In September the 5th grade girls went on an overnight at Camp Is-sho-da. Their trip was highlighted by the arrival of the younger girls who joined them for lunch, games, folk dancing and singing.

On October 18, Friday evening, the troop is participating in the Girl Scout Live Exhibit at Colonie Center by performing folk dances from Europe and singing International songs of Scouting.

Table Talk

"Gourmet Cooking with Eggs" will be featured on the next Table Talk program as Mrs. Eleanor J. Wages, program hostess, demonstrates how to prepare a custard pie and cream puffs. Table Talk can be seen on WAST, Channel 13, on Wednesday, October 23, at 7:30 a.m. This program can also be viewed a week later on Wednesday, October 30, at 4:30 p.m. on WMHT; Channel 17.

A frequent problem encountered when making custard pies is a soggy bottom crust. To prevent this from occurring Mrs. Wages will demonstrate how to prepare the crust and the filling separately and then slip the custard into the crust.

Cream puffs have the reputation of being difficult to make, however they are really very simple to prepare and do create an elegant company dessert. Preparation techniques for cream puffs and serving ideas will also be demonstrated.

New Program

The American National Red Cross recently announced details designed to streamline its extensive program in Water Safety.

The Red Cross, according to James H. Carnahan, Director of Safety Services for the Albany Area Chapter, has modified its program in water safety to include the use of swim fins, face masks and snorkel tubes, plus eliminating some old fashioned concepts and adding several important new techniques.

Carnahan said the American National Red Cross has given us some important deadlines to meet in the job retraining of all of our water safety instructors. All instructor trainers must be retrained by April, 1969, while all water instructors have until December, 1969, to complete the new training.

Carnahan also said "any instructor who has not participated in one of the new material training programs by those dates will automatically be ineligible to teach Red Cross Water Safety courses."

The first in the series of retraining programs will start October 14, beginning at 7 p.m., and will be held in the Shaker High School. Al Cahill, National Volunteer Consultant for Red Cross Safety Services, will supervise the course and will be assisted by Shaker High School Swimming Coach Ralph Knowles.

The second program will be conducted at Bethlehem Central Junior High School, beginning Friday, November 1, at 7 p.m. This program will be conducted by Mr. Carnahan who will be assisted by Ray Sliter, Bethlehem Central High School swimming coach.

Day of Concern

A "day of concern," in which ghetto and black are invited to confront their fears together will be presented at Our Lady of Angels Seminary this Saturday, October 19, in a special convocation open to the public.

The convocation will be followed by a 10-week series of discussions aimed at providing programs of constructive involvement for participants.

Principal speaker at the opening session will be Msgr. Robert Fox of the Archdiocese of New York, who received national acclaim for his actions in averting serious street disorders in Harlem in the tense summer of 1967. Subsequently, in recognition of his role in easing tensions, he was presented a special award from Radio Station WBNX by New York City Police Commissioner Howard Leary. Monsignor Fox is coordinator of Spanish Catholic action for the New York archdiocese.

The day-long convocation, conducted by the seminary in conjunction with the Catholic Interracial Council of the Albany diocese, will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m. Lunch is available at $1.00 per person.

Lawrence Burwell, executive director of the Albany area Urban League, will address the afternoon session on local aspects of race and poverty.

Chief concelebrant at a special mass to be given at 11:40 p.m. in the seminary chapel will be His Excellency Bishop Edward Maginn of the diocese of Albany. Bishop Maginn recently announced the allocation of a $100,000 fund contributed by the Catholic community to aid local poverty-stricken areas.

The seminary, a Vincential institution, is located on Rte. 144 five miles south of Albany. Its unusual architecture and arresting display of art — both sculpture and painting — make it a point of cultural interest for non-Catholics and Catholics alike. It can best be reached from the Tri-Village area via Elsmere Avenue (Rte. 335) to Rte. 32, left to Wemple Road, right on Wemple Road to Rte. 144, and right again to the seminary entrance, on the left side of Rte. 144, heading south. There is ample parking both near the auditorium and adjacent to the chapel.

In announcing the convocation, the seminary points out that major emphasis of the program will be the follow-up 10 weekly meetings in which discussion groups will be formed along community, parish and organizational lines, and will include both white and black participants.

"Purpose of the discussions," the announcement stresses, "will be to consider such questions as: How shall our group be involved? Shall we focus on politics or on education? Shall we be concerned with the white or the black ghettos?"

"By the end of the 10-week period, each group will have become involved in its chosen area of concern."

