Grand Opening

"Reasonable rentals in an urban setting" is the developers' description of Southgate, Schenectady's newest and most effective answer to the city's long-felt need for modern living -- at realistic cost.

First four of a total of 25 buildings were formally opened Monday, June 9, as Schenectady Mayor Malcolm Ellis and Robert J. Smith, Assistant State Director of the Federal Housing Administration presented official approvals to Leon E. Brock, General Partner of Southgate.

When completed this fall, Southgate will incorporate a total of 292 apartments ranging from one to three bedroom units. The spacious 16-acre site at Edward and Watt Streets affords desirable privacy yet is convenient to schools, churches, shopping and other facilities.

Monthly rentals have been set at $106.17 for a one-bedroom apartment, $125.33 for two-bedroom and $144.50 for three-bedroom units. All utilities except telephone are included.

In planning the community, special consideration was given to fulfilling the recreational needs of children of all ages. There are two separate play areas: one for younger children containing animals and other structures on which youngsters can sit, lie, or climb, in line with the contemporary approach favored by most of today's recreational authorities. The other, for older children features a basketball court.

Another desirable Southgate feature is its extra-wide streets. And each tenant has his own street number and mailbox. Two- and three-bedroom apartments have private entrances.

Among the many other advantages of apartments in the two-story contemporary buildings are: individually controlled electric heat, with therostats in every room; insulated double windows; spacious outdoor parking areas; coin-operated laundries in three strategically located buildings; fully equipped kitchens with 176 cu. ft. refrigerator, four-burner electric range and waste disposer; all concealed underground wiring.

FHA-regulated under Sec. 221 (d) (3) for moderate income families, Southgate was designed by Samuel Paul & Seymour Jarmul, New York City architects. The Kantor Corporation and Leon E. Brock are the developers. The general contractor is a corporation formed by the developers and L. A. Swyer Co. Inc. Mrs. Joan Mason is rental manager, Felix Tannata, superintendent.

Chicago Picasso

The largest sculpture by the world's greatest living artist will be the subject of "Chicago Picasso: Greatness in the Making" - Wednesday, July 16 at 8 P.M. on Channel 17.

From the time the giant work was commissioned for the Chicago Civic Center Plaza, the problems were obvious. Mr. William Hartmann, the man most instrumental in getting the work 50-foot, 163-ton sculpture to the windy city, reminisces about his repeated consultations with the artist, the placement of the Picasso when it was completed and the public controversy that surrounded the actual work.

Prior to the unveiling on August 15 of 1967, Picasso was persuaded to contribute a maquette or preliminary model of the sculpture to the center. Protestors carrying "monster" and "give it back" signs paraded through the plaza for days and one Alderman introduced a proposal that the Chicago Picasso be replaced by a statue of Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' baseball star.

When the work was finally unveiled, John Canaday, art critic for the New York Times, dispelled a lot of doubts. "The sculpture", he praised, "is an airy, open, even vivacious design. Like a fine bridge, it combines absolute firmness with an effect of lightness."

This NET FESTIVAL will be repeated Saturday, July 19 at 9 P.M.

Legislation Passed

At a press conference held on June 27, 1969 in his office, Albany County District Attorney Arnold W. Proskin made the following statement: "Two apparently isolated incidents in the last few days, one involving the vicious beating and robbery of Assemblyman Francis J. Boland, Jr. and the other a knife-point robbery of retired New York State Police Deputy Superintendent George M. Searle, has focused the attention of the people in this area and has unleashed an avalanche of allegations, charges and countercharges relating to crime in the streets, and the way it is being handled by the Albany Police Department.

"It has come to my attention that by innuendo and, indeed, by direct charge there are those in the community who would like to persuade the public that it is the District Attorney's function and responsibility to provide police protection and to actually stop the Commission of Crime. They go on to attempt to make the public believe that I am not at all concerned about the problem.

"Both of these statements could not be further from the truth!

"Insofar as my concern with the problem, which is readily apparent to all who have any connections with the City of Albany, my concern goes beyond that of a citizen who merely reads about it since a near tragic occurrence almost took place regarding a member of my staff.

