AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL CITIZENS IN THE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM

Dear Friends:

One week from today is Thanksgiving. The White Christmas Festival Committee is most thankful for the spirit with which the community has entered into planning this year's festival scheduled for December 11, 15 and 16. You've literally given the shirts off your back. (Yes, the boxes we placed in area stores asking for old shirts and sheets have met with great response — YOUR response!) These mundane articles will be absolutely beautiful and you will see them — green for robes (our human Christmas tree will wear them) and gold for angels! We do thank you!

For those who don't know about this wonderful White Christmas festival and celebration which involves our whole town each Christmas, we summarize our project: White Christmas, What Does it Do? It provides: year round clothing and health care for needy children in our community; toys, food baskets for Bethlehem families at Christmas time; monetary help in times of need; sunshine gifts to shut ins — especially at Christmas time; contributed to certain agencies concerned with child welfare around the world; preserves the pride and dignity of neighbors who need a helping hand; works with other agencies and individuals having special concern in this field of ministry to the needy.

What Can YOU Do?

1. Donate good used clothing and blankets, boots, rubbers, heavy jackets. Take these to the Junior High School.
2. Donate toys: leave these at the Masonic Hall on Fridays and Saturdays.
3. Volunteer to help mend and paint toys, or to dress dolls. Telephone Jack Weaver — HE 9-4087.

4. Donate items to be used as Sunshine gifts for our shut-ins and the needy. Phone Mrs. Perry Dunn — HE 9-3597.

5. Plan to attend "Silver Bells," the 25th White Christmas Festival: December 11, 15 and 16 at the Senior High School.

It is more than an evening (or afternoon's) program!

It is a spirit! It is the spirit of sharing; the spirit of sharing of time, talent and worldly goods.

It casts a glow over our community that continues throughout the whole year!

Catch the True Spirit of Christmas!

Join us in this year's WHITE CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL!

Gratefully,
Your neighbors
the Committee!

There's A New Store at the Four Corners

It's called the VILLAGE SHOP.

It's filled with Early American Furniture and Accessories.

And it opens TODAY.

Let us tell you about it:

To begin with, it is an addition to the VILLAGE SHOP at DELAWARE PLAZA: a sister store.

And we created it because of the innumerable requests we've gotten for more, much more Colonial Furniture.

We've been dreaming about opening an Early American Furniture Store for years. In fact, whenever we've seen a particularly handsome table, or picture, or lamp, we'd jot down the name; just in case.

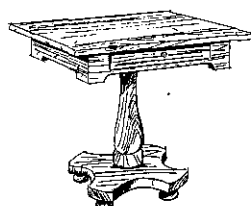

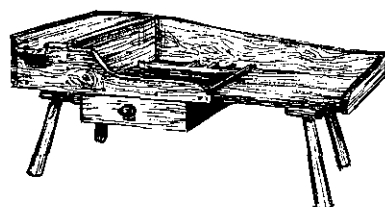

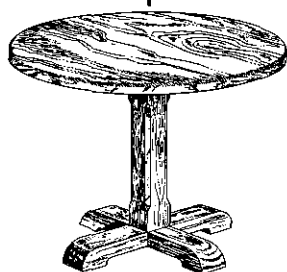

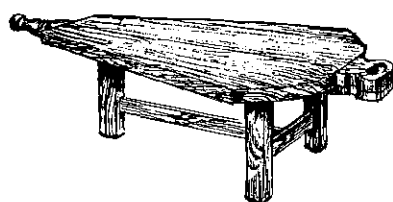

This Fall, the dream came true: the perfect location, (between Schnurr and Wood and Warners' Pharmacy); plenty of parking (across the street next to Krugman's, and also behind our store); and the right time (just before Christmas).

So we went to the market and bought with great care, striving above all to select not only the best we could get in every price range, but also to color-coordinate everything. We bought beauty and harmony and passed up the gimmicky, corny items. . .

Do you melt when you look at the best in Americana; Do pine and cherry and pewter make you glow inside? If they do, come on over and have a look.

And try to be among the first 100. You'll get a gift certificate worth $2.00 and a chance at winning a beautiful arrow back rocker.

You never win anything? Try again, maybe this is the right time for you.

THE SPOTLIGHT

Education Clubs of America, in Philadelphia on November 4-5.

Carole is the Area 4 Vice-President of DECNY, the New York State division of DECA, while Linda is the Area 4-B President of DECNY. The Philadelphia meeting, was the Fourth Annual North Atlantic Regional Officers Training Conference, held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. DECA chapters of Delaware and Pennsylvania were the hosts at the meeting. The students were accompanied by William Hailes, Jr., New York State Education Department Advisor of DECNY, and William Brophy Chairman of the Business Department at the Cobleskill Agriculture and Technical Institute.

