

Editorial

This past week the Spotlight received a picture editorial from Alice Porter which clearly shows a lack of competence on the part of someone — but because we received this material on a Saturday, it was impossible to find out who was remiss.

Mrs. Porter's photos show the intersection New Scotland Road and Kenwood Avenue in Slingerlands — and, as she points out, both pictures show an abundant growth of unsightly weeds which are also a hazard to motorists who try to get a look at on-coming traffic.

Mrs. Porter suggests that the Highway Department is responsible and that the weeds should be cut. With this we heartily agree — BUT — THREE Highway Departments divide the responsibility of road maintenance in the Town of Bethlehem: the Town, the County and the State.

We trust that the one responsible in each of these cases will remove the growth.

Tournament

A husband-and-wife mixed doubles tennis tournament will be sponsored by the Bethlehem Tennis Association on the weekends of Aug. 22-23 and Aug. 29-30.

All area couples are eligible to enter, and matches will be played at the Bethlehem Middle School courts on Kenwood Avenue.

This is the first time such a tournament has been held, and it is planned to be more social than serious. All levels of player ability will be presented.

There will be no entry fee. Each team will supply a can of new balls for each match, the winners then taking the new can for their next match and the losers keeping the used tennis balls.

Couples who wish to take part in the tournament should call Mr. Maynard Parsons at 439-1076. The deadline for entries is Wed., Aug. 19.

WAYNE THWING was graduated with a degree in applied science from Delhi Technical College in June. He was a 1967 graduate of Bethlehem Central. He received his basic naval training on the Great Lakes and is now stationed at Davisville, Rhode Island.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning and runner-up teams.

Appointed

The appointment of Ewart G. Smith as system operations engineer of Niagara Mohawk Power

Ewart G. Smith

Corporation was announced recently by F. J. Schneider, vice president operations for the utility.

Smith has been general superintendent of operations for Niagara Mohawk's eastern division since 1965. Prior to that time he was assistant operating superintendent of the utility's western division.

A 1932 graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Smith began his Niagara Mohawk career at Pleasant Valley in 1937. He later worked in Amsterdam and Schenectady and was transferred to Syracuse in 1942. He held a number of supervisory posts in Central New York until 1955 when he went to Buffalo as assistant operating superintendent. Among his professional affiliations is membership in the Society of Professional Engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith reside at 7 La Grange Road, Delmar. They will move to Syracuse shortly.

Let us speak frankly about the MIDI.

Many women now hold the mistaken belief that this fall, the Midi (mid-calf length) will obsolete their entire wardrobes.

It just isn't true.

The leading manufacturers who sell us (like Butte Knit, Damon, Kimberly, Jonathan Logan, etc.) have been showing and shipping about 5% of their lines in the Midi length. Our own stock reflects this.

Here are the facts:

An analysis of our new fall inventory in Jr. dresses shows about 5% Midi and 95% above the knee. Note, the average length is about one inch above the knee.

Our misses dresses run to 10% Midi and 90% knee length at present.

Frankly we believe skirt lengths should depend on your age and figure and not on a designers edicts.

We feel most strongly that it is not our job to obsolete our customers wardrobes.

The conclusion that we have reached is that the Midi represents not a fashion upheaval but rather a plus; an intriguing addition to todays exciting styles.

Mrs. Lillian Schlosberg of Elmsmere is having a one man art show at the Bethlehem Public Library. Mrs. Schlosberg studied at the Philadelphia School of Design for Women, Cooper Union and Pratt Institute. Like many busy women, when family demands became too great, she put away her brushes and for thirty years there was no time for painting. Then a few years ago while vacationing, a group of friends suggested she join them in art class. "I picked up a piece of charcoal and that was it. When we returned to Brooklyn I enrolled in a regular instruction group." Oil is the artist's favorite medium — portraits and still lives, her subjects. She is a traditionalist, saying, "I lacked curiosity — the masters are good enough for me." The viewer will be well satisfied with Mrs. Schlosberg's show.

