

"MAN, are we hungry??" - Ken Tice and Bill Schultz.

Mighty Good!

On Saturday afternoon, September 28, in New Scotland, the men of the New Scotland Kiwanis Club will roll up their sleeves to prepare and serve their special barbecue dinner for which they are becoming more and more widely known.

Each year the number of diners served increases as word travels that these men are really specialists in preparing and serving the finest barbecued chicken dinner in the area.

The menu this year is as follows:

- Tomato Juice Cocktail
- Fresh Garden Salad
- ONE-HALF BARBECUED CHICKEN
- (New Scotland Kiwanis Style)
- Golden Buttered Sweet Corn
- Roast Potato (Our Specialty)
- Rolls Butter
- Homemade Pie
- Coffee Milk

Service at this dinner will be as usual: prompt and courteous. The atmosphere is always congenial and neighborly. Last year, the many friends and patrons attending the dinner greatly exceeded the number anticipated. While this contributed substantially to the success of the affair, unfortunately many people had to wait much too long before being served. The Kiwanis Club wishes to apologize again for this inconvenience and assure everyone that through improved seating and serving arrangements, there should be little or no waiting this year.

LETTER

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the officers and members of Blanchard Post, American Legion, it is a privilege to publicly thank Richard Haverly and William Hayes of the Delmar and Elsmere branches of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company for their splendid cooperation in assisting in the distribution of our free school book covers. This is the fifth year that they have participated in this Legion sponsored community project, and the Legion and the community are grateful to them.

Plant Sale

The Bethlehem Garden Club will conduct a plant sale at the Grand Union in Elsmere, on Wednesday, October 2, from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. A variety of perennials, house plants and dried material will be offered. Mrs. Howard N. Brusco and Mrs. William Tougher are co-chairmen for this event.

The club has undertaken the project of landscaping the Bethlehem Historical Association Museum Building ("Little Red School House") in Cedar Hill. The proceeds from this sale will be used to continue the next phase of plantings already started.

50th Wedding Anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. Roy L. Gillett of Slingerlands marked their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, September 21, with a reception at the Community Methodist Church in Slingerlands, for neighbors, friends and relatives. They were married at the bride's home in Willseyville, New York, on September 26, 1918. Both had recently been graduated from Cornell University and Mr. Gillett was a graduate student at Cornell at the time.

Dr. and Mrs. Gillett are the parents of four children: Mrs. John Rezelman of Bath, N.Y., Mrs. John Murray of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N.Y.; Roy L. Gillett, Jr., of Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Mrs. Edgar Van Zandt of Flemington, N.J. In addition they have a nephew, Bruce Layton of Baltimore, Maryland, who grew up with them. They have 17 grandchildren.

For the past 43 years the Gilletts have lived in Slingerlands. Dr. Gillett was an agricultural statistician with the New York State and U.S. Departments of Agriculture for 30 years and head of their Bureau of Statistics for many years until his retirement in 1952. In 1951 he and Mrs. Gillett went to Costa Rica where he carried out a three-month teaching assignment for the United Nations. In 1952 they spent four months on a similar assignment in Ecuador. In more recent years he was a consultant to private industry. Dr. Gillett is a member of the American Statistical Association, the American Agricultural Economics Association, and the International Association of Agricultural Economists.

Mrs. Gillett was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Delmar Public Library for some 30 years. Both have been mem-

Smorgasbord

The annual Swedish Smorgasbord of the Clarksville Community Church is set for Saturday, October 5. Members of the Couples' Club are preparing to spread the board with a variety of foods ranging from jumbo shrimp cocktail to risqrynsgrot (rice pudding).

The menu features appetizers of shrimp cocktail, fruit juices and chicken noodle soup. Going to the board will permit diners to select Swedish meatballs, roast beef, ham, turkey, macaroni salad, potato salad, baked beans, deviled eggs, cabbage kraut, varieties of breads, fish, cheese, pickles, olives, coupled with parslied potatoes, hot vegetables, molded salads and more. To top off the meal, the diner will have his choice of homemade pies, cream puffs, apple-sauce cake and coffee, tea or milk.

Proceeds from various Smorgasbords have furnished the Christian Education Building with draperies, other necessary furnishings, and have been applied to the building debt.

Mrs. Jared van Wagenen, chairman, announces four sittings: 4:00, 5:15, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. A take-out service is also available.

