OVER STORY

HAPPY TIME!

PROBABLY THE BIGGEST social event of the current Tri-Centennial celebration in the Town of Coeymans was the Coronation Ball which took place last Saturday evening at the Coeymans Civic Center. It was reported that more than 400 tickets were sold as was evidenced by the capacity crowd at the Center. Outside on the lawn, the committee erected a large refreshment tent with closed circuit television showing what was happening on the dance floor.

At eleven, Town of Coeymans Supervisor Ralph C. Pape crowned Rosemary Dardani Queen of the Ball and the Tri-Centennial. After the coronation, the Supervisor led the queen to the dance floor (picture below).

power of this printed evidence that he was always a sellout. Things today still haven't changed. All one has to do is to glance at the bookshelves

Funeral Home

DELMAR, N. Y.

Question:

I have no family to look after my funeral arrangements. Is it possible to have a funeral home made beneficiary of my life insurance?

Answer:

Most insurance companies require the beneficiary of an insurance contract to have an actual insurable interest in the life of the insured. This precaution is taken to protect the insured from people who might have no genuine interest in his welfare.

Even though we may have an insurable interest in you life because we are obligated to do certain things for you after death we feel there is a greater margin of safety for you if you have this paid to us through a bank trustee. Bank trustees have a permanent existence, whereas, we or other individuals may pre-decease you or move away.

to see the popularity of paperbacks which promise everything. Leading the pack, of course, are books on diet. There are the best-sellers of high protein and low carbohydrate diets and all of the others who are huckstering methods of losing weight quickly, even miraculously. When the A.M. A. accuses these authors of charlatanism, they counter with accusations that the A.M.A. is behind the times. They say that there is no data to disprove their claims; however, they apparently have no data to prove their cases, either! Dr. Frederick Store, Chairman of Harvard's Department of Nutrition, did issue this work of caution: "Many books on diet", he said, "give advice that is useless, misleading, and sometimes even dangerous. We must remember that no trustworthy book would suggest disrupting the balanced intake of nutrients - protein, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and water. The only sound way to lose weight is to do so gradually. A crash diet has no lasting effect since eating habits have not been restrained, only abandoned temporarily." He further points out that fast weight loss is usually accompanied by an increase of blood cholesterol and fat, both of which are hazards to heart and blood vessels. He underlines a principle of which members of Weight Watchers.

are aware - an intelligent diet does more than lower weight; it re-educates eating patterns.

Candidate Speaks

In a speech before the Menands Rotary Club at a luncheon recently, Lawrence E. Kahn, Republican candidate for Albany County Surrogate Judge, stated that the recent Court reform bills passed by the New York State Legislature encourages greater accountability of Judges to the people. He noted that "faced with the public's declining respect for our political process and our judicial system, there is good reason for court reform." Kahn stated that "the new court reform laws help centralize the administration of our State's judicial system with the goal of achieving greater efficiency and greater responsiveness to our citizens."

Chipmunks — We were repaid for staying off the roads over the Memorial Day weekend by our local chipmunks. It has been obvious for some time that the female, who dug her chambers under the concrete slab of our front porch, had young. Two sleek youngsters about three-quarters grown, made their first appearance in the woodpile

SUPERVISOR BERTRAM E. KOHINKE was in fine form as he wound up to throw the first ball at the opening of the Bethlehem Recreation Baseball League. The Village Fifers were there to provide the music. Games are played on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 6 on the BCHS field.

on the front porch. They put on quite a show just outside the window as they explored the woodpile and chased each other in and out between the chunks of wood. They didn't find the feeder, just two feet from the end of the woodpile, where their mother has been dining regularly, but they did pick up just about every little loose item and check it over to see if it was worthy of putting in their mouths.

While looking out the side window at the garden work that was on my list for the day, I saw two different sized chipmunks chasing each other. Thoughts of gardening were put aside as I reached for the binoculars and settled by the window to watch them. Finally four young, almost as large as their mother, were in and out of a hole in an exposed part of the yard we are redoing. They would go off six or eight feet exploring and then dart back. Finally one followed its mother over into the flower garden and disappeared. Maybe their fondness for blubs will solve the problem of where to put all the extra plants.

