DELMAR SCHOOL OUT-OF-DOORS PROJECT

The sparrow sang songs to the children
As the leaves nestled under the trees.
The earth was alive from an earlier rain
And the day had a chill and a breeze.

The children, third graders at Delmar,
Guided by Mrs. Alice F. Doyle,
Went to the Heldeberg Workshop
Where the treatment was thoroughly royal.

There were experts to teach them in science,
Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Newell, Drs. Wilcox and Riley,
And Mr. Frank Leavitt, who headed the group,
And whom everyone spoke of quite highly.

Mrs. Gunther and Mrs. Ray, third grade teachers,
Also took students for the day.
While books are quite splendid for learning
The outdoors is a most special way.

The Out-of-Doors Project is over —
At least for the present year.
Everyone hopes to repeat it
When the next school year is here.

THEY LOVED IT — these teachers were a part of the Out-of-Doors Project at Delmar Elementary School. Front: Mrs. Elsa Gunther; rear, Mrs. Alice Doyle, Mrs. Marie Ray and Mrs. Ruth Gordon.

Y.E.S. Is Here!

Write this telephone number down: 439-2238. It is an important number for you to know. Write it on the inside cover of your Bethlehem Director, the back of your kitchen door, inside the top of your desk — but write it down!

Why is it important? Because it can get you the finest in young helpers — for any job — fast! The Bethlehem Youth Employment Service, jointly sponsored and funded by the Town of Bethlehem and the State of New York now has an office located in Delmar. In fact it is almost across the street from the new Coffee House.

The Bethlehem Youth Employment Service is working hard to find jobs for the young people of

and the 2nd Village Shop Strikes Again!

In the dead of night, we marked down the prices of Every Piece of Pine Furniture in the Store!

We've driven prices back to the days of the 5¢ cigar, the $25 2 pants suit, the 25¢ double feature.

we're doing something about it!)

Daily 10 A.M., Evenings Wed., Thurs., Fri.

Bethlehem, ages 14-21. To our householders needing someone to cut the grass, walk the dog or stay with the children, call Y.E.S. To our local business owners and our business and professional men in general, we particularly need your help in finding jobs for our older youth group. Call Y.E.S. and help our young people earn their own way.

Y.E.S. owes its existence to the efforts of Bethlehem Town Supervisor Bertram Kohinke, the New York State Division for Youth and the Committee for Youth and Recreation under the chairmanship of Mrs. Michael Bergan. It will absorb the records and extend the fine work done by Mrs. Mary Dorothy Morand and Miss Susan Totten in the Guidance Department at the Senior High School.

Y.E.S. will function as a referral service, not an employment agency. All employment arrangements are between employer and employee. We are a meeting point for employers and Bethlehem's younger citizens.

We plan to operate strictly within fund limits, however, our committee volunteers have already extended themselves far beyond the call the duty and we will welcome a small group of adult volunteers who can spare a few hours each week for a very pleasant, relaxing and rewarding experience. Interested citizens who would like to help as volunteers, please contact the Director!

(Remember, the number is 439-2238).

ining area, accented with red velvet, there will be seating for 65 guests. Ample parking for 85 cars will be provided.

Another popular feature at McDonald's is a huge plate glass window-wall that gives customers a clear view of everything that goes on in the kitchen. "The assortment of gleaming stainless steel utensils, the assembly line grills and mixers, infra-red heating lamps and gold storage walls are especially interesting to homemakers," Mr. Schubot said. Opening week festivities will include a live broadcast from the store Tuesday afternoon by Disc Jockeys from WPTR and a concert by the Village Volunteers Pipe and Drum Corps on Wednesday evening. The week will be climaxed by an appearance of Ronald McDonald, famous television clown, on Sunday afternoon at 1:00 P.M.

