

Talbot Brothers to Appear on Next Cultural Council Program

Calypso music will be featured in the next RCS Community Cultural Council program, to be held in the auditorium of the RCS Junior-Senior High School on Saturday, December 2, 1967 at 8:15 p.m. Supplying music will be the well-known Talbot Brothers of Bermuda.

The Talbot Brothers made their first tour of America in 1953. They were an instantaneous click. Since the American calypso scene is only brightened by their presence for three months out of every twelve, they play to packed houses wherever they appear. It is a rare night when hundreds of would-be patrons are not turned away from the box office at a Talbot Brothers performance.

The Brothers have to their credit several television appearances, among them two dates on the Ed Sullivan Show. They also supplied the theme melody for the motion picture, "Bermuda Affair." Their high fidelity, long-playing records have appeared under the labels of Audio Fidelity, ABC-Paramount, and Polyphonic.

Tickets for this show are still available and may be purchased at the Delmar Pharmacy, Grover's Stationery Store at the Delaware Plaza, the Van Curler Music Store in Albany, or at the door the evening of the performance.

3 Pancake Breakfasts

The Bethlehem Lions Club will hold its annual Pancake Breakfast on Sunday, November 19, from 8 A.M. to 1 P.M. in the Junior High School cafeteria. Donations are: adults $1, children under 12 50¢.

Proceeds from these breakfasts are used in the sight conservation and Senior Citizens programs.

The fourth annual Greater Ravena Area Lions Club pancake breakfast and brunch will be held Sunday, November 19, from 8 to 1:00 p.m. in the dining room of the RCS Junior-Senior High School.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to carry on the many service activities of the Lions Club. Each year the Club offers a $1,000 scholarship to a graduating senior of the RCS Junior-Senior High School. At the present time, four graduates are finding it possible to attend college as a result of Lions Club scholarships. In addition, the Lions Club carries on extensive sight conservation programs. Fashion Chemistry is Exploding; Plan a Wardrobe with POW!

The auditorium of the Bethlehem Central Junior High School will serve as the laboratory for a dynamic fashion explosion entitled "Fashion Chemistry" on November 20, at 10:00 A.M. by the fashion stylist of the Simplicity Pattern Company's Educational staff. Twenty-three positive reactions, especially designed for teens, will be modeled by students.

"ELEMENTS FOR SEPARATES" include the careful combination of gold and blue for a new spontaneous fashion reaction. Skirts often change properties when combined with the important look of vests, turtle neck tops and long pullovers in regimental stripes.

"JUMPER ANALYSIS" is highlighted in a group of school fashions showing new and fresh compositions. Corduroy is super-saturated with new lines and designs in hi-lo formulas. Flip skirts, longer lines and tent shapes are some of the basic elements in this group.

"THE THEORY OF CLASSICS" follows the formula of line and design as related to mixtures of colors and textures. The sure catalyst is to choose accessories one can make one's self. Here, we combined copper and platinum for an added dimension. The skillful sewer will find these an exciting challenge to her as she experiments with sewing ideas that create new and more personal equations.

Not only is this an age of splitting atoms, but there are new trends developing in the mini equations we have formulated. Plaids, stripes and solids join the mini-march toward progress in fashions which have been designed for fun and leisure time activities. The pants-suit and new divided skirt are sure-fire firsts in creating new chain reactions.

"DRESS DATA" has been computed so it can be developed from casual dates to special events. Braids and banding, stripes and chevrons will all be featured for all types of fun. Metal moves into fashion in many forms by way of buttons, buckles and trims.

Throughout this entire explosion of fashion, teens will be inspired to create their own equations for fun in fashion. The entire composition will include good grooming and timely tips to inspire and challenge all who attend "FASHION CHEMISTRY" to learn how to analyze and combine their own POW fashion formula.

MEETING

At Meeting

On November 6, Hugh J. Brown, data processing teacher at the Bethlehem Central Senior High School, attended an orientation session on data processing sponsored by Nichols Business Equipment, Inc., at the Colonie Center, Colonie Room.

Mr. Miller, an Education Representative from the 3M Company, Visual Products Division, conducted the session and answered questions of the approximately twenty area teachers who attended.

Mr. Brown is currently teaching data processing at the High School. He works with one regular class and is also working with students from the secretarial and office practice classes, giving them background and understanding of data processing, especially the key punch function.