"Last Tuesday after she had finished work, at about 4:45 P.M., Marjorie Mooney, a secretary on my staff, was walking down Steuben Street toward North Pearl Street to meet her bus, when she saw two girls strike an elderly woman and seize her purse. Mind you, this was in broad daylight on the corner of Steuben and North Pearl Streets. When Margie looked up and down the street something very important to tell me and she appeared to be visibly shaken. She told me she was actually frightened to walk to her bus because of the situation I just related. I arranged with the Albany Police Department to provide protection for her for a reasonable time. The range of my feelings went from pride to anger. While I told her how she could have been killed or seriously injured I also told her how proud I was of her in attempting to right a very serious wrong.

"As District Attorney of Albany County my concern is and always has been for the overall safety of all people within Albany County at all times -- from Governor Rockefeller and our State's Lawmakers to the man on the street. This remains my concern and hopefully this is the concern of all those who govern the City and County of Albany.

"Various responsibilities and obligations are attached to each branch of Government. The Office of the District Attorney has the prime function of being the lawyer for the people of the State in prosecuting crimes committed in the County. This sole function is being carried out to the utmost. It has been my policy to prosecute all crimes including crime on the streets to the limit and I believe that my record proves this to be true.

"And it is not the responsibility of the District Attorney nor does he have any control over the Police Department, the number of policemen, their working hours or salaries. There are no policemen in the Office of the fulfilled by each mayor and executive head, no one has the right not the power to infringe upon it.

"In the past six months, I have acquired many warm friendships with individuals on all of the police departments within Albany County. I suppose many of these arise out of our desire to achieve the same goal.

"In these trying times, I sympathize with the police in Albany County and especially those in the City of Albany. I pledge to continue to prosecute all those arrested by the police for all crimes whether they be committed on the streets or in the bookstores, to the limit, not only in the City of Albany, but in each city, town and village of Albany County and I will do all within my power to follow through on police arrests to protect the safety of all of the people -- all of the time."

and saw that no police were in sight she did something which is indeed rare nowadays: She attempted to recover the pocketbook and stop the thieves. "The next day, Marjorie advised me that she had

District Attorney of Albany County.

"I have one County Detective assigned to me whose salary is set at $4200 and also a vacant position of Assistant County detective at the annual salary of $3300. This latter position remains unfilled for the obvious reason of an unrealistic salary. # Truth In Lending

Public service programs sponsored by Marine Midland Banks, Inc. to communicate and interpret provisions of the new Truth-in-Lending Act have been cited in a recent article appearing in American Banker, the nation's foremost daily banking publication. The programs are intended to assist the many people and organizations affected by the legislation throughout the area served by the banking system.

According to the article, Marine Midland assigned a team of three attorneys to study the legislation and the regulations, with special emphasis on inherent consumer and commercial applications. From the studies, a 76-page manual was prepared that interprets, through narrative and sample forms, how Marine Midland Banks will comply with the Consumer Credit Protection Act, effective July 1, 1969. The guide has been made available to other organizations and individuals to help them establish systems to comply with Truth-in-Lending. Sample forms have also been offered for use as prototypes to other banking organizations.

A series of fourteen statewide workshops has been conducted by the team of attorneys for all Marine Midland executives from the bank's 240 offices in 150 New York State communities to cover the legalities and ramifications of the Act. Among the subjects stressed were the legislation's effects on Marine Midland's Master Charge, custom credit and time plan programs, and the personal, commercial, farm and mortgage lending applications of the Act.

The article also states that merchant customers and bank employees have been informed of the new credit changes through a series of news bulletins over the past months. Through mailings and bill-stuffers aimed at over 700,000 persons, customers have been informed about new terms and potentially confusing revisions in billing forms.

Additionally, Marine Midland's public service programs have supplied financial and business editors with information kits to help them interpret the new information consumers will be confronted with at the time of credit purchases and loans on and after July 1.

As a further assistance to the consumer using credit financing, leading credit spokesmen are being provided for television and radio interviews, as well as for meetings with community groups.

The Truth-in-Lending public service programs were undertaken, according to James A. Graham, director of Marine Midland's Master Charge card program, to bring an understanding of credit, what it costs and how it works to the many persons affected by the new legislation in and adjacent to the areas served by the Marine Midland Banking System.

The Congress passed and sent to the President legislation extending through July 31 present withholding rates including the 10 percent income tax surcharge.

The Nation's 4 1/2 million employers, therefore, need make no change in tax withholding rates on their payrolls, Donald T. Hartley, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for Northeastern New York State said today.