The new McDonald's is the first in the Tri-Village area but the ninth in the Albany Marketing area. The nationwide chain was founded in 1955 and now has 1350 outlets in 48 states including Hawaii. Additional outlets are located in Canada and Puerto Rico. The chain has sold over six billion hamburgers since its founding and currently turns out more than two million a day.

will present a production of Gore Vidal's "Vist to a Small Planet" on Thursday evening, June 18, at 8:00 P.M. at the church. There is no admission charge. The play is being presented by special arrangement with the Dramatist's Play Service.

The play is a spoof on our self-importance as "earthlings," seen through the eyes of a "retarded" visitor from outer space, who thinks of earth as a small planet, in which no other person could be interested, but which he has adopted as a hobby of his own.

The play suggests that even though mankind has many defects and is in the state of being primitive savages, yet we are somehow "redeemable." Vidal also suggests to us that in spite of our technocracy, we are not quite as all-important as we would like to think.

Kreton, the "visitor," will be played by John Lane and Scott Robertson. Zeina Azzam portrays Delton 4, who saves the earthlings from Kreton. Larry Macomber is General Tom Powers while David Gazzetta serves ing schools end for more than the usual reasons, because on June 22nd 15 girl scouts and 4 leaders depart for a five day trip to the Boston area. The girls will be staying at Cedar Hill Scout Center, Waltham, Mass. Their itinerary includes tours to Plymouth, Mass. to see Mayflower II and the Plimoth Plantation, The Science Museum and Planetarium in Boston, "Old Ironsides", and the New England Aquarium. A swim in the ocean has even been included in the plans. The five days is sure to be a memorable experience for these 15 Junior Girl Scouts.

Assistance Sought

A Selkirk family suffered tragedy early Friday morning when fire leveled the home and completely destroyed all possessions of the Alfred Leonard family of Jericho Road, Selkirk. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, who with their son, Rick, are employed at the Elsmere A & P are popularly known to the shoppers there as "Jake" and "Joan". Joan was awakened by smoke and flames at 2 A.M. and she and her husband led their five children ranging in ages from 6 to 19 to safety. As the father exited the window with his six year old son the roof collapsed. An appeal is being made to the community to assist the Leonards in any way possible, such as clothing in good condition, household effects or financial support. For such a hard-working family and well liked by all this would be greatly appreciated.

For all replies please contact - Mrs. Sandra Frey, 14 Mill Road, Delmar, N.Y. 439-4436.

Speakers at ABC

Constructive rather than destructive changes through maturity and the admonishment to communicate highlighted commencement addresses delivered by two student speakers at Albany Business College's 113th graduation exercises on June 6 at Chancellor's Hall, New York State Education Department, Albany.

About 800 family members and friends watched 228 young men and women receive diplomas in Accounting, Data Processing, Marketing-Retailing and Secretarial majors from one of the nation's oldest private higher business education institutions.

Student speakers were Miss Darryl Hotaling, an Executive Secretarial major from Colonie and James Davis, a Marketing-Retailing student from North Adams, Massachusetts.

Miss Hotaling predicted her address on ABC's motto - "To have knowledge is my honor." The Colonie student told the gathering "ABC students were traditionally more concerned with getting an education rather than joining protest marches."

"Concern with our education was our primary obligation at this point," Miss Hotaling noted, adding that "ABC's approach to protest came through intelligent discussions during time set aside in the classroom."

Miss Hotaling advised "communication, not violence, is the answer." She called for a lowering of the voting age and at the same time, urged her classmates and the "silent majority" to communicate "our thoughts" to the nation's leaders.

Mr. Davis reminded his listeners "It is in our hands to constructively change rather than to destructively tear down that which our rich heritage has endowed to our great nation."

Noting that academic instrumentation at Albany Business College "taught us how to make a living and how to live as mature citizens," the North Adams speaker suggested a more mature approach to the problems of today.

A complete curriculum of dance subjects will be taught every day. These include classical ballets, adagio (pas de deux), character, modern, and authentic spanish dance, both Flamenco and Classical Spanish as well as castenets.

