Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968—today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth . . . and keep it that way with automatic Inflation Coverage.

Bethlehem Dolphins: First Place
 Congratulations to the Town of Bethlehem Delmar Dolphins who brought home the "First Place" Trophy from the Tri-City League Championship Meet at the Red Oaks Swim Club in East Greenbush. Twelve area teams were represented in forty-six events: the Dolphins set three new meet records, tied two and won twelve first places and two relays. Setting pool records were: Robin Neff, Janet Bowman, Malcolm Cooper and the Girls 200 Yard Medley Relay (Robin Neff, Tina Eckhardt, Kelly Brown and Janet Bowman). Winning First Places were: Robin Neff (2), Jackie Marr (2), Malcolm Cooper (2), Janet Shaffer, Chris Mackey, Elizabeth Young, Janet Bowman, Ken Neff, Jeff Gillham and the Girls Relay (Neff, Eckhardt, Brown and Bowman).

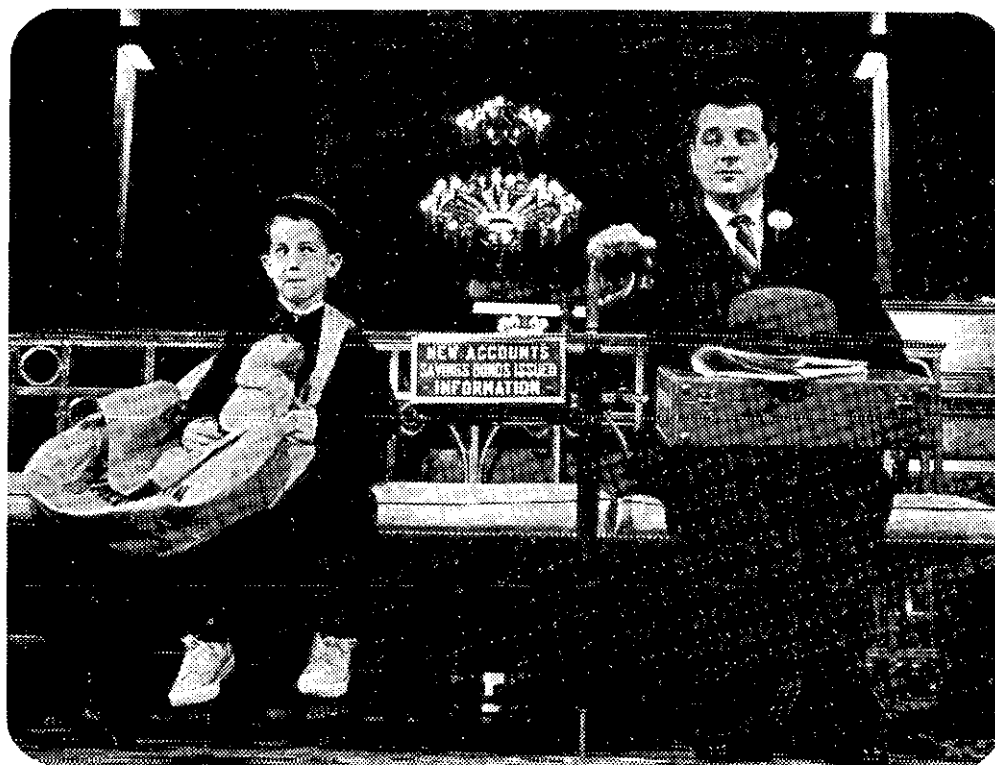

A very "big splash" was made by the Dolphins as a result of a summer of rigorous training: daily laps in generally cold waters, talented training by a dedicated coach and assistants, constant effort to improve strokes, a spirit of cooperation among team members, excellent club leadership, countless supportive volunteer hours, fine facilities and an important ingredient . . . a desire to win! And they did!

The 110 age group swimmers are deserving of our congratulations — they are children who have devoted their energies to developing their minds and bodies for competition. They are fortunate, indeed, to live in the Town of Bethlehem which, under the leadership of a forward-looking Town Supervisor, supports a progressive Recreation and Parks Program and excellent Town facilities.

