LITTLE LEAGUE PREXY ALSO ANSWERS A.B.C.

Gentlemen:

A WIDE BRUSH INDISCRIMINATELY USED PAINTS A BROAD SMEAR.

A letter was published in the July 30 issue of the Spotlight which attempted to tear down the entire Junior Baseball Program in the Tri-Village area. The author, the parent of a Babe Ruth player, denounced the policies, the adult participants and the sponsors of both the Tri-Village Little League and the Bethlehem Babe Ruth League.

I feel that it is extremely important that any misconceptions planted in the minds of the readers by this letter be corrected immediately. For this reason, I am listing several facts - not allegations - concerning the methods and the policies of the Tri-Village Little League.

Attached to this is a copy of the which governs the Little League past season particular tion which ically the rules. Tlated after were madiod, to boys enrol would be actually participation policy has been successful only because of the cooperation of all of the managers and coaches connected with the Little League.

The policy requires that every boy who is in uniform and is present at the ball park plays in each and every game. Every boy must play a minimum of two innings in every game and appear at bat at least once. Furthermore, every boy must play a minimum of sixty innings during the season. Since the maximum number of innings which any team can play is 108, every boy must, therefore, play approximately 60 per cent of the total number of imings during the season.

I find it very difficult to imagine that anyone could believe that many managers, coaches, directors, field workers, scorers and announcers devote their time to Little League Baseball solely for the purpose of gaining advantages for "their sons and sons of their friends." In fact, there are very many adult participants in Little League who have no sons or whose sons are well beyond the little league age. The caricature which the author of the letter has drawn of the manager is, to say the least, unjust, prejudiced and unfair. Too many men devote too much time to be accused so unjustly.

On behalf of the Little League I will apologize to the sponsors for the ill-advised intimations made by the writer concerning they exert the League. knowledge no er, during the connected e, exerted or any influence of a player, game or the Little League age rules participation assistance. No manager, coach or official of the League.

No sponsor has ever attempted to do other than assist the League financially.

The Editor has suggested that an investigation into the author's allegations should be made. While the suggestion is directed to the Babe-Ruth League, because the writer has linked the two programs, I must conclude that a Little League investigation is also suggested. I have no intention of ordering an investigation. Too many of the statements made by the writer are completely untrue and have no basis in fact. I do, however, extend an invitation to the Editor of the Spotlight and to SHIRTSLEEVE BRIGADE - Robert Wiggand, Harry Sheaffer, Vin Herzog and Charles Redmond give a hand to helping promote the annual Steakroast and Outing of the Bethlehem Republican Organization, set for Wednesday, August 19, at Murray-Jennex Sunset Park, Orchard Hill Road, Unionville. Activities begin at 3 P.M. and dinner will be served at 5:30. There will be games, door prizes, plenty of action for everyone at this traditionally stag event.

Bob Wiggand and Charles Redmond are co-chairmen for the outing; Harry Sheaffer, with Don Burton, are in charge of ticket distribution, and Vin Herzog is president of the Bethlehem Republican Club.

Chester Hawley, General Chairman of the Steakroast, reports tickets are still available from Republican committeemen and most members of the Bethlehem Republican Organization. Last year, more than 600 attended.

VILLAGE VOLUNTEERS TO HOLD FIFE & DRUM MUSTER

The Village Volunteers will hold an Ancient Fife and Drum Muster in Delmar on Saturday, Aug. 15. A parade will form at the Bethlehem Town Hall, and proceed through the four corners at 12 noon. A field day will follow at 2 p.m. at the Hamagrael grade school.

Refreshments will be served, and souvenirs will be available.

After flag raising ceremonies and welcoming speeches by various officials, music from Revolution and Civil Wars will be presented by authentically uniformed groups from throughout the Northeast. As many as four states will be represented in this muster.

the author of the letter to attend the next regular Board of Directors meeting of the Tri-Village Little League. If there are any complaints to be aired or any facts to divulge, we will appreciate hearing them.

Charles E. Kelly, President
Tri-Village Little League

Units expected to make an appearance include: the Connecticut Rebels of Danbury, Conn., Nutmeg Volunteers of Holyoke, Mass., and Colonial Greens of Mount Vernon.