The artist teachers who taught the classes last summer have been requested to return. The faculty was headed by Dokoudovsky, teacher of master classes in Albany on Sunday afternoon for the past two years. Mr. Dokoudovsky, is ballet master of Ballet Arts School in Carnegie Hall, where he teaches six days a week. He came to Albany at request of area dance teachers, pupils and their parents. Also on the faculty is Mme. Nina Stroganova, faculty member of Ballet arts from Denmark who was a ballerina with American Ballet Theater. Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo and in concert performances.

Titanija Dokoudovska, dean of dance at University of Kansas, will return to teach an academic classes as well as character dances from full length traditional ballets.

Drivers Needed
Increased transportation requirements and the departure of many volunteer drivers for summer vacation has brought about a critical need for additional volunteer drivers for the Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross motor unit, according to Samuel B. Weiss, unit chairman.

Mr. Weiss said drivers are urgently needed because regular motor services to the area has been compounded because of the increasing numbers of requests from other volunteer agencies asking for additional motor unit missions and the numerous blood delivery responsibilities for the Northeastern New York Red Cross Blood Program which services 32 hospitals in 13 counties.

Persons interested in volunteering as motor unit drivers are urged to contact either Mr. Weiss or Mrs. Walter Lantz at the Albany Red Cross 462-7461.

out broccoli. One or the other is going to have to go — and at this writing it looks as though it will probably be the broccoli.

The first litters of cottontails are on their own already, and are beginning to show along the edges of the roads in the morning. The second litters are hidden away in their nests, and Molly Cottontail is probably already carrying her third litter. With a little bit of luck she may have some 20 young before she quilts for the season.

What sounds like a beagler's dream could fall far short of expectations when the chips are down and the dogs unleashed this fall. Mother Nature is a notorious overproducer to compensate for all the pitfalls which face the wild youngsters.

While the outdoorsmen's thoughts are turned to fishing, the success of this fall's hunting season is being determined in the field and forest. In a normal fall, four out of five small game birds and animals are young of the year. A little more, or a little less success rearing young can make a great deal of difference in the total population that is in the field when the hunting season opens. By the next breeding season most of them will have disappeared for one reason or another.

When Mother Nature drew up her plan of operation, this 80 percent turnover in the population of rabbit and pheasant sized animals was important. For smaller animals such as mice, the turnover is much greater, while for the larger ones as the fox and deer it is less.

Weather is one of the biggest influences on the success or failure of the breeding season. Cold rains, particularly during late May and June, can cause high mortality among very young birds and animals. The same weather occurring while eggs are being incubated may have no effect as long as the next is in a location that is safe from flooding. Even freezing weather does not adversely affect eggs being incubated, though incomplete clutches of unprotected eggs may be frozen, reducing the brood size that finally hatches.

Since the amount of sunlight triggers the hormone changes which start the breeding season, most birds of the same species start nesting within a very short period. Should bad weather strike just as these nests were hatching the effect on the survival of young could be catastrophic.

Mother Nature's means of spreading out hatching dates may at first appear to be a tragedy itself. The random destruction of nests by coons, crows, possums, squirrels and chipmunks causes re-nesting which gives a much safer distribution of hatching dates.

just as the first cottontails are born and the first grouse and pheasant eggs are laid, can have a local impact. This year, however, with the snow staying so long and the green coming out so fast when the snow finally went, the fire season was almost nonexistent in much of the State.

One of the biggest hazards that pheasants must face is the mowing machine. During the peak of our pheasant populations in the late 30's, mowing was not started until about the Fourth of July when about 80 percent of the nests had hatched. Since it has been learned that June hay is much better for cattle, mowing usually starts during the first week in June when fewer than 20 percent of the nests have hatched. All too often the hen sits on the nest just a moment too long, and does not live to re-nest.

Fortunately not all pheasants nest in hayfields, but too many do. The only remedy for this is to leave unmowed and unburned land along fences, in odd corners, along farm lanes, and similar spots to draw nesting birds away from the hayfields.

