COVER STORY

IT IS SOMETHING very special when a former heart patient returns to the hospital — not for additional surgery — but to celebrate his operation and recovery.

The party was put on by the Children's Hospital in Buffalo for 135 former patients who have recovered from heart surgery. Among the guests was Bradley Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan E. Raymond of Delmar. Bradley was a patient at the hospital in 1970. At that time, the flow of blood through his heart was changed because the major vessels leading from the ventricles were reversed since birth.

At the party, the guests were treated to games, fun and food—and the doctors who had performed the surgery autographed stuffed Snoopy dogs. Also on the program were a puppet show, a clown from the Buffalo Recreation Department and several acts from Fantasy Island.

So—there are rewards for being ill—other than recovery.

Mr. LeVere Fuller, Editor
c/o The Spotlight

Dear LeVere:

This is a somewhat belated note, but our thanks for the photo and cover story in the issue of July 22 are just as sincere as though they were on time.

I recall clearly the year 1929. Those were the days when happiness was teaching and teaching was happiness. But AHS isn't in the class today that it was then under, Dr. Harry Pratt, with such department heads as Chester Terrell, Glenn Davis, Brian Burgin, Ray Carter, James Glavin, Frederick Mueller (the dominie), and Stanley Heason, and a top notch faculty.

Congratulations to you and Mrs. Fuller, and those wonderfully fine children pictured on the Spotlight cover of four weeks ago. I'm sure you both feel justly proud of them.

Again our very real thanks for the photo and cover story of July 22.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes,

Sincerely yours,
Edwin B. Piper

Players' 'Home' Playhouse to Open with "Exit the King"

Exit the King in Rehearsal

The Lobby

The Slingerlands Community Players will inaugurate an intimate ninety-seat theatre at The Playhouse in Unionville on September 8. The Playhouse is on Delaware Turnpike (Rt. 443) about two and one-half miles southwest of the Bethlehem Central Senior High School. This theatre provides an opportunity for the players to broaden and diversify their activities beyond their traditional schedule of three major productions at the senior high school.

The Players purchased The Playhouse in 1968. They have remodeled the front portion of the first floor to convert this area to a ninety-seat arena with adjoining lobby. The cost of major productions, as well as limited availability of the high school auditorium, preclude expansion of this segment of the players' activities. Now, free access to their own theatre will allow production of a greater diversity of plays with smaller budgets. More productions also broaden opportunities for a greater number of people to exercise their creative talents. The Players expect too that productions at their theatre will provide training in all phases of community theatre for ambitious but untried novices. Finally, the theatre will serve as a laboratory for testing new production concepts.

The Playhouse is a charming old structure that bears the marks of a century or more with quiet dignity. Hand-hewn beams joined with wooden pegs, hand-made iron nails in the molding and wide plank flooring attest to its age. Local folklore says that it was a hotel when horse-drawn wagons and stages plied the roads into the Heldebergs and beyond. Later it became a social center where the local gentry gathered to dance in a spacious room on the second floor. It served as a polling place during general elections and housed a post office. Most recently it was a private residence.

The inauguration of the theatre marks the opening of the Players' twentieth consecutive season of community theatre. A modest first season in 1951 consisted of a single production in the gymnasium-auditorium of the Slingerlands Elementary School. The next season found them in the auditorium of what is now the middle school on Kenwood Avenue; since November of 1955 all major productions have been presented at the senior high school. The number of major productions has grown to three and the Players plan to continue these at the high school.

WMHT (Ch. 17) will present a television preview of the Playhouse tonight on "Dateline" at 10:30. The preview will include scenes from "Exit the King," the first production to be presented at the Playhouse.

What is Organic Gardening?

by Richard Simon

IS ORGANIC GARDENING ECOLOGICALLY NECESSARY?

Organic gardening today is an ecological necessity to the well-being and health of the entire nation for four big reasons:

1. The present need to care for the land, to conserve its remaining vitality, and to restore what has been taken from it.
2. We must bury and recycle our refuse, unless we, in turn, wish to be buried by it.
3. We must stop the progressive deterioration of our health being brought about by constantly eating pesticide poisons.
4. Gardening organically, working with nature, gives a sense of personal satisfaction unattainable from any other activity.

