For once let the bank come to you.

Let's face it — there are times it's easier to let the post office do your walking for you. Now you can do your banking in the comfort of your home or office . . . with a CSB Bank-By-Mail checking account. And CSB will make things even easier by paying postage both ways.

You'll get a statement every month if you open a regular or business account, or a quarterly statement if you open a personal or 62+ account.

With banking by mail, paid postage and regular statements, the Bank-By-Mail account figures out to be the easiest checking account around.

Opening a Bank-By-Mail account is as simple as calling CSB or stopping in at our nearest office.

So sit down and let the bank come to you with a Bank-By-Mail account! We understand how you appreciate life's little conveniences. We understand, because at CSB . . . People Are Our Business.

Spotlight CALENDAR

ABOUT THE CALENDAR

The information printed in this column is a FREE service to Spotlight readers. We neither charge nor receive any fee for publicizing these events. It is for this reason that we ask those who send in information to make sure that it is complete; we cannot (repeat: CANNOT) make weekly changes in running announcements.

Because the Calendar condenses the coming event in capsule form, it has become one of the most widely-read weekly Spotlight features. It was so designed to allow for more space for additional features. Therefore, organizations should not expect to find a duplication of facts in another place. If we were to run all of the events twice, we'd be cutting down on our available space and thereby defeat the whole concept.

Tri-Village FISH — Call 439-3578 for voluntary service — 24 hours a day the year 'round — offered by residents of Delmar, Elsmere and Slingerlands to their neighbors in need of help in any emergency.

Bethlehem Jaycees meet second and fourth Wednesdays of the month, 8 P.M., Center Inn, 9W, Glenmont.

Welcome Wagon — Newcomers and mothers of new babies call 785-9640, Mon. thru Sat., 8:30 A.M.-6:00 P.M. so you may have a Welcome Wagon call.

Bethlehem Memorial Auxiliary to Post #3185, Veterans of Foreign Wars, meets the third Monday of every month, at the Post Rooms, 404 Delaware Ave., Delmar.

RE-ELECT

MARION T. CAMP
Town Clerk

Marian T. Camp seeks a second term as Town Clerk of the Town of Bethlehem. She has been serving in Town government for over 10 years and has amply demonstrated her ability to handle the intricate affairs of the Town Clerk's Office. Her experience qualifies her for your support for this important Town position.

Mrs. Camp has lived in the Town of Bethlehem for over 27 years and she and her family have been very active in the growth and development of the community and its civic affairs.

Mrs. Camp resides at 502 Delaware Avenue, Delmar, with her husband, Donald.

KOHINKE Supervisor

Bertram E. Kohinke — for re-election as Supervisor. During the past 14 years, under his stewardship, the Town of Bethlehem has become a model for suburban towns throughout New York State. He has attracted and surrounded himself with an efficient and experienced staff to handle the every-day complex business of the Town.

Bert Kohinke has grown with the concept of Good Government in Action which he helped found. He has given unstintingly of his time and talent to encourage in his co-workers the same high idealism and dedication to principle that has guided him throughout his years as Chief Executive Officer of the Town. He has earned the high esteem with which he is held both in the Town and by the State Officials with whom he comes in frequent contact. He deserves your continued support.

Mr. Kohinke and his wife, Eva, reside at 16 Snowden Avenue, Elsmere.

The Shortage Is Real

The Bethlehem Central School District has already taken steps to conserve fuel oil in district buildings, after receiving notice that there may be a shortage in its anticipated supply.

The supplier of #4 fuel oil for the State contract for Albany County schools has apparently withdrawn his bid, so the district at present has no supplier for the High School, or the Hamagrael and Glenmont elementary schools.

Main Brothers has a second State contract for #4 fuel oil, and will supply the Middle School, and the Clarks-ville, Elsmere, and Slinger-lands elementary schools — but only in the amounts supplied to those buildings last year. (The Delmar Elementary School is heated by gas.)

Superintendent Lawrence Zinn reported to the Board of Education at its meeting last week that, "We are pursuing all known avenues to try to secure fuel or a commitment to supply fuel." In the meantime, he said, as of this week, the temperature level in each building will be reduced to about 68 degrees. All parents have been notified of this action by building principals, and have been advised to have their children wear sweaters and warm footwear.

Possible steps to be taken later, if a sufficient supply of fuel oil can't be obtained, are: 1) A cutback of extra-curricular activities to conserve heat for a minimum school day, 2) a shortened school day, or 3) closing of schools entirely for a period of time.

A boiler maintenance program was instituted in the school district in September, so they should be operating at maximum efficiency. Even when the buildings are unoccupied, a minimum level of fuel must be left in the tanks to prevent damage.

All district residents will be kept informed of the status of the fuel oil supply to the school district.

"Listening Session"

Residents of the Bethlehem Central School District are advised to mark the date, Wed., Dec. 5, and plan to attend a budgetary "listening session" to be held that evening by the Board of Education.

Such a session was held for the first time last year, and Board members found it helpful to hear from district citizens on their budget priorities, early in the budget-making process.

The "listening session" will begin at 8 P.M., at the Educational Services Center, 90 Adams Pl., Delmar.

Mrs. McGibbon Honored

Mrs. Margaret McGibbon, who retired last June after serving as a guidance counselor at the Bethlehem Central Middle School for ten years, was recently named "Outstanding Counselor of the Year" for the 1972-73 school year, by a local organization.

The award was made to Mrs. McGibbon by the Capital District Personnel and Guidance Association at a dinner meeting held on Oct. 18. This marks the first time a member of the Bethlehem Central guidance department has received the annual award from the organization which has more than 100 members.

"Pops" Concert

On Thursday, Nov. 8, at 8 P.M., the Bethlehem Central High School Music Department will present its annual Fall "Pops" Concert in the High School auditorium.

