New Exhibit

After looking at the display of old cruets at the Bethlehem Public Library you realize the modern salad dressing bottle is somewhat lacking in grace and charm. Mrs. Elliott Carlson of Glenmont owns a large and rare collection which she is loaning the Library for an early fall exhibit. She says, "Cruets were especially popular during Victorian times and were made to hold vinegar and oil. A decorative as well as useful table item, they were made of cut, pressed, molded or so called art collection glass." Examples of each type

Famous For Our Ice Cream

The TOLL GATE in Slingerlands . . .

Started in '49 with one idea in mind—to make ice cream as good as Mom made forty years ago in the old hand-turned ice and salt freezer. Mom made the "mix". Pop turned the freezer and we hung around anxiously waiting to lick the beater. Nothing in this world ever tasted so good as Mom's ice cream! And it's that hauntingly delicious memory that keeps us trying to make our Toll Gate ice cream measure up to Mom's.

Certificate Awarded

Miss Stephanie Sinnamon, President of the Bethlehem Central Senior High School Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America, has received a Gold Seal Certificate awarded to the local Chapter at the National FBLA Convention held in Dallas, Texas in June.

The award, given at the Eighteenth National Leadership Conference, was in recognition of the local chapter's participation in School-Community Relations.

The "Smaller" Problem

There is a reason why "teeny-hoppers" have been banned from the planned Bethlehem Youth Center events.

William Fuller, for the past seven years the assistant recreation director for the Bethlehem Central School District, explained:

"We are trying to get our teenagers back in the Youth Center . . . more or less where it used to be."

Mr. Fuller said that 16 years ago the Youth Center, located in the basement of the Bethlehem Junior High School (now the Middle School), was strictly for the older teens. Today, however, the older adolescents visit the Youth Center less and less because the younger element is present and "underfoot," he said.

Bethlehem teenagers want to remodel the Youth Center, "to change the atmosphere," according to Mr. Fuller. They are also calling for more "live" music, instead of a discotheque operation, he indicated.

To meet the request, school district recreation officials are intent on obtaining rock groups and other musicians for the Friday and Saturday night dances and those which follow home football games. Prices vary for such musical one-night stands, but the entertainers all come high, Mr. Fuller observed. Consequently, admission prices will be "played by ear" until fall activities get underway.

But he is optimistic that the teenagers will return to the Youth Center.

When they do walk into the cellar of the Middle School they will meet Terry Bastian, who has assumed Mr. Fuller's duties there. Mr. Fuller is now teaching physical education at Glenmont and Slingerlands Elementary Schools.

Mr. Bastian, the new assistant recreation director for the Bethlehem school district, holds a master's degree in recreation from the University of Utah from which he graduated in 1967. He now resides at 16 Elm Avenue. Delmar, with his wife and 6-month old son.

Mr. Fuller indicated that banning the seventh and eighth graders from the teen canteen events does not mean they cannot use the facility. They may hold special functions for their age group - after they obtain permission in advance.

Recently, these "teeny-boppers," as Mr. Fuller at one point described them, were shunted home at 10 P.M. from the Youth Center because parents dislike allowing the youngsters out late at night.

In some cases, Mr. Fuller said, the young ones tell their parents they are going to the Youth Center, actually drop in to see what is happening, but leave for Delmar's Four Corners, an ice cream parlor, or some other hangout, returning to the Youth Center only in time for their parents to pick them up at closing time.

Horn, President of the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities, were guest speakers at the Faculty Day Program held Wednesday at The College of Saint Rose.

Sister Margaret M. Keeshan, C.S.J., President of the College, welcomed new and returning faculty and administrators and spoke briefly of the various changes at the College during the coming year, involving the recent move to co-education, curriculum changes, and plans for the Fiftieth Anniversary Year which will be celebrated in 1970-71.

Air University

Beginning September 14, the University of the Air will again move college beyond the walls of the campus classroom and bring TV college courses into the living rooms of New York State and the surrounding area.

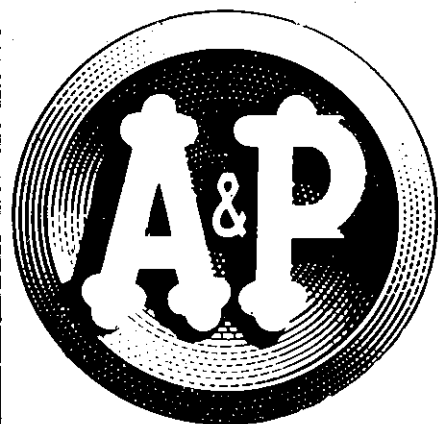

Under the sponsorship of the State University of New York, the University of the Air now has an "alumni" of over 16,000 people who have taken courses during the past two years.

