REV. LOUIS H. CHISMAN

THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY of the orgination of the Rev. Louis H. Chisman was observed on October 9 by a surprise dinner in his honor at the Lewis M. Fowler Memorial Camp in Speculator, New York.

The Rev. Chisman, a native of Keyport, N.J. where his parents Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Chisman still reside, was graduated from Hope College, Holland, Mich. and received his B.D. degree from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N.J. He was ordained at Coeymans, N.Y. and his parish ministries have included the Collegiate Church of N.Y.C. under Dr. Joseph Sizoo; the Tappan Reformed Church, the Coeymans Reformed Church, the Unionville Reformed Church and the Delmar Reformed Church. For the past 18 years he has been Executive Director of the Lewis M. Fowler Memorial Conference Center at Speculator, and has been minister of the Chapel-by-the-Lake since its dedication in 1960. Rev. Chisman is not only active in church related activities but is also active in the community and the surrounding Adirondack area. He is a member of the State Council of Churches and Legislative Commission, a member of the planning board in the Town of Lake Pleasant, past president and member of the Speculator Lions Club, a member of the board of directors of the Nathan Littauer Hospital in Gloversville, N.Y., and a member of the Adirondack Park Association. In his past 18 years of service to the Lewis M. Fowler Conference Center, Rev. Chisman has seen it grow from its original 8 buildings to the present 24 buildings and from a summer camp to a year around Conference Center with the addition of Chi Rho House. Over 800 young people and adults a year, from the 132 churches in the Albany Synod, (Reformed Church) have enjoyed the many facilities and experiences under his able directorship.

Members of the Camp Fowler Association hosted the affair and represented churches from Rochester to Catskill. Many friends from the Speculator area also attended the dinner and participated in the celebration.

Toastmaster for the evening was Marlin Fuller of Delmar. The Rev. Chester Chilton of East Greenbush and a long time friend of Rev. Chisman, was guest speaker. Allan Hawn, President of the Camp Fowler Association, presented gifts given by the Association members and friends in the Speculator area. Mrs. George Readdean of Schenectady, nurse for the past Conference season sang several selections and was accompanied by Mrs. Marlin Fuller. The banquet was prepared by Donald Van Slyke, Food Service Director of Camp Fowler and a long-time friend of Rev. Chisman. Chairman for the affair was Mrs. Alyce Boutelle of Delmar who was assisted by all members of the Camp Fowler Association.

Dear Sir:

It is time to tackle our youth's problems in Bethlehem seriously! As a concerned parent, taxpayer and employee of our schools, our recent bomb scare has upset me enough to finally try, to do something about our problems here.

I am not thinking of just bomb scares, but the high percentage of youth who have been involved with the police (no matter how minor), the seriousness and extent of our drug problem, our leniency with the children—in the homes, schools and courts.

When are we citizens, especially parents and teachers, going to wake up and start thinking of ways to combat our youths' problems? Do you really care?

Unless action is taken, many youths will have no future — so THE FUTURE IS NOW!!!

Name submitted

Dear Sir:

Tonight, (Oct. 24), with my wife, Mary, I experienced a most enjoyable past-time. It was attending a donkey basketball game sponsored jointly by the Bethlehem Central High School Men's Association and the Bethlehem Police Benevolent Association at the Bethlehem Central High School gymnasium.

Unfortunately our enjoyment was marred by an action disturbing to us. It came about from the booing each time the Police scored, whereas there was no sound of booing from the scoring made by the Men's Association. The audience had a large share of young persons, teenagers and under. It was from a small portion of this group that the disrespectful reaction came. It is a tribute to the police players that they disregarded the booing.

In this age, when there is a need for public response to a "law and order" theme, it appears an even greater need among a spectrum of our younger element to be trained in the spirit of good sportsmanship and good manners.