The concert will include instrumental and vocal ensembles, performing both light and serious works, under the direction of Mr. Gangi, Mr. Farrell and Mr. Bozzella.

The public is cordially invited and tickets ($1.00) will be sold at the door.

Shoplifting Discussed

Distributive Education teachers in the area were invited to Columbia High School on Thursday, October 11, for a meeting to discuss the problems of shoplifting. Robert A. Pierson, Coordinator of Distributive Education at Bethlehem Central High School, and Alan Hilchie, of Hilchie's Hardware attended the session.

Gary Marcus of Columbia High School was the host for the meeting where William Plimley of the New York State Bureau of Distributive Education was the leader.

The problem of shoplifting is a large one for both the businessman and the consumer. This meeting was an effort to improve the teaching of this topic as a part of the subject matter of the distributive education courses. Materials suitable to classroom use were distributed and dis-

Look what we found! IN THE MAILBAG

Dear Sir:

I am concerned that many voters may not realize that it is necessary to vote "Yes" on LOCAL LAW NUMBER TWO on Election Day to make the new County Charter a reality.

I urge everyone to bear in mind the title LOCAL LAW NUMBER TWO is the new Albany County Charter.

Sincerely,
Earl J. Robinson
Albany County Legislator
37th (new 34th) District

(An open letter to Bethlehem Supervisor Bertram E. Kohinke.)

Dear Mr. Kohinke:

Having spent six months studying the Town Board and its related meetings, I would be remiss not to comment on the recent statements that summerize the Board action as simply casting unanimous votes.

An indepth five-year study, 1967 to 1971, of the Town Board revealed:

— The vast majority of the votes concern bids for equipment and supplies that were reviewed by the appropriate town departments. Unanimous votes also included motions to seek new bids for quotes considered excessive.

— Between June 1, 1967 to May 31, 1971, sixty-three public meetings were held to solicit opinions of residents on actions that have a direct impact on the local communities.

Almost fifty percent of these meetings involved traffic, water and sewers. The majority addressed the extension of the water to other areas of the town and doubling of the filtration and water softening system.

Forty percent of the remaining public hearings concerned the residential nature of the Town. Here, planned residential districts were the principal subject. With the consent of the North Bethlehem residents, construction of a ten million dollar complex was approved. The second planned residential district, Lake Shore at Delmar, established the standard that future districts must meet. Investigation showed the original announcement called for a population density of 11.40 families per acre. The final plan had a density of 3.5 per acre and contained a provision that a large parcel of land will remain "forever green".

— In the five year period only three people spoke at a public hearing opposing the preliminary town budget. Thirty-one residents voiced approval.

Research of town records should be impartial. How those facts are interpreted often depends on whose ox is being gored.

Sincerely,
James C. Ross

STATEMENT
by incumbent candidate for Bethlehem Supervisor, Bertram E. Kohinke

Michael Bergan, the Democratic candidate for Supervisor of the Town of Bethlehem, has made totally irresponsible and unsupported statements charging me with a conflict of interest and violation of the Town Code of Ethics arising from alleged sales of tires to Callanan Road Improvement Company and J. H. Maloy, Inc.

These charges are completely untrue and as Mr. Bergan knows, or should know as an attorney, there is not one scintilla of evidence of any wrong doing whatsoever either by me or the companies which are the butt of Mr. Bergan's false insinuations.

Here are the facts. I am and have been a consultant to Albany Tire, Inc., an Albany tire distributor. For 35 years I was associated with another tire distributor, becoming vice-president and general manager before the company was sold in 1965. I am knowledgeable about the tire business and as a consultant to Albany Tire, Inc. have made numerous recommendations as to quality and service.

To state, as Mr. Bergan has, that I "mis-used my office in forcing businessmen with town contracts to buy tires from me or else" is as ludicrous as it is false. I do not have the authority to award town contracts. They may only be awarded by the town board after competitive bidding procedures, which incidentally are reviewable by the State Comptroller, have been complied with and they are then awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. It is true that in some instances the Callanan Road Improvement Company and the Maloy Company have been low bidders and have been awarded town contracts. However, those contracts have only been awarded after public advertising for bids, the public opening of such bids and the awards made publicly by the Town Board in regular session. In no instance has there ever been any impropriety in the awarding of town contracts nor have threats ever been made by myself or anyone else connected with town government in relation to either the awarding or cancellation of such contracts. I have not received one cent from Callanan Road Improvement Company, J. H. Maloy, Inc. or any other company in relation to the awarding of any such contracts.

Knowing full well that all facets of town government are above reproach and that there are no valid issues, these insinuations are a desperate effort on the part of the Democratic candidate to smear myself and mislead the voters into believing there is wrongdoing where in fact none exists.

Dear Sir:

Are the voters in the Town of Bethlehem really supposed to be fooled by the recent announcement of the formation of an independent Democratic Party?

Wasn't the Bethlehem Town Democratic Chairman appointed by "Uncle Dan"? Wasn't it necessary to obtain his approval of the present Democratic candidate for town supervisor?

The candidates for the County Legislature were actually chosen by the Democratic County Committee!

Even the creation of this "new machine" required the approval of "Uncle Dan," as stated in The Times Union on October 19, 1973.

The same ruse was attempted not long ago by the Democrats in the Town of Colonie. Some time ago, two Democrats were elected to the Albany County Legislature while proclaiming their independence. The past two years proved they weren't allowed to vote independently as

Dear Sir:

The Town Park on Elm Avenue had its beginning in the 1969 political campaign. Democratic candidates expressed the need for a park in our town, pointed to the accomplishments of neighboring towns and indicated the sources of available financing. The Kohinke administration's initial reaction was that we didn't need another park because we already had 27 parks. One of them was the bed of flowers at the entrance to the Bethlehem Cemetery. Later during the campaign that position changed to suggest the use of a parcel of land on the Hudson River as a marina.