God and Country Award

Star Scout Larry Macomber will receive his God and Country Award at the morning worship service at the First United Methodist Church of Delmar on Sunday, August 30.

Larry worked for over a year to earn this award. His projects ranged from Bible study and memorization, to reading books and making maps about missions, to serving as acolyte and usher at worship services. He went on youth retreats and was president of the church youth group for his age. Service projects were many and varied, including labor for the church custodian in maintenance, helping the church secretary, leading group games for children in the Vacation Church School, helping in the church nursery, and lending a hand in a wide variety of efforts wherever his help was needed. He also was one of the spark plugs in the recent youth production of "Visit to a Small Planet" and took a starring role on stage as the bombastic General Tom Powers.

The prestige of the award is shown in that it is worn on his Boy Scout uniform above his Star rank patch. Larry is the fourth boy this year to receive the award at the Delmar Methodist Church.

Re-enlists

Programmed for reenlistment might be an appropriate phase for Sgt. James T. Henion of the Aeronautical Systems Division. Sergeant Henion is a computer programmer with the ASD Computer Science Center and recently reenlisted for a second tour of duty with the Air Force. Col. John H. Blakelock, Director of the Center, administered the oath of enlistment.

A native of Delmar, Sergeant Henion was graduated from Bethlehem Central High School in Delmar. He attended the Albany Business College, Albany, New York before entering the Air Force in June 1966. He has been assigned to Blytheville AFB, Arkansas, and Dow AFB, Maine, and came to ASD in April 1969. In his assignment here, he works with the Burroughs 3500 computer.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Henion, Jr., 13 Snowden, Delmar, New York, Sergeant Henion is married to the former Carol Bogiages. She is the daughter of Paul Bogiages of Delmar. Sergeant Henion and his wife have a daughter, Julie, one year old, and reside at 166 Loretta Avenue, Fairborn, Ohio.

The walls of Niagara Mohawk's Progress Center are 400 million years old.

At the Progress Center at Nine Mile Point, you'll find walls built from fossil rock. Shapes of ancient plants and fish preserved through 400 million years of time. You'll also find picnic tables, cooking grills, bird-feeding stations and nature trails. Inside the Center, there are exhibits on nuclear power and six large fish tanks containing virtually every kind of fish in Lake Ontario. And it's all free.

Niagara Mohawk's
Progress Center is six miles northeast of Oswego, and it's open Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 am to 5 pm; Sundays, from noon till six. And, as we said, parts of it have been around for 400 million years. So why not see it before it gets any older?

Transportation to and from work is a problem for some younger students, but many have elected to walk or ride bicycles to work in order to gain employment.

One 14-year-old girl's application indicated she was willing to walk to work "if it is only a mile or two away."

Employers wishing to hire a local youth are grouped by the type of job needed and the location of their place of business.

The year-round service expects a radical reduction in applications before September. It is now planning to locate jobs which young people could perform in the fall months.

Several students have acted as shopping companions for elderly residents, or as household helpers for harried housewives.

Gets State Post

Dr. Martin F. McKneally of 7 Darroch Road, Delmar, has been appointed chief of the transportation section of the State Health Department's Kidney Disease Institute. Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, announced recently.

Dr. McKneally will serve on a part-time basis at a salary of $12,665. He also is an assistant professor of thoracic and cardiovascular surgery at Albany Medical College.

New Arrival

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nyilis of 16 St. Clair Drive in Delmar have announced the birth of their third son, Thomas Edward, born August 5 at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

The Nyilises have two other sons, John and Michael, and two daughters, Mary and Colleen. Mr. Nyilis is a teacher and coach in the Bethlehem Central school district.

officers, president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the Bethlehem Coffee House corporation will be held at the coffee house (125 Adams Street) Tuesday night, August 18, at the membership meeting which will begin at 9:00. An announcement of the slate of officers selected by a specially designated nominating committee will be announced. Nominations may also be made at the August 18 meeting before voting.

