YESTERDAY, ASH WEDNESDAY, 1972, was the beginning of Lent, symbolizing the mourning of the Church, the bride, for the departure of Christ, the bridegroom. This photo by Al Yarinsky was sent to us by Charles Losacco as most appropriate for the season.

A collection of fifty-seven photographic prints by Allen Yarinsky of Delmar are exhibited in Channing Hall of the Unitarian Church of Albany, 405 Washington Avenue during the month of February. Some have already appeared in previous exhibits, but most are being shown for the first time. This is Mr. Yarinsky's third one-man exhibit at the Unitarian Church and his tenth in the Capital District. Other exhibits have been shown at the Delmar Public Library, the City and County Savings Bank, Bethlehem Central Senior High School and the Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute.

Photography is an avocation for Mr. Yarinsky. A parasitologist by vocation, he earned his Ph.D. at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Since 1966 he has been a member of the scientific staff at Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute where he directs research in the chemotherapy of tropical diseases. His interest in photography dates back to his graduate school days when, he says, it served as a safety valve for the pressure of graduate work. In those days he was limited to a 35 mm Ansco camera and simple facilities of the school darkroom. He learned by doing, without benefit of instructor, but mastered fundamentals.

Mr. Yarinsky lives on Paxwood Road in Delmar with his wife, Estelle, and their three children, Steven, Carolyn and Adam. Recently he has extended his interest in photography to community activities. He is a member of the Bethlehem Art Association, is teaching photography for Photomontage, a community effort to augment formal training in the arts. He is conducting classes once weekly at his home. Emphasis, however, is on seeing pictures as well as on technical details, and the course is designed for people interested in viewing as well as taking pictures. He also serves as photographer for the Slingerlands Community Players.

What is an environmental education center? It is a site providing, in an outdoor setting, a variety of learning experiences, all of which relate to man's place in the ecology of the workd in which he lives. Through the use of visual aids, laboratories, observation stations, demonstration area, labeled interpretive trails, wildlife exhibits, and special study areas, the knowledge of man's own relationship to the natural world is made available, fascinating and exciting. Designed for use by all ages, from the very young to the senior citizen, and environmental education center provides the story of ecology, presented in a simple and clear manner.

ponds, two ravines, open fields, and old orchards furnishing an abundance of different environments for study and demonstration. In fact, there is a natural bowl in the landscape to be developed as an amphitheater where conservation can be presented through entertainment and campfire programs.

The land is available. What is needed now is public interest and help. It is important that community organizations, citizens, and the educational community understand this proposal in concept. Their endorsment of it will be most influential in securing the funding and manpower needs necessary for the development and programming of the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center.

Many have expressed a feeling of frustration in dealing with environmental problems, and have wished for a tangible means of becoming involved. Here is an opportunity to participate in a project which could be of bene-

HELLO, SELKIRK

THE AREA SERVED by the Selkirk Post office is large (more about this next week) and some of the many country lanes and County roads are both picturesque and beautiful. One of these is the old Little Red Schoolhouse on Route 144 which is now the Bethlehem Historical Museum. There was a picnic in progress on the lovely shaded lawn when Louis Spelich happened by and snapped this picture.

ONE OF THE LARGEST and busiest businesses in Selkirk is the Wickes Lumber Co. on 9-W. In the upper photo, one of the huge storage sheds where every imaginable kind of building material is stocked. In the lower picture, one of the fork lift trucks helps in filling a large order. The outside yard covers several acres—but inside, the huge display room is equally impressive. Electrical fixtures, appliances, plumbing fixtures and supplies, all kinds of wood paneling, every known kind of hardware, floor covering — you name it — it's there! Next time you need a 2x4, a nail, anything — why not visit Wickes?

CHIEF ART WILLIAMS of Selkirk Volunteer Fire Company #1 was checking out the pumper and also gave us a few facts at the same time. #1 company was founded in 1928; since then, #s 2 and 3 have been added: one in Glenmont and the other in South Bethlehem. On the roster of 50 men, Ray Keim is the only charter member still active. The Selkirk Fire District and the men who have the responsibility of fire prevention and protection are justly proud of their fine record and the three companies have the complete respect of the residents.

WHEN IT COMES TO plumbing and heating supplies, Selkirk again boasts one of the finest. Security Supply Corporation, with stores in both Albany and Schenectady Counties, is one of the larger area suppliers. The office and warehouse in Selkirk also supplies walk-in purchasers and enjoys a fine reputation both among area plumbers and businessmen and the many customers who have bought there over past years.

ALTHOUGH SELKIRK may not have any restaurants that are famous from coast-to-coast, its area eateries are well patronized not only by the local residents, but also by hungry people north, south, east and west. Catherine Hotaling owns and operates Kate's Chop House on 9-W, another stopping place in Selkirk famous for chicken, chops and fine drinks.

It's a great idea, too! Wandering & Wondering . .