Members of the Slingerlands Methodist Church since they came to Slingerlands 43 years ago, having served the church in many capacities over the years.

Many people in the Tri-Village area know the Gilletts for their long service to the Bethlehem Community Christmas Festival since its inception 27 years ago.

The reception was arranged by their children and the ladies of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the church.

4th Year

The Committee That Cares in the Town of Bethlehem enters its fourth year of operations with a list of thirty-five men from the area serving with the Armed Forces in the Viet Nam war zone. The Committee is pledged to direct its efforts in a morale building cause for these men. If not the first, it was among the very beginning of such groups in the Nation which recognized the need to initiate a home-front relationship with the men who were sent to the Viet Nam war.

Composed of representatives from the various groups of veterans, women, church, services and civic organizations, the Committee meets monthly from September through June to formulate ideas and plans to carry out its purpose. The meetings usually occur on the first Thursday of the month at 7:30 p.m., at the Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040 of the American Legion in Elsmere where the Committee had its origin.

Its chief function is to maintain a roster of the Armed Forces personnel from the community who are sent to Viet Nam. As the roster is revised it is posted on the bulletin board of the Delmar Post Office and copies of it are distributed through the various churches in the town, the organizations that make up the Committee and to the public. In this manner individuals and groups augment the work of the Committee which monthly ar-

Pictures

Do you have an early American Home?

Are you having difficulty finding pictures for it?

If you're looking for good art reproductions, handsomely framed; if you want pictures you can be proud of, come down and have a look.

For the past several months, we have been accumulating a collection of appropriate paintings, with strong emphasis on landscapes of the Hudson River and Rocky Mountain schools. They are serious works, beautifully done, and they will give your home the 'lift' you want.

Prices, like the pictures, are realistic.

ranges for the mailing of a package to those on the roster. In addition the Committee in the past has sponsored gatherings for the parents and relatives of the men on the list and participated in other programs such as Operation Good Will which is conducted by Dave Marks at Fort Orange Radio Distributors.

Last year the list reached a high of fifty-four. Battle and non-combat casualties as well as transfers out of the Viet Nam war zone have reduced the list to its current number.

The September meeting of the Committee began with a prayer for peace and the safe return of our men. The invocation was made by Reverend Charles H. Kaulfuss of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Elsmere who is liaison between the Committee and the clergy in the community.

Maintenance of the roster is under the direction of Laurence R. Moses of the New York Telephone Company. William J. O'Neil, representing the Bethlehem Lodge of Elks, is chairman of the budget unit for the committee. Mrs. Patricia Baldwin is Committee Treasurer.

"To read the letters coming from the men to whom this Committee directs its efforts is truly heart-warming," says committee That Cares Chairman Alexander J. Woehrl. On the committee he represents The American Legion and the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce. He says "Such phrases as 'it is good to know the folks back home care,' 'you make us realize we are here for a just cause' and others like these in their letters have a reassuring tone which stirs us to continue our work on the committee for our men in Viet Nam."

When the Committee met to formulate its current schedule, of the fifteen men and women present nearly half of them were those who faithfully attended the meetings since the Committee was formed.

The Committee has been financed by contributions from the organizations which sponsor the Committee and from occasional private contributions. It has been operating on a basis of five dollars per man per mailing. Available funds are expected to cover mailings for the next three months.

"We have been proceeding on a month-to-month schedule with the continuing wish that the purpose of our committee will quickly cease," says Budget Chairman O'Neil, who adds, "Until we have a definite word that the need for our activity has ended we must endeavor to raise sufficient money to pay for the costs of purchases, packaging and postage."

Here are the names of the men in the Armed Forces who are in Viet Nam and are on the Committee's mailing list:

Lt. Russell W. Albright; A/1C James A. Love; Robin W. Mosley, SK 3; PFC David J. Dennin; S/N Donald T. Hinkel; Lt. William S. Rooney, Jr.; PFC George E. Nealon; PFC Daniel J. Hotaling; Lt. Charles E. out the tradition which the alumnae group has established for ten years in an annual sale, the shop offers the same "finds," only on a regular three-day a week schedule. The shop is open from 10:30 to 4:30 Wednesday through Friday, and until 9:30 at night on Thursdays.

