BETHLEHEM

Political preview: police, primaries and party problems

Trust the politicians to snap townspeople out of the midwinter lethargy that grips communities like Bethlehem between the excitement of Christmas and the awakening of spring. The quiet of a relatively peaceful hibernation was broken last week by both local parties, providing constituents with a preview of political pyrotechnics ahead.

On the basis of last week's developments, signs pointed to:

 Democrats seizing the town board's controversial move reshuffling the police

No Spotlight Feb. 24

Next week is the first of three "breaks" in the Spotlight's 1977 publication schedule. We will not publish Feb. 24, July 7 of Sept. 8. Because the Spotlight is written and the type set on weekends and goes to the printers each Monday, the only way to give editors, typesetters and pressman a holiday weekend is to suspend publication.

We hope you'll understand why there will be no Spotlight next Thursday.

On three other "long" weekends of the year we will publish --- Memorial Day, Christmas and New Year's Day.

The Spotlight office at 414 Kenwood Ave., however, will be open next week (except Monday, Presidents' Day) to serve your classified ad and subscription needs.

setup as a possible No. 1 issue in this fall's municipal election campaign.

• Republicans facing a possible intramural challenge in an effort to build a new image and shake free of a carryover Kohinke-syndrome younger party members feel hampers GOP chances to retain control of 393 Delaware Ave.

• Party leaders on both sides confronted with the age-old problem of finding candidates who can make strong runs under pressure from Bethlehem's finicky voters.

There was activity in both camps last week with more to come. Kenelm R. Thacher Jr., town Democratic chairman. drew Supervisor Harry H. Sheaffer into an impromptu three-minute debate at a town ooard meeting by aiming a broadside at the GOP leader for his announced move to supplant Police Chief Peter Fish Jr. by creating a new post of commissioner of public safety. Less than 24 hours later Bernard Kaplowitz, rounding out his first year as town Republican chairman, set up a candidate screening committee and Edward Mocker, longtime GOP dissident and outspoken critic of ex-chairman Bertram E. Kohinke, notified Kaplowitz he would challenge incumbent Harold L. Williams in a primary fight for a seat on the town board.

Kaplowitz would make no comment on Mocker's challenge, and there was no indication whether Williams, the town's senior councilman. would seek another term. Preparing for the first local election campaign since Kohinke stepped down a year ago, Kaplowitz faces the formidable task of reversing a momentum that has seen slow but steady slippage in the pluralities of Bethlehem's entrenched Republican organization. The party's 1975 margin was the slimmest yet, giving local Democrats hope that this year could see the first break in the GOP stranglehold on town hall since the birth of the republic.

Kaplowitz, inheriting a 42member town committee heavily populated with Kohinke adherents and town employees, last week set up a seven-member candidatescreening panel he himself will head. With him will be Thomas W. Scherer and Dixon Welt, vice chairman and secretarytreasurer of the town committee respectively, Charles Fritts, Marcia Nelson, Peter Wenger and Samuel Capone.

The screening procedure represents a new approach for Bethlehem Republicans. Presumably the committee will meet with Mocker and with Edward Sargent, a county legislator and Delmar Republican who last fall was reelected with the endorsement of the Democrats.

Mocker, a third generation Bethlehem Republican, is president of Three Farms Dairy in Glenmont and coowner with his brother of LaCasa Restaurant in Selkirk. He has served on the town planning board for the last 10 years.

There was no indication, however, whether Williams would run again. "I haven't made up my mind," he said over the weekend.

Both Kaplowitz and Thacher are under pressure to speed up their 1977 plans if the Legislature enacts, as expected, a bill advancing the date of the party primaries from September to June 7. The first day for filing petitions would then be March 7. "We're shooting for a Feb. 28 meeting to pin down the slate," said Kaplowitz.

Thacher warmed up for the coming fray by needling Sheaffer on the police issue as the supervisor was winding up last week's town board session. Sheaffer reiterated previous statements that the town's growth necessitated the revised setup. "We are at the point where we need to put in increased professionalism and an administrator. Morale (in the police department) is not what it should be."

"This may not be the time," Thacher responded. "You are building an extra $25,000 into the budget at a time when state aid to localities is being cut."

