

Iris Auction

An event to which many gardeners in the Tri-Village area have looked forward for weeks will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Irwin A. Conroe, Font Grove Road, Slingerlands, on Sunday, July 28, when the Capital-Hudson Area of the Empire State Iris Society will hold its annual auction and sale of surplus irises. These irises are overstock contributed by the Society members or grown especially for the several auctions held throughout the state. They represent some of the latest and newest varieties as well as dozens of the old-time iris favorites. The more expensive irises will be auctioned off at two o'clock in the afternoon; the less expensive ones will be available on bargain tables beginning at eleven o'clock in the morning.

Immediately preceding the auction itself there will be a picnic luncheon for anyone who wishes to participate. Picnickers will bring their own food but beverages will be furnished by the iris Society. Ample facilities will be available for all who choose to use them.

Last year hundreds of gardeners attended the sale and/or the auction where they were able to select irises ranging from fifty cents to three dollars each at only a fraction of their cost. Many of the twenty dollar irises were sold on the auction block for not much more than a tenth of their market value. For those not interested in names, but in colors, collections of irises will be available at a fraction of their normal cost. Colors will range throughout the spectrum in all tints, hues, blends and contrasts. There will be black irises, pure white irises, irises with beards of striking colors, dwarf irises, tall bearded irises, median irises and a few Siberian irises. Auction-goers will have unusual opportunity to purchase a whole collection of irises at prices far below those offered by iris dealers. Furthermore, they can experience the fun and relaxation of a picnic on the spacious lawns of the Conroes and a visit with other gardeners or would-be gardeners.

LETTER

To the editor,

Our town has become a veritable Hogan's Alley! The new trash collection, planned by our ever helpful town supervisor, Bertram Kohinke, and the Town Board, is a wonderful step forward. However the roadsides of our beautiful residences are a mess, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. This is caused partially because everyone does not yet understand the rules of the game, namely all trash tied in bundles or in containers.

The real problem is that many people leave their containers and debris at the roadside all week long. It would require little more effort to keep the trash out of sight and set it out the night before the day of collection, in each area. Our present habits do not recommend us as prideful citizens of the Town of Bethlehem.

Sincerely,
(Name Submitted)

Family Fun Night

Plan to attend the special Family Night at the Delmar Public Library, 8:00 P.M. Wednesday, July 31. There will be music and films for the whole family on the library lawn. Local talent will supply the music.

Films will include "The General," starring Buster Keaton and a Marcel Marceau short.

Grad

Stephen D. Pogni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dino Pogni, 660 Delaware Turnpike, Delmar, received his B.S. degree in Business Administration from Rider College, Trenton, N.J. on June 1.

Glenmont Fair

The members of Selkirk Volunteer Fire Company #2 are completing their preparations for the 12th Annual Glenmont Firemen's Fair, which will be held at the Fire House Grove on Route #32, Glenmont, for two weekends starting July 26 and 27 and ending August 2 and 3.

The friendly firemen have dusted off the various games of skill, stockpiled a huge supply of prizes and decorated the grove, one of the finest in the area, for everyone's enjoyment.

The "Cook Shed" a favorite of all who visit the Fair will again feature a Clam Bar, Hot Dogs and Hamburgers and many other gastronomic delights. Home made pizza, Italian Sausage Sandwiches and your favorite beverages will also be served daily.

The activities will commence at 7 P.M. each night and there is plenty of supervised free parking available for all.

Many of the teenagers from the Tri-Village area have expressed a desire to attend, but up to last year transportation was a problem. Again this year, the firemen have chartered a bus which will provide free transportation, Fridays only, to the grove on a half hour schedule. Pickup points will be at the Town Hall parking lot in Delmar and the A & P Parking Lot in Elsmere starting at 7 P.M., Friday, July 26, and returning the guests to these locations as needed with the last return trip at 10 P.M.

There will be a Country Auction at the Firehouse at 2 P.M. Saturday, August 3, and a Bake Sale by the Ladies Auxiliary at this time.