Addressing themselves to the community at large, the seminarians "in hope and concern" declare that "we see unlimited possibilities arising, and feel justified in hoping that the two ghettos can speak to each other and act jointly to work toward a solution of each other's problems. Accordingly, we ask all those who are in any way concerned about the problems of racial tension, of poverty, of social justice, of the ghettos, and who are serious enough to become actively involved, to attend and share their concern with other men of good will."

"Campaign '68"

The League of Women Voters of Albany County in conjunction with the Public Affairs Committee of the Albany Jewish Community Center will present its 3rd program in its series called "Campaign '68." It will be held on Thursday, October 24, at 8:00 p.m. at the Albany Jewish Community Center at 40 Whitehall Road.

"Techniques in the Elections" will be the topic in discussion. Former Congressman Leo O'Brien and former Speaker of the Assembly, Joseph Carlino, will speak on such topics as the changes in Presidential campaigns in their own party during the past eight years. They will touch on changes in local campaigning, as well as the differences in tactics used by the two parties at this time.

Dr. Melvin I. Urofsky, Assistant Professor of History of Education at SUNYA, will moderate the program for the evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sale

The Albany Jaynees will hold a Garage Sale on Saturday, October 19, from 10 to 6 at 32 Margaret Drive, Colonie.

Clothing, furniture, sport equipment, toys and baby items will be offered.

Proceeds will be used to support the civic projects sponsored by the Albany Jaynees. Mrs. Robert Derksen and Mrs. Robert P. Miller are Co-chairmen.

Big Increase

National Commercial Bank and Trust Company, Albany, New York, reports net operating earnings of $3,660,379 or $2.82 per share for the first nine months of 1968. This represents a 16.5% increase over the $3,141,448, or $2.42 per share for the same period in 1967, according to Lester W. Herzog, Jr., president and chief executive officer.

New Code

For the first time in the history of the American motion picture industry, all essential elements involved in motion pictures have come together to institute a voluntary national film rating program to guide parents, with a special consideration for children. This announcement was made at a press conference by Jack Valenti, President of the Motion Picture Association of America; Julian S. Rifkin, President of the National Association of Theatre Owners; and Munio Podhorzer, a member of the Governing Committee of the International Film Importers and Distributors of America.

This film rating program will become effective on November 1, 1968. All motion pictures released after November 1 will carry a rating.

In stating the reason for the new program, Jack Valenti said, "Our primary concern is children, and that concern is the dominant reason for the voluntary film rating program."

"Every effort is being made," said Valenti, "to acquaint the public with the details of the rating program. In the months ahead, it is our hope that through our nationwide program of public education people will come to understand the rating symbols and their meanings. All daily and weekly newspapers in the country are being urged to carry these rating symbols on their amusement pages as a service to their readers."

The Code and Rating Administration

The Code and Rating Administration (an expansion of the Production Code Administration) will administer the new system of ratings in close association with the Production Code.

The Ratings

Motion pictures exhibited in the United States will be rated in the following manner:

G - SUGGESTED FOR GENERAL AUDIENCES

This category includes motion pictures that in the opinion of the Code and Rating Administration would be acceptable for all audiences, without consideration of age.

M - SUGGESTED FOR MATURE AUDIENCES - ADULT & MATURE YOUNG PEOPLE

(Parental discretion advised) This category includes motion pictures that in the opinion of the Code and Rating Administration, because of their theme, content or treatment, might require more mature judgement by viewers, and about which parents should exercise their discretion.

Cohos Are Coming!

Recent reports of coho salmon taken in New York State by commercial fishermen and sports anglers have heightened public interest in this exciting species. Aquatic biologists in the State Conservation Department report they are very encouraged by the early results of their experimental stocking program in the New York portion of Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Two experimental stockings of coho salmon were made earlier this year. The first batch of 6,000 fish was put into Cattaraugus Creek, a tributary of Lake Erie. These were 18-month-old fish of about five or six inches in length. The second stocking of yearling cohos, between three and five inches long, consisted of 25,000 fish. These were placed in the Pulaski Village Recreation Pond and subsequently released into Spring Brook, from which they moved into the Salmon River and down to Lake Ontario.

When these fish were stocked, fishery experts predicted that — if the cohos successfully moved into the Great Lakes — they would return in the fall of 1969 to the tributaries in which they were stocked. An early indication of the success of these experimental stockings might be had if some of the precocious sexually mature "jacks" returned to these waters this year, that is, the fall of 1968.

