AN AIRPLANE ON THE CARPET is odd enough. But, how did they get it through a doorway only seven feet wide? At Jamaica Inn on the Troy-Schenectady Road they solved the problem by taking off the wing and tail assembly first. Then it ook four men eight hours to have this Cessna Skyhawk sitting pretty. All the preparations were for 100 aircraft dealers from New York and New England who met at Jamaica Inn for a sales conference Thursday. Walt Glass (above) of Schenectady, owns the plane. He said that it's usually a problem of "how and where" to display aircraft "inside." He added that all attending were on time for the meeting — they flew their own planes to the Capitol District!

Ambassador Will Speak

A peek into a modern Polish apartment and a first-hand look at the impact of the Berlin Wall are just two of the many experiences awaiting audiences of Tim Thornton, Bethlehem Community Ambassador for 1966.

After spending the summer living with a Polish family in Krakow, and visiting other parts of Poland and Germany, Tim now has a pretty fair idea of what is fact and what is fiction in what we hear about life under communism.

He knows the nervous feeling of being stopped at night by security police for a check of identification papers, which everyone in a communist state must carry. He has seen the changes brought to Poland by a communist regime and discovered the extent to which the Poles accept these changes. He understands the immensity of the crime at Dachau after visiting there with his Polish friends and seeing it through the eyes of those who have lost loved ones.

These and many other experiences are part of the story Tim will report to the community in his forthcoming year of slide lectures. He will be the featured speaker tonight at 8 P.M. in the dining room of the Bethlehem Senior High School at a meeting of the Bethlehem Community Ambassador Program.

Let's Go To Voorheesville

Workers are putting the finishing touches on arrangements for the Voorheesville Methodist Church Auction-Bazaar on Saturday, October 1.

Chairmen are making final preparations for stocking the booths with home baked goods, candy, produce, plants, gifts, white elephants, toys and used clothing, books and numerous other items.

Those in charge of the auction are busy picking up last-minute donations of antiques and household goods to go with the large number of items already on hand. James Dunn will be the auctioneer.

The cooks are working out final details for peeling vegetables and preparing the meat for the popular family style roast beef supper.

Others are arranging a place for the pony rides, laying out the route for the horse drawn stage coach rides, getting prizes for the fish pond, working on games for the children, or erecting a stand for the band.

The best way to display several hobbies is the problem of another committee. This display will feature guns, pistols, ceramics, gardening, decorative tiles and crocheting.

Booths will open at 10:00 a.m.; the auction starts at 12:00 Noon; and supper will be served from 4:00 p.m. to 7 p.m. Refreshments will be available all day.

Work Begins At Selkirk

When the president of the New York Central Railroad laid the first piece of track for the expanded freight yard at Selkirk, an important step in a program announced four years ago was taken.

Four years and two months ago, the railroad promised a new mulit-million electronic freight yard at Selkirk if its merger plans with the Pennsylvania Railroad were approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission The $19.7 million classification yard is part of a $70 million capital expansion program that includes four other installations.

Even as construction moved quickly to beat a winter cut-off date, a federal court, has issued an order restraining the two rail giants from proceeding with their merger, which had been slated for October 1. The court said it would study applications from nine other railroads who want a temporary injunction against the merger until their protests can be resolved by the ICC.

The yard is to be named for the road's president, Alfred E. Perlman. A completion date of the spring of 1968 is the target.

When completed the new facility will triple the present size of the yard, to make it the major facility in the state for handling east-west traffic on the Central.

The railroad has tied this expansion to the recent repeal of the state's "full-crew" law, signed into law by Governor Rockefeller in June.

Presently, the yard handles 50 freight trains a day. The electronic classification yard will eliminate much of the intermediate shuffling of trains as they are sorted, said Wayne R. Maddock, resident engineer, in an interview this week.

The yard also will replace facilities for cars and locomotives currently located in West Albany and DeWitt.

