Spotlight CALENDAR

ABOUT THE CALENDAR

The information printed in this column is a FREE service to Spotlight readers. We neither charge nor receive any fee for publicizing these events. It is for this reason that we ask those who send in information to make sure that it is complete; we cannot (repeat: CANNOT) make weekly changes in running announcements.

Because the Calendar condenses the coming event in capsule form, it has become one of the most widely-read weekly Spotlight features. It was so designed to allow for more space for additional features. Therefore, organizations should not expect to find a duplication of facts in another place. If we were to run all of the events twice, we'd be cutting down on our available space and thereby defeat the whole concept.

The following letter from Charles B. Wurtz, Ph.D., Consulting Biologist, 3220 Penn Street, Philadelphia, Penna., was directed to Bethlehem Supervisor Bertram E. Kohinke with a copy sent to the Spotlight for reproduction here:

Dear Mr. Kohinke:

Because of my interest and experience in the field of pollution control I am writing to you as an intervenor for the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation. I understand they are planning a plant in your community, but that some citizen elements are opposed to this.

For the past twenty-five years I have specialized in the study of pollution biology. My work has included studies for industrial interests, municipalities, states, etc. (I have never had occasion to work for Owens-Corning, however.)

Since 1968, when the program began, I have been one of several judges who donate time each year to the Sports Foundation, Inc., for the selection of a Gold Medal Award for pollution control. The award is given to that industry considered outstanding for their pollution control work and their community interest. This is a national award and it is not given casually. The Grand Award winner in 1970 was Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation for a corporate-wide program embracing all their plants. Other finalists that year were Atlantic Richfield Company, Campbell Soup Company and Johns-Manville Products Corporation.

Concern about the construction of a new plant to be built in Bethlehem Township was brought to my attention and I felt I should ask for further information. I spoke to Owens-Corning personnel at their Toledo headquarters and solicited such informa-Available information was provided. Plant design has not yet been completed so an overall impression cannot be properly formulated. Nevertheless, a review of the material provided allows the formation of an opinion to the effect that this plant will not only adhere to high environmental standards but will also be a pronounced community benefit.

I truly believe those local residents who have expressed concern and feel the plant will be objectionable have not critically considered the total environment. The latter includes not only the local community but the nation at large. It also includes consideration of man's economic well-being. The plant will obviously contribute to the latter at the local level. The insulating material to be produced by the plant is desirable and useful at the national level. As has been pointed out, the material will make a major contribution to the conservation of energy. This is currently a matter of deep concern. It is a national prob-

The physical aspect of the plant appears quite attractive. As a member of the board of directors of a local watershed association in the Philadelphia area I know how hard it is to develop a green-belt concept and to protect existing natural areas. Owens-

Corning will be making a strong contribution to these facets of the environment in Bethlehem Township.

Of particular interest to me as a pollution biologist is the proposed total recirculation of process and waste water with plant development. This is a forward-looking corporate view that will contribute to the federal government's "no discharge" target. I think Bethlehem Township is to be envied in having such an environmentally responsible corporation join its community.

I have taken the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to the editor Spotlight, Inc., in Delmar as well as to the Manager of Corporate information at Owens-Corning in Toledo, Ohio.

I do hope that my letter will be given consideration in your further conversations with your concerned citizens.

Sincerely yours, Charles B. Wurtz Consulting Biologist

Dear Editor.

On July 31, the Bloodmobile unit was at the St. Thomas School, Delmar. One hundred and four members of our community came to give blood and ninety four pints of blood were donated. This was an excellent amount for a hot summer day. The St. Thomas Altar-Rosary Society, which sponsored the event, would like to thank Father Daley for his cooperation and support, McDonald's Restaurant for their donation of orange drink, cups and napkins, G.E. Plastics and the Spotlight for their advertising, and the many volunteer women who supplied food and cookies for the workers and donors. Last, but not least, we would like to thank the donors themselves who are the real success of any bloodmobile visit.

Thank You, The Officers of the St. Thomas Altar Rosary

In Who's Who

Melode Elaine Goodrich, a June graduate of Bethlehem Central was recently notified that she is to be featured in the Seventh Annual Edition of WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, 1972-73, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from over 18,000 public, private, and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the book. Less than 2% of the junior and senior class students nation-wide are awarded this recognition.

