JUST ABOUT EVERYTHING is in readiness after months of detailed preparations for one of the largest Card Party and Fashion Shows in the area. The doors to St. Thomas' School will open at 7:00 p.m. Friday, April 28, to admit patrons to the "Country Store" which is one of the main features again this year, after it's successful debut in 1966. The store features homemade baked goods, boutiques, and many attractive original creations designed by local residents. Above are (left to right) Mesdales Richard H. Van Woert, Joseph L. Cannizzarro, William J. Kraus and Julius Preska, getting the party dishes and refreshments organized in anticipation of the hundreds of card playing women they plan to serve.

POPPY DAY PROCLAMATION . . . Mrs. Edwin R. Tymann, Poppy Chairman for Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post #1040 American Legion Auxiliary, sells Bethlehem Supervisor Bertram E. Kohinke the first "Poppy" in this year's Memorial of the War dead. Mr. Kohinke designated May 10 as Poppy Day 1967 in the Town of Bethlehem.

Public Servants to be Honored

This coming Sunday, April 30, Bethlehem Lutheran Church of Delmar will hold its annual "Laymen and Laywomen Sunday" observance.

This Service, is intended to be a "Tribute to all Christian men and women, who in the pursuance of their faith are rendering outstanding service to our community, and thus are living out the words of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ: "Let your light so shine before men; that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven."

To underline the role of the Layman in his Community, Bethlehem Lutheran Church will have representatives of the Police Department, the Fire Department, and the Postal Department as their "Guests of Honor" at the 11:00 A.M. Service.

Bertram Kohinke, Supervisor of the Town of Bethlehem, will be the guest speaker for the occasion. Mr. Kohinke as an active Lutheran Layman will urge that Lay people must make their voices heard and their influence felt in Community and National affairs. The Voice of the Church is its people.

To highlight the fact that Church Lay Organizations are At Work helping to solve Community and National problems — representatives of The Lutheran Laymen's League and The Lutheran Women's Missionary League will be featured Guests at the Service.

Mrs. Mary Simmons, President of the Albany-Schenectady-Troy Lutheran Women's Missionary League, will tell of her organization's efforts to assist and rehabilitate narcotics and alcoholic victims and their families. John Sievers, President of the Lutheran Laymen's League, an Organization of over 600,000 Laymen throughout the Country, will represent his group.

Pastor Gassmann, Pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church commented: "The success of the Church today is dependent not alone upon the efforts of this Clergy, but upon the "Total Involvement" of its Lay people in the affairs of Church and Community. We are proud and happy to honor the Laymen and Laywomen of the Church and Community who are often the unsung heroes and heroines of Home, Church, and Country.

Poppy Day

In proclaiming Wednesday, May 10, as Poppy Day, Supervisor Bertram E. Kohinke said, "Poppy Day should be one of solemn remembrance for all of us in the Town of Bethlehem, keeping in mind always those courageous souls who laid down their lives in order that we may live in peace and prosperity. It constitutes a debt which we can never pay but all of us can, in a small way, show our appreciation by wearing the bright scarlet blossom of remembrance on Poppy Day, May 10.

"Therefore, I do declare Wednesday, May 10, to be Poppy Day in the Town of Bethlehem and urge all our citizens to join in this worthwhile observance by wearing the memorial flower."

Directing the Poppy Day activities here will be Mrs. Edwin Tymann, Chairman, for Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

"Poppy Day originated some 45 years ago as a simple and sincere method of paying tribute to the war dead of the nation," Mrs. Tymann said.

Dog Ordinance

The following is a resume of the principal provisions of the Town of Bethlehem Dog Ordinance.

The Ordinance prohibits dogs running at large unless restrained by a leash or accompanied by a responsible person, prohibits habitual howling or barking, destruction of or damage to property, chasing or otherwise harassing any person or habitually chasing motor vehicles. It also prohibits a female dog when in heat running at large. The dog warden is authorized to apprehend a dog violating any of the foregoing provisions.

It also provides that a person observing a dog in violation of the Ordinance may file a signed complaint under oath with a Justice of the Peace of the Town. The Justice then issues a notice to the owner specifying the nature of the complaint and requiring the person to whom the notice is directed either to appear in person and answer the complaint or to file a signed statement under oath. The matter may be resolved informally if satisfactory arrangements are made to prevent a recurrence. If this cannot be done the Justice may permit the filing of an information and may issue a warrant for the arrest of the owner of the dog in question. If the Justice decides that the dog's conduct was in violation of the Ordinance, he may direct that the dog be confined to the premises of the owner for such period of time as he feels necessary, unless the dog is kept on a leash.