Later Thacher declared: "The chief executive of this town is responsible for seeing that the police department does its job. The hiring of another overseer is an admission of his failure to do his job. Does this mean that his next step will be to hire someone to oversee the building inspector and the sewer district?"

Towns select Wallace

Stephen P. Wallace, town of New Scotland supervisor, has been named to the nominating committee of the New York: State Association of Towns, which will hold its annual statewide conference next week in New York City. HISTORICAL ASSN.

Spotlight reporter unwelcomed, evicted

By Cheryl Marks

A photography professor at Syracuse University tells his classes that no one can call himself a photographer until he has had his camera broken - at least once. If the prerequisite to calling oneself a reporter is to get kicked out of a meeting - at least once - I have now earned the title Reporter.

As I entered the room at the Bethlehem Museum last Thursday, about 20 persons were listening to the minutes of the last meeting. Two chairs were available. I sat next to one of two persons in the room who knew who I was. She asked if I was from the Spotlight, and after hearing my affirmative answer, she scribbled a note and handed it to the president, Mrs. Edward R. Dillon, Jr.

After the minutes were respectfully adopted, Mrs. Dillon stood up and acknowledged the unfamiliar faces. She asked who I was. I gave my name (she didn't introduce herself, nor was I offered any of the coffee) and then she asked why I was there. I knew Mrs. VanOostenbrugge had already told her why I was there, so I answered.

I won't say a hush fell over the room after I said "Spotlight" but it was quickly decided I was uninvited.

Mrs. Dillon said they were not ready for the press and inferred that the meeting was private. I asked if she minded if I stayed to listen. She did mind, but so I wouldn't feel it was anything personal, she called for a vote on whether or not I should be asked to leave.

William Pompa stood up and suggested that since the Spotlight informs the taxpayers of Bethlehem what is going on at the museum and with the historical association, I should be allowed to stay. The reaction to that was to adjourn the present meeting and go into executive session. A voice vote was taken to have me expelled and only two votes favored letting me stay.

Two thoughts were in my mind as I left. I wondered if the minutes will show that a vote was taken to throw me out. I also wondered if Mrs. Dillon realized that evicting a reporter from a meeting in a building the town owns and for which it provides 100 percent of its maintenance makes a bigger story than the association's routine business.

I have only one question. What is the association doing down there that they don't want the people in the town of Bethlehem to know about?

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN ON A CRUISE? YOU WOULD LOVE IT REALLY! TRY IT!

It is Deluxe living at it's very best. You will be waited on hand and foot. Three, four and five meals a day of the most delicious food anyone could want--cooked by some of the world's most experienced chefs. The smell of the salt air--the warm Caribbean sunshine is most satisfying to the soul. A week, two or even three, will make you a new person.

It is facinating to lean on the rail and watch foaming, white sparkling waters splitting off the bow, outward to form the wake of bubbles for a mile or more out past the stern. It is just as beautiful at night, especially if there is a moon.

You will have time to go ashore and visit the different ports, mix with people, go sightseeing and not the least of all go shopping in some of the many attractive stores and boutiques of the islands, South America, Mexico etc. There are swimming pools an board shipgames and sports an deck with movies and floor shows at night. All included. Or, if you choose, just loaf in a deck chair in the warm and let the gentle 'trade winds' caress you. There's nothing like it! If you are interested in spoiling yourself on a cruise call me for an appointment. I will be glad to bring cruise brochures to your home at your convenience. These will show the layout of the ship, location of your cabin, facilities, dates of sailing and costs. Making people happy is my business! 518-439-2316 anytime.

PBA: waiting for the 'other shoe

Each day the Legislature delays enacting provisions that permit state workers on pensions to take "outside" jobs adds to the suspense in the Bethlehem Police Dept. Until the Albany law makers act, the Bethlehem town board's appointment of Ralph A. Tipple of Elsmere to the new post of public safety commissioner is merely a verbal commitment.

Meanwhile, not even a 6-percent pay boost this year and the assurance of a wage reopener next year has made police department members comfortable. Many in the 25-member Bethlehem Police Benevolent Assn. are uncertain wheater the new setup, in which longtime Chief Peter Fish Jr. will report to the new commissioner, will be good for the department.