All across New York the April-horn first-litters of chipmunks are probably just beginning their exploring of the outside world. By the time July comes, and summer campers hit the woods, these delightful little creatures will be ready to come into camp and take your prune pits, or anything else that you may have to offer - and probably some things that you don't want to offer.

It has always fascinated campers just how much these little creatures could cram into their cheek pouches. Like many another camper, I have put out little piles of prune pits and commonly had them stow away eight or ten at one time. Others have counted over thirty kernels of whole corn or a similar number of beech-nuts, which would be about equal to two heaping tablespoons. The cheek pouches are outside and behind the jaws, with the content being slipped over the jaw through the gap between its sharp teeth in front, and its molars in the rear of its jaw.

Each piece of food is carefully checked and cleaned before it is wedged into place by the little hands. Items of cargo are placed first on one side, and then the other so that the load is always balanced. To empty the pouches, the chipmunk applies pressure with its hands on the outside, forcing the contents forward and out.

Where do all the goodies that they collect go? Most are taken into their main chamber or bedroom and stored under their leafy bed. When the bed has been raised all the way to the ceiling, then other underground storage chambers are brought into use. Not all food is stored for winter use. Some may be secreted around the chipmunk's territory where it can be utilized on days when a good meal cannot be found. If the weather should get too

WILLIAM L. PHEIFFER, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Chief Executive Officer of the Albany Savings Bank has announced the appointment and promotion of Margaret J. hot, they may spend the day in their cool chamber and eat what has been brought in for storage.

Probably everyone who has watched them storing away food from an abundant supply has wondered just how much they would actually carry off. John Burroughs decides to find out, and in three days one chipmunk carried away about one bushel of hickory nuts, chestnuts and shelled corn. That seemed to be enough for after that he took no more of the offerings.

Anyone who has spent any time in the woods has heard the monotonous "chuck, chuck, chuck, chuck," repeated at a rate of about two chucks a second. Somehow this muffled song, which can go on and on, doesn't seem in character with the lively little chipmunk, so it isn't surprising that many people are started to learn that it isn't a toad.

Most any place you go in New York where the woods are reasonably dry, the chipmunk will be there to entertain you from late March through October and into November.

Beck Home Winner

The home of Edward and Bernice Beck has won the Tri-Centennial Home Decoration Contest and the Becks have been awarded a $50 bond as the winners. Judges for this Tri-Centennial competition were Frank Suderly, Mrs. Jean Burgess, and Mrs. Harry VanHoesen.

Doctor Honored

The Tri-Centennial Parade Committee announces that Dr. John F. Mosher has been named Grand Marshall for the Tri-Centennial Parade on July 7. Dr. Mosher has been a well-known and highly respected figure in the Town of Coeymans during the 40 years of service he has given the families of this community.

Graduation

205 graduates received their diplomas at the R.C.S. Commencement Exercises on Saturday evening, June 23. The program, which took place outside of the Senior High School, was a beautiful presentation of the Class of 1973. Speeches were given by Wayne Perras, valedictorian, and Mr. Keith Searles, salutatorian. Raymond J. Chapman, Senior High School Principal, presented the numerous awards to those students who achieved high average in specific subject areas, as well as, eight scholarships. The class of 1973 was presented by Dr. Frank J. Filipone, Superintendent of Schools, and diplomas were presented by Prescott D. Archibald, Board of Education President. The graduating class gave the greatest award by donating equal amounts of 635 dollars each to the high school library and the American Cancer Society.

Rotary Guest

A recent guest at the Coeymans-Ravena Rotary Club was Don Trumbull of the New York State Retail Merchants Bureau. According to predictions made by trained researchers as reported by Mr. Trumbull, the economic state of the country in the next 20 years shows a clear picture of a steady upward growth. The Gross National Product will approach the astronomical sum of two and one-half trillion dollars. Personal consumption will double with the average American spending $6,000 per year on personal items as opposed to $3,000 per year today. Unemployment will be at a maximum of 4% of the work force with almost everyone on a 36-hour work week. Thanks to a variety of reasons, including the women's lib movement, 50% of the work force will be women.

At this same meeting, outgoing president Tony Biscone, presented awards and honors to the following:

Rotarian of the Year to Sal Albano for his many years of service, including his special efforts with the Old-Timers Dinner.