The fact that some of these fish have returned to both these waters is very encouraging. In Cattaraugus Creek, nine dead cohos were found late last month in the first mile or two of the creek. At first it was feared that they might be victims of pollution, but subsequent investigation has indicated that they died from too high a water temperature. It was speculated that these fish came into the creek during the night while water temperatures were low enough to induce their upstream migration. The unseasonably warm daytime temperatures and lack of cool runoff spelled their doom. Some limited run of precocious jacks may still occur in these waters and it is hoped that water temperatures will be low enough for them to survive. Because cohos are a Pacific salmon, when they sexually mature and migrate upstream they die.

The Lake Ontario cohos have also made it into their "parent" stream. The first reported catch was made by a commercial netter in the lake. Subsequent catches have been reported sporadically by sports anglers fishing in the Salmon River.

These have been authenticated by Department biologists who have also collected several cohos in the stream by electrofishing techniques.

Although no major run of jacks is anticipated in either watershed this year, a greater run of fish — both male and female — is expected next fall when the majority of the fish will be sexually mature. While these fish may offer some sports angling, biologists stressed that these are still only experimental programs. No vast hordes of fish will be involved as was the case when cohos planted by the Michigan Conservation Department swarmed into Lake Michigan tributaries.

Rather, this experimental program seems to have established that cohos can be placed in New York's Great Lakes tributaries and successfully move through possible barriers and make it into the lakes. They can grow to maturity and some return to their stream of release. The big question is how many can survive for this return journey. This question may be answered in part, next fall when the first larger spawning migrations are expected.

It will take several years of relatively modest stockings in Lake Erie and Lake Ontario before any final answers can be expected. There are more than 160,000 cohos in four State hatcheries now. These will be stocked in the spring of 1969. An increased supply of eggs will be brought into the State this fall for stocking as yearlings in the spring of 1970.

If the cohos do work out and a major stocking program is decided upon for the Great Lakes, then the production capacity of our present hatcheries would become a problem. Either new hatcheries would be required or production capacities of present hatcheries would have to be enlarged.

For the present, however, the concern is learning more about these fish. Early results have provided some grounds for guarded optimism on the part of biologists and great interest on the part of anglers. Future coho stockings in the Great Lakes will attract even greater public interest.

What do You Do?

Although we are now enjoying the beauty of the fall foliage, it will soon be time to do something about the no longer beautiful leaves on the ground. What will you do with your leaves? You probably are no longer permitted to burn them, though you may live in an area where the garbage collectors will take the leaves. But, doesn't it seem foolish to discard leaves and then buy peat moss or some other type of organic matter for your garden next spring? Your Cooperative Extension Association offers these suggestions for using your leaves.

It's not difficult to make good use of leaves. The easiest way to use them is use them for a winter mulch around trees and shrubs. Dry leaves piled about 8 inches deep will help moderate soil temperatures and prevent heaving due to alternate freezing and thawing. The leaves can be left next year to provide a summer mulch that will help conserve moisture.

Another way to use leaves is to spread them over a vegetable or annual flower garden. Then the leaves can be plowed or spaded under where they will decay and provide organic matter. They may be plowed under now or next spring, but won't decay much until the soil warms up next spring.

Another way to use leaves is to build a compost pile. The purpose of a compost pile is to provide a place where leaves and other material can be reduced to a form that can easily be handled and will not be unsightly when used in the garden. Since bacteria and fungi are the agents that reduce the material, we must feed and water these organisms.

A compost pile is made in layers, and should be at least four layers high. To start, spread part of the leaves in a layer about six inches deep. Spread a commercial fertilizer such as 10-10-10 or 10-6-4 over the layers at a rate of one cup to each ten square feet. This feeds the bacteria now, but will be released for plants when the compost is used. A few shovelful of soil spread over each layer will make sure the bacteria and fungi are present. Continue building the pile with successive layers of leaves, fertilizer and a little soil until the leaves are gone. Be sure to water each layer as it is completed. Turning the pile over next summer will hasten the composting process and you should have usable compost by next fall.

Leaves can be a problem this time of year, but they also provide an opportunity to maintain the organic matter in the soil. For more details on composting, request the bulletin, "The Compost File" by Professor L. H.

McDaniels, from the Cooperative Extension Association, Agricultural Division, 209 Federal Building, 441 Broadway, Albany, New York 12207.

Burrick Furniture, which is located on Delaware Avenue in Albany just after you go over the Thruway Overpass, has added a new department featuring rugs and carpets.