Homeowners who wish to buy large quantities of books to fill library shelves can do so at a minimum of expense, since the bulk of sales average 25¢ a volume. However, rare and first editions are priced at a higher rate - but still somewhat less than rare book dealers ask. The shop is a source for many books that are useful for college or university students, but require source books, literature books for convenient reading, or for those who seek a finely illustrated art book or children's book.

This Fall, there is a wide variety of leather-bound books in foreign languages. There is also a selection of first editions of known authors, such as Dylan Thomas, or Faulkner. Also, music, current affairs, records, religion and philosophy and fiction, which is sorted by author so that volumes are easier to find.

The shop is all-volunteer and proceeds are used to raise money for scholarships to Bryn Mawr College. Mrs. Noel Bennett of Slingerlands is co-chairman of the shop, together with Mrs. Daniel McNamee of Loudonville.

Library Notes

The annual Bizarre Bazaar is one of the most exciting events of the year at the Delmar Public Library. This year the outdoor show will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 4, 5 and 6.

Some of the rules for entrants: All residents of Bethlehem Central School District #6 who are 10 years old or over are eligible to enter. All work must be original. All work must be ready for hanging, including own strong wire fastened to ring screws securely; unless size is prohibitive, all work must be framed. Entries must have painter's name, telephone number, the medium and title securely placed on back of each painting:

Entries may be left at the Library on Thursday, October 3 from 10 A.M. to 8 P.M. No entries will be accepted on the 4th. All entries must be picked up by 5 P.M. on Sunday, October 6.

And speaking of Sunday - as this is the tenth Library art show, there will be an open house on Sunday from 2-4 P.M. Everyone is invited to see the show and join in a bit of celebration.

The Delmar Public Library announces Sandwich-in-a-Book time is almost here again. (Sandwich, by the way, is used as a verb here - a little item that escaped one staff member until recently.) Anyhow, the noon session will start on Wednesday, October 2, at 12:15 P.M. and last approximately thirty minutes.

for our country, those we elect to public office must be the very best we can choose. This is no time for bias or for voting a straight ticket "because we always have." This is a time to read, hear, think. Mrs. Barbara Rau, head librarian at the Delmar Library, realizes this and is giving each one of you a chance to hear the three candidates running for Congress from this area. They will appear on three successive Wednesdays.

Daniel Button, incumbent, will appear on Wednesday, October 2.

Come promptly with your sandwich, coffee will be waiting. Leave, of course, when you must.

Horse Movies

Are you a horse enthusiast? Then you will enjoy the "Night of Horse Movies" to be held on October 4, at 8:00 P.M. The movies will be shown at the Clarks-ville Elementary School.

There will be movies on several different breeds of horses: The Appaloosa, The Arabian, The Quarter Horse, and it is hoped others will be available.

The show will be sponsored by the Golden Horseshoe Riding Club, Inc.

Contest Held

The Delmar Fire Department held a Firematics contest in conjunction with the Central New York Drill Team Association at the Delmar Fire House on Sunday, September 8. Results of the contests are as follows:

Three Man Ladder: 1st Place trophy, Union Hose Co. Ballston Spa; 2nd place trophy, Bought Corners, 3rd place trophy, Elsmere Fire Co.

Booster Hose One Trip Target: 1st place trophy, Latham Fire; 2nd place trophy, Slingerlands Fire; 3rd place trophy, South Schenectady.

Motor Pump Hydrant: 1st place trophy, South Schenectady; 2nd place trophy, Union Hose Co.; 3rd place trophy, Carman Fire.

Women's contests:

Ladder Climb: 1st place trophy, Shaker Road; 2nd place trophy, Slingerlands.

Booster Hose one tripp target: 1st place trophy, Carman; 2nd place trophy, Latham.

Because Delmar was the host department, it could not compete for trophies but did compete for points in the association. They took 1st place in each contest with the following times: Ladder climb, 6.61 seconds; Booster Hose Target, 5.83 seconds; Motor Pump Hydrant, 17.55 seconds.

Delmar finished first in the association in total points for the championship.

The following companies competed: Bought Corners, Carman, Clinton Heights, Delmar, Elsmere, Fort Hunter, Harmony Corners, Latham, Onesquethaw, Peck Hose, Shaker Road - Loudonville, Slingerlands, South Schenectady and Union Hose.

Heldeberg Workshop

Fall Program

The fall curriculum of the Heldeberg Workshop will be held at Heldeberg's land, Picard Road, Voorheesville on four Saturdays beginning September 28 from 10 A.M. until 2 P.M.