Melode is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ariel L. Goodrich of 265 Kenwood Ave., Delmar. She was active in the school orchestra throughout high school and a staff member of the Oriole '73 yearbook. She has been awarded with French certificates for maintaining a 90 or better average in French I, II, and III, the Orchestra service award for 1972-1973, a New York State Regents Scholarship, and is a member of the National Honor Society, and an Honor Graduate in the Class of '73.

In addition to having her biography published in the book, Melode will also complete for one of ten $1,000.00 scholarship awards funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers" later in the academic year.

Melode plans to attend Albany Medical Center School of Nursing in the fall.

On Dean's List

Marsha Price, a student nurse at the Junior College of Albany, was named to the Dean's List with honors. Miss Price is a Licensed Practical Nurse at Albany Medical Center and will complete for Registered Nurse in 1974.

Awarded Scholarship

research fellowships this summer at the college.

The fellowships provide grant funds which permit selected students to spend the summer performing scientific research under the supervision of faculty members of the Albany Medical College.

406 KENWOOD AVE. Open Mon. thru Fri. 10-5:30 Sat. till 12 set out collection cartons in establishments in the Tri-Village area. These boxes were for sewing patterns. Again and again the boxes were filled by generous Tri-Villagers. Then the hard work began.

Each pattern was checked to be sure that all necessary pieces were intact, and the patterns were sorted, put in larger protective envelopes, labeled and filed. Now those patterns are available for the use of everyone. They are in special files in an area called the "Pattern Patch" at the Bethlehem Public Library in Delmar. Each pattern may be checked out for four weeks just like a book. It's easy, it's free; and it recycles the sewing patterns.

The Library is grateful to the Bethlehem Junior Women's Club for conceiving the Pattern Patch; for collecting the patterns; and for checking, sorting, and labeling them. Now everyone can enjoy the fruits of the labor of the Bethlehem Junior Women's Club at the Bethlehem Public Library:

The Grand Union Company is going directly to the ranch to insure adequate supplies of beef in all its stores along the Eastern Seaboard.

Ernest H. Berthold, Vice President in charge of meat merchandising for the nations ninth largest food chain, said today "Supermarkets are facing temporary shortages in the supply of beef. To ease the effect of this shortage, Grand Union has instituted a 'BEEF ACTION PROGRAM' to insure a continuing supply of quality beef in our food stores.'

Effective immediately, Mr. Berthold said, Grand Union will buy beef directly from intermediate suppliers. "This beef will be processed for us, to our rigid specifications in government inspected plants, to meet the high standards for quality beef that our customers normally expect from Grand Union," Berthold said.

The company has purchased several thousand head of cattle directly from the producer and is having them processed in various packing plants in the Midwest. First shipments of the beef have begun to arrive at Grand Union Distribution Centers in New York, Washington and Florida for distribution to the company's supermarkets.

Mr. Berthold emphasized the fact that Grand Union beef prices will continue to be in full compliance with Phase Four regulations of the Government Economic Stabilization Act.

Those regulations, Mr. Berthold pointed out, stipulate that until September 12th., fresh beef and veal may not be sold at higher than existing ceiling prices. Those prices are priminently displayed in Grand Union meat departments.

Other Phase Four regulations apply to other cuts of meat, Mr. Berthold said. "On July 18th., the Government announced new food regulations, effective through September 12th, by which food retailers are permitted to increase or decrease retail prices by the exact amount of the change in cost to us.

"If, for example, the cost to us is increased by 10¢ per pound for pork, lamb or poultry products, we are permitted to increase our retail prices by the exact amount of the cost increase: in this example, that increase would be 10¢ per pound," Mr. Berthold said.

"Should a product decrease in cost, for example by 10¢ per pound, then we must reduce our selling price by exactly 10¢ a pound."

Going directly to the ranch will cost Grand Union money, Mr. Berthold, said since the company must pay much higher rates for the beef it is purchasing than would normally be spent if the chain purchased directly from a supplier.

"Many packing houses have been closing down in recent weeks because prices charged them at source for beef and other meats have risen to a point where it has become unprofitable for them to operate," Mr. Berthold said. "This has created a severe shortage of beef and other meat products.

"By going directly to the producer Grand Union must pay the higher price for beef that packing houses have refused to pay, this is the only way that we can insure having supplies of beef in our stores to meet our customer requirements."