A story in the Albany Knickerbocker News last week appeared to confirm Supervisor Harry H. Sheaffer contention that departmen moral has declined. The pape quoted Officer Theodor Wilson, past president of th BPBA, as saying he is not sur that a new commissioner "ca come in and change mora overnight." The article als said Wilson stated th department was "bad undermanned."

The new commission would have jurisdiction ov the police department, traff safety, civil defense and decontroll. Tipple, who retir Dec. 30 after 28 years with t state police is waiting for t legal technicality to takt ov the post, although no one in t town government officially h confirmed that he is the boar selection.

Announcement of the n setup has strained relation between Sheaffer and Fi More than a week after Spotlight broke the story, F said: "I haven't been apprised of it (as of a week after the Jan. 27 Spotlight story). The supervisor explained the police department was growing and needed new leadership and direction. At this point I don't know what the post is or what the supervisor has in mind."

Fish joined the department in 1951 and has been chief since 1962. He has civil service status.

The new wage contract, approved by the town board and ratified by the PBA, was formalized in a signing ceremony at town hall leaturing Joseph Sleurs, new PBA president, and Sheaffer.

Museum seeks to heal rift

Trustees and officers of the Bethlehem Historical Assn. have asked the state for help in an effort to bring harmony to a jurisdictional squabble that has hampered the museum group's functions for two years.

The association late last week invited a state representative to a special meeting this Monday to clarify the group's functions and procedures. A Spotlight reporter, Cheryl Marks of Delmar, was ushered out of last Thursday's meeting at the Clapper Rd. museum which had been called to iron out differences between two factions.

Mrs. Edward R. Dillon Jr. of Delmar, president of the association, identified the State Education Dept. representative as Ed Winslow. In Albany, Edmund Winslow, a senior historian with the SED, confirmed Friday that he had agreed to attend the meeting Monday.

The association's charter was granted by the Board of Regents and signed by the commissioner of education. One faction of association members insist the charter is specific in defining the functions and procedures of the association, while a group of officers insist a constitution and bylaws should govern the organization's affairs.

"It's a matter of clarifying the provisions of the charter," observed Supervisor Harry H. Sheaffer, who is listed along with town historian Thomas E. (Ed) Mulligan as trustee exofficio.

Mrs. Dillon said the museum's six trustees, its officers and the immediate past president were invited to Monday's meeting. At last week's session Mrs. Dillon called for a vote on a motion to request the Spotlight reporter to leave the meeting. The motion was carried by voice vote with only two "nays."

William Pompa, who resigned last year as president in a dispute with other officers, said he regretted Miss Marks "was treated so badly." He added: "This organization belongs to the people (of the town), not just to members who pay dues. Because of that the Spotlight reporter had a right to be there."

NEW SALEM Edict on water irks developer

When the New Scotland planning board granted preliminary approval to a land developer last fall to lay out five building lots in the proposed Indian Ladder Estates in New Salem, it did so in anticipation that the developer would set up a public water district. Later the Albany County health department indicated it would approve the project with the understanding formation of the water district was in process.

Last week the developers, Austin Guiffre and his son, Joseph, principals in Guiffre Construction Co., stalked out of town hall on Rt. 85 without obtaining final approval for the five-lot subdivision they want to build on New Salem South Rd. along the loop opposite Rock Hill Rd. The board shelved the Guiffre's petition when it learned the developers proposed to supply the sites with three wells. "There's plenty of water," the younger Guiffre told board members. "Last year I filled my swimming pool in two days-18,000 gallons."

Chairman Robert Cook and associates were unimpressed. "I think this board is leading us down a rosy path," complained Austin Guiffre. Replied Fred Edmunds, attorney for the board: "All these things have been said before. Now we're looking at five lots with wells, and that surprises us."

Currently New Scotland has one water district, the one that serves Heldervale in Slingerlands. Property owners can establish a water district by installing a distribution system and contracting with the town of Bethlehem for tapping into their system. Bethlehem is supplied by a reservoir and pumping station in New Salem with supply mains beneath New Scotland Rd. linking the facility with Bethlehem users.