The precise impact on employment can't be ascertained immediately from the company, although it is expected that the new repair shops will require additional men. However, it is also likely that the use of electronic equipment will make possible a smaller work force eventually. A spokesman for the railroad said 'no estimate . . . is yet available."

"One man will be able to punch a button," Mr. Maddock said, "after computation of all the factors — such as wind velocity, weight and weather — so that the cars will roll over the "hump" and into the right classification track."

Almost 175 miles of new double track will be laid for the expanded facility, said Mr. Maddock.

The system will permit all trains coming out of the yard to go out as "one group," he added, meaning headed for one destination. Now trains go out with several groups, a less efficient method according to Mr. Maddock.

On a recent visit, the area to the south of the present yard lay empty, denuded of all its trees and shrubbery, along a stretch nearly a mile long and 500 feet wide. Giant electric-diggers which cost $250,000 each, shoveled the thick red clay into the wide maws of three "pans." The pans commuted back and forth, picking up the dirt in one area and laying it down as fill in another area, in endless noisy runs.

Other smaller diggers were at work too, backed up by bull-dozers

After the entire area is fully graded, sub-ballast and then ballast will be laid down, until the land is ready for track. Fully 175 miles of new double track will be laid for the expanded yard, which is expected to be in full operation by the spring of 1968.

Meeting

3 Candidates

Seen mapping their strategy for the coming Fall election campaign are three of the Albany County Democratic candidates. On the right Richard J. Connors, President of the Albany Common Council and candidate for the 29th Congressional District to succeed veteran Congressman Leo W. O'Brien shows some of his plans to Augustus H. Mattick Jr., candidate for Superintendent of Highways for the Town of Bethlehem and Robert P. Connolly candidate for Town Councilman on the Democratic slate for the Town of Bethle-

Mr. Connors, a veteran of the Army Signal Corps during the Second World War served in the South Pacific as a cryptographer. He is very active in American Legion affairs and resides in Albany with his family consisting of his wife and four children.

Mr. Mattick is a resident of Selkirk, New York where he resides with his wife the former Sondra Hawkins and their two children. He is a graduate of Christian Brothers Academy, Albany and is employed by Armour & Co.

Mr. Connolly operates his own insurance agency in Albany and is a resident of North Bethlehem. He is a graduate of Siena College and besides his wife, the former Virginia Kelly, resides with his five daughters.

Proposed Sewage System

A plan recommending the construction of a $7,945,000 sewage collection and treatment system would "provide adequate collection capacity to meet the ultimate requirements of the Town of Bethlehem."

This is what town officials were told at an informal session recently as most of them got their first close look at the plan prepared by J. Kenneth Fraser Associates, consulting engineers under contract to Malcolm Pirnie.

The plan recommends abandonment of the present primary treatment plant serving the Delmar-Elsmere Sewer District, construction of a secondary treatment plant on the Hudson River, and formation of a new sewer district encompassing Karlsfeld, Hurstville, Slingerlands, Hamagrael, Bethlehem Center and Glenmont.

Of the total cost of the project $4,392,000 would be eligible for 60 per cent state and federal aid. With the outside aid, the cost to the district would be $5,310,000.

This would mean a first-year cost of $39.40 per $1,000 in assessed valuation on homes in the new district, and a charge of $4.95 per $1,000 within the Delmar-Elsmere District.

QUALITY BAKING IS OUR TRADITION

John Burnstead of the State Health Department, who attended the meeting, reported that construction costs are rising at a rate of 5 per cent a year, and said, "The longer people wait, the harder they're going to get hit. This is the crucial point. The construction industry is strained."

Engineer Kenneth Fraser, noting that the state is ordering completion by September 1, 1970, said "There isn't a great deal of time. This thing must be progressed and progressed rapidly."

Supervisor Bertram E. Kohinke's lone question was, "When can we get going?"

James Fraser replied, "To meet this schedule, you'll virtually have to start design by early next year."

Merwyn Atwood, executive secretary of the Delmar-Elsmere District, expressed one of the fears most prevalent among those at the meeting when he said, "It is easy to make plans, but what happens if the homeowners don't want it."

