LETTERS

Dear Sir:

For the past three years I have raised a melon native to the area around Alma Ata in Kazakhstan. It is of the honeydew type but has a shorter growing season than other honeydew melons. When ripe the fruit is smooth, golden in color and with light green flesh similar to ordinary honeydews. My experience proves that this melon will mature in the Delmar climate.

I have a considerable supply of seed, and will be glad to send a dozen seeds, together with suggestions for planting, free to anyone who sends me a stamped self addressed envelope. Requests should be sent to Frank Hawthorne, 5 Van Dyke Road, Delmar, N.Y. 12054.

Sincerely Yours. Frank Hawthorne

To the Editor:

I wish someone would kindly tell me why:

After centuries of humanity, we must suddenly be taught SEX.

GOD gave us many gifts; sight — hearing — feeling — and two of the greatest — LOVE AND SEX. Sex is as normal as breathing. It is life, but apparently the 'Powers That Be' think we know nothing about life or sex, so they have decided that they must enlighten our children on these subjects.

Because God also gave us a mind, I think it is time that the parents begin to use these minds and find out why our children must be given 13 years of Family Life and Sex Education — when any parent and I repeat — ANY PARENT — can teach a child or children the 'Facts of Life' in two hours and teach it as it should be taught in the privacy of the home by those who love their children.

Is it because of the laxity of parents that the schools and State feel that they must take over and teach our children things which I believe that it is the right of parents to teach or NOT to teach their children the facts of life. Certainly it should not be taught with the reference books that are recommended by SIECUS.

If anyone can tell me why a kindergartener would be interested in his or her inheritance from the parents or what happens when Mommie and Daddy go to bed — speak up! Personally I think the only thing these children are interested in is where their next lolly-pop is coming from.

Granted we are living in a Jet Age, but there are some things that simply cannot be rushed. The growth of trees and plants and the growth of children! Nature will not be rushed — and by what right do the schools think that they can rush our children into the complexities of life? Let these children develop naturally as God meant them to and they and our Country will survive and florish for many, many years to come.

Thank God for men like Peter Fish who will fight for the rights of our children and country — if parents will not.

Good Works

"Helping others" appears to be the motto of student leaders at Bethlehem Junior High School.

A recent progress report on student activities, prepared by Student Council President, Buck Rogers, indicates that a number of extremely successful charitable drives have been conducted at the school.

During a recent two-week money raising drive over $800 was donated by 7th, 8th and 9th grade students for support of two "adopted" children — one in Greece and another in Columbia, South America. In addition, the Student Council donated $200 for starving Biafran children, $100 was sent to Cheyenne and Crow Indian school children in the U.S., and $100 was provided for sending "gift pacs" to servicemen in Vietnam. In another drive, over 1300 cans of foods were collected for needy families in the Albany area.

In spite of their many charitable activities, the students still found time to sponsor an "all school" dance in November and also opened a studentrun store at the Junior High School building where students can purchase last minute school supplies.

Members of the Junior High Student Council are: Buck Rogers, President; Zoe Churchville, Vice President; Peter Pryor, Secretary; and Lorraine Lueth, Treasurer. Members of the Orphan Drive Committee were: Michele Longo, Sally Tomiko, Sue Eaton, Bev Elliott, Claudia Schosberg, Bob Nuzzo, John Terko, and Tom Miller.

To culminate a unit on Health — after learning good health habits and ways to stay healthy — the children in Mrs. Freeman's kindergarten class in Slingerlands invited their fathers to school for breakfast. After visiting their classroom and showing Dad their store with shelves of healthful food, a real cash register and cart to deliver the food, the children entertained their fathers, after a healthy breakfast, with a short program made up of poems and songs about good health habits. It was not only a fun time for all, but educational as well, even at such an early hour!!

Zoning

Speaking before a joint conference of Albany area builders and realtors, Planner-Lawyer Dr. Stephen Sussna, recommended major zoning changes for this region.

Sussna, who is a member of the New York Bar told the group "that to a large extent the housing and commercial problems of this region are due to obsolete, improper zoning. Witness the fact there is at least a 16 percent vacancy rate in the Albany downtown."