About Drownings

Over 60 per cent of the drownings each year result when people who have no intention of getting wet fall into the water from docks, boats, bridges, shores or pool decks, frequently on a few feet from safety.

A majority of the remaining 40 per cent drowned while swimming or playing in the water, again many of them almost within reaching distance of safety.

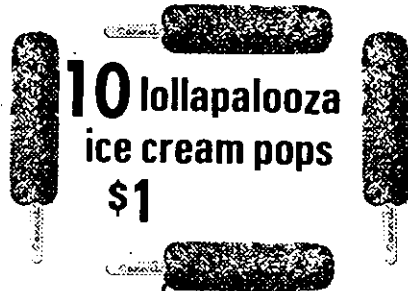

"Most drownings result because people violate or ignore good water safety practices," stated Carl Gardner, volunteer water safety chairman for the Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross. "Drownings can be reduced if people will learn to swim and develop skill and knowledge that will contribute to safety in, on and around the water. Red Cross hopes through its swimming and lifesaving courses, to create in every individual an awareness of accident causes and ways in which accidents can be prevented."

Statistics reveal that drownings around the home . . . pools, bathtubs, wells, cisterns and cesspools . . . claim over 7 0 lives each year.

Three chief causes of home pool drownings are temporary lack of qualified adult supervision; absence of, or inadequate safeguards such as fences and rescue equipment, and the inability of victims to float or swim.

The home pool drowning rate is highest among children under four, Gardner said; therefore home pool owners should take regular precautions around the pool site and make the area "kid-proof."

Mr. Gardner stressed that one way to make sure children can't accidentally fall into the pool is to erect a fence of sufficient height around the facility, keeping the gate locked at times when there is no supervision available for swimmers.

The shallow and deep ends of the pool should be clearly marked with bouy lines. Breakable items such as glasses and bottles should not be allowed around the pool area. And pool rules should prohibit running or "horseplay" near the pool edge.

"No matter how many safety measures are taken," said Mr. Gardner, "the best way to help insure that accidents don't claim lives is through training. Someone in the family should know how to give artificial respiration. Youngsters should be taught to float and swim at an early age, and simultaneously they should be made to understand their limitations."

Since the majority of drowning occur within a few feet of safety, it is often possible that a non-swimmer or an untrained swimmer perform a nonswimming rescue safely, the Red Cross volunteer said.

The rescuer should limit personal contact with the victim and always maintain firm contact with the shore. The rescuer's weight on the shore or pool deck should be kept low or slanting backward. If the victim is within arm's reach, the rescuer should lie flat on the deck and extend one arm, holding the deck or dock with the other arm. He can then grasp the victim's wrist or arm and draw him to safety.

Should the victim be beyond arm's reach, the rescuer can extend such items as a short, towel, coat, branch or pole, and allow the victim to grasp one end and then pull him to safety. A lining bouy or an innertube can be thrown to a victim who is beyond reach of a extension rescue, Mr. Gardner said.

"A swimming rescue should only be attempted by someone who has had lifesaving training," concluded Gardner. "Otherwise, a double drowning can occur."

Expansion Program

Albany YMCA President Douglass C. Coupe has announced that a $500,000 Expansion Program Campaign, which will enable the downtown "Y" to provide improved health, physical education and recreation facilities for a rapidly growing youth membership, is now under way. Funds raised during the campaign will finance a building addition at the "Y's" present State Street location.