ON THURSDAY, October 21, Jack Benjamin, the Xerox representative, demonstrated the Xerox 2400 duplicator to the office practice and secretarial practice classes of Mrs. Mary T. Elliot and the shorthand II class of Mrs. Margaret H. Westervelt at Bethlehem Central High School.

Mr. Benjamin introduced Xerox equipment with an audiscan presentation in the classrooms. This slide-with-sound presentation explained the basic operation of Xerox duplication. Following the audiscan preview, Mr. Benjamin demonstrated the production of actual material on the Xerox 2400 now on loan to the High School. The students observed the preparation of transparencies and the reproduction of report-type material of various types on both white and colored paper.

"SCHOOLS ARE PEOPLE" will be the theme of the Teachers' Workshop to be held on Monday, Nov. 8, at Bethlehem Central High School. This is the annual Superintendent's Day Workshop, and all district schools will be closed to allow teachers to attend.

The workshop will take place from 8:30 A.M. to 3:45 P.M. Keynote speaker will be Dr. Paul Meadows, Chairman of the Sociology Department at the State University of New York at Albany. Dr. Lawrence A. Zinn, superintendent of Bethlehem schools, will make opening and closing remarks.

The program is designed to emphasize the importance of human relationships within the schools. It will center on the assumption that schools should be places where the worth and dignity of each individual is recognized and nurtured.

Workshop discussion will be based on how the learning environment can be improved so that each child develops feelings of confidence and selfesteem, adequacy and security. District teachers will be seeking to identify ways in which the "humanistic approach" to education is being implemented now, what barriers there are to this approach, and what specific improvements, can be made. Both short-term and long-term goals, as recommendations for action, are expected to be formulated at the workshop.

District teachers will be divided into groups of 12 for the discussion sessions, first with representatives of all grade levels and later according to grade level. Film strips on the topic "Schools Without Failure" have been previewed by teachers and will also be used during the workshop.

The workshop has been planned by a committee of these persons: Dr. Lawrence Zinn, Dr. Harold Bookbinder, Mr. Francis Rodgers, High School assistant principal; Mrs. Helen Bosart, Mrs. Heidi Moore, and Frank Keetz, High School teachers; and Miss Jane Feisthamel and William Morrison, Middle School teachers.

Also scheduled to serve as group leaders are: Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, Slingerlands School; Mrs. Muriel Heiklen, Hamagrael School; Mrs. Gladys Howe, Glenmont School; Mrs. Patricia Eckhardt, Elsmere School; Peter Xeller, Delmar School; and Mrs. Grace Smith, Clarksville School.

AS MOST RESIDENTS of the community are aware, bomb threat telephone calls have recently caused evacuations of Bethlehem Central High School and the Middle School, and have seriously disrupted the district educational process.

The most obvious result of sudden building evacuations is, of course, the interruption of classes. But all other school functions are likewise affected — office work gets behind schedule; (this necessitated postponement of the High School Parents' Night program) cafeteria work and servings are interrupted, causing waste and confusion; and buses must be run on emergency schedules. Problems arise when youngsters are peremptorily sent home during the day; they usually cannot collect their belongings, and when both parents are absent from home there is a lack of supervision.

School district officials, the Board of Education, and the Bethlehem Police Department have been working together to deal with the problem. All are concerned that the safety of school children not be jeopardized, and apprehend the guilty parties and put an end to this criminal action.

Each bomb threat telephone call has been handled according to the different circumstances, (time of day, location received, etc.) and the Bethlehem police are following up many leads. Arrests may already have been made, but the time this is published.

The Bethlehem Central School District is not alone in its efforts to deal with the problem of bomb threats. Other schools and office buildings throughout the area, and throughout the country,

In addition, plans are now being made for the scheduling of make-up time. It is unfortunate when many must suffer for the actions of a few, but educational standards must be maintained.

Bomb threats disrupt not only the schools, but the entire community, and anyone with information that might prove helpful in the apprehension of the guilty parties is urged to contact the Bethlehem Police Department.

