For once let the bank come to you.

Let's face it—there are times it's easier to let the post office do your walking for you. Now you can do your banking in the comfort of your home or office . . . with a CSB Bank-By-Mail checking account. And CSB will make things even easier by paying postage both ways.

You'll get a statement every month if you open a regular or business account, or a quarterly statement if you open a personal or 62+ account.

With banking by mail, paid postage and regular statements, the Bank-By-Mail account figures out to be the easiest checking account around.

Opening a Bank-By-Mail account is as simple as calling CSB or stopping in at our nearest office.

So sit down and let the bank come to you with a Bank-By-Mail account! We understand how you appreciate life's little conveniences. We understand, because at CSB . . . People Are Our Business.

All four teams will be in action in a doubleheader which will help the Lions Sight Preservation Program. And as if the Donkey Ball weren't enough, Sam Bozzella's Brobdingnagian Brass Band will headline the intermission extravaganza.

So — join in the fun! join a wonderful cause! join the owners, the teams — AND — the DONKEYS for more excitement than a rodeo and more fun than a circus!

The Phantom Is Coming!

The "Phantom of the Opera," a 1925 Classic silent horror film, will be shown at the Bethlehem Public Library at 2 P.M. on Sunday afternoon, March 10. This film, starring Lon Chaney, is the melodramatic tale of the embittered disfigured composer who haunts the sewers beneath the Paris Opera House and takes a pretty young singer as his protégé. One of the great moments in screen horror occurs in this film in Lon Chaney's horrific unmasking.

Question:

My mother is in a nursing home and we have not been able to keep her wardrobe up to date. Do you have clothing available?

Answer:

Among the merchandise and service facilities we maintain for those we serve, we do have a very complete selection of clothing available for both men and women.

Our men's suits and accessories are comparable to those being sold in the local apparel shops. Women's garments are somewhat different, however, because the emphasis at this time is more toward softness and propriety than toward style.

From the moment we are called at the time of death until a considerable period of time following the burial, we have the knowledge and complete facilities at the Meyers Funeral Home to serve you.

called back for final auditions on March 9. All auditions are scheduled for 8:00 P.M.

A cast of seventeen characters includes eleven major roles (8 male, 3 female) and 6 minor roles (4 males, 2 females). One of the male roles demands a black actor and another requires a boy between eight and ten years of age who is less than five feet tall. Auditions are open and everyone is welcome.

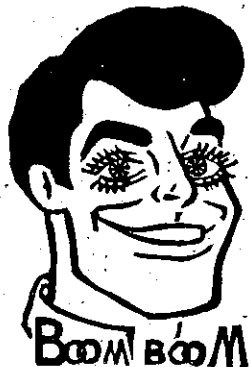

Playgoers will recognize Lawrence and Lee as the duo who created "Inherit the Wind" which the Slingerlands Players produced several seasons ago.

it possible for those people, and millions of others, to do just that with the introduction of DUNKIN' MUNCHKINS in the more than 750 Dunkin' Donuts shops throughout the United States.

A far cry from the traditional donut hole, everything about MUNCHKINS is different. These bite-size treats will come in chocolate, honey dip/glazed, jelly-filled, and crunch coated. They are packed fresh in the Dunkin' Donuts shop in specially designed boxes that hold 15 MUNCHKINS. Even the color of the box is different — it's bright orange and decorated with the little DUNKIN' MUNCHKIN character. Straight from the Wizard of Oz classic, the name MUNCHKINS creates a little nostalgia and a lot of fun for both kids and grown-ups alike.

DUNKIN' MUNCHKINS represent the first national new product introduced by Dunkin' Donuts. Although the major target market for MUNCHKINS is children, this new product is expected to be very popular with adults as well. DUNKIN MUNCHKINS have a new and exclusive image while also maintaining the current Company product image of quality and freshness. The suggested retail price will be 49¢ for a box of 15 MUNCHKINS.

More Bike Trails?

Concerned over the rapid growth of the numbers of bicycles in the past few years and the prospects of an even faster growth in the future, two Albany County Republican

Legislators have requested to meet with the County's Environmental Management Council to discuss implementing a coordinated, countywide program of "bikepaths" and "bikeways."