Memberships are still available to anyone who would like to become a part of the corporation. They are sold on Friday, Saturday and Tuesday nights at the coffee house, $5.00 for an individual and $10.00 for a family. The only requirements are that you are in the ninth grade or older, and must be a resident of the Town of Bethlehem or attend Bethlehem Central High School.

First Showing

The Schenectady Art Society is pleased to announce the First Public Showing of the Loux collection of Gravestone Rubbings. Thirty one selected rubbings dating from 1728 shall be on display in the Great Hall of St. George's Episcopal Church, 30 North Ferry Street, (in the Stockade) Schenectady, New York. The rubbings will be on display daily from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. through Sunday, August 23rd.

This collection of New York and Vermont rubbings have been gathered over a period of three years of Claire F. Loux (Mrs. Joseph A. Loux, Sr.), and the Reverend Joseph A. Loux, Jr., of 140 Elm Avenue, Delmar, N.Y.

He is manager of the agency's Industrial Research Bureau and has planned and directed a number of marketing surveys on a regional and national level.

Mr. and Mrs. Isdell, the former Carole Little, and their three children live at 79 Winne Road, Delmar.

Still Going Strong

The story of Pete Anderson's unique 22-year riding career may be found in a line at the bottom of the chart of his first winning race, when he was 16 years old.

The date was April 4, 1948, the track, Keeneland; the horse, Vienna Waltz. And the line under the chart read: "overweight, Vienna Waltz, two pounds."

Young Anderson, a bright kid from Yorkville, a section of Manhattan redolent of beer and bratwurst, couldn't make the 105 pounds assigned Vienna Waltz. He rode at 107.

"And I'm still trying to take off those two pounds, sometimes a lot more," Anderson, now 38

MEASLES CLINIC

A German measles clinic will be held at Bethlehem Central High School on TUESDAY, AUGUST 18, from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M. The clinic is for children ages 1 to 10 and vaccine will be given to prevent German measles (Rubella).

Parents who are unable to bring their children on this date may call the Albany County Health Department and make arrangements to have the vaccine administered there.

and riding in his best form, said recently as he prepared for the 1970 Saratoga meeting. Last year, he rode the winners of three stakes races during the first seven racing days of the meeting and went on to account for purses totaling $665,332 for the year, his top mark ever — and he won only 37 races.

Anderson has ridden Saratoga almost annual since 1948, when he starred as an apprentice with 21 victories, one fewer than Eddie Arcaro's total, but it wasn't until 1969 that he won a stakes event here. This year, his prospects for more August stakes wins are bright. The broad-shouldered, short-legged veteran has long been one of the nation's top stakes riders, a reputation fully deserved. And he has earned it in spite of a 22-year-long battle against weight.

Few jockeys have fought poundage so doggedly and for so many years as Anderson. The motto on his coat-of-arms might well be "No sauna said than done," because, as soon as he gets a mount, it means sweating off a few ever-encroaching pounds in the track's "Hot box," or steam room.

An educated estimate recently put the tonnage Anderson has steamed off during his career at 12,000 pounds — and there's always the next race and more weight to be melted away. "It would have to be at least 12,000 pounds in 22 years," Anderson agrees.

The small (four feet eight inches) Yorkville booter with the chest of a welterweight fighter considers himself a paradox in a couple of ways.

"It's still a chore to take off weight," he said the other day, "but I actually find it easier as I get older, not the other way around as with most people. Attitude plays a big part in this. With more responsibilities, I have better motivation to keep my weight down. I still can put on a couple of pounds just walking past a delicatessen, but I've learned to eat so that I keep down to within sweating distance of my riding weight, around 115 pounds this year."

"I live on meat and salads, big man with a steak, even for breakfast on a non-riding day. And when I'm not riding, I play a lot of golf. That helps me stay in shape. So does working three, four horses every morning."

"When I was young, I got the handle 'The Ice Cream Kid' because I was obsessed with ice cream, ate it all the time, and that kept my weight ballooning. Once I weighed 131 pounds. I gave up ice cream years ago, and now, to relax, I take a martini or two. Most people, when they give up martinis, go to ice cream."