The Land MUST Be Saved

There are about 20-25 million American homes each with a front yard, a back yard, and a side yard. It would be a tremendous step in the right direction if 20 million families were to give their grounds organic treatment. Pressure could be brought to bear by all these backyard organic gardeners forcing the legislatures to pass laws outlawing destructive farming practices which are leaving future generations a land eroded bare of all topsoil and completely devoid of organic matter.

Our Garbage Is Burying Us

In 1969 2.2 billion tons of organic wastes from agriculture and animals were "disposed of." Now then, if we turn all these quantities of organic wastes back to the soil, we kill two birds with one stone: rather than being wastes to be disposed of, this material could be recycled, and secondly, these humus-producing wastes would restore fertility to depleted soils. Another factor in home recycling that must be stressed is the use of the family garbage. Kitchen refuse is a prime source of garden fertility. It can literally spark the compost heap with its bacterial life, consuming and converting grass clippings, prunings, cuttings, and plant residues into fertile soil. Is organic gardening ecologically necessary? Ask your garbage man that ridiculous question as he wrestles with your daily refuse of five pounds per person! Almost half of that could go into your garden.

And finally, leaves. We have more leaves than we know what to do with. Right now, our town dumps the leaves in a sanitary landfill which is quickly filling up. Other alternatives, used by other localities include open dumping, or worse than that, incineration. It seems ironic to me that the raw materials for rich fertile natural soil are used to pollute our environment.

Not Breeding For Flavor or Nutrition

"A whole generation of Americans is growing up that does not know what good food and produce taste like; they're just getting them and have no standards to judge by." The gentleman who said this is a seedsman who is selling packets from coast to coast. He added, "We're not breeding for flavor, vitamin count, or nutritional value." His geneticists are working to create and develop plant varieties that fruit at uniform heights from the ground so that they can be harvested mechanically. Fruits and vegetables coming from his company's nurseries and hotbeds are rated choice when they are almost uniform in size and shape. They pack and ship better that way. Following this reasoning, square tomatoes, oranges and cabbages should be the perfect foodstuffs, just right for quick supermarket sales!

Or would you rather grow your own fruits and vegetables organically? How about eating some fresh-from-the-garden tomatoes, corn, strawberries, cucumbers, and peas that come to the table right from the planting row, picked right from the plants just before dinner, and absolutely free of chemical poisons and sprays. This is the kind of food you and your family should be eating, fresh, home-grown produce, raised in your own soil and nurtured by your own recycled waste residues. Organic gardening is definitely necessary from the health point of view.

Fulfillment

Finally, there is the sense of achievement that organic gardening bestows on the homeowner. Organic gardening is a complete operation that gives the man or woman the feeling he or she has done something, not only for himself or herself but for our environment. I'm quite sure that many people reading this article have their own non-organic garden, and understand the personal satisfaction involved. Imagine now all the additional satisfaction to be gotten knowing that you are recycling your wastes, helping spread the gospel of a more environmentally sound way of farming, and perhaps most important of all, you are protecting yourself and your family from poisonous pesticides.

Is organic gardening necessary? It sure is!

This article is the last in the series. Many thanks to all those who bought vegetables and came to visit the garden. For those of you who will be trying organic gardening, GOOD LUCK!

Feed a hungry lawn this Fall!

SEED & FERTILIZE NOW, FROM CHINCH BUG DAMAGE

To fertilize your lawn this Fall we recommend Scotts TURF BUILDER. It is the prolonged-release fertilizer that gives up its nutrients only as the grass needs them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing. Instead, TURF BUILDER makes your lawn grow thicker, greener and sturdier. TURF BUILDER is a pleasure to use — it's clean, odorless and light in weight. This week end would be a great time.

LUNCH PRICES in Bethlehem Central schools WILL NOT be raised when the schools open next week, because of President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

Until further notice, the price of an elementary school hot lunch will remain at 35 cents and Middle and High School hot lunches will still cost 40 cents.