The program was created on the premise that many people would like the opportunity to take college courses, but few can disrupt their working or home lives to attend college classes. The weekend and evening broadcasts permit these people to "try" college on their own with the help of course study guides or, if they enroll for credit, to accumulate some of the undergraduate credits they will need to complete degree requirements.

"We try to provide our students, whether housewives with some college or working men with high school educations, with the convenience of televised courses without sacrificing college-level quality" explains Harold W. Roeth, Director of the University of the Air. "If we gave our telestudents light entertainment, we would be cheating them."

University of the Air fall semester courses, which include American history, basic astronomy and beginning German, will be broadcast Saturday and Sunday afternoons and weekday evenings on eight television stations around New York State (WNET Channel 13, New York City; WMHT Channel 17, Schenectady; WCNY-TV Channel 24, Syracuse; WXXI Channel 21, Rochester; WNED-TV Channel 17, Buffalo; WPTZ Channel 5, Plattsburgh; WNYC-TV Channel 31, New York City and WLIW Channel 21, Garden City, L.I.)

Book Covers

Commander Stowers of Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post of the American Legion has announced that the Post will again distribute free book covers to the school children of the Tri-Village area. Past Commander Charles J. O'Hara of Slingerlands will be in charge of the distribution of the covers which are imprinted with a non-denominational prayer. The prayer was composed jointly by a Protestant minister, a Jewish rabbi, and a Catholic priest.

As in previous years the book covers will be available at the Delmar and Elsmere branches of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company, as well as at the Post rooms on Elsmere Avenue. They can be picked up at these locations on and after the opening day of school, September 5.

This program originated with the New York Department of the American Legion and was adopted by Blanchard Post five years ago. As a reflection of basic American Legion philosophy concerning the welfare of the children of our community, state and nation, this has been an extremely worthwhile and gratifying project.

The enthusiastic endorsement of the program by our community has been a source of great satisfaction to the members of Blanchard Post.

License Late

The State Conservation Department advised hunters today that although party permit applications are now available at license issuing agencies in New York State some agents have not yet received their supply of big game licenses. All agents should have their supply of licenses by the end of next week.

Each prospective party member must include the "Party Permit Stub" portion of his big game license with the application. Completed applications may be submitted as soon as licenses become available, but not later than September 20. No preference will be given to applications submitted early, but no applications will be accepted that are postmarked September 21 or later.

Choose Your Trees so Nature Colors Landscape For Fall

Let nature paint your home grounds by choosing young trees for colorful fall landscapes. Choose a young tree this season when its foliage is most brilliant.

The brilliance of its foliage as a sapling will be retained all through that tree's life according to tree experts. Species of trees have the same general fall coloring, but each individual tree has a built-in genetic color difference.

For openers, why not try our New York State tree - the Sugar Maple with its kaleidoscopic color range. Sugar Maples are red, orange and yellow. Widely grown throughout the eastern part of North America the Sugar Maple is one of the best and most common of our native shade trees. They make excellent shade trees requiring little attention. This is the tree that yields the maple syrup. Most nursery trees are grown from seed, and mature

1970 Barracuda

Chrysler-Plymouth Division's sports - specialty - performance exceed anything in Plymouth's history for this 2-door model in hardtop and convertible body styles.

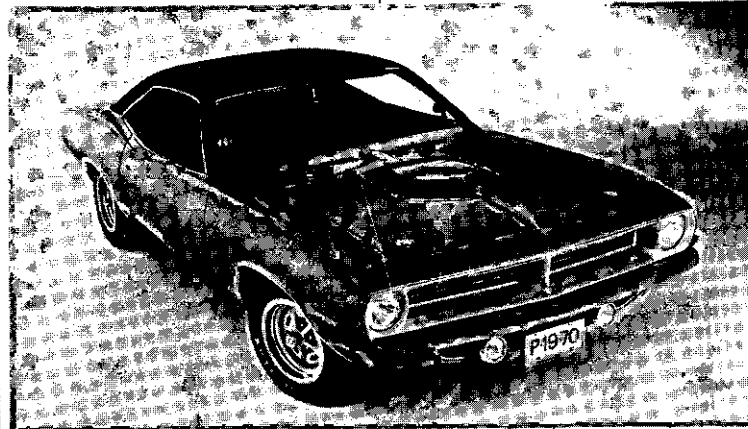

"This new Plymouth Barracuda actually represents three different kinds of cars," Glenn E. White, General Manager of the Chrysler - Plymouth Division, said. "The basic Barracuda is an extremely well-integrated specialty car and two new concepts - the 'Cuda series and Gran Coupe - represent two special versions for two kinds of buyers."