Anderson's career-long weight problem has undoubtedly curtailed the number of mounts on his record, but another factor in keeping them down is his attitude toward the daily scuffling for mounts.

"I never was one for trying to get seven, eight horses to ride in one afternoon, he explains. "I don't believe you need that many to stay sharp. I'd rather work horses in the morning and get to know more about them, what makes them tick. I figure I'll ride another five years, then become a trainer. That's definitely my ambition."

Anderson's comparatively easy riding schedule in recent years has given him more time to be with Julia, his wife, and their two youngsters, Robert, six, and Aggie J., two and one-half. And to devote more time to his golf. One of his links partners stands six feet six inches, almost two feet taller than Pete.

How good a rider would Anderson have been without a weight problem due mainly to his build, big torso and heavy thighs? Woody Stephens, one of the nation's most respected trainers, who broke Anderson in on the track as a boy of 13, held his first rider's contract and still uses him on his best stake horses and two year olds, has this to say about him:

Anderson crested again in stake races in 1966, when he won three $100,000 added races — the Monmouth Handicap, Washington Park Handicap and Hawthorne Gold Cup — with Bold Bidder, trained by Stephens.

Last year, he asked for, and got the mount on, two horses he liked from seeing them beforehand and won five stakes with them. One was Elmendorf's Verbatim. Trainer Jim Conway, to whom he had expressed his wish, called him one morning at his home in Flushing, L.I., and asked if he could ride Verbatim that day at Liberty Bell in Philadelphia. He rushed to Aqueduct, sweated off more than five pounds under the watchful eye of trainer Mark Bender, and got to Liberty Bell on time. He won with Verbatim — two pounds over — but the result was negated by official decree.

Then he won with the colt in the Amory L. Haskell the Whitney at Saratoga and the Governor Nicolls.

Anderson last year was also enamored of Pontifex, the George D. Widener two-year-old, and so informed trainer Syl Veitch. Pete won with the colt in the Flash and Saratoga Special and was beaten a nose and a head in the most thrilling of all Hopeful runnings.

The onetime Ice Cream Kid's way with words is part of New York racing folklore. There was the time Jim Roach, sports editor of the New York Times, remarked on the honest sweat on Pete's brow after the rider had won a race at Saratoga. "They're beads of gold," said Anderson beaming. "Beads of gold."

More recently, Stephens overheard someone ask Pete when he had made his move in a race he had just won. "Last night," he replied, "when I studied the past performance."

Youth Employment Service

To our Employers in Bethlehem and surrounding areas and to the parents of our young job hunters:

Thanks to you both, there are already more than two hundred young people walking a lot taller this summer.

Just wanted to share the good news and assure you that this will continue as a year-round operation.

So, let's start thinking about those after-school jobs in addition to the regular summer jobs we still need.

For those harried mothers who will be getting the troops ready for school and college, may we suggest just three of the many categories we can fill:

Hurricane Aid

The American National Red Cross announced recently it is assisting residents of the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast region which is about to be subjected to Hurricane Celia, the season's third tropical storm.

Five thousand persons have already been evacuated along the low coastal areas from Corpus Christi to Port Arthur, Texas. Red Cross spokesmen say they are prepared to shelter 175,000 persons.

Hurricane Celia is churning through the Gulf of Mexico with winds of over 115 miles per hour and tides of 5 to 10 feet above normal.

Red Cross disaster trained specialists have been sent to the coastal area to assist local Red Cross volunteers. Disaster action centers have been activated from Houston, Texas to New Orleans, Louisiana.

The Red Cross is working closely with the U.S. Weather Bureau and will coordinate all preparedness for disaster assistance.

Red Cross chapters along the Gulf Coast are alert to the hurricane threat and are taking steps to provide emergency care to evacuees. Other Red Cross chapters in states as far away as Oklahoma, Kansas, Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana have been alerted to have disaster workers and equipment ready to move to the Gulf Coast at a moments notice. So far, 22 Red Cross disaster equipped vans have been dispatched to the area.

