LESLIE BENDER, left, has joined the architectural firm of Hartheimer Associates. On the right is Albert S. Hartheimer, with whom the partnership agreement was made.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, is the date chosen for this year's Mardi Gras put on by Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040, American Legion. Everyone has a good time, because it is one of the few costume parties held during the winter months. Those who are in costume are admitted free; others have to pay a 'buck.' Charlie Redmond is this year's chairman — and he promises prizes, dancing, in fact everything to make the evening a 'ball.'

Two New Vice Presidents for An Ever-expanding Main Bros.

The appointment of two vice presidents by the board of directors of Main Brothers Oil Co., Inc. of Delmar, has been announced by the President, Chester L. Hawley.

Thomas A. Devane, Jr., formerly sales representative for Paragon Oil Co., has been named vice president in charge of management, and Mr. W. Alfred Baker, formerly service manager, has been made vice president in charge of heating equipment and burner service.

In his position as vice president in charge of management,

Mr. Devane will be responsible for coordinating all departments of company activity.

Mr. Devane's career in petroleum marketing began in 1953, when he joined the Albany agency of Texaco, Inc. Over the years, he served in various assignments in operations and sales work, including marketing and merchandising of service station products. He was graduated from Siena College in 1950 with a degree in Business Administration.

Mr. Devane is a member of the University Club of Albany and Big Brothers of America. Mr. Devane, with his wife, the former Miss Mary Patricia Whalen, and six children, reside at 91 Melrose Avenue, Albany, N.Y.

Mr. W. Alfred Baker was graduated from Albany Academy and from Wesleyan University. In 1947, he formed a partnership with his brother, Craig Baker, and entered the fuel oil business. In 1957, their company was purchased by Main Brothers Oil Co., Inc. and the Baker brothers joined Main Brothers.

Mr. Baker will have expanded responsibilities in developing the sale of heating equipment, both wholesale and retail.

He is active in Cyprus Temple of the Masonic Shrine, and resides at 132 Fernbank Avenue, Delmar, N.Y. with his wife, the former Miss Grace Higley.

Main Brothers Oil Co., Inc. markets petroleum products in a 4-county area, with the home office in Delmar, and a branch office in Ravena, N. Y.

an Academy Award winner as Best Foreign Film, won Grand Prize, Venice Film Festival, and several other awards. The movie deals with a crime against a merchant and his wife. The crime is enacted four times, resulting in four different stories: the bandit's version, the wife's version, the dead merchant's story as told through a medium, and finally the version as told by a witness. These four contradictory tales are woven into a completely engrossing and intriguing film that will leave the audience spellbound. The photography is remarkable, as is the music.

The overwhelming response to the Fall series of films has stimulated the Community Ambassador volunteers into bringing RASHO-MON and three other excellent foreign films into this spring series. On March 5 the Russian movie "Ballad of a Soldier;" May 7: a French thriller "Rififi;" and on June 4: the popular "Bicycle Thief."

The films will all be shown at the Bethlehem Senior High School in Delmar, beginning at 8:40 sharp. Series tickets are available at Grover's, Delaware Plaza; Delmar Public Library; and by mail from Mrs. Ernest Waller, 530 Huron Road, Delmar; or from any member of the Bethlehem Community Ambassador Project. Tickets may also be purchased at the box office.

Proceeds from these films and the Children's Film Festival will be used to send two ambassadors this year. One will live with a family in Poland, with a ten-day side trip to Russia. The other ambassador will have a family in Egypt as his or her foreign parents. The C.A.P. will also bring to Bethlehem this summer an incoming group from another country thus giving Bethlehem families a chance to adopt for part of the summer an alert young person from another culture.

Workers Needed

Watervliet Arsenal is seeking the services of 200 machine tool operators and machinists in its continuing effort to meet production demands imposed by the build up of US military strength in Southeast Asia.

Col. Fred Kornet Jr., commanding officer, says the personnel and training office is receiving applications for jobs as production machine operators who will be hired on an indefinite basis.

