Sacred Music

A Christmas Festival of Sacred Music will be presented in the Sanctuary of the Slingerlands Community Methodist Church on Sunday evening, December 18, at 8 p.m.

The Chancel, Chapel Singers and Cherub Choirs will participate in the program which will include: "Hodie Christus Natus Est" by Healey Willan; "Celebrate This Holy One" by Leland Soleren; "Ah, Dearest Jesu" by Robert Wetzler; "I Sing Of A Maiden" by Norman Gilbert; "To The Christ Child" by Regina Fryxell; "Poor Mary" by Katherine David; "The Carpenter"; "The Donkey" - excerpts from "Lo, A Star" by Robert Graham; "Carol Of The Questioning Child" by Alfred Kountry. Scottish, Puerto Rican and American Folk Carols will be sung by Mrs. Doris Clark, accompanied by her daughter. Miss Constance Clark with the guitar.

Soloists for the evening will include Bonnie Haves, Donna Kellett and Margaret Heilman, violinist, who will play the offertory "Adoration" by Felix Borowsky. Miss Heilman will also play an obligato with the Chancel Choir.

Those attending the concert are invited to meet in Fellowship Hall after the program. The Music Committee with John Pendleton as Chairman, will have the Yule Log burning.

Remembering: The First Christmas

At this Christmas Season, one of the largest and most joyful birthday parties ever celebrated will be held on Sunday Evening December 18, at seven o'clock, at Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

Following the traditional children's service, entitled "The Bells That Rang On Christmas Eve," presented by the entire Sunday Church School, the boys and girls will gather to remember the most precious gift of Christmas, the Birth of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

To make this happy occasion ever more meaningful, the children will enjoy a large birthday cake decorated with 20 red candles, red being the traditional color of joy, and 20 commemorating the passing of 20 centuries since our Lord's birth.

The candles are arranged in a complete circle signifying Christ's Unending reign on earth. A Christmas Angel, symbol of the shepherds' story, is placed in the center of a silver star, itself the symbol of Bethlehem.

Each child will receive a large star to hang upon his tree at home to remind him throughout the entire Christmas Season of the true meaning of Christmas.

Should you do your Christmas Shopping early this year?

Every year, you get swamped with this message. They say (to you, the buyer): Shop early. We say: Shop at your convenience, whenever the mood hits you — early or late.

THEY SAY: "That way, you'll get a chance to park."	WE SAY: "At Delaware Plaza, you can always park."
"You'll avoid the noise and the crowds."	"Crowds? At Delaware Plaza they're neighbors ."
"You'll miss the late season traffic jams."	"Traffic jams? In Bethlehem 'All is calm, All is bright'."
"The selection is better, early."	"We plan on a full season, right thru Dec. 24th.
"Everybody gets tired and irritable late in the season."	"Year round night hours are old stuff to Dela- ware Plaza. We are just getting our second wind by Christmas."
"But if there's a sudden snow storm, you may be delayed (like several hours)	"The highway crews in Delmar are on the ball. You always get home quickly!"
"So shop early."	"Shop Delaware Plaza, anytime you please. Remember, when you're ready — we're ready!"

Swim Test

Cadettes and Junior Girl Scouts of the Bethlehem Central School system are asked to come to the Bethlehem Central Junior High School swimming pool on Wednesday evening, January 4, from 7 to 9 for the completion of test passing.

This is an extra session being held at the culmination of the tenweek swimming program cosponsored by the Albany Area Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Bethlehem Central School system for the Girl Scouts.

Library Notes

Almost any boy who has ever read Boys' Life or any one of a number of other publications will immediately recognize the name, Glenn Wagner. They may be surprised to learn he is a neighbor and a resident of Delmar. His official title is Contributing Editor for Boys' Life magazine. For a number of years, Mr. Wagner has written science features and about hobbies including camping. handicraft. scouting - in fact, all sorts of activities geared to boys' (and fathers') interests. A recent article, "Grand Prix Raceway," includes carefully prepared instructions on the construction not only of the track but of the scenery surrounding it.

Mr. Wagner became interested in model railroading as a youngster and today his cellar is filled with set-ups, all in running order, dating from the old Ives and Lionel Standard 2 1/4" gauge of the twenties and thirties to the latest models of the sixties.