Employers should continue to use the withholding rates and tables in Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide, which was mailed to them last January.

Ground Breaking

The Morton Salt Company broke ground May 27 for its previously announced $20 million Seneca Lake rock salt mine, due for completion in three years. Kline Weatherford, president of the Chicago-based firm, presided over the ceremony, which was attended by nearly 100 business, governmental and community leaders.

In his remarks to the gathering, Mr. Weatherford pointed out that the new mine is but a portion of the company's current capital improvement program that is expected to involve more than $30 million.

Hart, project manager for the prime contractor, Cementation Company of America, Inc.; and George R. Pyle, Morton's general mining manager.

Oakwood Rd., Elsmere

OFFICIALLY BREAKING THE GROUND for Morton Salt Company's $20 million rock salt mine near Seneca Lake are Neal L. Moylan, commissioiner of the New York State Department of Commerce (center), and Kline Weatherford, president of Morton Salt Company. Looking on at the site of one of the two mine shafts is Gordon G. Warren, vice president of production and engineering for Morton International, Inc., parent firm to the Morton Salt Company. The May 27 ground-breaking was one of Mr. Warren's last official duties before his retirement May 30 after 43 years' service with the Chicago-based company.

He said that the Seneca Lake facility "is an important extension of Morton's position in the salt industry. It will help to meet the growing need for salt in the northeastern states, and it will be an important factor in the economic health and growth of this immediate area."

"Expansion by our company will significantly improve service to all our customers -- retail, industrial and agricultural," he added. "It speaks, I think, better than anything else for our faith in the future of the salt industry and for our company's role in it."

The president of the nation's leading salt firm concluded by saying, "The salt industry is vibrant, alive and progressive -- a keystone for world advancement."

The broad expansion program, referred to by Mr. Weatherford, includes construction of new facilities and enlargement of present production and storage operations nationwide. All Morton Salt Company plant locations are affected.

Principal component of the capital investment program, which is to be completed by 1973, is the rock salt mine in western New York State. When completed, the mine will open with a potential production capacity of 2-1/2 million tons of rock salt per year, thereby easing the pressure on Morton's big 10-year-old mine at Fairport Harbor, Ohio, 30 miles east of Cleveland on Lake Erie.

At Fairport, a $2 million mine expansion is underway. Engineering has been completed, and equipment is in the mine. A large below-ground maintenance facility is completed and in operation. Also below-ground, salt storage is being increased and more screening equipment installed.

At a third Morton mine site, in Grand Saline, Texas, a second shaft is being sunk at a cost of $900,000. When completed, it will add to efficiency by providing a separate service shaft distinct from the production shaft. In addition, it is a safety feature.

The company's fourth domestic rock salt mine, at Weeks, Louisiana, is undergoing an expansion of both the production rate and screening capacity.

At this same location, which produces evaporated salt as well as rock salt, a new warehouse and mill building will accommodate expanded bagging and packaging operations. Total being invested at this location exceeds $1 million. Installation of another set of vacuum pans and auxiliary equipment is being considered.

Other evaporating plants likewise are being expanded to meet growing salt demand.

At Silver Springs, N. Y., an additional set of triple-effect vacuum pans is part of a $1.7 million program. Other phases include a new processing building and increased product storage facilities.

Moving westward, at Rittman, Ohio, the largest evaporating plant in the Morton nationwide system is receiving a $2.5 million investment. Included are three new buildings. One will house pellet and tablet production and other processing and storage functions. A set of vacuum pans and auxiliary equipment will be installed in the second. The third is a package warehouse.

Morton has two plants in Michigan. At Manistee, a pair of new storage silos will raise bulk storage capacity by 1000 tons. Two silos also are being built at Port Huron, and a new first-effect vacuum pan will be tied into the two existing sets of pans. New bulk handling and loading systems also will be installed as part of the $1 million Port Huron investment.

An additional set of vacuum pans and related equipment is to be installed at Morton's plant at Hutchinson, Kansas, in a new building. Another part of this $1 million expansion is increased brine capacity, through opening wells in a new field, and a new waste brine disposal system.

NOW GOING ON!

Man's Search

The first of a trilogy of plays on man's search for meaning in his life will appear at 8:30 P.M. July 18 on Channel 17.