For the Delmar Dolphins, the winning of the Tri-City Championship Trophy climaxed a summer of individual work and team effort. The swimmers competed last year and the year before and lost — the previous year they won by one point (prior to outdoor facilities). Certainly this win is to the credit of each child who has trained as a swimming competitor. To these swimmers who sprinted and won — let us say, "Congratulations for a job well done!"

Seven-Up Launches Fund-Raising Campaign

The Seven-Up Company is launching an all-out fund-raising promotion to aid the fight against muscular dystrophy and related diseases. Pledging a minimum donation of $100,000, the un-cola manufacturers will contribute 25¢ to Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America for every four Seven-Up cap liners or each carton seal sent in by consumers.

"We especially urge groups In describing the program, Capt. Lathwood stated, "I think this appeal is truly commendable. For a company as widely respected as Seven-Up to expend so much effort and money to help us is heartening. Seven-Up has provided a simple and appealing way to raise much-needed funds. Now all we have to do is convince individuals and groups to start collecting cap liners and carton seals."

"We especially urge groups and organizations," continued Captain Lathwood, "to urge their members save the Seven-Up materials and available in participating stores, to:"

Free Book Covers

Blanchard Post of the American Legion will again this year

distribute free school book covers to the children of our community. The covers will be available starting on the first day of school, Thursday, September 5. This is the eleventh consecutive year that Blanchard Post has sponsored this program which again this year is under the chairmanship of Past Commander Charles J. O'Hara. This is a typical American Legion project demonstrating its concern for the youth of our nation. On each cover is printed a non-denominational prayer composed jointly by three Legion chaplains of the major faiths, a Protestant Minister, a Jewish Rabbi and a Catholic Priest.

The covers will be distributed at the American Legion Hall on Poplar Drive in Elsmere, and at the seven bank offices in our community, the National Commercial Bank and Trust Co. (Delmar and Elsmere), the City and County Savings Bank, the State Bank of Albany, Banker's Trust, the Union National Bank and the West End Savings and Loan Association (Mullen's Drug Store).

At Last: Films On Dog Training!

The trouble with most training films is, there's either a feast or a famine. For golfers, plant workers, soldiers, camera buffs and others — you name it — there's a feast of how-to-do-it films. But for films on how to train your dog, it's been a long famine. Except for a few oldies, nothing.

But now, at last, there's good news for America's dog owners who are frustrated amateur trainers! A new series of five excellent 15-minute films show you everything you need to know about training your dog. And they're available to groups on loan without charge!

Entitled "Dog Obedience Training," these films star America's foremost dog training team of Milo and Margaret Pearsall, presented by the makers of ALPO.

Each film demonstrates a different training stage, guiding you as far as you and your pet want to go: Kindergarten Puppy Training, Basic & Novice Obedience, Open Dog Obedience, Utility Dog Obedience, and Training for Tracking.

The Puppy Training Film

A young, inexperienced couple with their first puppy asks "Can anyone learn how to train his dog?" and "Is my dog smart enough to learn?" With a reassuring "Yes," the Pearsalls prove it as this film moves from step to step.

Their approach to training is from the dog's viewpoint: what he sees, and how he sees it. For example, a door is 15 feet high to a puppy, and a step looks 8 feet high. So, they make training a game to be enjoyed by the pup.

We see how the way a person talks makes a strong impression on a young dog. Dogs have feelings. Even the way you look at them is significant. Glaring can upset a dog.

Among many beginner's tips are:

KIDNEY TRANSPLANTATION A POSSIBLE ANSWER TO AN AGE-OLD PROBLEM

Mention end stage kidney disease and most often people will tell you: "Yes, I've heard of someone who died from it" or "Wasn't that what actress Carole Lombard died of?" In few cases is the true extent of the problem understood or appreciated. The fact is, that in the area of killer diseases only circulatory problems and cancer kill more Americans than kidney disorders. Kidney disease ranks as the fourth most prevalent killer sharing the ominous spot next to auto mishaps. Why then isn't the problem drawing more attention or more being done?