Here's What It Was All About

In a number of recent press articles about electric power supply in the United States, various terms have been used, often in ways which are confusing. Among these terms are "blackout," "brownout," and "voltage reduction."

A blackout is properly defined as a massive power interruption affecting a large area and a large number of customers. A blackout is usually caused by a major failure of generating equipment or transmission facilities. The most massive interruption in this country was the cascading power failure in the Northeast in 1965 which began with improper relay action in Canada. The chances are extremely remote that there will ever be a repetition of the events which resulted in this blackout.

Brownout is a confusing term because, as often used by the press, it implies a noticeable sustained general decline in the ambient light level, which would result only from a major reduction in voltage. Such a reduction which would have to be 10 percent or more, would not be permitted to occur. Good system practice would not dictate that a voltage reduction of this level would be used to prevent collapse of a system, rather, load would be shed on a selected basis.

A brownout would occur during a period when an electric utility asks customers, particularly large industrial and commercial customers, to curtail their use of power. Lights normally turned on would be turned off. Other normal uses of electricity would be reduced or temporarily discontinued. The term brownout, therefore, reflects a lesser use of power in a number of different applications, visibly characterized by a lesser use of lighting. Also considered a form of brownout would be the situation where an electric utility actually interrupts the flow of electricity to a selected area for a short period of time.

Before either of these steps is taken, a utility would most likely reduce voltage by small controlled implements. Voltage reduction is a step taken to "spread" or "stretch" the power supply over the system.

The effects of voltage reductions on power system loads vary according to the types of devices and appliances making up the loads. Resistance appliances, such as toasters, heaters, irons and electric ranges suffer no damage when operated at reduced voltages.

During a period of voltage reduction, the image on a television screen may shrink slightly, but, again, no damage is done to the set.

Motors are only subject to damage and a shortened life span if operated during a prolonged period of greatly reduced voltage. However, electric utilities are aware of this possibility and planned, controlled voltage reductions are never of such a magnitude as to damage properly designed motors for such heavy-duty appliances as washing machines, refrigerators or air conditioners. Properly designed motors will operate successfully when the voltage reduction does not exceed 10 percent below normal rating.

Big Year

Even though the summer swimming season opened with one rainy day after another, the Albany chapter of the American Red Cross managed to break all previous attendance records in its annual "Learn-to-Swim" campaign with a grand total of 8,643 young people receiving instruction in area pools.

The South Colonie program, held at the Colonie Town Pool, once again led all area classes with 1,323 students, under the

A COMM-UNITY EFFORT

The new United Fund of the Albany area is wholly a comm-unity effort. It unifies everyone to meet the pressing needs of our society.

The United Fund embraces you ... and not just as a donor ... but as a member of the Fund.

Your contribution establishes your membership. Real, effective membership.

You can attend the Fund's annual meeting. There you'll help elect the Fund's board of directors and select a committee representing every level, every segment of the area's population.

These groups follow your guidance in dispensing funds. The agencies which receive allocations and the amounts they receive are decided on your recommendation.

It's your money. So it's spent where you and your fellow members consider it's most needed.

When the United Fund campaign commences, remember ... it's your campaign. Then through your gift and your participation, you'll act to help achieve the greatest possible good.

direction of chairman Joan Stapf, 200 volunteer helpers were needed to assume the various pool-side duties.

Some other massive "swim-ins" were Bethlehem, directed by John Whipple and Terry Bastian; Lincoln Park, directed by pool manager John Caviston, and serving Albany and Rensselaer; Thatcher Park, conducted by Patricia Favreau; and Ravena, under the direction of Helky Frangella. In all, over 1,000 volunteer helpers were needed to set the 25 programs in motion throughout the Albany, Greene, and So. Rensselaer counties.