A LETTER FROM OUR

Community Ambassador

Hello, Bethlehem:

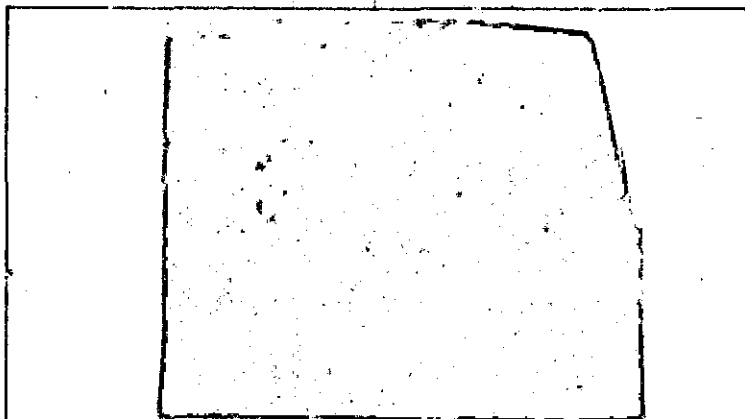

I have just returned home from my two week trip with my family. It was very interesting and very memorable. I'm sure, at this point, that I have met every relative in my family, but each time I say that, I meet another one! Each is as wonderful and hospitable as the next.

As a matter of fact, this seems to be a typical characteristic of all people in Yugoslavia. They are warm and friendly, and no matter where I am, they go out of their way to make not only me, but anybody, feel at home. They also go out of their way to help one another. Several times when my sister, Nada, and I have asked directions, the people have stopped what they are doing to walk us to our destination.

This has impressed me greatly.

From Beshenova, where I wrote my first letter to you, Nada and I traveled to Novi Sad where we stayed with our aunt and uncle for a week. This city is the fifth largest city in Yugoslavia. The city is about 800 years old, and one can see very old buildings making an interesting contrast with the very new and modern buildings. The streets are quite pretty, as all over the city, and lining the streets, there are very colorful red and yellow flower gardens.

The weather has been sunny and warm (well, HOT!) for the past two weeks, so in Novi Sad we spent much of our time on the "white sand" beaches on the Danube. The view and the beaches on the Danube are very beautiful, but contrary to popular opinion, the Danube is brown, NOT blue. The water level of the river, however, is quite high at this time, which accounts for the brown color.

We had an opportunity to visit the University Law School in Novi Sad, and to talk to the vice dean as well as the president of the university system. We went into the examination room where the vice dean was giving oral examinations to his law students. This was extremely interesting to both Nada and me.

On one bank of the Danube in Novi Sad, we went to the magnificent fortress of Petrovaradin, built in the 18th century. This fortress, having never been conquered, is today considered the "Gibraltar of the Danube." Besides the display of the excellent engineering skill of the builders of former times, it offers a beautiful view in all directions.

Our last event in Novi Sad was a picnic on the Danube with our cousins. It reminded me very much of an American picnic, but replacing the hot dogs and hamburgers was a delicious menu of pork, cooked over the fire in a pan, and smothered with onions.

We are now back in Belgrade preparing for the trip around the country that is ahead of us, beginning on July 29.

No matter where I have been, I have always found a fantastic feeling towards America. World War II had a tremendous effect on Yugoslavia (both the people and the country), and they really have not recovered from it yet. Because of America's part in the war, the Yugoslavs tend to place America on top of their "wonderful countries" list. This feeling is evident not only by their conversation, but also merely by the way they look at me when they discover that I am an American.

Their interest in America extends all the way from politics to movies. They are quite aware of all happenings in America through their newspapers, radio, and television.

It is very heartwarming to see the nationalistic spirit these people have. Although the country is literally divided by languages, the people are extremely proud of their rapidly developing country. Every store and place of business that I have been in has a picture of Tito hanging on the wall. The people just love their leader, and speak of him always with the greatest respect and with the greatest pride. They have great faith that Tito will bring their country to a high place of honor.

That's all the news from Yugoslavia for right now. I will write again from the west coast so that all of you can really be with me on my entire trip. Until then.

Zdravo!

"Everybody Loves Opal"

Now at Greenville Playhouse

EVERYBODY LOVES OPAL, a Broadway prank by John Patrick who wrote the fabled TEAHOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON, is the next attraction at the Greenville Playhouse. It opened a two-week run on Tuesday, August 11, and continues through Saturday, August 22.

Ruth Sanford, seen as the mother in COME BLOW YOUR HORN, will play the title role. Opal is an eccentric woman of indeterminate age who lives in a huge house at the edge of the town dump, collecting junk and used tea bags.