After the campaign was over the cause was taken up by a number of concerned groups and private citizens including the Youth and Recreation Committee and the Delmar Dolphins who continued to apply pressure on the Town and finally the concept of the centrally located town park that we now have was accepted.

Mr. Carr's letter in your issue of Oct. 25 erroneously assumed that my comments of Oct. 7 were directed to the entire recreation program for the Town. Mr. Carr's efforts on behalf of the recreation program in the Town are notable and to be commended. I am proud to have participated in the effort as one of the candidates who initiated the issue in 1969.

Michael F. Bergan

ENGLAND — and then some

By A Tourist

As the 707 came down toward Mother Earth and went into its approach pattern for London's Heathrow Airport, we could see spread clearly below us in the misty early morning sunlight the patchwork quilt patterned fields of southern England, laced together by their green hedges. After the usual "hold my breath" landing, which was really executed very neatly by the pilot, we disembarked into the hubub of the air terminal, located the car rental desk and quickly picked up the keys to the car we had ordered from our home in Delmar. "It's across the street there," the counter girl said, so, bag and baggage, we crossed over to the bright yellow Ford "Escort" which was to be ours for two glorious weeks of touring the countryside of England and Scotland.

After stowing our luggage, we sat in the car a few moments while my husband familiarized himself with the gears, brakes, etc., and then he announced that we were taking off — into a stream of traffic leaving the airport, driving on the left side of the road, and armed only with a large Michelin road map of the British Isles! It took us only one day of travel to realize the map was not detailed enough for our purposes, so we bought regional ones at the next Esso station we saw. They don't give road maps away free over there. Of course, as soon as we got rolling through the traffic of the London suburbs, we realized that we were on the wrong road. My partner, being a true-blue male always feels he'll discover the right road around the next corner. If you don't know, I believe in asking, so — not being a bashful woman, you know who asked directions at least once or twice a day for the next two weeks! We did find the English were ever so polite and accommodating though at every place we stopped.

Of course, we had set our watches to 9:30 A.M. in the morning when we had landed in London, but after being awake all night on the plane (who ever sleeps going across the Atlantic?), it seemed as if it should be three o'clock in the afternoon and that's about at the level we felt all that long day. Heading down into the Kentish countryside, we stopped for lunch in Sevenoaks at a small town "pub" This was the sort of place where we had lunch each day for the rest of our trip. The pub is a many-purpose thing — a drinking place, the average man's "private club" where he goes each evening to spend a sociable hour or so with the group; the pub also provides quick little snacks and the thing nearest to a sandwich you'll find anywhere in England or Scotland. Ours happened to be a half-timbered

SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION OF ALBANY

854 Madison Avenue, Albany, New York

ENGLAND — and then some

16th century one — I always tried to find the picturesque places!

After lunch we went just outside of town to visit Knole House, the seat of a wealthy early English family, built in 1456 and standing in all its splendor in the center of its great deer park and containing a magnificent collection of early furniture and art works. Since it was a lovely sunny day, the natives who came to see this National Trust Property, brought their folding chairs along and after touring the gouse, pulled out their chairs and sat beside their cars enjoying the sunshine and the tame deer which were roaming all over the park-like grounds. At Tunbridge Wells, a fashionable watering place of the 18th century, we put up early for the night in a typical English hotel right on the famous colonnaded "Pantiles," a period shopping area. We found out right there that the English are generous with their food, but "bland" was to be the password for the next two weeks, and we have had enough brussels sprouts and braised celery to last a long while.

In the morning it was sheer joy watching the sunshine dance on the moat at Bodiam — a 14th century gray stone castle right out of a picture book. The castle was situated overlooking a beautiful valley and since Kent is the "Garden of England," we watched the men and boys pulling down the hop vines and taking in the harvest. On up the narrow country roads that Chaucer's pilgrims travelled on their way to the mother church of English Christendom, Canterbury Cathedral. We drove right under the ancient city gateway and past the still-intact city walls, and into the Buttermarket where the entrance to the impressive cathedral is another splendid stone gateway built in 1517. The great church itself was begun before 1200 and "the noblest Gothic town in existence" strikes awe into the eye of the beholder. Thomas Becket was murdered here in 1170 and Edward the Black Prince lies in effigy, all armed in steel for battle; he was chivalry personified in an age when chivalry was the one thing that mattered.

Thus far we had only seen beautiful verdant land — now it was back up toward London to take the Dartford Tunnel across the Thames and head on up the eastern side of the island. The eco-maniacs would have a cause here — somehow England doesn't seem to be as worried about this as we Americans are — smog along the Thames for miles, people crowded into row houses, buildings covered with a dark film, (the result of burning soft coal for centuries) huge industrial chimneys belching smoke into the sky, traffic snarling — not very picturesque here. Crossing the river and continuing on through Essex, we break out into lovely Suffolk with its green hedgerows, driving along narrow roads through a deep green bower as the trees come together to form tunnels of the roads. Thatched cottages and half timbered buildings catch our eye at every turn — quaint villages with names like Great Dunmow, Bury St. Edmunds, Lavenham, an unspoiled Tudor town where we had late morning coffee in the Swan Hotel — a country half-timbered treasure of an inn, still catering most graciously to its guests after 450 years. Wool built the fortunes of Lavenham until about 1750 when the cloth weaving industry declined and this beautiful little town gradually went to sleep and was in the backwash of the modern world — how fortunate because it is today one of England's treasure towns of the past.

