Say, HOWDY to Your Friendly Plaza Merchant

The Plaza Pharmacy, located in Delaware Plaza, was founded in 1955 and is owned and operated by George M. George who is a graduate of The Albany College of Pharmacy.

Mr. George recently completed a two-day speech training course at Syracuse offered by the Smith Kline and French Pharmaceutical Co. to community pharmacists.

"The reason I took this course," says Mr. George, "is because one of the greatest problems facing Pharmacy today is public relations. We have been given one black eye after another by headline seeking politicians, and hysterical journalists. It is time we presented our side to the public.

"The American pharmaceutical industry need take a back seat to no one. Our progress in the past 25 years speaks for itself. In the past few years we have been on the defensive. We have had to spend so much time defending ourselves that we have not had time to tell our story. Our story is a very simple one. We have actually been able to allow the American public to purchase better health through better drugs. I feel that no other industry can offer as much."

Vincent Spinosa
proprietor of Delmar Barber Shop and Delaware Plaza Barber Shop

I have been a barber for more years than I care to remember. I started barbering at the finest hotels in Albany. I opened the Shop at the Four Corners in 1922 with two chairs. I was well known in Albany and had many of my customers come to Delmar for their haircuts.

Now as you can see, we have grown with the town, and progressed to five chairs in each shop. My managers, my son, Tom, at the Delmar Shop, and my nephew, Tom Tartaglia, at the Plaza Shop, started cutting hair with me when they were in their teens and in High School. These boys, as well as the rest of the staff, are the finest barbers there are in the State. They are waiting to serve you, at your convenience, in Shops designed with your comfort in mind.

As many of you may know, Sen. Keating chose our Plaza Shop in which to have his haircut during his campaign this year.

Donald C. Streeter, who so capably manages the Grand Union Supermarket at Delaware Plaza, has been with the company 16 years, five of them at the Plaza store.

Before that he worked in a number of other communities.

Mr. Streeter takes special pride in being a Grand Union manager because of the top quality meats, "Backed by Bond," plus the wide varieties of frozen foods and dairy products.

The Plaza store also features a complete selection of fresh fish and a complete delicatessen department.

WHAT IS AN IMAGE?

The popular term "image" was not generally in use when we started Town and Tweed about ten years ago. Reputation was the word used, and we sought to establish a good one. Without setting up a formal group of rules, we try to follow these general aims:

To be truthful to the customer, even if it means the loss of a sale.

To be factual in advertising, avoiding exaggerated claims and self praise.

To retain helpful, courteous sales people.

To consciously avoid imitating other stores; to be as individual as possible in buying, merchandising and display.

To buy from manufacturers whose merchandise represents the best we can find in style, quality and value.

To give to customers every possible service and to handle their complaints in a fair and honorable fashion.

Finally, to offer variety, depth of selection and an eye for the unique.

If we've failed in any of these areas, won't you let us know?

It is always a pleasure to serve you.

Firemen Install New Alert System

The Delmar Fire Commissioners are installing a new alerting system in the Delmar Fire District. The purpose is to call the Delmar Volunteer Firemen when their services are needed.

A new horn will be installed on the Delmar Fire Hall and in addition other sounding stations will be located throughout the fire district. The reason for the outlying stations is to improve the alerting qualities, making it possible for more volunteer firemen to hear the alarm.

The new system will utilize the fire boxes which have been in use for many years. The phone calls reporting fires through the phone exchange will still be sounded from the exchange. All alarms will be code recorded on a tape in the fire hall enabling the volunteer firemen to know where the apparatus should respond.

A feature of this new system will allow voice to be transmitted over the system to individual or all sounding stations. This feature will be utilized in the event a CD "All Clear" is necessary, or if a catastrophe should warrant voice alerting to a certain section of our district. In the future, additional stations could be added as new areas are developed in our district.

Action was taken to have the latest in alerting systems installed in Delmar, when no objections were voiced at the public hearing in the Delmar Fire Hall. A visit to another community which already offers this modern, efficient alarm system to its residents, plus long and careful consideration, confirmed the need for a similar system in our own community.

