Dairy School

The second half of the Albany County's Extension Dairy School will be held at the Community Church, Clarksville, on February 23.

Cornell Professors Meek and Hundtoft will concentrate on Management of a Modern Dairy Farm. The school is designed to answer questions regarding feed and forage production, materials handling and herd management on efficiently operated dairy farms. The school will open with Professor Meek to discuss "Why do we have to keep running to stand still?" This will be followed by Professor Hundtoft discussing "Materials handling from harvest to storage." After lunch Prof. Meek will talk about new barn installations, free stalls, breeding programs, balancing proteins with heavy corn feeding and managing high-moisture corn.

Professor E. B. Hundtoft is an Extension Agricultural Engineer who works primarily in the area of forage harvesting methods and equipment.

Professor A. M. Meek, a native of Scotland, who has served as a herdsman and foreman in several Ayrshire herds, earned his Ph.D. at Iowa State in animal breeding. At Cornell his major responsibilities are extension and research work in dairy cattle breeding and management.

Lunch will be available at noon. It is not necessary to make reservations according to Leonard Palmer, Cooperative Extension Agent, Albany County Extension Service. All dairymen are encouraged to attend this important and informative session.

be presented in the Auditorium of School No. 24, Lincoln Park, Delaware Avenue, Albany.

This is a fascinating pictorial study in color of an area now endangered by ditching, pollution, and the encroachment by man. The scenes are taken at Delaware Bay and its tidewater marshes which support a vast array of wildlife. Dr. Regensburg discusses the intimate relationship between the denizens of the land and sea - greater snow geese, migrating shorebirds, willet and gull. Depositing eggs in the sand are the horseshoe crab and diamond-backed terrapin, while in the water we find the whelk, oyster drill, seahorse, and scavenger snail.

Conservationists and those who enjoy TV's popular program Wild Kingdon, will be thrilled by the colors and appeal of the Audubon Wildlife Films.

safety available to parents and young adults today. The Capital District area serves as the backbone for the water recreation programs of Northeastern New York State, and its citizens through their water safety skills play the dominant role in preventing loss of life attributable to water activities. The American Red Cross urges each person to avail himself of training to develop swimming and lifesaving skills, whether or not they envision professional lifeguard or water-front staffing activity as their goal. The ultimate goal must necessarily be self and family preservation while engaging in water activities.

The training program is under the direction of James Daly of Voorheesville, Assistant Director of Water Safety. Enrollment may be made by calling the American Red Cross Headquarters, 465-7301.

Reading Improvement course and a 10-week Personality Development course for girls.

The Speaking, Listening and Analyzing course was created especially for pre-college students by college graduates who analyzed their own college-day learning problems.

The Reading Improvement course prepares the student to better handle the increased reading load demanded in college. Personal Typewriting is designed to teach the student the basics of typewriting, a necessary skill in preparing college papers.

PREP program instructors will be members of the regular ABC faculty while Mrs. Rosalind Lang, author of her own book on "Charm," will instruct the Personality Development course.

"Wheels"

The Rotary Club of Delmar has longed played an important role in the life of the Delmar Public Library. Every fall its members have donated the ribbons and medals presented to the winners of the annual Library outdoor art show, the Bizarre Bazaar. But more than that, the library has received books and periodical services which however desireable, would not have easily fitted into its budget.

All of these gifts have been quietly given so it is of particular interest to note that the Library is to be presented with a set of Rotary Club seals. These will be attached to the books the Club has donated. From now on, when you pull a book from the shelves and see the Rotary "Wheel," you will quickly recognize that book was presented by the Rotary Club of Delmar.

Softball

The Helderberg Night Softball League is now organizing for the 1966 Season. The League is seeking 2 teams to complete a six team league. Teams must be completely uniformed and have a deposit for the league entry fee by March 1st.

The league field is located in Altamont and is 30 minutes driving distance from the Tri-Village area. All games are under the lights and start promptly at 8:30 P. M.