Anyone having anything to donate to the Auction should call either of the following firemen to arrange for the pickup of their articles: Joe Keller, 465-3193 or Harry Metchick, 463-8993.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Selkirk Fire Co. #2 will join the firemen at the annual Firemen's Fair at the fire house on July 26 & 27 and Aug. 2 and 3.

The ladies will have a game booth, white elephant table, bake sale and chances on a money doll. The bake sale will be held at 2 P.M. on Saturday, August 3. The money doll chances may be purchased from any auxiliary member or at the fair grounds. The drawing will be Saturday evening, August 3.

Fair

Punkintown Fair will be held Friday and Saturday nights, July 26-27 and August 2-3. Rain dates are August 9-10. Activities begin 7 o'clock on Fridays and 6 o'clock on Saturdays, next to the firehouse on Route 85A a short distance north of New Salem 4 corners at Route 85. There is no charge for admission and supervised car parking is free.

Punkintown Fair, New Salem Volunteer Fire Department's annual family fun affair, offers games galore, plenty of goodies and 10¢ rides for everyone from toddler to those just able to totter. There are benches for the latter.

New this year, are a gigantic, honest-to-goodness, hook and ladder fire truck which will give many youngsters a thrill ride and a "Sea Ride" which promises oceans of fun for all. The old favorites, Punkintown Trolley, whip and ferris wheel will also run.

All fair attractions are owned and operated by the fire department. The proceeds from the affair are used towards the operating expenses of the department which has 3 modern fire trucks and firehouses at New Scotland and New Salem.

New Salesman

James H. McGuire of 73 Louise Street, Delmar, has been named a new business salesman covering northeast New York State for Humble Oil & Refining Company. The announcement was made by William M. McCardell, manager of the company's New England, New York and New Jersey eight-state marketing area with offices in Pelham, N.Y.

A graduate of Columbia High School, East Greenbush, Mr. McGuire continued his education at St. Bernardine of Siena, Loudonville, where he received his B.S. degree in sociology, and a

M.S. degree in education. He joined the company in 1956 and held various training positions prior to entering sales in 1960 in the company's Albany marketing district.

In 1963 he was named a retail school instructor, and the following year became a service station supervisor. Prior to his present move he was a general salesman

New Group

A concerned group of clergymen and citizens has laid the foundation for a community action group in the Town of Coeymans.

THE SPOTLIGHT

The new group, just formally organized, is a seeding of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Council of Churches, and has come into existence as a result of the efforts of the Rev. Norman Tellier, pastor of Coeymans Reformed Church.

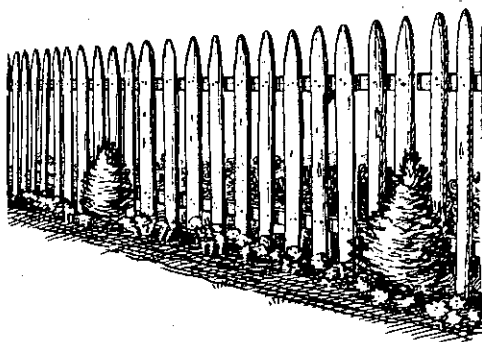

Mr. Tellier, who was elected chairman of the group, presided at a recent meeting in the Reformed Church.

More than 20 residents have been responsible for promoting the organization and have selected as their most immediate objectives: to improve racial and ethnic relations, to provide more youth recreational facilities and programs, and to seek means of resolving the town's housing shortage.

The committee plans to research the problems, formulate policies and present them to the appropriate town and village governmental agencies in the form of recommendations.

Other officers in the organization are: the Rev. Carl Urban of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Ravena, secretary; William Countaway and the Rev. Charles Lockwood, representatives to the Ravena Village Board, and Joan Lipscomb and David Perry, representatives to the Coeymans Town Board.