DELMAR

Bid for record: a 27-foot card

Students at St. Thomas school presented Rev. James Daley with a 27 1/3 foot birthday card for his Jan. 13 birthday.

The idea for the birthday card, which could be signed by all 270 students, came from fourth graders Pat Mylord and Bridget Carey. The students, grades K - 8, inscribed their birthday greetings on the long sheet of shelf paper during their lunch hour.

After the card was presented to Fr. Daley, seventh grade students Michael Eck and Doug Griffin thought the Guinness Book of World Records would want to know about the world's longest birthday card. Soon they will be sending documentation, which will include this Spotlight article, to the record recorders in hopes of being included in the next edition of the Guinness book.

It's Delmar Day in Sarasota sun

Laurence R. Moses, former Delmar resident now living in Sarasota, Fla., has sent word to the Spotlight that the ninth annual "Delmar Day" reunion is scheduled for March 7 in Sarasota.

The gathering will be held in its usual spot, the recreation building of the Sarasota Mobile Home Park at 2100 E. Laurel St. starting at 11:30 a.m. Guests are asked to bring their lunch. Coffee will be served. The program will include music, songs, slides taken at last year's reunion, a brief illustrated talk by Howard Johnson on Albany's Empire State Plaza and "Art White's five-minute message," according to Moses.

Delmar's fugitive contingent is spearheaded by Glicks, Phears, Holmeses, Petersons, Johnsons, Williamses and Harringtons. Return postcards have been mailed to the committee's "active list" with replies to D.S. Dewire, 6841 Roxbury Dr., Sarasota 33581.

NEW SCOTLAND

Assessor's post goes to Bailey

William C. Bailey of Feura Bush is expected to be appointed New Scotland town assessor at the town board's monthly meeting on March 2.

Bailey was endorsed by the town's Republican committee last week, a selection that is tantamount to the official appointment in view of the Republican's 3-2 voting margin on the town council.

"Bill Bailey has the blessing: of Republicans on the board," observed Supervisor Stephen Wallace. "We're very pleased with the selection."

Bailey has served 12 years as tax collector for the town. He plans to phase out of active participation in Bailey's Garage in Elsmere, the business he and his brother have operated and which founded by their father in the 1930s. He stared with the garage while still in high school, served with the infantry in the European theater during World War 2, and is a member of Bethlehem Elks, Voorheesville American Legion post, Voorheesville Rod and Gun Club and the U.S. Army Reserve. He is the father of three sons, one with Conrail, one in the family garage business and one a student at Drexel University, Philadelphia.

Bailey succeeds Michael A Ulion, who retired as town asswssor. The town committee has not acted on naming a replacement as tax collector.

Planning Normanside celebration: Corts, Tinney and Burke

ELSMERE

Normanside plans anniversary fete

For Normanside Country Club members the annual President's Ball at the clubhouse in Elsmere Saturday will be something special. This year's event will inaugurate a year-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the club.

During the year the anniversary will be commemorated by the erection of suitable plaques to honor founding members and by appropriate golf and swimming tournaments during the celebration period. The President's Ball is under the guidance of John C. Dagneau, entertainment chairman. The golden anniversary committee is headed by John E. Burke and Edward H. Corts, cochairmen. The president of the club is William E. Tinney.

The club was founded in 1927 by a group of Bethlehem townsmen headed by William A. Glenn, father of present member John E. Glenn, Others in the group were Dr. Thomas M. Holmes, Dr. Edward J. Bedell, Fred M. Earing and Walter P. R. Pember. On Feb. 2, 1927 a public meeting was held at the Elsmere school house near the site of the present American Legion building, where the proposition was enthusiastically approved. On April 15, 1927, the founders purchased, 282 acres comprising the farms of James W. and Lois Zimmer, George W. and Katherine I. Secor and William Salisbury.

CLARKSVILLE Safety lesson on snowbanks

Snowbanks are often higher than children, so Sgt. Leo (Pat) Dorsey of the Bethlehem Police Dept. Youth Division is telling youngsters they must watch out for cars and buses because drivers often cannot see them.