With a few rare exceptions, to reach their peak, red wines require more aging than white wines, in cask and above all in bottle; and the better the wine, the more true this is.

Whether in Europe or in California — fine wines can only be made from a few select, superior varieties of grape. For red wines the Caberet Sauvignon and the Pinot Noir. It is only with time that they become well balanced and gracious and show themselves at their best,

THE LARGEST SINGLE, job carried out by Department of Enviormental Conservation biologists is keeping track of the deer herd and the condition of the deer range. Though it is a continuing job throughout the year, the most valuable information is gathered during deer season when they check deer at hunting camps, freezer lockers and at the roadside deer checking stations. Last fall, 4,422 of the 34,638 adult bucks killed by gunners were actually handled physically and vital date recorded.

Information collected from the deer includes its age, antler diameter, number of antler points and sometimes its weight. In addition to the specific information about the deer, it is also necessary to know the location and date of kill. It only takes a couple of minutes to gather this data, but it is surprising how much can be learned from it.

Both body weight and antler development reflect the quality of the food on which the deer was raised. Since it only takes seconds to make antler measurements and it is a hard, heavy and time-consuming job to weigh a deer, this latter information is only taken when time is no factor and when it will not cause a backlog of deer hunters, all anxious to get home and impress their wives.

Once vegetation starts to grow in spring, food is no problem. It is about the same time that antlers grow, but since deer must first recover from short rations of the winter before thay can really start diverting growth to antlers, winter food conditions are reflected in antler growth.

Ouality of the range depends first on the basic soil fertility. For deer management purposes the State is divided into 10 ecological areas of varying soil fertility. The second factor is the quantity of good deer food that is available on the range. Where too many deer are feeding, the better foods are in short supply, or may even have been eliminated. Where good food is gone, deer must survive on food with less nutritional value.

Since bucks continue to grow for about four years, the first thing that must be done with the antler data is to separate it by age so the comparisons will be realistic. It must then be broken down by the location of the kill by county and town. In this way comparisons can be made within the different ecological areas, eliminating the size difference that might exist because of basic soil fertility.

This will be the twentyfourth season that intensive effort has been made to gather this data on a statewide basis. Past information gives biologists a 23-year yardstick by which to measure the condition of the deer herd. During this period it has been possible to see what antler size seems to be "par" for any given area. Anytime that the antler measurements average below this "par" it is indicative that there was not enough good food to go around during the previous winter.

Regardless of the number of deer involved, if there was not enough food to go around, another way of saying the same thing is that there were too many deer for the available food.

Other information of value to the deer manager which can be gleaned from the checking station data is the age composition of the deer herd and the rate of kill. Last year's age composition of the Adirondack buck kill showed. disproportionately small number of yearlings and twoyear old deer - the result of two starvation winters. The fawn had been born, but had not survived winter.

Hunters wishing to help furnish this needed information will find Department operated deer checking stations scattered statewide along the travel lanes between the hunting grounds and the metropolitan areas.

IN THESE DAYS of decreasing dollar values, Jiminy Peak is offering skiing for less than the cost of a cup of coffee for each hour on the slopes.

Manager Brian H. Fairbank points out that by purchasing either a midweek or night season ticket, the actual cost for each hour of skiing offered comes to less than 10 cents.

The midweek ticket-offering Monday through Friday daylight skiing except for the 2 holiday weeks — costs anyone $70. Fairbank said that Jiminy should operate, thanks to machine-madesnow, around 16 non-holiday weeks for 560 hours of skiing. That comes to about a 15-cent cup of coffee per day.

For the past 16 years, the Spotlight has mailed a copy every week to every family in the area regardless of whether it was a PAID SUB-SCRIPTION or not. During the 16 years, the cost of production and printing has more than quadrupled — yet we have increased our circulation every month during this period to take care of the thousands of additional people who have moved into our midst. These thousands of additional copies have further added to our weekly production costs.

we are faced with the difficult decision of how to maintain our present standards of mass circulation.