"Toys for Tots"

The 11th annual "Toys for Tots" campaign, conducted by men of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve in Albany, is underway and will continue until December 18, Capt. Patrick G. McDonald, commanding officer, announced today.

"If the present campaign is as successful as those in past years, we expect to make a lot of children happy this Christmas," Captain McDonald said.

A year ago, Marines, working with local businessmen and civic groups, collected 14,000 new and used toys which were turned over to the "Toys for Tots House," which is operated by the Arbor Hill Community Center, Catholic Charities, Clinton Square Neighborhood House and Trinity Institute. The toys were then distributed by members of these organizations to area needy children.

While "Toys for Tots" came to Albany only eleven years ago, the toy drive had its beginning in Los Angeles in 1947 as a community project of the Marine Reserves in that West Coast city. Other Marine Reserve units initiated similar campaigns in their home towns in more than 200 cities and 45 of the 50 states. More than 3 million toys are collected annually.

Last year, a total of 350 families with 1,625 children were provided toys from Albany alone.

The Shell Oil Company is cooperating with the Albany Marines by setting up toy collection boxed at their service stations. Company officials and station owners will meet with the Albany Marines at a "Toys for Tots" breakfast to hear how they can assist during the drive.

Locally, Bill Stewart's Shell Station at the corner of Euclid and Delaware Avenues, is accepting "Toys for Tots."

Thank You!

Our grateful appreciation to an understanding people -. Hundreds of homes were without electric power for several hours as a result of the recent ice storm that hit our area last weekend.

In those home without light or heat, some residents found comfort in hotels or motels - but most remained at home.

Our sincere thanks to the people who offered help by offering to share their homes, and to the schools, churches, and the K of C for opening their doors - and our special thanks to the Police and Highway Departments.

We are grateful to the personnel of Niagara Mohawk

Power Co. for the speed with which power was restored.

And finally, the cooperation and understanding of the town makes the Town of Bethlehem such a wonderful place in which to live!

Treasure Tree at Library

There will be a Treasure Tree in the Delmar Library again this year. The Treasure Tree is a unique Christmas tree trimmed entirely by Tri-Villagers and their friends with trimmings destined to travel all over the world.

The trimmings may be sweaters, booties, mittens, blankets or blanket squares, balls of yarn, surprise balls (just yarn around a toy), sewing kits and school supplies. The American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) sponsor the Treasure Tree, and will see to it that the gifts reach children who need them.

Will you start your knitting now? Will you help to make this year's Treasure Tree beautiful to see, and a joy to children who need Christmas, particularly this year?

Bypass Plans Shelved

The controversial connection between the Delmar and Slingerlands bypasses has been shelved.

The State Department of Public Works notified the Town of Bethlehem it was giving up the idea because of adverse action by the Town Board November 4.

J. Burch McMorran, DPW superintendent, notified Bethlehem Supervisor Bertram D. Kohinke of the decision in a lengthy letter in which he warned that the town faced increasing traffic problems in coming years.

The Delmar Bypass now is in use between Route 9W and Murray Avenue. The Slingerland bypass is under construction from the Crosstown Arterial near the State Campus in Albany to Krumkill Road. Another section is up for bidding this month extending to Mahar Road, beyond the Norman's Kill. Eventually the road will move farther west.

A North-South connector, such as now being dropped, is badly needed engineers informed the DPW. Mr. McMorran turned further study of the problem over to the group studying Albany metropolitan area transportation.

In his letter to Mr. Kohinke, Mr. McMorran said:

"I am writing to advise you that as a result of the action of the Town Board of Bethlehem on Nov. 4, the Department of Public Works is withdrawing for the present its proposal for construction of the Slingerlands Bypass-Delmar Bypass Connection across the undeveloped gully west of Delmar.

"We have stated publicly on many occasions that this route would not be constructed without the approval of town officials. The resolution adopted Nov. 4 indicates the continuing and adamant opposition of the board to the proposal. While I recently suggested that the board reconsider its action, it seems pointless, in view of your evidently firm commitment, to proceed with the preparation of additional maps and data necessary to the holding of a public hearing.