The answer, according to Thomas Quinn of the Albany County Health Department, is that the situation then becomes the individual homeowners responsibility.

The DelmarElsmere District, along with Slingerlands and Selkirk, have been cited for pollution and ordered to correct the situation by 1970.

To handle Selkirk's problem, the engineers recommended the construction of a pumping station and the installation of a connection to the proposed system. Depending on how large a portion of Selkirk would be serviced, the cost would be from $94,980 to $191,880 with state and federal aid.

Operation, maintenance, and debt service costs for the proposed project would be $476,200 a year with aid grants.

Alternatives to the recommended plan would be construc-

Home Study Courses Ready

Applications are now being accepted for two home study courses in conservation offered by Cornell University.

The courses will begin October 1, announced Prof. Richard J. McNeil, conservationist, N.Y. State College of Agriculture.

The first course, consisting of seven lessions, is entitled "Conservation of Natural Resources." It reviews the history of conservation in North America, and outlines the principles on which present-day wildlife management are based.

The importance of soil, water, forest resources, and wildlife management are discussed as well as problems of their present use and management for future generations.

The second course, designed for people with some background in conservation or those who have taken the first course, is entitled "Current Topics in Natural Resources."

It explores, in some depth, eight subjects including the changing use of land, the forest preserve, water resources and pollution, the barge-canal system and deer in New York State.

The fee for each course is $10 and includes lessons and text books. Completed lessons will be corrected by Cornell's conservation department staff and returned with comments to each correspondent.

McNeil reported more than 600 people between the ages of 14 and 78 enrolled in the two courses last year. Included were housewives, doctors, lawyers, laborers, fiction writers, ma-

Landscaping

This is a good time of year to take a look at your property. Is it landscaped to suit you? Are there changes you'd like to make? Or, are you living in a new house and with a total landscaping job facing you?

If you are planning to do any landscape work then one of the following bulletins, prepared by specialists at the College of Agriculture at Cornell, should be helpful.

"Foundation Plantings About the House" gives some ideas on where to plant tall and short growing shrubs, how to handle high foundations and how to plant around a split level house. "Shrubs for Landscape Plantings in New York State" is a companion to "Foundation Plantings . . . " It lists shrubs that are hardy, tells how tall they will grow, what color the flowers will be and what the spacing from the house, walk and other shrubs should be.

"Landscape Design for Residential Properties" will help you place trees to best frame your house. It also discusses that layout of the total proper-. ty including an outdoor living area, play area, garden, etc.

Other bulletins that will be of help include "Ornamental Vines for Landscape Planting," "Ground Covers - Carpets for Outdoor Living" and "The Home Lawn."

Be sure to request your copy of the above bulletins from the Albany County Extension Service.

Soil Testing

Very often people call the Extension Office to inquire about soil testing. There is no magic in soil testing, however, it is one guide to planning lime and fertilizer programs.

Two soil testing services are available through the Extension Service, First, and most important, is the analysis for lime needs. This analysis records the acidity of the soil. Knowing the acidity and the type of soil, a skilled person can recommend the proper amount of lime to correct the acidity if necessary. A soil test is the only way if your soil needs lime.

In some situations it is desirable to learn more about the nutrient levels of the soil. To do this, samples are sent to the College of Agriculture at Cornell for a more complete analysis. Complete soil tests have been invaluable guides to farmers who use large amounts of fertilizer. Since relatively small amounts of fertilizer are used around the home, a complete test is usually not needed.

No matter which test is made on your soil, the test is only as accurate as the sample you take. Do you know the proper way to take a soil sample. Follow these simple steps to make the results of your soil analysis more ac-

First, divide the area to be sampled into areas that are alike. That is, the vegetable garden should be separate from flower gardens and lawn areas. If you have fertilized or limed the front lawn differently than the back lawn, then these should be sampled separately.

Next take a composite sample from each separate area. To get this composite sample, take soil from at least 4 to 6 places within the area. The more places you get the soil from, the better the composite sample. Mix the soil taken from each area together and save a pint of soil for the analysis. Repeat the process in each separate area to be tested.