ONE WAY

is to increase our PAID SUBSCRIPTIONS.
Yours would help!

Most weekly publications across the country are getting between $5 and $10 per year for a subscription. Ours is $4.00 — BUT, for a limited time, we are offering a full one-year subscription to the Spotlight for the special rate of night skiing for another 412 hours, as Jiminy will offer under-the-light skiing from 4 to 10:30 p.m. each Monday through Friday. That brings it up to 972 possible hours for $80 or less than 10 cents an hour.

The real bargain is for night skiing only for $35 — which means six and a half hours each afternoon and evening — or around 7 cents an hour.

"I don't expect season ticket holders to ski every minute," Fairbank said, "but it is certainly true that there is a lot of skiing available Mondays through Fridays, from 9 in the morning until 10:30 at night, at a fantastically low price."

Fairbank said that Jiminy's improvements for the winter, a completely improved and speeded-up main chairlift, and more and better lights on the 180, Grand Slam and Ace of Spade Slopes, are nearly all completed and Jiminy will open by Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Herzog pointed out the The Bank's new ten-story building is the first major bank building to be built in downtown Albany in many years.

The building will have 200,000 square feet of office space and will consolidate all the operations of The Bank under one roof. Materials used on the exterior will be white marble and treated glass.

Utilizing ground formerly occupied by Keeler's Restaurant and the Capitol Hotel, the bank building will entend back along Green Street as far as Beaver Street. Drivein service will be provided in the air space formed by Norton Street.

Tentative plans show location of Travel Headquarters on the ground floor, together with new accounts and personal loans.

Learn the Facts on Closing

After you've found the home of your choice and arranged financing, a closing is necessary to complete your purchase. This is when the seller receives his purchase money, you receive a deed to your home, and a number of important details are handled that are necessary to effect the real estate transfer.

A.W. Long closings are conducted in your locale, you can better prepare for this important event and plan for closing costs you will be required to pay. Before a closing can be held, a number of services are utilized in behalf of buyer, seller, and lender to enable the transaction to move smoothly through its final stages. These services may include a land survey to establish boundary lines and disclose possible encroachments and overlaps; setting up your loan by the mortgage lender; legal work by your attorney; a title search for possible land title defects that could threaten the real estate investments of you and your lender; title insurance; and drafting papers and documents. Charges for these services and for other items such as taxes, recording fees, other insurance and so on - typically are listed on separate buyer's and seller's settlement sheets prepared for the closing. Your real estate broker, mortgage lender, attorney, or builder will give you an estimate of such costs in advance of the closing. Remember that closing costs and who pays them differ around the nation because of local law and custom. Therefore, it's wise to become familiar with the specific costs in your Wandering & Wondering . .

WHEN WE FIRST MOVED HERE (10 years ago), the nearby Hill Climb was well populated with Partridge; the flat land between us and the railroad was filled with fat Pheasants; it was a common thing to see a dozen or more Rabbits feeding on the clover in the lawn at dusk; all day there was the chatter of a couple of dozen Gray Squirrels as they gathered black walnuts for winter. And it was a common thing to see two or three Deer on the lawn or crossing the road. This year there are no Deer, no Pheasants, no Partridge, only two or three Rabbits and the same number of Squirrels. Something is very definitely wrong. Last week we had a letter from one who disagreed with our objection to motorcycles making trails through the woods, the only haven these lovely wild creatures had left!

SOMETIMES DELAWARE AVENUE from the Viaduct to Elsmere Avenue can be a real driving hazard — an experience. There's a certain percentage of drivers who are always in a hurry — if they are in the right hand lane and the car ahead turns on directional signals for a right hand turn the one behind immediately swings out into the passing lane, ducks around and then ducks back. The same thing happens on a left hand turn. These "hurry" people certainly keep the less hurried driver on his toes!