All classes will be held out of doors in the lean-to areas against a backdrop of autumn colors, highlighted by coffee and cocoa around an open fire and featuring in-depth learning experience.

Nature's Kaleidoscope will bring outstanding naturalists from all over the State to use their own speciality as a point of departure to teach "what you see and why" in the fields, forests, swamps and gorges of the Heldeberg land.

Leading a Saturday excursion will be Dr. Jerry Shannon, State University College at Oneonta; Christopher White, Cornell University; Beverly Waite, newspaper columnist; and Dr. Edwin Ketchledge, State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University. The course has been planned for teenagers, beginning with 7th graders through adults. It should also provide teachers with new avenues to meet the ever-growing challenge of relating school curriculum to the student's natural curiosity and interests as well as enough background to use the Heldeberg land as a field laboratory and extension of their classroom as a number of schools are currently doing.

Robert Dalgleish, Resident Biologist and Director of the Huyck Preserve, Rensselaerville, will take fifth and sixth graders on a "Nature Safari," delving into all areas of the outdoor sciences.

Third through fifth graders will journey to "Never, Never Land" with Mrs. Corinne Weeks, theater arts and creativity specialist and Heldeberg Workshop faculty member, as they study creative dramatics in a "sense of wonder" setting.

The art program under the direction of Paul Dombrowski, Heldeberg art director and member of the Schenectady School System, and Mrs. Jean Johnson Heldeberg art chairman, will include instruction in water colors and acrylics for teen-agers and adults by Joseph Roberts, well known area art educator, and a class for children grades 4-6 designed to utilize the Heldeberg land to its fullest potential.

It will involve natural design elements in an atmosphere of structured freedom unique to outdoor learning.

"Nature's Boutique" will provide an opportunity for teenagers, adults and teachers to create beautiful home accessories and gifts from natural materials: weeds, citrus fruits, driftwood, pine cones, etc. It will be taught by Mrs. Sidney Vunk, teacher, lecturer, student judge, National Council Federated Garden Clubs, Inc., and Assistant Albany County Chairman 3rd District Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc.

For additional information, write to Heldeberg Workshop, Voorheesville, N.Y. or call 439-4231. Brochures may be obtained at the Delmar Library.

Dance

On September 28, the MYF of the First Methodist Church of Delmar will sponsor a dance, to be held in the Fellowship Hall in the basement of the church on Kenwood Ave. from 8:00 to 11:30 P.M. Refreshments will be served and the admission price will be 50¢ per person.

School, will be directing the arrangements for the Annual Business Teachers Association to be held April 25-26, 1969 at the Thruway Motor Inn. Mrs. Hosey has named Hugh A. Brown, business teacher at Bethlehem Central, to assist her with this work.

The Business Teachers Association is the professional organization of the business teachers of New York State. Their annual meeting in April will bring some 500 members to the area.

A general planning meeting of the committee members with the BTA officers will be held on September 28 at the Thruway Motor Inn. Mrs. Hosey will attend this meeting to discuss subcommittee assignments to cover registration, luncheon and dinner reservations, publicity, exhibits and hospitality.

Travelogue

"Through Siberia to Moscow by Boat, Train, and Plane," a slide presentation filmed by Mr. and Mrs. James Flavin, 48 Jordan Boulevard, Delmar, will be shown by Mrs. Flavin at the initial 1968-69 meeting of the Capitol District Home Economists in Homemaking.

The HEIH group will meet at 6:45 P.M., Monday, September 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Morgan, 65 Oldox Road, Delmar. A covered dish supper will precede the program. All area home economists are invited to attend. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Robert Lynk at 439-3948.

Mr. and Mrs. Flavin spent three weeks in Russia during the summer of 1967.

Mall Director

New York State took another step in its preparations for the opening of Albany's South Mall with the appointment of a Slingerlands man as director of development and operations.

Aldon P. Pugliese, 4 Parkway Drive, who was named to the newly created post, will be responsible for all advance planning for occupancy of the South Mall by various state agencies.

The appointment was announced by C. V. R. Schuyler, commissioner of General Services.

Mr. Pugliese's duties will consist of developing various staffs for maintenance and other operations before the Mall opens, and managing various services after it is occupied.

