LETTER

Gentlemen:

I am writing to let you know that a resident of Delmar, WALTER J. MARVIN, is the recipient of a great award and honor. Each year the New York State “Jaycees” select, from all young men in the State under the age of 36, the winner of the Distinguished Service Award. For his excellent youth work, his aid to deprived areas and his ability to communicate good will among all segments of the community, the State Jaycees have selected Walter J. Marvin as the “Outstanding Young Man” in the State for 1968-69.

He was honored at a State Jaycees Convention last weekend in Elmira. A Saturday evening banquet was held in his honor at Elmira College and over 1500 Jaycees and wives attended. At that time, he received the Distinguished Service Award as the State's Outstanding Young Man.

Walter, age 33, is a Senior Account Executive and stockholder with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. He is the financial reporter on WRGB-TV and WHRL-FM Stereo radio. His successful career and his ability to communicate good will between deprived and well-off areas of the community have helped to bring these areas closer together and more understanding to one another.

His greatest work is in the area of service to the youth of Albany, particularly in the slum areas. He was one of the first Big Brothers in Albany and for five years has been helping a young Negro boy, Charles Peavy. Walter is on the Big Brothers Board of Directors and was the Chairman of the recently highly successful Big Brothers Ball. He is the Co-Founder of the Albany Jaycees Project Helpmate which has provided recreational facilities and guidance for hundreds of children over the past five years. As President of the Albany Jaycees, 1967-68, he led the local to its finest year in history. Albany was rated number “one” of the 225 Jaycee Chapters in New York State and was considered one of the finest locals

Highlights

Films and slides of the 1968 Mexico City Olympics will be shown at the Bethlehem Community Church at 7:30 P.M. on Friday, November 8. Carlton Allen of Delmar is attending the games and will give his first-hand account of this exciting contest. This presentation is open to young men 12 to 18 years of age and their fathers, and is being given in conjunction with the formation of a Christian Service Brigade unit here in Delmar.

The Christian Service Brigade is an international organization with over 2,000 units. Brigade encourages development of various skills such as aerodynamics, angling, auto mechanics, camping, electronics, forestry, journalism, lifesaving, meteorology, and photography. There are nearly one hundred crafts to choose from. The achievement program is challenging and enjoyable, with room for both novice and expert in almost any field of interest.

A second emphasis of the Brigade program is sports. Soccer, baseball, basketball, football, and personal fitness will all be stressed. Workshops will be held for improving particular athletic skills and a schedule of games will be set up with other Brigade units in the area. Special outings are planned for the unit, including hikes in the adirondacks and attending local sports events.

Leaders have completed a Brigade Leadership Training course and have varied professional skills to contribute to the achievement program.

5 P.M. This show is sponsored by the Bethlehem Art Association in conjunction with the N.Y. State Council on the Arts.

The show explores the color theories of Josef Albers, twentieth century artist and teacher associated with the German Bauhaus School of Art. "It shows a new way of teaching color, of studying color . . . to make our eyes sensitive to the wonders of color interaction." Each of 15 panels demonstrates how one color or colors around it, including such phenomena as vibrating boundaries and two different colors being made to look identical. This edition has been designed and organized by O. Charles Giordano of Syracuse University School of Art.

The Bethlehem Art Association brings this exhibition to Delmar as a community service.

Shame

To have a library, you must have books. To hold books, you must have shelves. To have the proper shelves, you must have adjustable ones. Library shelves are adjustable. Two small metal supports do the trick. Without them, the shelves are useless!

Some misguided souls have seen fit to tamper with the supports in the Young Adult Room at the Delmar Public Library. As a result, a time wasting and dangerous situation has arisen. Therefore, with deep regret, Mrs. Barbara Rau, head librarian, is closing the Young Adult Room for the time being. It is unfortunate that once again the many must suffer for the childish actions of the few.