A trip to the Delmar Public Library will be rewarding as Mr. Wagner has loaned a few of his models for display. An engine, freight car and three passenger cars from the large type $2 \ 1/4$ " will bring memories to dad and surprise to junior.

Contrasted with the old, is a modern HO gauge now popular with the railroad hobbyist. Those are more accurate as to scale.

"Theme of Christmas"

The Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring the "Theme of Christmas" lighting contest. All residents and commercial concerns in the Tri-Village area are invited to participate. This year, contestants are asked to notify the Chamber of their entry by mailing a 4¢ postcard with name and address to Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce, Box 133, Delmar, Please mail the card as soon as your Christmas lighting display is ready, so that the judges may preview your home or place of business. Final judging will take place on Tuesday, December 27, from 6:30 to 9 P.M.

Prizes are offered in the following categories:

1. One prize for a religious display of $25, to be given to the church of the winner's choice.

2. A first, second and third prize for other residential lighting displays, offering $25, $15, and $10 prizes.

3. Plaques to be awarded to the three best commercial displays in the Tri-Village area.

Remember to mail in your entry card, so the judges will have it by December 27 at the latest. Cards must be sent in order for your home to be judged.

Button at BC

On Thursday, December 1, Daniel E. Button, Congressmanelect from the twenty-ninth district, spoke to the seventh period American history classes of Bethlehem Central High School about his campaign for a seat in the House of Representatives.

In talking about his campaign, Mr. Button said he thought the most important part was in getting to know the people. When he took his 150 mile walk around the twenty-ninth district, he felt that he really had reached the people.

Safety On Ice

With the onset of another winter sports season, the Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross, today cautioned against too early and hazardous use of ice-covered ponds, lakes and rivers.

"The key to skating safety is to know when and where to skate safely," declared John D. Brown, 6 Delmar Place, Delmar, Coordinator of Red Cross Safety Services.

"The first ice of the season, is attractive to skaters because it is normally very smooth," he said. "But it can also be a danger, because it is deceptively thin and not uniform in thickness.

"It is quite likely to be weaker toward the center of the area, over springs welling up from the bottom, and over swift current. Rivers are especially dangerous."

New ice, he explained, is not really safe until it has frozen to at least two or three inches. Even then, skaters should venture cautiously, staying reasonably close to shore. When new ice reaches a depth of four inches, it will support a larger number of skaters.

Mr. Brown listed three additional safety rules for ice skaters: Skate with a companion in case

In case of accident, keep on hand at skating areas simple rescue equipment - a length of rope, a pole, ladder, or plank.

A safe method of rescuing someone who has fallen through the ice is to lie flat on the ice, edge forward and reach the rescue equipment toward the victim. When he has grasped it securely, pull him to safety. Do not stand on the ice while performing the rescue act.

In the absence of rescue equipment, several persons can form a human chain by lying flat on the ice, holding the ankles or skates of the person in front of them. They worm their way toward the victim; the lead man grasps his wrists, and the whole line wriggles back to safety.

If you are alone and fall through the ice, don't try to climb out. Instead, extend both arms along the servace of the ice and kick vigorously. This will help lift your body onto solid ice. Then roll to safety. It is a good idea to carry ice awls or a knife with you when skating. Then, if an accident occurs, you can use such tools to aid in pulling yourself onto solid ice.

The Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross, 1066 Madison Avenue, will furnish a 16 mm motion picture on "Ice Rescue" upon request.

Meeting

The Albany Area Montessori Association will meet at 8 p.m. December 15 in the community room of the National Commercial Bank & Trust Co., 343 Delaware Ave., Delmar.

The meeting will be a repetition of a meeting last month, when many were turned away, due to lack of space for the unexpectedly large crowd that attended.

The meeting will describe a typical day in a Montessori school, Colored slides will be shown of the children at work and play in the Albany Montessori School, which opened this fall.

Your Child

What effect does a child's upbringing have on his relations with other persons, his tendency to conform, and his capacity for self-motivated action?

These are some of the questions a group of scientists at the N.Y. State College of Home Economics, Cornell University, are pursuing in a series of crosscultural studies of child-rearing.