"We plan to have representatives of our committee attend the Town and Village Board meetings to establish a liaison between the organizations," Mr. Tellier explained. "We will also define the boundaries of our community which will probably be comparable to the boundaries of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District."

He indicated that if these boundaries were established, representatives of the community group would also attend meetings of the Town Boards of Bethlehem and New Baltimore.

"Our group will operate as a type of pressure group at these meetings with the purpose of implementing programs for community betterment," the minister explained.

He said the committee has received the support of the Ravena-Coeymans Planning Board which is at work on a master plan for the town and village. He also indicated the possibility of the new group's teaming up with the Town of Coeymans Citizens Committee which was recently organized to induce a physician to locate in the community.

Occupying the top spot on the committee's priority list is the promotion of better racial and ethnic relations.

"Many people will tell you there is no prejudice here," Rev. Tellier remarked. "But, anybody who can sincerely tell you there is no prejudice here would have to be blind."

The minister indicated that one of the primary problems is that the Negro and white residents reside in their separate areas and tend to ignore each other.

"We are going to try to seek means of bringing them together and create more understanding." The Negro population in the town lives almost exclusively in the hamlet of Coeymans along the Hudson River.

Since the committee is still in its infancy, no specific projects have been scheduled. However,

Mr. Tellier cited the need to establish a youth recreation center and to encourage construction of housing for senior citizens.

He said the committee will research the availability of government funds and the methods and requirements of securing them for such projects.

"The lack of recreational facilities and an effective recreation program is evident by the number of young people standing around on street corners late at night," Mr. Tellier said.

Plant Project

Construction of the Town of Coeymans Sewer District new pollution control facility is scheduled to begin this fall.

The new plant will serve the hamlet of Coeymans, the Village of Ravena and adjoining areas in the Town of Coeymans. The facility will be constructed on a 20-acre site on Barren Island.

The firm of Myrick and Chevalier, of Albany, engineers and designers of the plant, are completing the applications for final approval by the state and the federal government as required for financial aid under the Federal Water Pollution Control and New York Construction Aid Acts.

The construction of the plant will be another phase in the development of the $1,292,360 sewer system currently underway in the Town of Coeymans.

The pollution control facility will treat and purify raw sewage by the modern concept of activated sludge. The structure will contain about 87,000 cubic feet of space housing administration offices, control center, laboratory, a chlorine chemical oxidizer reactor and maintenance facilities for the district as well as 18,000 square feet of surface area in additional tanks and treatment facilities.

The structure will be constructed primarily of brick, concrete, steel and glass. The perimeter of the upper level will be panels and vertical framed color panels.

Exhibition Play

Ken Venturi, 1964 U.S. Open Champion and Bob Goalby, 1968 Master's Champion, will play an exhibition golf match at Winding Brook Country Club, Route 203, Valatie, New York, 2:00 P.M., July 28.

At 1:30 P.M., the two professional champions will hold a clinic. Advanced sale tickets for the event are $4.00, gate tickets will be $5.00. The match will be held rain or shine.

Quite a few people seemed surprised that Bob Goalby was one of the "reely big" stars of the 1967 golf Tour. But as Bob calmly explained: "I didn't have too bad a record before."

That is exactly the case too. The reason for the surprise is that Goalby tailed off for a spell from 1962 to 1966 and just turned the lights back on again to the tune of a $77,106.85 a season.

He did it convincingly too. He won the San Diego Open, the first tournament of 1967, coming out of a trap on the final hole to save his par and nudge Gay Brewer by a stroke. For the rest of the year, he had nine finishes in the Top 10 and three times tied for 11th.

Those super finishes were ties for 2nd in the Texas and Buick Opens, a tie for 4th in the Dallas Open, a tie for 5th in the Jacksonville Open, 6th in the Indianapolis '500' Festival, a tie for 6th in the U.S. Open, a tie for 7th in the PGA Championship, a tie for 8th at Los Angeles and 9th in the Thunderbird Classic.

A look at that list shows that Goalby was at best on some of

why should we guarantee other people's products?