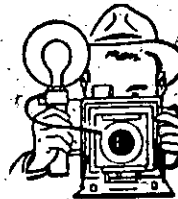

William C. Falle of the 26th Legislative District in Colonie and Bernie Kaplowitz of the 35th District in Delmar have written to the Council's Chairman, Dr. John J. Lyons, outlining their concerns over the growing bicycle population in the county and recent studies by the EMC for the establishing of "Bikeways" along county highways and "Bikepaths or Trails" in potential "Green Areas" throughout the County. They have requested a meeting of the Council with David Brown, chairman of the Legislature's Parks and Recreation Committee and Highway Committee Chairman William F. Rice, Jr.

In their letter to Dr. Lyons, Falle and Kaplowitz have pointed to recent predictions by the American Automobile Association and Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company that there will be more bicycles and motorcycles sold in 1974 than automobiles. They also pointed out that predictions have more two wheeled vehicles on the highways of this nation than automobiles by 1980.

"We are deeply concerned with the rapid growth of the number of bicycles over the past few years," the two Republican Legislators wrote, "and the inadequate facilities to handle this increased use as well as the large number of resulting accidents and deaths. Bicycles have advanced from a purely recreational use, and for some, have become a necessity due to the fuel shortage."

Kaplowitz and Falle have noted that any plans being formulated by the Environmental Management Council as to "bikepaths" or the like should be integrated with the State or other municipalities which now have or plan to have such facilities.

Falle is a bike enthusiast who rides almost daily and spent a good deal of his time during the 1973 campaign on a bicycle. Kaplowitz is a member of the Parks and Recreation Committee.

MONK PARAKEET

The New York State Chapter of the Wildlife Society has joined a growing list of organizations, including such diverse ones as the Northeastern Association of State Departments of Agriculture, The New Jersey Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Federation of New York State Bird Clubs, which have come out strongly for control or eradication of the exotic monk parakeet as a wild nesting bird in this country. The Department of Environmental Conservation has been embarked upon its own retrieval program since last summer, and welcomes the public support and surprising lack of opposition. The lesson of the English sparrow and starling has been well learned.

The monk parakeet (Myiopsitta monachus) is also known as the quaker or gray breasted parakeet; would be an ideal cage bird if it were not for its harsh, squawking voice. About a foot tall, it is a colorful-green with yellowish belly, and gray breast and facial mask. They are hardy and easy to feed, but do not learn to speak well, and eventually their squawking drives many owners up the wall. This is no doubt accounts for the many reports of individual birds found throughout the country, almost always close to some city with a readily available pet shop.

Several years ago a crate full of monk parakeets was broken open during handling at Kennedy Airport, permitting them to escape. This is probably the source of the worst infestation which is in the New York City and Long Island area.

In their native area of Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil and Paraguay, they are extremely destructive to agricultural crops, particularly fruits and row grains. In some areas they have been known to destroy as much as 45 percent of the crops. With a reputation like this it is hard to see any possibility that its advantages would ever outweigh its disadvantages' as addition to our fauna.

Though people operating bird feeders have been excited by having this beautiful bird as a visitor, it is hard to tell what effect they would have on native birds if they became firmly established. They are aggressive, tending to drive other birds away from feeders. According to John Bull of the American Museum of Natural History, there are records of these birds being aggressive enough to intimidate cats and dogs.

Our other two common exotics, the starling and English sparrow, both have taken over the nesting boxes of many of our more desirable native birds, such as the bluebird and tree swallow. This parakeet's unique nesting style may save it from committing this crime. They make communal nest structures of sticks and twigs, with each pair having its own compartment within. These large stick nests may be placed in tree crotches, cavities, or crevices around buildings.

Their clutch of eggs usually consists of four to six, but since the young and the adults are look-alikes, it is hard to tell how many young are actually produced in a single nest during a season.