The researchers have been studying these practices and their effects on children in the United States, Englasd, Switzerland, West Germany, and the U.S.S.R. They will analyze data on hand and will gather more in

On the basis of findings to date, it appears that American parents are more emotionally involved with their children than English parents are. Americans show more affection and make greater use of psychological forms of discipline than those of other cultures studied.

Give Yourself Some New Year's Cash

The shock of suddenly facing a forgotten bill, overextended credit or serious financial problems can be prevented with a simple family financial plan.

An organized way to pay bills and realistic plan for current and future expenditures can assure attainment of the most desired items and prevent impulse buying of least wanted things.

Begin by listing credit cards, insurance policies and security holdings and a detailed inventory of household goods on a simple chart. This way lay the groundwork for the plan. Duplicates of these records kept outside the home can help in making insurance claims in the event of fire or theft.

Now, determine the family's financial standing and outlook by making an estimate of its worth. Figure the long and short term debts including mortgages, personal loans, charge accounts, taxes and medical bills.

Subtract this amount from the lowest dollar amount on household goods such as furniture, appliances and jewelry; all securities and insurance; cash on hand and in bank accounts; vehicles; animals and real estate - the difference is the family net worth.

Next, tally up basic yearly expenses from last year's bills and statements — rent or principle and interest, repairs, allowances, utilities, heat, water, light, taxes, and fees, insurance (life, auto, medical, annuities, homeowners), installment loans, contributions and savings on investment.

Subtract these expenses from your total annual income to determine how much money is left for food, clothing, transportation and miscellaneous expenditures.

You may discover at this point that you underestimated spending in certain areas and you may find that some of your basic expenditures need adjusting.

This sounds like hard work, but it can be done with a minimum of effort with a simple, in-

THE SPOTLIGHT

When the entire financial picture is charted on paper, the whole family should sit down and discuss where money should be spent — a super vacation, or down payment on a home or new appliances and so on — as well as long term goals such as college money or retirement.

After the choices have been made, a spending plan for the year can be drafted. Installments for future goals should be included.

Make up a chart listing all basic annual expenses. Average these to show how much must be set aside for each pay period in the current year. Income from each pay period should be divided on the chart to show how each expense will be paid. Make another chart to show how each bill is actually paid. This chart will show how close the plan is followed and will be handy at income tax time.

Use brush on complexion powder for contouring — emphasizing good features, playing down poor ones. For example, to minimize a long nose, lightly brush on Cosmetically Yours Brush-on Beauty on its tip. Do same to shorten chin. To narrow bridge of nose, brush powder on sides of nose. A tawny shade should be used for this shadowing procedure.

Now containing its own mirror, Brush-on Beauty is wonderful as a pick up during the day. So carry it in your handbag, just as you do your compact. And when you want to add a little color to your face, simply brush it on.

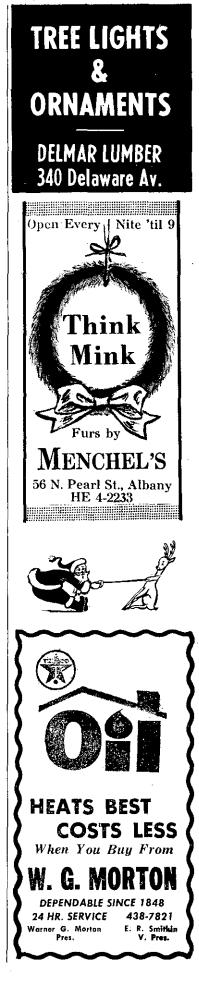

With summer having been one of the hottest on record, we might well have one of the coldest winters. In any event, make sure you won't be left out in the cold. Get started on winter weather wear now.

What to look for this season? Well, for today's popular slacks, stretch pants and skiwear, for instance, you'll want the new thermals, the ideal underfashion for leisure and sportswear. Unlike tights, thermals are really meant to insulate against cold weather. And they're much lighter in weight than grandmother's old fashioned winter woolies, because they're woven with tiny airpockets that retain body heat, keep cold out, yet still "breathe" for comfort both indoors and out.

This season designers evidently have recognized the need for prettier thermals as I have seen racy stripes, geometrics; florals and stylized prints. The new thermals I noted by Lovable, for example, are made in solid colors as well as gay pink or blue floral prints on stretchy insulated cotton. Pettipant and skinny ankle length styles with stirrup straps are also available in a wrinkle-free, two-way stretch synthetic fabric. Lovable makes these in "kicky" geometrics, ideal 'neath all winter sportswear.

