BETHLEHEM

Cable TV: this fall, depending on where you live

Cable television will spread steadily through the more populated areas of Bethlehem this fall, starting in September. Just when you get your own hookup depends on two things: how fast the franchised crews can string the 35 miles of trunk cables and how close you live to the tower now under construction off Elm Ave.

"We're shooting for September," says George Smede, manager of Bethlehem Video, Inc. "We hope to have the first customers on and start service by Sept. 5. That's a tight schedule, but we hope to make it."

Smede said the first customers to pipe in the new multi-channel spectrum will be those who live along Elm Ave. and Feura Bush Rd. on the outskirts of Delmar. Others will be able to hook in as the lines push toward Elsmere Ave. and then across Delmar. By the cold weather, depending on how fast the work progresses, most of Delmar, Elsmere, Glenmont and Slingerlands will be connected. Then the crews will head for South Bethlehem and the southern and river areas of the town. Everything should be completed by mid-November, a spokesman said.

This week work crews are installing "anchors" that hold the existing poles upright as part of the make-ready process. Anchor and make-ready are part of the new CATV language: an anchor is a metal rod with an eye that is installed in the ground adjacent to the utility pole, to which the lateral cable is attached leading from the trunk cable high on the pole; make-ready is the preparation of the poles and routes, which have to be cleared with power company and telephone officials.

"We'll be installing anchors this week," said Smede. "Right now people are getting rights-of-way in yards for the anchors." Meanwhile the concrete for the tower base was poured last Friday, and the 100-foot tower was due to be erected this week, possibly Monday or Tuesday. The tower, only 100 feet tall, will be back from the road and "should not be prominently visible from the road," according to Smede.

Bethlehem households will pay between $7 and $9 a month for approximately 10 additional channels. They include two independent TV stations from New York City and one from Boston, two news channels, an OTB (off-track betting) channel, a public access channel for community productions, educational access and government access, channels, and the Home Box Office commercial channel.

Installation charges will run from $20 depending on the number of outlets needed to serve a family with diverse viewing tastes. Residential rates apply to each residential housing unit, whether single, duplex or apartment.

The Home Box Office entertainment "package" will cost extra, probably around $8, a Bethlehem Video spokesman said, and will be billed separately. The HBO offerings include new movies, stage and night club acts and live coverage of sports events.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Aug. 10 in town hall to accommodate two technicalities: the converter deposit was omitted from the original franchise application, and an armchair "remote" converter has since become available as an optional piece of equipment supplementing the standard converter. The additional cost probably will be about 75 cents a month, officials said.

POLICE

Burglars get jewels, guns

Sneak thieves who slipped through an improperly locked rear door in mid-afternoon escaped with jewelry, silver coins and four guns after ransacking a Selkirk residence last week. John Brauer, owner of the house, estimated his loss at $4,000.

Bethlehem police also are investigating theft of a 10-speed bicycle from a garage in Delmar and a car-stripping incident in Slingerlands. The bicycle thief climbed through an open window of a locked garage at 223 Murray Ave. A car owned by Michael W. Usher, 5 So. Helderberg Pkwy., Slingerlands, was stripped of four wheels and tires while parked at his house in the early morning hours last Wednesday. The thieves left a jack on the last wheel.

Michael F. Cootware, at 75 Blessing Rd., reported that someone broke into his parked car at the apartment complex on Blessing Rd. and took four hubcaps, a CB radio and antenna and an 8-track tape player with a total value of $660.

In North Bethlehem, Milton Mosall, Schoolhouse Rd., told police a rear door of his house had been forced and an upstairs bedroom ransacked. Taken were $100 in cash and a small steel safe containing coins and personal papers. The theft occurred between 2 and 4:30 p.m. Thursday, and a passerby furnished police the description of a pickup truck seen leaving the premises.

Subdivision gets building permits

Bethlehem's planning board has given a final go-ahead to a McKownville land developer to start home construction on the first three lots of a proposed 34-lot subdivision on Murray Ave. in Delmar.

In a unanimous vote, the board granted a permit to Morton E. Jenkins, a Troy investor who is the principal and president of Jenkins Management Co., Inc., 55 Woodlake Rd. North, McKownville. Eight of the lots in the subdivision front on Murray Ave., which is served by town sewer, water and storm sewer systems.

Jenkins told the board he needed the permit because he had a purchaser for the three lots. The land was formerly owned by Elizabeth Murray.

feet of new road across a section of the Amsler property by-passing a reverse turn. Under the contract, Amsler will be deeded the section of land on which the present road is located. Amsler owns land on both sides of the road at this point.