OLYMPICS '72 – In '64 and '68, we watched every minute of the telecasts from Squaw Valley and Grenoble. When they were over, we were wishing that there could have been more time devoted to the events. And we thought: If ABC with Jim McKay and his team of experts could do this well, think what either NBC or CBS would do if either of them ever got the chance. This year NBC with Curt Gowdy et al took over. And we have wished over and over again that ABC was back! What a mess! NBC has devoted over an hour of their 90 minutes to a given event and then shown it over and over in the programs that followed. We saw parts of the Opening Ceremonies THREE times while other events went begging. We learned all of the ways to take a bath in Japan even to the female attendant who acts as a human washcloth – and the latest novelty: The sawdust pack. In another of the Perkins Pieces that had nothing to do with the events, we saw Perkins hold a faked conversation with Gloria Steinem proving that there is very little women's lib in Japan. We saw the un-military Japanese un-army build a ski jump. There were no medals awarded for any of these televised "events!"

We saw so many slow-motion repeats of events already decided that our eyes were spinning. And we saw the same commercials every five minutes night after night. We thought it was pretty hard to swallow and most nights we went to bed before it came to an end. And if you thought you could see additional events at 8:30 in the morning you could forget that too! Those half hours were more repeats of the repeats of the night before. And if they had an early-evening program, you could see REPEATS of these at 11:30! NBC ought to have enough REPEAT tapes now on file so they could show '72 Olympic repeats all through the next four years — until 1976!

We finally discovered that by SELECTIVE viewing, it wasn't quite so bad.

Then, there was that high point on Wednesday night when 16 year old Anne Henning won the 500-meter speed skating. Her gold hair gently blowing in a very soft breeze, intense blue eyes sparkling, she stood at attention as the band played our National Anthem following the presentation of the gold medal which she won for her first place. This one brief scene was, indeed, beautiful to behold!

THE FOLLOWING LETTER brings into focus a condition that has existed for sometime. However, it is during the past six months as plant productivity and activity seem to have increased, that the conditions have become intolerable. We print Mr. Duncan's letter in its entirety - plus a fact sheet on the plant emissions. Here it is:

Dear Mr. Fuller:

Since you saw fit to print my previous letter in the Spotlight, I feel you have an obligation to print the following letter in its entirety, too.

I have in my possession a letter, dated 13 January 1971, from the Albany County Department of Health. Referring to the plastics manufacturing plant at Feura Bush, it contains this statement, "We know that the following solvents are emitted from the plant: phenol, methanol, toluene, cresol and xylenol." (see explanation at end of letter)

These chemicals are all poisonous in some concentration. Phenol (which is carbolic acid) and toluene are known to cause chronic poisoning from prolonged exposure of industrial contact.

26 March 1971, I wrote of this to a deputy commissioner for Water Quality Management in the Department of Environmental Conservation but received no acknowledge ment of my letter.

On 14 May 1971, I sent my information to the Directol of the Division of Quality Services in the same department Again I received no acknowledgement of my letter.

On 29 November 1971, I sent all this information to the president of the company in Schenectady. He has not acknowledged my letter. A copy of this letter was sent to Bertram Kohinke and the Bethlehem Town Board. I have received no acknowledgement from them either. It migh be interesting to find out how many members of the board have seen the letter. As far as I know, it was not show to Mr. Caro, chairman of the Bethlehem Environmenta Committee.

I live about a mile from the plant in a direction which is not within the prevailing drift pattern. Yet the odors of these chemicals are periodically evident at my home and occasionally are irritating and stifling. Twice in the las two months I have been forced to close my bedroom win dow at night when the odor coming in the open window was so strong we couldn't tolerate it.

I am sure conditions are much worse in homes closer t the plant and directly downwind. It somehow just doesn seem right that a company should be allowed to pou known poisons into the atmosphere. If these poisons were present in the plant as they are outside, the union woul have taken action long ago. Do not the taxpaying citizen warrant the same consideration?

> Sincerely yours, Dr. Charles S. Duncan

Solvents emitted from Plastics Factory in Feura Bush From The Merck Index, Sixth edition, 1952

Cresol - "Mixture of the three isomeric cresols obtained from coal tar. Usually contains a few percent phenol. Colorless, yellowish, brownish-yellow or pinkish liquid; phenolic odor; becomes darker with age and on exposure to light. It is poisonous! (emphasis from book.) Caution: Imparts odor to milk," Methanol – "Methyl alcohol, wood alcohol. Toxicity: Ingestion may result in blindness; 10cc has caused death. rritation of mucous membranes, headache, fatigue, dyspnea, unsteady gait, G.I. and visual disturbances have been reported following exposure to the vapor. Max. allowable сопсп. 200 р.р.т."

Phenol - Carbolic, phenic, or phenylic acid. "Colorless, acicula crystals or white, cryst. mass; characteristic odor. Poisonous and caustic! Toxicity: Absorbed from mucuous membrances, intact skin and wounds. Ingestion esults in extensive local necrosis, severe pain, renal irriation, shock, possibly death. Chronic poisoning may occur from industrial contact. 1.5 gr. may be fatal."

Toluene – Toluol; methylbenzene; phenylmethane. Obtained mainly from tar oil.

Xylenol – Dimethylphenol. Constituent of cresylic acid.

From Garner's Veterinary Toxicology, Third Edition, 1967

"Toluene is irritant to mucuous membranes and, folowing prolonged exposure, is toxic to the bone marrow.