Ever since this comfortable, family-style store opened a few years ago, many Tri-Villagers have found it a joy to do all of their furniture shopping here. The shop handles only the finest name brands and because of its location, away from the high rent areas, the prices are low to meet almost anyone's budget.

Re-do It?

Is there a "best time" to re-do your kitchen?

If your refrigerator refuses to freeze, your cabinets need repainting, drawers stick and doors jam — and you hate "dish-pan hands" — you may feel the best time to remodel is right now.

And, according to Mayfair Kitchen Center, you may be quite right. A faulty appliance can be replaced, a door adjusted. But often a faulty appliance or a deteriorating cabinet is a sign of multiple problems to come, due to the age of the equipment.

Let's face it, your kitchen may be out of date! Or it may simply be out of step with your needs.

Surveys show that the life of today's modern kitchen can be 15 years. But families grow. Tastes change. New types of appliances and new features are introduced. So why live with something that's barely adequate when you can more intelligently (and at a reasonable price) enjoy a kitchen that is totally new!

What is a reasonable price?

Well, how much did you pay for your current car?

Kitchens range, as cars do, from VW's to luxury models. It's all a matter of budget. And you can pay for a kitchen in the same manner as you pay for a car — on monthly budget terms.

Of course if there is a great deal of structural work to be done (putting in a new floor, tearing out walls, enlarging a

What's the sense of paying $15.00 per sq. ft. for space you can't use?

Tom Allen chose electric heat for his new home. Building a new home is a big financial step for Tom, as for many new home owners. Space is valuable, in dollars and in service.

Electric heat made sense . . . paying for square footage that couldn't be used didn't. Tom, his wife Mary, Suzy and baby John will live in every inch of their new home. They'll have a playroom and a laundry room in their basement. And that's all they'll have. Their electric ceiling cable heat will be invisible.

Electric heat made a lot of sense to Tom. He wanted a home that's comfortable and trouble-free. No heating is as dependable or efficient as electric heat.