The work will eliminate at least two cranks of the steering wheel for every passing vehicle in either direction.

Blessing to lose couple of kinks

Blessing Rd., the town's nearest approach to a corkscrew highway, will lose a bit of its character this month. Supervisor Harry H. Sheaffer told the town board last week town attorneys had completed an exchange of land with Duane Amsler of Slingerlands that will permit straightening of a small section of the twisting road.

Bethlehem highway crews were scheduled to start the project this week. The work involved approximately 150

Flag Is stolen

A modern-day version of that popular summer-camp game, "Capture the Flag," was reenacted in Slingerlands last week when the community American flag atop the pole at the intersection of New Scotland Rd. and Bridge St. disappeared. The thieves took the rope from the pole and made off with the flag. The flag was contributed by the Slingerlands Fire Dept., the pole by Juris Van Cans, 150 New Scotland Rd., and maintenance of the small triangular plot by the town of Bethlehem.

NEW SCOTLAND
town highways

For homebound rush-hour traffic, Krumkill Rd. from North Bethlehem to Voorheesville is a favorite short cut that bypasses bumper-to-bumper traffic on the main roads. When the word gets around that it now sports a full coat of new blacktop, the traffic count may jump.

Town of New Scotland Highway Dept. crews last week completed the first segment of their 1977 road-rebuilding program, which included Krumkill Rd. between Font Grove Rd., Slingerlands, and the Bethlehem town line just west of Schoolhouse Rd. Also resurfaced are Smith Lane and Apple Blossom Lane in Voorheesville, and upper Font Grove Rd. from Krumkill to New Scotland Rd., Slingerlands. The three projects, represent a total of 4.0 miles of town highway.

Supt. Peter Van Zetten said the work involved grading, filling and ditching as well as a complete new surface applied with a leased moto-paver. Still on the town's tentative schedule of resurfacing are Waldemiar Rd., Mathias Lane in Feura Bush, Slingerlands Ave. in Clarksville and the Olive St. loop near the Clarksville elementary school, but Van Zetten said these projects, approximating two miles overall, would not be started before Sept. 1, and even then "it all depends on how much is left in the budget at that time."

his job or transferring him to Slingerlands.

Supt. Lawrence A. Zinn and board president Ann Patton met last week with some 50 parents and a five-member panel voicing objections to the board's intention to transfer David Murphy to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Virginia Lowe and replace Murphy with a half-time principal and half-time teacher.

Clarksville's objections

centered on three points: that the budget had already been adopted with the money for a full time principal, that they had not been told of the decision until the last day of school, and that the quality of education at Clarksville would decline with a half-time principal. The question of the school being closed in the future also was brought up several times by the parents. The Clarksville school is the smallest of the district's five grade schools with a projected enrollment next year of 143.

Gravestones tell many a story of bygone days

By Allison P. Bennett
Second of 2 Articles

A stroll through the old section of Elmwood Cemetery on Rt. 9W in Selkirk reminds us vividly of how perilous life was in the 19th century, especially for women of child-bearing age.

In this historic burial ground, the last resting place of many prominent Bethlehem citizens of a bygone era, many stones record deaths of wives from 21 to 35 years of age. One stone records "Margaret, wife of Edward, buried with infant son." These stones recall, too, the beauty of the old fashioned names: Bridget, Maria, Rebecca, Kezia, Lanah, Lucinda, Deborah, Hannah, Magdalene, Lorena, Charity, Angelica and others.

Small stones scattered prolifically about tell of another group to whom life was often fleeting in those earlier years. These little stones denote the graves of children, and we can only vaguely imagine the heartaches of parents so often repeated when we see the single small but elongated headstone bearing the names of "John, Johnny, Kitty, Harry and Mary," the five babies of Christian and Margaret Veeder. We pause, too, at three identical little stones to wonder what dreadful affliction snuffed out the lives of Eddie, Willie and Jennie, aged 2-4-6, all within an eight-week period. Many children's stones are topped with a carved lamb, but we found only one of these in Elmwood. One other unusual one was that of Arthur Riddle, about 1870—a naked child in

The price of prescription drugs has dropped about 10 percent in the last decade... There has been a cost saving to the consumer, even though the average price for each prescription filled at the drugstore has risen from $3.22 to $3.86 in the last 10 years... The reason for this seeming contradiction, is that the number of drug doses in each prescription has risen by 27 percent—so that Americans are now buying drugs in larger quantities, and at higher overall costs, but are paying less than before on a unit basis...