If a dog is apprehended by the dog warden, notice shall be sent to the owner, if the owner's name is available. The owner may then reclaim the dog upon payment of the fees specified in the Ordinance. A fine of not more than $25.00 may be imposed for a violation of the Ordinance.

Marsh also announced that Gerald Furbeck of Guilderland will be pony superintendent this year. The growing interest in ponies and the ever-increasing number exhibited in all classes at the Fair necessitated the construction of the new buildings according to Marsh. Ponies represent one of the largest exhibits at the Fair which will be held this year from August 14 through August 19.

Special pony shows both afternoon and evening together with judging of the different classes take up considerable time on Monday and Tuesday of Fair week. Premiums totalling over $1,500 together with ribbons for first, second, third and fourth place are awarded.

Sandburg Repeated

Bethlehem Central Senior High Drama Group, The Charlantans is giving a third performance of its spring production, "The World of Carl Sandburg," tonight, April 27, at the Senior High Auditorium. The original production, given April 7 and 8, was received so enthusiastically by small audiences that it was felt the many unable to attend would welcome another opportunity. This unique and ambitious venture marks the first attempt by an area school to offer a staged version of the poet's works and folk songs. Curtain is at 8:30. All tickets are $1.00.

Summer Program

Charlatans Summer Theatre for teen-agers will be in operation again this year. The program will be expanded to offer three productions during July and August. In addition, area students will have the challenging experience of performing these productions arena-style. Director Sydney Turner has designed a three-sided arena auditorium to be superimposed on the large Bethlehem stage. The new plan will house an audience of

LETTER

Dear Sir:

New Scotland Road is the last of the roads leaving Albany that is not lined with gas stations, billboards, hot dog stands and similar evidence of the "neon jungle." The Town of Bethlehem is now considering rezoning a 14.5 acre site on New Scotland Road from "A Residential" to "CCC Commercial."

Although the rezoning of this particular site may not seem significant, it is the opening wedge for further commercialization. When the inevitable request is received to rezone an adjoining strip, it will be argued that the property is undesirable for residential construction because of its nearness to a commercial zone. The process will then be repeated ad infinitum until all of New Scotland Road becomes one more "gasoline alley."

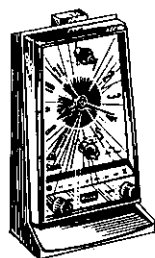

The village of Slingerlands is at present a quiet tree-lined rural community. How such a community has managed to retain its character and charm so close to Albany is a surprise and delight to the many visitors who drive through it.

There are already a great many commercial areas in and around Albany and in the Town of Bethlehem. Many of these are

A large selection of annual and perennial flowers will be on sale in the garden mart.

The women of the church have been putting their imaginations to work and the handicraft booth will be filled with the results of their creativity.

The candy booth and gourmet's delight table will be well stocked with specialties from Presbyterian kitchens.

The public is cordially invited to be on hand from 10 a.m. through 5 p.m. Throughout the day, beans, hamburgers, hot dogs, barbeque beef, chips, doughnuts, and soda will be available at the snack bar.

Presbyterians aren't proud. They'll be happy to accept playthings, children's clothing from infant through pre-teen sizes, books, and miscellany, used but in good condition. Any member of the organization will know what to do with such items donated by May 6.

General chairmen for the event are Mrs. Scott Jackson, Mrs. Donald Kettelkamp, Mrs. Raymond MacKay, Jr., and Mrs. John Shulten.

Tree Planting

If you're one of many residents of Upstate New York who'll plant a tree come balmy spring weather and Arbor Day, April 28, better have a second thought on its variety and proposed location.

According to Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, the variety and location of a tree and its future effects on your utility wires, house, sidewalk and lawn are important to consider; as are its mature size, growth rate and shape.

"Each year, throughout our 24,000 square mile territory, Niagara Mohawk trims about 200,000 trees - at a cost of $1 million - to insure better continuity of electric service" reports James P. Brogan, system forester for Niagara Mohawk. He indicated that many of the trees are on residential property and have been planted by homeowners.