Twenty-six years of perfect attendance to George Bleezarde.

Two years perfect attendance awards to Frank Bruno and Andy Mayone, Jr.

Celebration to Close

The Tri-Centennial will reach its zenith on Saturday, July 7, as the Tri-Centennial Parade marches into the full spirit that has been reflected throughout the entire celebration. Starting at 2 P.M. from Ridge Road, the parade will cover Main Street and pass the Coeymans Civic Center, where the Reviewing Stand will be set up, as well as bleachers for local

Senior Citizens, and a video taped commentary of the entire parade for television. It will continue down Westerlo, New, and Church Streets to the Pieter B. Coeymans School. Numerous musical groups are expected to be in the parade, including the U.S. Air Force Band and two Drum and Bugle Corps. Many fire departments and fire auxiliaries will be participating. The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Central School Band and the Village Fifers are included among the musical groups. Approximately one hundred societies will take part in the parade, including youth groups, clubs and organizations of surrounding areas and many beautiful and elaborate floats sponsored by the Town's commercial, religious, and social groups. Among the floats will be a special one which will carry the Tri-Centennial Queen and her court. Other area Queens and their courts will also be in the parade, such as Albany's Tulip Queen and Dairy Princess. Thirty trophies which have been donated by the Atlantic Cement Co. will be awarded after the parade at the Pieter B. Coeymans School, and also at this time, a Drum and Bugle Corps exhibition will take place. This Parade will mark the end of a long celebration of a very worthy and historical milestone for the Town of Coeymans.

Board Election

On Wednesday, July 11, the annual election for the RCS School Board of Education will take place. There are three positions open this year for board members. Voting will take place from 1-9 P.M. at the RCS Senior High School Gymnasium. Howard Engel of Selkirk and Clyde Norton of Selkirk are running for one position; Dr. James Dougherty is running for re-election with no opposition, and the third position is being sought by the five following candidates: Joseph DiPerna, Richard Jackson, John Marshall, Peter Recene, and Donald Gillespie.

Wandering & Wondering . . .

THIS WILL NOT BE A HAPPY COLUMN! Somehow, the events making national news don't spell "h-a-p-p-y." They spell "d-o-o-m" for this country, religious beliefs and Christianity.

On Wednesday evening, June 27, John Chancellor reported on NBC News one of the most heartbreaking stories ever on television. (That's our opinion!)

The pictures showed a poor black family in a Southern state. Two daughters, one 12 and the other 14, had recently been sterilized. A social welfare worker had presented a "consent" paper to the mother for signature. The mother could neither read nor write — so, upon sufficient urging, she placed her "X" where her name should have appeared. The girls were taken to a hospital, the operation performed, and were returned to their parents. They'd never have to take the "pill" again.

What kind of hell goes on in this country? Who gave Social Welfare the right to play God? How is it possible in a country whose very foundation is built upon freedom and the rights of the human being, to take away the right of reproduction? Circumstances be damned — how could it happen?

Where are our country's religious leaders? Where is the judicial and its promise of justice? Where is government? Where are the peace officers — probably chasing some teenager with a faulty exhaust system on his car!! Where is that wrathful God whose duty it is to wreak his vengeance on the likes of Social Welfare workers?

Just what kind of a "quack" surgeon would perform such an operation upon presentation of a paper signed with an "X"? We hope he rots in his own hell right here on earth!

We don't question the fact that two girls 12 and 14 were on the "pill" and therefore were (or may have been) a menace to their own well-being and perhaps society. We don't question the fact that there may have been extenuating circumstances. We do question the right of anyone to decide who shall bear children and who will be forever barren. We can't believe that society has now adopted the selective breeding system which, up to this time, has been reserved for animals. What man alive can say that the offspring of these two girls would have been a "drag" on our ultra-modern society?

We believe that America should get down on its collective knees and beg a wrathful God for forgiveness before we all land in Hell right here on earth!