Find service as you like it — fast and friendly from the efficient staff at KRUGMAN'S DELMAR PHARMACY INC. We handle a full line of drugs and have a large well equipped pharmacy to handle your prescriptions. You can depend on KRUGMAN'S DELMAR PHARMACY, 361 Delaware Ave., 439-9914 for all your prescription requirements. Reach us after hours by calling store phone or 439-4582. pose, covered with a drape, carved atop the stone.

The only private vault in Elmwood is one erected for the Eddy family in 1916. It is of granite, in Greek temple design and contains two lovely stained glass windows depicting a setting sun over a lake.

In scanning a book of early regulations pertaining to the cemetery we find the following, published in 1861: No admittance within the gates on Sunday or holidays, except on foot; no person admitted on horseback without obtaining a permit; no horse shall be left in the grounds unfastened and no smoking will be allowed within the inclosure. There is also an old Law of 1853 pertaining to the protection of birds within a public cemetery: any person who shall kill, wound or trap any bird within the cemetery or destroy a bird's nest or eggs, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of five dollars for each bird killed, etc., the penalty to go towards the support of the poor of the county. Do our present day environmentalists think they have invented something new?

The newer portion of the cemetery contains many attractive monuments, but somehow they do not seem as fascinating to this beholder—probably because we were too well acquainted with many of those who lie beneath those stones, and it reminds us all too vividly of our own mortality.

All of the loving care that was tendered from those earliest trustees down to the present day is very apparent when you walk or drive through the cemetery. One is impressed by the manicured grounds and the general air of well-being that is bestowed here by the Smith family, who are the groundskeepers. The grass is carefully cut and trimmed and all planting of flowers and decorations is carefully controlled. Generous donors have given brass name plaques on the entrance gates, a lovely little fountain and chimes that can be activated for funerals, Memorial Day and other special services held within the grounds.

Attractive plantings and fences delineate the property, and lovely old trees add their own grace to this peaceful landscape. The board has been prudent in the use of funds and the cemetery is well endowed.

In view of rising land values in the area, the board has used foresight in purchasing 23.3 additional acres of the former Husted Myers property, which adjoins, and is incorporating this for future use. The cemetery land is open to anyone who desires to become a purchaser, as the cemetery association is not connected with any church or organization, but is entirely governed by the trustees.

On visiting Elmwood Cemetery memories of other people and times is evoked, along with lessons of the past. The visitor goes through the gates renewed and re-endowed with an earnest purpose of devoting what is left of his own life to holier works in the future. Wandering among these memorials of love, we know that these supulchres shall remain after we are forgotten—these monuments shall remain as memorials of the past.

ELSMERE 2 youths jailed on knife charges

Two New Jersey youths who caused a ruckus at McDonald's Sunday night and tried to fight off police officers have been detailed in Albany County jail for a hearing next week.

Bethlehem police booked George Rowland, 22 of River Edge, N.J., and David Oberman, 18, of Paramus, N.J., on charges of disorderly conduct, menacing and resisting arrest. They were arraigned before Justice Robert Rice.

Police were called when one of the youths allegedly threatened patrons of the restaurant with a knife and used abusive language.

Aces in the hole

Two golfers scored a hole-in-one on the same hole on the same day last week at Normanside Country Club. Paul Montoya, 13-year-old son of the club's golf pro, sank his

5-iron tee shot on the 133-yard third hole Wednesday while playing with a friend, Jeff Olesko. A short while later Jim Calligeris scored the second ace of his career, driving a 9-iron shot into the same cup, playing in a foursome.

An occasional Spotlight commentary on the world of radio, TV and newspapers

By Perry Galt

In these days of relentless pressures, daily newspapers fight a constant battle against the economic forces that reduce their news staffs and squeeze the space available for contemporary reporting. Hence it is encouraging and enlightening to see the Albany Knickerbocker News come up with a modern-day version of good old-fashioned investigative reporting in the current police brouhaha.

A team of three young reporters, all in their late 20s and one with a law degree, has pulled off a series of what the pulps and romanticists like to call "scoops," a word never heard in any city room. The scenario is Albany's South End, where state investigators have been poking into alleged payoffs to police by what the late H.L. Mencken used to call "fancy ladies." Any self-respecting sleuth has a generic allergy to newspaper reporters, which means the newsmen can expect little but cryptic information from official sources; now that the case has gone to the grand jury, the newsmen are strictly on their own.