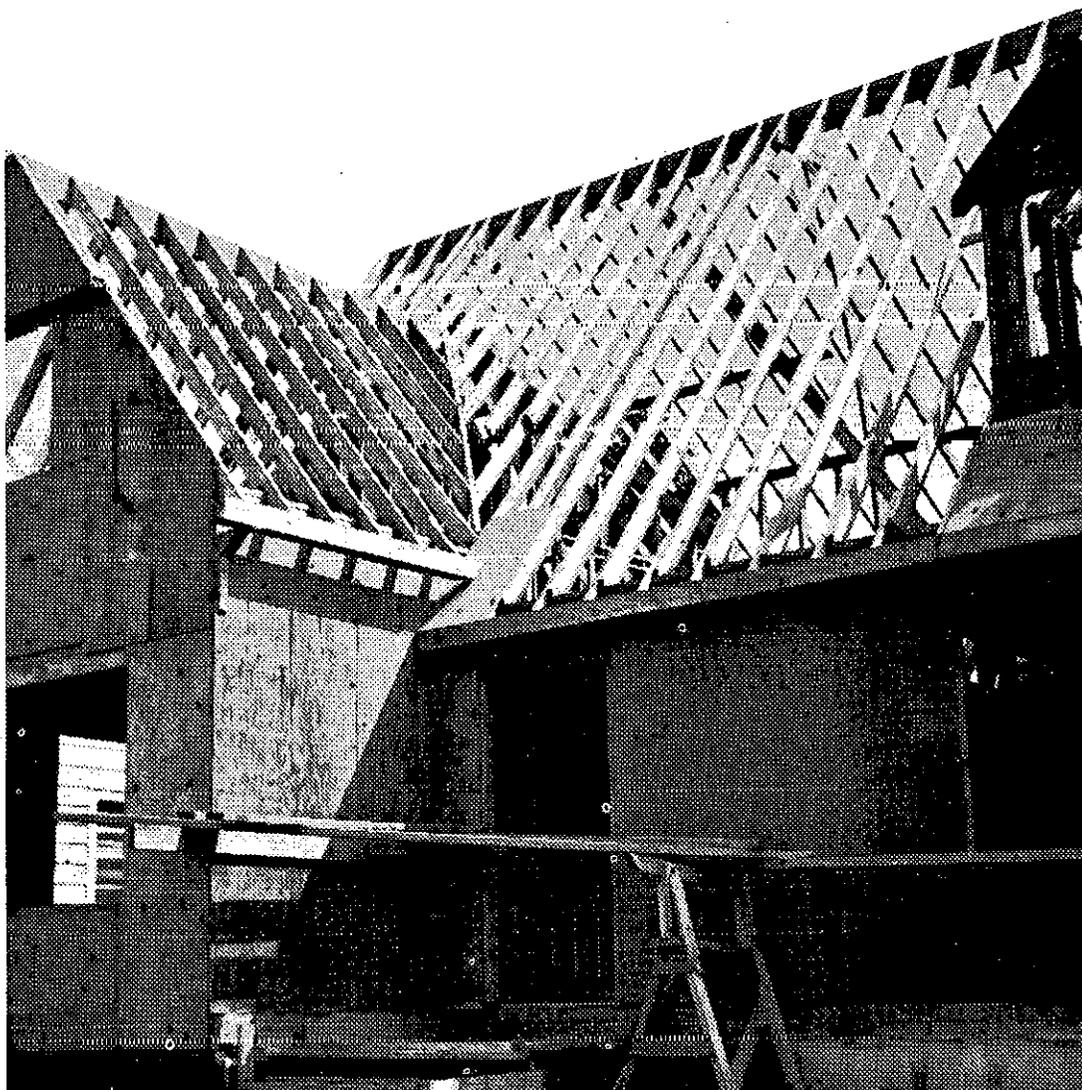

It's even, steady, draft-free heat. A thermostat in each room gives individual temperature control. Repairs? No such thing. There are no moving parts to break down. And electric heat is clean heat. That made sense to Mary . . . moving into a new house and pushing dirt around didn't.

The Allens are sold on electric heat. The extra cost? Tom's not worried about that. His peace of mind and his family's comfort are worth it. He'll be the first to tell you

. . . you don't pay for electric heat with headaches.

NIAGARA MOHAWK

Working hard to make electricity work harder for you window), you will naturally spend more than if you are merely replacing equipment without structural alterations.

Whatever you expect to spend, there are three rules for spending it wisely: Chart your needs. Consult a specialist. Plan ahead.

Don't wait until the end of November to decide it would be lovely to have a new kitchen for Christmas!

Mayfair Kitchen Center says it takes about eight weeks to plan and install a complete kitchen. That's allowing time for discussion, for design and approval of layouts and budget, then three to four weeks for all merchandise to arrive, and a week or so to install — unless extensive alterations are required.

One word of caution: if the alterations are so major as to require opening up an outside wall, the depth of winter is not the most pleasant time to live with such a big "window!" On the other hand, with today's modern methods and tools, the competent kitchen specialist can install your complete new kitchen 'most any time that suits you, with a minimum of inconvenience to you in the process.

Should you have the kitchen "done" while you are on vacation?

Some people do. Most don't simply because they want to be around to discuss with their kitchenman any questions which may arise. But if you feel you have established the proper rapport with your kitchen specialist, go ahead and "vacate": you can depend upon the qualified accredited firm to execute the job with meticulous attention to all plans and specifications submitted in advance for your ap-needs.

The purpose of a new Cooperative Extension bulletin "What's in Home Cleaning Products and Why?" is to help the consumer "understand something about the ingredients in home cleaning products and consider how these ingredients compare in performance and safety."

In this publication, Prof. Janice Woodard of the department of household economics and management, the N.Y. State College of Home Economics at Cornell University, discusses common cleaning agents such as alkalis, acids, detergents, abrasives, vance planning of your and their time — whether your target date is January or June. More important is the careful planning of space and equipment to satisfy all your needs.

Before you talk things over with a kitchen specialist, compile your own "kitchen shopping list," just for fun.

Do you need "full meal" space or just a snack area?

Is the man of the house a barbeque aficionado who'd love an indoor charcoal grill? (Yes, one can be installed so no smoke gets into his eyes or yours!)

What storage do you need for dishes, groceries, pots and pans? (Don't forget the "Company service" Aunt Emma gave you, and provisions for Fido and the cat.)

Do you wish you had a place to "sit down and work?" (Counter areas can be provided at a convenient height.)

How about that extra clean-up sink for the gardener, or for the play crowd that always wants to "wash up" while the lettuce is draining?

Do you want a built-in oven? A dishwasher? A garbage disposer? An automatic washer and dryer in or near the kitchen? What cabinet style do you prefer? Do you want a baking center? A tray storage unit? A pull-out table? A spice cabinet?

You see, happiness for you may be a new kitchen that you've just started planning!

According to Prof. Woodard, "Most cleaning products used in homes today are dangerous only when misused. The most frequent misuse is accidental swallowing by curious children."