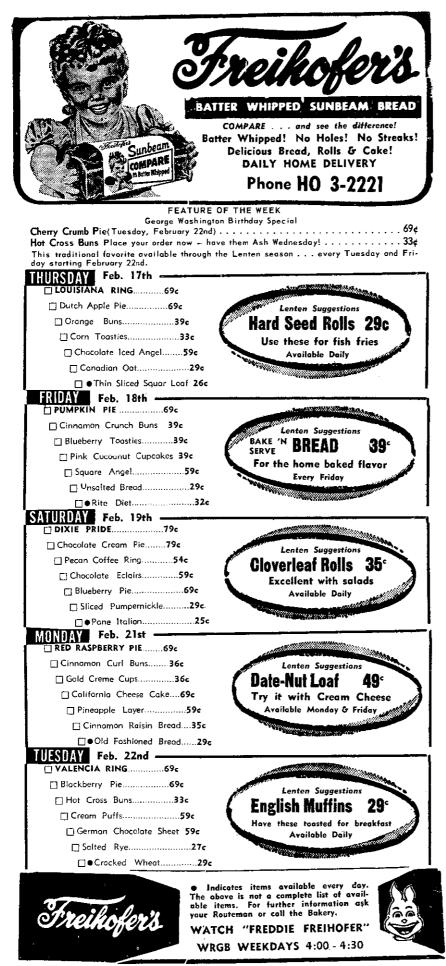

Interested teams and players can call Ken Duell at PO 8-2030.

Ideal Teen-ager To Be Here

The only Capitol District appearance of Colette Daiute, Miss Teenage America, will take place on Tuesday, February 22, when the "ideal American teen-age girl" speaks on "Driver Safety for Teenagers" at Cardinal Mc-Closkey High School, Albany, for the High School Red Cross Council of the Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross.

Dr. John A. Ether, Chairman of High School Red Cross for the Albany Chapter has invited more than 800 students from area High Schools to participate in this event, along with Driver Education personnel from the schools.

Frank Crowley, Student Chairman of High School Red Cross, a student at Cardinal McCloskey High School, has announced that tickets have been sent to all the participating schools, and may be obtained through the Red Cross Teacher-Sponsors at the schools.

In addition to the appearance of Miss Teenage America at 2 P. M. a press conference for school newspaper reporters will be held from 10 to 10:45 A. M.; and a luncheon will be given at noon, following which Albert M. Danzig, Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles will speak.

A native of Paramus, N. J., Colette Daiute is in the midst of her reign as Miss Teenage America. Her duties include visits to groups throughout the nation as Youth Safety Spokesman for Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Company. Her talk will include the basics of driver safety, and motion picture illustrations of those basics. Following her remarks she will distribute autographed copies of a teenage safety tip booklet, entitled "How to Earn the Key to Dad's Car."

turers have set up accelerated aging programs which put their products through the paces of normal office living for up to four times the average life span of a human being.

Albany District Manager, J. S. Night and day, without interruption, the accelerated aging process has the machine typing 82,000 paragraphs, of what appears to be some unintelligible language.

"Reliability Engineering" is the term the experts give to this kind of "living your life in a hurry." It's a field well known in military contact work which is now being applied to the business equipment industry.

LETTER

Dear Sir:

At the regular meeting Thursday night of the "Committee that Cares," members were gratified by the grateful acknowledgments of their monthly remembrances to our boys in Vietnam -15, in all, to date.

Letters, cards and even a ham radio phone call from 10,000 miles away expressed their pleasure not only with the gifts but with the hometown support and concern for them.

News from home in the "Spotlight" gift was most appreciated. Thanks to the publicity given by them, clubs and individuals have responded generously. Schoolteachers as well as pupils, Brownie troops, Scouts and many individuals have kept the mails busy through the holidays.