Sgt. Dorsey spoke on Winter safety to classes at the Clarksville grade school. David Murphy, principal, was concerned about the 30 children who walk to school along Delaware Tpk.

The children were told not to walk along the tops of snowbanks to avoid sliding into the street. Youngsters were also cautioned to wait for the bus to come to a complete stop before boarding or getting off.

Sgt. Dorsey talked about the danger of throwing snowballs at cars or buses and suggested a tree or snowman would be a better target.

Sgt. Dorsey will be speaking at Hamagrael on Feb. 28 and also plans to talk with the other grade schools.

New Delmar business

An Albany father and son have opened a garage business in Delmar and will service domestic and foreign cars with general repairs, tuneups and air conditioning service. Jim Donato Sr. and Jimmy Jr. set up shop at 90 Adams St. adjacent to the D& H crossing. The Donatos, who operated the Delaware Ave. Exxon station at Southern Blvd.. Albany, for the past six years, have two tow trucks, a tire service truck and a fourwheel-drive service vehicle. They will continue as an authorized AAA service facility.

Stop Thief

A house that robs its owner is a common criminal and should be stopped!

If your house uses more heat than it has to, you're being robbed.

And . . . you can probably do something about it.

Information The Home Energy Savings Program

With your next Niagara Mohawk bill you'll receive some answers to questions you've been asking.

- "How can I find out if my house really needs more insulation? And how much?"
- "Where can I find out how much it will cost to insulate properly?"
- "Is there a low-cost way to finance the work?"
- "Will I save enough to pay for it?"

Here's Help

Niagara Mohawk's HOME ENERGY SAVINGS PROGRAM provides answers to such questions. And you don't have to wait for the bill insert. You can act today!

- Ask for free literature to help you decide whether you need additional winterizing to help you save on heating bills.
- On request you'll get a list of qualified insulation contractors in your own area. Any one of them will inspect your home, advise on what insulation your home requires to reduce wasted heat, and tell you in advance how much the work will cost. (You are under no obligation to get the work performed.)

■ Get a list of area banks which will finance such home improvements as insulating on extended-period, low-interest terms. (If you request, many of these banks will call you and describe their programs and without obligation.)

What To Do?

Send in the coupon today. Or wait for the bill insert on HOME ENERGY SAVINGS. Either way you can hurry receipt of the information you want. Either way there's no cost . . . and the year-after-year savings in heating costs could be substantial.

Stop dreaming... we've got mortgage money to loan.

State Bank, is very much a part of the home building industry in the Northeast. We not only finance home builders, but home buyers as well.

. We'd like to offer a few words of advice before you take that big step. Consider the many factors involved. If it's a new home, pick a reliable builder. And you'll save yourself a lot of headaches and heartaches by dealing with a reputable real-estate firm. Consider location. School systems. Taxes. And dozens of other things. Again, your realtor can be of invaluable service to you.

When you've settled on what kind of home you're going to buy — old or new — and are satisfied that this is the home you've been dreaming about, come on in and Let's Talk.

As we said — we have mortgage money to loan — to people like you.

DELMAR Coffeehouse new vouth nightspot

When is a coffeehouse not a coffeehouse?

In Delmar, "coffeehouse" is an ambiguous term that formerly referred to the building where folk concerts were presented, and the people who presented them.

The folk concerts are still being presented by the Bethlehem Coffeehouse, Inc., but the building has a new name and new purposes. The former Caslon Press building across from the police station on Adams St. has been renamed the Community Center to differentiate it from the Bethlehem Coffeehouse, Inc. and to reflect its new uses.

Folk concerts are generally held twice a month, so the building was not being used to its full potential. Community groups need large meeting rooms, so the decision was made to open up the building to other groups. Use of the building is approved through Lloyd R. "Bud" Wilson, Jr., director of the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation. Among others enjoying the building are the senior citizens, boy and girl scouts, and Campus Life.

A coffeehouse is a place where folk entertainment is provided for a fairly cheap price. Ideally, the atmosphere is homey and has a celler appearance.

The large panelled room which serves as the concert arena looks like a multipurpose room during the day, but on performance nights, after the big wire-wpool tables are rolled out and the lights are dimmed, the atmosphere becomes pleasantly folksy.