During the two-day convention, Carole attended a workshop for State Officers and an Executive Council meeting discussing plans for next year. A second workshop which she attended concerned itself primarily with the contests which will be held locally and at the state Convention. Carole has been appointed to the State Contest committee and this workshop was designed to assist in the planning for the forthcoming State Convention of DECNY to be held at the Concord in March.

Linda spent her time at workshops discussing fund raising techniques for chapters, the development of leadership conferences, and the development of post-secondary chapters.

At the general meetings the group heard addresses by the National Program Director of DECA, John P. Hudson; and the President of the Sears, Roebuck Foundation, William P. McCurdy.

Busy FBLA

The Future Business Leaders Chapter at the Bethlehem Central Senior High School continues its program for the year with a series of meetings with Mrs. John McClintock discussing various phases of grooming important for the young lady entering business. Mrs. McClintock has stressed the proper way to walk, how to conduct oneself at an interview, makeup, hair care, and proper dress for the interview and the business office. When discussing makeup, Mrs. McClintock used Terry Kinns and Elizabeth Salisbury as models and demonstrated not only the proper makeup for the office, but added the touches for evening and party makeup. Mrs. McClintock was assisted in the makeup demonstration by Mrs. Janet Fleming, a BCHS graduate.

Besides their regular meetings, the Chapter members have brought in comic books to be sent to the Albany Medical Center for use by the Volunteers when working with children at the hospital. This endeavor was carried out by Elizabeth Salisbury, Kristy Pedersen, and Elizabeth Martell. The Chapter received

Don't cry because you have wet wash and skies to match. Switch on The Invisible Man . . . electricity. He'll spin your dryer and dry your wash fluffy-fresh. What! You haven't a dryer? Did you know you've been lugging 5,000 pounds of wet wash to the clothesline each year? Let The Invisible

Man dry them. He'll do ever so much better. Best of all, he works for peanuts. The Invisible Man—electricity—operates all the appliances and lights in the average home for only pennies a day. So be a wise one—next washday, switch on The Invisible Man. Then dry your eyes.

phone calls.

To date, 21 arrests have been made.

You may have seen our ad last April outlining a plan for dealing with malicious phone callers. Since then, 21 persons have been arrested for making criminal calls. There have been 17 convictions, with sentences ranging up to $200 fines and, in one case, a jail term of 335 days. In addition, our Annoyance Call Bureaus have successfully handled more than 7,000 non-criminal cases. Progress is being made.

But what should you do if you receive a malicious or obscene call? The best thing to do is to hang up. Chances are the caller won't bother you again. But if the calls continue, please call your Business Office Representative or, at night and on week-ends, the Operator. They will help you.

We are using new techniques and equipment to help identify the sources of these calls. We also have specially trained people who will work with you and the police in an effort to identify malicious and obscene callers.

The New York Penal Law makes it a misdemeanor to use the telephone to make obscene remarks to a woman or child, or to threaten to commit a crime against any person. The penalty can be imprisonment for one year and a $500 fine.

New York Telephone
Part of the Nationwide Bell System

We hope you never receive a malicious
or annoying phone call.

But if you should,
here is what you can do,
and what we will do to help

We're deeply concerned that some people are receiving malicious or obscene phone calls.

The majority of such harassing calls are made by misguided people. The best way to stop them is simply to hang up. But if the calls persist, please follow these suggestions:

- If the caller uses obscenity or doesn't properly identify himself or says nothing, hang up. Don't keep on talking. That's what he wants.
- Call your Telephone Business Office if you are harassed again.

HERE'S HOW WE WILL HELP:

- Our Business Office personnel throughout the state are specially trained to assist you.
- In difficult cases, our Annoyance Call Bureau will work closely with you and police officials to catch offenders.
- This special action group can arrange to:
  - Trace such calls.
  - Intercept calls to a harassed customer.
  - Interview the customer from whose phone the calls were made.
  - Terminate service of the telephone from which calls originated.

We believe this campaign will assure continuing progress toward the elimination of annoying calls.

