Spotlight CALENDAR

ABOUT THE CALENDAR

The information printed in this column is a FREE service to Spotlight readers. We neither charge nor receive any fee for publicizing these events. It is for this reason that we ask those who send in information to make sure that it is complete; we cannot (repeat: CANNOT) make weekly changes in running announcements.

Because the Calendar condenses the coming event in capsule form, it has become one of the most widely-read weekly Spotlight features. It was so designed to allow for more space for additional features. Therefore, organizations should not expect to find a duplication of facts in another place. If we were to run all of the events twice, we'd be cutting down on our available space and thereby defeat the whole concept.

At Hertz we buy new cars every year.

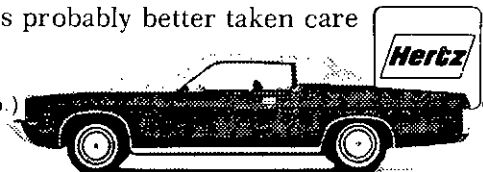

So we always have last year's models to sell. Chevrolets that are just one year old or less. Our stock includes a wide choice of sedans, hard-tops.

And our cars have been washed, serviced and checked out after they have been driven.

In fact, the used car you buy from us was probably better taken care of than any car you've owned yourself.

Three New Teachers

The Business Education Department at Bethlehem Central High School has three new members this year, Merle E. Miller, Chairman of the Department, announced this week.

With the resignation of Hugh J. Brown from the High School staff, Mrs. Barbara D. Linford was appointed to teach consumer education and distributive education. Mrs. Linford is a graduate of Utah State University, and she has taught in Utah and Ohio before moving to Albany last February. She has three children who attend the Guilderland Central School, while her husband is busy with the Automation of the library at SUNY at Albany.

Mrs. Sue Ralston of Ravena, is teaching part time because of added enrollment in the High School business department. She will teach book-keeping, personal typing and business law. Mrs. Ralston is a graduate of Montclair State College, Montclair, New Jersey and has her Master's degree from SUNY at Albany. Her two children attend Ravena-Coeymans Central School where her husband is a business teacher and head football coach. Mrs. Ralston and her husband are co-owners of Hannacroix Paso Finus stables, Caribbean-area gaited horses.

At the Middle School, Mrs. Eleanor Tomiko has been appointed to the vacancy occasioned by the retirement of Mrs. Doris Stephany. Mrs. Tomiko is a graduate of SUNY at Albany where she was a member of Pi Omega Pi, the honorary Business Education Fraternity. Mrs. Tomiko has had wide experience in business, and decided to enter education as her family was leaving school.

The American Farmer

(Editor's note: This is the fifth and final article in a series on the American farmer. The articles, furnished by DEKALB AgResearch, Inc., were written to help increase the public's understanding of the American farmer and the importance of agriculture to our economy.)

Efficiency is the name of the game. The gap between costs and prices represents profit. It's this gap that every farmer tries to keep as wide as possible.

The farmer has little control over the prices he receives. He can protect himself by hedging in the futures market, but this market, in itself, reflects a totally free supply-demand situation. Another alternative is to contract for sale of his crops, but when he does this he often trades off opportunity for top profits in favor of security.

Since the market doesn't respond to the farmer's wish, the most practical means of is to keep his production costs as low as possible. This is hard to do when the costs of his inputs keep rising. For example, between 1957-59 and 1969, farmers were faced with a 77 percent increase in hired wage rates, a 33 percent increase in the price of motor vehicles and a 106 percent increase in taxes.

Faced with a situation like this, farmers have been forced to seek efficiency — or else stop playing the game!

Even with recent increases in prices of agricultural commodities, the average income of the American farmer is still below that of his urban neighbors. In 1972, disposable income per farmer was still only 78 percent of that enjoyed by nonfarmers. It's ironic that this is the way the American farmer is rewarded for his increase in productivity--an increase that far exceeds the increases in productivity of both his blue-collar and white-collar neighbors.

The cost-price squeeze is making it difficult for young farmers to get started. A recent study in Illinois found that nearly 20 percent of the farm boys who entered farming during the period 1945-54 failed to make it in that vocation.

Food prices have been drawing headlines recently. But, compared to income and increased prices of other products, food is still a bargain.