Taking the road toward The Wash, part of the North Sea which rolls against England's eastern coastline, we drove through towns that were bustling when Columbus set sail for America. King's Lynn is an ancient port and market town with a wealth of narrow cobbled streets and historic buildings, including a 16th century merchant's house with a spiral staircase leading up to a five-story lookout tower from which he could watch his ships coming into the harbor and from which you can get a very panoramic view today. Since an ancestor had left Boston, England, in 1630 with John Winthrop's Company, it was unthinkable that we should be in this part of the realm and not visit this old town which was a Saxon settlement, a bustling medieval port and is now the marketing and commercial center of one of England's richest agricultural areas, besides being a busy commercial port with many modern facilities. The area in this part of England is a weird, marshy watery waste known as The Fens, but since the flat fields began to be drained by canals as early as the 17th century, it has

1974 Harley-Davidson X-90.

Some Big X-90 Features.

It's the only mini-bike made that carries the famous Harley-Davidson name. And here are some of the Harley-Davidson features that make it the cycle you want to ride!

1. X-90 features a 90cc 2-stroke, single cylinder oil injected engine by Harley-Davidson. And that's a lot of torque-producing power for a mini-bike! Especially when you hook it up to an easy-shifting 4-speed transmission!
2. Here's an exclusive that makes X-90 doubly useful. Fold-down handlebars! You can truck it right along to wherever you're heading in the back of a pickup, station wagon or trunk of your car.
3. And when you do hit open country, these motorcycle-type rear shocks soak up ruts and bumps.
4. The same is true of the rugged front fork. It features hydraulic dampening. That means a smoother, more comfortable ride even in really rugged country.
5. Right where it can be easily seen, a large speedometer with big numbers. You know exactly how you're doing in any gear!
6. But, that's not all! The neat angled muffler not only looks racy, it meets all U.S. Government requirements for riding on public land!

There you have it. A compact real-life adventure you can enjoy. It even has a taillight, big and bright headlight and a good sized gas tank just so you can enjoy the country more! X-90. Move on out!

COVER STORY

THE TWO THAT GOT AWAY!

SCOTT TRAVIS HAD ONE THAT got away and Elaine Hernandez almost went with hers. Both shots were posed and were a part of the launching of two weather balloons at Glenmont Elementary School on Friday, Oct. 26. The launching climaxed a unit study of the weather in the science curriculum of the intermediate grades. The balloons took off into the blue in perfect weather; inside were post cards addressed to the school, thus the distance the balloons travel before bursting can (hopefully) be determined if the finders mail them. One balloon was donated by Douglas Laconte, a meteorology student at SUNYA, and the other by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

ENGLAND — and then some

been converted into acres of fertile farmland. This old city has a close association with America as a group of the Pilgrim Fathers sought to sail from Boston to Holland in the year 1607. They were caught in the abortive attempt to find religious freedom and imprisoned in the Guildhall, where their iron barred cells may still be visited. In 1630, ten years after the sailing of the Mayflower, other Puritan Fathers, Boston citizens landing in New England, set up a colony which they named Boston in the Massachusetts Bay Company.

St. Botolph's Church, with its beautiful lantern steeple, lacework in stone, is visible for miles around in the flat farmland. We stayed in a "Bed and Breakfast" that night at Boston, and our host told us that the bomber pilots of World War II always sought the tower of "Boston Stump" as their landmark when coming back from bombing raids. We had a nice visit that evening, talking about our two countries, and then about nine o'clock he excused himself as it was time for him to go for his usual "pint" at the pub.

If you can see only one city in England other than London, certainly York is the one to see. It's the right size, the right texture, the right age. The medieval wall wraps a three-mile ribbon of stone around the city; there is the most fantastic Castle Folk Museum where whole streets are reconstructed in scenes of daily English life from Tudor to Edwardian times; the marketplace is full of fascinating things to buy and the great glory of it all is the York Minister, the largest Goth. Church in Great Britain. The day that we were there was the celebration for the anniversary of the Battle of Britain, so we had the added pleasure of watching the pomp and ceremony of a cadre of Royal Air Force men march in to memorial services. On again, up past the spires of Lincoln Cathedral and north toward Scotland, where the terrain changes from flat to great lengthy rolls of hills, untimbered, grassy slopes, peopled with sheep. Northumberland bears the marks of many border battles in its ruined abbeys and castles. The Romans were all over Britain from 49 BC to about 300 AD and they left many reminders of their occupation throughout the land, but their most imposing monument must certainly be Hadrian's Wall, running right across the northern border of England from the Irish Sea to the North Sea. This ancient fortification was built to hold back the wild Pict tribes of Scotland who were constantly harassing the Roman legions. Standing on the wall, overlooking the bleak Chevoit hills, you could feel the poignancy the Roman soldier must have known as he stood guard here in a breezy northern mist, far from his sunny Italian homeland, years before he would see it again, if ever, in an age when even the reality of his being there was little short of a miracle. Even though the sun was shining, we seemed to be captured in the aura of some dim, musty other time as we walked along the top of the wall just as the Roman sentry did so long ago.