The Knick team has resurrected the age-old formula of basic digging for the facts, supplemented by the simple stratagem of getting off the phone and going out into the street. They have been knocking on neighborhood doors, many of which have been slammed in their faces, and reportedly have received a few imminent threats to their health and safety.

No new father has been more proud of his youngsters than is Bob Fichenberg of his enterprising triumvirate. "This new breed of reporters can stand up to the previous generation any day," enthused the Knick's executive editor. "They've done a lot of old-fashioned plugging. A lot of this hasn't been productive, but it has to be done to dig up leads. Ninety percent of pounding on doors and checking into hundreds of records is pure drudgery."

It was just such basics that last week produced a Page One story reminiscent of the old days of competitive journalism. When a Bleeker St. house was identified as a brothel, it was fundamental to find out who owned the house. When it turned out to be the City of Albany, the Knick had a winner. How did this information get into the paper? Simple: a reporter went to the records and looked it up.

Fichenberg's hard-driving young newshawks are Joanne Crupi, a homegrown Albany product who graduated from St. Rose and the Syracuse Herald-Journal; Paul Vitello, who came to Shaker Rd. from Chicago, and Eric Freedman, who graduated from law school and did PR for a Congressman before deciding newspapering is where the action is. Crupi, who has been with the Knick for eight years, covers city and county government. Vitello says Fichenberg, "never sleeps he never lets go of a story."

Like most metropolitan dailies, particularly afternoon papers, the Knick has its problems with slipping circulation and advertising lineage. But apparently the knack for digging out an "investigative" story is alive and well, and the KN's performance last month gives hope for us all.

Remembered ... or Forgotten

It is the duty and privilege of every thoughtful family to care for the last resting place of a departed one.

Whether a Memorial is large or small is not important. Even a simple Headstone shows that someone cared, but an unmarked grave is a forgotten grave.

Here at Empire you will find that the same care and consideration is given to every Memorial need and that we endeavor to serve in a way that will provide the greatest lasting satisfaction through the years.

Compassion on the road

Editor, The Spotlight:
By writing to the Spotlight I hope to reach several people to whom I am deeply indebted. In the evening of July 20 in the 80 rush hour traffic on the Fingerlands bypass near Greenwood Ave., my car stalled at the red light. Although I turned on my flashers I felt increasing panic lest an accident be caused by my car being stopped on the hill. A woman in a grey VW stopped and kindly offered to help. She took my AAA number and name and promised to call me for me. Shortly thereafter a young man on a bicycle stopped and helped me push the car off the road. Then another woman pulled up and asked if she could contact anyone for me on her CB radio. A police officer came and verified that the call had indeed been made to AAA and that they were on the way.

On a day when the heat was so extreme and at an hour when most people are anxious to be home I found this type of compassion very heartening. I sincerely hope the kindness of these people is returned to them many times over.

Delmar Jean A. Vlahos

Horns from behind

Editor, The Spotlight:

Isn't there anything in Driver Education about the proper use of an automobile horn? There should be, because a loud blast from behind a waiting vehicle can be startling, might conceivably even cause a nervous driver to release his clutch pedal, if he has one, or to get jumpy with the gas pedal if he has automatic drive.

We are all trying hard to learn to always turn right on red lights, after stopping, and to leave the right-hand lane free for those behind who may wish to do so. But driving tends to become a reflex after many years of obeying stop-lights and leaving the second lane free for faster traffic. Also, a driver going straight ahead through an intersection might be planning a stop or a right turn immediately beyond a traffic signal. In that case, shouldn't he be in the right-hand lane? A horn from behind seems impolite, to say the least, and that's what we're getting. Ask any householder who lives on a corner where there's a light.

One wonders what the horn-blowers do with the few seconds saved.

Community Corner

A Special Kind of Theater

Few things are as fascinating to children as theatricals. Some 30 youngsters from Grades 4-6 will take roles in "The Golden Goose" and "Rumpelstiltskin" in a combined 45-minute production at Bethlehem Library tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 and Friday at 2 p.m. Don't miss it.

"Rumpelstiltskin" will be back in town Tuesday, thanks to Elizabeth Conley, Elsmere puppeteer. She will present two stories in her portable Poppet Playhouse at Elm Ave. Park at 7 and 8 p.m. It's great and it's all free.

Community Corner, a public service column of important community events, is sponsored by