When the first few reports of the monk parakeet rolled in, no one was really too concerned, for New York isn't what one would call parakeet country. Instead of dying out as anticipated, they persisted, and then came reports of nesting. This meant they changed their nesting season by six months, probably responding to the changing daylight hours, just as the game farms can speed up egg laying by using lights to trick the pheasants into thinking spring has come.

Probably bird feeders are a key to their survival during cold winter months, for this seems to be where they concentrate. At this season they have been successfully trapped at feeders. There are no prohibitions against trapping and retrieving parrots as personal pets, but when you tire of it, turn it over to the Department, for it is illegal to release in the wild.

The Department is anxious to learn the whereabouts of any parakeets, particularly where more than one is present. Information should be given directly to Larry Brown, Bureau of Wildlife, Division of Fish & Wildlife, Dept. of Environmental Conservation, Albany, N.Y. 12201, or to the nearest regional office of the Department. An effort will then be made to retrieve the birds.

Tories Treading The Hillside

Allison P. Bennett

The Bi-Centennial of the Revolutionary War will be with us in 1976, and while doing some research at the State Library recently, I came across some interesting reading concerning the spirit of unrest prevalent in our own immediate area at the time. All of the colonists were not sympathetic to the Revolutionary Cause and there was much apathy among the citizens of Albany County. These citizens were not men of war — they loved peace and productive industry. The settlements so recently wrested from the wilderness were growing and prospering and King George was far away across the water. The wrongs done to men of trade and in public office had not been seen or felt by these sturdy farmers and rural folk. They had small desire to leave their homesteads, and crops for strife and bloodshed. Revolt against the government was a major step — they preferred to endure the ills they already knew than to fly to some new ill that they knew not of. When the news of battle at Lexington did come, they all saw that war was inevitable and sides must be taken.

Those who chose to stay with the King (Tories) felt that the end would be the complete capitulation of the Patriots to a larger and stronger British force, and would mean eventual triumph for the friends of the Crown. New York Colony was long regarded by the British Ministry as loyal to the interests of the Crown and New Yorkers were much distrusted by the Patriots in Virginia and New England. Many Tories refused to take sides against the parent country — they looked upon the Patriots as rebels against the Crown, as indeed they were, and felt that these rebels would surely meet with disaster. There were other Tories, it is true, who took advantage of the situation, as has been done in all times in history, and became as ruthless as the Indian savage in their dealings with their former neighbors.

The selling price of your home is your real estate agent's or broker's field. He can often get properties into the hands of unworried owners, and do it fast. This helps property values in the community at large. No community, or area of a community likes to be saddled with a property that cannot be sold. Your real estate agent or broker can often deal with these properties. He knows that a quick sale of shaky properties is often best for the whole community. Your agent or broker is in a position to judge how a property should be handled.

The following is an excerpt from "New York Calendar of Historical Manuscripts — Revolutionary Papers, Volume I," Oct. 25th, 1776 — John Vandenburg of Neskithaw, in the County of Albany, being examined, saith that his wife being ready to lie in, he did not chuse to march with the Militia — that he went with about 20 men to the Helleberg to consult what they had best to do, and took their arms with them to defend themselves if any should attempt to hurt them. Their first meeting was last Monday at John Commons. Howe's Proclamation was mentioned. Richard Radley has it at his house. John Commons said that those who thought the Congress were in the right should go and that those who thought the King was in the right should stay.

At this meeting were present Commons, Adam, Joachim and Christian Huyck and himself (Vandenburg) who met accidentally. He first went to Commons for a pound of butter and returned home to fetch his gun and then went to the Helleberg and consulted the people there, the company being in all about 20. That they had been told that the Rangers would come and pull down their houses and that they were determined to oppose them. That they heard that there were 400 Tories at Stighkook. He thinks the people he met are friends to the Country, but that they won't fight if they can help it, and so agreed at said meeting — that the reason for not fighting for the Country is, that they will not be against the King. The persons present at said meeting whose names he recollects are as follows: John Read, Jacobus Oliver, Adam Seeger, Joachim, Jacob and Christian Huyck, Jacobus Long, John Commons, Jacob Breeds, Hans Seeger, Arent Wormer and Gerrit Bratt. Commons and Read advised him (Vandenburg) not to fight against the King, for if he did he would be ruined and sent away.