The sky here can be sunny and cloudy at the same time. Every once in awhile a big cloud will pass over and drop its load of rain right where you are, but in a few miles away the sun may be shining. So it was as we drove over the border into Scotland and this very shower produced a magnificent complete half-circle rainbow over our right shoulders. Certainly this could be nothing but a good omen about Scotland and indeed the entire trip. The hills became tree covered, the valleys more intimate, laced with little winding streams, and we stayed the night in a grey stone country mansion, now converted to hotel. You almost felt Lord of the Manor as you sat in the many-windowed dining room, watching your sheep grazing on the hillside pasture and looking out over the lawn as it swept away to the woods in the distance — luxurious contentment — we could have stayed a week. But the song of the open road calls too and there is still so much to see that we must go on. Jedburgh Abbey as an impressive ruin and Mary Queen of Scots house is here too, and then we climbed the steep little hill to the castle gates above the town, it was easy to understand how the local lord of the castle was revered by the townfolk. The great citadel was their haven in war and the master to whom they all paid their homage in time of peace because these Scottish and Northumbrian landowners had the habit of perpetually plundering one another's property even when the rival kingdoms were supposed to be at peace. Selkirk, Scotland, was our next stop, one of the many little quaint Scottish towns done all in somber grey stone with vistas of green hillsides beyond the steep, narrow streets. It was my turn to browse in the stores and buy that delicious sweet buttery Scotch shortbread, woollens at the mill store and English china, while my husband took his clubs to the local golf course. When we met again in the town square later in the afternoon he said his score wasn't bad but the place had been more cow pasture than course, and he had knocked his ball into funny little bushes that grew all over the course and resembled blueberries, only they were pink. You guessed it — heather, which grows in a tight little ball-like flower. He was to find out that a lot of golf courses in Scotland are like this — bearing small resemblance to our manicured country club links, and the famous St. Andrews was no exception at all. Located directly at the beach with the North Sea a few feet away, the course is the birthplace of the game of golf in the 15th century, and still the mecca of the great ones. The grey stone town starts right at the first tee and spreads out to its university, founded in 1411, its castle and cathedral, and still further to its factories and mills.

Edinburgh's shrines of Scottish history are famous and its shopping streets as elegant as ever, but the city is expanding rapidly into the surrounding countryside and the congestion is massive as every Scot seems to want to get into Edinburgh. Stirling is the gateway to the Highlands and the castle here, perched on its wild rocky escarpment, is the great glory, being all the mass of stone and battlements that one envisions in a castle and with a panoramic view of the purple hills on one side and the River Forth and the plain of Bannockburn, where the Scots finally defeated the English under Robert the Bruce,

The supper has so grown in popularity over the years that today it takes a veritable army to prepare and cook the mountains of food which included real Italian spaghetti, homemade Italian spaghetti sauce, an Italian salad, Italian bread and delicious homemade pies. spreading away to the south. Just a few miles away was the ancestral castle of another branch of the family — a real castle which people are still making their home, and we drive up and see it and took pictures to prove we had really made the pilgrimage. It was a storybook setting among the craggy green hills, with a beautiful formal garden that is open to the public in summer.

Heading down from Stirling toward the English border, the land is rolling and indulgent and still given over to sheepraising. Then as a pleasant surprise came the English Lake District, the treeless hills, the largest England has, not quite mountains, but nearly so and very lovely with their hillsides leading down to beautiful lake shores. In the noon sunlight the hills were lighted into misty reds, blues, and greens, peopled again with sheep, and the shores of the lakes not peopled at all, just a few farmsteads that have little signs announcing "Bed and Breakfast." You can come there from the urban cities and hike the hills, go pony trekking or just sit quietly and contemplate the gorgeous scenery and the quiet uncrowdedness of it all. We lunched again at a delightful little stone inn of the 18th century in a mountain pass between Ullswater and Windermere, so you see people have know about these lakes for a long time — just don't want to commercialize them.

We brushed along on the M6 (motorway) past the busy industrial cities of the Midlands, and made one small detour to visit Little Moreton Hall at Congleton, a fortified moated manor house in Cheshire. In the western Midlands we strayed over into Shropshire where we stayed in a charming red brick Georgian house converted to a hotel beside the river Severn. Our window looked out on John Gwynn's graceful 18th century bridge leading to Atcham Church — an 11th century country parish church with a Saxon tower. Wandering there in the dew of the early morning in that little ancient church yard, green with yew and ivy, with cows grazing in the lush meadow beyond the old bridge, the peace and simple beauty of the English countryside were as real as if lifted out of a Constable painting.

Stratford is full of Shakesperian and it is also a quaint looking village with lots of Tudor charm. It is doing its best to hold on to that in spite of the hordes of tourists who swarm here to pay homage to the Bard of Avon. Apart from the usual sights, there is a very interesting Tudor farm called Wimcote just outside of town that has the farmhouse and ancient barns and outbuildings that house a collection of old Warwickshire farming implements and rural bygones. There are a great many famous places to visit in the area surrounding Stratford and one could make quite a comprehensive tour of England in this small area. The magnificent Warwick Castle, towering above the river Avon is high among the historic treasures of England and is my own personal favorite.

Somehow you are just not prepared for Stonehenge as you come down the hill and see it standing there before you — rising out of the Salisbury Plain in mute testimony of something weird and wonderful from a dark age of long ago. There's a reverence about that stone circle — not as large as perhaps you thought it was going to be, but the massiveness of the arches, the mystery of how and why it came to be here, is very impressive just the same. The spire of Salisbury Cathedral calls you across the plain too, but Winchester, the early Saxon capital of England, has a more fascinating one — begun in 1093 — with the largest nave of any cathedral in Europe, and the burial place in 862 AD of St.

Swithun, that 40-day rain Saint. Arthur's Round Table is located here in the 13th century castle and you can take a delightful walk past the well-preserved city walls and go down along the river through the water meadows to an ancient alms house where the porter will still dispense the Wayfarer's Dole of a horn of beer and a crust of bread to those who ask for it. My travelling companion found the golf course more compelling than the memorials however!