Brogan explained that homeowners planting trees could help their communities and the various utility companies by keeping in mind the size of the trees at maturity. Planting of the proper trees for each specific location reduces shade tree maintenance and alleviates power failures caused by falling limbs. "About 90 per cent of our power interruptions are caused by tree limbs conflicting with overhead lines," he continued.

"If possible, trees should never be planted underneath utility wires between the sidewalk and the curb. A utility service strip at least three feet wide should be left," he said. In this way trees are less likely to grow into paths of overhead lines, or interfere with gas, water and sewer mains, street signs and fire hydrants.

Brogan, a graduate of the State University College of Forestry at Syracuse, said that in a deep front lawn, medium-sized spreading trees, such as Little-Leaf Lindens, or Yellow-Woods would not clash with wires when planted 25 feet inside the sidewalk.

Where house setbacks are average, columnar trees, such as Norway Maples or European Hornbeams, should be planted well inside the walks. If there is no room, and no other choice remains but to plant trees under utility wires, then dwarf trees are recommended by the utility.

Another benefit of proper tree planting, according to Brogan, is that no conflict between trees and modern street lighting exists. When leafy branches overhang light poles, insufficient illumination of walk and road areas may result, hampering the usefulness of the lights.

When trees need trimming, Brogan coordinates Niagara Mohawk's own tree trimmers and its tree trimming contractors. "We trim all trees with great care," he says. "Our job is one of preventive maintenance, insuring that limbs cannot be driven into wires by winds, heavy rains and snow."

Marionettes

The marionettes are coming! So many children missed the performance last year or loved it so much that there will be a repeat showing at the Delmar Public Library on Tuesday, May 16. There will be two shows — the first at 10:30 A.M. and the other at 3:45 P.M. The "Magic Mirror of Laughter" stars Princess Beautiful, Casper the Friendly Ghost and Rollo the Talking Dog.

Mrs. John W. Coote chairman of the group from the Junior League of Albany promises a good time for all. Tickets will be free and available in the Children's Room at the library after May 1. A word to the wise — get your ticket early or you may miss out and that would be sad.

Summer Classes

Albany Business College's six-week Summer Division Program will start Monday morning, July 10, James E. Sharp, Summer Division director announced.

The summer school program will include 12 selected subjects designed especially for high school and college students and for those already employed.

The six-week program will run from July 10 through August 18. All classes are scheduled between 9 a.m. and noontime. Prospective students are advised to register early.

Courses being offered include the following: Beginning and Intermediate Typewriting, Reading Improvement, Techniques of Learning for Pre-College Students, Introduction to Data Processing, Business Letter Writing, Gregg Shorthand Review and Dictation, Stenoscrypt ABC Shorthand, Practical Booking, Business Machines Operation, Personal Income Tax and a course on Filing Procedures.

Expo '67 Or Bust!

For those members of the community who wish to help send the Bethlehem Central High School Dance Band and Swing Choir to Montreal's Expo '67, a car wash will be held on Saturday, April 29 at the Delmar Reformed Church parking lot from 9 A.M. to 1 P.M. Delmar motorists can help keep America beautiful, and while cars are washed, their owners will be entertained by a German band made up of members of the Dance Band.

The Dance Band and Swing Choir have already held a bake sale and plan to hold another in May. The profits from all these fund raising events will be used to defray the expenses of their trip to Montreal's Expo '67, where they have been invited to perform on May 26.

Any donations would be gratefully accepted, and may be sent to the groups in care of the Music Department at the Senior High School.

Your Lawn

Spring seems to have finally arrived! Along with spring comes many garden chores to get us out in the nice weather. One of the first gardening chores is to get the lawn in shape so that it will be as green as the one on the "other side of the fence."

The first job, if it isn't already done, is to rake the lawn. This should be done as soon as the lawn is dry enough to walk on without leaving footprints. A good vigorous raking will not only remove the winter's debris, but will remove the matted grass and leaves that prevent water and air from entering the soil.

The next step is apply lime, if needed. A simple test for lime needs can be made at the Extension office or at your local garden center.

Unlike lime, all lawns need fertilizer every year. The number of fertilizer applications each season is determined by your own standards of excellence, the amount of rainfall during the season, and by your pocketbook. A rule of thumb is to apply one pound of nitrogen on each 1000 square feet of established lawn at each application. This can be supplied by 10 pounds of a 10% nitrogen fertilizer or 20 pounds of a 5% nitrogen fertilizer per 1000 square feet. (The percentage of nitrogen is the first number of the fertilizer grade. Thus, both 10-10-10 and 10-6-4 are 10% nitrogen Fertilizers and 5-10-5 is a 5% nitrogen Fertilizer.)