That they were to meet in three parties this morning to defend themselves against any troops which should attack them, one party at the Helleberg, another at the Normans Kill and the other at Niscuthaw near Albert Bratts. About 30 in each party to be commanded by John Commons and Arent Wormer. If one party should be attacked they were to give notice to the others and then all were to join. They were to come from the Helleberg, Niscuthaw and the Normans Kill. That he has heard them say that if the King's troops should come into the Country they would join them. Being further examined he says that the party to be commanded by Arent Wormer is to be at Niscuthaw near the house of Stopplebeen. That the second party are to be at Normans Kill under the command of Commons. The third party to be at the Helleberg under the command of Alburus Van Alstyne. That the whole party kept up a correspondence with them (other Tories) at Coxsackie and they were to inform each other of what passed. That they were to stand upon their defense till the King's troops came. Hans Seeger said he could get Indians at Schoharie to join them and if it came upon a pinch he would go for them. That he believes the said several parties are now together and it was agreed that every man should find his own Provisions.

Albany, Oct. 26th, 1776 from Robert Yates, Chairman of the Albany County Military Committee to Capt. John Bratt: Orders No. 8 and 9 — "This committee having received undoubted information that a number of disaffected persons are collected in different parties in and about the Hellebergh, Normanskill and Neskadha and Beaver Dam — with an evident design by force of arms to oppose the measures pursued for the preservation of the liberties of America. We have accounts about 90 Tories having collected at the Hellebergh and its neighborhood. If you can safely spare any part of your force we would be glad if you could send the Schoary Company and the Rangers that way as soon as possible by the most direct rout.

We shall send a party from here to meet them."

Now it's Ornamental

Cornell University has published a guide to ornamental grasses for garden use. The first Cornell publication on the subject, the bulletin is titled "Ornamental Grasses for the Home and Garden."

An extension publication of the N.Y. State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell, the booklet was authored by Mrs. Mary Hockenberry Meyer, Cooperative Extension agent in Oneida County, and Prof. Robert G. Mower in the College's Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture.

Ornamental grasses have long been overlooked by the American gardening public, although they are extensively used for landscape plantings in Europe, according to the authors.

There are at least 80 kinds of ornamental grasses suitable for garden use throughout this country. They range in height from six inches to 20 feet, and are grown for attractive foliage color, texture, distinct plant form, or flowers.

They can be grown in the background of flower gardens, in perennial borders and rock gardens, or near ponds, streams, and swimming pools. Some can be used as ground covers.

Many kinds are perennial and winter hardy in New York State, except in northernmost areas. Many of them are excellent for use in dried arrangements.

Relatively free from pests and diseases, ornamental grasses are easy to grow, requiring minimal care and maintenance throughout the growing season.

Churches in the Tri-Village area will sponsor two ecumenical Bible study series beginning March 6 — a morning session on the Sermon on the Mount and an evening series on four New Testament books.

Pastors of participating churches will share the leadership of the discussions.

The six-week series of Wednesday morning study sessions will center on the theme "The Revolutionary Jesus" based on his teachings in the Sermon on the Mount.

All morning sessions will be held at the Delmar United Methodist Church. A coffee period hosted by women of participating churches will be held at 9:30 A.M., with the study session beginning at 10 A.M.

The four-week Wednesday evening series, which will meet at 7:30 P.M. at the Delmar Reformed Church, will study Philemon, Colossians, First John and Ephesians.

JOTTINGS by Joni

The factor that I find most irritating about the alleged "Energy Crisis" is that we must set aside a specific time to purposely go out and purchase gasoline, whereas before the crisis struck we purchased while out on an errand. The station at which I purchase my gas is open for only one hour in the morning, therefore I must work around this time. I would be glad to do my part as a proud American and not complain if I were convinced that the crisis was for real, and not a scheme to line the pockets of a chosen few.

Wandering & Wondering . . .