Mr. Pugliese has formerly served as director of interagency services for the Office of General Services and coordinator of special purchases for the Division of Standards and Purchases.

Several other appointments are announced by Gen. Schuyler, Richard J. Higgins of New Salem was named to succeed Mr. Pugliese as director of interagency services. Allen Wilbur, formerly assistant chief of personnel, succeeds Mr. Higgins as chief of personnel.

John E. Collier of Delmar was named director of the division of space procurement and alloca-

"Speak-Out"

School budgets have become a very "hot" issue lately — with a number of school budgets being voted down by the taxpayers. What is the solution? Where do we get the additional monies for schools? Is there any other way to provide for school needs other than through direct taxation?

The Slingerlands P-TA is inviting the whole community to "air" its views on this issue on "Speak-Out" which is to be held on Monday, September 30, at 8 p.m. in the Slingerlands Elementary School auditorium. Everyone is welcome.

Varying viewpoints will be presented by the Town Planning Board, Opportunities for Growth, School Board, Citizens for Re-Assessment, Senior Citizens, School Administration, and the Loyal Opposition Group. Hopefully, any question that could possibly be raised can be answered by qualified persons.

Hassle

The mobile home (or trailer) ordinance being proposed by the Ravena - Coeymans Planning Board appears to be caught in a revolving door.

Eleven sections of the ordinance have been accepted by the Village Board of Trustees and the Coeymans Town Board, but the most restrictive and protective measure in the proposal has been rejected by the two bodies.

The Section of the ordinance which is causing the conflict would restrict mobile homes to mobile home courts.

However, the planning board stood firm on the proposal and resubmitted it to the village board with one amendment. The amendment would allow a mobile home to be located outside the limits of a court if the applicant could prove a "hardship" before the zoning board of appeals.

"I'm not satisfied with the reply from the planning board," declared Ravena Mayor Raymond Bailey. "We told them we did not want Section II and asked them to establish rules regulating individual trailer spaces in the community."

He indicated that the village Board of Trustees would again act on the proposal at the October 8 meeting.

When asked if the board would consider presenting the ordinance in its entirety to the people at a public hearing, the Mayor said: "We should present something to the people that we (the village board) favor."

Before the village or town board can approve the ordinance, it must be aired at a public hearing.

talent show on Saturday, October 12 starting at 1 P.M. at the Junior High School on Kenwood Avenue.

The "Little Miss Fire Prevention" beauty contest is open to girls from 5 to 8 years who live in the protection districts of the five Bethlehem fire departments. The child chosen will receive a $25 bond; she will head a parade in her honor and lead the fire unit in the 1969 Memorial Day Parade. First and second runners up will act as her court.

The talent show is open to persons or groups of any age as long as they are residents in one of the fire protection districts. First prize will be a $25 bond. Only the first 20 applicants will be accepted.

Entries should be made by pose card mailed to P.O. Box 351, Slingerlands, N.Y., on or before October 10.

Also on the program will be the Fire Hose Quintet and the Auxiliary Serenaders along with the comedy group, the Fire Maniacs, plus a display of fire and rescue apparatus. Following the show, Little Miss Fire Prevention will lead the parade from the school to the Elsmere Fire House. Boy and Girl Scouts are invited to join the parade and another cash award will be made for the group with the best Fire Prevention Week theme. The parade will leave the school at 4 P.M.

Chairman for the program is Walter Eck.

Semifinalist

Principal Herbert Holland has announced that Annabel Hunter, a student at Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk, has been named as a Semifinalist in the 1968-69 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The 15,000 Semifinalists appointed today are among the nation's most intellectually able high school seniors and will compete for some 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1969. In addition, five R-C-S students will receive Letters of Commendation. They are: John Crammond, John Haines, Muriel Mayo, Ronald Traeger, and Karen Willey.

The Semifinalists were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, given last February in 17,500 schools nationwide. They constitute less than one percent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the United States.

during comfortable weather rather than during the cold, snowy days that we often have during February, March and April, the best time to prune.

When you prune the dead and dying limbs, look around for scale insects. These insects live on the bark under a light colored shell or scale. If scales are numerous on certain branches, these branches can also be removed and destroyed. If you prefer not to remove a scale infested branch, or just see a few scales, mark this in your gardening notebook and spray with a dormant oil spray next spring.