Mr. Berthold said that the company's 'BEEF ACTION PROGRAM' is a temporary measure to cope with the

THE "FAMILY" ARRIVES by Robert M. Shaw

"WHEN WE LEFT UGANDA I never thought we would ever get back any of the things we were leaving," the small man said, his dark eyes glowing. "But now we have so much of it back."

The statement by Sadrudin Jakhra came at the end of a painful ordeal in which he and his family were driven out of their native country, spent eight months in refugee camps and finally got the chance to come to the United States:

Tens of thousands of Asians were forced to leave Uganda under an edict by the dictator-president. "If you were not African, you could not stay," said Jakhra as he relaxed in the living room of his new home on Delaware Avenue in Delmar.

He said he had heard that many of his countrymen had been killed.

Jakhra, his wife, Sayieda, and their two sons and infant daughter arrived in Delmar July 25, and within just a few days were situated in their new house provided by the congregation of the Delmar Reformed Church.

The 26-year-old Jakhra also is responsible for a teenaged brother and sister who are living with another sister in East Greenbush. Later the teen-agers may move to Delmar because the Jakhras have more adequate living space.

Rev. David L. Cooper, one of the pastors of the church, handed the keys of the house to Jakhra only days after the dwelling was located. "Scores of people from our church — and many who are not even associated with it — put in a great amount of work to get the house ready, to collect furniture and to build up a pantry of foodstuffs for the Jakhras. This is their way of welcoming the family to our community."

As soon as living quarters were found, the church's members turned their efforts to finding a job for Jakhra, who has experience in wholesale and retail sales and in insurance.

"I really don't care what I do," Jakhra said, "just so I find a job soon and start supporting my family myself."

A SMILE FOR "MISTER JOE" — Five-year-old Karim Jakhra giggles as Joseph Gerber, minister of music at Delmar Reformed Church, introduces him to other church members. The Jakhra family came to Delmar from a refugee camp in Italy after being driven out of their native Uganda because of their Indian ancestry.

current, beef shortage, "We I have attempted to cover our normal beef requirements for the next ten to fourteen days," he noted. "After that period, it is becoming increasingly difficult to predict the status of the nations beef supply picture."

Once the present beef shortage problem is alleviated, Mr. Berthold said, Grand Union will resume its normal beef acquisition practices. Even with the new program, however, the company officer cautioned that shortages of some beef cuts may still

"By going directly to the ranch, we have to buy the entire carcus rather than sections of beef," Mr. Berthold said. "Since some beef cuts are more popular than others, it is possible that occasionally some of those cuts will not be available."

"Artists, respond!" That's the call from a group of the Bethlehem Library's friends who want to see an original piece of artistry grace some of the excess space in their new building in Delmar.

A deadline of July 31 for artists to present a sample of their work has been extended for a month by the chairlady, Mrs. Harry Posman. She notes the thousand dollars contribution goal has been reached. While only a few artists have come forth with their ideas, Mrs. Posman, active in the Capitol District area when it relates to artists, believes an extension of time and a reminder will prompt more who wish to make their talents known. Weigh-In for MDAA

Mrs. Marilyn Winig, President and Area Director of Weight Watchers of the Capital District, Inc., has announced the participation of her organization in the Annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc.

Mrs. Winig has appointed Mrs. Diane Green, Public Relations Director of Weight Watchers of the Captial District, Inc. to organize this special event during the week of August 13 thru 18, 1973. "At this time, our staff and members will weigh-in to help fight Muscular Dystrophy,' said Mrs. Winig. The nature of the program will involve the staff and members of Weight Watchers of the Capital District, Inc. in a "penny a pound" weight lost contest. This would include thousands of members from Albany, Columbia, Greene, Rensselaer, Schenectady and Schoharie Counties. The assessment is in keeping with the Weight Watchers' organization's philosophy of group participation.

On behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., Weight Watchers of the Capital District, Inc. will ask each staff and members to total their individual weight loss and say, "We love you, Weight Watchers" by giving a donation of a "penny a pound" lost to Muscular Dystrophy. "Since I am a 91 1/2 lb. loser, it will be my pleasure to present 92¢ of Weight Watchers' love to Muscular Dystrophy," said Mrs. Diane Green, Public Relations Director for the Organization. Mrs. Marilyn Winig, President and Area Director, will contribute 5¢ to the Muscular Dystrophy-Associations of America campaign for every pound lost by the Weight Watchers' organization's staff and members during this particular week.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968-today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. The American Farmer

(Editor's note: This week we begin the first of a five-part series of articles on the American farmer. The articles. furnished by DEKALB AgResearch. Inc., are designed to help increase the public's understanding of the American farmer and the importance of agriculture to our economy.)