"The department had one time previously 'shelved' its plan as a result of the opposition expressed by the board and by a number of local residents. Our most recent studies, however, have emphasized the need for another crosstown connection between Delaware Avenue and New Scotland Road - both state highways - and ultimately, between the Delmar Bypass, and proposed Slingerlands Bypass, also state facilities.

"Such a connection must be provided in the future, whether in our proposed location or elsewhere. We therefore have directed our new, reorganized subdivision of planning and programming to continue the studies of this route and integrate them with the broadscaped Capital District transportation study now being advanced by the department in conjunction with county, city and town officials in the area."

Academy Girls in Play

On Saturday, December 12, at 8:30 P.M., the Albany Academy and the Albany Academy for Girls will present as their annual joint production Jean Anouilh's ANTIGONE, a modern version of the Greek tragedy. The play creates a special effect by putting contemporary language into the mouths of actors clad in ancient Greek dress. The sets will be simple and stark, consisting of platforms and backdrops. Change of scene will be represented by change of platform level, and the basic symbolism of the play will be emphasized by special lighting effects.

Director is Mrs. Barbara Szenes, assisted by Eleanor Olcott. Campbell O'Keefe will be student technical head and stage manager, under the di-

Rocky Calls Special Session

Governor Rockefeller has summoned the Legislature into special session on December 15 to redraw district lines in as near as possible conformance with the United States Supreme Court's "one-man-one-vote" mandate on apportionment of legislative representation.

"The public importance of legislative apportionment," the Governor said, "requires that it be considered at a special session, at which the Legislature can act unburdened by the weight of other matters."

Following the Supreme Court decision, a Federal District Court set April 1, 1965, as the deadline for enactment of a conforming reapportionment.

Governor Rockefeller said he will urge enactment of a plan "within the guidelines" provided in a report, Monday, by the seven-member Citizens Committee on Reapportionment which he appointed last July to study problems posed by the high court's decision.

A major recommendation of the Committee, in proposing enactment of an interim statutory reapportionment law as the only means of complying with the Federal Court's deadline, was that membership of the Senate be increased from the present 58 to a number not exceeding 65, and that of the Assembly from the present 150 to a number not exceeding 195.

The Committee, of which Dean William Hughes Mulligan of Fordham University Law School was Chairman, said county lines should continue to be respected in any apportionment plan, except where necessary to comply with the Supreme Court's requirement of "substantial population equality among the legislative districts."

To continue the historic New York State allocation of at least one Assembly seat to each county, the Committee said, would require either "weighted voting" or "fractional voting" for some Assemblymen. It questioned the wisdom of "total weighted voting" as a matter of policy and law.

Declaring "fractional voting" in the Assembly as worthy of Legislative consideration "if multi-county or divided county Assembly districting does not meet with legislative approval," the Committee explained:

"In a fractional voting plan, no legislator would have more than a single vote. Legislators with a single vote would represent the great majority of districts. A smaller number of legislators would have a fraction of a vote, depending upon the population of the district represented."

The Committee recommended that insertion of any permanent apportionment plan into the state constitution be deferred until after the Supreme Court "delineates with greater clarity and precision the scope of the June 15, 1964, decisions."

When a constitutional amendment for that purpose "becomes feasible," the Committee said, it should provide for a four-year term for Senators, instead of the present two years, while leaving Assemblymen to be elected bi-ennially.

ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

C. Robert Gruver
Editor
All About Babies

Is it normal for a baby to be afraid? Many child psychiatrists believe that it is. They point out that all babies have basic fears during their emotional development.

The common fears of babyhood are familiar. For example, the fear of falling and the fear of a loud noise. As the infant grows, there's the fear of being separated from the parents, the fear of being hurt, the fear of darkness and the fear of strangers.

Some fears, however, are created by a specific event. The baby or child who is bitten by a dog becomes afraid of dogs. There are also fears that the parents, without meaning to, impress upon their babies. A mother who is afraid of thunder, for example, may pass her fear on to her baby.