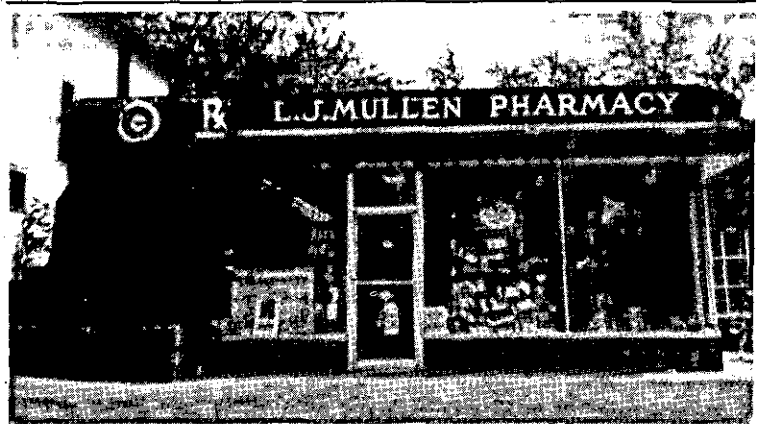

A member of the acting company at the famed Circle In Square and a former student of Herbert Berghoff and Uta Hagen. Miss Sanford has appeared at the Barn Theatre in Richmond, Va. and has a BA in history from Bates College.

EVERYBODY LOVES OPAL tells the story of three crooks - played by Charles Cragin, Betty Havens and Richard Ostrander - who attempt to do away with Opal for her insurance.

Daffy, the talkative cat who appeared in VISIT TO A SMALL PLANET will play a return engagement, along with Clait Hardenstine and Sam Havens. The three act prank is directed by C. Edwin Shade.

Curtaintime at the Greenville Playhouse is 8:30 P.M. and telephone reservations are accepted at YO 6-5294.

IRIS SOCIETY WILL HOLD AUCTION SUNDAY, AUG. 16

The Capital-Hudson Area of the Empire State Iris Society will hold its annual iris auction Sunday afternoon, August 16, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Irwin A. Conroe, on Font Grove Road, Slingerlands. The auction, which begins at 2 P.M., is open to everyone interested in securing both old and recently introduced varieties of irises at only a fraction of their catalog value. Purposes of the auction are several: first, these auctions held throughout the state are the sole source of income of this volunteer Society; second, the auctions help iris growers to dispose of their surpluses of irises; third, opportunity is provided for flower growers to procure collections of the newer and better irises, so much improved over the old varieties of yesterday.

Featured at the auction will be bargain tables where relatively inexpensive but new varieties of irises will be available without bidding and at half-price and less-than-half-price cost. The auction itself will feature the sale of irises, some of them so new as to have been introduced only in 1964. Irises in all colors and blends will be offered at the bargain tables and on the auction block. They range from deep black to snow white, with yellows, blues, violets, browns, reds, oranges, pinks and greens in between.

Preceding the auction at 12:30 P.M. will be the usual picnic luncheon at which tables and beverages are provided for those who wish to enjoy a picnic and to visit with irisarians from all over Region 2, of the American Iris Society, which comprises New York State.

Christian Science Monitor to Have Exhibit at Altamont Fair

"These are days of struggle and of danger. But they are also days of transcendent opportunity. The opportunity is to carry to all mankind the great news of our time," wrote Erwin D. Ganham, Editor-in-Chief of the Christian Science Monitor.

"The great news," he added, "is the fact that men do not need to destroy the society they have been so long and arduously building."

Visitors to the Monitor's exhibit open to the public at the Altamont Fair, August 17-22, will see behind-the-scenes views of an international daily newspaper committed to reporting the "great news" - the truly significant national and international news each day.

The exhibit shows how Monitor correspondents in 80 countries focus on important world news each day. It includes an extensive display of photo-murals which graphically picture the step-by-step production of this international daily newspaper... from the time stories arrive in the newsroom to the mailing of the finished newspaper to readers in 120 different lands.

The display is open from 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. to the public free of charge. Representatives from the Monitor will be on hand. Copies of the newspaper will be available.

that to say "no", to a child would frustrate him.

Being young and inexperienced parents, the thought that we were frustrating our little boy kept us awake nights. For with a toddler in the house, "no," was a very important and useful word.

We were, at the time, living in the upper half of a two-family house. An open staircase led downstairs to the outside door. Whenever our toddler son got too close to the top of the stair, the magic word, "no," kept him back. It should be pointed out this was at the beginning of his toddling stage when he was under a watchful eye. He began to learn that the top of the stair was a place to keep away from. When he forgot himself or thought he would check if the ban was still in force, a quick "no" was all the reminding he needed.