This winter young fashionables will find thermals both functional and chic for wear in the dorm or at-home, but most of all for natural warmth-on or off the slopes!

POLITICS MAY DOOM NEW YORK LANDMARK

Political forces may soon close the famed Cafe Feenjon in New York City's Greenwich Village.

A favorite of tourists whose New York friends "know" the city, the Feenjon is a noalcohol cafe where beatniks and neatniks sit side by side to enjoy lively Mediterranean music played on exotic instruments. One can stay until 2 a.m. for only $1.50 hearing haunting rhythms from Greece, Israel and Arab countries.

However, appealing to the desire of some Greenwich Village residents to keep the neighborhood quiet by keeping the tourists out, a few local political leaders - who gained power, oddly enough, as "reformers" — are pressing to force the Feenjon to move away.

The last hope of budgetminded tourists and music lovers at the Feenjon, where black coffee is the strongest drink you can buy, is that New York's ingenious mayor. John Lindsay, who is sometimes mentioned as having national leadership potential, will find a way to keep the musical landmark open without causing him to suffer at the hands of the cafe's entrenched political enemies.

"Feenjon" is the Turkish word for coffee cup.

SCHOOLS THROUGH THE AGES

A CIRCULAR SCHOOL FOR ALL SEASONS-The new Douglas MacArthur Elementary school in Southfield, Michigan, is built around an electronic learning center. The circular design has drastically cut down corridors and other wasted space. A totally new electric heating system will allow the school to be heated at about half the cost possible with a conventional system. (Designed by St. Cyr Architect and Associates of Livonia, Michigan.)

HE 8-7856

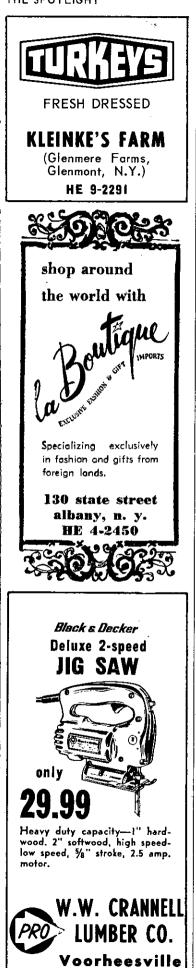

Ever since the ancient Chinese instructed their daughters in the right way to unwrap silk cocoons, people have been worrying about how and what to teach their children. When the fathers of classical Athens growled at their sons' report cards, they were looking at marks in javelin throwing, jousting and chariot racing—as well as in philosophy and music.

philosophy and music. Today: all electric classrooms . . blackboards that aren't black . . . electronic teaching aids—What's going on? Simply this — formal education in America has become one of the fastest growing and most rapidly changing fields of culture.

The United States now has more schools than any other country in the world. And with new teaching aids and methods, and more pleasant and flexible classrooms, educators have found that the learning process can be speeded up considerably. For example, the clanking radiators and uncomfortable classrooms that you may remember as a student are only a legend for present-day pupils who attend the more than 2,000 allelectric schools in the nation.

These students enjoy the comforts of flameless electric heating and air conditioning --complete with room-byroom temperature control. Moreover, conservative estimates made by The Electrification Council put the number of schools utilizing clean, efficient total electrical services by the end of next year at more than 3,000!

The latest development: All-electric mobile classrooms are relieving overcrowded school conditions in many parts of the U.S.

Papier Mache Ornaments

Ornaments and decorations are the magic charms that turn the home into a kaleidoscope of warmth and color for the Christmas season. And a home that sparkles with hand-made decorations has a special plow.

Papier mache Christmas decorations, easy to make into any size and shape, can help express per-sonal family interest or tradition. Kleenex dinner napkins are the basic ingredient for a pure white papier mache that retains the true colors of paint in the holiday hues.

Additional supplies needed for an ornament-making session are cardboard, white glue and water (mixed half and half), tempera paints, brushes and colorful cord. Glitter and sequins, holiday decals, or bits of colored tissues or foil are optional materials to add individual touches to the ornaments.