Meanwhile, and until these jobs are filled, approximately 1000 regular arsenal employees will be on a six-day work schedule, effective this week. Some 800 production workers plus 200 support personnel, or about one-third of the entire force will fair installations and others in various parts of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their two children live in Colonie. He is well known in the Capital District as an authority on communication skills.

Our first major snowstorm of the winter a couple weeks ago was the cause for happy celebration among a number of Tri-Village families.

I'm speaking, of course, of those hardy souls in our midst who are ski enthusiasts. And the number seems to be growing each year.

There are about 25 families, most of whom live in our immediate community, who belong to the Scotch Valley Ski Club, which is located about 60 miles southwest of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay S. Stagg of 7 Ridge Road in Slingerlands and their three sons, Christopher, 14, Berkley, 11, and Craig, 7, are regular ski slope addicts who make the trip to Scotch Valley every Saturday and Sunday and frequently during the week.

Asked to describe for me the great appeal of skiing, Mary Henry Stagg said: "It's fun, it's sociable, it's a wonderful chance to be outdoors and close to nature, it's thrilling, and it's a wonderful family sport." There's a commercial from the heart, if I ever heard one.

Both Mary Henry and Jay Stagg have skied all their lives, having been brought up in Central New York, and their boys have also enjoyed the sport since they were tiny tots. This is the second season they have been members at Scotch Valley, and they think there are many advantages to restricting their skiing to one particular spot.

Mrs. Stagg believes it's very important for children to get good ski instruction, and says it helps for them to have the same teachers over a period of time. It's sociable, too, to belong to a club, she says, because you make friends from many miles away and look forward to seeing them again each winter.

Skiing IS expensive, according to Mary Henry, but her family believes it's worth every dollar. "You certainly don't have to worry about where your kids are," she said, "when they're having a ball with you on the slopes."

The Stag family has suffered only one skiing injury to date. Young Craig broke a leg at the age of four, but it didn't dampen his enthusiasm one bit.

Other Tri-Village families who belong to Scotch Valley include those of: Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Llewellyn, 1685 New Scotland Road, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Boynton, New Scotland Road, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Longley, 1623 New Scotland Road, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Winn, Voorheesville; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Woodward, Voorheesville; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Stringham, 18 McGuffy Lane, Delmar.

Also, Dr. and Mrs. Robert King, Voorheesville; Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Carnell Jr., Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Y. Brewster Jr., 1719 New Scotland Road, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Basil Evangelesti, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Harold L.

Nelson, 76 Brockley Drive, Delmar; Mr. Neil Taylor, Slingerlands; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tetreault, Voorheesville; and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilber, Slingerlands.

Still on the subject of winter sports, William Fuller, our town and school recreation director, tells me that the place to go if you want to ice skate is the Glenmont Elementary School.

Skating conditions there this year are "the best they've ever been," according to Mr. Fuller. Much of the credit for this is due to the volunteer services of Mr. Bud Jones, owner of the Gulf Service Station at Delaware and Cherry Avenues, who has offered to be responsible for seeing that the skating area is always cleared of snow and safe for skaters.

The Junior High School tennis courts are not being maintained for skating this year, said Mr. Fuller, mainly because of the water shortage. Not so natural a rink as the Glenmont School area, the courts would require repeated hoseings of thousands of gallons of water — which might better be conserved.

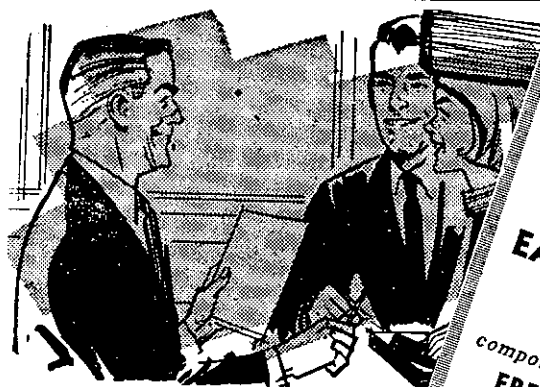

School children have been skating at the Glenmont School during noon hours and after school since the middle of December, and adults and children from the area are welcome to skate there on weekends.

For those who live in the other part of town, Herrick's Pond in Slingerlands is being maintained for skating, as it has for many years, by members of our local American Legion post. Special events for youngsters are sponsored on most Saturdays.