The promising future of the area resulting from vast expenditure of public money for governmental buildings and its superb location on the main route between New York City and the St. Lawrence Seaway will be frustrated, according to the Trenton, New Jersey Planning Consultant, if advantage is not taken of new zoning techniques.

As an illustration of what could be done in the Tri-City area. Dr. Sussna suggested the adoption of the Planned Unit Development Ordinance in Albany and surrounding municipalities. The total community approach could benefit both the developer and the tax payer by increasing the tax base substantially, school sites, open space, diversified housing and decreasing street, utility, drainage and site preparation costs.

As a New York example of a Planned Unit Development, Dr. Sussna cited the 1600 acre new town of Genesee City in the Rochester area.

"Since 300 acres are to be set aside for industrial buildings and 80 acres for commercial and governmental use, a strong tax base for the 700 residential acres will be provided," he said.

Dr. Sussna also noted that 45 acres would be set aside for public schools, and 400 acres for recreation. A golf course is to be included.

Lawns

At this time of year most home gardeners' thoughts are on the lawn. What can we do now to improve our lawn, to have a greener lawn this year and to get rid of the weeds. Cooperative Extension Horticulturalists make the following suggestions for improving lawns.

The first step to having a more beautiful lawn is to rake the lawn with a 'lawn broom' type of rake. This will remove dead leaf blades, leaves and debris that prevent the new green shoots from showing. Removing this material also helps to prevent a build-up of thatch, that layer of organic material that seals the soil and prevents air, water and fertilizer from reaching the grass roots.

Once the lawn has been raked, the next step is to fertilize the lawn. There are many good lawn fertilizers available at garden centers. The most important factor is not the specific brand of fertilizer you choose, but the proper use of the fertilizer. First, use the correct amount. Too much can injure or kill the grass and too little will not give the desired results. Many fertilizers will state that a bag will fertilize so many square feet. If the kind you buy does not tell this, use the following guide. If the first number of the fertilizer grade is 10, use 10 lbs. for each 1000 sq. ft. of lawn, if the first number of the grade is 20, use 5 lbs. on each 1000 square feet.

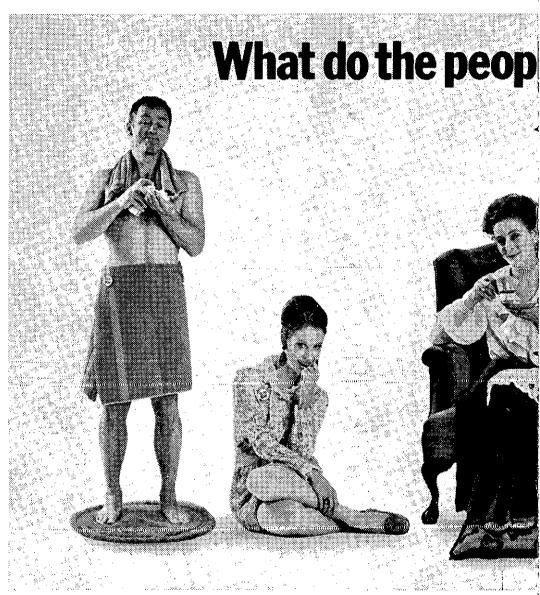

When you apply the fertilizer, take care not to leave streaks. One way to do this is to set your spreader to apply the fertilizer at one half the desired rate and make two trips. Make the first trip in one direction, for example north-south and the second trip in an east-west direction. This insures a more even distribution of fertilizer and a more even green color for your lawn.

Lime may also be needed on your lawn. However, the only way to tell if lime is needed is to have your soil tested. Most garden centers and your local Extension Agent will be happy to test a sample of soil for you.

Weeds are the next item of concern. Crabgrass is best controlled with one of the crabgrass preventers. These materials kill crabgrass only when the seed germinates. This means they should be applied as soon as possible.

as 2,4-D and silvex work differently. These materials are absorbed through the leaves of actively growing plants such as dandelion, plantain and chickweed. Therefore, broadleafed weed killers are applied later in the season, about mid-May.