We had seen so many wondrous sights that the Cotswold Hills were almost an anti-climax, but the beautiful little villages, all done in beige stone and with names like Stow On the Wold, Bourton On the Water and Upper and Lower Slaughter were indeed wonderful to behold. We still had two days left for visiting our English friends even after driving so many miles — about 1700 — of which at least 300 must have been backtracking! We drove up to Great Fosters in Surrey, just a short way from Heathrow. As we pulled up to the circular drive of this magnificent Tudor hunting lodge that had been built for Elizabeth I in the Windsor Forest, you couldn't help but feel a pretty pampered person to be able to stay in such fabulous surroundings and in such present day comfort. Great Fosters is now a hotel, complete with its Jacobean fireplaces and Elizabethan furniture and panelling still gracing the main floor. The 16th century Tithe Barn has been converted to the dining room, now connected to the lodge by a corridor. On the second floor are the period bedrooms — the Queen Anne Suite, The Italian room, the Elizabeth I bedroom, filled with antiques and hung with priceless tapestries and velvet wall covering. Our room was on the floor above, servants' quarters originally I suppose, but even sleeping under those delightfully angled roof beams in a comfortable modern bed was great fun. Our friends came out from London and we had the traditional English Sunday dinner — roast beef and Yorkshire pudding. Our last day was golf and just relaxing in the 18th century formal English garden and sunning on the terrace of the carefully concealed swimming pool. The next morning some new adventures awaited us as I boarded the train for London and my companion went his way to New York.

ENGLAND — and then some

It's going to be a long cold winter in New York State — what better way to spend it than to make your own plans for spring in "this other Eden, this England" — or some other equally enchanting place of your own choice? Bon Voyage!

Question:

What are "Death Taxes?"

Answer:

Inheritance, succession, transfer and estate taxes, as well as any other taxes levied against the estate of a deceased person, are known as "Death Taxes".

The liability for the payment of these taxes rests with the estate of the decedent. Under the Federal Estate Tax laws and the laws of those states that levy either an estate tax or an inheritance tax, those who succeed to the ownership of property subject to these taxes must satisfy any tax liability involved with property.

Under certain circumstances funeral costs are deductible from "Death Taxes." Funeral and interment expenses are deductible from the gross estate of a decedent under the Federal Estate Tax laws before the Federal Tax is applied. These costs are likewise deductible before State Inheritance or Estate Taxes are levied by the individual states.

NEW DARKROOM HAS NEW EXHIBIT

The Community Darkroom announces the opening of a new show from the George Eastman House International Museum of Photography and Cinematography by Ralph Gibson, entitled DEJA VU.

Ralph Gibson's work has consistently dealt with the expression of the internal phenomena of the conscious and unconscious mind. His first book, THE SOMNABULIST, explored a visual theme of dream imagery. DEJA VU acts as a sequel to THE SOMNABULIST, both in its reference to an inner vision (the visula articulation of the sensation of having been there before), and the forceful editing within the show itself. DEJA VU is built in terms of visual couplets, where the photographs form structural pairs and the image tends to lie between

Albany County Deer Hunting

Bow hunters in Albany County should have plenty of time to pursue their favorite sport this season, according to Athan A. Baskous, Region 4 Director of the Department of Environmental Conservation. Baskous explained that the 1973 Legislature passed a law opening a previously closed portion of eastern Albany County to bow hunting for deer of either sex from November 19 through December 4.

The new area comprises the northeasterly corner of Albany lying east of the high tension line beginning at the Green County line in the Town of Coeymans and ending at the Schenectady County line in the Town of Guilderland. It is bounded on the north by the Schenectady County line and the Mohawk River, and on the east by the Hudson River.

In this area you can hunt deer with bow and arrow only from November 19 through December 4. The use of firearms for taking deer in this special area is prohibited at all times.

Hunters are cautioned that whereas the archery season in the rest of the Southern Zone is November 3 through November 18, it is limited to November 19 through December 4 in the new special area of Albany County.

To participate in either or both of the archery seasons in Albany County, a hunter must have both a big game license and archery stamp, which allows him to take deer of either sex, antlered or not.

Orchestra Seeks New Members

The Delmar Community Orchestra (once upon a time known as the "Delmar Mens Orchestra") is now better described as the Greater Delmar Area Community Orchestra with members from communities throughout the Capitol Area.

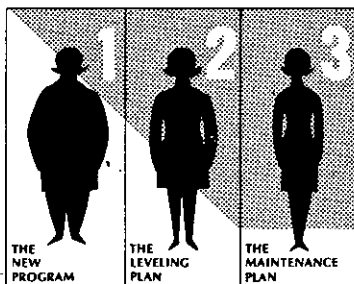

Among the members are musicians who have regularly attended rehearsals for more than thirty years as well as first year members.

Under the competent direction of Roger DiNucci, the orchestra repertoire includes a variety of well-known and loved classical and popular music enjoyed at Monday evening rehearsals.

"New Members are always welcome," says Mr. Charles Lacy, President of the Orchestra. "I hope that men and women of all ages who enjoy playing in an orchestra

Don't Break the Law!

Shooting at power line insulators is a criminal act that can spell deep trouble for the offender and cause serious halts in electric service to entire communities at great expense.

This warning came from Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. officials as the fall shooting season again began in upstate New York.

"Making targets of power line insulators is one of the most senseless, irresponsible and potentially lethal actions that a shooter can take," said Rudolph R. Schneider, vice president of electric operations for Niagara Mohawk. "By doing so, a person places himself in grave danger of electrocution if the line should come down, and it causes immeasurable damage and cost through needless interruption of electric service, he pointed out. "Power to hospitals, schools, homes, businesses and vital traffic signals can be knocked out by such vandalism." Schneider noted.

He warned that firing at any type of utility equipment is against the law and that Niagara Mohawk is working closely with police and other enforcement authorities to apprehend offenders. The New York State Penal Law, Schneider explained, includes a specific section making it a crime to damage utility facilities and provides severe penalties for destruction of such property.

Here's News!

October 22 was an extra-large day for Mrs. Robert Cox of Winne Road, Delmar. She made her first hole-in-one ever on that day on the 3rd hole at Normanside Country Club. The hole, by the way, is 135 yards, a par 3. Mrs. Cox used a #5 wood.

Twins Are News, Too!

October 16 is the birthday of twins, a boy and a girl, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borrero, III, Meilak's Mobile Court, Selkirk.