Take These Travel Tips

If the "open road" seems to be a bit crowded, here is why more than 105 million Americans are expected to take pleasure trips 100 miles or more from their homes before the year's end. Of those who stay within U.S. borders, 90 per cent will travel by car.

Collectively, they'll spend an amazing $22 billion on vacation fun. But whether they come home feeling well-rewarded or badly "soaked" will depend mainly on their own travel sense. Will you get the most per vacation day and dollar?

Before you start out, pay a visit to your service station for a car checkout. Have them check the oil and oil filter, tires, battery and the electrical system.

Also ask them to check the radiator, brakes, wheel alignment and steering linkage. A good service station can make these checks plus others such as exhaust pipes, lights and shock absorbers in about five minutes. Now, for the vacation itself.

1. Start out well-informed. The more you know in advance about weather patterns, prices, local attractions, food and lodgings along your route, the more realistic your itinerary - and your budget - can be. Pump well traveled friends (or a travel agent); clip out pertinent magazine and newspaper articles. Major oil companies are gold mines of information; a Trip Request card filled out at a local service station can bring you free literature, maps, even an expense book.

2. Plan ahead of disappointment. Even if you don't want to be hedged in by schedules, at least make an advance hotel or motel reservation for your first stop. That way you'll be surer of starting your vacation on the right note, avoiding fatigue and frayed nerves just when gaiety should be the mood. For subsequent stops, phone ahead at noon to be sure of a place to stay - or stop driving by 4 P. M. to assure yourself a choice of rooms. If your first motel belongs to an association that maintains a free reservations service among its members, that is one worry off your mind.

3. Dress and pack for trouble-free travel. Whenever you can, make one outfit do the work of two. Concentrate on wrinkle-resistant fabrics in soil-concealing patterns or deep colors; this goes double for children's wardrobes! Women will travel more comfortably in beltless, easy-fitting styles. To be avoided: the narrow skirt that rides up and wrinkles as you sit in the car. Take only shoes of proven comfort; those you are "breaking in" may break you first! On most trips, say experts, women do best with three bags, men with two: a large one that can sometimes be left in the car, a smaller one for overnight stops.

4. Get the most out of maps. Last year's map won't show this year's road construction. The American Oil Company reports that the 18 million highway maps it plans to distribute this year incorporate thousands of changes reflecting progress in the new interstate highway system. As a special bonus for travelers, the state maps have points-of-interest panels describing local landmarks.

Once you've gotten your new map, use it to the fullest. Mark out your route in ink or colored pencil; circle "must-see" spots along the way. Why not mark in the locations of fine restaurants you've heard about?

Orient your map as you travel,

5. "As You Travel, Ask Us." That nice fellow you see walking his dog as you drive into a strange town may or may not be able to help you with motel locations — and his idea of a "nice restaurant" may leave you shaking your head. Why take chances? Check with those who really know; service stations entitled to display an "As You Travel, Ask Us" sign are equipped to offer town-by-town, city-by-city information on food and lodgings, recreation areas, locations of churches, hospitals or doctors. In addition, they receive monthly road condition bulletins and information about the nation's "Top 20" travel events.

6. Sightsee — but sensibly. Don't feel you must see all the sights; if you attempt it, you will wind up with sore muscles and blurred memories. Alternate periods of sightseeing with blissfully "do-nothing" sessions. Plan sightseeing to please all age groups in the family. Young children love zoos and animal farms; older ones will appreciate landmarks which tie in with school history and geography lessons. Industrial tours are treats for youngsters from ten through teen-age — and for their parents as well. Don't suffer through sights just because you think you should; if art museums don't thrill you at home, why would they excite you in a strange city?

7. Don't "relax" too hard. The same rule of reason applies if yours will be mainly a "back to nature" vacation. Take every precaution to avoid sunburn — and remember that children can stand just about half as much sun as you can. When you go in for an ocean dip, remember that high waves and breakers take more out of you, more quickly than swimming in a quiet pool. If you've been sedentary all year, take your tennis, golf or horseback riding in small doses at first.