Exterior styling on all three types of Barracudas features bold, "racy" theme - long hoods, short decks, steeply raked windshield, concealed wipers and minimum overall height.

Outstandingly distinctive interior styling is evident in all three Barracuda versions. Standard Barracuda interior includes new high-back bucket seats with integrated head restraints, molded door and quarter trim panels, new safety-designed flood-lighted instrument panel, and wood grain steering wheel.

The Gran Coupe version in

ALL-NEW PLYMOUTH 'CUDA - New to the Plymouth Barracuda line for 1970 is the high-performance 'Cuda series, offering greater performance potential than ever before available in a compact-size Plymouth. Standard engine has 383 cubic-inch displacement with four-barrel carburetor, and all Plymouth high performance engines are optional. Among many standard features are heavy-duty suspension and 11-inch brakes. All Barracuda models have completely new styling.

cludes leather bucket seats as standard equipment. Deluxe vinyl-clad buckets, or cloth and vinyl covered buckets, are available as a reduced cost option.

A new overhead console is part of a luxurious knit jersey, molded head liner, both standard on Gran Coupe. The console has warning lights for: "door ajar," "seat belts," and "low fuel."

Other Gran Coupe features are a black-textured rear window moulding with the optional black vinyl roof, distinctive tail light trim, still moulding and wheel lip mouldings, and Gran Coupe crests on the sides and rear (the rear crest also serves as a deck lock key cylinder cover).

The new 'Cuda series offers a higher level of true performance potential than ever before available in regular high volume production of compact-sized Plymouths.

The new 'Cuda series is in tune with the Plymouth concept of offering the most performance-per-dollar for a car that can be driven off the showroom floor without the need to add extensive engine equipment.

Every Plymouth high performance engine is available in the 'Cuda series. Standard engine is the high performance 383 four-barrel 'Cuda 383. Optional are the high performance 340 four-barrel, the 440 four-barrel, the 440 six-barrel, and the "king" — the maximum performance 426 eight-barrel hemi.

The new 440 six-barrel engine features three high flow Holley two-barrel carburetors, higher compression pistons, heavy duty connecting rods, heavy duty valve train, and double breaker distributor.

Rated at 390 horsepower, the 440 six-barrel delivers outstanding performance and is priced attractively.

Availability of the exciting Hemi 'Cuda follows limited production of special Super Stock Hemi 'Cudas in 1968, and marks the first appearance of the famous engine outside the immediate Plymouth series on a high volume production basis. The 1970 Hemi is updated with hydraulic tappet.

All 'Cudas have standard heavy duty suspension packages with heavy duty 11-inch brakes.

'Cuda also offers an instrument panel rallye cluster with full instrumentation and racing type side mounted rear view mirrors.

Optional on the 'Cuda 440 six bbl., and standard on the Hemi 'Cuda, is an innovative "shaker hood."

A combination air scoop and air cleaner extends through an opening in the hood. A cable control operated manually from the instrument panel enables the driver to select fresh-cool-dense air from the scoop for maximum engine power. Or, for normal operation, he can select the underhood air which enters through a door in the base of the air cleaner.

'Cudas also offer: an improved 4-speed with new "strip-grip" design shift handle and Hurst shift linkage; a new positive slick shift gate, ratchet-design speed shifter for the TorqueFlite automatic with console; three different road wheels, including a new extra wide 15 x 7 inches stamped steel rallye wheel for use with the new "60" series extra wide fiberglass belted tires; performance axle packages — 3.55, 3.91, and 4.10.

In the engine department, Barracuda and Barracuda Gran Coupe have the 318 two-barrel and the 383 four-barrel as optional power plants.

"(Restrictive Covenants)"

"The ownership of a home, the feeling of independence which comes with the possession of a bit of the earth are among the most powerful incentives to high civic interest and usefulness." - Calvin Coolidge.

Undoubtedly, your property is subject to various local zoning laws. In addition, there are probable clauses, called covenants, in your deed. These are agreements placed there by the original sub-divider. They may prohibit any number of things.

For instance: Do you own a one-story house? It may not be possible to add a second floor. Probably, you cannot build within a certain distance of the property line. You may not be able to rent part of your home.

The law enforces restrictions which are in the public good. Be sure you know what restrictions have been placed on your perspective home.

Your Real Estate Agent can tell you about these zoning laws. Just ask him.