Conservation Commissioner R. Stewart Kilborne today announced that Reynold Doerer, Jr., R. D. 3, Ballston Spa, Director of the Department's Office of Central Engineering, will retire on October 9, 1968.

At the same time, Commissioner Kilborne announced that Mr. Doerer will be succeeded by Robert A. Cook of Font Grove Road, Slingerlands, who has been serving as Assistant Director.

The Office of Central Engineering is responsible for Department engineering programs including the planning and coordination of capital projects and for the supervision of flood control activities.

Mr. Doerer is completing 41 years of service with the Conservation Department having started as a junior engineer in 1927. He began State Service five years earlier with the former New York State Highway Department. During his career with the Conservation Department he has been in charge of engineering programs for the Division of Fish and Game, including fish hatchery, game farm and regional headquarters construction throughout the State.

Mr. Cook, who is 42, has been with the Conservation Department since 1958, starting as a hydraulic engineer with the Division of Water Power and Control. He has also served as an associate hydraulic engineer with the Division of Water Resources and as secretary to the State Water Resources Commission.

He attended Middlebury College (Vt.) and is a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (B. M. E.). Mr. Cook is married and has three children.

Commissioner Kilborne commenting on the retirement and appointment announcements said, "the Department sends its best wishes to Rey Doerer upon his retirement. His many years of service to the Conservation Department will long be remembered."

"Bob Cook," said the Commissioner, "is well equipped to assume responsibility for directing the Department's Office of Central Engineering. He has both the background and the ability to get the job done."

Spring Flowers

The spring flowering bulbs, especially the earliest ones like crocus, cloth of gold, and snow drop, are the harbingers of spring. Your Cooperative Extension Association reminds you that to have these messengers bring color to your spring garden, the bulbs must be planted now.

The first bulbs to flower, usually in March, are the early crocus, cloth of gold and winter aconite. These are followed by Crocus, Siberian Squill, and Glory of Snow. Then come the hyacinths, daffodils and tulips. A well planned bulb garden can have blooms for about ten weeks.

Most bulbs should be planted in soils with good drainage and plenty of sun. Of course, there are exceptions, Scilla Siberica (Siberian Squill), Crocus, winter Aconite and snow drops (Galanthus) will give satisfactory performance under trees. Camassia is an exception that will do well in wet or almost swampy soils.

For best results, plant bulbs early in the fall. October is the best month to plant all spring bulbs. Tulips, Narcissi and daffodils can be planted until the ground is frozen hard, but earlier planting is preferred.

The bulb garden should be prepared by working the soil to a depth of about eight inches. When working the soil, work in three pounds of 5-10-5 or one and a half pounds of 10-10-10 or similar fertilizer for each 100 square feet of garden. Soils that are very clayey or sandy can be improved by working in organic matter, such as compost or peat moss.

Use about 5 bushels of organic matter for each 100 square feet. Do not use fresh animal manure as this may injure the bulbs.

Now you can plant. Large bulbs, such as tulips and narcissi, should be planted so the tops are 4 inches below the soil surface. A rule of thumb is that the amount of soil above the bulb should be about twice the diameter of the bulb. Large bulbs should be spaced 6 to 8 inches apart and smaller bulbs about 4 inches apart.

Once the bulbs are planted, you can sit back and enjoy them in the spring. But, remember, if bulbs are to brighten your spring, they must be planted this fall.

Good Lighting

"To protect your eyesight," says William E. Borst, manager of the Adequate Wiring Bureau of Eastern New York, "good lighting in your home is essential. And since October is American Home lighting Fixture Month, that is an especially appropriate time to check your lighting facilities."

Mr. Borst says that good lighting is important in work and play areas, as well as in the home.

"One should not forget," cautioned Mr. Borst, "that the more lighting fixtures you have the more important the need for an adequately wired electrical system."

With more and more electrical appliances and equipment being used in the home today, larger electrical services are required to permit them to operate efficiently. Too many homes today are suffering from outmoded and dangerous wiring systems.

"Today's home requires a minimum of 100 ampere service," says Mr. Borst, "with 150 or even 200 ampere service more desirable. The 60 ampere service installed in homes a few years ago falls far short of the minimum requirement."

The Adequate Wiring Bureau of Eastern New York will gladly assist homeowners in determining whether their home wiring systems are adequate.

Mr. Borst also points out that AWB member banks will provide a low cost monthly payment loan for rewiring, if necessary.

"Get your Free Housepower Inspection today. Then you can add modern, efficient lighting fixtures, appliances and electrical equipment with complete safety and realize top performance from them."