Given recent increases in food prices, it is a fact that these prices are lower now, in proportion to expendable income, than ever before in history. For example, consumer income increased 63 percent in the 1960's while the food expenditures were up only 31 percent during the same period. Income less food expenditures was up $960 or 73 percent. Still, someone has to absorb the blame when prices do climb.

The farmer is seldom the cause of such increases, and he seldom benefits from an increase. He receives an average of 40 cents out of each dollar spent on food at the grocery store--the remainder goes for processing and marketing. Compare this 40 cents to the 50 cents he received from each food dollar in 1947-49.

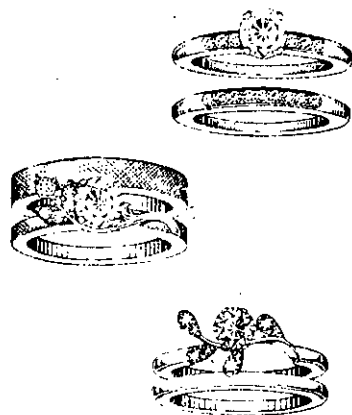

Because of the many steps involved in food production, perhaps no one segment can be saddled with the blame when food prices rise. But keep in mind that the farmer does not willfully cause food prices to increase. He does not set the price on his goods at the marketplace. What he sells for a profit today may bring him a loss next week because of the simple economic law of supply and demand. How many other segments of our economy are willing to settle for that kind of security?

He's likely to continue to decrease in number unless the rules of the game change. The relentless pressures of economies of scale, increasing technological complexities, high "start up" costs, and his minority political position combine to suggest that farms of the future will be fewer and bigger. But he's not going to be driven off by big, vertically integrated conglomerates. He's too tough a competitor, too flexible, too dedicated, for them.

He's important to America. He has made it possible for Americans to eat the best food at the lowest price in the world, and he is by far our biggest producer of foreign exchange. He's tired of being criticized because government production controls are necessary to avoid disastrous overproduction. Instead of being appreciated because he produces food at the lowest cost in the world, he hears demands for price controls when the price of his product starts moving upward for the first time in 20 years.

The United States faces a national policy choice: To continue to encourage him, to help him survive as the world's most efficient food producer; or, by shortsightedness, to force him into the control of marketing conglomerates through the ruthless economic pressures of disastrous overproduction.

Many in agriculture, including DEKALB AgResearch, strongly support national policy that (a) helps him avoid overproduction and unfair prices, (b) helps him get credit on reasonable terms, (c) makes new technology available to him and (d) encourages the development of readily available, competitive markets for his products.

Let us all salute the American farmer ... the world's most important businessman. His amazing ability to produce has been a strong and positive force in the world economy.

Michelin Radials last twice as long as bias-ply tires.

An average driver will run up about 10,000 miles a year. At that rate, you can count on at least 4 years, or 40,000 miles from a Michelin steel belted radial tire. About double what you can expect from a bias-ply tire.

Why? Because they run cooler and reduce the risk of heat blowouts. They're flexible. And they absorb jolts like a cushion. You'll even save gas because they roll easier. Look into Michelin radial tires today.

Open House

Has the crisp fall air and the fruit stands laden with juicy red-cheeked apples and golden pumpkins put you in the mood for fall picture taking. Autumn's fashion show of color is just around the corner:

Be photographically prepared this year by attending Delmar Camera Club's annual Community Open House to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 25, at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Come any time after 8 P.M., browse, talk to club members, view the displays of black and white prints, enjoy the colored slide presentations and ask questions. Whether your hobby is photography or you're just interested in viewing others' efforts, you'll find your time well spent. And there will be refreshments, too! All are welcome. Club members are urged to arrive early with pictures for exhibit.

All About Scouting

Training in Scout program skills was experienced by more than 2,000 Scouts during the summer at the Camps operated by the Governor Clinton Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to James Beck, Scout Executive.

As part of their year round camping program, 100 Scout troops attended the camps including one of the newly formed Scout troops for handicapped boys.

gram for Albany, Rensselaer and Columbia Counties and has a current Scout membership of about 11,000. It operates two, year-round camps; Camp Stratton a 2,000 acre wilderness area in the Green Mountains of Vermont and Camp Rotary, a 1500 acre facility in Rensselaer County.