Serving table wines as apéritifs

No special implements or techniques are called for to use wines as apéritifs. A tray of generous-sized stemmed glasses, a cork-screw, and, of course, the wine (one bottle for every three or four guests for pre-dinner drinking) are all you need.

All of the white wines should be thoroughly chilled in the refrigerator before serving. Chilling will take at least an hour. It is better to start with the wine too cold than not sufficiently chilled—it soon warms up in the glass.

All wines served as apéritifs are the better for nuts, crackers, olives, or slivers of cheese served as accompaniments. Hostesses who have prepared elaborate canapés often find they are more appreciated with wine than with the usual cocktails. A word of warning: wine is a real appetizer. Trays of tidbits disappear with alarming speed. And the dinner bell becomes a sound more appealing than ever.

Al Vino

Jamaica Inn, Latham, is proud to announce the arrival of The Al Vino Premiere. The management has booked Al Vino for a special five-week engagement. At his recent engagement at the famed Park-Sheraton Hotel in New York City, Al Vino broke all attendance records.

He handles every brand of singing with propelling deftness; ballads, soul, rock, pop and even opera. And there's guaranteed pleasure in every rendition for the listener.

Al Vino has a valuable possession - a voice that can cover and absorb two and one-half octaves. The Vino voice ranges from baritone depths to tenor clarity. Vino, who got his musical training at the Eastman School of Music and the Brooklyn Conservatory, has been called by critics "one of the most versatile performers on the entertainment scene."

Alan King Is Coming

Alan King, master gagster from Brooklyn, and his show will appear at the R.P.I. Field House on Friday, November 8 at 8:30 P.M. as part of the R.P.I. Military Weekend.

Famed for his quick wit and glib tongue, King moves into the Field House as one of the most popular of the present comics.

The slick quipster who made his start as a drummer with a four-piece band now is a regular on the top T.V. shows, scored a hit on Broadway in "The Impossible Years" and is a favorite on the supper club circuit. King is as busy as he is popular.

King has dedicated much of his time recently to raising $500,000 which he has pledged toward construction of the Alan King Medical Center in Jerusalem.

A lot of big things have happened to King. Most of them started in England. Making little head way in this country, he joined a Judy Garland troupe appearing in London. His reception there was so impressive that agents here welcomed him back with a wave of major engagements.

A versatile gent, he was long known as "the harried husband" because he drew much of his material from incidents at home involving his wife, Jeanette. Home, incidentally, is on Long Island. The family includes Robert, 17, and Andrea, 13.

What humorous tack he will take at the Field House remains to be seen and heard. No need to say here he will be welcome

Half of the students saw the operation on October 2 while the second group visited the warehouse on October 8.

Students were shown the stock by Robert G. Bivona, Assistant Director of Personnel of Central Markets, Inc., a part of the Golub Corporation. The Schenectady warehouse is the repository of the non-perishable goods of Central Markets. The students were able to observe the computer inventory system used to maintain stock control and record deliveries to the area Central Market stores. Mr. Bivona also gave the students an indication of the various job opportunities available in the operation of the warehouse.

Those who participated in the field trip were: Richard Barber, Arthur Blanchard, Darlene Bogardus, Arlette Brisee, Paul Bryce, Charles Caminiti, Deborah Cass, Peter Clark, Richard Contento, Michael Cootware, Dennis Daly, Rita Danckert, Steven Demarest, Anne DePuccio, John Drislane, Gregory Fabe, Neil Fitzgerald, Marcia Flansburg, Patrick Ford, John France, Gary Gardner, Linda Geel, Philip Giacone, Paul Gutman, Donald Halsdorf, Marion Hathaway, Kim Hilchie, Michael Iacono, Herbert Jones, James Loux, John Lynch, Susan Lynch, Jean Markley, David Martin, Edward McDonald, Daniel Moak, Gregg Mosley, Michael Mosley, Charles Murray, Gary Myers, Keith Newberry, Kenneth Newberry, John Olkowski, Karl Parker, Brian Panza, Dorothy Parker, Terry Ralston, Paul Roberts, Sue Reagan, Henry Reed, Frank Rooney, Peter Rossman, Shelia Sagor, Laura Salisbury, Brian Shea, Paula Slingerland, Winston Simpson, David Smith, James Smith, Kenneth Stefanik, Wil-

"At the University of Hawaii," he pointed out, "we already have an East-West Center, which has been most effective from the 'people-to-people' angle. A training course such as I propose would fit neatly into that Center.