If we didn't, we couldn't honestly say WE CARE. Could we?

You see, before any product is allowed on our shelves, we've checked it out pretty carefully.

We've checked the company that makes it. We've checked to be sure the product is all the package says it is.

If you ever buy anything at A&P you're not happy with, you don't have to bother to write a letter to the company that made it. Just tell your A&P store manager. He'll give you your money back. We'll get in touch with that company for you...and for us.

That's A&P's guarantee. No matter who makes it, if A&P sells it, A&P guarantees it. Not every store can offer you a guarantee like that. A&P can...and does. Shouldn't A&P be your store?

maintained a 71.221 scoring average for 95 rounds. He missed the cut only three times, all in succession, and oddly, on rounds of 71-71, 76-76 and 78-78.

Goalby frankly credits his return to his best form to lessons from a longtime friend, Johnny Revolta, who helped him curb a bad hook, and to a talk with Sam Snead and the late Tony Lama on the value of curbing his temper.

Goalby started in sizzling fashion as a professional, winning the Greensboro Open the fourth month of his career. He was named "Rookie of the Year" by Golf Digest in 1958 and has seven Tour titles to his credit now.

In one victory, the 1961 St. Petersburg Open, he established a still-standing record of eight birdies in a row.

Ken Venturi has just about learned to live with the rather penurious return for his golf game, which has been to both the heights and depths of amateur and professional competition.

For the fifth year in the past six, Ken's income was relatively meager considering the bundles of bucks available these days. Only in 1964, when he won three tournaments including the U.S. Open, has it been on a par with his talent.

Personal ailments have been a ball and chain to Venturi's efforts.

In 1962, he suffered a muscle spasm in his back. That caused his earnings to drop under $4,000 in 1963 after a sensational start in professional golf that saw him win 10 championships in his first four years.

But who can forget how he battled back to win the U.S. Open title by four strokes in 1964 in the searing heat in Washington D.C.? That feat earned him the PGA Player of the Year award.

Then in 1965 he had to undergo surgery on his wrists to receive an unnatural nerve pressure which caused a circulatory ailment in his hands. He was idled almost the entire 1965 season, earning but $295 but came back in 1966 to win the Lucky International tournament in San Francisco.

In 1967, Venturi earned $16,765.52. His best finishes were a tie for 11th in the PGA Championship, a tie for 15th at the Minnesota Golf Classic, 16th in the Houston Champions, a tie for 16th in the Thunderbird Classic, a tie for 21st in the Masters and a tie for 26th in the U.S. Open. That's some great playing on great courses in great tournaments.

He played last year after his son, Tim, was seriously injured when he rode his bicycle into a moving truck.

Venturi could use some Top the home grounds. The oak problem occurs mostly in forested areas. Ash dieback occurs in all locations. In all cases, the symptoms are dwarfed, scorched or prematurely colored leaves and early leaf drop. In addition, shoot growth is reduced and twigs, branches or whole trees die.

The cause of this behavior is not definitely known. More than one agent could be involved. No disease organism is consistently present. The general nature of the malady suggests the possibility that it is due to unfavorable environmental conditions such as the cumulative effect of several dry periods over the past 10 or so years. This would tend to increase the severity of winter injury to roots and produce permanent damage. Injured roots could be attacked by disease organisms so that the root system would become incapable of taking up water and food materials although supplies of these might be available.

Without definite knowledge of the causes of these diseases, there can be no firm basis for control recommendations. However, from what is known of all three problems, it seems likely that the trouble may be prevented or lessened by conscientious care including fertilization, watering and insect control.

Two bulletins, "Maple Tree Problem" and "Leaf Spot Diseases of Trees and Shrubs" will give more information on "decline" and other problems. These are available from your Extension Office.

Table Talk

A film entitled "The Health Fraud Racket" will be shown on Table Talk on Wednesday, July 31, at 7:30 a.m. on WAST, Channel 13.