Ken Taylor spent a year writing the works called "The Seekers", which will appear one each for three weeks. This first play is titled "The Heretics" and stars Michael Bryant as the leader of a heretic group in the 12th Century.

The influence of such heretic groups had become strong enough for the Roman Catholic Church to set up the Inquisition to combat them. Gerard's group seeks refuge in Henry II's England in the town of Oxford. They continue their proselytizing and are finally arrested, brought before Canon Edmund and told to repent.

The play continues with the tale of their refusal to repent, the resultant scourging, branding and ostracism. The strength of their faith is demonstrated by their almost unanimous acceptance of all this and their wandering through the bleak, winter English countryside with every man's hand turned against them.

The cast includes Derek Godfrey as Canon Edmund, Rosemary Leach as Margaret, Newton Blick, Robert James, Kevin Brennan, David Hutcheson and Denis Cowles as bishops.

The program will be repeated Sunday, July 20 at 10 P.M.

This low-cost coverage is available in amounts from $5,000 to $30,000 and is especially useful when you need a lot of protection but have only a little money.

Young couples often buy it until they can convert it to permanent protection. Young annually, as earned, reducing the cost even further. (The first year dividend on a $10,000 policy for a man of 25 would be 25% of his premium.) The policy is renewable automatically at the end of each 5-year period, at the rate for your age at that time, up to age 65.

Here are some sample rates for 5-Year Term Insurance:

AGE	$5,000		$10,000		$30,000
	Monthly	Annually	Monthly	Annually	Monthly	Annually
25	$2.10	$23.50	$4.00	$44.50	$12.00	$133.50
35	2.50	27.75	4.80	53.00	14.40	159.00

Available from age 15 to age 60. Renewable to age 65.

This is fine coverage for a young man with a young family. You can give your wife and children the protection they need now, at a price you can afford. As your income increases, you can convert your insurance, at any time prior to age 65, to a permanent plan — Straight Life — 20-Payment Life, etc. — without medical examination. (The rate for your converted insurance will be according to your age at that time and SBLI plans offered at that time.)

five folk music areas in the Northeast as worship leaders. The Special Series, now in its fourth year, began June 29 with a Communion Meal. The Series has been meant to provide stimuli through experimental, innovative worship modes.

Emphasis this year is on the relaxed medium of folk music, interspersed with Preaching Services led by Rev. Richard Chatterton and Rev. Charles Wolfe, program leaders.

The services will be held at 8:00P.M. Sundays in the Church's Fellowship Hall. The Series will run from June 29 through August 31.

Tom Winslow, who will lead the first folk service on July 6, is a young singer from New Baltimore. He is originally from North Carolina and is in his mid-20s. He sings gospel songs and contemporary folk songs.

A lay preacher for the Seventh-Day-Adventist Church, he takes his religion seriously; but not so seriously that it detracts from his ability to entertain.

Tom has given a number of performances for the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., which is building a $125,000 replica of a Hudson River Sloop to stimulate interest in the River's heritage and in ridding the River of pollution.

Recently, he has been considering making a career of folk music and singing - not an easy decision to make when you have a wife (Ederal) and a 3-year old daughter (Thomasina).

Albany area candidates of both major political parties are being asked by their respective standard-bearers to roll up their sleeves and give blood during July to help offset the anticipated "summer slump" in donations.

The Red Cross announced today that Mayor Erastus Corning 2nd, who is seeking another term, and Albert S. Hartheimer, his Republican adversary, each had agreed to lead an appeal for donors.

Mayor Corning will contact Democratic candidates and Hartheimer will contact GOP candidates, the Red Cross said, and urge them to give blood during the week of July 14 through 18.

Man And Moon

The moon journey of Apollo 11 may turn out to be a trip to the very beginning of time as well as a giant step into the future.

Dr. Harold Urey, the Nobel Prize-winning nuclear chemist, believes that debris brought back from the moon may reveal some secrets about the origin of the universe - a question man has been pondering for centuries.

In "Harold Urey: The Man and The Moon," to be seen on Channel 17, July 10 at 7:30 P.M. Dr. Urey talks about his years of lunar research and how some hypotheses he has held for 20 years will be tested by Apollo.

At 75, he is one of the prime movers and principal investigators of the Lunar Samples Project of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Along with other prominent scientists, Dr. Urey will make detailed examinations of moon rocks and soil brought back by the crew of the historic moon shot.