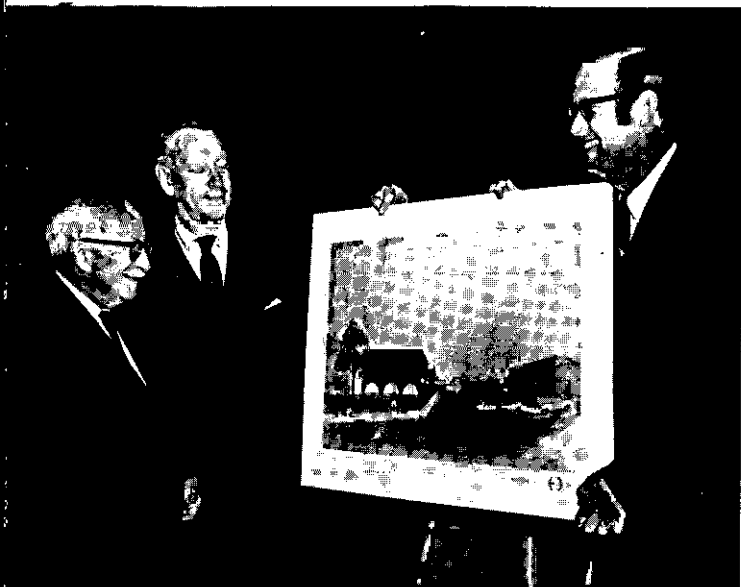

"The Albany YMCA is a community organization," Coupe declared, "and our goal is to provide the young people of Albany County with a meaningful basis for physical, mental and moral growth. To do our job properly, we must have sufficient space to carry out constructive youth programs. That's what the 'Y' is all about.

"I am confident," Coupe added, "that community members will be generous in helping us meet our campaign goal."

The building expansion program, which will provide an additional 23,000 square feet of activity space, will include modern club rooms, a large new gymnasium, social and game rooms, a woodworking shop, art and crafts rooms, and other facilities essential to youth activities. A 32-car parking area and a new Washington Avenue entrance are also included in the program.

The YMCA's State Street facility was first occupied by the organization in 1949, and a decade later the addition of a physical plant, including gymnasium and locker rooms, provided some room for expansion. However, "Y" membership has increased by approximately 75 per cent the intervening 11 years, and a drastic overcrowding of programs has resulted.

The new building, scheduled for completion in 1972, will rank with YMCA's in cities of Albany's size anywhere in the world — and it will enable many more children throughout Albany County to benefit from wholesome "Y" programs.

Increase Pledged

The State Bank of Albany has pledged to increase its home mortgage lending by 10 percent over last year's level. The bank's decision will provide approximately $11 million in mortgage money this year to builders and home buyers in the region, with over $6 million of those funds representing the increase over the 1969 level.

The bank also announced it was liberalizing some down payment requirements to enable more people to qualify for home mortgage.

The bank's actions were announced in a letter to Governor

Nelson A. Rockefeller, and other State and local officials who have expressed concern over the lack of available mortgage loans. Mr. Hollis E. Harrington, President of the State Bank of Albany stated, "Although we have always made an effort to allocate an unusually high proportion of our available funds to our mortgage program, we recognize that the current demand for residential loans makes it necessary to take extraordinary measures and we are glad to do so."

The 10 per cent increase in mortgage lending will bring the State Bank of Albany's total mortgage portfolio to nearly $107 million. Of this figure, over $70 million will be in residential mortgages.

Mr. Harrington said the bank's new home mortgage policy was effective immediately and that the bank's 31 offices are ready to serve builders and prospective home owners.

The State Bank of Albany's pledge was made in support of a nation-wide drive by the American Bankers Association to increase the amount of mortgage money available for residential housing.

Safety Features

In their publication, "The Consumer of the Seventies," the National Industrial Conference Board recently projected that in the 1970's, disposable personal income will increase by well over 50%, and an increasing proportion of total spending power will accrue, doubling the market for durable goods.

Projections for income growth and consumer spending in the coming decade indicate that the bank charge card will become an increasingly significant economic force.

For the projection and convenience of its more than 842,000 Master Charge cardholders, Marine Midland Banks, Inc., has incorporated a number of safety features in its charge card.

Among the protections Marine Midland offers its cardholders are:

Automatic Card Expiration . . .

