

Meeting

Fall Sports Night will be the theme of the Bethlehem Central Men's Association's first meeting of the new school year next Wednesday evening at 8:15 at the Senior High School. All interested parents — mothers as well as fathers — are invited and urged to attend.

The objectives and values of sports in the school's physical education program will be described by Joseph A. Guerrero, director of this program for the school district. The audience will then separate into four special interest groups on cross-country, football, soccer and women's sports, including cheer-leading. The coach of each activity will explain principles and techniques, new rule changes, and the season's prospects. All sessions will allow time for give-and-take discussion.

A business meeting of the Association members, chaired by President Edward M. Monthie, will precede the program at 7:30.

Carolyn Heidt is a recent graduate from the Child Care Technician Course at St. Catherine's Infant Home, North Main Ave., Albany.

Admission Prices Announced

The Bethlehem Central Senior High School will charge the usual ticket prices for its home football and basketball games:

Regular ticket prices at the gate will be $1.00 for all spectators, except for children in grades K-6, who will pay 25¢ when accompanied by a responsible adult.

Senior High students who have paid their $1.00 Student Association membership fee will be able to purchase home and away game tickets for 35¢ during the school week. Students who do not purchase the pre-game 35¢ ticket at the Senior High must pay the regular $1.00 spectator ticket price at the gate.

At the Junior High, 25¢ tickets will be available on Fridays to all Junior High students for the home games only. Junior High students not purchasing the pre-game tickets for 25¢ must pay the regular $1.00 spectator price at the gate.

The first football game of the season will be played at the Bethlehem Junior High School field on Saturday, September 16.

Turkey Season

Eastern New York's wild turkey season will run Oct. 2 - 8 in Delaware, Greene, Otsego and Schoharie Counties, the State Conservation Department announced today.

A free, special permit is required for the week-long season in addition to a 1967-68 small game hunting license. Applications for a permit will be accepted from Sept. 14 through Oct. 4 by mail or in person. Correspondence should be addressed to: Regional Game Manager, New York State Conservation Department, Stamford, N.Y. 12167. An applicant must submit his name, address and registration number from his 1967-68 small game hunting license.

THE SPOTLIGHT

This marks the fifth consecutive wild turkey season in the Catskill section of the state. In 1967 one hunter in 24 took a turkey.

Prospects for the 1967 season, according to regional game manager John J. Whalen, are "brighter than a year ago". More broods have been spotted and, despite a wet summer season, survival has been good. However, because turkey hunting requires a great deal of skill, few hunters are expected to come away with a Thanksgiving Day trophy.

Permits and an attached questionnaire must be returned to the Department's Stamford office following the close of the season.

In addition, a hunter fortunate enough to kill a turkey is required to send in one leg of the bird so the age and sex of the bird may be determined.

Because the Department is keeping close tabs on the success of its program to establish turkeys in the eastern part of the state, some birds have been banded while others have miniature radios attached. Successful hunters are requested to turn in all research devices. A $10 reward will be paid upon surrender of a transmitter.

The wild turkey, America's largest game bird, has increased from near extinction 50 years ago to a point where many states have established hunting seasons.

Because of its new importance as a game bird, scientific information on the various races, the bird's range, and latest population figures have been brought together in a book published by The Wildlife Society and edited by Prof. Oliver H. Hewitt, conservationist at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell University.

The 589-page book includes background and historical facts about turkeys, and how they have evolved; their biology and habits, population and distribution; and their management in the various geographical areas.

The book is designed for the sportsman, biologist, student, and general reader. Three color plates are included, taken from paintings by Louis Agassiz Fierres, George Miksch Sutton and the Ned Smith. Also, numerous photographs, charts, and drawings illustrate the text.

On Dean's List

You can see the top side of the meat but not the bottom. So you wonder.

The steak looks good, but is the bottom all bone and fat?

It's a problem... a problem we've given a lot of thought.

We think we have the answer.

We have a policy.

We put the best side down.

The side you don't see is guaranteed to be equal to or better than the side you can see.

Simple? as ABC.

Effective? No more gamble.

Fair and square? Sure because "We Care."

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

YVONNE E. BRAGG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Bragg, 638 Kenwood Avenue, Slingerlands, became the bride of Philip R. Wood, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Wood, Sr., 7 Maewin Drive, Glenmont, on August 19. The wedding Mass was celebrated by Rev. Jupin at St. Thomas' Church, Delmar.