These Sisters are representative of the eighty-five Nuns who have enrolled in an Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross Swimming and Life-Saving Course which is being conducted at Our Lady of Angel's Seminary in Glenmont, the first of its kind in New York State. Mrs. John Joyce, Albany (Kneeling) is the supervising Red Cross Safety Instructor. She is assisted by Miss Barbara Kundel, Glenmont (pool left) and Mrs. Rosemary Redick, Albany, also instructors for the course. The large enrollment necessitated dividing the class into two evening sessions. Classes are conducted on Monday and Friday nights from 6:30 until 7:30 P.M. The Sisters will also be taught Small Craft as part of the Water Safety Course. This course, organized by James H. Carnahan, director of Health and Safety Services of the Albany, New York Chapter, will run for ten weeks in the fall and ten weeks in the spring.

Participants

Samuel S. Bozzella, Music Department Chairman, and Mrs. Magdalene York, Vocal and String director, have announced the selection of sixteen Bethlehem Central Senior High School music students to participate in the New York State School Music Association (NYSSMA) Area All-State Sectional to be held at the Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake High School on November 17, and 18.

The Bethlehem participants were first recommended by their directors, Mr. Bozzella and Mrs. York. Recommendations included student's contribution to the music organizations and individual ratings earned at NYSSMA competitions.

Those chosen from the Bethlehem band are: Keith Carr (trumpet) Linda Cook (flute), David Marshman (baritone), Pamela Smith (clarinet), James Snyder (trumpet), and Richard Taylor (trombone).

For the orchestra are: Barbara Ganey (oboe), Sidney Jones (cello), and Joanne Yungman, (viola).

For the choir: Jeanine D'Ascoli (soprano), Paul Donovan (tenor), Shirley Nasner (alto), Pamela Rich (soprano), Richard Riedel (tenor), David Seal (bass), and Elaine Were (alto).

The three musical organizations will be presented in a concert at the Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake High School on November 18 at 8:00 p.m.

The public is cordially invited.

Speaker

Mr. Dwight F. Metzler, Deputy Commissioner, New York State Department of Health, will be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Men's Association, Delmar Methodist Church, Monday evening, November 20.

Mr. Metzler will present an illustrated discussion on air and water pollution. He is an expert in this field.

Mr. Metzler served as a professor of health engineering at the University of Kansas and as Chief Engineer of the Kansas State Board of Health. His experience includes the organization of the first pollution abatement program on a river basin. He also organized a water quality study for the Public Health Service on the Arkansas-Red River Basin. A native of Kansas, he came to New York State in 1966, having been selected by Gov. Rockefeller to head the Air & Water Pollution work of the Health Department.

He has received many honors including awards from the American Water Works Association, the Fuller Award, the Crum-

Movies

Here we go again with a happy morning for the small fry at the Delmar Public Library. On Saturday, November 18, two film programs will be presented, the first at 9:30 the second at 11:00. "A Special Day," concerning children's day at Coney Island and "The Fish and the Fisherman" will be the shorts. The main feature, "Harold and the Purple Carayon" is a great favorite and is loads of fun.

We only hope your children will be prompt as the capacity crowds so far indicate how much you all enjoy our movies.

High School Presents

Tomorrow night and Saturday night at 8:15 p.m., the Charlantans of Bethlehem Central Senior High School will present "The Adding Machine." This play by Elmer Rice, directed by Sydney Turner, should be stimulating and innovative drama for the play goer. Experimental technique in sound, lighting, set and make-up have been used.

Peter Heron, Kathy Smith, Judy Flandreau, Jon Deily, Mike Steinberg, Steve LaNier, Mike Sharp, Nancy Kuivila, and Cliff Saper have the leads.

Dee Dee Platt is Stage Manager and those heading back stage and pre-performance committees are: Al Davis and Dave Doherty, technical crew; Carolyn Rogers and Janet Katz, costumes; Cliff Saper, publicity; Dani Jerry, props; Annemarie Brown, make-up; Bobbie Brewster, tickets; Jon Deily, set; Tim Gray, program; and Zan Blendell, house management.

Tickets may be bought at the door or from any Charlatan member.

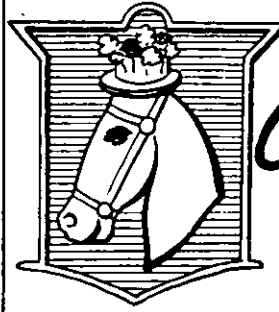

Program

The fourth grade class in The Delmar Elementary School and their teacher, Mrs. Dorothy M. Hosey, presented an assembly program on November 8, at 1:45 in the school. This program via a choral speaking number, "Set Back The Old Hall Clock" and glimpsed a classroom of long ago. Songs old and new were sung. Mrs. Geraldine Bauder, music teacher, assisted with the musical part of the program. Mrs. Hosey and her 4th graders did a choral reading which she wrote in honor of the Veterans entitled "Corp. Richard Hogan and His Grave Up On the Hill."