Since the objective of pruning now is to remove unhealthy branches, one precaution should be followed to prevent the spread of disease. Disinfect your tools after each branch removal by dipping or cleaning the tool in denatured alcohol.

Some general pruning tips that may help you have been given by Extension Professors from Cornell. These are given below.

When possible, prune back to a side branch so no stubs are left.

On large limbs, over 2 inches in diameter, cut the underside about a quarter of the way through. When the final cut is made from the top, the under cut will prevent the bark from tearing.

Lower branches over two inches in diameter with a rope that has been snubbed to an upper branch.

Branches over four inches in diameter are too heavy to be

Solving the Food Crisis

Failure to recognize the world food crisis as a tropical problem often deludes people into thinking that our temperate-zone agricultural know-how can be transplanted directly, said a Cornell University scientist.

"The principles and methods from temperate zones often work but there must be adaptive research to make them work under tropical conditions," stressed Prof. H. David Thurston of the N.Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell.

The solution to the food problem, he said, is to boost food production in hungry nations, most of which happen to be in or on the border of the tropics around the world.

Overseas technical assistance on a massive scale through major advanced nations, including the United States, along with stepped-up training of young people from developing countries would be the best and lasting solution, he emphasized.

The Cornell scientist was one of three who spoke in Columbus, Ohio, at the opening session of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, which examined the role of biologists in the world food crisis.

Thurston, who spent almost 11 years in Colombia as plant pathologist with the Rockefeller Foundation before joining the Cornell staff last year, said that agricultural research in tropical areas in the past has been primarily on cash and plantation crops.

"Food crops - the plants that people eat - have been largely ignored by research workers," he said.

"Most of our success stories in agriculture in developing countries have been in the subtropics or on the semi-temperate border of the tropics," he noted. "Success stories in agricultural research in hot, humid tropics are hard to find."

The plant pathologist, who is directing Cornell's training and research program in the plant sciences in tropical countries, said that few courses are available at most American universities on tropical agriculture despite the fact that most of the foreign students are from tropical countries.

"In the field of plant pathology," he said, "I know of no course in tropical plant pathology in the United States, including Hawaii and Puerto Rico; little or no emphasis is given in existing courses to tropical problems."

In other words, students from developing nations trained in plant pathology in the United States return home with a training consisting almost entirely of a study of temperate crop plants and their problems, he said.

The rule in the United States is increasing specialization and fragmentation of biological sciences. Students from developing countries need a far broader training than "we are now generally able or willing to give," he stressed.

In the Northern Zone, bowmen having both a big game license and an archery stamp will be afield for 14 days before the gunners - from October 11 through October 24. The regular big game season in the Northern Zone runs from October 25 through December 3.

In the rest of the state, archers get a 16-day lead on gunners. The bowhunting season is from November 2 through November 17, giving the archer an opportunity to hunt for three weekends. Gunning for big game in the Southern Zone runs from November 18 through December 3.

During the special archery season bowmen may take deer of either sex. They must do so with a longbow capable of shooting a legal hunting arrow at least 150 yards. A legal hunting arrow is one with two or more cutting edges measuring not less than 7/8-inches at its widest point.

Camouflage clothing is quite common among archers for this early season hunting which no big game gunners are afield. While the typical green and brown mottled camouflage color is still the most commonly used, the new red-background camouflage is gaining in popularity. It is said to be equally difficult for the colorblind deer to see yet is readily visible to other hunters.

Although the odds are against the archer taking a deer - about 24 to one, in fact - the unsuccessful archer may still hunt during regular season with either bow or firearm. However, once the special archery season is over, only deer with antlers three inches or longer may be taken, regardless of the weapon used.

"Shut the Doors,
They're Coming in the

As the weather begins to get cooler, thousands of cluster flies search for sheltered, dark spots in which to hide for the winter. "Even the most modern of homes afford a few places where these flies can enter," according to Prof. Edgar M. Raffensperger, entomologist at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell University.

Cluster flies tend to group together in cracks and spaces within walls, and in window frames, attics and storage areas. When their hiding places are warmed by the sun or the heating system, they become active again and are attracted to lights and windows.

"Although these flies are harmless, they can be very annoying," Raffensperger said.

Control of these insects depends largely on prevention. Caulking cracks and openings and screening ventilating areas will reduce the number of flies that enter the home. Applying DDT with a paint brush or hand sprayer (or using last summer's leftover "surface" spray) around window frames may also be helpful.