"There are many students at the University of Hawaii who are from Asiatic countries or of Asiatic descent. Our young foreign service people would double their qualifications for Asiatic posts if they could mingle for a year with such students, learning to understand their approach. That would be invaluable in their subsequent assignments.

"Most of the students at the University of Puerto Rico have a Spanish background and culture. Young men and women to be assigned to countries with the same background and culture can learn much from living with and studying with them for a

"Cost of the program would be minimal compared with the dividends it would pay in better understanding of us by them."

Herzog said he has asked leaders in Hawaii and Puerto Rico for comment and possible public support of his plan.

Herzog Speaks

Judge Jacob H. Herzog, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 29th district, today proposed establishment of diplomatic training schools in Hawaii and Puerto Rico "to break down the communications barrier between the United States and the vital Asiatic and Latin American areas."

Herzog said he, if elected, will introduce in the 91st Congress, a bill establishing at the University of Hawaii and the University of Puerto Rico "special one-year courses for fledging foreign service personnel."

"Any such program," he said, "would require the cooperation of the state of Hawaii and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, as well as the two universities."

Herzog suggested that young aspirants to the foreign service could be sent to Hawaii if their assignments were to be in Asia and to Puerto Rico if they were destined to serve in Latin or South America.

"One of our great difficulties in foreign service, especially for newcomers, is understanding of the people," he explained. "That understanding does not come from learning a language. It comes from comprehension of the different approach to many problems by the Asiatic or the Latin American mind. Until our foreign service people grasp that difference we aren't even close to meaningful discussion or understanding."

Herzog said older diplomats acquire this knowledge "the hard way," but that many young-

Too Late to Seed Lawns?

Most people will agree that the ideal time to seed a lawn is between August 15 and September 15. Unfortunately, it is not always possible to get all the work done during that period. Then what? Professor John F. Cornman, Cooperative Extension Turf Specialist at Cornell has said: "Under most circumstances it seems reasonable to keep on planting grass seed any time in the autumn until the ground is frozen, rather than to wait until spring."

He reasons that lawns seeded before mid-September will usually germinate and become established before growth stops. On the other extreme, grass may be seeded so late that no germination takes place in the fall. As long as the seed does not wash away during the winter, it will germinate promptly in the spring, much earlier than a spring seeding could be made. In either case, the autumn seeding is far more likely to produce a turf that will withstand the hot, dry summer weather than is a spring planted lawn.

The problem lies between the extremes of early seeded and dormant seeded lawns. Some seed will get planted early enough to germinate but late enough so that the new seedlings have only a few small roots.

Alternate freezing and thawing in the fall and spring can pull these plants from the soil and they become dehydrated and die. It is impossible to predict when this problem period will occur. It varies each year with the autumn growing conditions and on how late winter comes.

Professor Cornman is aware that his recommendations to seed whenever possible in the fall involves a period when the results may not be good. He considers this calculated risk worthwhile because of the great benefits of getting the lawn started Selling maintenance insurance on electric heat is a tough way to make a living.

Barking dogs and slammed doors are two of the things that make life hard for a salesman. Room-to-room electric heat is another.

With electric heat there's just no market for insurance. People don't worry about major breakdowns or major bills. They don't have a bunch of minor repairs. Or service calls. They just have simple baseboard units or heating cable hidden in the ceiling. The only moving part is in the thermostat. And when did you last hear of somebody insuring a thermostat?