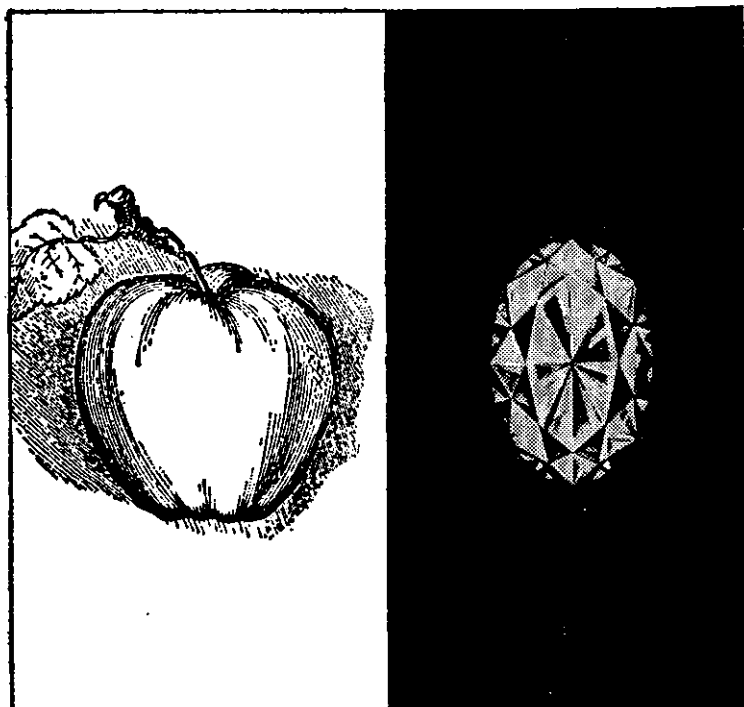

The New York Penal Law makes it a misdemeanor to use the telephone to make obscene remarks to a woman or child, or to threaten to commit a crime against any person. The penalty can be imprisonment for one year, and a $500 fine.

This newspaper ad appeared throughout New York State in April.

This year's outstanding success was made possible by the many merchants and residents who contributed to this youth activity. The teams and officers of Pop Warner take this opportunity to say, "Thanks."

A report will be given on the Agriculture

Today

Modern agriculture is no longer
just farming as the self-sufficient farmers knew it in bygone days.

As agriculture grew by leaps and bounds down through the years with phenomenal productivity and capital investment, a vast number of people have been brought into "farming."

The magnitude of modern-day

agriculture may be measured by the fact that one out of every three workers in New York State is part of the vast chain of services that bring food to the dining tables of the state's 18 million people.

In other words, one-third of the state's working force is in agriculture and related businesses, even though the number of commercial farmers represents only about two per cent of the population.

In fact, this tiny "minority" is becoming increasingly important in years ahead as agriculture will continue to move on, growing and expanding in every direction.

So observe Cornell University agricultural specialties at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture. In a brochure entitled "Agriculture is More Than Farming in the Empire State," prepared by the Department of Communication Arts, they discuss the complexity of modern agriculture and its impact on the general economy of the state and the nation.

They see that agricultural growth will become even more dramatic in years directly ahead because there are no major food surpluses available. Internationally, demand for more food to combat hunger and misery in the underdeveloped countries will continue to increase in the face of the population explosion.

Besides expansion, agriculture will be increasingly urbanized as it will continue to move into towns and cities in New York State as elsewhere. For that matter, most agricultural commodities are processed in urban areas throughout the nation.

The chain of services bringing food to the people ranges from farmers to factory workers, from scientists to salesmen, truck drivers to tractor dealers, from bankers to attorneys.

Farmers of 150 years ago were self-sufficient. They produced their own seeds, bred their own stock, and provided all the other raw materials needed for farming.

Each farm provided sustenance for one family and little more. But today's farmer is more or less a specialist, producing enough food for himself and a number of other people.

Major factors that changed the face of agriculture are research, extension work, machinery, and the growth of non-farm markets.

Some 26,000 commercial firms with sales of more than $10,000 provide more than four-fifths of the food produced annually in New York State today. The total number of farmers with both large and small operations is only 66,500 - about one-fourth of the number of farmers in 1900. Yet, agricultural production is one-third more than it was at that time, and today's farmers work only half as much land — about 12 million acres.

The farm income now tops $1 billion a year with milk and dairy products leading the list of main sources of income, followed by fruit and vegetable crops, poultry and poultry products, and horticultural specialties.

Working along with the commercial farmers are some 2,500 firms that sell them almost $800 million worth of raw materials and services annually. Other firms that process, package, and transport farm products total 7,000 — a $2 billion industry that employs more than 200,000 persons.

Nationally, more than 10 million persons store, haul and merchandise farm products. Almost 1.5 million others work to produce farm supplies, and thousands provide services to farmers.

The bigness of American agriculture can be sized up with its capital investment totaling $250 billion — an amount equivalent to three-fifths of the value of all the stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange or three-fourths of the current assets of all the nation's corporations.

Any way one looks at it, farmers will continue to play a major role in creating even better life ahead.

The thought that occurred to me as they were singing was that somewhere some person had taken the trouble to teach them these tunes or they would not all have known the words so well and have been comfortable singing melodic current music. ## LETTER

Editor of the Spotlight,

Last Saturday I had the fun of chaperoning a group of Brownies and Girl Scouts on an outing. There were 44 of them on the bus from Slingerlands, Delmar, and Voorheesville. These youngsters astounded me with their knowledge of the current tunes. They knew all the words from Mary Poppins and Sound of Music. They also sang many other 'good' tunes. The older girls sang folk songs and the