Many people follow a fertilizer program that supplies one pound of nitrogen three times during the season. Applications are made in early spring (about now) again in early June and in early September.

Fertilizing is the most rewarding job that you'll do to improve your lawn. Dollar for dollar, the greatest return from a lawn is from fertilizer.

Speaker

Mrs. Mary Caruso, director of the Tri-Village Nursery School, was guest speaker for the senior home economics class at Bethlehem Central Senior High School on April 19. The guest presentation was one more in a series of specialized appearances in this course covering growth and development of the child and family adjustment. Mrs. Caruso was assisted by four of her students and a mother of a nursery school child. In demonstrating the activities of nursery school, the senior students were given clear examples of the level of functioning for the particular age group.

Willow Planting

For years, shoving willow cuttings into streambanks has been a traditional activity of fishermen. Unfortunately, much of the tradition now is lip service rather than doing. It is a tradition worthy of much greater application, for the results in relation to the work are exceedingly great.

The dense mat of roots formed by willows can help stabilize an eroding streambank. The rapidly growing branches help shade the stream and keep it cool. The branches also harbor many insects which fall into the stream and are eaten by the fish.

Even better than fresh cutting are rooted buttings, which are available from the Conservation Department for streambank planting. Many of them are planted by Department crews each year along public fishing streams. This is also an excellent activity for youth groups.

Not every willow is satisfactory for this type of work. Trees that grow over 20 feet high, such as the black willow, should be avoided. Instead, low, limber willows are needed that will bend before the ice and current of the early spring high water. The common pussy willow and basket or purple osier willow meet this test well. Silky dogwood and red-osier dogwood combine well with willow, and can be planted along the tops of the streambanks because they require less water.

To produce the dense root mat needed to hold a bank, rooted willow stock should be planted about two feet apart. Additional rows at two-foot intervals should be planted behind the front row to insure that the whole bank is stabilized.

Suitable material for cuttings is generally available throughout the State. Fresh cuttings of the previous year's growth will give the best results. Stock that is crowding half an inch in diameter will do better than the thin whips. Cuttings should be long enough so that they can be forced deeply into the mud and have the cut end below the summer water level.

When the mud is really soft, cuttings may be shoved into the ground without damage to the bark. Damage to the bark, however, may prevent proper growth and survival. A better method is to make a hole with an iron rod and drop the cutting into it. When placed in a hole, the cutting should be seated well by stamping with the foot on either side to drive the air out from around it.

Sometimes several cuttings or small bundles of cuttings are placed in one hole as insurance that at least one will take root and grow.

Where one row of cuttings near the waterline is not adequate to protect the bank, long poles can be used. The butt end should be well into the mud below the waterline, and the pole laid in a shallow trench and loosely covered with soil. Willow pegs can be used to hold the poles in place.

These poles should send out shoots and roots along their entire length. If the poles are placed at two-foot intervals, they should establish an excellent protective cover for the entire bank.

The best time for planting either rooted stock or cuttings is early spring. Some success may be obtained with fresh cuttings even into early summer if the cut ends are well below the waterline. This is a key factor in survival at any time of year. Cuttings planted in early spring may be left high, dry, and dead, if a proper estimate of the summer water level is not made.

Since the root-inducing hormones are produced in the leaves, it follows that no leaves - no roots - no survival. Cattle are a major cause of "no leaves." Any willow cuttings or plantings should be protected from cattle. In many cases willow and other plants are growing along streambanks, and simply fencing the stream will give the protection needed to let the plants grow and do their job of stabilizing the streambank.

Check the Wiring

Richard S. Swantek, manager of the Adequate Wiring Bureau of Eastern New York, today reminded homeowners that spring is a good time to check their homes' wiring systems.

"With the coming of spring, many homeowners are planning to fix up their homes. Major as well as minor modernization projects which have been postponed are being done now during the mild spring weather. And one of the items which should be included in any home modernization project," said Swantek, "is a check of the home's wiring system.

"Many older homes do not have sufficient housepower to meet today's increased electrical demands. When these homes were built, many years ago, electric service of 60 amperes was considered adequate. Today, 100 amperes is considered the minimum, with 150 or even 200 amp service desirable to provide all the electrical service needed for today's modern living."