With other heating systems you either invest in some sort of service policy or you live with the idea of big, sudden expenses. Cold days without heat. Constant service charges.

Instead of buying headaches like that, buy electric heat.

It does cost a little more. But like most things that cost more, it's worth more.

When you buy electric heat for a new home, old home or added room, you don't buy aggravation and inconvenience. So it figures...

You don't pay for electric heat with headaches.

New Members

The Agricultural Division of the Cooperative Extension Association of Albany County is now conducting its 54th Enrollment Drive. Albert Collins, Chairman of the Division Committee, said that this year's campaign is again a "100% By-Mail Campaign."

Present enrollees in the Agricultural Division have already received a letter from Mr. Collins outlining the plans for the enrollment drive. These plans include the choice of becoming either a regular or a Home Grounds Program enrollee and the privilege of nominating people for complimentary enrollment.

People enrolling as regular or full enrollees may be enrolled in the total Agricultural Extension program, including the Home Grounds Program. They will be entitled to request membership signs, and time will be credited towards membership awards and pins. Regular members will receive the monthly "Albany County News" and may be on any or all mailing lists. Mr. Collins suggests that people who want information on farming, conservation and land use, become regular enrollees. The regular enrollment fee remains $4.00 a year.

The Home Grounds Program enrollment was established for those people whose agricultural interests are primarily centered on an urban or suburban lot and who do not need the wide range of information required by farmers. Home Grounds enrollees will receive the "Albany County News" each month and will be placed on the home grounds mailing list. Mailings through this list include "Horti-Facts," a monthly newsletter of gardening information, special letters as needed and notices of Home Grounds meetings and schools. The Home Grounds Program enrollment fee is $2.00.

All enrollees, both regular and Home Grounds, have been urged to nominate friends to be complimentary members for 1969. Since this is a way to introduce more people to the work of the Agricultural Division, only those people who have not been on the mailing list during 1967 or 1968 are eligible for the complimentary enrollment. There is no charge for nominating complimentary enrollees.

Mr. Collins suggested that anyone interested in joining should contact the Agricultural Extension Office, Federal Building, 441 Broadway, Albany, New York 12207 (phone 472-3137) for more information about the Agricultural Division's membership campaign.

grounds are invited to attend, according to Prof. Bruce T. Wilkins, this year's conference chairman and conservationist at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell.

Wilkins said that many knowledgeable persons from Cornell and CONY will present new and valuable information to aid owners in making their campgrounds into a more successful business.

"This conference," he added, "is a valuable opportunity for participants to pick up new ideas and meet others engaged in the private campground development business."

New or prospective campground operators are invited to attend a special session tailored to their particular needs Friday, (November 22) at 9:00 A.M. in Room 163, Morrison Hall.

Topics include economic considerations, site locations, how to attract people and keep them returning, where technical assistance can be obtained and general hints on developing a successful campground.

Instructional exhibits developed by the college and by campground operators will be available for viewing throughout the two-day meet.

CONY will hold a special business meeting and buffet supper Friday evening. Further details may be obtained from Prof. Wilkins at Fernow Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850

Gourds

Gardeners who grew gourds this year should dry them carefully before polishing or coloring them for winter decoration, a Cornell University floriculturist warns.

If they haven't yet been picked and are still undamaged by frost, they should be picked immediately, reminds Prof. Raymond T. Fox of the N.Y. State College of Agriculture at Cornell. They should be cut from the vine with sharp shears or a knife, leaving a few inches of the stem attached to avoid bruising the fruit.

Fox said, "Immediately after picking, the gourds should be washed in warm, soapy water and rinsed in clean water to which a household disinfectant such as Clorox has been added." This removes the dirt and soil-borne bacteria that may cause mold.

After drying the gourds thoroughly with a soft cloth they should be spread out on several layers of newspapers in a warm, dry room, preferably in the sun, for a week. Turn them daily and replace the newspapers if they are dampened by moisture from the fruit.