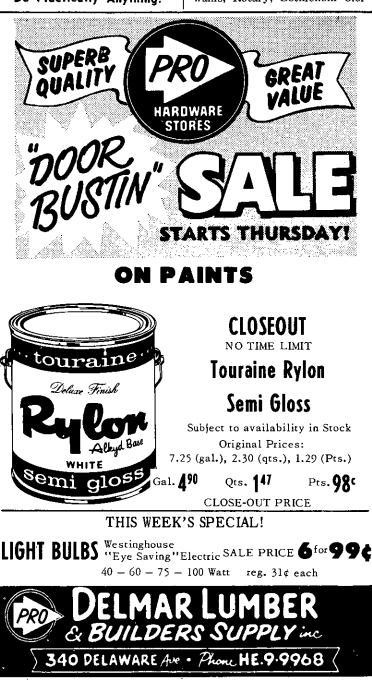

Tie-ins with "Operation Good Will," The Times-Union and W-Ten brought tapes and movies of parents and loved ones. The Camera Club gave of their time and talents for family photos for the February gift. Tad's of Delmar cooperated with the gift of an album wallet. Buell Duplicating Service of Rensselaer donated a supply of labels for packaging. Mr. O'Neil donated pocket notebooks and pens.

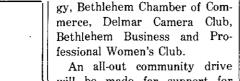

Discounts were given by Woolworth's for the Christmas packages under sponsorship of Blanchard Post American Legion. Included were paperback books,

Pitch In – It's Your Town!

If you have the ability to be an executive in today's competitive world — if you have what it takes to manage a store or a department, hold down a supervisory job in office or factory or serve as a club officer — then you have it in your power to do your community and yourself a big favor.

Executive talents are sorely needed in the fight for improved health facilities . . . more museums and theaters . . . fewer slums. With an estimated 1,000,000 new seats needed each year in elementary schools across the nation (and 875,000 in high schools), it's a rare community indeed that doesn't have a school problem! Equally pressing is the problem of guiding youngsters who are often badly confused about values. According to Junior Achievement, a teen-age business program, 40% of the teen-agers polled in a recent survey could name no advantage of capitalism over communism — and these are tomorrow's executives!

No matter what your particular executive skills, you'll find fulfilling use for them in at least one of these public-spirited ways.

Happily, more and more executives are pitching in to meet community needs — often with strong anguagement from their "Politics," says Eric M. Javits, author of SOS New York, "is the world of decisions affecting nearly every part of your life." You are "too busy for politics" at your peril — and your community's!

First, inform yourself on the issues. Carefully read newspaper accounts of city and state, af-governments — if you don't, who will?

2. Working for better schools. Executives throughout the country have found a surprising number of ways to improve their communities' school systems. In one city, a citizens' advisory committee was organized with the help of the school board to investigate such problems as outmoded buildings, needed curriculum changes, teachers' salaries. In another community, a group of builders decided to build a ten-room school and give it to the town! Industrial scientists in still another city de-

3. Helping youngsters become better citizens. You can do this by leading a Boy Scout troop, 4-H group or other youth organizations or by encouraging your club or business firm to sponsor a citizenship essay contest. Many businessmen in large and small companies alike find it particularly satisfying to counsel a Junior Achievement company staffed entirely by teenage tycoons!

Under the guidance of adult advisors from business and industry, who help them organize and manage their own small businesses, high school youngsters across the country are learning first-hand about the free enterprise system, developing self-confidence and building leadership ability. If you are interested in helping, you can receive a free pamplet, "Building the Future," by writing to Junior Achievement, Inc., 51 West 51st Street, New York, N. Y., 10019.

4. Fighting urban blight. Almost any size town can fall prey to the tragedy of urban blight: rundown neighborhoods developing into slums, obsolete business sections, traffic jams choking inadequate roads.

If you think you need training in city planning to combat these problems - yoù don't! Expert help is available through AC-TION (American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods), a nonprofit organization which works through citizens' groups, merchants and business organizations to bring interested amateurs together with professional planners and government officials.

5. Expanding cultural and recreational facilities. Does your town need library facilities? If so, how many and what kind? Which is more needed and wanted: a community theater or a municipal concert hall? Should athletic facilities be expanded with more tennis courts - or a new ball park?

Very often, the best place to begin community action on such problems is with a community survey. One expert, hired to direct a pioneer recreation program in a new California community, began with three separate questionnaires, carefully designed to appeal to different age and interest groups: elementary school children, teenagers and adults. You can apply his technique of taking the community pulse to gain greater support for community improvements.