This year, as in the past, the Red Cross is primarily interested in teaching as many children as possible to know the safe way to enjoy the water. The Albany chapter has found that the best way to achieve this goal is through constant upgrading in instruction. Pretraining of large groups of teenagers seems to be the best answer, as local teens have shown the kind of ambitious vitality which is necessary for good water instruction.

New Course

The Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross will co-sponsor a Medical Emergency Technicians Course beginning September 9, 1970. Sessions will be from 7 to 10 P.M. each Wednesday for twelve weeks, ending on Saturday, December 5, 1970 with an emergency room tour and final examinations. Sessions will be held at the Chapter House, Hackett Blvd. and Clara Barton Dr., Albany.

The course is approved by the New York State Department of Health for certification. According to course coordinator, Dr. E. Wayne Harbinger, registrants must hold an up-to-date Advanced First Aid Certificate. The Medical Emergency Technicians Course will qualify as a refresher course in Advanced First Aid and all registrants passing the course will be issued new cards.

Interested persons should contact Health and Safety Services, Red Cross Chapter House; 462-7461. Deadline for registration is September 1, 1970.

IT'S A FACT

4000 years ago the Egyptians found that candy made life sweeter. They had a well-established confectionery art, using honey, flavors, spices and herbs ... the first corner candy store in history.

Greek and Roman physicians used the first sweet taste treatment in history. They induced their patients to down a bitter draught by smearing the rim of the cup with honey. Today millions of persons don't blink an eye—but they savor the taste—as they nurse minor throat irritations with a variety of Luden's cough drops. Flavored wild cherry, honeylicorice, menthol, honey-lemon and menthol-eucalyptus, they're all made by Luden's, Inc. of Reading Pa.

Americans consume more than 3 billion pounds of candy annually, or a whopping 85 million pieces, bars and sticks a day. Each man, woman and child stashes away close to 20 pounds of confections a year.

New Law

Effective today (Aug. 1, 1970) every child entering a school in New York State for the first time must be immunized against rubella (German measles), or show proof of immunization, it was announced by Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State Commissioner of Health.

The measure, passed by the State Legislature and signed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller on April 28, amends the Public Health Law by adding rubella to the list of immunizations required for school admissions. The law had already made smallpox, polio and regular measles immunization mandatory.

"We must prevent a rubella epidemic such as the one we had in 1964-1965, from happening again," Dr. Ingraham said. "That epidemic resulted in from 15,000 to 20,000 spontaneous abortions and stillbirths in the United States. About the same number of children were born with incurable and often uncorrectable malformations."

According to Dr. Ingraham, if a pregnant woman is infected by rubella, especially during the first three months of pregnancy, the fetus may be damaged and the child may be born deaf, blind or mentally retarded. One of the best ways to break the infection chain is to immunize young children. They are the major source of infection for susceptible pregnant women.

A budget of $400,000 has been appropriated for the immunization program. Dr. Ingraham said that the State expects to immunize two million children against rubella by July 1, 1971.

Beginning this fall, the amended law applies to all children entering any public, private or parochial child-caring center, day-care facility, nursery school, kindergarten or elementary school in the State for the first time. In the case of children transferring into New York State, an immunization certificate must be furnished before the child will be admitted, if that child has not reached puberty.

While the law does not make it mandatory for children already attending schools in New York State to be immunized, the State Department of Health strongly recommends that they be immun-

MASS IMMUNIZATION: Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, New York State Commissioner of Health, vaccinates five-year-old Michael Wehinger, against rubella (German measles) as part of a massive program to prevent a rubella epidemic. Starting August 1st, under newly amended law, all children entering New York State's school system will be required to show proof of immunization. Michael will soon be entering Guilderland Elementary School, Guilderland, N.Y.

CERTIFIED SAFE FOR SCHOOL: Richard J. Siebert, principal of School No. 36 of the Rochester, N.Y. School District, and six-year-old Marta Gifford examine the rubella immunization certificate necessary for her to enter the first grade. Beginning August 1st, all children entering school in New York State must be protected against rubella (German measles) in addition to polio, regular measles and smallpox.

ized if they have not already reached puberty.