The Health Fraud Racket" exposes the cunning traps and trappings of the fraud, the quack, and the charlatan who prey on all levels of our society. It tells how to distinguish between legitimate and fraudulent health services and products and how to outwit the quack and quackery.

Americans waste over one billion dollars a year on worthless health products and practices, and worse than that - many lives are lost due to the failure to obtain proper medical attention.

Mrs. Eleanor J. Wages, Table Talk hostess reminds viewers that Table Talk is presented each week by the Home Economics Division of Cooperative Extension in area counties.

ture, Cornell, said that the disease was found last fall, for the first time, in nine counties across the state.

Counties hit by the disease were Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Livingston, Monroe, Onondaga, Schuyler, Steuben, and Ulster.

The malady was first discovered four years ago in the Ohio River Valley at Portsmouth. Since then, reports of a similar corn disease have come from 18 other states in a broad swath from Texas to New England.

"It is too early to state positively that this disease has spread into New York from Ohio," said Boothroyd, "but there is no question that it is present in widely scattered locations across New York."

The disease, however, has not yet been found in large commercial plantings in the state during the past three years of extensive field surveys.

Mostly discovered in very-late-planted sweet corn in home gardens as well as in some small-scale commercial fields, the virus disease causes mosaic patterns on the leaves, dwarfing the plants, and poor ear production.

The first appearance of the disease in Ohio resulted in a great deal of damage. Many fields could not be harvested because the plants were less than half their normal height and few ears, if any, were formed on such stalks.

Two different strains of the disease-causing virus have been found in New York, and they are related to those found in Ohio.

How New York hybrids will react to these strains in the future is not known. Thus, some hybrids of both field and sweet corn are being tested under field and laboratory conditions at Cornell.

One of the strains is known to survive the winter in perennial Johnson grass in Ohio, but this grass does not survive rigorous New York winters. Therefore, this grass is not an important reservoir of the virus, in New York, Boothroyd pointed out.

Several species of aphids are believed to be carriers of the virus. But actual survival of aphid populations is probably less in New York than in the lower Ohio River Valley because of the severity of New York winters.

Many factors can be responsible for rots or blemishes on tomato fruits. Some are due to disease pathogens or living organisms, others may be caused by low temperatures, poor fertility, drought, etc. Rots that are soft or have fuzzy growths in them are due to fungi and are most likely anthracnose or early blight and can be reduced considerably by spraying with a fungicide such as maneb. Sprays should begin as soon as the fruits form and be continued every 7 days, however, even a late start will be helpful. Tomatoes grown on new ground generally have fewer rots than those planted where the crop has been grown for several years.

Drought during the season often brings on blossom-end rot, a dry black rot of early-set fruits. Cells in the blossom-end of the fruits fail to get enough water and calcium salts. These cells die and produce the typical sunken black areas. Irrigating is often needed as a preventative. The use of mulches also helps to reduce this problem. If tomato roots are in excessively wet soil, water uptake is also reduced and blossom end rot can also be a problem.

You may not recall it now, but we had cold nights in June. These cold temperatures were the cause of poor early fruit set, and many misshapen fruits. Tomatoes that are "catfaced" and lacking a complete skin are the result of the cold nights. Later fruits should be more perfect.

The free Cornell Bulletin "Identification and Control of Tomato Diseases In the Home Garden," available at your Extension Office, discusses these and other problems.

Gleaming Stainless Steel!

Order your new Wood-Mode kitchen by August 15, and we will give you a FREE Waste King deluxe mod. 510 dishwasher!

Waste King stainless steel dishwashers are the most ruggedly built dishwashers available today . . . so durable in fact that it's the only machine you can buy with a 20-year guarantee against failure due to corrosion. It's manufactured in the new west where the development of superior metals for space equipment is an important science. Waste King's refusal to compromise quality for price makes this unheard-of 20-years written guarantee possible.