These are just a few of the

Merchants Meet to Solve Problem

On February 8, a group of Four Corners Area Merchants met at the National Commercial Bank to form an association and to discuss the parking problem and how to make better use of available parking facilities. Also discussed was a sales promotion for the near future.

Richard Haverly was named temporary chairman with Mrs. Nicholas Vitillo as temporary secretary.

A Resolution was passed calling for the elimination of merchant's and employee parking in those places which would be better suited to customer parking.

It was pointed out that, in addition to street parking, additional customer facilities are available behind Adams Hardware, Delmar Bakery, Delmar Meat Market, next to the Delmar Pharmacy, in front of Ann's Hat Box, Brownell Realty and Insurance, Dorothy Lynn and Star Market. Also available is the Main Bros. parking lot next to the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company, and behind Schnurr and Wood on Kenwood Avenue.

All Delmar merchants are urged to attend the next meeting on February 23 at 8 P. M. at the National Commercial Bank.

Frequently one relies upon clothing to help form first impressions about others and vice versa. Therefore, it is quite natural to want clothing to be flattering.

Line is a major factor in the development of a pleasing appearance and deserves first place in one's choice of style. Lines may be used to emphasize good features and minimize poor ones.

Mrs. Marie Smith, home economist with the Rensselaer County Cooperative Extension Service, will discuss the use of line in clothing on Table Talk, Wednesday, February 23, at 8:00 A. M. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Karen Hull, hostess of Table Talk, will also discuss Textile Labeling and the information required by law to be on the label. A Cornell Extension bulletin on "Textile Labeling" will be offered free of charge to viewers.

Fashion Show

"Seeing Europe with One Suitcase" will be the theme of the fashion show to follow a gourmet luncheon for faculty wives of the State University of New York at Albany and their guests on February 22. Mrs. Herman Rasker of Town and Tweed in Delmar will be the commentator to prove it can be done - and elegantly.

Home Show

The Albany Home Show will open on Saturday, March 5, for an 8-day run at the Washington Avenue Armory in Albany. This year, the Show will feature a hundred exhibits and unusual Major Prize Awards including a spectacular vacation home and lot. The home will be constructed on the floor of the Armory. Visitors may pass thru it. They will see modern design and decor as designed by students from the RPI School of Architecture. The lot is located at Whispering Pines, Kinderhook Lake, New York. The winner will receive both home and lot and does not have to be present to win.

Admission will be one dollar. Children under 12 free, if accompanied by adult.

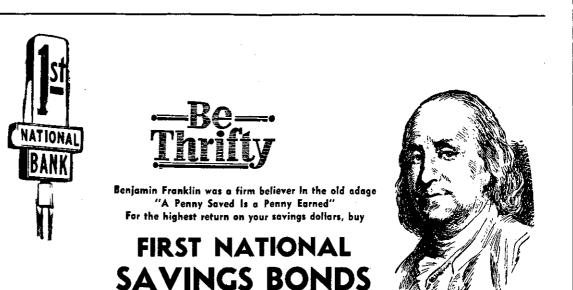

Show hours will be from 5

P. M. to 10 P. M., Monday thru Friday and 2 P. M. to 10 P. M. Saturday and Sunday.

The second major Prize Award will be a 1966 Chevrolet Corvair Hardtop from Marsh Hallman

First National Savings Bonds will pay off at the bank-guaranteed annual rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}\%$  — and bonds are self renewing.

And your money is not "frozen". Bonds may be cashed 6 months after purchase, or on any 6 months anniversary, thereafter without notice. And you get interest at the rate of 41/2 % per year.

Between 6 month anniversaries bonds may be cashed with interest for odd months computed at 4% per year.

The 41/2% interest rate is not an anticipated dividend, not subject to changing economic conditions. It's a fixed, bank-guaranteed return on your savings investment.

Bonds and rate of interest are backed and guaranteed by First National. And every depositor is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

First National Income Bonds are sold in multiples of $100 with a $500 minimum. Your 41/2 % per year is paid by check semi-annually.