Care Committee

"With the hoped-for end not in sight the work of the Committee That Cares enters its third year. While the end is unpredictable, the purpose of the Committee remains firm. The purpose is two-fold. First to let those men from the Town of Bethlehem in the Armed Forces in the Viet Nam war zone know their efforts and sacrifices are being recognized and supported. second, to keep high the hopes for a settlement of the war in Viet Nam who wish it." This sentiment was expressed by Committee Chairman Alexander J. Woehrle.

The Committee had its start in the Fall of 1965 at the Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040 of the American Legion. In a short time the Committee had many of the Town's church, civic, veteran, fraternal, volunteer and fire organizations participating.

To date no women from the Town of Bethlehem have been reported in Viet Nam. The list of men has grown to thirty-three. The names of sixty men have been entered and removed from the Committee's list.

The work of the Committee is divided up so that each month a member organization is assigned the work of shopping, packaging and mailing a parcel to each man on the list. The mailing address labels have been donated as are some of the contents of the packages: Cash contributions from the Committee's organization as well as personal contributions keeps the Committee financed. Contributions have also come from parents of the lads on the Committee's list as well as from some of the men for whom the Committee is functioning.

A special event by the Committee of last year can be expected to be repeated. That is a meeting to which the parents of those men in Viet Nam are invited. At the last session the parents of half the men then on the Committee's list attended.

Names are added to the list as they become known to the Committee through publication or from parents or friends of those on duty in Viet Nam. The Committee maintains a list of the men serving in Viet Nam on a bulletin board in the lobby of the Delmar Post Office.

The committee served a specific usefulness this past summer when "Action Line", in the Albany KNICKERBOCKER NEWS replied to a writer seeking the names of servicemen in Viet Nam to whom to write letters. As a result, a score of persons who wrote to the Committee were supplied with names.

Committee plans for the coming year will be discussed at its up-coming organizational meeting. This takes place Thursday, September 7, at 7:30 p.m., at the Winch said there were only a few privately owned and operated campgrounds in 1957 but with a 20 per cent annual growth during the past 10 years, there are now about 350 in the state.

With the trend from tent to trailer camping, camp operators have been quick to meet the changing needs, Winch said. He said the operators are in personal contact with the campers so they know their needs and can meet them more quickly than can be done at public sites.

Winch said many operators provide special features such as three and four-hole golf courses and play areas for youngsters. One camp gives the youngsters a hay ride on afternoons when there are many young guests in camp.

Also, some camps provide special accommodations for caravans, allowing them to stay together in the campsite and set up a convenient cook tent.

In many campgrounds, as many as 10 per cent of the campsites are rented on a seasonal basis so a family can park its trailer and then visit it on weekends and during vacation periods.

Recreation Maps

A new, enlarged, full-color edition of New York's "Outdoor Recreation Map" is now available, the State Conservation Department announced today.

The free 32" x 36" folder features a large map of New York State — one likely to be displayed on many a home and office wall. All public land and major facilities operated by the Conservation Department are indicated in color. Forest Preserve land, State Parks and historic sites and boat launching sites, public campsites and fishing streams, fish hatcheries, fire towers and some major hiking trails are marked on the map.

Three smaller maps — conveniently located just beneath the large one — outline the State Park regions, forestry districts, and fish and game regions into which the State is divided for administrative purposes. Headquarters of each region or district are listed.

The reverse side of the folder is equally colorful and is jam-packed with information about the facilities shown on the map. Facilities are located by county,

Student Deferment

To the Editor: There have been many articles printed in recent months concerning the new Selective Service law. As a service to all college students in the area I feel one aspect of it should be brought to their attention. To be considered for a 2-S classification each registrant must submit a written request for deferment to his local board. A simple letter to the local board requesting a 2-S classification would suffice. It is each registrants' responsibility to submit this request to his local board.

Under the new law no registrant who has requested and received deferment as an undergraduate student will be eligible for additional deferment except for extreme hardship, graduate study or employment contributing to the national health, safety or interest. This change would be especially applicable when a registrant marries and a family is involved. He would no longer be automatically considered for deferment in class 3-A as a father.

Therefore, if any student in the area wishes to be considered or classification in class 2-S for the coming school year I would suggest he so inform his local board. They are more than willing to answer any questions a registrant might have concerning his student status if they are able to.