A GROUP of Concerned Citizens for Peace, predominantly from the Delmar area, set up a table at the Delaware Shopping Plaza in Elsmere Saturday, May 23, to disseminate information on our involvement in Southeast Asia and afford an opportunity for those who wished to send letters, telegrams and petitions to their elected government officials. The response was overwhelming, resulting in close to 600 signatures, contributions for Peace Candidates and offers to work toward the Peace effort.

If a cardholder has not used his card before the expiration date, a card will not be reissued unless requested.

Established Credit Line . . .

Each cardholder has a maximum line of credit which he cannot exceed without authorization from the card-issuing bank.

Required Authorization . . .

If the cardholder's purchase exceeds the merchant's maximum floor limit, clearance for the purchase must be made through the Authorization Center.

Loss, Theft Protection . . .

If the card is lost or stolen, all the cardholder has to do is notify the card-issuing bank within 24 hours and the bank assumes all liability.

Simplified Record-keeping . . .

The cardholder receives one bill per month for all Master Charge purchases. The single statement and single payment facilitate bookkeeping and household budgeting.

Budgeting Aid . . .

The cardholder may purchase goods and services when and where the price is best, rather than only at stores where his credit has been established and he is personally known and only when cash is immediately at hand. The cardholder also may take advantage of dollar saving sales at times and with merchants otherwise unavailable to him.

Positive Identification . . .

The cardholder may have his photo in full color laminated onto a Marine Midland Master Charge card. The tamper-proof photo card reduces the chances of fraudulent card use by increasing proof of identification.

Protection

"When you leave your home this summer for vacation, don't leave it unprotected," Ronald E. Erhardt, manager of Pinkerton's Albany office, warned recently.

According to Mr. Erhardt, simple precautions will safeguard property and help curb the trend toward more and more residential burglaries. "Daytime home burglaries since 1960 have increased an alarming 247 per cent, up 21 per cent in just the last year," he said.

The manager said unattended apartments and homes are becoming the main targets in a rash of "bold, daytime robberies." Citing statistics which show July as the peak month for burglaries, Mr. Erhardt said, "Whether he's leaving for an evening or the entire summer, the homeowner should do his best to discourage thieves from entering his home by giving the impression that the home is not vacant."

Last year, property owners suffered an economic loss of more than $300 million from burglaries, the Pinkerton manager said. "Prevention and detection are becoming increasingly difficult for law enforcement agencies due to the tremendous volume of offenses," he added.

To cut the risk of having a home burglarized, Mr. Erhardt outlined precautions recommended by Pinkerton's, the world's oldest and largest private security and investigative firm.

When leaving home for an evening:

- Create an occupied appearance by leaving the house well lighted. Use automatic timing devices to operate lights.

- Open curtains partway since closed blinds make effective screens for burglars.

- Close and lock all doors including the garage. Use pin tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on windows.

- Keep all tools and ladders locked in the garage or tool shed.

- Do not tack notes on the front door when you leave home, even for a short while.

- Remove your house keys from your car key ring whenever you park in an attended garage or parking lot.

"There are also safeguards available to homeowners who are planning extended vacations," Mr. Erhardt said. He explaining the principal precaution is to notify the local police department of the departure date and the date of return. "By doing so, regular patrols can keep a day-to-day check on the house during the owner's absence," he continued.

Mr. Erhardt said the most complete protection for an unoccupied home is a space alarm system. Once the home is protected by three-dimensional space filling waves, even the most experienced burglar cannot penetrate the field without setting off the alarm. In recent years space alarm systems have undergone any number of improvements, the most significant of which is aptly demonstrated by Pinkerton's new Minuteman I which can be set up by the homeowner without technical knowledge. This is an alarm that detects motion and cannot be circumvented; it can activate a gong, siren, or floodlights, or can be connected to alert local police of intruders.

The compact unit is about the size of a table radio, weighs 30 pounds and works in the open from inside closets and cabinets or beneath floors. According to Mr. Erhardt, the system sends out harmless, invisible radar waves that protect an area up to 35 feet in diameter.