You won't find any family in the Tri-Village more enthusiastic about foreign student exchange programs than Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Tremer of 237 Kenwood Avenue. They currently have as their house guest Miss Graciela DiFtasi, 18, who is from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Their daughter, Carolyn, who is also 18, spent nine weeks in Chile last summer under the same program that sponsors Graciela's visit hore – the American Youth Exchange.

Graciela arrived in Albany in early January, and will leave for home on March 25. She hopes, however, to live in our country eventually. "She just loves the United States," Mrs. Tremer told me.

Although she doesn't speak English too easily yet, Graciela is a vivacious, out-going, very attractive young lady who can get her thoughts across to people by means of dramatic pantomine techniques. Mrs. Tremer describes her as "simply charming" and says Graciela was completely relaxed and at ease from the moment she got here.

Carolyn Tremer is now a Freshman at the University of Rocheater, having been graduated from Bethlehem Central last June, but she's been able to spend some time at home lately because of the mid-semester recess. Two weekends ago, the Tremers took Graciela to New York City where they met the father and brother of Carolyn's Chilean "family." (The father works there most of the year, and the brother was visiting him.)

A highlight of their two-day stay in New York was their visit to the United Nations, where they took a Spanish-led tour. "I'm afraid it was mostly wasted on me," Mrs. Tremer admitted, but the three young people enjoyed it immensely.

Young Graciela is attending classes at Bethlehem Central for these few weeks, and especially likes her course in design and singing in the chorus. Her two great loves are music and art, and she hopes to be a commercial artist someday.

It took Graciela all of three days in town to attract interest on the part of our male teenage population, and she's already been to a school dance, the movies, and other casual outings with her new friends. She even went ice skating the other day - and was chagrinned at her lack of skill. Our cold, snowy weather is, of course, new to her, and she has pronounced it "terrible, terrible" - with a big, forgiving smile.

Mr. and Mrs. Tremer strongly believe that getting to know individuals from other countries is THE answer to the world's problems. "To know these people is to love them," Mrs. Tremer said, "and you don't drop bombs on people you love."

She wishes more people would participate in such exchange programs, so if you're interested in learning more about how you can — or about the Tremers' experiences — just give them a call. And try to meet Graciela — she's a real darling.

Judy Miller is a proud wife these days — it's her husband Dr. Alan D. Miller, who's just been appointed New York State Commissioner for Mental Hygiene.

The Millers live at 99 Dumbarton Road in Elsmere, and have five children: Matt, 19, a sophomore at Amherst College; Karen, 16, a junior at Bethlehem' Central; Julia, 13, an eighth-grader at Bethlehem Junior High; Margaret, 5, who attends kindergarten at the Elsmere Elementary School; and Dan, 3, who is all signed up to start nursery school next fall.

Mrs. Miller told me the other day she's very pleased and excited about her husband's new position, and expects that the only change in family life it may bring about is an increase in the amount of formalized socializing and entertaining they do. "We all enjoy meeting people," she added, indicating that this will be no hardship.

The Miller family has lived in Elsmere for about a year and a half, and before that lived in Bethesda, Maryland. Judy Miller is herself a psychologist and spends some time each week at the Albany Study Center for learning Disabilities, working with children.

(I asked her, as a psychologist, for her secrets of success in raising children. She said she believes in: "Much affection, much

LET'S GO TO ALBERTA

Thousands of Americans from all parts of the country, who pack their bags each year and head north for Alberta, have discovered that a vacation in the Canadian Rockies can be one good way to have a change of pace and combat winter boredom.

Besides towering mountain peaks, dramatic ski lifts and high country skiing on spectacular powder snow, Alberta offers the winter vacationer distinctive cuisine, attractive modern accommodations, the camaraderie of apres-ski evenings and the sense of well-being that comes with easing tired muscles in one of the province's famous hot springs pools. But the delights of the mountain playground aren't for skiers alone. Hockey, curling, skating, tobogganing and snowshoeing are also available to the winter sportsman. And for camera enthusiasts, there are panoramic views of the majestic Rockies.