Plastic strips containing Vapona insecticide can be hung in individual rooms and storage areas to kill cluster flies that are already inside. Other household insecticides might also be used to reduce the annoyance.

Cluster flies do not feed on filthy material and are not considered a health hazard, but they can be both annoying and embarrassing. "If preventive measures are taken early enough, the annoyance caused by these flies can be greatly reduced," stated Raffensperger.

Food Retailing

Retailing is the food industry's real driving force that reaches out, collects, and distributes more than $1 billion worth of food each week in America, said a Cornell University agricultural economist.

"More and more, retailing reflects what consumers desire in food products by buying according to their needs," said Prof. Wendell Earle, N.Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell. "No longer," he said, "does retailing accept what is produced and merely try to act as a pipeline from the farm to the table."

Prof. Earle made these observations in a talk to 125 Cooperative Extension agents at the opening session of a three-day Cornell conference geared to examine the behind-the-scenes operations of food marketing.

This change, he said, has caused, and will continue to cause, dislocations in established areas of production and processing, particularly among those unable or unwilling to meet changing consumer desires.

Earle said today's supermarkets are unmatched in their ability to distribute food at low cost.

In the process of changing from the corner store or the country store to the modern one-stop supermarket of today, more than 230,000 stores dropped out of business in the past three decades.

Today, there are 226,000 grocery stores of all sizes, but the dynamic force of food retailing is the 35,000 supermarkets, he said. "Few people outside the industry realize that these supermarkets, representing only 15 per cent of all stores, account for more than 70 per cent of total grocery store business."

Along with advances in agricultural production and processing, improvements in supermarket operations to cut down on costs over the years are credited with the reason why "food is a bargain" in America, he said.

Predicting further improvements, the Cornell economist said that the shopper will see, in the next several years, electronic prices. Such devices would automatically read prices and other coded information from the tops of cans, boxes, and jars so the shopper is not held up in long lines at the check-out counter.

One change already in sight is the return to the small shop concept within the supermarket.

"You will see drug stores in supermarkets with full-time pharmacists on duty as an example of personal services within a one-stop shopping concept," he predicted. "Today, with shops within the food store, we are coming full turn to the general store of a generation ago."

The Affects of Malnutrition

Severe malnutrition in infancy may cause temporary or permanent mental retardation, according to Cornell University studies.

This finding may portend a higher future incident of mental retardation in countries currently facing severe malnutrition problems, such as Biafra.

It is not yet certain under what conditions such retardation proves irreversible, although indications are it often is permanent among seriously undernourished infants of less than six months, according to Mrs. Lois Brockman Kalb, who conducted malnutrition studies in Lima, Peru.

Mrs. Kalb made the study while working for the Ph.D. degree in the department of child development and family relationships at the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell.

Infants deprived of nutrients in their early months are likely to be permanently retarded because this is the time of greatest brain growth and development, according to Mrs. Kalb.

Research indicates that a child who is fed adequately during early infancy, before suffering severe undernourishment in later months, is more likely to escape permanent retardation providing he receives good dietary treatment after the period of undernourishment.

Mrs. Kalb concentrated her research on a specific type of protein and calorie malnutrition known as marasmus, which has symptoms of dehydration and weight loss.

She ran tests on 20 youngsters undergoing dietary treatment for severe malnutrition in a special unit of the British-American Hospital in Lima. The children, ranging from one to 3 1/2 years old, were fed adequate diets for at least four months before their first test. All subjects weighed less than half the normal weight for their age.

Mrs. Kalb's main purpose was to determine how previous protein-calorie undernourishment would influence the ability of the youngsters to organize objects according to size, form, texture, color, sound, and brightness. She gave the children 10 sorting tasks to discover how the malnutrition had affected intellectual development (awareness of surroundings and judgement).

In comparing the performances of these youngsters to those of similar subjects who from all indications had never suffered malnutrition, Mrs. Kalb observed that the normal children scored nearly twice as well on the sorting tasks. Her conclusion was that intellectual development in the protein-calorie deficient subjects was retarded.

The undernourished children were treated for three additional months, before undergoing the same tests as before. They still scored poorly, with no evident improvement in their ability to sort objects, according to Mrs. Kalb. This implies there may have been some permanent retardation, especially among subjects who were undernourished in early infancy.