Dr. Ingraham said that the State Department of Health is working with city, county and district health departments to set up mass immunization centers. Under the amended law, the rubella vaccine is being purchased centrally and distributed to local health departments. Physicians may request vaccine for office use from their nearest health department. They may not charge for the vaccine, but may charge for administering it.

Whether or not the child receives a rubella vaccination from a private physician or from an immunization center, the law is clear that the child will be admitted to school only when:

1. A licensed physician confirms that the child already has had rubella disease.

2. A licensed physician certifies that the child was immunized against rubella.

3. A written statement is supplied by a parent or guardian that the child received immunization against rubella prior to August 1.

4. A licensed physician certifies that rubella immunization would be detrimental to the child's health.

5. A written statement by a parent or guardian of the child states that the parent is a member of a religion whose teachings are contrary to the administration of rubella vaccine.

The amended law also requires municipality to submit a rubella inoculation program satisfactory to the State Department of Health.

Dr. Ingraham particularly cautioned parents of children entering kindergarten or first grade, and children who have been attending out-of-state schools, to be sure they have complied with the law. "Without proof of immunization," he said, "their children will simply not be admitted to school."

The law states that: "No principal, teacher, owner or person in charge of a school shall permit any child to be admitted to such school without the certificate provided for . . . or some other acceptable evidence of the child's immunization."

To Seek Funds

American Red Cross chapters in all 50 states have been requested to participate in an emergency appeal for $6 million for the thousands of Hurricane Celia victims, according to J. Spencer Standish, chairman of the Albany Area Chapter, American Red Cross.

Mr. Standish said Red Cross chapters are being asked to encourage contributors to give voluntarily for the victims of this disaster.

This national appeal, Mr. Standish said, is necessary because funds marked for disaster assistance in this fiscal year which began July 1 will be nearly depleted and that the hurricane season has just started. Preliminary estimates indicate at least 15,000 persons will apply for rehabilitation disaster assistance from the Red Cross.

Red Cross is currently sheltering 30,000 persons who were made homeless when the hurricane struck the Texas Gulf Coast near Corpus Christi. About 90 per cent of downtown Corpus Christi was destroyed or badly damaged, and 70 per cent of the residential area was similarly destroyed. The situation is much the same in surrounding communities.

Thirty shelters in Corpus Christi are being operated by the Red Cross and 11 additional shelters were being manned by the Red Cross as far inland as San Antonio and Laredo.

Eight Red Cross mobile disaster feeding units were operating in Corpus Christi and 4 disaster equipped units were dispatched to the disaster area.

American Red Cross disaster specialists are working side-by-side with hundreds of Red Cross volunteers. Additional disaster staff volunteers and workers have been alerted to report and aid in the assistance program.

Red Cross officials suggested that no clothing, canned goods, or other gifts in kind be sent to the stricken area. Financial contributions would greatly aid in the relief effort and would be used to purchase needed materials in the immediate area.

Persons wishing to help with contributions for the relief of Hurricane Celia disaster victims may do so by sending them to their local Red Cross chapter. Contributions should be marked "American Red Cross Disaster Relief."

CHECK THESE HOME BUYING CONSIDERATIONS

Are you a wall-knocker? That's the term some real estate salesmen apply to shoppers who thump the walls of a house, stamp on the floors, sniff here and there—but fail to give nearly as much thought as they should about price, location, closing costs, and other important considerations.

How much should you spend? A popular rule of thumb states that you can afford to pay up to 2½ times your annual income for a home. WARNING! Inflation, cost of living and tax increases have made this formula obsolete. Instead of using any kind of rule—sit down with pencil and paper and figure the costs (include existing debts) to decide what you can or cannot afford.

What about location? A home is a place to live and if its location creates problems for comfortable and contented living, it doesn't matter if the place is a palace. How are the schools—not just how close, but how good? How's the commuting—not during off hours, but during the bumper-to-bumper rush. The community—is it economically sound or on the skids? These factors affect not only your comfort, but the future value of your home as well.