To sum up, don't forget the steps outlined by the Extension Horticulturalists. First rake the lawn and then fertilize (and apply lime if needed). Apply a crabgrass preventer early in the spring and a broadleafed weed killer later in the spring. These steps can help improve your lawn. Kite Safety Spring has sprung, bringing with it the seasonal hazards that go with kite and model airplane flying, Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation said today in its annual reminder to area youngsters.

Thomas W. Dowling, manager for Niagara Mohawk, noted that kite and airplane flying can be great fun, but especially if children — and adults, too — follow these basic safety rules.

- 1. Fly kites and model planes in open fields far away from electric wires, traffic and trees.
- 2. In kite flying, use only string without wire or tinsel in it.
- 3. Use dry string when flying a kite. Wet string like wire, can be a conductor of electricity. Don't try to play "Ben Franklin" by flying a kite during a thunderstorm.
- 4. If your kite or model plane gets caught in power lines or in a tree through which wires run, don't try to free it, let it go! It's better to lose an easily-replaced kite or model plane than your life which is irreplaceable.

Dowling also cautioned youngsters and grown-ups about climbing utility poles or substation fences. He also asked citizens to report downed wires to Niagara Mohawk, making certain that no one goes near them before repair crews arrive. "To be on the safe side, treat all fall lines as hot" he said.

The Manor

Built about 1890, this gracious structure was purchased in the early 1900's by the Carpenter family and used as their summer home. Extensive grounds and well-kept flower gardens made it a showplace in the area.

In 1947, it was converted into a restaurant which operated for several years. The restaurant subsequently closed and the building remained vacant for some time.

In 1964, the property was purchased by Charles and Anne Vlahos. The building underwent considerable remodeling and opened, in April of 1965 as "The Altamont Manor."

Today, on its 9 acres of wooded hillside, about halfway up Mt Presentation in the Helderbergs, The Altamont Manor is known throughout northeastern New York as one of the better restaurants serving the discriminating public.

The grounds are slowly being restored to their original loveliness — running a first-class restaurant doesn't leave many hours for gardening! — for hardly a spring or summer day passes that another flower or shrub run wild is not coaxed back to tidy comeliness by the loving hands of "Grandma" — Mrs. Oraine Brigis, mother of Anne Vlahos.

The interior walls are brightened by a changing show of original drawings and paintings, many lent by Edward Cowley, chairman of the Fine Arts Department at State University of New York at Albany, a neighbor.

Mice, Moles and Rabbits

Several small animals have made there presence known this winter by feeding on trees and shrubs. Mice and rabbits are the two most common offenders.

Both mice and rabbits will feed on the bark. The animal that did the feeding can be determined by the damage done. Mice feed on the base of trees and shrubs and do a clean job of removing the bark. Mice move below the snow and leave trails in the lawn. Rabbits, on the other hand, remain above the snow and feed higher on the plant. They also tend to pull the bark off, leaving a ragged, torn wound.

No matter which animal has caused the damage, the results are the same — dead or injured plants. If the feeding has completely removed the bark in a circle around the branch or stem, the part of the plant above this will die. In the case of trees, this usually means the loss of the tree.

If the wound is only in a small area, it can be treated and will heal. To treat the wound, first shape it. Wounds that are pointed at the top and bottom will heal fastest. Then clean all rough edges and loose bark within the damaged area. The wound should tion be painted with a tree wound paint or orange shellac.

The best cure for this type of damage is prevention. A fence of hardware cloth, with a half inch mesh can be used to form a cylinder around the tree. This should be embedded in the soil and extend upward at least 18 inches. Such a guard will prevent damage by either mice or rabbits up to the height of the guard. Wrapping with aluminum foil, and the use of repellents are easier but less effective ways to prevent damage.

Many home gardeners have noticed trails across their lawns this spring, and have blamed moles for this. It is more likely that mice caused these trails. Mice wear a path into the lawn while moles burrow under the soil and make a raised tunnel. Moles are more likely to be active later in the spring.

Your Cooperative Extension Association has a free bulletin entitled, "Control of Small Animals in Homes and Gardens.' that describes the habits of rabbits, mice, moles and other small animals. For your copy of this bulletin, request it from the Agricultural Division, Cooperative Extension Association, 209 Federal Building, 441 Broadway, Albany, N.Y. 12207.