7" - 2.50 • 8" - 3.50 • 9" - 4.50
10" - 5.50 • 11"x15" - 6.50 • 12"x17" - 7.50

ON THE OTHER HAND, we'd like to compliment the majority of the drivers who use our roads and streets for obeying Stop signs. As one drives through our area, there seem to be only a very small number (even "hurry" people) who fail to come to a full stop.

One type of intersection that has developed into a hazard is the one marked "Yield." Either the "hurry" people here don't know the meaning of the word — or they don't care. Many of them have the attitude that "yield" means that the driver who has the "right-of-way" ought to be ready for anything. Large trucks are sometimes the greatest danger at these intersections. Maybe they figure, "who wants to hit anything as big as this?" — or — maybe the truck driver figures the "yield" sign is facing the wrong way! Anyway, look out!

WHEN WE WERE COMPLAINING about the huge dump trucks that over-populate our road, we offered no alternative for them to get to the Tri-Village Area from the source of stone, gravel or blacktop. There is one and it runs parallel to our road. A few years ago, Long Lane was re-located and a brand new road built. There are only two curves and perhaps five or six houses its entire length. Except for the two curves, it's as straight as a string. Why don't the trucks use it as opposed to one that is full of curves, narrow and well populated with young children? If there's an answer, we don't know what it is.

ONE VERY WELCOME THING is happening on our road. New York Telephone Co. is burying its lines underground. At present, we have a typical country road of today with the wires strung alongside. Too bad the power lines couldn't have gone at the same time. Actually, neither one adds any beauty. When it's completed, it will take us back to our childhood. We had nary a power or telephone pole on our 100-acre farm — of course, we didn't have a telephone or electricity either!

THE MAIN DIFFERENCE between the teen-ager of today and, say, 45 years ago seems, in our humble opinion to be this: today, everything moves a little faster and thereby exposes our teen-ager to more, more quickly. Even this sn't their fault. It's our generation that has insisted on a bushbutton world and instant-replay. Today's teen-ager has, through no choice of his own, been forced to grow up in the legacy we have created. In our day, anyone (regardess of age!) who had the proper identification to gain admittance, was served in our speak-easy. Quite a number of high school students smoked. Need we go further?

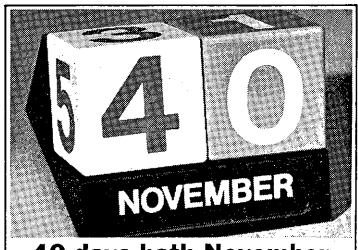

One big difference: our high school administrators knew heir students. Of the 1200 in Albany High, the principal and department heads knew right where to look, given any brand of disturbance. Of the 1200, not more than 25 were elegated to the "trouble" category. The remaining 1,175 were respected, trusted and, in general, these attributes were returned; the students respected and trusted authority.

Today, in one of our area high schools, no student is rusted. The administration makes no attempt to cover up ts distrust but prefers to flaunt it before every student—thereby blacklisting every one of them. It has been our experience that the sure way of losing a teen-ager's respect and trust is to openly tell him he can't be trusted. Yet here is a school that can afford to throw away every tenet learned in our study of psychology—these administrators take the attitude that all of their students are bums, thieves, orgers, liars, etc., etc., etc. Every one of the 800 students involved knows that the "establishment" distrusts him and his every act. Every student is actually challenged to see whether he is clever enough to "fool" authority—to see what he can get away with.

The "establishment" blames the Board of Education. They are instructed so that the action taken in a given situation is a "board ruling."

We simply cannot believe that the quality of those administering our schools has fallen so far as to make them unable to differentiate between the sincere, trustworthy een-ager and the potential troublemaker. We refuse to believe that 99% of today's teen-agers are untrustworthy. Are we trying to destroy all self-respect and respect for others in these young men and women? Or what are we trying to do?

We'd like to hear from a member of this Board of Education and we'd like him to explain to us the thinking that s the basis for the Board's action!