The smell of coffee and home baked goods are also condusive to the restful, homey feeling.

Country dances and pie nights have been popular alternatives to the folk concerts. Country dances, which are similar to square dances, are easy to learn, and fun to do, and therefore are well liked.

Pie nights feature a variety of performers and homemade pies. With the price of admission comes a free piece of pie. While the audience enjoys the pie, different entertainers perform.

In the past, the coffeehouse has presented Don McLean, David Bromberg, and others who perform in the same style.

This Friday there will be a "country dance" with Horseheads String Bank, Saturday night Andy Lawrence is the attraction and next Saturday it's Debby Mc-Clatchy.

Town 'recruitment'

Editor, The Spotlight:

Although I have no person interest in the proposal, I w surprised to see how the tow of Bethlehem recruits for appointed officers. Over t past five years, at least, "oprecruitment" has been t method of filling vacancies public agencies which are not the civil service writte examination process. I h presumed the town and villag were not excepted.

To announce the creation, a new post as public safe commissioner and at the sar time to have the appointee mind seems to indicate th "cronyism" flourishes in t Town of Bethlehem, I wou think that a top position of t type would involve wide op recruitment, standard crite and an independent selecti committee to make reco mendations for candidates.

It might be a good thing have the position "hung up" a technicality until a broad a open search can be made itor, The Spotlight:

Far be it from my intent to to run the town of thlehem, for it has been and being handled very skillfully not only our forefathers but the persons presently in arge of its care. However, as itizen and friend among you, lo have a suggestion which ght be considered and which ght be helpful to many if not of our citizens.

Would not the recently sed Delmar Elementary hool and site be an excellent ce for someone to invest pital and hire assistance to retop a Super Health Area all its citizens?

There is room for exercising chines, facilities for diet bgrams, showers, exercise as for those needing special rapy including the youth of area, saunas might be talled, tennis and golf ctice area, office space to duct business or for rent, rooms for dancing lessons, and crafts, etc.

fees could be charged for use these services and areas, grams could be designed women, for men and for tilies.

tor, The Spotlight:

hank you so much for the article The Spotlight did the fund established at the rary in honor of the 60th ding anniversary of the wds. Mr. and Mrs. Howd e so pleased with the article the response they had as a alt of it that they made a erous donation to the fund nselves! We were delighted.

Everyone in the community, especially those visually handicapped, will benefit from the large print materials and cassettes which will be purchased with money from the fund.

We all apopreciate the fine coverage the Spotlight gives to the Library and its activities.

Ann P. D'Attilio Administrative Assistant Delmar

Thanks to community

Editor, The Spotlight:

This is to thank you and your staff at The Spotlight for the editorial support given to the Red Cross over the past year. With your help we were able to let the public know about the services which Red Cross renders and, in turn, enlist their support in terms of volunteers, money and blood -- all the things that are needed if the agency is to do its job in the community, the nation and at times in distant places such as Guatemala.

We know you will share with us the pride of knowing that our annual Gift of Life Month (December) was again successful. At the bloodmobiles held by our Blood Center during the month -including Delmar -- collections totaled 5,109 units. This was 122 units more than the previous record year. And while the special Gift of Life Sunday collections dropped slightly from last year, the overall total, as noted, more than made up for them.

So please pass on our thanks to the staff and to the folks at City & County Savings Bank for giving us a spot in the "Community Corner" page.

Our chapter manager, Dexter Galusha, and Dr. Anthony Britten, director of the Blood Center, join me in wishing you and the staff a healthy and successful year.

Joseph A. Constantino Director of Public Relations Albany

Little League Registration

Spring may seem a long way in the future, but it can't be far when Little League registration is at hand.

Tri-Village Little League registration will be held on Feb. 26 and March 5 at the Bethlehem Public Library and at Clarksville Elementary School from 1 to 3 p.m. The fee is $10 for the first child and $5 each additional child in a family, the same as last year.

Registrants must be 8 years old before August 1, 1977 and must not have had their 13th birthday before that date. First-time registrants must bring birth certificate.