Partially, the answer lies with the disease itself, which for many years defied recognition. All too often, even in comparatively modern times, definite diagnosis was not made until a patient's kidneys had been largely destroyed. The warning signs of kidney disease often are not recognized and sometimes ignored altogether. They are usually not violent symptoms; but consist of the following:

1. Burning or difficulty during urination — often excused as a natural consequence of age or a slight cold.
2. More frequent urination, particularly at night.
3. Passage of brown or bloody appearing urine; often shrugged off as the result of drinking too much coffee.
4. Puffiness around the eyes and swelling of the hands and feet. Sometimes thought of as a touch of hay fever or an allergy.
5. Pain in the small of the back, just below the ribs, not aggravated by movement and not often severe enough to create alarm.

If the public could be educated to watch out for kidney disease, many lives might be saved. Modern drug therapy can work wonders in clearing up the deep seated infections which destroy the kidneys. In past years, when it was determined a patient's kidneys were failing, little could be done. Without the kidneys which serve as the body's miracle filter in removing impurities from the blood stream, uric acid and poisons would soon reach a fatal level.

During the last decade, work to develop and improve upon an artificial kidney machine led to the Hemodialysis unit as we know it today. Essentially a filter and washing machine for the blood, the unit appears not unlike the familiar appliance, except that a patient's blood is taken to the machine via a shunt in the arm and routed back to the patient's blood stream after treatment. In the late 1960's, the scarcity of these expensive machines often forced decisions to be made as to who would live and who would die — a sad state for the most affluent nation on earth.

Today, dialysis has become a somewhat standardized procedure for the nation's kidney patients and includes a trip to a hospital's dialysis unit or their own home unit a few times a week, for several hours. Even if the procedure were successful, it would still represent an unwelcome imposition on a patient's life style. Dialysis seems to have other drawbacks however. The "machine" is not the sophisticated organ that the kidney is and tends to remove valuable substances from the blood as well as the poisons. While there seems to be considerable variations in an individual patient's tolerance of dialysis; statistically dialysis patients have markedly higher mortality rate than the rest of the population and most often do not experience what might be determined the glow of good health.

The alternative to dialysis maintenance is a transplant; a subject usually misunderstood and not fully appreciated by the general public. In spite of the greatly publicized and generally unsuccessful attempts in the area of heart transplantation; the fact is that kidney transplantations (those lasting a minimum of two years or more) are highly successful. Some recent studies indicate that under optimum conditions upwards of two-thirds of attempted kidney transplants could be successful. While science does not provide all the answers in determining the chances for a successful transplant, enough is known about body chemistry and tissue typing to insure at least a fair chance of success. Generally after the transplant a patient experiences a "rebirth;" a sort of vitality that had been missing while on dialysis. While there is still some debate as to whether improved dialysis or better transplantation will be the final answer to the kidney problem, the question is, unfortunately, academic in many cases. Cadaver kidneys which could be available in sufficient numbers from an enlightened public are scarce and hundreds of patients who doctors feel would benefit from a transplant are unable to avail themselves of one.

The Kidney Foundation, through its organ donor program, provides both information and answers to questions regarding transplantations. In many ways, the concept of organ transplantation is in a position comparable to that of blood transfusions fifty years ago. There remains much ignorance and even superstition concerning the subject. Willing the kidneys after death is not a complicated procedure and involves merely the carrying of a small wallet card. Robert Bangert of 53 Alden Court, Delmar and Alex Bayne of 14 Ford Avenue, Latham, themselves transplants will be glad to answer any questions the public may have. Their phone numbers can be obtained and any further questions answered by calling the Kidney Foundation of Northeast New York, 1112 Madison Avenue, Albany, N.Y. 12208 at 489-8301 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