Parents are advised to disregard the notice in the recently-mailed "Central Highlights" which announced the Board of Education decision to increase the lunch prices. This decision has since been invalidated by the nationwide wage-price freeze.

Miss Relihan is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Relihan Jr. of 46 Longwood Drive, Delmar. She is a graduate of Shaker High School.

TONY SANDLER and Ralph Young, the popular TV and nightclub singing duo, will make their debut appearance at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center on Wednesday, September 1 at 8:30 p.m.

Tony Sandler, a native Belgian, and Ralph Young, an American, began singing together shortly after meeting in Milan, Italy in 1963. In due time, they evolved a unique act that mixed music and humor and combined Sandler's extensive repertoire of European tunes with Young's knowledge of American favorites.

The pair started out as part of a revue in Las Vegas' Tropicana Hotel, but shortly went out on their own. Their first major engagement was at the Sahara Club in Las Vegas where they were seen by Polly Bergen who immediately asked them to perform on the same bill with her. Later, they enjoyed a smashing success-ful engagement at the Coconut Grove in Hollywood, which led directly to TV appearances on the Ed Sullivan and Andy Williams Shows.

Since then, Sandler and Young have criss-crossed the country numerous times. They have performed in such leading nightspots as The Plaza and The Americana in New York City, the Palmer House in Chicago, the Shoreham in Washington, the Eden Roc in Miami and the Queen Elizabeth in Montreal. Their TV credits include a run as stars of the Kraft Summer Music Hall on NBC as well as numerous guest spots. Their latest success has been in the concert field. They have played the Ohio State Fair, the Wisconsin State Fair and other dates in Chicago, Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati.

Capitol recording artists, Sandler & Young have cut 11 albums since their initial "Side by Side," which contained the hit single, "Dominique." Among the critical reaction they have elicited has been this quote: "At a time when the nightclub medium seems gravely imperiled, the combination of Sandler & Young reminds you just how much the medium at its best has to offer."

She is currently a consultant to the Northeastern New York Blood Program as well as a member of the Albany Area Chapter Board of Directors.

"CHILDREN WANT TO BE big wheels, but they face danger because they ride little wheels." This warning to parents and the motoring public on behalf of young bike riders was issued today by New York State Police Superintendent William E. Kirwan on the approach of school opening.

Noting that "hardly a week goes by that troopers don't investigate a serious bicycle accident," the Superintendent offers these safety tips to parents:

"Make sure your children known that they must ride in the same direction as the traffic flow, keep to the extreme right-hand side of the road, and never carry a passenger on the handlebars.

"Since youngsters are our future automobile drivers, they must be taught the rules of safety and there's no better time than when they are astride their bicycles."

With the nation's bike population nearing eight million, more cycling between school and home than ever before is expected in September. The Superintendent urges motorists to give full leeway to bicyclists "whose youthful enthusiasm sometimes exceeds their common sense."

The adoption and support of a foster child is one of the many community services and charitable activities that the Kiwanis Club of Delmar sponsors.

The contributions for these services come from two sources; first, directly from Kiwanis membership dues and individual donations, and secondly: the contributions received directly from the Town of Bethlehem residents during the Kiwanis Dollar Day Fund Raising Campaign.

TO AN EVEN GREATER Spotlight

For the past 16 years, the Spotlight has mailed a copy every week to every family in the area regardless of whether it was a PAID SUBSCRIPTION or not. During the 16 years, the cost of production and printing has more than quadrupled — yet we have increased our circulation every month during this period to take care of the thousands of additional people who have moved into our midst. These thousands of additional copies have further added to our weekly production costs.

NOW

we are faced with the difficult decision of how to maintain our present standards of mass circulation.

ONE WAY

is to increase our PAID SUBSCRIPTIONS. Yours would help!

Most weekly publications across the country are getting between $5 and $10 per year for a subscription. Ours is $4.00 — BUT, for a limited time, we are offering a full one-year subscription to the Spotlight for the special rate of:
