The Spotlight CALENDAR

ABOUT THE CALENDAR

The information printed in this column is a FREE service to Spotlight readers. We neither charge nor receive any fee for publicizing these events. It is for this reason that we ask those who send in information to make sure that it is complete; we cannot (repeat: CANNOT) make weekly changes in running announcements.

Because the Calendar condenses the coming event in capsule form, it has become one of the most widely-read weekly Spotlight features. It was so designed to allow for more space for additional features. Therefore, organizations should not expect to find a duplication of facts in another place. If we were to run all of the events twice, we'd be cutting down on our available space and thereby defeat the whole concept.

IT'S A WHOLE GREAT BIG FUN THING, at the Bethlehem Public Library this summer. Watch next week's Spotlight for all the details.

Look what we found! IN THE MAILBAG

To The Editor;

Monday, June 19, a meeting was held at the Slingerlands Elementary School, conducted by Mrs. Virginia Lowe, principal, with the cooperation of Mrs. Anne Reardon, reading specialist. A handful of parents attended, mostly mothers.

I was stunned at what is happening in our school for the forthcoming fall session. The school budget which was recently passed allotted $2,000 toward the breakdown of two partitions in the new wing leaving half-walls. Why is this necessary for a program that is still an experiment when Mrs. Lowe said herself the program could operate with walls intact? If it is so necessary, why not use the older classrooms for this semi-demolition of walls? It was also stated that carpeting is very important for the success of open classroom teaching. They have a few donated rugs.

There will be 88 students (and most likely more by fall), all 4th and 5th graders, in one large room separated by two semi-partitions. All subjects will be taught open classroom method. Why can't this pro- gram be phased in — one subject per year — so our teachers, aides & co-ordinators will have half a chance to make the program successful?

Our teachers have taught in self-contained classrooms for years and according to Mrs. Lowe will be attending a workshop during the summer months to acclimate themselves to the new method of teaching. Will they really be fully prepared for this program? Why is it so imperative to initiate this new program so completely and so hastily?

I sincerely believe there are many advantages to the open classroom. Teaching a child according to his ability is obviously far superior to the antiquated classification by grades and ages.

I feel wholeheartedly against a radical turnabout in teaching methods in all subjects. Will the program be initially stable enough to be of benefit to all students? No doubt the most gifted students will thrive but what happens to the slower learners and insecure students? Won't they only be impeded by the impact of this complete change?

Of those parents or interested parties involved with this program, was anyone privileged to have a voice, or express helpful hints or criticisms in the constructing stages of this program or was this completely planned basically by a selected one or two?

Perhaps I am in error, but by the general current of the meeting, I felt there were many unanswered questions (my own included), criticisms, and doubts but only a few partially swayed parents. A step at

ON TUESDAY, June 20, parents, teachers and friends gathered at the Glenmont Elementary School for a reception sponsored by the Glenmont PTA honoring Mrs. Grace Erkson, who for more than sixteen years has served as principal of the Glenmont Elementary School and, more recently, as principal of Bethlehem Center, as well.

Memories of her past years and experiences were shared by her secretary of sixteen years, Mrs. Marlin Fuller, and as an expression of appreciation and with wishes of Godspeed, Mrs. Erkson was presented a gift from the Glenmont PTA by Mrs. Clifford Elkins, outgoing PTA president. Mrs. Elkins, herself, received a gift from the association from the newly elected president, Edward Davis.

Since 1956, Mrs. Erkson has devoted her experience and energies to creating new and improved techniques for motivating and maintaining interest in and a continued quest for learning for the children of the greater Glenmont community. Within the month, she will assume the position of Elementary School Curriculum Coordinator for the Bethlehem Central School District.

PLANS FOR A remodeling of the Delmar Elementary School were presented and explained at a Bethlehem Central Board of Education meeting on June 20.

Architect Howard Geyer, whose firm was hired by the Board to prepare the plans, stated that the proposed remodeling would "open the building up" by providing six large learning centers and an instructional resources center.

The only proposed construction addition is a new physical education facility which would be built at the rear of the present structure. (The old facility would be converted to other uses). This addition and the changes proposed within the existing building would not make it possible to accommodate a significant number of more pupils, due to space requirements mandated by the State Education Department. Present enrollment at the School is 318 pupils.

Estimated cost of the total project is $663,200, which would have to be financed through a bond issue. This was the initial presentation of plans to the Board of Education, and the Board has yet to make any decisions on whether to submit these or any plans to a public bond issue vote.

Mr. Geyer pointed out that, of this total cost, much would be spent simply to make the building conform to present safety codes, through such measures as replacement of fire escapes with stairwells, escape windows, and better lighting.

Delmar School Principal Joseph Schaefer explained that the remodeling plans are the result of many consultations among the architects, school staff, school district administrators, and parents. The architects were given educational specifications from which to design the new facility.

Mr. Schaefer stressed that "Delmar II," as he referred to the remodeled building, would provide for much greater flexibility for both teachers and pupils. The "open space" concept is made possible by the six large learning centers, where team teaching could be utilized, but the plans also call for purchase of movable equipment which would make possible individual and small group instruction.

The Delmar School is the oldest facility in the Bethlehem Central School District and was built in 1924. It received a cafeteria addition in 1953.

Mr. Geyer said that the architectural plans "do not skimp — but neither do they pad." His guidelines were, he said, to plan a facility which would be educationally sound for many years to come.

In other business at the June 20 meeting, the Board:

—Approved a number of appointments and resignations, for both instructional and non-instructional personnel. Among these was the appointment of Edward C. Wuinee as head of the Foreign Language Department. Mr. Wuinee, who has been coordinator of the Foreign Language Program at the Niskayuna Middle School, will succeed Mrs. Anita Cesta who is retiring.

—Approved a revised set of policies and procedures for athletics, as prepared by Mr. Ray Sliter and the district coaching staff.

—Deferred a decision on whether to grant credit for physical education classes beginning with the 1972-73 school year.

—Approved the transfer of funds to balance certain accounts, with the exception of a request to transfer monies into the transportation fund. This account has been exceeded, but since voters in the district approved a specified amount for transportation as a separate budget option last July, the Board directed that any excess spent must come out of the 1972-73 budget.

ANDREW JOACHIM, biology teacher at Bethlehem Central High School, will complete a three-year Institute in Biology and Earth Science this summer at Union College. He will receive a Master of Science for Teachers Degree; his study was made possible through a grant from the National Science Foundation.

A 16-YEAR-OLD boy from Iran will be attending Bethlehem

Central High School during the 1972-73 school year, and the local Foreign Exchange Club is seeking a home or homes where he may live during his visit here. He will be enrolled in ninth-grade classes.

Persons who would like to volunteer to serve as a host family for him, for a period of at least three months, may call Mrs. Elfrieda Textores at 434-4296.

AS WAS PREDICTED before the weekend, the action at Saratoga Harness was nothing less than spectacular.

On Friday night, a field of six went postward in the $8,000.00 final of the Spring Championships for Trotters. Triggerman with the highly talented Jean Paul Morel in the bike, was looking for his second win in a row and went to the top from post four. Just as the field went down the backstretch for the first time, the 1-5 choice, Noble Conquest with Harold Dancer, Sr. in the bike, made a break.

Triggerman with Morel in the bike, cut the quarter in :29.3 and was challenged from just past the quarter as Noble Conquest got back on stride and was alongside Triggerman as they came to the half in 1:02.4.

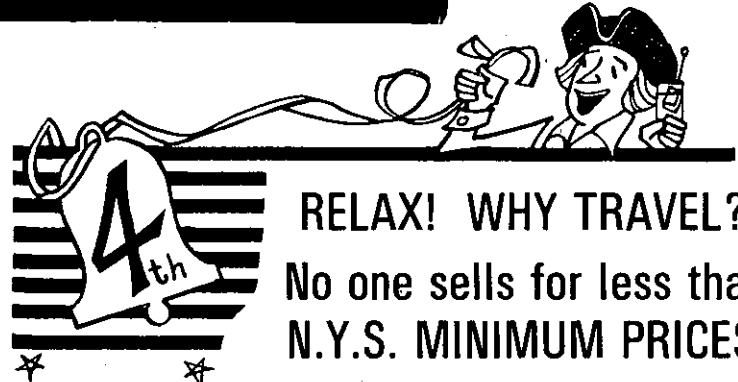

Just as they went into the clubhouse turn for the second time, Howard Parker's mount, Metro Lobell went on a break permitting Dancer to tuck in second. Triggerman was still on the front end as they went to the three-quarters in 1:35.2 and appeared to be the winner at the top of the stretch. Just as they turned for home, Morel had to get after his horse and when he did, the four-year old gelding made a break allowing Winsome Blaze who had come along the rail, to win handily by some 2 3/4 lengths in the new win time 2:07.3.

Saturday night the emphasis turned to the pacers, as high lighting the ten-race-card was the $11,800 final of the Spring Championships for Pacers.

Bo Scots Horn with Jean Paul Morel doing the driving, made every pole a winning one, as the four-year old mare cut the quarter in :29.3 the half in :59.3 and the three-quarters in 1:30.3.

As they came off the final turn, Tiogas Monarch with Gilles Filion in the bike, came out of second, but was no match for the winner who still had something left, as she covered the mile in 2:01.2 winning by 3/4 of a length over Tiogas Monarch and Muddy Royal.

The winning time was not only a new lifetime mark for the mare, but she also set a national season's record and at the same time, equaled the track record set by Glynis in 1970.

WHEN THE FARMERS of the Forest Preserve concept set forth their plan to preserve a wilderness area within close proximity to civilization, they probably didn't visualize some of the paradoxes that it would create. So successful were they in salvaging what, in many cases, was a shattered wilderness, and letting it heal until it regained its solitude, that the popularity of the wilderness may be its own undoing.

During the past two decades a combination of factors have teamed up to make outdoor recreation in a Adirondacks a most desirable and popular type of vacation. One of these factors, speed and ease of transportation to the mountains, has also changed vacation from the traditional long stay to include the "quickie" or weekend vacation as a major contributor to the hordes of recreationists.

The increasing tensions of city life have made many people seek the solitude of the woods simply to unwind. Such activities as canoeing, fishing and hiking proved excellent means to help unwind and soon, in themselves, began to draw people back to the Adirondacks.

Hiking on a woodland trail and hearing the clear, ringing song of the hwite-throaed sparrow can go a long way toward relaxing the soul, especially when you know that no one else is withing hearing distance. Unfortunately the popularity of hiking into the wilderness has almost blotted out the wilderness in many places. Over 20,000 people registered at the north entrance to climb Mt. March during the last year, and there are three other major routes in. If you lift your eyes above the litter and damage to the Alpine environment, at least the view is the same as that seen by the early climbers.

Ironically, this area which draws more than half of the hikers in the Forest Preserve is also the most easily damaged environment. Through slogans like, "If you can pack it in full, you can pack it out empty," hiking organizations are doing what they can to remind their fellow travelers that they must do their part to solve the litter problem. This is fine, but just the very presence of a person walking across the Alpine vegetation of the peaks in detrimental.

The Watershed Environment Research Unit at Syracuse College of Forestry has been watching the effect of hikers on the tundra-like conditions of the 12 high peaks where they exist, and have found that in all cases the traffic is more than the vegetation can survive.

The intensity of the pressure on the trails of the high peaks compared with the rest of the Adirondacks, let's spread the annual hiking pressure out along the trails. In the 150 miles of trails in the peaks area each hiker would have an average of a mere 10 or 11 feet to call his own. An almost equal number of hikers would be spread out over all the rest of the hiking trails system, some 2,100 miles and each hiker would have over all the rest of the hiking trails 150 feet of trail to himself.

Not only is that 150 feet of trail comparative solitude, but it is probably a better hiking trail too. The tramping of heavy cleated boots on the trail in the high peaks areas has created much erosion and actual gullying resulting in wet and difficult trails. The less traveled trails of the more rolling woodlands outside the high peaks are generally much better walking trails.

Outside the high peaks area, the hiker has an excellent choice of either long or short trails. In the Cranberry Lake area, for instance, there are about a dozen trails that form a network offering infinite variety with access

What to do if you smell gas.

Pick up the phone and call the nearest Niagara Mohawk Office.

Any hour of the day or night. Our servicemen will promptly make an inspection and do whatever is necessary to correct the situation.

While waiting for our servicemen to arrive, ventilate the area. While natural gas is nontoxic and contains no poisonous ingredients, a leak can become hazardous if combustible gas pockets are allowed to form.

The important thing to remember, though, if you do smell leaking gas, is to call us immediately.

In fact, it would be a good idea to put the paper down for a minute, look up the telephone number of our nearest office and jot it down with other emergency numbers.

from Wanakena. The trout fishing in the Oswegatchie River and the numerous ponds along the way far outweigh the mountain climbing possibilities.

If you really want to go someplace on your hike besides just having an interesting meander, try the 133-mile Northville-Lake Placid Trail. Crossed by Routes 10, 28 and 28N, this trail is broken into convenient sections for the hiker who doesn't have two weeks needed to cover the whole length.

FAIR-GOERS, BEWARE!

A preview of what could happen on a typical day at any County Fair delighted an audience of children and adults on Friday, June 9, at the Elsmere School's theatre-in-the-round (in Delmar).

The play, "A Day at the Fair" was presented by Mrs. Virginia Lennox's 4th graders, using the school court yard as the theatre and the grass as seats. Quite simply, as 4th-grader Roger Marr, "Fair Director," announced, the class showed what might happen if a family such as Molly and Sam Haywood, played by Liz Young and David Brickman, brought their incorrigible daughter Emmy Lou (Suzy Friedlander) to help with their exhibits. Through one hilarious episode after another, Emmy Lou ruined the pet show; dropped and broke her father's prize watermelon; stained her sister Mary's (Mary Kimberly) dress; caused a mix-up in the fashion show (models Linda Busick, Marina Logrillo and, adding to the fun, Keith Burkins masquerading as his sister); and finally upset judges Laura Zautner and Cindy Goldstein as well as photographers John Anzola and Tim Short at the cake table. The day was saved when state governor Richard Mastrodonato realized the potential of Sam Haywood's special discovery and Emmy Lou was forgiven her mistakes, although asked never to be "helpful" again.

Now we can give you broad car insurance.

At a compact price.

Auto insurance may never be the same around here again. Because we have something special to offer you: Auto-Rite, the policy for safe drivers. If you have a good driving record, we think you should get something out of it... such as a lower rate for your insurance. It's not only what you pay that'll come as a happy surprise. The real surprise is in how much you get. Because Auto-Rite is not the trimmed-down, minimum-coverage policy you might expect for the price. It's the opposite. It's quality insurance that can give you a full range of coverages. Liability — up to $500,000. Collision. Fire. Theft and comprehensive. Medical payments. You can even have emergency road service.

You get another advantage: Aetna's country wide claim service. Take our word for it, it lives up to its reputation for speed and fair play. And naturally, our agency is always here to give you personal service and attention. Find out if you qualify for Auto-Rite. Let us quote you the facts and figures. Wandering & Wondering . . .

WHAT IS FATHER'S DAY? We are almost 62 years old — it has taken this long to establish two facts: 1) 1972 was the finest Father's Day we have ever experienced and 2) why, when our father lived into his 70s, didn't we give him a day like this? Part One we can tell you about; why we never gave our father anything like it is sad. He was a fine, honest man — but somehow we never quite got it together.

Our Father's Day was a l-o-n-g weekend, starting with Friday, June 16, when one of our daughters made the mistake of trusting another driver and she wound up losing our station wagon. It took almost all of the $30 she was spending on us for a Father's Day present to get the car towed some 50 feet! As we have pointed out before: this is an era of adult MONSTERS — especially in their unfair dealings with young people. A $10 bill would have been more than adequate for the service rendered — but this man knew he had the advantage and he rode it for all it was worth and beyond. To explain what happened: it was a four-lane highway; our daughter wanted to make a left turn; the car in the lane toward the middle of the road stopped and signaled her to go; she couldn't see in the other lane but she made the turn and got clobbered. She got a ticket for not yielding the right-of-way; we got a junk car; the self-styled traffic cop drove away and is probably laughing because our daughter put her trust in his signal.

There was no one injured — so the day was not a dark one. The money loss means nothing if no one is hurt. The money for her Father's Day present now lines the pocket of a thief — our daughter got a ticket which will mean a mark on her license. And the driver who caused the whole mess is still Scot-free and laughing — the tow truck operator is laughing because he's a successful thief — and we're laughing because we have an uninjured daughter and a Father's Day that's the happiest we've ever known.

The night of the day of this accident, the Senior Class at a local high school held its banquet at a famous restaurant on Western Avenue in Albany. Following this Father's Day story, we'll tell you all about how this "fine," "reputable," "famous" restaurant treated this Senior Class. But to continue our story, our son came home perhaps a full 1-1/2 hours earlier than expected — and that, too, made us happy.

Now it's Father's Day Eve. It's Saturday night and practically everyone has gone out for the evening. We've turned on TV — and then it happened: the same daughter who had the accident just brought us the most beautiful shrimp cocktail — better, by far, than the $30 present that now lines the pocket of the tow truck thief. Why, oh why, weren't we capable of bringing so much happiness to our father? We're probably being maudlin, but there are tears of pure joy as the last one of those lovely shrimp is eaten.

Right here there has to be a pause and passage of time until more of this most memorable of weekends unfolds . . .

We waited until Father's Day was well settled in the past before going on with this story — mostly because events leading up to a holiday bring far more joy than the day itself. This was no exception. If the day could have been confined to our family (as it should have been!) it probably would have turned out to be a banner day. But our entire afternoon was taken up with a meeting that saw 3 years of tireless effort go down the drain. When people deal with people, they ought to learn to accept the willy-nilly antics of people — but somehow the crassness and inconsideration always comes as a surprise.

It is such a fallacy to believe that people will repay kindness for kindness, favor for favor. As soon as we fall victim to such a belief, we become vulnerable, leading to disappointment and generally a certain amount of bitterness.

All through our life (and in bringing up our large family), we have always found room for a good laugh at the top. Laughter is the cure for so much.

We've had another habit that has sometimes driven family members up a tree. When things are black — we've generally found that sleepiness also occurs — and a short nap will change the whole picture — solutions are found and laughter then can add to a clearing of the air.

Father's Day 1972 now becomes a plus — we learned — and enjoyed our family, the few short hours we were able to be here.

One plus was what is probably one of the loveliest cards we have ever seen. It measures 10-3/8" x 12"; the entire front cover is a reproduction of a baseball painting; and here is what it said inside:

DAD

I hope your favorite team wins the championship . . .
 that your lawn grows to be the envy of the neighborhood . . .
 that you get exactly what you want on Father's Day.
 I hope that when you're in a hurry you can always find a parking place . . .
 that the barber cuts your hair just the way you want it . . .
 and most of all, Dad, I hope you have a very Happy Father's Day!

NOW HERE'S THE LOW DOWN on a local Senior Class Banquet! Since, again, we refuse to name the Albany restaurant, let's call it the "Den-Run-by-Thieves." This was one of the worst cases of robbery we've heard of.

First, let's look at what was served: A variety of sloppy, unappetizing salads, Oscar Mayer cold cuts (and we are NOT (repeat: NOT) running down this brand — but for the price charged, the plastic name wrapper might have been removed, huh?), some kind of hot chicken that couldn't possibly come from a chicken; hot spare ribs with no meat — just grizzle; roast beef gravy for either the chicken or the ribs — NO fruit, NO dessert — with pitchers of some kind of soda as the beverage.

Most of the more than 150 present left as hungry as when they came.

The service: the buffet never appeared until more than FORTY-FIVE minutes after the time scheduled.

The check: somewhere in the neighborhood of $1000.00.

What can we say? You can draw your own conclusions. There must be a way of preventing these things from happening. It's easy to say, "Hold the banquet in the school cafeteria where quantity and quality control can be exercised." It's easy to say, "Let the school officials make the arrangements and be responsible for the quality." Neither is a solution. These young adults enjoy making their own arrangements; they trust "old" adults — and we're proving that this trust is misplaced.

The whole thing is sad, sad, sad.