In recent years, much has been learned about the many factors that cause fear in babies. One, that has concerned several studies is baby's instinctive fear of losing the parent's love.

When the mother-baby relationship is not sufficiently satisfying, psychiatrists say, the child may develop the fear that he will fail his parents. The child, as a result, may try too hard to live up to the expectations of his parents so they will not punish him, hurt him, or discontinue their love. This fear leads to frustrations and to behavior problems.

Quite often, it is not so much the demand a parent makes that is unreasonable, but the premature timing of the demand. One example is a mother's insistence of the early toilet training of her baby.

When too much parental pressure is put on a baby to perform at a certain time and place, say psychiatrists, the baby, afraid of losing the mother's love and afraid of being punished, may not only show resentment for the toilet but may actually develop a real fear of going to the toilet.

This is one reason why many psychiatrists suggest that mothers keep their babies in diapers until about the age of two to permit the child to pick its own time. They believe that late toilet training is more natural. It is easier upon the baby and upon the mother. It contributes to less tension, less aggravation, less fear and thus less danger of behavior problems developing as baby grows older.

Health Insurance Grows

Health insurance protects 48 million more Americans today than it did 10 years ago, the Health Insurance Institute said today.

Ten years ago, over 97 million Americans were covered by hospital expense insurance. Since then there has been a coverage increase of nearly one-and-one half times, and a total of over 145 million persons were protected against the cost of hospital care at year-end 1963, declared the Institute.

In 1953, 61 per cent of the U.S. civilian population was protected by some form of health insurance, the Institute said, while at the beginning of this year 77 per cent was so insured.

The same type of growth has been shown, said the Institute, by other forms of health insurance.

In 1953, nearly 81 million Americans had surgical expense insurance, but in the following 10 years there was a 67 per cent increase in this coverage co - which Helene Keller thought was very clean and beautiful - and Yosemite National Park. They then traveled through the Mohabi Desert, after being delayed briefly because of that white stuff.

While in California, Miss Keller took a side trip to Modesto to meet a pen pal she's been writing to since 1942, but had never met before. She said it was a thrilling experience to meet the woman she's become so close to through letters, and expects the correspondence to flourish in the future.

Miss Keller, a Tri-Village native, went to Milne High School and contracted polio while she was a pupil there. She finished up her high school studies while in Warm Springs, and then went on to graduate from Tampa University in Florida.

The late John Oliver, former town supervisor, hired her as telephone receptionist in 1951 and she's been working happily at the job ever since. Her cheerful voice makes doing business with the Town by phone a pleasant experience, and we're glad to have her back after what she terms "a lovely, lovely vacation."

The word from Jack Weaver, who's in charge of the toy repairing done each Christmastime by our Senior Citizens, is that plenty of toys have been made available and the work is in the final stages. "Tell people if they've found more toys to save them until next October," he said a few days ago.

This year, area people contributed about 25 per cent more toys than in past years, and the men and women have been working hard to get them in shape for some lucky children. The storeroom over at the Masonic Temple "looks like Macy's," Mr. Weaver told me.

and puzzles are distributed each Christmas to local families whose children might otherwise feel that Santa had forgotten them.

The White Christmas committee, our Senior Citizens and all the area churches cooperate in this yearly project. Information about needy families is obtained by the school nurses, and then members of the White Christmas committee make personal calls on the families.

Jack Weaver, who retired from the State Education Department in 1954 and lives at 14 Adams Pl., heads the Senior Citizens group which is sponsored by the Bethlehem Central Adult Education Program.

Ten lucky local families enjoyed eating turkeys this past Thanksgiving that were won in the annual turkey shoot sponsored by the Bethlehem Men's Republican Club. Charles Redmond was in charge of the turkey shoot this year.

The people who didn't have to go to the supermarket for their main dish for Thanksgiving included: J. Howard Munz, Dr. F. C. Maxon Jr., Mrs. John Glick, G. McVie, Leonard Angerame, W. Scott Prothero, Robert Foster, Lillian Rowe, John Hillman, and John Perry Jr.