One operates 2,000 acres. His neighbor farms one-tenth that amount. One has a master's degree. Another's education is based on experience. One is young. His neighbor' is old. One raises corn in Indiana. Another feeds cattle in Montana.

The American farmer . . . not an easy man to describe and define. But, for all their differences, they are still alike.

THE AMERICAN FARMER is a hard man to define and describe His areas of knowledge range from economics to ecology. And he must have an understanding of all these areas if he is to survive the economic and social pressures that are a part of his industry.

Above all else, they are businessmen. Knowledgeable in the dozen or so areas that it takes to be a farmer in the 70's.

This businessman is both management and labor. He's in charge of a physical plant with fixed assets often reaching $300,000 or more. Although he often feels like it, he can not strike for higher wages.

He's an efficiency expert, always trying to cut his costs and increase his slim margin of profit.

He's an investor — handling each dollar wisely, but putting it in a business that isn't known for its high rate of return.

He's an environmentalist and a conservationist, treating his resources wisely so his land will still be productive when the next man is ready for it.

He's a speculator, gambling on the weather, insects and disease. And hoping the law of supply and demand — his basic marketing tool — will treat him favorably in the market-place.

Most of all, he's an optimist — knowing that next year has to be better.

IRRIGATION IS SO IMPORTANT

With the growing season advancing toward its climax, garden crops should grow rapidly, but they require plenty of water for growth.

Most vegetables are comprised of 90 per cent or more water, so the daily water requirement is quite high.

Additional water in the form of irrigation for those gardens that tend to get dry will be well rewarded in terms of better crop quality and yields, says Prof. Ray Sheldrake of the N.Y. State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell University.

A critical time to irrigate the garden is when sweet corn, for example, begins to show tassels, and when tomatoes, cucumbers and summer squash begin to set fruit.

"A dry situation that brings about wilting of plants for four or five days is really murder on tomatoes at this time of year because such a condition often leads to dry rot or blossom end rot," Sheldrake points out.

The ideal way is to supply a fairly uniform amount of moisture to crops throughout the entire growing season to insure plant growth at a steady pace.

The best equipment to use is a garden sprinkler; irrigate the garden with about one inch of water. The amount of water can be measured easily with empty coffee cans placed around the garden during the irrigation operation; run the sprinkler until an inch of water collects in the cans.

"You cannot do an effective job of irrigation by standing there with a hose and nozzle, squirting water on the garden," Sheldrake points out. "This rarely does much more than wet the leaves and the surface of the soil."

To be effective, water should wet the soil to a depth of five to six inches; a good irrigation of this type will suffice for a week to 10 days.

"Leave the coffee cans out in the garden even when the sprinkler is not on to measure the rainwater that has fallen on the garden," Sheldrake suggests. "A vegetable garden

Question:

My parents are both deceased and it is quite important that I establish their birth, marriage and death records. Can you help me do this?

There is no central agency in the United States maintaining a file of birth, marriage or death records. We have an up to date list of every vital statistics registry in this country, and may perhaps be able to help.

Most states established their vital statistics centers after 1900; some even as early as 1850. If information is required from any state, before that state started its registry, we must write to individual counties. It is sometimes possible to locate the source of the data through World War I records, the U.S. Census records or the National Archives and Records Service.

With the information we have available plus the information you have we should be able to establish these vital statistics for you.

should receive at least one inch of rainfall every seven or 10 days at the most; if this doesn't happen, turn on the sprinkler."

Sprinklers similar to those used in commercial vegetable production will put out water in a circular pattern covering 20 to 30 feet.

If water begins to puddle during irrigation, the sprinkler is putting out water faster than the soil can take it up, so water the garden slowly, Sheldrake says.

Many gardeners think that watering is harmful when the sun is out. "This is an old wives' tale and it really doesn't make any difference at all," Sheldrake points out. "Water the garden whenever you have the time; I prefer to water in the evening or even after dark so that the efficiency of the water usage will be greater."