Swantek urged those who are planning to modernize their homes to be sure to include a housepower inspection in their planning.

He reminded homeowners that Adequate Wiring Bureau member contractors offer free housepower inspections to help the homeowner determine if his electrical service is adequate to meet his family's needs.

Swantek also pointed out that AWB member banks will arrange financing for rewiring jobs with payments scheduled for as little as $10 a month.

"One way to bring your home up to date is to equip it with sufficient housepower to run all the electrical appliances in use in the home. No home modernization project can be considered complete unless adequate wiring is part of that project," Swantek concluded.

The National Leadership Conference will convene at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, on Thursday, April 27. At this time the contests conducted on the State level will continue on a National level. There will also be meetings of State officers, workshops, and general sessions. The Conference will end on Saturday, April 29, with the presentation of awards at the banquet in the International Ballroom of the Hotel, followed by the Awards Ball.

Donna and Tom will be accompanied on their trip to Chicago by Robert A. Pierson, Coordinator of Distributive Education at Bethlehem Central.

String of Steel

The quiet hum of trains run-ning on continuous welded rail is replacing the familiar, rhythmic

"clickety-clack" of steel wheels pounding over rail-joints on tracks of the Delaware and Hud-son Railroad.

The railroad is supplanting con-ventional 39-foot rails with con-tinuous welded rail up to a quar-ter-mile long to lower mainten-ance costs and eliminate damag-ing sway that may result when cars pass over uneven rail-joints.

"Continuous welded rail is un-like ordinary rail that was laid for decades in 39-foot lengths. It gives a smoother, faster and safer ride and protects freight from impact and shock damage by virtually doing away with the bolted rail-joint — weakest point

Thomas Wolfe said it so well:

"There is no spectacle on earth more appealing than . . . a woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

Isn't it the truth. But while it probably applies equally well — in a primitive sense — to cooking in a Mayfair kitchen and over some coals in a jungle hut . . . it's much more rewarding in a Mayfair kitchen. A Mayfair kitchen satisfies not only the primitive wife and mother in you, but also the modern woman of sophisticated tastes and values. It is created for you alone, designed to your individual ideas and according to your own family's pattern of life. There will be no other like it, anywhere.

Don't be afraid that Mayfair kitchens cost a mint. They don't. We work within any realistic budget. Call HO 5-5261 or drop in any time.

in any track system," said Ray Haight, Delaware and Hudson chief engineer.

Bolted rail-joints suffer constant pounding from heavy loads that cause joint failures, shortening the service life of track. Welded rail-joints, on the other hand, are as strong as or stronger than the rail itself.

The quarter-mile lengths of rail now being laid on the Delaware and Hudson are welded at the National Cylinder Gas division of Chemetron Corporation's mobile rail welding unit at Scranton, Pa.

New or used rails are fed into a welding unit mounted on a specially-built, 70-ton, 60-foot railroad car. Rail-ends are preheated by electric current to a plastic, molten stage, then squeezed together under 30 tons pressure," said Robert A. Baer, NCG vice president of railroad services and equipment. "A final hammer-like blow of 50 tons is then struck, forcing foreign matter, gases and surplus molten metal from the weld joint."

Excess molten metal is then sheared off the joint and the weld moves automatically to the next operation where the welded joint is smoothed by grinding and tested, said Baer. The NOG system is the first and only system of its kind to be manufactured in the U.S. It is designed to complete the entire welding operation in about two minutes.

Strings of welded rail are loaded directly onto a 26-car rail train, ready to roll to track-laying points throughout the Delaware and Hudson system. Since the long rails are flexible, they bend when the train rounds curves or travels up and down grades. Some of the strings are made shorter than a quarter-mile for use on curves.

"At the track-laying site, two rails at a time are removed from the train by anchoring the rail-ends," said Haight. "The locomotive then pulls the cars out from under the anchored rails, one on each side of the cars."

Haight said that the extra-long rails do not expand or contract any more than 39-foot rails because a string of continuous welded rail in tracks is restrained from expanding and contracting by rail anchors acting on the ties and ballast, the spikes holding the rail in place, frictional resistance on the tie plates, the gripping action of the tie place should-ers on the rail base and resistance to slippage within the rail-joints at each end of the welded rail. The combined effect of these re-straints is that the rail cannot expand or contract except for a small movement at each end.

Although initially more expen-