In addition to the regular summer camping program, over 200 area Scouts attended the week long National Scout Jamboree at Moraine State Park in Pennsylvania and another 100 Scouts traveled to the National Scout Camp in Philmont, New Mexico.

"All of these types of camping experiences are highlights for the program of the troops. Scouts learn and apply the skills they have been dreaming about all year, and it's a year's worth of adventure compressed into a week or so," the Scout Executive explained.

As a part of the Council Camping Program, some 20 needy Scouts were provided financial assistance under the Council campership program, so that they could attend a Scout camp.

Beck also said that a special School Night to Join Scouting will be held on October 3 at public schools throughout the Capital District area to enable boys and their parents to find out more about the Scout program in their neighborhood and join their local Cub Pack or Scout Troop.

"Last year over 1,000 new Scouts joined on School Night and 12 brand new units had to be established. We anticipate an even larger turn-out this year as more and more boys discover the many programs and adventures that Scouting has to offer," Beck said.

HUNTER TRAINING

With the small game and waterfowl seasons opening on October first throughout most of upstate New York, hunters will be rushing in to renew their hunting licenses during the next several weeks.

To keep the ranks of hunters filled this year, some 90,000 aspiring hunters must successfully complete the required hunter safety course before they can qualify for their license.

If you are one of these new hunters don't put off taking the training until the last moment. Instructors of these courses are all volunteers who are also ardent hunters so it is quite understandable that they plan to schedule their instruction prior to the hunting season.

These 4,200 instructors work closely with the Department of Environmental conservation to help insure that a uniform program is being given but they are strictly on their own when it comes to scheduling classes. In most cases, it is an activity of a local sportsmen's club, so if you do not see announcements of hunter training classes in the local newspaper contact your nearest sportsmen's club. The local environmental conservation officer has no official activity in these courses but through contact with the organizations, most know of classes. He certainly can give you the names and addresses of key sportsmen in the community who could answer your inquiry.

When the hunter training program started in 1949, it applied only to those who were age 17 or younger. The marked reduction in hunting accidents that occurred following the inauguration of the course prompted many other states to develop similar ones. New York has now expanded its program.

When the program first started, it was strictly a hunter safety program. Many instructors were distressed at the steady increase in the amount of posting of private land caused by hunters who did not have the traditional hunting ethic of respect for the landowner, the land, other hunters and the game itself. They began incorporating some of this into our program and it spread until it is now a vital part of the course. Safety is in no way downgraded but it is stressed that the hunter without a good hunting ethic is the hunter who is causing the posting which could mean an end to the hunting in much of the more populated areas of the northeast.

Many people are not aware that the Penal Law sets forth the basic regulation governing the use of firearms by those under 16 years. With two exceptions, it clearly states that it is unlawful for anyone to sell or give any firearm, air or spring gun or ammunition thereof to any person under 16 years of age.

The Penal Law permits 12 to 16 year olds to receive instruction from duly qualified adults on a regular rifle range using rifles no larger than .22 calibre rim fire. It is this authority that makes possible the firearms programs given at many summer camps, schools and sportsmen's clubs.

The other exception is Section 11-0929 of the Environmental Conservation Law. This permits 14 and 15 year olds who have successfully completed their four-hour training program to obtain a hunting license. The license must be signed by the minor's parent or guardian before the issuing agent. It is valid in the field only when he is accompanied by his parent or guardian who holds a license to hunt or is accompanied by a license holder of at least 21 years of age who is designated in writing by the parent as being responsible for the minor's supervision.

Safe hunting habits are not acquired in a four-hour class. Safe practices may be learned but it takes many days in the field with careful practice before they become safe habits. The adult accompanying the young hunter should always be close enough so that he can give the proper supervision. It is not only an ideal learning situation for the minor but is an opportunity without equal for father and son to work together and get to know each other better.

Learn to Sew with Knits

Whether you have a basic knowledge of sewing or are already an accomplished seamstress, you now have an opportunity to learn the special techniques that make knit sewing simple and thereby reduce the time ordinarily required to construct knit sewing. During this 10-week course, you will learn to make trim-fitting pants, a T-shirt, dress, suit jacket, pull-over and cardigan sweaters, vest. Classes will be primarily demonstrations with work sessions interspersed.