The oompah band comes from Willing, Bavaria and the schuhplattlers — the GETV Edelweiss group — come from nearby Bad Aibling. The dancers appeared last year at the Barnesville, Pa., Bavarian Summer Festival. The two Alpine horn players are Adolf Kierweg of Frasdorf and Franz Xaver Stadler of Grainbach.

Besides the Willing band, there will also be German bands from New York and Pennsylvania. Roving musicians will also be part of the scene along with other entertainment features including a soccer tournament and amusement rides for the youngsters Dancers from the Germania Almrausch. Poughkeepsie N.Y., will also perform on the weekends.

Emil Kronschnabl of Lautzenbach and Gustl Eich of Gstadt/Chiemsee, are the talented woodcarvers coming from Germany to head the list of area craftsmen who will be working daily. Besides the crafts, other areas of interest will include the many import gift shops and clothing stores.

The feature attraction will be the huge, new tent complete with decorations that will seat 3000. The Alpine gardens and the wine cellar, all complete with music, will add the Oktoberfest spirit. Foods will be prepared by German chefs and cooks. And a colorful coffee shop with its own outdoor garden will be another feature.

Rip Van Winkle, along with area officials, will be on hand to tap the first keg on the 17th. Rip will stay on for the rest of the fest to help entertain young and old as will Ross the Magician.

Hard Facts on SOFTBALL

There's no faltering in the home stretch for the Elsmerian in the Bethlehem Softball League. Look at these standings:

| | W | L |
|-----------------|-----|----|
| Elsmerian | 11 | 2 |
| Fireside Tavern | 8 | 5 |
| Van Curlers | 8 | 5 |
| Selkirk #2 | 6 | 7 |
| Bradt | 5 | 7 |
| D.L. Movers | 4 | 9 |
| Selkirk #1 | . 3 | 10 |

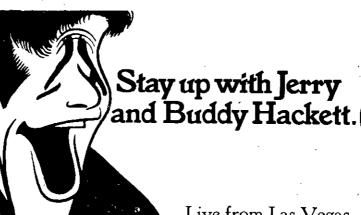

We have nine games to report, three of them were won by those wild Elsmerians. First, they took a close one from Selkirk #2 by 5-4 behind Brozowski's pitching: Jerry Zinzow and Pat Brozowski had home runs for the food specialists. This was followed by a wild 13-12 victory over D.L. Movers with Pat Brozowski again on the mound. Jerry Zinzow and Willie Arlington had their home run bats working. In another close one, Elsmerian beat out Selkirk #1 7-6 with Vic Carrk throwing. And again (it's now a habit!), Pat Brozowski got his 3rd home run in as'many games.

In the six other games, Selkirk #2 squeezed Fireside 3-2 with Bob Shultes throwing a two-hitter and Dave Nasner hitting a home run for the hosemen. In the next game, the firemen lost to the Van Curlers, 13-2 with Jim Cleary pitching for the winners.

The Movers won 9-5 over Selkirk #1 behind Don Duncan. Then the firemen lost 7-5 to Bradt. Mike Essex pitched the winner for Bradt. Ed Reed pitched the Van Curlers to a 5-1 win over second place Fireside.

Darkness was the winner in a tie game (9-9) between Bradt and the D.L. Movers.

LeVere L. Fuller Wandering & Wondering ...

WHENEVER WE HAVE BEEN CONFUSED and puzzled by news events over the past 25 years, we have finally turned to one man for clarification. His name will mean nothing to our readers but his qualifications are immense. Herbert Moore was a correspondent for one of our worldwide news services in the late 1920s and possibly into the early 30s. Then he founded Transradio Press, a news service created for the use of radio stations from coast to coast. In fact, the first newscast we ever did was based entirely on Transradio Press stories.

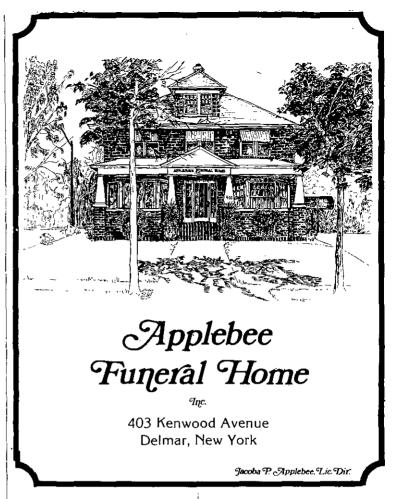

When the need for Transradio Press faded with the advent of television, Herb turned to newspaper and magazine publishing. And he's still at it today. As he approaches the ripe age of 70, his interest in national and international events is as keen as ever. Today, he lives in Warrenton, Virginia, with headquarters for his publishing in Washington, D.C.