HERE'S THE BIGGEST ARGUMENT AGAINST ABORTION

we've come across yet: Two British doctors have discovered that babies "breathe" in the womb. They gasp, hiccup, sigh, cough and yawn. They begin to "breathe" from about the 13th week after conception when they are about four inches long. From the time of that first "breath," they "breathe" about 50% of the time. By the time the baby is born, he's had a lot of practice.

Once more we say: in NYS, abortion is legalized murder!

PERHAPS IT WAS LAZINESS THIS WEEK; perhaps, we are correct in thinking that the remainder of this column could use some words on our environment and recycling. Either way, we chose to include this release from C.D. SWEEP. We think you'll see why.

MARY, MARY, QUITE CONTRARY, WHERE DOES YOUR GARBAGE GO? To forty-six landfills in the Capital District, but is that the best place for it? Other possible ends for the 2500 tons of refuse that the Capital District generates each day are examined in KNOW YOUR GARBAGE, a brochure just published by the Capital District Solid Waste Environmental Education Program (C.D. SWEEP). Mary (and others) might be interested to know that this waste, if processed and burned, would be equivalent to the amount of energy produced by 75,000 gallons of oil. Recycling wastes could solve many problems of Mary's "throw-away society." KNOW YOUR GARBAGE tells the recycling story and points out that the root of the problem is too much waste.

Sponsored by the Environmental Action Foundation in Washington, and funded by a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency, C.D. SWEEP is a coalition of environmental groups formed to educate people in the Capital District on solid waste problems and possible solutions. The Environmental Action Foundation approached Betty Hawkins of the League of Women Voters to see if the Capital District would be interested in the EPA grant and C.D. SWEEP resulted. One of the major efforts of C.D. SWEEP is KNOW YOUR GARBAGE, which was written by Hassan El-Baroudi of R.P.I., with the help of Jon T. Scott of S.U.N.Y.A.; Dorothy Cornman, Sigrin Newell and Hope Donovan of the League of Women Voters; and Lee Gamelsky and Dave Camarow, students at S.U.N.Y.A. and R.P.I. respectively. Donald Mochon designed and illustrated the brochure, which has been so well received that another printing has already been ordered.

A SALUTE TO GARBAGE, a short, lighthearted documentary film by Jack Olfield, is also sponsored by C.D. SWEEP. This film looks at our only growing natural resource, solid waste. It explores the ludicrous aspects of the unending supply of junk, trash, garbage and refuse, as well as the sheer wastefulness of our affluent way of life. The key point of the film is the importance of solid waste recovery and recycling operations, including the hows and whys of setting up municipal-regional recycling, recovery operations.

In addition to the film and brochure, C.D. SWEEP has been reaching people with radio and television public service announcements; student members of Protect Your Environment at S.U.N.Y.A. have been conducting a telephone survey; and some of the brochures distributed ask people's opinions and practices in waste disposal.

Anyone interested in either the brochure, KNOW YOUR GARBAGE, or the film, A SALUTE TO GARBAGE, may call 457-7014 (SUNYA), or 456-6443, or write to C.D. SWEEP, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York.

CHARLIE WEAVER: "IT'S NOT DONKEY FAZOO!"

No, sir, Charlie, the Bethlehem Lions don't want good ball players but Donkeys that play ball 'good!'

What: Donkey Ball.

When: Saturday, March 9, at 8 P.M.

Where: Bethlehem Central High School Gym.

It's wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus to see members of the Bethlehem Lions Club, Bethlehem Police Department, Elsmere and Delmar Fire Departments mount those pesky little beasts that have minds of their own and definite ideas of how the game should be played. No matter how many times you may have seen Donkey Ball, it's always a brand new ball game — and our local Rough Riders will discover on Sunday that they have muscles and bones they never thought existed!

It's all for a good cause (as is your admission fee). The entire proceeds go to the Bethlehem Lions Sight Conservation Program. The Lions are known from coast-to-coast for their efforts on behalf of better sight.

So have fun and support one of the finest programs ever launched — and enjoy the tunes of Sam Bozzella's Broodingnagian Brass Band during the intermission. According to early reports, this will be worth more than the admission price!