You Can Beat Jack Frost

Gardeners faced with a killing frost and vines loaded with unripened tomatoes may be able to salvage some of them for later eating, advises a Cornell University specialist.

After all the green tomato pickles and relishes have been made, additional green tomatoes can be picked and stored for later ripening, says Prof. Leonard D. Topoleski of the vegetable crops department at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell.

Green tomatoes should be picked before the first killing frost and should be stored in a dark place at a temperature of about 55 degrees. Then, as needed, a few of the tomatoes can be moved to a 70 degree temperature for ripening.

"With luck, fresh tomatoes from the garden may be served with Thanksgiving dinner," Topoleski said. "Sometimes, they make it to Christmas," he added.

Winter squash and pumpkins don't present the problems that tomatoes do, Topoleski said, but they should be picked, also, before a heavy frost. The secret of long storage with these vegetables, he said, is to cut the stem from the vine as fruit without a stem will not store well.

They should be harvested after they have developed the appropriate color for the va-

Jerry Salata will again conduct his always oversubscribed Pottery and Ceramics class. Patsy Morris will teach Painting and Drawing emphasizing technique, composition and sketching. Marge Foster of the Bethlehem Art Association, will teach painting with an orientation to experimentation and also a course in oils and acrylics.

Question:

I have been receiving a monthly benefit from my deceased husband's Social Security earnings. I am going to marry a man who is also receiving Social Security. Will each of us continue to receive benefits?

Answer:

Yes, but the amount will not be the sum of the amounts you are now receiving individually. The income provisions applicable under the old law have been revised and improved.

Under the present law, if you are both over age 60 when you marry, the amount your husband is receiving will remain the same. You will receive whichever of the following benefits is larger:

1. One half of the retirement benefit of your deceased husband — or
2. A wife's benefit based upon the earnings of your prospective husband.

will be offered at the Center this fall, Samuel Kurzon, Executive

State Conference

The New York State Conference of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City from September 26 through September 28. Mrs. George U. Baylies of Scarsdale, the State Regent, will preside at the business sessions. A highlight of the conference will be a tea and reception at the Morris-Jumel Mansion on the last day.

Albany delegates from the Tawasentha Chapter will be Mrs. Robert H. Taylor, Regent; Mrs. Everett S. Willoughby, Vice-Regent; and Mrs. Robert A. Jackson, Chaplain. Two other members of Tawasentha Chapter are members of State Committees with Mrs. Hildreth C. Bailey serving as Chairman of the New York State DAR Student Loan and Scholarship Fund, and Mrs. Alice H. Anderson as a member of the American History and Awards Committee.

Car Pools and Insurance

School days may be the "good old Golden Rule days," but they are also car pool days.

Once again, as schools throughout New York get into full swing, mothers are banding together in driver groups to transport their kids back to the world of the three Rs.

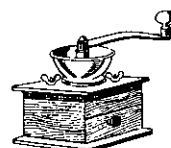

At the same time, the current gasoline shortage and heightened concern over air pollution have sparked a resurgence of interest in share-the-ride plans among New York commuters.

Joining a car pool can be a convenience and a time and money saver — as well as a way of improving the quality of our air, but many people are reluctant to enter such arrangements.

They fear they will expose themselves to a lawsuit which won't be covered by their regular auto insurance.

The Insurance Information Institute advises that, in terms of insurance coverage, car poolers probably have nothing to worry about. However, a few words of caution and explanation are in order.

Insurance on a privately owned, pool-shared vehicle is placed in jeopardy only if the pool is operated for a profit. In the situation where everyone in the pool uses his car an equal amount of time there is, of course, no problem.

The problem most often arises when one of the car pool participants does not share in the driving chores and thus pays a regular fee.

To preserve insurance coverage, the Institute points out, any car pool fee should not be more than the fair share of the gas, oil and general depreciation on the car. A simpler way for the non-sharing passengers to reimburse the pool members is to give a gift sometime during the year to the drivers.

This divorces the concept of "fee" from the privilege of riding in a car pool and leaves the insurance protection intact.