As soon as he became more sure of himself and, could be trusted to toddle about without constant close supervision we put a folding gate across the top of the stair. We found the gate a very useful device to keep our baby's environment as safe as possible during his very early years. A toddler may toddle out of reach, in one of those fractions of a minute when mother is occupied and there is no one to say, "no." The physical barrier is an added safeguard.

Even with the gate up, we still worked toward the goal of helping our little boy learn what he could and could not do and when necessary we used the word, "no." We felt we would rather have our little boy shed a few tears because we said "no" than have those tears be the result of an accident that could cause serious injury.

When it comes to keeping baby safe and out of danger, the word, "no" can be of extreme value. A child's safety will often depend upon this one word and how quickly it is said and obeyed. The word, "no", is at times the only way to teach a crawling baby or a toddler. You can't expect a baby to understand and to reason.

One added thought. Useful as the word, "no," is, it can be overworked and thus lose its effectiveness. Reserve it for important situations, especially as part of your baby's safety program.

LIBRARY ART COLLECTION TO BEGIN CIRCULATION

To the residents of the Tri-Village area, the Delmar Public Library has something of special interest. Seven new reproductions have been added, bringing its art collection to an even dozen. Appropriately framed, each picture may be borrowed for a period of six weeks by any library card holder. Several have already been reserved by art lovers, and all will begin to circulate in the near future. Included in the loan collection are Peter Hurd's "Rio Hondo", Feininger's "Western Sea", Rousseau's "Virgin Forest", Chagall's "Plumes en Fleures", Klee's "Lying Down", Redon's "Vase de Fleures", and Constable's "Hay Wain". It is a delightful group of famous paintings covering a range of techniques, colors, moods.

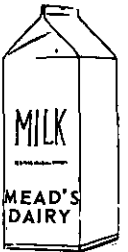

To live, even temporarily with an art treasure is an educational privilege. The Delmar Library is delighted to extend this service to its borrowers.

College Junior Course, an introduction to military life conducted annually at the United Women's Army Corps Center, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

She received a Certificate of Completion, presented by Colonel Emily C. Gorman, Women's Army Corps Director, in ceremonies marking the end of the four-week orientation program on the military training and social life of a WAC officer.

Cadet Jorgensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Jorgensen, 632 Kenwood Ave., Slingerlands, was among 100

young women representing 71 universities and colleges in 33 states who participated in this year's College Junior Course.

The program, open to women who have completed their junior year in college, gives an insight to life in the Army without obligation for future military service. After volunteering for the orientation, the women are called to active duty for one month in the Army Reserve and receive the pay of of military life included classes on military subjects and participation in inspections, parades, company duties, and field exercises.

A highlight of the program for Cadet Jorgensen was the three-day trip to Fort Benning, Georgia, where the College Junior Cadets were oriented on the U.S. Army Infantry Center and viewed demonstrations in ranger, paratrooper, and infantry training. Cadets ended their visit by taking "buddy seat" rides from the top of a 250-foot jump tower.

Cadet Jorgensen also attended a munitions demonstration here at the U.S. Army Chemical School and Center.