However, the researcher cautioned that tests must be con-

Selling maintenance insurance on electric heat is a tough way to make a living.

Barking dogs and slammed doors are two of the things that make life hard for a salesman. Room-to-room electric heat is another.

With electric heat there's just no market for insurance. People don't worry about major breakdowns or major bills. They don't have a bunch of minor repairs. Or service calls. They just have simple baseboard units or heating cable hidden in the ceiling. The only moving part is in the thermostat. And when did you last hear of somebody insuring a thermostat?

With other heating systems you either invest in some sort of service policy or you live with the idea of big, sudden expenses. Cold days without heat. Constant service charges.

Instead of buying headaches like that, buy electric heat.

It does cost a little more. But like most things that cost more, it's worth more.

When you buy electric heat for a new home, old home or added room, you don't buy aggravation and inconvenience. So it figures...

You don't pay for electric heat with headaches.

ducted on the youngsters for a much longer time period before the malnutrition-retardation link can be completely substantiated.

In her studies at the hospital, Mrs. Kalb also observed that malnourished youngsters grew faster than normal when fed a good diet, but that they never attained the height potential for their age.

Her study, financed by a National Institute of Mental Health grant, was part of a research program on intellectual development in infants, headed by Prof. Henry N. Ricciuti, of the department of child development and family relationships.

Huge Sculptures Forming Olympic Route in Mexico

As part of the Cultural Program of the Games of the XIX Olympiad, eighteen sculptors from around the world are building huge sculptures (20 to 60 feet high) along an eleven mile Route of Friendship approaching the Olympic Village in Mexico City. This unique International Meeting of sculptors is hardly the typical symposium, but rather constitutes a permanent urban design program of monumental proportions to be completed just before the opening of the circles Mexico City. The sculptures are being constructed on the open landscape about one mile apart. At the immediate approaches to the Olympic Village, they are closer together.

The visiting artists will decide, during sessions of the "International Meeting of Sculptors," which will be held prior to the opening of the Games on October 12, on the final touches for the project: the kind of finish to be applied to the sculptures, their color, the landscaping, the lighting, and other matters.

At this meeting the sculptor Mathias Goeritz will suggest the establishment of an International Council for Artistic Planning. "The idea of art integrated with and subordinated to urban planning is of fundamental importance to our age: it will remove art from the esoteric ambience of galleries and museums. The object of the council is to bring contemporary art and the masses together through total planning," Goeritz explained in announcing this idea.

The gathering is a non-competitive meeting of contemporary sculptors wishing to make a personal contribution to a common ideal. Individual works will be executed in the Central Plaza of the Olympic Village, and in various plazas adjoining the competition sites for the Games. The Organizing Committee for the Olympics has provided the necessary materials, tools, labor and technical assistance for executing the sculptures.

The construction phase of the project began June 1, 1968, and each of the sculptural masterpieces is scheduled to be completed by the opening of the Games. On permanent display following the Games, they will remain as a lasting sculptural reminder of Olympic concord in Mexico City.

ponents of contemporary monumental sculpture integrated with architecture from 16 countries to create individual works inspired by Olympic ideals. Each sent a model of a monumental sculpture in iron, aluminum, silver, plaster, wood, terra-cotta or cardboard. These were studied by a board of Mexican coordinators and professional men headed by the architect Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, Chairman of the Organizing Committee, and sculptor Mathias Goeritz, artistic advisor of the Committee and Director of the "Route of Friendship" Project.

One of the conditions imposed upon the sculptors was that they design their works for execution in concrete. This naturally influenced the Organizing Committee's choice of artists, so that only those who had experience in working with concrete, or whose general style lent itself to this particular medium, are participating. The final selection of the sculptors was made by two panels of judges composed of architects, critics and representatives of the Organizing Committee. Scale (20 to 60 feet in height) was dictated by the original idea of creating a route of about 11 miles along the southern part of the Anillo Periferico, a super highway that en-

The Light Touch

By Bob Jackson

Birthday cards seem to get more insulting each year. But then, so do birthdays!

Worry is interest paid on trouble before it comes due.

Most fathers don't mind their sons wearing turtle-necked shirts - it helps preserve the family ties . . .

The trouble with trying to get away from it all these days is that most of it is portable . . .

She's at the age when any man who looks back looks good!

You'll come back again and again to Delmar Lumber after you've sampled our materials and suggestions for do-it-yourself projects.