In the case of car pools involving children, the Institute stresses the importance of wearing seat belts not only to protect the children in the case of an accident but also to prevent the kind of antics that

ALBANY COUNTY LEGISLATURE CANDIDATES — Residents of the Town of Bethlehem, with the exception of the first and tenth districts in parts of Slingerlands and North Bethlehem, will have an opportunity to vote for these three Republican candidates: left to right, Earl Robinson, Ed Sargent and Bernie Kaplowitz. During the current year, Albany County legislative districts were redistricted according to the 1970 census figures. As a result, the Town of Bethlehem will have three full representatives instead of the previous two. Bernie Kaplowitz joins incumbent candidates Robinson and Sargent. The new districts now break down as follows: 34th Legislative District, Earl Robinson — 2, 9, 12, 15, 16 and 18th Election Districts; 35th, Bernie Kaplowitz — 8, 11, 13, 14 and 17th Election Districts; 36th, Ed Sargent — 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 19th Election Districts.

Father Joe to Leave

The Reverend Joseph Milillo will be honored with a farewell tea on Sunday, September 23, from 2-5 P.M. The tea is being sponsored by Saint Patrick's Rosary Altar Society, The Parent Student Association, The Catholic Daughters, and the Knights of Columbus, and will be held in Saint Patrick's School Hall. Father Milillo has served in the priesthood for over 42 years, and 12 of these years have been spent in Ravena. Father is now retiring and will sail for Italy, his native homeland on September 28. Area residents have fondly called him Father Joe and over the years he has gained many friends. Everyone will miss Father Joe and will certainly give him a very warm send off on Sunday.

At Seminar

Joseph DiPerna, a member of the RCS School Board, attended the seminar for new school board members presented by the New York State School Boards Association on September 7 and 8 in Albany.

The seminar program emphasized the role of the school board as a corporate body and the importance of setting policy for the district. Filmed case studies of school board problems were seen and discussed as part of the two-day program. Other topics covered in the program included school finance, school board-employee relations, public information responsibilities, and the role of the chief school administrator.

The New York State School Boards Association, which represents the publicly selected leadership of nearly 3,500,000 school children in the state, has its headquarters in Albany. Its staff is headed by executive director Donald G. Brossman.

Communion Dinner

The Rosary Altar Society of Saint Patrick's Church will hold its annual Communion Dinner on October 1, following a six o'clock Mass. A roast beef dinner will be served at the Star Lite Lounge, Orchard Avenue, Ravena, at 7 P.M. The price of the dinner is $5 per person and reservations must be made by September 23. For reservations, call one of the following: Mae Himes — 756-6986; Clara Doherty — 756-6220; Rae Nolan — 756-2670; St. Patrick's Rectory — 756-8534.

As an example, says the Institute, limits of $300,000/$500,000 would provide up to $300,000 coverage for one injury in an accident with a $500,000 per accident limit.

Medical payments is another important coverage. If written with limits of $1,000, each person in the car can receive up to $1,000 for medical expenses incurred within one year of an accident regardless of who is at fault. The Institute emphasizes that because the dollar limit applies to each passenger separately, there is no need to increase the limits in order to cover additional passengers.

BUMPERS—The 1973 Capris have substantially improved impact resistant front and rear bumpers. Specifically, the bumpers meet 1973 Federal standards for up to 5 mph frontal impact protection and up to 2.5 mph rear impact protection straight into a flat, vertical fixed barrier without preventing normal operation of the car's latching, fuel, cooling and exhaust systems or of the propulsion, suspension, steering and braking systems. Tests show that, with bumper guards, no substantial damage to sheet metal should result from such a barrier impact at or below these speeds.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968—today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. # Wandering & Wondering . . .

OUR PICTURE EDITORIAL about the inadequate drains at the underpass on Elsmere Avenue caused a stir, as witness this letter:

Dear Mr. Fuller:

I most emphatically take exception to part of your Picture Editorial in the September 6, 1973 issue of the Spotlight, the part in which you refer to the Police Dept., Auxiliary Police, etc.

On that Friday evening I had just returned from Dover, Delaware about ten minutes before the storm hit. After letting things settled in the house I noticed some activity in the corner of Herber & Elsmere Avenues (three houses away) so I went down there. On arrival I saw a car being towed out of the water from under the railroad bridge, and was told by a neighbor that the car had been knocked into the water by the car behind it whose brakes failed from being wet.