At the end of the week, shriveled gourds or those with soft spots can be discarded and the good ones should be wiped again with a soft cloth soaked in household disinfectant.

Again they must be spread out on newspapers and dried further for three to four weeks in a warm, dry place. This time a dark place should be used to prevent the colors from fading.

After this final drying, and Fox warned that only at this point, the gourds can be shellaced to give them a hard, glossy finish, or waxed with a paste wax for a soft, shiny finish. Fox warned that they will mold or soften if they are treated before thorough drying.

Gourds with a poor, dull color can be painted with a spray or regular paint in a flat or enamel finish or they can be gilded with silver or gold paint. If the gilt is applied with a spray or brush a bright, shiny gilt can be achieved.

A dull sheen can be produced by shellacing the gourds and shaking them in a paper bag with CHARLES F. LUBNER, second from left, of 32 Linton Avenue, Albany, an engineer with the New York State Thruway Authority, has been presented $1,000 — the largest cash award ever made under the Authority's Employees' Suggestion Program. Here he is congratulated by Authority Board Members, from left: Treasurer Alton G. Marshall, Chairman R. Burdell Bixby and Vice Chairman Edwin J. Fehrenbach. Mr. Lubner, was cited for outstanding work in preparing extensive material for the Authority's court action to win credit for betterments made to State highways during Thruway construction. The State Court of Claims awarded the Authority $30,842,427 as an offset to $24,668,714 the Authority owed the State. The Court of Claims award was based on recommendations of three referees who held 78 days of hearings on Authority claims involving 133 construction sites. The record comprised 7,288 pages of testimony and several thousand exhibits. The Court of Appeals, in a recent decision directed that the Authority's judgement be reduced, and sent the case back to the Court of Claims to determine the precise amount of the judgement.

1918-1968 — The American Legion's 50th Anniversary will be observed by posts throughout the world now and in months to come. Robinson, Hugh Stowers; Sitting: (L to R) George Reber, Clifford Whitney, George Brown, and Keith Hubbard. All Veterans are welcome. Tickets are available at the Post building. Speaker for the evening will be General W. Reynolds Carr who enlisted in the Infantry in 1918, and recently retired as Major General in command of the N.Y. State Guard. Gold 50 year pins will be presented to members who have had 50 years continuous membership in the Legion.

Spotlight Phone HE 9-4949

In 1940, nine dollars bought two telephone calls* to your mother in Sweet Home, Oregon, and one call to your friend in Amarillo, Texas.

Today, the same nine dollars buys more than twice as many phone calls... five to your mother in Sweet Home and three to your friend in Amarillo... plus a chocolate-nut sundae.

*1940 rates are for three minutes station-to-station all day Sunday (tax included). Now, interstate Sunday rates are good all day Saturday, Sunday and weekdays after 7 P.M.

What's more, your calls go through in a fraction of the time it took then, and your party will come through much louder and clearer. More phone service. Better phone service. For the same money. If talk is cheap, blame it on the phone company.

Now is the time to begin thinking of next year's garden. This might seem strange and premature, but fall is the ideal time to destroy many of the garden pests which will cause much grief next year. This can be accomplished by a thorough fall clean up of the garden. Your Cooperative Extension Association notes that this is the most important cultural practice that can be done to control diseases and insects in the garden.

By fall clean-up we mean digging up all the annuals, cutting off the tops of the perennials and raking the ground to remove the surface debris and burning or burying all of this material. This is important because many pests spend the winter in or on the debris of the garden. If this debris is left undisturbed, the insects will pass through the winter and be waiting for the plants to appear next spring. However, if the debris is collected and destroyed, the pests are also destroyed.

Unfortunately, some insects do not spend the winter in garden debris, and some diseases are carried in the air or live in the soil so fall clean up is not a cure all. However, many insects such as leaf hoppers, plant bugs and many borers can be controlled by a fall clean up. Diseases such as leaf spot and leaf blights are also controlled this way.