A quarter of a century ago, we had the distinct privilege of working for, and later with, this giant in news interpreation. Much of what we gleaned about the media, we learned from Herb Moore.

For this reason, we called him last week to pick his brain on what he believes to be the truth of Watergate. Here, in essence, is his opinion:

The media and the American people have believed hat the Watergate entry and burglary were planned and xecuted to get information relative to the Presidential ampaign of 1972. Herb believes this is entirely wrong. le believes that E. Gordon Liddy, correctly or incorrectly eceived information that something wholly unrelated to he campaign was hidden in Democratic Headquarters; hat the material was so sensitive that there was no intenon of removing but only to photograph it; that Larry O'Brien knew nothing about it; that he had no responsibility for it — except that it was hidden in the Watergate suite.

If such information will ever be uncovered is unpredictable. Mr. Moore feels that Liddy could clear up the whole mess if he'd tell what he knows. At this point, that looks hopeless.

He said he believes that President Nixon is 75% innocent; that any involvement he may have had might be explained by these facts which were so true at that period of time:

- the violence by groups which appeared whenever the President made a personal appearance were completely frightening;
- 2) the bombing of public buildings had created an atmosphere of fear;
- 3) leaks to the media of supposedly confidential information and the burglary of the Pentagon Papers and their publication had left the White House people with a feeling of insecurity;
- 4) that the non-involvement of the President (and perhaps Haldeman and Erlichman) was not because they are morally incapable of doing wrong but because of a much more practical reason: the President was too busy with foreign matters which were occupying his time; also, that the pressures in the White House are such that both Haldeman and Erlichman may very well not have had any involvement in Watergate or the subsequent cover-up.

That about sums up our long distance phone conversation — and by this point we were well over our budget — zilch!

MR. ROLAND MADDEN, Director St. Paul's Christian Day Care Center 475 State St., Albany, N.Y. 12203 We'd like to thank Mr. Moore for his observations which differ widely with all that we have read. It seems to us that the news media are almost unanimous in their condemnation of anyone even remotely connected with the President — and the President himself.

As the mud continues to fly in the Senate Caucus Room, the confusion mounts directly in relation to the mud.

WE HAD HARDLY FINISHED THE ABOVE paragraphs when the President, Vice President and others who are, or have been, in high places were directly linked with the ITT scandal and the FBI was accused of tampering with a Federal criminal trial. No matter how much information one can gather, any conclusions go up in smoke almost before they can be put on paper — one scandal after another keeps breaking and each one seems to tip an already lop-sided scales further.

Just how much further can it go.. how much more disillusionment can the American people absorb?

One trouble that plagues the White House is the fact that true or not, the inferences and accusations seem both valid and with foundation. If true, we are indeed in trouble; if untrue, we are slowly assassinating a President by unbearable torture.

And who is to say what is truth? Every day witnesses who have sworn to tell the truth, tell fabulous lies in an attempt at saving their own miserable skins. Even those who may be telling the truth are doubted — and no matter how carefully you watch the witnesses' faces, we defy anyone to make a judgment on what is truth and what is a lie.

We'd be less than truthful if we claimed to have never told a lie. But "to our best recollection," the only one hurt was us! The lies being told in Washington seem to be contrived to hurt anyone who gets in the way.

Time was, (only a few months ago) when we looked upon Watergate and its related messes as the result of what one political party had pulled on the other — except that the Republicans got caught with their hands in the cookie jar. Today, as it all slowly, painfully unfolds, it turns out to be much more than that. Any one of these messes (by itself) could have been told and we're sure that the American people would have gotten over it rather quickly. But as these almost-daily unveilings of new scandals unfold, somehow our head just won't turn aside — can't forgive and forget quickly.

It is bad that it is all coming out so fast — but what if it never came out?

And as we listen and read, we cannot help but wonder what there was that has been successfully covered up in the administrations of the past 30-40 years?

It has been established (supposedly) that President Roosevelt had a girl friend; that President Truman sold haberdashery; President Ike shut his eyes; President Kennedy walked with a cane; and President Johnson had Congress in the palm of his hand. What else?