Should you use a broker? If you're buying or building a new home, you might decide to deal directly with the builder or developer. 75% of existing homes, however, are sold through brokers—in nearly all cases to the buyer's advantage. Brokers are licensed and regulated by the state, and it's generally safer to contract with them than with unregulated intermediaries.

Become an expert. To avoid the literally hundreds of possible purchasing pitfalls—and to protect what might be the biggest investment you'll ever make—become as much an expert on home buying as you can. There are plenty of contemporary, easy to understand books available that offer the facts you'll need to make sound purchasing decisions. One of them, "Lawyers Title Home Buying Guide," a 164-page paperback home buyer's "bible," can be ordered by mail for only a quarter. Just send your name, address, and 25 cents to P.O. Box 6-J, Richmond, Va. 23215. This small investment might save your much bigger one!

What are closing costs? At the "closing" of a sale, you and everyone else involved get together to tie up all the loose ends. One of these is the payment of a "closing fee" for such services as land survey, title search and charges for attorneys. Allow for this fee—

FFA Gets Nixon Support For Community Action Program

In every sector of America, concerned young people are saying, "Let us play an active role in America's future." Future Farmers of America (FFA) members will be doing just that in the coming year as they participate in a new community action program recently announced by the National FFA organization headquartered in Washington, D.C. Theme of the FFA program is "Building Our American Communities".

Announcement of the "Building Our American Communities" effort was made at a recent Capitol Hill breakfast attended by State FFA Presidents and their Congressmen and Senators. In announcing the program, Harry Birdwell, National FFA President said, "the 'Building Our American Communities' program is a challenge to young people to show their concern for America by getting actively involved in their communities."

"As we view America's future, it becomes more evident that rural America must offer a solution to problems of congested urban centers," said Birdwell, a native of rural Oklahoma. "The answer," he continued, "is to make rural and semi-rural areas more attractive places in which to live and work by providing jobs, adequate housing and good municipal facilities."

The "Building Our American Communities" program is a joint effort of the FFA, the U. S. Office of Education and the Farmers Home Administration, an agency of the U.S.D.A. The FHA developed and is distributing an instructional booklet titled "Guide to Understanding and Developing Communities." The guide is for use by high school vocational agriculture teachers as a course outline in community development.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., of Indianapolis, Indiana, is sponsoring the "Building Our American Communities" program through the National FFA Foundation, Inc. More than 5000 awards are available to FFA chapters which use their classroom knowledge in projects to improve their communities.

President Nixon, in a recent meeting with National FFA President, Harry Birdwell, gave "strong support" to the FFA-vocational agriculture community action program "Building Our American Communities".

The FFA is an organization for high school vocational agriculture students who are studying for jobs both on the farm and in agribusiness. Birdwell explained. Because we are engaged in training students for agricultural occupations we feel that every rural community must strive to have more jobs available for young people. In addition, communities must provide a healthy, attractive environment in which to live, he said.

FFA members have a stake in the future of their communities, Birdwell emphasized, pointing out that through their experiences in leadership, citizenship and cooperation, FFA members have the background necessary to take the lead in making their communities better places in which to live and work.

gel - whatever your preference and skin type) is to even your overall skin tone. If you've selected the right shade, your complexion will appear natural and almost flawless. It will look like you - only better.

How do you find this right shade? First, think in terms of three shades now that you're enjoying lots of sun time. One for your tanned complexion, one for the weeks when the sun's effects are fading, yet another for your own natural color.

All basetones are either rose or beige tones, depending on the shade of your face. If you have lots of natural color, stick to beiges. If you need color - try a pinkier tone. And remember, you test basetone on your face, not on the back of your hand or inside of wrist.

Basetone is not made to cover a problem, although it may do so to a certain extent. If you have troubled skin, follow the skin care routine for your problem, see it clear up - then your basetone looks its best.

The effect you're aiming for is a natural one. Your basetone is your first step in achieving it!