When cleaning up the garden don't overlook the weeds and garden borders. Weeds and other debris can also harbor pests. Careful removal of weeds and their seeds will also help reduce next years weed problems.

If you are in the habit of mulching your garden to protect tender perennials and keep newly planted materials from being heaved out by alternate thawing and freezing in the spring, be sure that the mulch is put on after the ground is frozen. Generally that means after Thanksgiving. If you mulch too early you just provide excellent hibernation quarters for insects, as well as provide mice with happy winter homes.

Horticultural specialists of Cooperative Extension stress the following points about fall clean up: First, all annuals should be removed and destroyed by burning or burying; second the tops of all perennials should be removed and destroyed; third, the borders should be cleaned up in a similar manner and fourthly, avoid mulching before Thanksgiving.

New Wing

The new science facilities at the Albany Academy will be named The Joseph Henry Science Wing, it was announced recently by David S. Williams, president of the Academy Trustees, at a convocation for parents and friends of the 155-year-old school. Henry was an alumnus and teacher at the Academy.

Over 200 persons attended the event which marks the launching of a $350,000 capital campaign to finance the renovation and expansion project. The drive volunteers will solicit pledges from parents, corporations, friends and alumni of the school. The Trustees and faculty and staff have already made their gifts and a total of $76,024 was an-announced by Charles M. Liddle, III, general chairman. Mr. Liddle, in his remarks, pointed out that this figure represents a 26% increase in giving from these same individuals to the 150th anniversary fund.

John P. Hawn, building committee chairman for the new science facilities, described the actual units to be provided in the Joseph Henry Science Wing. Laboratories for physics, general science, earth science, chemistry and biology are included along with additional classroom space and a 100-seat, fully-equipped lecture hall.

Harry E. P. Meislahn, headmaster, described the faculty and Trustee planning which preceded the decision to revamp the science department. He underscored the fact that the new units would benefit the entire student body. The new lecture hall, in particular, will make it possible for every department to plan its program around the use of this audio-visually equipped facility.

G. Britton Holmes, head of the science department, reviewed the highlights of Joseph Henry's career following his graduation from Albany Academy. Mr. Holmes named Henry, Benjamin Franklin and Benjamin Silliman as the foremost scientists following the Revolution and the War of 1812.

Henry worked with Alexander Graham Bell in developing the electrical components of the first telephone and his discoveries made possible the invention of the telegraph by Samuel F. B. Morse. He served as the first secretary and helped to organize the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

Mr. Holmes said that "to men of science, Henry ranks equally with Volta, Ampere, Faraday, Oersted, Davy, Sturgeon, Wheatstone, Coulomb, Cruikshank, Helmholtz and Joule. He shares with Volta, Ampere and Coulomb the distinction of having a basic unit of electricity named after him. The 'henry' is the unit of inductance."

A reception was given in the Library of the School by the Mothers' Association following the convocation. Mrs. Raymond Elliott, assisted by class mothers,

Safety Study

The State Department of Transportation has informed Bethlehem Supervisor Bertram Kohinke that a traffic safety study will be conducted at the intersection of Maple Avenue and New Scotland Road.

The intersection was the scene of a fatal accident Sept. 8.

The study is being made at the request of Mr. Kohinke. The matter came to the supervisor's attention when he received a letter from a resident who lives two doors from the intersection.

The resident stated the neighbors had become alarmed at the number of accidents which have occurred in that area and requested that a blinking red light be installed at the intersection.

Upon receipt of the letter, Mr. Kohinke asked the Bethlehem Police Department to provide him with the information of all accidents at the intersection.

It was learned that the Maple Avenue-New Scotland Road intersection has been the scene of three accidents this year. Frank S. Grzegoski of 18 Dudley Heights, Albany, was killed Sept. 8, when his car failed to negotiate the curve on New Scotland Road near Maple Avenue. The auto struck a power pole and then came to rest against a tree.

Three accidents occurred in that area in 1967 two of them resulting in personal injury.