Dr. Urey's interest in the moon stems from his conclusion that the moon as an object is exceedingly old, dating back to the very beginning of the solar system. Part of the history of the development of our solar system, if his conclusion is true, could be found in the rocks and ridges of the moon. The chance to go back in time to a period not covered by the geographical features of Earth may bring great amounts of new knowledge to mankind.

Dr. Urey believes that the moon was once a free body, on its own, and is not a spin-off from earth. He states, though, that he may favor that hypothesis because the moon automatically becomes more interesting geographically because of its supposed independence than if it were only a thrown off cinder from an ordinary planet in the evolution of an average star.

During the program, Dr. Urey observes that the space program was begun for very unscientific reasons: international prestige, adventure. The scientific benefits have been incidental.

Dr. Urey received the Nobel Prize in 1934 for his discovery of heavy hydrogen and is considered one of the world's leading authorities on the moon. He is a member of NASA's Planetology Committee which recognized extensive study of the solar system as a vital ingredient in the United States' entry into the space race.

Issues Challenge

Commissioner Wyman issued this challenge: "Some of us in government may not realize it, but government, like business, can go broke, bankrupt, by doing things that don't pay off, that are obsolete, that don't meet current needs, that are inefficient, and all the rest of it. The American people won't let that happen-at any level of government. They are demanding fresh ideas, bold approaches, more citizens taking on more responsibility, and calling more and more of the shots. So we in the business of welfare, education, and health must prove that we can do better--and we had better prove it quickly, efficiently, and effectively."

Bouzouki, Anyone

If you know someone who plays a bouzouki, that Greek musical instrument made famous by the film "Never on Sunday," tell him to get in touch with The Altamont Manor.

The Manor recently completed its Grecian Spring Festival with great success, except for one thing: there was no strolling bouzouki play to wander among the tables softly strumming Greek folk melodies. There just wasn't an eligible bouzoukist to be found in the entire Capital District.

Which is strange, because the bouzouki is to Greece what the guitar is to Spain and Mexico, the mandolin to Italy and the balalaika to Russia. It's the very soul of Greek folk music.

Charles and Anne Vlahos would tell you that. They operate The Altamont Manor and they believe that dining on their cool, screened verandah, with its panoramic view of the twinkling lights of Albany and Schenectady spread out below is unmatched by anything this side of a repast on a leafy Greek mountainside.

"But wouldn't it be great," says Charles, "to sit back and relax on a nice summer evening, enjoy an unusual dinner ... and hear that romantic bouzouki music I remember so will from my childhood?"

Among the Hartwick College students who were named to the Dean's List for the Spring Term is Barbara Klapp, R. D. 2, Voorheesville, New York; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klapp. Barbara is a junior psychology major at Hartwick.

Appointment to the Dean's List is in recognition of academic excellence for the pursuit of their studies. In order to be named to the Dean's List, a student must earn a minimum grade point average of 3.25 (approximately a B+ average) for the term.

Hartwick College is a private, coeducational, liberal arts institution located in Oneonta, New York.

Labor Unionist Speaks

One of the tough school of labor unionists, James Carey, is William Buckley's guest on FIRING LINE--July 15 at 8 P.M. on Channel 17.

"Labor Unions and American Freedom" is the subject of the show.

Carey is widely considered to be one of the two or three principal figures in modern labor union history even though he has lost control of the union he formed with the help of John L. Lewis. He has headed labor unions since he was 22 years old and now serves as Secretary-Treasurer of the AFL-CIO Industrial Department and as a vice-president of the AFL-CIO. Most of the time is spent on labor union matters as they relate to the United Nations.

In light of Carey's past experience in labor union matters and his ideas of present labor union goals, the program will deal with the concepts of labor unionism as compared to conventional ideas of individual freedom.

Excuse me for coming up to the door to pick up your daughter," explained the young man to the father of the girl, "but my horn isn't working."

Awarded Grant

Mauritz Johnson, professor of education at State University of New York at Albany, has been awarded a grant for $9,820 by the U. S. Office of Education. The grant will be used to support the development of instructional program units of categorical reasoning in both verbal and symbolic format. Professor Johnson's research will focus on how different formats cause variance in the learning experience.

Prior to coming to SUNYA in 1968, Dr. Johnson was dean of the school of Education and head of the department of education at Cornell. He received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from SUNYA and his doctorate from Cornell University.