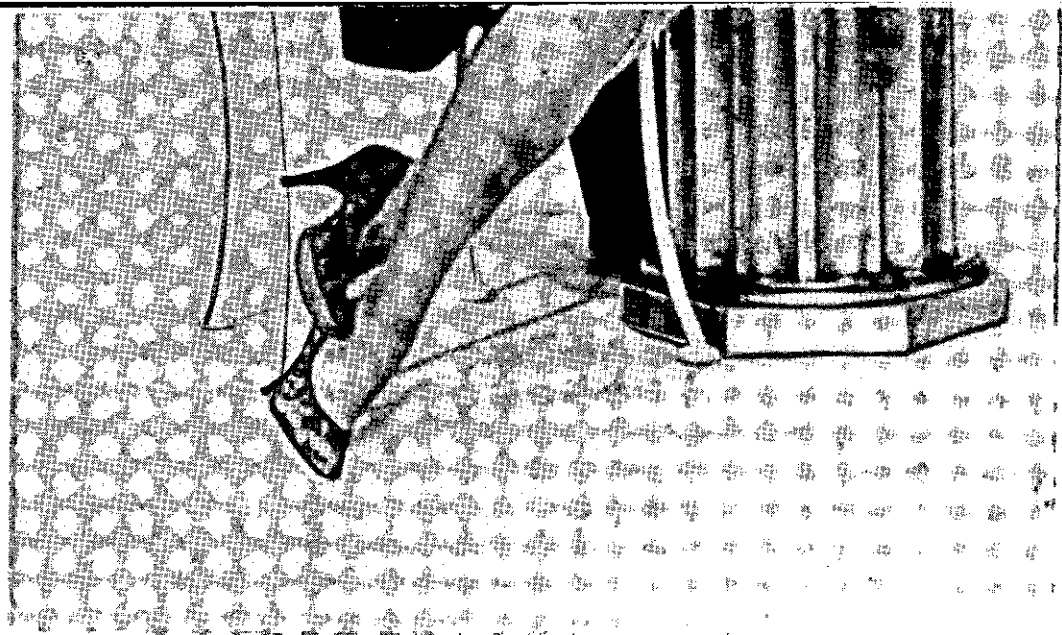

Discharged from active duty on August 7, Cadet Jorgensen will return to New York State University College at New Paltz, N.Y., to complete her senior year of college work.

Upon graduation next year, she may choose to apply for a direct commission as a second lieutenant in the Women's Army Corps, but is under no obligation to do so. Women who are commissioned are called to active duty for two years. Their first assignment is to attend an 18-week WAC Officer Basic Course, conducted here at the U.S. Women's Army Corps School twice annually.

*I had champagne taste...

At least that's what I'd always thought. When I'd hear the news from Paris and Rome, I'd stuff my fingers in my ears. I knew what I wanted and it made me unhappy to think I couldn't afford it.

So then, one day — just for fun — I went to Cohoes. Just to look. And, do you know, it was true. There were the real classics of contemporary fashion . . . the most stunning collection I'd ever seen. So magnificently simple . . . and so magnificently within my budget.

A Mr. Somebody-or-other told me that no one can stop them from dropping the price way down . . . as much as thirty-five per cent on their famous labels. That goes for shoes and sportswear and everyday and evening wear — and they seem to have much more of everything than anybody.

I wish we had room for another picture. You should see my happy face!

Many of you might be interested in knowing that a Delmar woman has recently started selling historic prints, all of them more than 100 years old, which depict scenes of Albany, the Hudson River Valley, and a few of New York City and Boston.

Mrs. Edna Dyer of 364 Delaware Ave. (directly across from the Post Office) has engravings, woodcuts and lithographs on display in her home, and invites anyone interested to stop by and look them over.

The prints were collected by James Dufty of Albany, who is employed by the New York State Division of Naval and Military Affairs, and represent years of searching on his part. Most antique dealers own a few prints, Mrs. Dyer told me, but this is a large collection of mostly local prints.

Some of them are in color and some are already framed. Besides being of historic interest, they could probably learn much to home decorative schemes. And many men, according to Mrs. Dyer, could use appropriate prints as office decorations.

The collection, which Mr. Dufty gathered as a hobby, was recently put on display at the Harmanus Bleeker Library in Albany. Mrs. Dyer said the prices range from as low as $2 up to $35 or $40.

Mrs. Berniece Angell of Herber Ave. has returned home from a two-month trip to San Francisco, Cal., Pueblo, Col., Taos, N.M., and Cheyenne, she visited her sons, Robert and Edward, and their families.

Dr. and Mrs. Roswell Fairbank of 212 Kenwood Ave. in Elsmere recently entertained two young German scholars who were on their way back home after studying for a year at the University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Hans Raubach and Mr. Hubert Oel, both from the University of Cologne and studying in this country on sociology fellowships, impressed the Fairbank family with their knowledge of all facets of American life. The two have visited every state in the U.S., and will no doubt take back more information about Americans to Europe than most of us know about ourselves.

Their dinner date with the Fairbanks, incidentally, was arranged through the International Center, so if you'd be interested in a like opportunity to meet foreign visitors, you might want to get in touch with the Center.

KITCHEN CORNER

The hammer may now be discarded as a culinary instrument: Brownulated - a granulated brown sugar - has been invented. Brownulated pours, and it doesn't turn into a rock-like chunk inside its package - two endearing qualities not possessed by its elder cousin, Other Brown. Brownulated is comfortably enconced in that place of honor from which discouraged homemakers long ago exiled cousin Other - the family sugar bowl; from whence its part light, part dark sugar taste enhances the flavor of cereals, toast, fruits, and other foods and beverages. In cooking, Brownulated can generally be successfully substituted for granulated white. The State Commerce Woman's Program reports that culinary experts who would like to take full advantage of this new sugar's potentialities can secure free recipes by sending a self-addressed envelope to Domino Sugar Brown Kitchen, Box 644, New York 5, New York.