Being a member of the Auxiliary Police (though not acting in that capacity as we had not been called out) I took over the task of diverting the traffic from the underpass. There was at that time flares in the road and traffic cones from the Elsmere Fire Dept. blocking the road to the underpass.

I sent my nephew back to my car for my orange raincoat and more flares and I was at that intersection for over two hours diverting traffic until the flood water receded. While there, I could see a Bethlehem Police Car and at least eight flares lit and constantly replaced, on the Delaware Ave. side of the underpass. However, in spite of a man, flares and traffic cones, I had motorists drive over the flares and argue why they couldn't drive through.

You state in one paragraph that "the roads were hazardous both because of the flooding and wind-felled trees and tree limbs" (you forgot to also mention power lines down) and in another paragraph dealing with the underpass you ask "Where were the Police?" They were very busy taking care of the roads that were hazardous from the trees and power lines, and policing other related emergency situations. Twice, while I was diverting traffic away from the flood water, the Police on their way to other calls stopped to ask if I was all right and if I needed anything.

I feel we have a damn good Police Dept. in the Town of Bethlehem, and think they should be complimented for their work rather than knocked.

Very truly yours,
John C. Rapp

We will go along with most of Mr. Rapp's letter — except where he is in error. Let's take them one at a time.

The point of disagreement centers on one word: time. When Mr. Rapp arrived on the scene, three cars had already been victims of the flooded area. This first one had been towed away before the next two hit the water — and at this time, there were no cones, no flares — and no police. We did not say that no one showed up. We said that there was no warning until after three cars had been victims. The difference here being that the police knew of this hazard and therefore should have been of immediate concern. Power lines and trees must necessarily be reported because there is no way of telling where they'll come down — but during the past 35 years, Elsmere Avenue underpass hasn't moved an inch — and it has been a continual hazard.

ANOTHER LETTER RECEIVED this week was written by Al Kellert and is directed to the many, many area bike riders:

Dear Mr. Fuller,

Do you like "Get Well Cards?" Or perhaps, if you try real hard, you might even earn a sympathy card for your family. There is a guaranteed manner in which anyone can get: one or two broken arms, one or two broken legs, a broken neck or a broken back, a ride in an ambulance, a room in a hospital, a doctor, a nurse, a cast, tons of pain and suffering.

Here are the simple rules. First you must be a BIKE rider, must own a BIKE and be extremely careless how you handle your BIKE. For example, barrel out of the driveway as fast as possible. If you do not have a driveway, then pedal quickly as possible from whatever starting point you choose. When you enter the street, road or highway, never, never look left or right to check traffic. Just keep going, preferably with eyes closed.

Once on the highway: ignore all traffic lights, stop signs at intersections and always ride your BIKE on the wrong side of the road even if you know where the right side is "Hiding" out of sight.

Race as often as possible with other friendly BIKERS, especially down-hill. While engaging in this fascinating sport, try "No Hands." That's cool, man. And a real winner.

Be absolutely certain your BIKE does not have a rear reflector, a front light, a horn or good brakes. Especially good brakes.

If you see a car or truck coming at you or behind you, pay no attention to that vehicle. Just close your eyes and pump away. The point is to keep going without precaution.

Never ride your BIKE slowly. That would take the fun out of BIKING, would protect your health and well being, would give you a good muscle-buildup and most important of all would keep your BIKE under control. Who needs it?

Try to hit a few pedestrians now and then. That's great sport and a good way to test the ability of your BIKE to withstand a face-to-face confrontation with human flesh. You might even be lucky and send an elderly person to the hospital. Of course, the sidewalk, where BIKES don't belong, would be a good hunting ground.

Never, never allow a car or truck to pass you. Always zig zag in and out in front of the vehicle. That's great fun and always irritates the operator of the vehicle. He should not be on the road anyway.

Look for rocks, wood, bumps on the street or in the road. Try to hit'em or run over'em. This is always sure-fire sport and usually throws you off the BIKE, on the pavement and may even render you unconscious.

Leave your BIKE anywhere, anytime and never, never lock it securely. You might get lucky, lose it to a quick thief and in that case you'll never make the hospital in the first place.