A Reminder

The NYS Dep't. of Environmental Conservation reminds the voters that Amendment One on the November 6 ballot is the key to the success of the Pure Waters Program. It excludes from the municipalities' debt limit money contracted for sewage treatment purposes. There is and will be no additional cost to the taxpayer.

About A Nursery School

The Slingerlands Cooperative Nursery School is now in session for the 1973-74 season, and the new officers have been elected and approved by the Board of Trustees, of which James Sanderson is the president.

The officers for this year are: chairman Mrs. Robert Hardt; vice chairman Mrs. John Sommer; secretary Mrs. Tucker Jones; and treasurer Mrs. Robert Griffin.

Mrs. Bryson Smith is the teacher-director for this, her fifth year. The enrollment of students is tightly held to fourteen boys and girls, and the mothers of these children take turns assisting Mrs. Smith.

Activities in the school include free play, stories, records, crafts, and fun trips to places of interest for the children. The atmosphere is flexible and informal.

Enrollments are now being accepted for the 1974-75 school year. Boys and girls aged three and four are accepted. For applications, please write to Mrs. John Sommer, Box 1, Slingerlands, New York, 12159.

Auditions

Tryouts for "The Price" by Arthur Miller will be held at The Playhouse in Unionville on November 6 and 8 at 8:30 P.M. Graham Zeh, director for this bonus production by the Slingerlands Community Players, has announced that all interested persons are invited to audition.

Wandering & Wondering . . .

WE HAD A PHONE CALL from a Bethlehem Democrat who asked why we hadn't commented on the so-called "Kohinke tire story" which has had a continuous run in the Times Union. We replied that it had all of the appearance of a "smear campaign." He assured us that it was not; he said the evidence spoke for itself and this column owed it to Bethlehem to print the facts. We told him we'd give it some thought and then decide in which direction our duty lay. When we read the TU story on Thurs., Oct. 25, with the statement by "Doc" Marcelle of Callanan's, we then had a source for getting additional facts. "Doc" Marcelle is a long-time friend and anything he gave us would be both truthful and factual. Doc gave us these important points: 1) Callanan buys tires from a half dozen sources; the company bought its first Goodyear tire before Bert Kohinke ever started selling tires; Callanan still uses Goodyear tires on some of its equipment. 2) the bid to supply stone and asphalt for the Town of Bethlehem is the NYS price and is the same for every town in the state. 3) as for the roads Callanan uses to transport its product, 95 to 99% goes over Routes 396 and 9W (both NYS highways) in the Town of Bethlehem, so there could be no favors here. 4) Callanan's quarry is in the Town of Coeymans — not Bethlehem.

With one or two individuals making some irresponsible and (later) unproved charges; with the men we have known for years (some of them friends) coming forward to absolutely deny the allegations of the one or two who started this whole thing, we cannot see any way that we can make any truthful statement that would benefit Mr. Kohinke's opponent in the coming election.

As one man pointed out: Bert Kohinke has the finest reputation of any of the Supervisors in this part of New York State. He has an untarnished record in business and politics. And as far as the consultant tag goes, most of the Supervisors in this area are lawyers who are also active in their law business representing constituents in their townships in all kinds of legal matters including those over which the town governments have jurisdiction. So where is the conflict of interest when Mr. Kohinke is consultant for a firm located outside of Bethlehem; a firm that does business with other businesses outside the Town — except in the fact that Callanan supplies some products to Bethlehem on a bid contract basis — and Maloy who was the low bidder among six for the Elm Avenue Park work?

We could use some expletives here to make our conclusions more forceful. We won't. Instead, we'd like to ask one question: what were we supposed to say? We've written the truth. What more can be asked of us?

WE'D LIKE A LITTLE HELP! One of the greatest delicacies we ever tasted is domestic fried rabbit. For years, we raised them, sold hundreds and ate them as regularly as the average family serves chicken. A frying rabbit is 8 weeks old, weighs around 4 lbs. and is more tender and is tastier than the finest chicken ever grown.

During the years since we had our own we have tried to buy them from a dozen different sources. It doesn't work. If you buy them packaged and frozen, they are much too old at the time of slaughtering. Our search for fresh dressed has led us nowhere. Just last week we saw an ad for fryers. We called the number and were told that the dressed weight was 6 to 10 lbs.! That would be the equivalent of trying to fry a stewing or soup chicken. The sad part is: if they succeed in selling a 10-pounder for a fryer, we'll guarantee that the purchaser will never buy another rabbit as long as he lives!

Somewhere in the Spotlight area there must be a rabbit grower who raises fryers and dresses them ready for the frying pan. We're hungry for some honest-to-goodness fried rabbit. So — if you know of such a raiser of rabbits, would you please call us and let us know whom to call, where to go? Thanks.

THIS YEAR WILL MARK MY 42nd YEAR AS A VOTER. During that more than 4 decades, I have never been a good "party man." I was brought up in a strict Republican household but my voting record includes just about as many Democrats as Republicans. Yes, I voted for Norman Thomas on two occasions when I couldn't find approval of either the Democrat or Republican presidential nominee. During these years I have seen many fine men elected to office — and, on other occasions, I have not been very happy with my vote.

That first paragraph was written to show the readers of this column that my voting record (right or wrong) has been based on the man and not the party banner under which he was running. With these voting habits, I have never been invited to run for political office — and, if invited, I would have refused. I believe that to be a political candidate, it is necessary to be a loyal member of the party — and that I have never been.

That's enough preamble. I have some very personal reasons for my support of three men who are running for local office this year and I'd like you to know why I support them.