American Secondary Schools, published in 1965, by Harcourt, Brace, and World is Professor Johnson's most recent book. He also co-authored Junior High School Guidance and The Teacher in Curriculum Making as well as writing over forty articles and reviews for a variety of publications.

Dr. Johnson served as president and program chairman for the Educational Research Association of New York State. In 1966, he visited Sweden and England on an International Study Award from the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Weeding with chemicals is rapidly replacing hand and mechanical cultivation in both commercial and home gardens. Chemicals usually provide longer lasting weed control than conventional methods and no one would argue that sprinkling chemicals on the soil isn't a lot easier than "bending and pulling."

There are many weed controlling chemicals on the market. A wide variety of sterilents, for use on driveways and walkways where no growth of any kind is wanted, are available. Spot weeders, or "post-emergent" weed killers are helpful to remove individual weeds in lawns after they've appeared. Those which kill weeds before they appear above ground, though, pre-emergent weed killers, are the type of most interest to home gardeners.

Several kinds of pre-emergent weed control products are familiar items now on the market. Because of the extreme care required in using them, however, and because of their relatively short life span (about 4-6 weeks in most cases), and because they have been safe to use only around "woody" type plants such as azaleas and rhododendrons, they have not enjoyed widespread acceptance.

A new chemical, trifluran, has been under development and field testing however, and is now being made available for home use by the Weyerhaeuser Company. It's being marketed under the brand name "Weedicide" in many U.S. cities. Distribution will be broadened in the near future. Weedicide is safe to use around herbacious as well as woody plants, is effective in controlling annual grasses and broadleaf weeds, and is easy to apply. Gardeners can expect up to a full growing season of weed control.

It's Camp To Camp

High camp or low camp, you have to keep house even on the road. To keep you camping more than cleaning, here are a few suggestions: furnishings and equipment should be kept to a minimum. Use neatness props wherever possible—drawstring bags for toiletries, net bags for laundry, plastic bags for just about everything, and hang these up for order and safety's sake. For cleaning gear use a tote-able soft-drink carton and keep the contents as simple and general-purpose as possible: sponges, lots of paper towels, a scrub brush and a triple-duty pine oil cleaner-disinfectant to clean, disinfect and deodorize all at once. So whether you take the high road or the low road, don't let house-keeping keep you from camping.

Whether they're mini or maxi, grills need de-griming. Treat yourself to a new barbecue brush that cleans three ways. The notched spurs clean wire grills and crevices, the wire bristles dislodge baked-on particles and the metal scraper cleans flat surfaces. Here's one trick that could be called a disappearing act: dump the grills into a laundry tub and soak them in a high concentration pine oil cleaner and water. Combined with this sturdy brush, the treatments should do the grease in with ease. Have a happy, carefree cook-out!

Before a dress-up summer party, be sure outdoor furniture and tables are fresh and clean. In tune with summertime, take little time for the job by using an all-purpose cleaner and water. Rinse furniture by hosing it down, sun dry—and your guests will sit pretty at your party.

Letter To The Editor

Editor of The Spotlight
Delmar, New York
Dear Sir:

Can't anything be done -- any sort of gentlemen's and gentlewomen's agreement (or even scoundrels' agreement) -- to set apart ONE day a week in which the nagging, grinding, monotonous sound of the power mower does not spoil the peace and quiet we all need once in a while?

OK, we all have to work in an office or store or factory or laboratory or someplace and the grass keeps growing while we're working ... but what's the use of living out here amid green lawns and trees if we can't sit back in blessed quiet ONE day a week and relax and restore the frazzled nerves after a week in the office, store, etc. and the foul air and clamor of the city streets?

Almost anyplace around here is like living near a 7-day-a-week drag strip or proving ground for smelly old motors.

How about Sunday? Or should I ask "What happened to Sunday?" It used to be (and I don't go back too far in my personal chronology) that Sunday was a nice day. If you stayed home on Sunday afternoon because you wanted to relax, you could loil around in the sun, read, have a quiet beer -- and forget, briefly, about the constant noise that makes many of our lives a little less living.

Come on, boys and girls and town fathers. Let's have a cease-mowing day once a week. Most people have one or two or three hours of daylight after work and there are Saturdays.

