone now, tumbled into ruins and torn down, but it was a typical early brick Dutch style farmhouse located on the river shore on property now belonging to "Our Lady of Angels" Seminary. It was considered one of the finest examples of a Dutch style farmhouse in the area and had its own slave pens and a private burying ground for the family and one for the slaves.

We recently had an interview with one of the long-time residents of Van Wie's Point, Mrs. Frank Welch, who has lived in the Welch homestead on the river's edge for over half a century. The men of her family took their livlihood from the river for three generations and she had many an interesting tale to tell of some of the happenings along the Hudson. There were some illustrious summer residents around the "Point" at the turn of the century: Erastus Dow Palmer, the famous sculptor lived at "Appledale" where Julian Tauss now resides and Charles Lansing and his son Gerrit Lansing owned the large estate that was later lived in by the Chenault family. There is a lovely little "Frothingham Lake" down there too, and overlooking it and the river is the large Frothingham home, once owned by the prominent Albany real estate dealer, Ten Eyck Mosher, himself a descendant of early area settlers, and now the home of the Lawson family. These homes were built in the 1860's and had their own private en-Continued on Page 10

Deadline Extended

The opportunity for a memorable summer still awaits some lucky person. The Bethlehem Community Ambassador program has extended its deadline for applicants for the 1964 Community Ambassadorship to March 1. Any interested persons between the ages of 19 and 35, who live or work within the Bethlehem Central School District, still have time to apply.

An excellent choice of countries is available, which should offer something in line with any particular interest a candidate might have - whether it be a first-hand study of the workings of communism in Yugoslavia, the mysteries of exotic India, or the quaint European country of Finland where the delights of the Finnish sauna might be experienced.

Whichever of these three countries the 1964 Community Ambassador visits, he will have the chance to form lifelong international friendships by living with a family in that country for about a month. Also, under the experienced guidance of the Experiment in Interna-

Few opportunities of this magnitude are available, so if you or someone you know is interested, we urge you to take action now. Applications may be obtained at the Delmar Public Library, the Thistle Shop, or C.M. Grover, Stationers, at the Delaware Plaza.

Upon his return home, the Community Ambassador will be asked to share his impressions and experiences with local organizations. The 1963 ambassador, Mrs. John Cunningham. who visited Turkey last summer, is still available for talks and will be delighted to show her fascinating slides to any groups which may not yet have seen them. So, if your organization is running on a limited budget, you can all take a magic carpet ride to Turkey just by calling the office of the Director of Adult Education and a date will be reserved for you.

HELP! HELP!

The Town of Bethlehem Volunteer Fire Officers Association would like your help in a "Confined Persons Program."

The purpose of this program is to help save lives in our Town. There is always the danger of a confined person being trapped in a burning building. By the term "confined," we mean a person who needs the aid of some one else to get around.

We would like to put a sticker on the front door of the home and another on the confined person's bedroom window. In case of a fire the sticker on the front door will tell us there is a confined person living there and the sticker on the bedroom window will tell us where the the person is located.

If you have a confined person living in your home, contact the Fire Chief of your fire district.

Who of our readers can remember back to the days when the 'Four Mile Light" at Van Wie's Point was kept burning by the faithful lighthouse keeper, William Welch? Mr. Welch was the oldest lighthouse keeper in the United States at the time of his death in 1910 at the age of 93. He tended the light for 52 years and was not absent from his post for even one day; his salary was the grand sum of $180 per year. It was a monotonous task to tend the light. Every morning "old man Welch" would row out to the light and bring in the big two-foot brass lantem. He would polish the brass and wash the glass, trim the wick and fill the lantern. Every night at sundown he had to row back out to the lighthouse and put the lantern in place, to shine as a beacon to boats through the night. His son followed him with a lifetime spent on the waters of the Hudson, not as a lighthouse keeper, but as an engineer on the steamer, "Albany," and then serving with distinction as Chief Engineer on the palatial Hudson River Day Line steamer, the "Hendrick Hudson," running from New York to Albany. The Hendrick Hudson's whistles always gave a brief salute at Van Wie's Point as they passed the Welch homestead.

We can't forget another important part that our river played in the lives of our townspeople of long ago. The shipping of hay and farm produce from Van Wie's dock was big business in the years of the nineteenth century and later ice was cut on the river and shipped to New York City to supply the hotels and restaurants. Lavish homes were built and fortunes made from the hay and ice business in this town and the "ice harvest" every winter on the Hudson was a sight to behold and employed hundreds of men. Large ice houses sprang up on both sides of the river bank to house the "crop" until it could be shipped to New York by boat. Today the only traces remaining of any of them are a few old brick foundations half buried in the ground and entangled by underbrush. Van Wie's Point itself had two large icehouses running along the river bank from the present Hecox property to the "Bonnie Castle" of William Tinney, with extensive dockage on the river. Today all traces of icehouses and docks are gone - lovely modern homes fill the flatland in their stead.

The sun was shining brightly on the winter snow the day we visited with Mrs. Welch, and looking from her windows the Hudson's waters were frozen and deserted, but come the first warm days of spring they will be alive once again with ocean going vessels and small pleasure craft busily plying the "Rhine of America,"

Here's something that spells security - a safe box filled with U.S. Savings Bonds.

If not - and if you're a member of a Home Demonstration unit - you'll soon have the opportunity to lear more about each of these subjects.

There are nine Home Demonstration units in the Town of Bethlehem, with memberships ranging from five to 100 women. Throughout Albany County, there are about 60 separate units.

Home Demonstration programs are coordinated by a central office in the Old Post Office Building in Albany, as one of three divisions of the Cooperative Extension Service. The other two divisions are Agriculture and 4-H.

What, exactly, is the purpose of the Home Demonstration Department? Mrs. Martha S. Brown, the county agent, made it very clear to me. "It's a program for the teaching of informal, out-of-school, adult home economics," she said.

This year, the study projects offered Home Dem units have included dressmaking, making choices at the meat counter, meal planning, use of small appliances, time and energy conservation, making shirts for the family, care of flowering plants, and garden lighting and Christmas lighting (the latter in cooperation with the Niagara-Mohawk Power Corporation.)

Each unit chooses which projects it wishes to undertake, and representatives attend training programs prior to each meeting. The training sessions are directed by Mrs. Brown, her two assistants, Mrs. Eleanor

In The Matter of

The Application of June Ann Wilcox, an infant over the age of Fourteen years, by June B. Domery, her mother and natural Guardian, to assume another name.

Upon reading and filing the Petition of June B. Domery verified the 10th day of January, 1964, praying for leave for June Ann Wilcox, an in-fant over the age of fourteen years for leave to assume the name of June Ann Domery in the place of her present name, and the Court being satisfied by said petition that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed and due notice of the presentation of said petition having been given to Barnum Monroe Wilcox Jr. the father of said infant, and the said infant having been born in the City of Albany, New York on the 12th day of June, 1946, the number of her birth certificate being No. 3753, and the Court being further satisfied that the interest of the said infant will be substantially promoted by such change, now, on motion of James H.