They dedicated their program to Olin Bouck and presented him with an award for outstanding

Look Out!

The smooth sheet of ice that looks so inviting for skating and sliding can be a death trap, warns James H. Carnahan, director of Health and Safety Services, Red Cross Albany, New York Chapter Area.

An estimated 400-500 deaths occur each year from falls through ice, according to Carnahan.

"The tragedy is that many of the deaths could be prevented if the victims or bystanders knew what to do," said Carnahan.

With the winter ice season approaching, he urged ice sports enthusiasts to heed these Red Cross safety precautions and rescue pointers:

- If you break through ice into deep water, don't try to climb out using your knees. Instead, extend both arms along the surface of the ice, extend your legs and kick vigorously. This will help you to squirm forward onto solid g sites, keep some rescue equipment handy. A 30-foot coil of rope with a life ring at the end; a 12-foot plank, ladder, or reaching pole, or an old tire tied to a long rope.

- When rescuing someone who has broken through the ice, warn others away from the break. Lie down flat, to distribute the weight of your body, and push the 12-foot plank, ladder, or pole to the victim. Don't stand near the break and never attempt a swimming rescue.

Ask your American Red Cross for their 16mm. motion picture "Ice Rescue." It is available free of charge for club or school use.

Carnahan said the American Red Cross cites these precautions for skaters on ice-coated ponds, lakes, and rivers:

1. Never skate alone. Always skate in supervised areas.

2. Skate only where the ice is three to four inches thick.

3. Don't build a fire on the ice or gather in large groups.

4. Shallow-water skating areas offer the safest and best conditions for skating. The water should not be more than waist-deep to the smallest skater.

"Remember, prologed freezing temperatures are necessary for the ice to freeze solidly and to a safe thickness," cautioned Carnahan.

He said extra care should be taken when crossing ice that has formed over running water, such as in a stream or river. The water currents can erode the ice from below and weaken it.

Fastest Growing

The fastest growing business in our country today is government. Federal, state and local governments are all growing at a rate far in excess of anything else in our growing nations.

We are passing the 200 million population mark in a few weeks. This represents a growth of 1.15 per cent in a year.

Total employment in August of this year was 66,473,000. This was 1,866,000 more jobs than there were in August a year ago. The growth in all jobs was 2.9 per cent.

Now let us break down these figures.

Private industry supplied 55,228,000 jobs in August, 1967. This was 1,141,000 more than the same month a year ago. The number of jobs created by the "private sector" of the economy thus grew at a rate of 2.1 per cent.

We next come to government payrolls.

In August of this year there were 11,245,000 people on federal, state, and local payrolls. This was an increase of 725,000 public payroll jobs in this country in one year.

The growth rate of the number of public payroll jobs was a shade below 7 per cent.

Let us recapitulate:

Private industry jobs, the basic source of the wealth from which we derive taxes, increase at the rate of 2.1 per cent a year.

Public payroll jobs, financed by these taxes, are increasing at a rate of 7 per cent a year.

For some years, most of the growth in government jobs could be attributed to state and local governments. In the past year the expansion of federal jobs has added to the dizzy pace.

Federal employment increased in one year from 2,631,000 to 2,804,000. Civilian employment in the Department of Defense was a big factor in this growth.

State and local government jobs increased from 7,889,000 a year ago to 8,441,000 in August of 1967.

The population explosion, the drift to the suburbs, the need for new public services, have all provided valid excuses for the growth in state and local payrolls for years.

But total population increases at a 1.15 per cent rate. For how long do state and local jobs expand at a 7 per cent rate before we are taking in one another's washing?

Manufacturing employment is a good measure for comparing the growth in public payroll jobs. Manufacturing, which employed some 19,480,000 workers in August of this year is the lar-

Deer Checking

Deer checking stations in the Adirondacks will be operated on weekends at three major locations throughout the remainder of the deer season, the Conservation Department announced today.

One station will be on the Northway at the Corinth rest area; another will be at Northville on Route 30; and the third will operate at the Trenton rest area on Route 12 north of Utica. Periodic road checks will also be made at various locations in the northern zone until the close of the season on December 5.

At last weekend's operation of the checking stations, 252 deer and 11 bear went through the Northway station. At Northville, Department game specialists checked 119 deer and 2 bears, and 165 deer and 4 bear passed through the Trenton station.

Over the years, the checking stations have provided the Department with valuable information which is studied and used to improve game management programs and to design hunting seasons. Department game specialists and research personnel check the age, weight, sex and state of nutrition of deer and provide this information to the hunter. Additional data on bear is also taken and recorded.