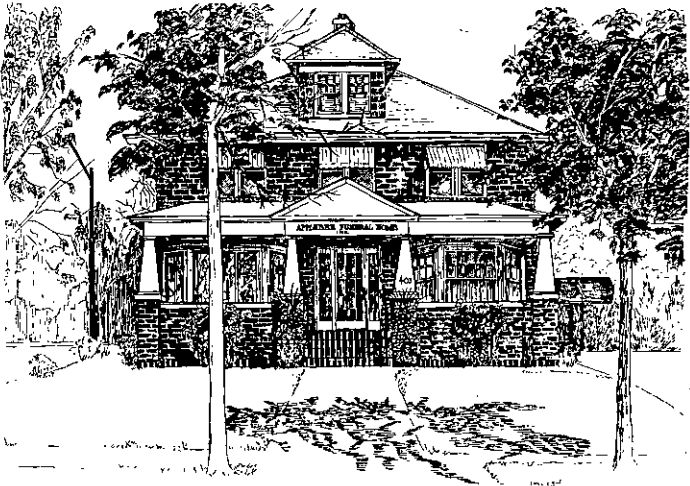

* * *

IT'S ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO FOLLOW the theory of a race of super-breeding super-men with anything sensible and sincere. The anger and frustration that linger almost make further writing impossible — but these are thoughts that cry for expression. For instance, it's hell to get old. With more than 60 years of memories and experiences, it's hard to accept the fact that no one (and we mean: no one) who is younger will accept those experiences and profit from them.

We remember, so well, those childhood days when the sun rose on a cloudless day, the sky would be such an intense blue as to almost hurt the eyes of the beholder. Those were the days when horses outnumbered the automobile by, maybe 10,000 to 1. If we saw one bi-wing airplane a year, it was an adventure. Practically nothing was moved by truck. Those were the days when farmers helped each other through the harvest season — the grocer extended groceries all winter long because he knew that the farmers' hens would lay throughout the spring and summer and his grocery bill would be paid — in eggs!

It isn't that the "old days" were so superior to today! That's not it at all. The tremendous difference lies in the area of man's cooperation with man, an atmosphere not choked with the exhaust fumes of millions of cars, a time when money, and what it could buy, wasn't the most important fact of life.

So much for allowing us to "Wander."

WE HAD ONE OF OUR STATEMENTS in last week's column brought to our attention as being totally unfair to our local justices. Both of these men (Judge Donald D. DeAngelis and Judge Robert H. Rice) are outstanding attorneys, both are very fine gentlemen who would never be guilty of either arrogance or disrespect. The man we referred to was a resident here only a short time. He is not a Bethlehem resident today, and hasn't been for several years.

We certainly did not mean to imply that our reference was a local justice. We thought we had been explicit in this. Perhaps we weren't explicit enough. Anyway, please don't confuse our reference as pointing to either Judge Rice or Judge DeAngelis — because it didn't and we didn't.

* * *

SENATOR SAM ERVIN AND HIS SELECT COMMITTEE will be in recess again as you read this — otherwise it's foolish to write about Watergate because, ordinarily, so much would have happened between the time of this writing and the date it appears.

However, there are a few thoughts that have come to us. We were unable to make any decision on John Dean's veracity. If he lied, he is a smooth liar — and the "lies" seemed to be fairly well documented. If it can be proved (unlikely) that he was telling the truth, Watergate and a dozen other illegal projects would become the responsibility of subsequent grand juries and the courts.

There were three significant developments during Dean's testimony. Sen. Gurney tore his evidence to shreds and made it practically worthless. Then, Sen. Ervin, by bringing out the sidestepping of the Constitution, almost reinstated Dean's believability. Both Senators were remarkable in their questioning. That left us confused.

Then it was Sen. Lowell Weicker's turn. Up to this point, we were unimpressed with Weicker. But between 5 and 5:45 last Thursday, Sen. Weicker produced evidence which damned the entire Executive Branch of the Federal Government. So exacting were his charges and the evidence backing them that it was as if a bomb had been dropped in the Senate Caucus Room. At the end, everyone in the room gave him a rousing round of applause.

We predicted that the dirt of Watergate had been scarcely touched — and for once, we were right. As the dirt surfaces, each succeeding witness should find himself confronted by tougher questions, more truth searching — and no one can predict just what will come up.

Watergate, by itself, was more or less a dirty trick, stupid, un-called for. But the attempts to establish a police state, interference of politics in the FBI, CIA, IRS and other government agencies — these were illegal crimes and cannot be overlooked. There was more — much more. Little by little, it will come out.

What then?