First cut a pattern from heavy cardboard. Cookie cutters, pictures traced from magazines, or simply Yuletide shapes of angels, Santa Claus, or wreaths all make good patterns.

Next, tear two-ply napkins into strips or pieces. (Edges blend better when ripped, not cut.) Soak napkin strips in glue and water mixture, then place on both sides of the cardboard pattern. Repeat, building up the papier mache to desired thickness, varying depth for pattern design. Punch a hole in the top of the ornament for the cord.

Dry the ornaments overnight or ake" in a slow oven. 'bake'

いたでは

When ornaments are absolutely dry, brush a design on both sides with tempera paints. Let them dry again. Loop cord through the hole.

Papier mache can be used for traditional, old fashioned ornaments such as stars, candles, or reindeer, or the latest modern geometric shapes. Decorated with decals of Santa or bells, they're as sentimental as Christmas at Grand-mother's. Gilded with tinsel or aluminum foil, they're as today as a discotheque.

Glitter, decals, and bits of tissue and foil can be glued on as can sequins, which make perfect eyes, noses and mouths for reindeer and snowmen.

Give Kitchen Seasonal Decor

Carry the holiday decorative mood through to the kitchen this year by changing shelf and drawer linings to a bright, cheerful color that matches the holiday mood. Mayralon adhesive covering cut out Marvalon adhesive covering, cut out in holly leaf or Christmas wreath designs, also adds the color and look of the season to cannisters, window shades or the refrigerator door.

Festive Decor Made In Jiffy

A Christmas conversation piece for the entrance hall, a topiary tree for the family dinner table, or a made-it-myself decoration for a youngster's room can all be made from one basic pattern and just a few materials.

Bright red and green holly berries and leaves mingle with candy canes on new Kleenex Christmas tissues, the ready-made ingredient for all these decorating ideas.

For a fancy round ornament to suspend from ceiling or doorway, or for a topiary tree, use styrofoam bases in circular shapes. A tree for the children's room is made from styrofoam in the traditional tree shape.

Fold Christmas tissues in quarters, trimming the outer edges to cut circular shapes. Gather each tissue circle in the center, and attach to the styrofoam base with a straight pin. Continue until the base is covered with the bright red and green patterned tissues. Insert small Christmas ornaments, pine cones, or miniature ribbons with additional pins or a bit of wire, if you like. Hairspray will perk up any tissues that might be a bit limp.

Pin a ribbon to the top if the ornament is to be suspended. For the topiary tree, spray paint a wooden or styrofoam base and dowel rod before inserting tissuecovered ball at the top of the rod. The traditionally shaped tree needs no additional base.

Man's Best Friend

Man's best friend at income tax time may well be his adding machine, if he makes out his own return, says one of the nation's top tax consultants who has built a nationwide business of being the taxpayers' friend.

"The Internal Revenue Service finds some kind of error in at least one of every five of the 70 million income tax returns filed annually," says Richard Block, who heads over 1,500 tax offices in 45 states from Massachusetts to Hawaii.

Last year Block's firm, H & R Block, Inc., filled out over 1 1/2million federal income tax returns for individuals and charged more than half of them $7.50 or less for making the return.

A third of these customers show up at Block offices between April 1 and 15.

Most errors made by individuals in their returns are "mechanical," Block reports - simple mistakes in arithmetic.

Such errors are more critical now for taxpayers, says Block, because of the increased use of computers in checking individual returns. The mechanical marvels speed up the process, but they are more apt to "spit out" returns that are incorrect. Computers can't "see" that a figure is on the wrong line or detect simple errors at a glance.

Of even more concern to Block are the "undetectable" errors which cost the taxpayer himself money. He contends that three of four taxpayers actually cheat themselves in declaring deductions.

Part of this is because of the confusion felt by the average layman when he faces an income tax return form, and his lack of knowledge as to what deductions he is entitled to.

"If the government simplifies income taxes one more time, they'll get so complicated no one will be able to make out a return," he quips.

Managers of the more than 1,500 H & R Block offices spend at least one day each week just keeping up with tax changes, Block estimates.

To help taxpayers understand what deductions they may take,

Block's firm has designed a special form as a reminder to the customer. They've also designed a special desk pad for ready reference to all tax tables, so it isn't necessary to go thumbing through a tax book with each customer.