One simple way to get a soil sample is to dig a hole with a shovel or trowel. Then cut a slice of soil from one side of the hole. Save a ribbon of soil from the center of this slice for your composite sample.

How Deep to Sample

The depth of the sample varies with the plant involved. On established lawns sample to a depth of three to four inches. For gardens or when preparing new lawns, sample as deeply as you will work the soil. This is usually six to eight inches deep.

Samples can be placed in clean cans, jars or cardboard cartons and taken to your nearest County Extension Service Service Office or to your local garden cen-(Continued on Page 24) USDA CHOICE - EXTRA WELL TRIMMED

The annual Swedish Smorgasbord of the Clarksville Community Church is set for Saturday, October 1. Members of the Couples' Club are preparing to spread the board with a variety of foods ranging from jumbo shrimp cocktail to cream puffs.

The menu features appetizers of shrimp cocktail, fruit juices and clam chowder. Going to the board will permit diners to select Swedish meatballs, roast beef, ham, turkey, macaroni salad, salmon salad, potato salad, baked beans, deviled eggs, cabbage kraut, varieties of bread, fish, cheese, pickles, olives, coupled with parsley potatoes, hot vegetables, molded fruit and vegetable salads and MORE! To top off the meal, the diner will have his choice of homemade pies, applesauce cake, cream puffs and coffee, tea or milk.

Proceeds from previous Smorgasbords have furnished the new Christian Education Building with draperies, other necessary furnishings and have been applied to the building debt.

Sittings will be at 4:00, 5:15, 6:30 and 7:30 P.M.; Mrs. Douglas Moak will provide organ music; and a take-out service will be available.

MEETING

The first fall meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Delmar Methodist Church will be held on October 4 at 7:30 p.m. It will be a dessert meeting with a travel program.

MARTA BECKET, artist, musician, and talented ballet dancer will be guest performer at the opening dinner of the Delmar Progress Club on October 3, when she brings her one-woman show to this area. She will perform a series of dance mimes in Fellowship Hall of the Delmar Methodist Church. Marta Becket has sanced in such outstanding Broadway musicals as Showboat, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, as well as Wonderful Town, and has presented two original ballets in Carnegie Hall. She is also a former member of the Ballet Corps of Radio City Music Hall and now employs her multiple talents creating the stories and choreography for her dance mimes and designing the costumes and stage decor.

Why buy Fig Certificates

- Q. "Mr. Ryan, other banks have followed your lead and now advertise 5%. Why should I buy a Fidelity Savings Certificate?"
- A. "Remember, these other banks announced they anticipate paying 5%. Fidelity Bank guarantees 5% on its Savings Certificates for periods up to two years."

- Q. "Why are other banks following your lead?"
- A. "Because interest rates in this region have not been realistic. People were entitled to a higher rate on their savings."

Remember, we will not lower our rate . . . it is guaranteed! Drop in soon; we're open 51 hours a week including Saturday.

A bank president explains ... An interview with Patrick J. Ryan, President, Fideli

An interview with Patrick J. Ryan, President, Fidelity Bank of Colonie

'Q. "Why is the two year guarantee important?"

A. "Other banks could lower their rates at the end of each quarterly period. We will not.'

Q. "How does it work?"

A. "You buy a Certificate for an amount from $2,500 to $10,000 for any period from 12 to 24 months. At the end of that period, you receive the amount of the Certificate plus 5% interest from the day of deposit."

Q. "Why are people entitled to a higher rate?"

A. "Money is very tight because of the unusual demand for credit in the expanding economy of this region. The basic law of supply and demand means the cost of borrowing money is going up and those who provide the money are entitled to a higher rate. Fidelity Bank led the way to higher rates for depositors with its Savings Certificates.'

Q. "May I redeem the Certificates in less than 12 months?"

A. "Yes, if necessary. If you wish to do so, upon 90 days written notice we will redeem your Certificate हांus earnings of 3.75% for the time you held the Certificate.'