Bertram E. Kohinke for Bethlehem Supervisor. I first met Bert just prior to World War II when he was manager of the Albert Oliver Goodyear tire store on Central Avenue in Albany. He had been with Oliver for more than 10 years when I first met him. The late Otto de Heus was manager of the truck tire department. Just a couple of years previous, I had moved to the Tri-Village area and became manager (for my father) of the Texaco Station and taxi business which he had at 190 Delaware Avenue. I became friendly with both men because they were accommodating, fair, efficient and honest in their customer business.

ness dealings. This was important to a novice in retailing.

Then came Pearl Harbor and for 30 months Bert Kohinke was in the US Army in the European theater. During that time, he received 5 campaign stars, the Purple Heart for being wounded in action and was discharged as a First Sergeant on Dec. 7, 1945.

He returned to Oliver's and I saw him several times during 1946. I attended the installation ceremonies when he became commander of Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post #1040, American Legion, on January 1, 1947.

This local public exposure led to his appointment to the Bethlehem Board of Appeals in 1947 and then in 1953 he became chairman of the Sewer Commission and Director of the local Civil Defense. Quite naturally, all three assignments brought him into contact with the Town Board. Then came the death of Supervisor John Oliver and when the Town Board met to appoint an interim successor, Bert Kohinke was chosen by unanimous vote. In 1965, he retired from Albert E. Oliver to become the first full-time Supervisor Bethlehem ever had.

During all of these past 14 years that Bert Kohinke has been Supervisor, we have been writing about Town events. We have pictured and written about so many changes as the town expanded and grew that we've lost track of some. These 14 years have brought about changes and improvements and growth that completely overshadow anything that went before. New streets have been added, paved and built up; a master plan was completed in 1965; a thrice-weekly garbage pick-up was instituted; debris is picked up in spring and summer, leaves in the fall; because of the problem, a mosquito spray service was started; the sidewalks are plowed by Town machines; we have a Youth Employment Service; three parking lots were built; two recreational parks are now open; extended the Water District; a new sewer extension and disposal plant; worked with NYS to get a new Delaware Avenue, an arterial connecting Kenwood and New Scotland Avenues, and others; tax exemptions for those over 65; the establishment of bicycle routes; and the list goes on and on and on.

Today, Bertram Kohinke is essentially the same man he was in 1941 — maybe he'd have difficulty changing a tire — but the same good business tactics, the same forthright honesty, the same high principles apply today. And contrary to what has been said, this man is available to Town residents practically 24 hours a day and mostly 7 days a week. I, frankly, marvel at the man's energy and patience.

I have witnessed some of the hundreds of new proposals that are always being put forth by an individual or group; I have seen him give every one of them the same scrutiny and thought. One of his first rules: is it good for the Town? does it have value and benefit for the majority? is it something I, personally, might have proposed that would make this Town better?

The members of our Town Board have been accused of voting on issues unanimously. Is that bad? Not if a little thought is given to it. The members of our Board are thinking individual human beings. And these unanimous votes are very often the result of weeks of thought and discussion, of compromise and change — until each man is satisfied that it is the best that could be offered. Now, why would one or two vote against it — perhaps just to make for a divided vote? Applesauce!

Proof of the kind of government Bert Kohinke has brought to Bethlehem is perhaps best summed up by a Democratic candidate for Supervisor in a neighboring township: "If we (the Democrats) could promise the residents of our town just half the efficient, high-principled government Bertram Kohinke has given Bethlehem, we could win in a walk!" That is some endorsement from an astute politician of the opposing political party — but it sums up the way a great many people feel.

From another neighboring town, a deputy chairman of the Democratic Party was talking to us and somehow Bertram Kohinke's name was mentioned. The chairman made this remark: "Kohinke has given Bethlehem such good government that you can see it; by comparison, drive through my township. My township does not come out well in the comparison!"

Our personal endorsements go one step further. In the Town of Coeymans, Democrat Angelo Rosato is running for re-election as Councilman. We worked with Angelo for a number of years in Little League and later in the formation of the Hudson Valley Babe Ruth League in Ravena. He is a dedicated man who presented and followed through on many ideas which were eventually adopted. When he became Councilman, he was a minority member on the Town Board — but some very fundamental changes were brought about by his efforts. Some of these changes were in the conduct of Board meetings which were long over due. We hope this man is given another two-year term to continue the good works he has started.

On the other side of the fence is a Republican who is running for Superintendent of Highways in Coeymans; another from the years in Little League; a man whose principles were always evident in his efforts on behalf of all boys who played baseball. He is Donald Boice. We'd sure like to see him succeed in his first bid for public office.

WE MAY NOT BE ABLE TO TAKE CREDIT FOR THIS but it did follow rather closely on the heels of our diatribe. We're referring to the students who must stand on school buses. Last week, R-C-S School District Principals sent a notice to parents in which this phrase appeared: "Beginning Thursday, Oct. 25, on the majority of buses the number of students being transported will be DECREASED."

Our congratulations to Dr. Frank J. Filippone, Superintendent of Schools, the R-C-S Board of Education and to Transportation Supervisor Franklin ("Pat") Wiltsie.

How about other districts in our area?

LABELS FOR EDUCATION

What: The Campbell Soup Company is sponsoring this program which includes the collection of labels from any and all Campbell's Soup cans: regular, 26-oz., 50-oz. and Chunky Soups.

Where: Labels may be turned in at the Glenmont Elementary School, Route 9W.

When: Ongoing through Dec. 8, 1973.

Why: Some things there are that tax monies just don't buy. These labels will enable the school to purchase some much-needed equipment.

Here's a plan that will cost you absolutely nothing! All you have to do is remember to remove the label from every can of Campbell's soup as you use it. Then, either mail your labels or give them to a Glenmont Elementary School student so that they reach the school before Dec. 8. With this little added effort, Glenmont students will have the benefit of some brand new educational equipment not now available to them.

How about it, will you help?

Thanks — from every student at Glenmont Elementary School!