Among legitimate deductions which slip most taxpayers' minds, Block consultants list property losses, failure to file joint, returns, not listing all contributions, sick pay exclusions, hospital insurance, child care exemptions or retirement income.

A man may list expenses for medicine and medical care but forget transportation costs to the doctor totaling much more. Or he may overestimate sales taxes but forget to deduct personal property tax. Or list cash contributions and forget $100 worth of clothing donated to the church.

From his own company's experience, Block lists another unusual "friend" of the taxpayer - the coffee pot.

Block offices keep a pot brewing at all times and company records show that harried taxpayers consume some 40 tons of coffee between January 1 and April 15. Block consultants will also give out some 100,000 lollipops and coloring books to youngsters.

The far-flung service began operations in 1955. Today, over 12,000 persons will be on the payroll from January 1 to April 15.

Most of the H & R Block work will fall into the last 100 days before the April 15 deadline, Block reports. In that time, the H & R Block offices will consume over 40 million sheets of paper weighing 400,000 pounds, more than 15,000 "lifetime" mechanical pencils and over 1,080,000 inches of pencil lead, in figuring federal and state income taxes for customers. (State returns are a part of the service.)

There's no record, however, of how many aspirins are consumed by Block personnel and customers.

Jewelry Through The Ages

Today's style-conscious women wear elegant costume jewelry fashioned from a wide variety of materials, but back in the Stone Age, women sported jewelry made from teeth and bones, and wore it to ward off evil spirits!

In Babylonian times, 50 centuries ago, men fashioned jewelry from gold and silver and produced objects of great beauty to be worn decoratively. The earliest ring on record was made of iron, and was probably of Egyptian manufacture. Gold rings, according to Josephus, the Jewish Historian, were used by the Israelites. Both Moses and Aaron were proud owners of them.

Yet superstition continued to surround many jewels; as late as the 18th century, people thought sapphire would relieve insanity, jet would end a toothache, and topaz would ease asthma!

A jeweled knife once figured prominently at weddings. A curious 16th century custom was the carrying of a knife by the bride during the wedding ceremony. This knife, the hilt of which was jeweled, was encased in an ornamented and engraved sheath of gold, and hung from the girdle of the bride's gown. Why? To protect her from "the evil eye," of course!

Today, superstition has largely disappeared in connection with jewelry, but the "magic" of a beautiful bracelet or pin still remains for most women in the world. Where kings once sent uncut, rough stones in bagsful across the seas to other monarchs as tribute, today's "queen of the house" chooses from a full selection of beautifully styled and fashioned costume jewelry right in her own home.

World War I changed the face of jewelry. Women and men alike dressed in simpler styles and reshaped their hairdos. Men wore snake rings and glittering costume jewelry really came into vogue. This was only natural since women were "hooked" on emancipation and were bent on proclaiming their own new look. Jewelry firms like Sarah Coventry, realizing the great potential of women, began recruiting ladies to sell their costume jewelry door-to-door. The practice continues today, and women can still choose, in their homes, from a wide selection of beautiful costume jewelry designed by a company which believes that: "The priceless look of beauty is seldom a matter of price." It is not only America's housewives and career women who are often seen wearing Sarah Coventry jewelry, but celebrities as well.

Both precious jewels and costume jewels have always been prized and both loom in literature. India's Code of Manu, which is believed to have taken its form about 2,000 years ago, contains a description of the jeweler's craft. The first costume jewelry – discovered by an alchemist's accidental glass smeltings – was so enchanting that the man's daughters were hauled into jail for wearing it and outshining the monarch's baubles.

And who can forget "The Necklace" by Guy de Maupassant, a story in which a woman borrows a beautiful strand of pearls from a friend, only to lose it at a ball. In order to pay back her friend, she scrubs floors for the next twenty years. Finally, upon return of a duplicate necklace, she is informed that the one she had lost was made of paste!

Today, remembrances of a jeweled past are still with us, but in different ways. Gone are the days when ladies would wear large jeweled brooches, called "stomachers", that covered the entire front of their dresses. And gone, too, are the days of fantistic sums and ostentation. Brooches and tiaras, necklaces and pins once only fit the queens and princesses can now be any woman's through the magic of delicate costume jewelry — the gems of our time.