SHOPPING IN NYC?

Visitors to the World's Fair look forward to the additional pleasure of shopping in New York, aptly described by the Metropolitan Better Business Bureau as "the greatest marketplace in the world." The Bureau emphasizes that the great majority of New York City business establishments can be patronized with full confidence in their integrity but warns that unscrupulous operators are attracted by the great number of visitors in town for the Fair. Among those they warn visitors to be wary of are:

1. Strangers who offer Something for Nothing . . . who say they have to dispose quickly of some merchandise or other and offer it at a ridiculously low price. Others to ignore are strangers offering seemingly plausible Get-Rich-Quick schemes.
2. Street vendors, whose merchandise is usually overpriced and shoddy.

"Getting a sales slip for a store purchase is a good idea," says the Bureau, "but no store is obligated to refund the money if the purchaser changes her mind after buying. Some stores will, others won't."

The State Commerce Woman's Program advises shoppers throughout the State to buy from reputable and known business firms.

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEARN

Airline jobs: Young people with their sights on an airline position are alerted by Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz to be wary of "airline training schools" which make unrealistic promises of employment, salary and fringe benefits. Attorney General Lefkowitz advises, "If you are interested in airline employment, check with the airlines to determine their requirements, then ask them to recommend a school." The State Commerce Woman's Program points out that according to the Better Business Bureau, although many young women aspire to be airline hostesses or stewardesses, airline executives often interview 50 girls to obtain one with all the qualifications necessary for these positions.

Nursing: The State Commerce Woman's Program points out that the New York State Department of Education does not recognize correspondence or mail order courses as qualification for the test an individual must take before being allowed to practice nursing. It is unlawful to practice nursing in this State without a license to do so, and anyone wanting to be a nurse in New York State must be a graduate of an approved school. New York residents have wasted thousands of dollars on mail order and correspondence courses in nursing offered by out-of-state "schools," according to the Better Business Bureau of Western New York.

TAKE A BIRTHDAY PRESENT RAINCHECK, LADIES: New Corning Ware Line Coming

This autumn a lot more china serving dishes will begin a shelved life of quiet dust-catching. About August 15th and October 1st respectively Corning Glass Works is putting two high-style lines of cook-and-serve ware on the market. The Woman's Program suggests that any housewife with a birthday coming up would be canny to take a raincheck for her present until she examines these new Corning lines.

On the market August 15th will be Corning's "Terra," a hand-crafted-looking line which features a brown, textured, earthen appearance that blends happily with Early American, contemporary, modern, Danish, or Spanish decor and is in keeping with today's emphasis on the "natural" look: floor tile that looks like marble or slate, the extensive use of wood tones and brick. Terra's "earthen" surface is fired on a white, heat-resistant glass of Pyrex Ware properties. Bowls, mugs and plates, as well as casseroles, are offered in Terra - the casseroles with flange handles and smart flat covers that can also serve as trivets.

Due October 1st are Corning Ware Buffet Servers. These are made of the famous freezer-to-range-top Pyroceram glass-ceramic in handsome new form - pure white, undecorated, round with slightly-slanted sides, and with Pyroceram glass-ceramic covers that sport a decorative free-form black knob. The line includes three saucepans and two skillets - all of which have Corning's two convenient lifting flanges and fit one detachable handle - and a hearty four-quart Dutch oven. Serving cradles of black matte-finished metal, trimmed with walnut handles, will also be available, each with a slot at one edge in which to stand the dish cover while serving.

As the Woman's Program says, "Any birthday is worth the extra year if it brings some of these new Corning products with it!"

The Truth About The New Johns-Manville Aluminum Siding!

All aluminum siding is good, but Johns-Manville Siding made by Johns-Manville is best. The Johns-Manville label means beauty, protection, savings. This remarkable material stays new looking for years. This means no paint chipping, cracking, flaking, peeling or blistering to repair or re-cover.

Carries 20 Year Guarantee
We can cover any type of home; concrete block, frame, stucco, etc. Choose from many decorator colors. This is our twentieth year in Albany County.

No other aluminum siding contractor doing work here today has been here one tenth of that time.

25% Savings
For a limited time only, Albany County homeowners can save 25%. Learn about this tremendous savings by calling this number: IV 9-0991 for a free house estimate. There is no obligation. No Money Down - Convenient Financing. You will save money by dealing with Albany County's oldest authorized Johns-Manville siding contractor. Don't delay! Call State-Wide Modernization Corporation.