Haven't we got enough sense to prevent this easily-preventable erosion of the once-lovely quality of American life in the sunny peacefulness of a Sunday afternoon?

Cornell Starts Program

Cornell University is initiating a long-term training program aimed at bringing young, potential scientists and engineers into the field of farm animal waste management and related water pollution control.

The program will be supported by a $150,000 grant from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration of the U.S. Department of Interior over the next five years.

Prof. Raymond C. Loehr, agricultural and civil engineer at the N. Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell, is the director of the training program, which, he said, is probably the only one of its kind in the nation.

Under the training grant which is to be administered through the department of agricultural engineering of the College of Agriculture, 28 graduate students working toward the degree of master of science will be trained.

With high emphasis on inter-departmental training, the program will draw students from diverse fields of study such as sanitary engineering, agricultural engineering, agricultural economics, agronomy, animal science, and other areas concerned with the problem.

In addition, funds from the grant will be used to invite to Cornell up to 20 scientists and researchers of national prominence from other campuses and research organizations as lecturers in a series of special seminars dealing with various aspects of animal waste management.

Taking note of a dramatic change in methods of producing livestock in the United States in recent years, Loehr said that the problems associated with handling, treatment, and disposal of animal wastes will be magnified in the years immediately ahead.

"The solution of the growing problem requires multidisciplinary approaches involving sanitary engineers, economists, agricultural engineers, animal scientists, agronomists and others concerned with the issue," he said.

Post War Germany

Germany as it looked to the Germans on the eve of the end of World War II is the subject of a documentary on NET JOURNAL - Monday, July 14 at 9 P.M. on Channel 17.

Three German-made films tracing the early years of reconstruction (1945-1949) were used as sources for this program. The focus is on the economic, social and political life of the West Germans who were left with tons of rubble and a heavy weight of collective guilt when Hitler's regime crumbled.

In the Allied sectors, there were some 20 million homeless people, while another 12 million soldiers and civilians either became or remained prisoners of war. Also, it was in the first weeks and months of their defeat that many of the Germans learned the full truth about their concentration camps where nine million people had died.

Some of the spirit that carried them through these times is shown in the remarkable and ingenious ways shortages of materials were overcome: old helmets converted to colanders and kilns used to burn charcoal for emergency heat.

Allied assistance to the Germans is clear, as are indications of the weakening Allied will to hold strictly to the peace terms which designated Germany as an agricultural nation. Industrial prowess begins to return and Allied assistance attains mammoth proportions with the Berlin airlift.

At about the same time, political self-determination returns as Germans line up at the polls. The program ends on a note of political restoration, with the introduction of a new constitution and the election of Konrad Adenauer as head of the Federal Republic of West Germany.

"(Real Estate History)"

When in history did the real estate broker appear as we know him today? The exact date is not recorded, but it could not have been more than a century ago. Prior to that, seller or buyer with his attorney undertook land transactions.

Land ownership titles have been in existence for hundreds of years. Some of them are stone tablets engraved in hieroglyphics. We know, of course, that land possession goes back almost to the first appearance of man. Land appropriation for private use became common. Through the centuries, land rights have been protected by numerous laws.

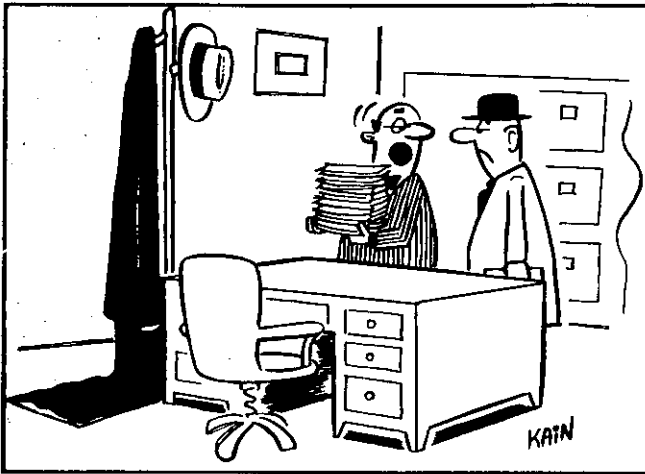

Then the broker came into the picture. He made everything a little easier. He bought and sold lands to others, and transactions were made simple. Buyer and seller no longer had trouble finding each other.