Where?

Hunting a place to hunt is today's No. 1 problem for the modern deerslayer.

A scarcity of free and open hunting grounds and a mounting increase in the number of hunters who annually take to the fields and woods are the causes of this outdoor imbalance. But, as experts point out, there are enough hunting grounds to go around. Not all hunters know where to look.

To help hunters overcome this problem, Outdoor Publications of Ithaca, N.Y., has issued two "Sportsman's Maps," showing the location of more than 2,500,000 acres of open hunting land in the Adirondack and Catskill mountains.

According to the publisher, one purpose of these "Sportsman's Maps" is to guide hunters to specific parcels of public land and help them gain access to this land. Easy access to this large public acreage is seen on the maps where parcels touch state, county, and township roads, and where state-maintained hiking trails originate on public land.

In addition to pointing out public hunting grounds, the maps also provide information for the fisherman, camper, hiker, skier, and those interested in viewing and touring in these regions.

Good Hunting!

Grouse hunters this year are finding grouse much less abundant than they did two years ago. Cottontail rabbit hunters, on the other hand, are finding more rabbits.

The ups and downs of wildlife population used to concern the game manager much more than they do today, for it is now known that great extremes are normal and to be expected. This does not mean wildlife biologists are not concerned about low populations, for there are those which are not normal lows and represent very unhealthy conditions for the animal concerned. A prime example of this is the present status of our national emblem, the bald eagle, which is fast disappearing from its range south of Alaska.

A normal low population, that is one not caused by something like DDT or man's destruction of the habitat, will recover. In the case of some species of game, such as waterfowl, closed or reduced seasons can speed this recovery, while in others, such as grouse or cottontails, this appears to have little effect.

What causes a high population, such as the 1965 grouse population, to suddenly disappear? At one time it was felt that disease was the major decimating factor. At times this has been easily demonstrated. As the population density increases so does the opportunity for a sick animal to pass on the disease to a healthy animal. Rabies in our fox population a few years back is a good example of this. Disease as a factor is usually hard to document, for the animals just curl up and die and seldom are brought to the attention of a qualified pathologist.

Since the normal life span of most small animals is short, if adequate replacements are not made it isn't long before a reduced population occurs.

Weather can play a surprisingly important part in the survival of infant wildlife. Floods can be calamities to local populations, but more important to widespread areas are cold rains at critical times. The crash of the pheasant population in the early 40's was probably brought about by extended cold rains during the animals a power to compensate for population density changes. As populations increase there is increased competition for food, territory, and cover, which creates friction between members of the population. This results in a lowering of the reproductive rate. When a low population density exists, food and good cover are more readily available and a higher reproductive rate develops.

Under the less complicated conditions of the Arctic, some of these actions and interrelationships are more easily demonstrated. The snowy owl reproduction, for instance, responds dramatically to the lemming population. During low years of the lemming cycle there is no breeding at all. As the peak approaches, the owls may breed and lay four or five eggs. When food is abundant during peak years of the cycle,

“Who is your brother’s keeper?”

Should it be you?

In a time when it's 'every man for himself,' to love your neighbor as yourself may seem to carry a hollow ring.

But to do so can be vital to each of us. To love even our enemies is to discover something of the richness of love itself. It can open the way to greater accomplishment in our lives, restoring health and blessing others. And the way is to begin to see our true nature — and that of our fellowman — as fashioned in the image and likeness of God.

You are invited to hear this subject explored in a challenging lecture by Neil H. Bowles, C.S.B., of Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. Bowles is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Admission is free and all are welcome.

owls are attracted to the area and may lay as many as eight or a dozen eggs.

Some statisticians claim that cycles are just a matter of survival by random numbers. They may have a point, for any card player knows that there are evenings when his luck runs good.

Whether cycles are just a numbers game or are caused by various factors such as disease, weather, intraspecific stress, abundance of food, or any number of other factors, wildlife populations have always had their ups and downs. As long as the habitat conditions required by the wildlife are good we can count on their natural reproductive ability to restore their numbers.

Leonardo, the Eye Doctor?

Probably, because Leonardo Da Vinci, the renowned master painter and inventor, is also famed as the first to describe the camera-like action of the eye. He recorded the earliest theory of contact lenses around 1508!

Our experience in the grinding of lenses and careful fitting of eyeglasses has been guided by only one policy... craftsmanship. Throughout our long years of doing business this has meant no shortcuts, no second-rate merchandise, no skimping anywhere.

Let us fill your ophthalmologists' prescription with lenses that protect your most precious possession—your eyes!