And yet Waste King costs no more than other dishwashers. Just look at the features: Advance Design "H" arm, circulates more water per minute to each pot, pan, plate and glass; washes a full day's load - dishes, cookware, everything; pushbutton controls; easy loading baskets glide all the way out; thermomatic booster heater for hotter water for better washing; chip-proof interior; sound-deadened tank; disposal drain gets rid of soft food wastes (no rinsing necessary).

Imagine . . . your FREE Waste King stainless steel dishwasher will be designed and incorporated into your Wood-Mode kitchen by a professional designer and decorator, who will fashion it to suit your most fastidious demands. Bank budget terms available, of course.

president of the Council of State Planning Agencies, Mr. Brandon recently was re-elected president of the New York Upstate Chapter of the American Institute of Planners. He is also a member of the American Society of Planning Officials.

Mr. Brandon has a B.A. in government from Antioch College and a master's degree in regional planning from Cornell University. He is married to the former Ann Minette Fuller of Batavia, N.Y. The couple has four children.

He is a graduate of Bellows Falls, Vt., High School and a former resident of Westminster, Vt.

Reception

On Sunday afternoon, July 14, a reception honoring Dr. and Mrs. James L. Schaepe was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gerber of 92 Brockley Dr., Delmar. This "Get Acquainted" party included many relatives, friends and acquaintances of the Gerber family. Miss Patricia Wallace assisted at the refreshment table.

Dr. and Mrs. Schaepe and their three children, Christopher 4, Stephen 3, and David 9 mos. have moved into their new home at 2 Montrose Drive, Elsmere.

Dr. Schaepe's Family Practice office is at 684 Kenwood Ave., Slingerlands, the office of the late Dr. George Smith.

Many best wishes were extended to the Schaepe's by those in attendance.

Life Extension

The fatalistic attitude that nursing homes are a dumping ground for the aged must be discarded, participants in Cornell's Institute for Nursing Home Administration were told recently.

Dr. Siegmund H. May, medical director of the 887-bed A. Holly-Patterson Home in Nassau County, said that nursing home staffs must realize that the usefulness of patients can be prolonged by encouraging their active participation in rehabilitation problems.

Dr. May told the Institute, sponsored jointly by the N.Y.

State College of Home Economics and the Sloan Institute of Hospital Administration, Graduate School of Business and Public Administration that "the greatest revelation in the study of aging is that determination and motivation are more important in prolonging useful life than a person's physical condition."

Dr. May cited a heart study he made of 100 patients over 90 years old. It is commonly thought that those living to this age must have superb hearts, he said, but extensive heart tests showed that only three of the 100 participants had normal hearts. The other 97 showed significant heart damage, yet more than two-thirds were free from outward signs of heart trouble.

Other tests have shown that some aged patients can tolerate up to 30 disease conditions and still be active, he continued. Yet while there is a strong toleration of physical impairments in the aged, there is much less ability to withstand emotional problems.

Senility is one area of gerontology — the scientific study of aging — in which there have been many misconceptions, Dr. May said. About half of the so-called senility cases are caused primarily by emotional disturbances, such as self pity and loss of trust, and not by physical deterioration of the body. Most of these emotional disorders are reversible if the program is spotted in time and proper rehabilitative steps are taken.

Studies have shown that mental disorders in the aged person are linked to his personality and character. In fact, according to Dr. May, personality and character often pre-determine both the type and rate of mental decline.

For example, the mind of the "loner" usually deteriorates earlier than that of others because he withdraws from reality sooner than others. Those who have been aggressive in life tend to acquire a different type of mental disorder — they become chronic complainers and paranoiacs.

As a person ages, environment becomes increasingly important. For this reason, nursing home facilities must be pleasant, and allow active participation of the patient, Dr. May said.

Dr. May concluded his talk with several recommendations. He said aged patients should be attended by the same workers over a long period of time to give them a vital feeling of security. He said that good record keeping by doctors and nurses is necessary to familiarize new staff members with patients, and to indicate advances and relapses of patients. Medications and diets should be checked and revised periodically.
